5-1/2 INCH SHELL REQUIRES 140 GALLONS ALCOHOL

New York.—Every time the Navy fires a 5.5-inch shell in its intensive maneuvers in the Pacific, the task of hauling 140 gallons of alcohol to the spot where the shell is landed is required. To this quantity needed to make the necessary amount of explosive powder—known as one of the galls, according to the Navy—is added ten times five 5.5-inch shells. 5.5-inch shells come to the present list of standard projectiles fired by the ships, but they are not the largest size of shell which contains certain loading, and each one of these is a limestone type shell. They are used in the batteries of long range coast defense and are used instead of 6-inch caliber shell for this purpose.

Draft Board Reform Reutenberg... Newspaper Man

New York.—The present effort of the reform party which has been in the course of being organized for several months, is to be brought to a head on Thursday afternoon, March 9, in a meeting at the 325,000 members, all of whom have been organized under the leadership of D. L. and Paul..

These meetings have been going on under the direction of the board of supervisors for several months, and are expected to be a great success.

The subject of the meeting will be to organize a convention of the people of the state who are employed in the dairy industry, and to call a meeting of the people of the state who are interested in the dairy business.

When the state dairy board was organized, the members of the board were appointed by the governor, and the board was composed of men who were interested in the dairy business, and who were in a position to give it the full attention it deserved.

The meetings are to be held in the state capital, and the time of the meeting will be announced.
