Ford, Wagner, To Speak At Dedication Of Scout Area In LBL On Friday

Governor Wendell Ford of Kentucky and Mr. Aubrey J. Wagner, Chairman of TVA, will be the key speakers on May 31 during a day of activities to commemorate the dedication of a new Boy Scouts of America High Adventure Area in TVA's Land Between The Lakes in western Kentucky and Tennessee. The Land Between The Lakes Gateway will be one of seven national base camps designed to introduce Scouts over 14 years of age to new experiences in the outdoors and sound outdoor techniques.

Approximately 60 guests will hear the Governor speak at a luncheon at Kenlake State Resort Park. This will be followed by a trip to the camp site on the shoreline of Lake Barkley at Shaw Branch in Land Between The Lakes, where the official dedication will take place. The group will take a short tour of the 170,000-acre recreation area and hear Mr. Wagner speak at a dinner at Brandon Spring Group Camp, TVA's newest facility located in the Tennessee portion of Land Between The Lakes.

The High Adventure program offers a new dimension to the overall scope of programs in Land Between The Lakes. It provides the experienced youngster a new adventure - high adventure - into learning and doing. The full scope of learning experiences in the out-of-doors will be at the disposal of young people involved in this program.

High Adventure is one of the most valuable contributions in outdoor recreation today to develop the human resource potential of America. In addition, it represents the first such cooperative type program venture for the Boy Scouts and any branch of the Federal Government.

Local troops and leaders are invited to attend the dedication of the High Adventure Base at 3 p.m. at the site near Shaw Branch. For further information contact Land Between The Lakes, TVA, Golden Pond, Kentucky 42331, telephone 502-924-5602.

Commodity Food Is On The Way Out In Calloway County

Commodity food is on the way out in Calloway County. Food stamps are on the way in.

During the month of June, the Bureau for Social Insurance office on 202 South 6th St. in Murray will begin accepting applications from Countians who are eligible for food stamps.

Those whose applications are approved in June will be assured of getting food stamps in July.

Who is eligible? "Probably anyone who is having real trouble making ends meet is eligible for food stamps," says Rick Crawford, with the Department for Human Resources' food stamp program in Frankfort.

Those who are now receiving other forms of public assistance, such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, will get applications for food stamps in the mail.

Those who are living on limited incomes or are unemployed are likely to be eligible. They should stop by the local office or call for an appointment to determine whether they're eligible. The local office number is 753-1817.

When applying bring Social Security cards, names of family members and other living at home, and payroll check stubs or other records of income now being received to help speed up the application process, Crawford says.

Standards for participation in the Food Stamp Program are the same for everyone without regard to race, color, religious creed, national origin, or political beliefs.

Some 115 Kentucky counties are now served by the food stamp program, which first went into effect in 1964. In August 1973 the federal government required that commodity food programs be ended nationwide and that food stamp programs replace them by June 30, 1974.

Sheriff's officers said the thefts occurred between 8:30 and 9:00 p.m. Saturday.

The food stamp program enables low-income households to buy more food, of a greater variety, to improve their diets. Participants pay a small amount of money, based on family size and net monthly income, and receive a larger value of food stamps, which can be spent like money in participating food stores.

The old commodity program provided eligible low-income families with some 24 basic surplus foods at no cost to the participants.

Most of Kentucky's counties chose the food stamp program over the commodity program because of advantages to both individuals and communities, Crawford says.

State Police 'Mail Order' Working Well

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky State Police "mail-order detective service" begun last January has netted about 65 letters and helped crack at least two cases.

Capt. Leo Reynolds, director of the organized crime division, described the service as invaluable.

"The people need a way to communicate with their police," he said. "We need them as much as they need us."

Reynolds said a similar mail-typist service tried in the mid-1960s "fizzled out because of lack of publicity and lack of personnel to follow up the leads." He said the present program seems to be catching on.

Reynolds predicted that at least 50 per cent of the tips would eventually help lead to arrests of suspects.

A detailed evaluation of the program is difficult because the information is referred to a variety of state and local agencies for investigation, he said.

The letters are sent to P.O. Box 910, Frankfort.

Reynolds said there has been no indication of abuse by "cranks" or spiteful people. He stressed that there are safeguards for persons who might be falsely accused.

Light Turnout Is Reported At Polls

The turnout was light this morning as was expected as voters in Kentucky's farthest western congressional district went to the polls to determine the outcome of the first major challenge in the congressional career of Frank A. Stubblefield.

State Senator Carroll Hubbard is seeking to unseat the eight-term congressman, campaigning on the theme that

"it's time for a change."

Stubblefield has campaigned on the theme that his record speaks for itself, and that his experience will be valuable in helping the district through his post as vice chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and that he has been instrumental in returning more federal dollars to the district than residents paid out in federal taxes.

Supporters of the Murray congressman have predicted Stubblefield will win today's race, although it is generally considered to be the toughest for the congressman since he took office.

Hubbard believes he stands a good chance if the voter turnout is heavy, but it seems to be going the other way. The Memorial Day holiday and the absence of other hot races to draw voters have made for a light turnout in Calloway County.

Hubbard, the 36-year old state senator from Mayfield, expects to run well among young people, and hopes to benefit from general disillusionment among voters with the situation in Washington. The extent of such feeling in this county, and the district in general, has been hard to gauge, however.

On the Republican side of the primary today, Bob Bersky, Arthur Lee McLaughlin, and Charles Thurman Banken, Jr., will vie for the chance to oppose the winner of the Stubblefield-Hubbard clash.

In the U. S. Senator's race, incumbent Republican Marlow Cook will face primary opposition from Thurman J. Hamlin and T. William Klein, while Wendell Ford and Harvey E. Brazin will compete for the Demo nomination.

In the third race of the primary, Boyce G. Clayton and Earl T. Osborne, incumbent, will battle for the Judgeship of the Court of Appeals. No Republicans are running for that post.

More Than 100 Fewer Die On Highways In U.S.

By The Associated Press

More than 100 fewer persons died on the nation's highways during this year's 78-hour Memorial Day weekend than in 1973. Unofficial totals show 374 traffic deaths this year, compared to 486 during the 1973 holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated before the three-day weekend that between 450 and 550 persons would die in traffic accidents. That estimate was 100 below the 1973 estimate put out before last year's holiday by the safety council. The highest toll for a three-day Memorial Day weekend was 597 in 1969.

Only Three Deaths Reported In State

By The Associated Press

Kentucky State Police say three young men died in separate traffic accidents Memorial Day Weekend, compared with 13 for the holiday period last year.

Police said James R. Thomas, 17, of Tollsboro, died Saturday, in a one-car accident in Bracken County; Robert Earl Morgan, 26, of Payneville, died Saturday in a fiery one-car crash in Breckinridge County; 24-year-old Victor David Dunlap died Monday when his motorcycle and an auto pulling a boat-trailer collided in Jessamine County.

Authorities reported the only major traffic delay in the state involved northbound automobiles on Interstates 75 and 71 traveling toward Cincinnati. Traffic was backed up between two and three miles on the highways in Northern Kentucky Monday afternoon and evening.

TVA Official Predicts Higher Costs To Users

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Tennessee Valley Authority official said Monday he expects the agency's board to approve a change in the TVA rate structure that would likely mean consumers would pay more for power.

The official said he expects a fuel escalation clause, designed to produce an 8 per cent increase in TVA's power revenues during the July quarter, to be approved Thursday by the agency's board.

He said he doesn't know what percentage of wholesale revenue increase the fuel clause will be assigned to produce.

"My guess is that the clause will come out of the board meeting as a formula with the computer determining what the increase in TVA's coal costs added up to a few days before the clause becomes effective," he said.

Such clauses are used in many parts of the country to make monthly retail bills reflect the fluctuating prices power companies pay for fuel to fire generating stations.

The TVA official would not comment on reports that members of TVA's power marketing staff may also recommend two other revenue-raising steps Thursday.

One would provide a charge on TVA substation use to be paid by all but the five big metropolitan systems. It could produce as much as 6 per cent in additional wholesale revenues by next March 12.

The second proposal would be called an adjustment addenda. It would cover items such as interest rate hikes, wage adjustments, increases in costs of materials and miscellaneous cost increases since the last rate increase last January.

This proposal also would be designed to raise TVA wholesale revenues by about 6 per cent before next March.

TVA's power marketing staff met in Chattanooga Thursday, Friday and briefly Saturday with subcommittees representing 160 distributors.

Dear Abby

Opinions vary on the question of bra size

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: When Dad asked his 17-year-old daughter what size bra she wore, she told him it was none of his business. Her mother agreed with her, and you sided with both of them. Dad worked for 17 years to provide the food that went into the tissue which created his daughter's breasts, but it's none of his business what size they are. CRAZY!

I deem it impudent for the daughter and her mother to even question Dad's right to this information. As long as he's supporting her, every part of her development is his business.

Boys get too big for their britches, and girls get too big for their brassieres when they can get away with telling Dad that something is none of his business.

I'll bet you will hear from plenty of readers on this.

FRANK IN OREGON

DEAR FRANK: You bet right. And the mail is running 20 to one against me!

Let's set the record straight, Frank. When Dad asked his budding daughter what size bra she wore, nobody told Dad it was "none of his business."

Daughter became embarrassed and declined to answer. Mother sided with Daughter saying she didn't think it was anything Dad had to know, and I took the distaff side.

Read on for a letter from a like-minded physician who said it better than I:

DEAR ABBY: May I say that the father who felt he had a "right" to know his teen-aged daughter's bra size was out of line?

My daughters are 18 and 20, and I have no idea what size bras they wear, and I couldn't care less.

I think that father should have been more concerned with his daughter's feelings than the size of her bra.

OLD-FASHIONED FATHER

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from the woman who recommends sending back "junk mail" so the company must pay the return postage and will remove her name from their mailing list.

I hope you don't agree with this policy, Abby. My husband and I started a small business, producing a high quality item, well worth its price. We can't afford national advertising, so we use direct mail advertising to inform people of our product and give them a chance to examine it before they buy.

On the few occasions when people have returned our envelopes stuffed with extra paper, I am more saddened than angry. It shows so much hostility and aggression. If the recipient isn't interested in the product, why not just throw the mail away?

I hope you feel that this is important enough for your column. It means a great deal to the small business people who rely on direct mail for their sales. Thank you.

STRUGGLING

DEAR STRUGGLING: And thanks for giving me the opportunity to open a few million eyes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LEFT OUT": Don't pressure him to meet his family. Even though he is separated from his wife, he is still married. Obviously, he doesn't want his family to meet YOU.

Dr. Ward Speaks At Sigma Meet; Scholarship Honors Mrs. Boone

"Physical Fitness and Exercise" was the topic presented by Dr. Nan Ward to members of the Sigma Department of the Murray Woman's Club at the meeting on May 13 at the Club House.

Dr. Ward, Assistant Professor in the Recreation and Physical Education Department at Murray State University, alerted those kindergarten for the 1974 session.

Scholarship Committee

Chairman, Mrs. Morgan Sisk, related the need for definite guidelines to be established for choosing a recipient. Approval was given to the Scholarship Committee to determine such guidelines.

Mrs. Elwood Brown, Fair Queen Pageant Chairman, announced committee assignments for the pageant which will be held in conjunction with the Murray-Calloway County Fair in July. It was the unanimous vote of the membership to name the scholarship awarded by the Sigma Department each year

THE GELNDA BOONE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP in honor of one of its most dedicated members, Mrs. O. B. Boone, Jr.

Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames Bailey Gore, Kenneth Harrell, Joe Hal Spann, and Virgil Harris.

present to the problems and causes of overweightness, stating that "obesity has reached epidemic proportions in the United States."

Suggestions were given for weight control and the choice of a good balanced diet.

The speaker related the difference between physical fitness for health related purposes and for performance purposes. She indicated that one first engaged in a physical fitness program will experience agony and discouragement, but with determination will make progress and will meet success. There is a definite relationship between physical fitness, mental alertness and emotional stability, said Dr. Ward. She emphasized the importance of family involvement in fitness.

"Be doers, not just spectators."

Dr. Ward also urged members to exercise caution in choosing a diet or fitness program, warning them that many fraudulent articles and programs are before the public today.

In concluding her most informative presentation, Dr. Ward stated, "Many people EXIST for many years, but LIVE few."

In the business session, Mrs. Fred Wells, vice chairman, presided in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. James Frank. Thoughts for the day were presented by Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Hal Houston. Mrs. Tommy Alexander, secretary, read the roll call and minutes, and the treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Crass, gave the financial report.

Mrs. Wells welcomed and introduced to the department a new member, Mrs. Tom Muehleman.

Nominating Committee chairman, Mrs. James Boone, presented the following slate of officers for the new year:

Chairman, Mrs. Fred Wells, vice-chairman, Mrs. William Smith, secretary, Mrs. Gene Hendon, and treasurer, Mrs. Larry Contri.

Mrs. Frank Fazi, Kindergarten Chairman, distributed the financial report for this school year, 1973-74.

Summer Kindergarten Chairman, Mrs. Bobby Toon, informed the group of the number of children eligible for the summer program. It was the decision of the membership to discontinue the summer

Europe is at crossroads

Valéry Giscard d'Estaing has promised a new era of "rejuvenation and change" for France. This could mean almost anything, and the narrow vote which gave him the presidency suggests he will have to pick his changes from disparate views of the left and right to fulfill any "mandate" from the French people.

The defeat of Francois Mitterrand dispels the prospect of Communists entering the government of the country which considers itself the anchor of Western Europe. However, the leftist coalition which gave Mitterrand 49.3 per cent of the popular vote is not likely to be satisfied with the role of a silent minority after coming so close to victory.

Mr. Giscard d'Estaing owes his election to the support of Gaullists who apparently chose him as the more palatable of two doubtful prospects after the defeat of their own candidate two weeks earlier. It is a safe conclusion that Giscard d'Estaing will pursue a course devoted one way or another to keeping distance between France and the United States, something which should satisfy the Gaullists and the leftists as well.

Thus we can anticipate no fruitful change in French foreign policy as a result of the election, and if there is any silver lining to be found in the political clouds over Europe, it may well be in the new government emerging in West Germany. While the fallen Chancellor Willy Brandt had always professed his loyalty to the principles of U.S.-European cooperation, we can hope that the new chancellor, Helmut Schmidt, will give those principles more meaning in German foreign affairs.

Mr. Schmidt comes from the more conservative wing of the Social Democratic Party, and in the wake of the spy scandal which drove Mr. Brandt from office, he can be expected to pursue a more cautious course in Germany's relations with the Communist world. If Mr. Brandt's "Ostpolitik" is to survive at all, it may have to be better balanced with a "Westpolitik" treating the serious ailments in the Atlantic Alliance.

Changes in leadership are giving the impression that Western Europe is at a significant crossroads. The new Labor government in Britain is taking a fresh look at participation in the Common Market, is reassessing its military commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and plans to withdraw what remains of Britain's Asian fleet. A new government is taking hold in Portugal. Italy remains wracked with political infighting, and constitutional government still remains only a promise in Greece.

The "Year of Europe" which President Nixon envisioned a year ago took a back seat in deference to other problems. It may be more timely to pursue it now. New realities in our relations with Europe were evident enough a year ago, but they have been etched more vividly in the political changes which have brought new faces into prominence in European capitals with a potential for new directions in the policies of the governments of our major allies.

The search for equality

The revolution in race relations, sparked 20 years ago by the Supreme Court's historic ruling that segregated schools did not meet the Constitution's demand for equality, shows no signs of abating.

The "deliberate speed" toward desegregation envisioned in the court's decision of May 17, 1954, was difficult to detect in the first decade of the movement. Progress was delayed by defiance, legal maneuvering, legislative barricades and bickering over the question of "de jure" segregation in the South as opposed to "de facto" segregation in the North. The Supreme Court, in fact, was forced to issue a second opinion a year later on May 31, 1955, reminding lesser courts to get on with the job of enforcing compliance.

And it was not until 1964, when Congress passed the Civil Rights Act, withholding funds from school districts that practiced discrimination, that desegregation picked up steam.

One great victory has been achieved. The dual system in the South, separate schools for blacks and whites, finally has been ended.

But unforeseen problems continue to plague the effort to implement the original dictum in the case of Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education.

Neither that decision nor subsequent rulings define the role of government in eliminating the separations created by housing patterns.

The furor over busing of students to encourage more racially balanced student bodies is a direct outgrowth of the uncertainty. Success of the desegregation effort in eliminating the all-black schools in the South has been dramatic. A mere 8.7 per cent of black students in the 11 southern states were isolated in 1972 as compared to the national average of 11.2 per cent.

But the pattern of the urban North, blacks clustered in central cities while whites flee to the suburbs, is overtaking the South.

There is no longer the bitter resistance to segregation that existed 20 years ago. People are more determined now to get along with each other. The "separate but equal" school standard has been laid to rest.

Despite the significant victories in the fight for equality, however, the busing issue alone indicates that many battles lie ahead.

Write To Prisoners

Dear Editor:

In the face of our massive and often unresponsive bureaucratic systems, many people feel helpless in effecting a measure of change. But individuals can help and are helping, by reaching other individuals and providing hope.

Many prison inmates spend years - some their entire terms of incarceration - without getting any mail. To work on this problem of isolation and try to build greater understanding on both sides of the bars, the Fortune Society last year established a correspondence program. Matching inmates with interested and concerned civilians, we now have over 6,000 people involved. We still have over 500 inmates waiting to be matched with someone in the free world, and the number grows daily. If you are interested in exchanging letters with an inmate, please write: Correspondence, The Fortune Society, 29 East 22nd Street, New York, NY 10010.

Acupuncture Specialists Disagree On Discomfort

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of three articles on the growth of acupuncture treatment and research in the United States.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Ow! It hurts this time," said the middle-aged blonde woman receiving an acupuncture treatment, in her arm, at a clinic.

Is acupuncture supposed to hurt, at least a bit, when the needle strikes an "acupuncture point" and is twirled or stimulated electrically?

Yes, says Er Yi Ting, M.D., head of an acupuncture institute in New York City. He started using the technique 18 months ago.

No, says Ching Y. Ting, a doctor of Chinese medicine and acupuncture, now in New York, who grew up in China and attended a traditional Chinese medical school.

But yes, said Dr. Chia-yu Hsu, an internist in Shanghai who demonstrated acupuncture with a needle in the hands of some medical writers visiting China last year. When they winced, with real pain, he said, "You have a feeling of soreness, yes? That is good: That is 'Teh Chi,' meaning he had struck a spot signalling that some feeling of numbness should soon develop through the hand and arm. And it did.

There seems little dispute that acupuncture—after the initial reaction—has relieved pain in a number of cases for hours, days and sometimes months. Thirty to 60 per cent of people with painful arthritis, neuralgia and other afflictions may get some kind of temporary relief, many reports agree. The remainder are disappointed. Some observers think the beneficial effects are mostly suggestive or psychological.

Dr. Saul I. Heller, a neuropsychiatrist who includes some acupuncture in his New York practice, has found it useful in treating chronic, painful neuralgia after infection with shingles. Eight patients who had suffered for years had good results, two of them "dramatic," while two others were "complete failures," Heller said.

One-third of those treated by Heller for migraine headache not only got immediate relief, but subsequent attacks were less severe and less frequent, the doctor said. He is president of the New York Society of Acupuncture for Physicians and Dentists, and former president of the New York State Board of Medicine.

In acupuncture for dentistry, "some patients say they didn't realize the work was completed or that their teeth were out. They felt completely normal throughout," says Dr. Peter Teng, a New York dentist. Pain relief may last up to 12 hours. But, he adds, it's not for every patient, especially those apprehensive about sitting down in a dentist's chair.

The big issue is whether acupuncture can overcome impaired bodily functions.

Dr. Er Yi Ting, in a mailed announcement over his signature, says "diseased conditions that can be helped by acupuncture" include "all kinds of pain" and "muscular disease (with paralysis, spasm or pain); various neurological conditions, insomnia, asthma, hay fever, rhinitis (runny nose), vertigo (dizziness), hysteria, tinnitus (ringing in the ears), deaf-mutism, headache, migraine, chronic gastrointestinal disorders, habitual constipation and essential hypertension (high blood pressure)."

At the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Dr. James Simmons, the medical director, says that about 70 per cent of multiple sclerosis patients tend to get better under just about any mode of therapy that is given with enthusiasm, hope and promise.

"Multiple sclerosis is a perfect disease for unorthodox therapy," he says, "because we don't know what psych elements go into it."

Simmons also said it is possible that acupuncture could be helpful in treating multiple sclerosis, but that the evidence is not yet in and must await carefully controlled experiments.

On one subject, profound nerve deafness in children, Dr. Samuel Rosen of New York has mostly negative findings.

Three times a visitor to China, Rosen is well known for an operation which mechanically restores hearing by loosening up tiny ear bones that had become rigid.

He was taught the Chinese technique for acupuncture for nerve-caused deafness on his second trip, in 1972, and practiced it there, under supervision, on 250 children.

He has just concluded a six-months' study of 40 children here, treating them with acupuncture five days a week for three weeks, then giving them a week's rest. There was no charge to the parents. The study was sponsored by Mt. Sinai Medical School and the New York League for the Hard of Hearing.

Only two of the 40 youngsters tended to show any improvement, and "we don't know the lasting effect. We are definitely not ready to use it as an individual treatment," Rosen said. He suggests that "parents would save a lot of energy, money and misery" by not seeking acupuncture as a remedy for their deaf children.

Next: How acupuncture works.

HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Following a dinner party, the distinguished doctor was cornered by an overstuffed matron who launched an endless monologue covering her ailments for the last quarter century. Unable to stop the flow of chatter, the doctor finally tapped his companion's arm and pointed to a young man across the room who was openly yawning. "Madam," he inquired, "do you suppose he's eavesdropping on us?"

Detroit—Riders on an airport shuttle bus who ignored an old, wrinkled plastic bag on one of the seats are sorry now they failed to look inside. The bag contained nearly $17,000. It remained all day on a shuttle bus running between Detroit and metropolitan airport. At the end of the day, driver Roger Doering dumped it on the desk of the Greyhound ticket agent saying "Somebody left this garbage on my bus." The Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. said they were searching for the owner. (Detroit Free Press).

Isn't It The Truth!

by Carl Riblet Jr.

In days of old, manhood was proved with a hatchet in the other fellow's skull. Then civilization buried the hatchet elsewhere and taught man how to do in his enemy with a political device that came to be known as the official leak; which is a second cousin once removed of gossip—demonstrating that the tongue is the sharpest weapon given to man and sometimes it is long enough to cut its own throat.

State Government Report

By SENATOR CARROLL HUBBARD

MAYFIELD, Ky. — "Work sessions" held before regular board-of-education meetings will have to open when an open-meetings bill passed by the 1974 General Assembly becomes law June 21, the state attorney general's office has said.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Carl Miller, in an opinion sent to Ray Corns, the director of the Division of Legal Services for the State Department of Education, said the open-meetings bill specifically defined a meeting as "all gatherings of every kind regardless of where the meeting is held and whether regular or special and informational or casual gatherings held in anticipation of or in conjunction with a regular or special meeting." The wording, said Miller, "clearly" includes school board work sessions.

Under the bill, most meetings of public groups must be open to the press and public. Notice must be given before they are held.

The Division of Reclamation of the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has ordered the temporary closing of 14 surface mining operations in the state since April 1. The closings for reclamation law infractions included a two-day suspension of operations at the Gibraltar Mine at Central City, a joint mining venture between the Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis and the Amax Corp. of Indianapolis.

One of the larger surface mining operations in Muhlenberg County, the Gibraltar mine was shut down temporarily for failing to comply with a state order to revegetate 20 acres of stripped land. So far this year, 33 strip mine operations have been temporarily suspended in Kentucky for violation of reclamation regulations, compared with 35 closings in all of 1973.

Since April 1, seven coal operations have been fined $8,000 for improper mining techniques and reclamation infractions. During the first five months of 1974, the Division of Reclamation has imposed $47,000 in fines, exceeding the $46,000 collected for violations during 1973.

The 202nd Kentucky National Guard Army Band will tour Kentucky June 1-15 performing 17 free concerts at 14 locations across the state. The concert tour, which constitutes the band members' annual two-week National Guard training, is billed as the Bicentennial Musical Tour '74 and is offered in conjunction with numerous other activities planned throughout the summer commemorating the 200th birthday of Kentucky's first settlement.

This is the second year the band has performed in various areas of the state. During last year's tour the band played to approximately 500,000 people.

The band will perform on Monday, June 10, 7 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. at Paducah Mall, Paducah, and on Tuesday, June 11, 1 p.m. - 2:30 p.m. at Eddyville State Penitentiary, Eddyville.

The energy pinch is still being felt by the Kentucky Department of Transportation. According to Transportation Secretary James E. Gray, the petroleum situation is still forcing his agency to "wear a tighter belt," constantly review priorities, and make a concentrated effort to use what fuel is available to get the job done.

An additional $700,000 was made available recently to allow the department a sufficient supply of gasoline for the remainder of this fiscal year, which ends July 1. "We have never paid such a high price for gasoline," said Jim Claxton, assistant director for the Bureau of Highway's Division of Equipment. "The average price we pay for gasoline has risen from 23 cents as of July 1, 1973, to 40 cents at the present time. That represents almost a 100 per cent increase. And the cost is not the only problem," Claxton added. "We have been fighting with a 10 per cent cutback in fuel allocations."

The area most affected by the cutback is maintenance. Most all maintenance equipment runs on either diesel fuel or gasoline, and the department has 6,000 pieces of gasoline powered equipment. In addition, this year for the first time the department has been unable to get a price contract with any major petroleum companies.

"We have to purchase fuel from distributors, just as any service station does," stated Claxton. "In the past with a price contract, companies furnished us tanks and gas pumps. With the price contract out of the picture, we had to purchase our own tanks and pumps at 155 locations. This cost the department $200,000."

The future means of educating Kentucky's youth received top billing from officials of the state Department of Education at a recent two-day meeting at Park Manumoth Resort. Seeking to improve the quality of the department's programs, the leaders discussed research needs and priorities and the most feasible way to transmit the results of the findings to people instrumental in making final decisions, especially legislators and educators.

Funding of state schools and potential methods to increase it were among more than 30 major topics considered by the educators. Other subjects discussed included educational television, the effect of classroom design on learning and whether students benefit more from greater freedom in choosing elective courses as opposed to a traditional curriculum.

Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, commented that, "while these are only a few of the topics that have been considered, a decision will be made in the near future as to which are the most important."

Adj. Gen. Richard L. Frymire became the first member of the state's Army and Air National Guard to contribute to a special voluntary fund for eight former or present Ohio Guardsmen facing charges in connection with the 1970 fatal shootings of four Kent State University students. Any contributions should be forwarded to the Office of the Adjutant General in Frankfort.

Lyons' Career As Manager Had Beginning At Paducah In '48

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a series of feature stories about Hillman Lyons, owner of Rudy's Restaurant. The series opened in Monday's Ledger & Times and will continue to run through Friday.

By MIKE BRANDON
Lester & Times Sports Editor
Hillman Lyons probably would have never thought about getting into the business end of baseball had it not been for World War Two.

But the scars of battle cut short his playing career. For catching is a tough business, but catching on a pair of legs that were fortunate just to be attached to his body was another matter.

Following the 1947 season at Bisbee, Ariz., Lyons returned to Murray for the off-season. And it was here where Lyons made the decision to retire as an active player and begin his career in the managerial phase of baseball.

Polk Brooks of Paducah, who owns Brooks' Busline, was selling stock in the spring of 1948 and planned to have a baseball team in his new stadium.

Although Paducah would not have a professional baseball team until a year later, Brooks needed a general manager. And the position sought the man, Hillman Lyons.

And for a salary of only $250 per month, Lyons accepted the position.

"I knew I had accumulated enough money that I could get by and I was wanting to get in the managerial end of baseball and that was my best chance," Lyons said.

That summer, Lyons actually helped build Brooks Stadium. The following spring, in 1949, Paducah had a Class D team in the Mississippi Ohio Valley League, an offspring of the Kitty League.

When tryouts for the team were held, five players showed up. The team picked up several more players from Grand Rapids of the Class A Central League as that team had its spring workout in Paducah.

"I got on the phone and started calling people who I thought might be able to get me some players," Lyons said.

Finally, he contacted Harry Jenkins, who was the farm club director for the Boston Braves. Jenkins made available 15 players to the Paducah team from various Braves' farm clubs.

The Paducah team finished fourth in the six-team league and won the playoffs. And the team, consisting of an entirely rookie roster, drew 52,000 people that season.

1950 found Lyons in Paris, Ill., whose franchise was in the same league as was Paducah. The population of the town was only 7,000 and when Lyons took the job as general manager, the park was $35,000 in debt.

And that is where Lyons began his job as a public relations man. He organized a basketball team called the Lakers, all of whom were members of the baseball team. And after one year, the debt had been paid.

The following year, in 1951, Lyons surprised everyone when he appointed the head groundskeeper as the manager of the team.

The groundskeeper was Tom Sunkel, a one-eyed pitcher who played for the New York Giants. Paris won the pennant by 18 games that season.

Lyons' most successful promotion that year happened by accident. One morning by the park, he saw a man sitting beside a large truckload of watermelons.

The truck was broken down and the driver didn't have the money needed for repairs. "I asked him what the truck was worth and how much it would cost to fix it."

"So I gave him $225 and I was left with a truck and a load of watermelons."

"The next night we packed the stadium. Each person who paid to get into the park could buy a watermelon for a dime."

At the end of the season, Lyons was contacted by a group from Danville, Ill., a team in financial trouble.

Again, Lyons contacted his friend with the Braves and again, he was supplied with players.

Lyons' first action was to hire a new coach, Lee Eilbracht, who two weeks later took a job at the University of Illinois, where he still coaches today.

One of the agreements in Lyons' contract was that if the Danville franchise sold a player, Lyons would get half of the loot.

So in came Walter Hirsch from Dayton, Ohio. He hit .300 for the season and had 25 homers. At the end of the season, the Braves offered $35,000 for Hirsch and Lyons saw the dollar signs dancing in front of his eyes.

But the Braves discovered that Hirsch, a former basketball player at the University of Kentucky, had been involved in an athletic scandal during his collegiate career and Lyons kissed his $17,500 goodbye.

With just nine games left in the season, Danville trailed Paris, the team Lyons' was with the year before, by eight games. But the two teams closed out the season with a nine-game series and Danville swept all nine games.

The team drew 76,000 people that season and paid off all its debts. And for his part in the success, Lyons was named as the Lower Minor's Baseball Executive of the Year by the Sporting News, the Bible of baseball.

Lyons' last season at Danville was 1953 and during that year, the team signed a working agreement and became a farm club of the Chicago White Sox.

A year later, Lyons was contacted by Detroit where he went to work directly for the Tigers in Jamestown, N.Y.

The season before, the Jamestown team drew only 22,000. Lyons set a goal for 50,000 for the 1954 season. The goal was broken and the team finished in second place, .001 out of first place.

It was such a successful season for Lyons that the Tigers wanted him to go to Buffalo the next season and take over as the general manager for the Triple A farm club.

"I didn't want to take it at first because I thought I could make more money on the percentage basis at the Class D level."

"But when Spike Briggs, the President of the Tigers, offered me a new Cadillac to drive and guaranteed I'd make more money in Buffalo, I took the job."

It was early in the season when Lyons was sitting in his office and answered a knock on the door.

A young pitcher sent down to Buffalo from the Tigers was considering quitting baseball and returning to Kentucky to work as a stockbroker.

"I spent two days talking with him, trying to convince him to stay."

The young man stayed for two months, and then he was recalled by the Tigers.

And today, Jim Bunning is the only major league pitcher to ever throw no-hitters in both leagues.

In 1956, Detroit bought a franchise in Charleston, W. Va. It was tempting, it presented a challenge to test his public relations ability.

And so, Lyons left Buffalo and went to Charleston, where he sold 1,700 tickets before the season even began, a total that is unmatched even today in the minor leagues.

While at Charleston, Lyons became the first person to ever incorporate the barbecue promotion at a baseball game. It was not until 1958 that Lyons' Charleston team finally won a pennant.

And the team did it with a pitcher that Lyons almost traded away.

"Indianapolis had two men we wanted, an outfielder, Jim Delsing, and a relief pitcher, George Spencer."

John McHale, who is now president of the Montreal Expos and then was the farm director for the Tigers, told Lyons to spend $12,000 and offer a pitcher, Jerry Davie, to Indianapolis for Spencer and Delsing.

"They refused the deal so we gave them $14,000 in cash and kept Davie."

Davie won 18 games that season for Charleston and Spencer set a new league record by appearing in 88 games in relief. The following season, the team finished fourth and in late 1959, Lyons made his exit from baseball.

For the next two years, Lyons worked as a hotel manager in Jamestown, N.Y.

In that two years, the hotel served over one million meals.

"I like it so well that I suppose that's the main reason I'm in the restaurant business today," Lyons said.

One snowy night in 1962, the telephone rang and once again, Hillman Lyons was ready to embark upon a new road.

Tomorrow

In Wednesday's sports section, we will follow Lyons' career with Milwaukee, where he became close friends with the all-time Homerun King, Hank Aaron.

Hard-Hitting Royals Explode On Tube For Win Over Orioles

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Bruce Dal Canton has two "out" pitches in his repertoire—the knuckleball and the double play ball.

The knuckler he's been working on for some time. The double play ball he learned about from his manager Monday night.

Faced with a tough ninth-inning situation, Jack McKeon advised his pitcher to "throw the double play ball to Brooks Robinson." He did and the Kansas City Royals took a 9-1 decision from the Baltimore Orioles.

"It wasn't my best night with the knuckle ball," Dal Canton said after pitching a five-hitter in the nationally televised game. "I still don't have the consistency I'd like to have with it."

Subbed for the greater part of eight innings, the Orioles looked as if they would knock Dal Canton out of the game in the ninth with two singles and a hit batsman that loaded the bases with one out.

The jaunty McKeon then bounced out of the dugout for a conference with his pitcher. "I just came out here to get on national television," McKeon said jokingly before giving Dal Canton the advice about the double play pitch.

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Minnesota Twins 3-2 in 10 innings; the Chicago White Sox defeated the New York Yankees 5-3; the Oakland A's routed the Detroit Tigers 12-2; the Texas Rangers blanked the Cleveland Indians 6-0 and the Milwaukee Brewers shut out the California Angels 2-0.

Red Sox 3, Twins 2
Bernie Carbo, who had homered for two runs in the fourth inning, stroked a two-out single in the 10th to give Boston its victory over Minnesota in a game which featured a brilliant pitching duel between Boston's Luis Tiant and Minnesota's Ray Corbin.

White Sox 5, Yanks 3

Skip Pitlock scattered five hits in 6 2-3 innings in his first American League start and Chicago, helped by Pat Kelly's two-run single, beat New York.

A's 12, Tigers 2

Reggie Jackson stroked three hits to raise his batting average to .404, knocked in two runs and scored two in just four innings, leading Oakland over Detroit.

Rangers 6, Indians 0

Jim Bibby broke a five-game losing streak with a sparkling three-hitter and Jeff Burroughs continued his RBI rampage with two to lead Texas over Cleveland.

Brewers 2, Angels 0

Rookie Kevin Kobel out-pitched strikeout king Nolan Ryan with a six-hitter and Don Money slammed a two-run homer, leading Milwaukee to a 2-0 victory over California.

Thompson Says He's Not Going To Play Pro Ball

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State basketball star David Thompson says he is not interested in accepting a pro offer from the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association.

Thompson, who will be a senior at N.C. State next year, was contacted by the Raleigh News and Observer in Havertown, Pa., where he was visiting at the home of Joe Cafferkey—a former teammate.

Thompson said he and team manager Biff Nichols were on a vacation trip in Armonk, N.Y., last week when 76ers coach Gene Shue and a team attorney walked up and asked to talk.

At first, said Thompson, he refused to speak with Shue but relented when the coach persisted.

Thompson said his conversation with Shue lasted five minutes. The N.C. State All-American said he was asked if he would like to turnpro, but "I told them a definite 'no.'"

Thompson said despite this, the 76ers talked to his father in Shelby, N.C., and flew the elder Thompson to Philadelphia. "My father was under the impression that I wanted to sign because of what they told him," Thompson said.

Thompson reaffirmed his intent to play out his career with the Wolfpack. He was the national player of the year last season when he led N.C. State to the NCAA title.

Ken Brett Has Unreal Day As Bucs Take Pair

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

It looks as if the Pittsburgh Pirates may have another Babe Ruth on their hands.

For you young fans, Babe Ruth was the leading home run hitter of all time before Henry Aaron came along.

But Ruth was also a pretty fair hurler before he went into the hitting business full time in 1922. He showed a 94-46 pitching record and a 2.28 ERA.

Ken Brett, the left-handed pitching and hitting sensation, seems to pose a similarly wonderful "problem" for the Pirates.

In the first game of the Pirates' Memorial Day double-header sweep of the San Diego Padres Monday, lefty Brett pitched perfect baseball for eight innings and ended up with a two-hit, 6-0 shutout.

But the work of a pitcher who hits like Ken Brett is never done and his bat was called on to pinch hit in the second game. Brett boomed a two-run triple to spark a five-run seventh inning uprising and the Pirates went to beat the Padres in the nightcap 8-7.

"Brett's something else. He had a heckuva day," said Richie Hebner, who blasted a dramatic two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning of the second game to rally the Pirates over the Padres.

Reds 4, Mets 2

Cincinnati jumped on struggling Tom Seaver for six hits and four runs in the first two innings and Fred Norman checked the Mets on four hits.

Braves 9, Phillies 1

Phil Nickro, 6-3, tossed a five-hitter in pitching the Braves to their 10th victory in 12 games. He struck out seven, including five in a row, and walked one.

Cards 7, Dodgers 2

Joe Torre smacked a two-run homer and Reggie Smith and Ted Simmons added solo shots, powering the St. Louis over Los Angeles.

Cubs 12, Giants 4

Pitcher Ken Frailing drove in three runs with a pair of singles to lead Chicago past San Francisco.

Frailing, 3-4, who bested Giant ace Mike Caldwell, 7-2, pitched in and out of trouble all game, yielding 15 hits.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The World 600 stock car race Sunday developed into a three-way battle of veterans and at the end, pole sitter David Pearson won by six-tenths of a second over Richard Petty.

Darrell Waltrip was fourth and Canadian rookie Earl Ross was fifth. Both drove Chevro-

Rutherford Picks Up Record Prize For 500

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Of all the changes made this year for the Indianapolis 500, drivers were unanimous after the race about which one was their favorite—Tom Binford.

"They ought to put that man on a pedestal," said driver Salt Walther of the man who replaced controversial Harlan Fenger as chief steward.

"With my experiences here last year, I had some things on my mind and Tom took time to meet privately with me to get things straightened out."

"I know he did the same thing with other drivers and it was very much appreciated," added Walther, who has recovered from a near-fatal accident at Indy in 1973.

Many others shared Walther's feelings.

Even race winner Johnny Rutherford, who had a disagreement earlier in the month with Binford, was complimentary. "It was just super, especially the changes he made to make sure of a safe start," Rutherford said. "That was as good a start as you'll have here."

Binford made an unpopular decision that Rutherford could not run for the pole position because his car was being repaired when it should have been ready for qualifying. Rutherford ultimately started the race 25th, despite the second-fastest qualifying time.

"That," Rutherford said of the dispute, "is forgotten."

"For a change, I felt like the speedway officials were really on our side," said one driver. "Usually they bend over backwards to make it tougher on us."

With some of the disputes during the month before the race, including the legal challenge to ending qualifications

Yanks And Cubs Take Wins In Little League

Little League baseball opened play Monday night at Gene Cathey Park with the Cubs and the Yanks picking up Memorial Day wins.

The rest of the teams in the league will get into action tonight with the first contest beginning at 6 p. m.

The Cubs slammed 10 hits, including a grand slam homerun by Barnett, to demolish the Reds 15-4 while in the nightcap, the Yanks pounded 16 hits to derail the A's 13-5.

A four-run outburst in the top of the first set the Cubs on the road to victory.

Hooper, Young and Graham all reached base and then Barnett blasted his homer and the Cubs were off and running with a 4-0 lead.

The winners scored four more times in the fifth with Young slamming a three-run homer. Graham, Hooper and Klein also had hits in the frame.

Graham started on the hill for the Cubs and pitched one inning and chalked up three strikeouts. Wilson came in and hurled the remaining five innings and had six whiffs.

Young and Graham each batted three times for the Cubs while Klein had two and Wilson and Cook had one apiece.

For the Reds, who were limited to only two hits, Gary Starks and Fred Kemp each hit safely.

Complete Game

Mark Erwin went the distance on the mound for Yanks in their win in the nightcap over the A's.

The Yanks got all the runs they actually needed when they broke loose for six runs in the top of the first.

Robert Santaquado, Mark Overby, Charles Wells and David Billington all hit safely in the rally.

The Yanks added three more runs in the sixth, two coming on a homerun by Gary Emerson. Erwin picked up seven strikeouts in his distance-going mound effort.

For the losing A's, George Bell and Donnie Howard each slammed a pair of hits while Trent Jones also hit safely.

Erwin and Santaquado each had three hits for the Yanks while Emerson, Wells and Billington all had two apiece. Jeff Owens and Donnie Thompson also hit safely.

Following tonight's pair of games, two games will be played both Thursday and Friday to complete the Little League play for the week.

Fly Has Not Yet Removed His Name From NBA List

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) A spokesman at the National Basketball Association office in New York says Austin Peay State University star James "Fly" Williams has not removed himself from today's hardship draft.

As a result, Austin Peay Coach Lake Kelly said NBA officials will call Williams this morning to clarify his position on the matter.

Williams said last Thursday he had mailed a letter to the NBA asking that his name be removed from the hardship list.

If his name remains on the list, he loses all remaining college eligibility.

Last Thursday Williams, who has led Austin Peay to two straight Ohio Valley Conference titles, was declared indefinitely ineligible for intercollegiate competition because OVC regulations for entering school violate NCAA guidelines.

Kelly said Williams' status with the hardship draft apparently will "go down to the wire."

"But Fly has told us that he definitely plans to return here to school," Kelly added.

Williams, a sophomore from Brooklyn, N. Y., averaged 27.5 points a game last season — third best in the country. He averaged 29.5 points a game his freshman season — fifth best in the country.

If Williams decides to remove his name from the draft, he would have the option of transferring to another college and being able to play this coming season.

Portland To Officially Draft Big Bill Walton

NEW YORK (AP) — The impact of Bill Walton's lucrative, far-ranging contract with the Portland Trail Blazers was to be felt today by the other National Basketball Association teams as they began the job of trying to sign their collegiate draft choices.

The Trail Blazers, the team with the worst record in the NBA's Western Conference last season, gained the shot at the league's No. 1 draftselection in a coin flip with the Philadelphia 76ers, the club with the worst record in the Eastern Conference.

Then, even before today's draft, the ambitious Trail Blazers went out and signed Walton to a five-year contract estimated between $2 million and $3 million. Money, however, was not the only factor in Walton's signing with Portland.

"There were clauses we were capable of getting for Bill that perhaps we couldn't get for another player," said Sam Gilbert, Walton's business adviser.

These included Walton's approval of any trade to another team and his right to say what he feels and not what someone else instructs him to say during an interview, Gilbert said.

The adviser said that the 6-foot-11, 220-pound Walton also made a number of other requests, but declined to discuss them.

No player picked in today's draft had the reputation or the credentials of the UCLA center. Walton was the Associated Press' College Player of the year as a sophomore and a junior, and was runner-up as a senior to David Thompson of North Carolina State. He led UCLA to its sixth and seventh consecutive NCAA championships in 1972 and 1973 and to third place in this year's tournament.

He set an NCAA career field goal shooting mark with a .651 percentage, breaking the mark of .639, held by Lew Alcindor, now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, formerly of UCLA, and he bettered Alcindor's school rebounding record with a total of 1,370.

But many players selected in the 10 rounds of drafting by the 18 NBA clubs had outstanding collegiate careers and likely would demand tremendous contracts. Of the group, the top players also were taken by the American Basketball Association in its recent draft—and would be able to pit one league against the other as a lever in contract negotiations.

Among those expected to go high in the NBA draft were All-Americans Marvin Barnes of Providence, John Shumate of Notre Dame and Keith Wilkes of UCLA. Also, 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, Len Elmore and Tom McMillen of Maryland, Campy Russell of Michigan, Tom Henderson of Hawaii, Brian Winters of South Carolina and Kevin Stacom of Providence.

The nightcap found the Astros posting an impressive 15-4 victory over the Phils.

The Astros' 14-hit onslaught was paced by Thomas Kendall's four for five hitting, along with some brilliant defensive play from his short stop position.

Klein also displayed excellent three for four hitting including two doubles.

Hooks also contributed two hits while Denham, Sykes, Suiter, Thomas and Dunn had one apiece.

The Astros' Suiter posted the victory while limiting the Phils to seven hits and striking out 11.

The Phils' bright spots found Brian Chapman going two for four, including a double and a triple, while Bill Wilson played a fine defensive game and added two hits to the attack.

Miller, Walker and McKeel each had one hit. David Miller, who started for the Phils, took the defeat.

League play will resume Thursday evening with the Astros meeting the Dodgers and the Phils taking on the Indians.

Cleanup Day
It is also important to announce a work day scheduled for 9:30 a. m. Saturday at the Pony League field.

Safety must be a prime request of both players and parents alike. Many potential dangerous areas exist at the field and these must be eliminated immediately.

Many areas of the fence are badly in need of repair and materials along with manpower can make this a safe and happy baseball summer in Murray.

This call also extends to the Colt League players and parents.

SEC Commissioner Says Tough Recruiting Laws May Be Soon

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Boyd McWhorter, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference, said Monday he expected "some very effective legislation" by the National Collegiate Athletic Association to deal with recruiting violations.

"It's time to do something and I have every certainty that something will be done," McWhorter said during the SEC's annual spring business meeting.

"I'm convinced violations are on the upswing, but the worst part of it is the rumor mongering that goes with it," McWhorter said.

The commissioner said he had requested from the 10 SEC schools a list of several of the most highly recruited high school stars in their area and had received a list of 42 names.

"We are talking to these boys now to find out how they were recruited," McWhorter said. "Some of it is very heartening."

McWhorter said he had received 4 more complaints this year than he did a year ago, but figured it probably was only because he was just beginning his job as commissioner.

McWhorter added, "There is no SEC school under formal investigation for recruiting violations."

The commissioner said he would favor declaring ineligible any athlete found guilty of a serious violation because "I just can't help but believe these kids know what they can get legally."

On another matter, the conference sent a telegram requesting that the World Football League state publicly its intention regarding the drafting of college players.

"They may have the same regulation in mind (as the National Football League) but we have no knowledge of it," said Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama.

A spokesman for the WFL said later in the day the league had no intention of raiding the collegiate ranks which in effect serve as a farm system for pro football.

The conference recommended that the presidents of the 10 schools change the bylaws to provide for five-team divisions in baseball rather than the current 6-4 split.

To equalize it, Tennessee has agreed to join the Western Division for the next two seasons which would give each division five teams.

The conference athletic directors want the presidents to work out divisions on a geographic basis.

Tributes To War Dead Mix With Vacations

By The Associated Press
Solemn tributes to America's war dead mixed with three-day vacations for millions as the nation celebrated Memorial Day.

Traditional events such as graveside services, parades and political speeches highlighted the nation's tribute to its fallen. Many took advantage of the long weekend to take short vacations and an estimated 60,000 persons even turned out in Victoria, Tex., for the Fourth First Annual Armadillo Exposition and Confab — including an Armadillo race.

In a radio broadcast from Key Biscayne, Fla., Monday, President Nixon urged Americans not to shirk responsibilities for world leadership.

"America's isolation can lead only to the world's destruction," Nixon said. "Our hopes for a lasting peace are brighter than at any time in living memory because we now have a structure of peace and we are carefully working to strengthen it."

Vice President Gerald R. Ford laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery near Washington.

Ford said Americans should not only honor war dead of the past, but should "honor and help the living veterans of Vietnam, who have known few parades, few bands and few cheers."

"American who served the longest war of our history in Southeast Asia and the South China Sea were no less brave, their suffering was no less severe and their sacrifices were no less real than those of Valley Forge and Gettysburg,"

Ford said. Residents of Illinois were faced with the prospect of two Memorial days — Monday and again May 30, the traditional date. The state has enacted legislation to celebrate the day on May 30, but private industry celebrated on Monday. The Monday date was set by Congress to provide more three-day weekends.

In Victoria, Texas, Armadillo Exposition sponsor Fred Armstrong estimated 60,000 to 70,000 attended his festival because they must have "had nothing else to do."

For the record, "Old Willie" won the Armadillo race in the stretch and "B.S." won the best-dressed armadillo contest.

Couple Not As Nervous At Wedding As 63 Grandchildren

DAOAR, Kan. (AP) — Aldey Manny and Leona Hoover were quite calm for their wedding. Probably a lot calmer, they confided afterwards, than their 12 children, 63 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren.

"I wasn't nervous. It's the second time over," said the 78-year-old Manny after the ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic Church Saturday afternoon.

Manny's first wife died 10 months ago. His bride, who turned 75 Sunday, had been a widow for four years.

"We are so compatible we agreed we could have a good life together," said Leona. "And all the kids were enthusiastic, too."

They grew up on adjoining farms, attended the same schools and, while married couples, had been friends.

They will live in Manny's air-conditioned home in nearby Bogue during the summer, but will use Leona's home here in the winter so they can easily continue playing in a local pinocle group. They also plan to travel extensively, starting with a delayed honeymoon to Hawaii later this year, said Manny.

Stiff hands don't always mean arthritis

Many people mistakenly think they have arthritis because their hands are stiff when they wake up in the morning.

This is more likely to be fibrositis, which affects the structures around the joints, but not the joints themselves.

Ford Expresses Hope That Committee Will Not Drag Out Impeachment Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he hopes the House Judiciary Committee won't expand its hearings on the impeachment of President Nixon, declaring, "If they drag it out, it could very well interfere with the necessary work of the Congress."

Ford was asked in an interview about reports that committee members feel additional hearings are needed to clarify ambiguities in Watergate tapes and transcripts.

"I certainly hope not," he replied. "I think they could—I would hope they would get it, whatever they do to the floor of the House by late June or early July."

wake of his strong public disapproval of President Nixon's refusal to promise any additional Watergate evidence to the Judiciary Committee. However, at the vice president's request, that was not raised in the interview.

Government Fireworks Ban To Be Implemented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the objections of thousands of firecracker-loving Americans, the government is moving ahead with plans to defuse Fourth of July celebrations.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission says that unless it receives a "legally sufficient" request for a delay and public hearing, the sale and manufacture of firecrackers of all sizes will be prohibited as of June 17.

And, in anticipation of a buying spree preceding the ban, the agency is stepping up its lookout for bootleg fireworks operations.

Comprehensive federal regulations, issued under authority of the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act, will override less restrictive laws in 18 states which still permit firecracker sales.

The commission says the ban is necessary "in view of the significant number of injuries relating to firecracker use; the unavailability of construction requirements to adequately protect the public and the inadequacy of any precautionary labeling."

An estimated 6,500 persons are treated for fireworks-related injuries in hospital emergency rooms each year. That doesn't count victims who go to their family doctor.

The commission says many of injuries are serious, the bulk of patients are under 15 years of age and firecrackers are to blame for half of all cases.

The restrictions will not apply to "legitimate public displays" or farmers and ranchers who want to use aerial bombs to scare birds away from croplands, provided they're participating in a wildlife management program recognized by a federal, state or local agency.

The final regulations include performance standards for design specifications on other types of legal fireworks such as roman candles, fountains, cones, torches, spinners, shells and sparklers. All must provide specific warnings and handling instructions.

Ronald L. Ziegler on Sunday put down reports of differences between Ford and Nixon.

Meanwhile, Judiciary Committee Republican Reps. Charles E. Wiggins of California, David W. Dennis of Indiana and Henry P. Smith of New York all said Nixon's "hush money" conversation of March 21, 1973, is the only evidence they have heard that could tend to implicate the chief executive in the Watergate cover-up.

All had insisted before listening to the tape last week that the inquiry had yet to hear any evidence implicating Nixon.

However, the three said in interviews over the Memorial Day recess that the March 21 talk could be a turnaround point if it is clarified with further investigation.

And former Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox said Nixon's refusal to comply with the committee's evidence demands is one of three possible grounds for removing him from office. Potentially even more serious, said Cox, would be Nixon's disobedience of a Supreme Court order to turn over tapes and documents.

Cox named as the third and broadest ground for impeachment the failure of Nixon to restrain his White House aides and campaigners who were involved in the scandal.

Ford said he has not decided whether he will take an active part if the impeachment issue goes before the House.

"I certainly will reiterate, as I have in the past, to any members my feelings, and I don't force that they're going to change, that the President is innocent of any impeachable offense," Ford said.

Ford was interviewed in his twin-engine Air Force Convair as he flew back to Washington for a brief Memorial Day respite at home.

He flies to Charlotte, N.C., today to play in a pro-amateur golf tournament and said he plans to continue the busy schedule that has carried him 80,000 miles into 30 states since last fall.

Asked if he thought the impeachment situation posed special problems for Republicans, the vice president said "generally, I think it's a no-win vote for anybody in the Congress."

"I suspect there is more of a political problem for Republicans than for Democrats," he said.

In other Watergate-related developments: —Judiciary Committee member Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., said Congress should force Nixon to turn over Watergate tapes by cutting off all funds for White House salaries.

—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said the White House seems better organized and more responsive since the Watergate affair forced the resignations of aides John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman.

—Delegates to the National Organization for Women convention in Houston approved a resolution urging Nixon's impeachment.

—A Gallup Poll showed 48 per cent of those surveyed thought Nixon's behavior warranted his ouster from the White House, 37 per cent did not and 15 per cent said he was no opinion.

Executive Branch 'Nastier Place To Be' Says LEAA Head Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive branch of government is "just a nastier place to be these days," according to Donald Santarelli, head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Because of Watergate, "you can't accomplish nearly as much" as before and "you can't use the President's name like you used to be able to do," he said.

The White House staff has been so decimated by the revelations of Watergate that the 36-year-old Santarelli says he is running his $900 million agency almost completely on his own. "There is nobody to tell me no, and there is nobody to can me," Santarelli said in an interview.

Later, after the interview had been published, Santarelli said he had misunderstood the ground rules of the interview and that his remarks were "not meant to be published." He did not challenge the accuracy of any of the statements attributed to him, but claimed they were "taken out of context from a casual conversation."

"It is foolish for me to say that the President can't fire me since I serve at the pleasure of the President," Santarelli said. "What I am saying is that I see no reason for him to fire me since I am carrying out his policies at LEAA."

Earlier, Santarelli said that because of Watergate he is "suspect at every turn in the road of being part of a crippled and lame administration ... everywhere I go, people say, 'what's the story about this stuff,' and you end up responding to questions and charges which are truly peripheral to your mission and which further compromise your mission."

Santarelli said that Watergate has been deeply felt throughout the Justice Department of which his agency is a semi-independent branch. The rapid succession of attorneys general "has really undermined, enervated, demoralized the department," he said.

Personally, Santarelli feels "somewhere between bitter and disappointed" about the whole thing, and he wants out — not today, not tomorrow, but soon. He said he still has some things he wants to do at LEAA, but when a presidential nomination to a Republican seat on the Federal Communications Commission was dangled before him recently, Santarelli quietly let it be known he wasn't interested.

Santarelli insisted that he would have felt the same, Watergate or no. "I've just seen too many deals," he said, deals in which political ramifications took priority over moral considerations "almost all the time."

instead of receiving free food like the opportunity of choosing what they eat rather than being restricted to the 24 commodity foods, he says. "They like the convenience of choosing the time they can shop. In the commodity program, recipients were required to pick up food on a certain day."

Food stamps also mean increased income for the community, Crawford says. In Calloway County, for example, he estimates that some 600 households will be eligible for food stamps. They'll pay about $21,500.75 for the stamps per month and get about $51,340.00 worth of food. That's about $29,741.00 monthly that will be brought into Calloway County and spent locally because of the food stamp program.

Experiment Using Recycled Tires In Pavement Underway

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority begins a highway resurfacing experiment today—with recycled automobile tires.

A special mixture of reclaimed rubber and asphalt will be used to repave a heavily traveled one-mile section of road in a Land-Between the Lakes campground in Western Kentucky along the Tennessee border.

The TVA says it hopes the adhesive properties of rubber will form a mixture to help remedy cracking. The Federal Highway Administration will test and evaluate the surface later.

Pic 'N Pay Completes Expansion

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Pic 'N Pay Stores, Inc., the largest self-service shoe chain in the Southeast, completed its spring expansion program in Spruce Pine, North Carolina, with the opening of its 239th unit. The announcement was made by Albert G. Segal, chairman.

Segal said that the Pic 'N Pay chain to date consists of 197 stores, either freestanding or in shopping centers and malls, and 42 leased departments in discount department stores.

The company's present 239 units compare with 193 at the end of the June 30, 1973 fiscal year, and 149 at year-end 1972. "This expansion rate is consistent with our recently announced objective of opening 40 to 50 units annually," Segal said, "and we are presently selecting promising sites for fall openings, with a view to maintaining our current rate of profitable expansion."

Blue Mold May Infect Tobacco

Blue mold was a widespread problem in tobacco beds last year, and is likely to cause damage to some beds this year. Blue mold is a fungus disease which is spread by wind-blown spores, according to J. H. Smiley, extension tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Smiley says that during dry weather, the first sign of the disease is likely to be the yellowing and stunting of a group of half-grown plants. No other symptoms will appear unless the weather becomes wet. When that happens, the disease may spread to other parts of the bed, causing large yellow blotches on the leaves of plants about ready to be set.

JAKE MASON who lives near Asbury Cemetery, west of Kirksey, stands beside this grave marker on Memorial Day. The inscription reads "Nancy Chun, first wife of W. H. The grave marker is home made and is the work of the late Logan Wraether who kept the cemetery for many years.

Confrontation Averted In Somerset Over Blue Law As Big K Does Not Open

SOMERSET, Ky. (AP) — Big K department store, which has been battling Sunday-closing laws in three Kentucky cities, reversed its plan to open here Sunday, after agreement was reached to take the matter before the City Council.

Blake Page, attorney for the stores, said final agreement was reached at "one minute 'til 1 (p.m.)"—the time the store had announced it would open. The agreement apparently averted a confrontation over enforcement of the blue law, which also has been challenged by Big K in Winchester and Owensboro.

Page said, under the agreement, the stores will go before the City Council, possibly Saturday, to seek a city ordinance exempting the store from the provisions of the law. The state law allows cities leeway in their application of the law.

Page said the exemption, if granted, would apply to all retail stores.

The agreement to seek the exemption was reached in a noon meeting between Page, Mayor Dearl Whitaker, Police Chief James Hines and City Prosecutor Meriel Harris.

Harris said the city gave no assurance that an exemption would be granted, but said the group agreed the request to the council was "a very sensible" way to resolve the issue.

"That's all we asked Big K to do is to come before the council," he said.

No arrests were made when the store opened for the first time the previous Sunday, although Harris said arrests would have been made had the store opened this week.

Big K, in each of its challenges to the Sunday-closing law, has contended the law discriminates against stores such as itself which sell some of the same goods as other stores which are exempt under the state law.

Mammoth remains unearthed in China

The fossil of a mammoth has been unearthed in northeast China by farmers at work in their field, according to a Peking Radio report.

The mammoth, estimated to be 10,000 years old, was about 10 feet tall, 20 feet long and weighed between four and five tons.

Page said he expects the issue ultimately will be resolved in the Court of Appeals.

Big K won its battle in Owensboro, when the City Commission adopted an ordinance permitting all stores to sell on Sundays.

In Winchester, a Clark County Court jury deadlocked Thursday on the question of whether the store broke the law by remaining open on Sunday.

The store also has obtained a restraining order in Clark County, barring enforcement of the law against Big K unless the law also is enforced against other establishments.

Page said Big K opened in Winchester Sunday without incident.

Policy Battle Between Nixon And House Looming In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another policy battle with President Nixon looms as the House takes up a bill this week to revise the federal antipoverty program but keep it under Washington's control.

The antipoverty bill heads a light legislative calendar for Congress, when it returns today from a long Memorial Day weekend recess.

Voters Casting Ballots In One Statewide Election

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky voters had one statewide race in which to cast their ballots today as U.S. Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., sought to hold off a pair of challengers and Gov. Wendell Ford took his first step toward a showdown with Cook.

Cook, 47, is opposed by Thurman Jerome Hamlin, 50, a Laurel County farmer who has made several unsuccessful races for public office in the past, including one shot at president of the United States, and T. William Klein, 60, an electronic consultant who has failed twice to get the GOP nomination for mayor of Louisville and once was unable to muster enough votes to be nominated for lieutenant governor.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford, 49, seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, also has taken opposition in 31-year-old Harvey Edward Brazin of Frankfort, whose family owns a hardware firm. It is Brazin's first race for public office.

American Party nominee W. Ed Parker of Louisville is unopposed for his party's nomination for the U.S. Senate.

In the 1st Congressional District race in Western Kentucky, five candidates want the job now held by incumbent Rep. Frank A. Stubblefield, D-Ky. The 67-year-old Murray native has served in Congress since 1958.

State Sen. Carroll Hubbard, 36, of Mayfield is Stubblefield's opponent in the Democratic primary. He has served in the state senate since 1967 and is chairman of the Kentucky Senate Government Committee.

The Republicans seeking the 1st District nomination are: 39-year-old Charles Thurman Banken, Jr., of Henderson, a University of Evansville student; Bob Bersky, 37, a sales engineer from Sturgis who was an unsuccessful candidate for mayor of his hometown last year; 28-year old Arthur Lee McLaughlin, a teacher and track coach for the Hopkins County Board of Education.

In the 2nd Congressional District, 64-year-old incumbent William H. Natcher, D-Ky., seeks re-election. His only competition for the Democratic nomination is 43-year-old Elizabethtown City Councilman Edward Drake.

A.W. Eddleman of Lebanon, Rt. 3, is unopposed for the Republican nomination in the 2nd District and American candidate Leland Neville of Park City is also unchallenged.

Seeking his third two-year term in the 3rd Congressional District race is 41-year-old Rep. Romano L. Mazzoli, D-Ky., of Louisville. He is opposed by 57-year-old Philip Vernon Baker of gshively who claims to be Abraham Lincoln reincarnate and 50-year-old William Gibbs of Louisville, a salesman.

There are three unopposed candidates in the 3rd district race: Vincent Barclay, a Republican; independent candidate Luther J. Wilson; and American Party hopeful William P. Chambers, all of Louisville.

Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., of Jefferson County is unopposed in the Republican primary election for 4th district congressman. The Democrats seeking the right to contest Snyder in November are: Ps. Pres. R. Fifi N.T. Clay, a 58-year-old Covington author who claims to be an Indian princess who will eventually run for president and the Supreme Court; 32-year-old Kyle T. Hubbard, a Jefferson County lawyer, former quarterly court judge and administrative assistant to the county judge; and 27-year-old Edward J. Winterberg, a Covington lawyer.

The 5th Congressional District race features another unopposed incumbent in Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., of Tompkinsville.

The Democratic candidates for Congress from the 5th district are: Nick Augusta, 48, an operating engineer from Cumberland; 70-year-old Lyle L. Willis of Corbin, twice a winner of the Democratic nomination for the 5th district seat and twice a loser to U.S. Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky.; and 54-year-old William Worthington of Coxton in Harlan County, a former coal miner making his second race for Congress.

The 6th Congressional District race pits 60-year-old Lexington lawyer and incumbent Rep. John B. Breckinridge, D-Ky., against 51 year-old Kentucky State University business professor Robert K. Landrum of Lexington.

Republican combatants for the seat are 43-year-old William B. Jolley, president of Environmental Factors Institute of Fort Thomas and 56-year-old Thomas F. Rogers III of Lexington, a salesman and former educator.

There are but two candidates for Congress in the 7th Congressional District. They are Democratic incumbent Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., 61, of Hindman and 71-year-old Greenville Thomas, Republican and retired carpenter of Tuttle in Laurel County.

Kentucky's highest court, the Court of Appeals, will need four justices to serve eight-year terms this November. Voters will be heading who gets the seats on the high court but two of the four races are virtually over already.

Incumbent Justice John S. Palmore and Kenton Circuit Judge Robert O. Lukowsky have cross-filed, are unopposed and have been certified by both parties as having been nominated.
