Nixon Wraps Up Week-Long Summit In Moscow; Begins Trip Back Home

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon left for the United States today after wrapping up a week-long summit with Soviet leaders by signing agreements designed to limit nuclear arms.

Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders gathered at Vnukovo Airport for a brief departure ceremony under overcast skies. Nixon's plane left for Caribou, Maine, at 5:18 p.m.—10:18 a.m. EDT.

Nixon and Brezhnev signed a summit communique pledging they would seek a 10-year pact to limit offensive nuclear weapons, but could not settle an accord on curbing missiles with multiple warheads.

In a joint communique summing up their third summit conference, the American President and the chief of the Soviet Communist party also committed their governments to stop underground nuclear weapon tests with an explosive force of more than 150 kilotons and to put new limits on their missile defense systems.

As part of the partial test ban, Nixon and Brezhnev came to an unwritten understanding that observers from each government would be allowed to visit the other's test sites to verify compliance.

If implemented, it would be the first time the Soviet Union has allowed such American observers on its territory.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen the two leaders had given up the goal of a permanent ban on offensive nuclear weapons. But he said the third annual Nixon-Brezhnev summit "shouldn't be seen in terms of hitting a home run on one occasion."

A 10-year pact, if it can be worked out by U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Geneva, would cover "the realities" of foreseeable weapons development, and "that is about as permanent" as any accord that could be arranged now, Kissinger said.

Nixon and Brezhnev met late in the morning in advance of the ceremonial signing of the communique.

The President was to leave for the United States in the afternoon.

With their 1972 ban on some offensive weapons running out in 1977, the two leaders agreed that a new treaty should be completed "at the earliest possible date" and should run until 1985. It would try to limit both newer-type weapons, including missiles with multiple warheads, and the numbers being deployed.

Kissinger said the key problem remains how to correlate the 3-to-1 U.S. advantage in missiles with multiple warheads and the Soviet advantage in launchers.

He said he expects the Geneva negotiations to resume on Aug. 1 "give or take a couple of weeks."

The 150-kiloton ceiling on underground nuclear explosions to which Nixon and Brezhnev agreed is equivalent to the explosive force of 150,000 tons of TNT, or 7½ times the force of the atomic bombs the United States dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The most powerful nuclear device so far test-

Houston mass homosexual rape-and-torture murders.

The panel selection continues today in the murder trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, accused in six of the deaths of 27 youths discovered last year in Houston.

Will Bray, Henley's chief lawyer, voiced frequent objections during questioning of potential jurors on Tuesday, the second day of the trial. He was usually overruled by District Court Judge Preston Dial.

At one point, both Gray and Don Lambright, an assistant district attorney, agreed that a potential juror should be excused. But Dial overruled both lawyers and said she was qualified to serve on the jury.

In questioning of prospective jurors Tuesday, Gray indicated that his client may plead not guilty by reason of insanity. He asked all those interviewed about their feelings on insanity.

At one point, Gray asked potential jurors to assume that a person on trial for murder might have so extensively used drugs and alcohol that he was rendered insane.

During a pretrial hearing in January in Houston, Henley testified he was a heavy user both drugs and alcohol.

When the trial opened Monday, Dial closed jury selection to the public, charging that the press would contaminate the jury panel and calling reporters "a bunch of locusts." He opened the trial Tuesday after five news organizations prepared to file suit against the judge.

At Tuesday's session, Gray was overruled when he asked for a mistrial on the grounds his client was denied the right Monday to a public trial.

Dial said that if the needed 32 prospective jurors are not chosen today he would recess the trial for the July 4th holiday, then resume Friday. He said he hopes to start hearing testimony Monday.

When 32 are qualified, each side will be allowed to strike 10 names, and the 12 persons left will hear the case.

Prosecutors have told prospective jurors they will ask that Henley be given the maximum sentence of 99 years on each of the six counts of murder.

The trial was moved here from Houston.

BICENTENNIAL PLATES—Bicentennial license plates, like the one displayed by Calloway County Court Clerk, Marvin Harris, are now on sale at Harris' office in the court house. The plates sell for $2 each with $1.50 of the $2 going to the Calloway County Bicentennial Celebration Committee to be used in local projects. Harris said that in years to come, he expects the plates to be collector's items. Only a limited number of the plates were manufactured for Calloway County.

St. Clair Preparing To Call First Witness Before Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James D. St. Clair is preparing to call his first witnesses in the House Judiciary Committee impeachment inquiry, focusing again on the payment of $75,000 to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

St. Clair hopes to convince the committee today that the money was for legal fees, not to keep Hunt quiet. He used the same argument last week in presenting documentary defense material.

The payment, which followed a March 21, 1973, conversation in which President Nixon told his former aide, John W. Dean III, that getting the money to Hunt was "the prime thing that you damn well better get done," is regarded by the White House as potentially the most damaging issue in the impeachment inquiry.

St. Clair's first witness will be Paul O'Brien, a lawyer for Nixon's re-election campaign committee, who set the payment in motion by relaying Hunt's demand for money to Dean.

At the closed door session,

O'Brien is expected to testify that Hunt's lawyer, William O. Bittman, arranged for him to meet Hunt in Bittman's office on March 16, 1973, where Hunt made his request. O'Brien notified Dean the same day.

In other Watergate developments, two former aides to John D. Ehrlichman testified his only caution in approving the Ellsberg operation was to make sure it would not be traced to the White House.

The staff of the Senate Watergate committee is reconsidering preliminary reports criticizing the campaign finances of Democrats Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern.

A federal court denied C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo's plea for an order barring the Watergate committee from inquiring further into his affairs or citing him for contempt.

Senate Republicans have retained a lawyer to help them prepare for a possible impeachment trial, congressional sources said.

After O'Brien's testimony, the Judiciary Committee will hear Frederick C. LaRue, a former Nixon campaign official who delivered the $75,000 to Bittman. LaRue has pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice and is cooperating with the Watergate prosecutors.

In a letter to the Judiciary Committee requesting LaRue be called as a witness, St. Clair said he expects that by next week

Dean called him on the morning of March 21, 1973—before Dean met with Nixon—and told him Hunt wanted the money.

"LaRue asked Dean if he should make the delivery and Dean responded that he was out of the money business and LaRue would have to use his own judgment," says St. Clair's letter.

Fire Officials Suspect Arson In House Fire

Arson is suspected in a fire which destroyed a vacant home at the corner of Ninth and Vine Streets Tuesday night, according to Fire Chief Jackie Cooper.

Cooper said the firemen were called at nine p.m. when a blaze was found underneath the stairway. He said that the fire was definitely out when firemen left, and there was no way it could have caught fire from a smoldering spark. He reported that the department was called again at one a.m. today and the entire attic was on fire. The roof was completely destroyed, and firemen returned to the scene several times during the remainder of the night to check for further fires.

The unoccupied house was owned by County Judge Robert O. Miller, who said that the electricity to the building was not turned on. However, Miller said this morning that persons have been seen going and coming from the home in recent days. The Judge said he had not heard until today of anyone entering the house.

County officials and members of the Calloway County Fire-Rescue Unit have arranged for a reward to be posted for information concerning suspected arson in several recent fires. All the fires involved old vacant houses, and most were in the southwestern part of the county.

Fire Chief Cooper said he has no proof that the fire last night is connected with the fires in the county, but said that it follows the same pattern. He added that an investigation will be made into the possibility of arson.

This May Be The Last Fourth For Fireworks

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may be the last Independence Day to be celebrated with the traditional crackle of firecrackers.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission already has tried to ban use of firecrackers. But they remain legal, at least for now, in 18 states.

The commission has been set to go into effect June 18, but the industry opposed the ban as well as proposed new safety and labeling requirements on other types of fireworks, legal in 33 states.

So the action fizzled into a delay, with a public hearing now set for July 18 and at least a 120-day period after the hearing before the regulations can take effect.

The center of the opposition had been fireworks makers in Oklahoma and Hong Kong, as well as Chinese-American residents of Hawaii, who complained that firecrackers are used in some of their religious observances.

The commission says firecrackers were responsible for a major share of the 6,500 fireworks-related injuries last year. But the industry challenged the figures, and pointed out that the only deaths last year resulted from public fireworks displays, which would not be banned.

The largest firecrackers, cherry bombs, M-80s and silver salutes, have been illegal since 1967 except to scare birds away from crops.

Such items as Roman candles and sparklers would not be banned, but would have to meet safety standards.

Both sides agree that fireworks now are safer than ever.

The National Geographic Society has reported that during the first 30 years of this century 4,290 Americans were killed by fireworks. In 1903 alone the toll was 466 deaths and 3,943 injuries.

Despite the delay of the ban the Consumer Product Safety Commission distributed announcements to the nation's radio and television stations urging fireworks safety.

Microwave Oven To Make Hosting Easier For Doyles

For the past 25 years, Rev. and Mrs. Lonnie Doyle have either been serving as Baptist missionaries in Brazil or have been in the states on one of six one-year furloughs.

During this time, hundreds of other missionaries, foreign mission workers or "just Baptist friends" have been fed and sheltered under their roof either enroute into the country or going out.

Last year, for example, they had over-night guests in their home 187 nights out of the year. Since no records were kept, they have no way of knowing how many people this involved, but a conservative estimate would be more than 500.

Until the city in which they lived, Manaus, some 1,000 miles upriver from the mouth of the Amazon River, became a "free port," this wasn't too much a problem for the Doyles, however, as they had plenty of native help to assist with the meals and housework.

Now that the city is a "free port," which means that embargos are lifted and just about any and everything can be brought into the city free of duty, many new industries and businesses have emerged across the area, providing much better paying jobs for the Brazilians.

It has become a difficult problem to get domestic help, and Mrs. Doyle, or Janelle, as she is generally known, has found the job of hosting their friends and fellow Christians a most taxing one for her and her family.

"How nice it would be," she often thought, "to have one of those new electronic microwave ovens. Within minutes meals can be prepared with a minimum of effort." She and her husband recall looking longingly at them in the stores "but we could never afford anything like that," since the ovens retail for approximately $400.

Last week, Mrs. Doyle was in Calloway County participating in the First Baptist Church of Murray's youth camp on Kentucky Lake, and renewing her acquaintance with the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Walker of Murray and who lived within a block of the Doyles in Manaus for eight years.

While here, she told the Walkers about her hosting problems, and, being former missionaries themselves, they readily understood.

At the end of the week, when Mrs. Doyle was preparing to rejoin her family as they prepared to return to Brazil July 31, she was called to the Walker home on Audabon Drive where she was presented with an electronic, micro-wave oven just like she had always wanted. It will be shipped to Brazil from Tyler, Tex., within three weeks and they expect to have it in their home "in about six months."

Making the presentation possible was the Theron Riley Class at the Murray church after the pastor, Rev. Walker, had outlined the Doyles' need and made the initial contribution toward the purchase of the oven.

The presentation was made by L. D. Miller, the class president, after the 26 members in the class had contributed the balance of the money needed to buy it.

Rev. Doyle, a native of Mississippi, is executive secretary of the Amazonas Baptist Convention, an organization of 32 Baptist churches in Brazil. Mrs. Doyle is a native of Anson, Tex., and they have five children, two of whom will be returning to Brazil with them. They are Robert, 16, and Elizabeth, 12. Remaining in the states will be their married daughter, Mrs. Thelma Gayle Thompson, St. Petersburg, Fla.; a son, David, 23, an architectural student at Ouchita College in Arkansas; and a daughter, Margaret, 21, a graduate student at Baylor University.

How long do the Doyles plan to remain in Brazil?

"Until we become eligible for retirement 15 years from now," Mrs. Doyle said taking a piece of cake, fully heated in 15 seconds, from her new oven, "and this is going to make it even more pleasant."

Mrs. Paschall Nominated As Candidate, Homemaker Award

MRS. ELLIS ROSS (IMOGENE) PASCHALL stands beside her china cabinet in the dining room of her modern brick home. In the cabinet are pieces of antiques and depression glass which she collects as a hobby. She was nominated as a candidate for the Master Farm Homemaker of Calloway County by the South Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club.

and depression glass. She has a pickle dish that is over 150 years old that belonged to her great grandmother, Mrs. Christian Gunter.

The Paschall family owns ninety-five acres of land and leases another ninety acres for their farming program. They grow tobacco, soy beans, and vegetables for eating, canning, and freezing. During the planting and harvesting season Mrs. Paschall works from four to eight hours a day helping in the fields in addition to her household duties which includes a large amount of canning and freezing during the harvesting season. They have one hundred acres soy beans and six acres of tobacco.

Mrs. Paschall said one project her husband was especially proud of was his reforestation project. He recently set out about five hundred young walnut trees in an area on his farm. He is chairman of the Board of Directors of the Calloway County Co-Op and is vice-chairman of the Board of Directors of the Dees Bank of Hazel.

The Paschalls have three children who are Mrs. Harry (Jeanette) Furches who resides just north of them in a modern three story house, Mrs. Billy Bruce (Ann) Wilson who resides on Hazel Route Two in their lovely farm home, and Tommy Paschall who resides on Murray Route Four and farms with his father.

Their sons-in-law are Harry Furches who is an assistant professor in the Department of Art at Murray State University and Billy Bruce Wilson who is an outstanding farmer in the Hazel community. Their daughter-in-law is secretary to Sid Easley, County Attorney.

Mrs. Furches is now working on her Master's degree in nursing at Murray State. Mr. and Mrs. Paschall have ten grandchildren with the oldest having graduated from high school in May 1974 and the youngest to start elementary school in the fall.

The Paschalls built their modern red brick home in 1963. Mrs. Paschall said the family enjoys getting together for home cooked meals.

Mrs. Paschall said she "tries to live every day in such a manner that my life will be a compliment to my family, friends, and above all to My Heavenly Father."

She streaks to husband —only to be dusted off

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I did it. I did it. I finally did it! I streaked in front of an audience last night.

I showered, dusted my self with rose-scented powder, made my face up, and brushed my hair. Then I slipped into a pair of pretty pink heels [and nothing else] and I took off like a flash into the living room, where my audience of one was watching television. I paused briefly, twirled around once, and then ran back into the bedroom.

When I returned to the living room [clothed], my husband said, "Have you lost your mind, woman?"

Abby, I'm only 33. Could this mean that I am already out of shape?

DEAR STREAKER: No, but your husband could be.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the boy who hated gym because he was lousy in competitive sports brought back memories.

I was also lousy in gym, and when the teacher had the captains choose up sides, I was always the last one to be chosen. I can't describe the humiliation I suffered. I would get sick before every P. E. class, and cry in the showers afterwards.

Abby, why can't all the kids who are poor in gym have a physical fitness program of their own without having to compete with those who are fair, good and excellent? With calisthenics, trampoline, jump rope, etc., they could get just as much exercise as the kids who go out for football, basketball, volleyball and track.

My own sense of failure started with the relay races in grammar school. If only I had been taught to run for the joy of running, and not to beat the other team! But the name of the game was competition—even in first grade. Pity. S.F.

DEAR S.: Thank you for your sensible letter. Many others wrote to suggest that some children "hate" gym because they have a depth perception, coordination or visual problem of which they are not aware. Parents would do well to have their "gym-hating" youngsters examined by an ophthalmologist as well as by a neurologist to determine if their children need help.

DEAR ABBY: May I respond to "Almost 26 and Worried," who is considering marrying "any guy" just so she can say she's been married?

I am almost 80 and I've never been married. A home of my own was my heart's desire—not a husband. Through my own efforts I acquired a comfortable home. It's furnished to please me. It's peaceful, quiet and free from stale smoke. I don't have to account for how I spend my time or my money, and I can come and go as I please.

I wouldn't trade places with any of my married friends, but some of them have told me they envy me. It's a tragic mistake for a woman to marry unless she's reasonably assured of a better life than she can have alone. There are worse fates than being single. I see examples of it all around me. Sign me, "No Regrets" or "PROUD, SINGLE AND HAVEN'T MISSED A THING"

MURRAY LEDGER & TIMES For and about Women

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Down the Garden Path

One productive plant we have all discovered during the hot weather and the rains, is the weed. My, how they have grown. If you cut them one day, you will find them back again the next. The only way to get rid of one individual weed is to pull it up by the roots and the moist ground will allow you to do that. It has always been a source of wonder to me that no matter how you strive to cultivate a certain plant, it may simply wither and die and close by a luxurious weed gets knee high.

And now we are going to have to fight the pests. With such high humidity as we had last week and may have again, all sorts of insects, aphids, chewing pests, sucking insects and a myriad others will have a great time unless we start to combat them now. Leaf Spot on the roses is another trouble of warm, humid weather. But this time comes every year and we have to work with each individual plant to keep it clean and free of disease.

Sprays are always valuable, using malathion, phaltan any of the recognized deterrents. One of the best ways to keep the plants free of either insects or disease is cleanliness. Keep all debris and fallen leaves away from the base of the plant so the pests and spores of disease can't find a nesting place.

Tobacco stalks around the base of the shrubs will help. Giving them plenty of water and food will keep them healthy and more able to throw off attackers. Anyway you say it, gardening is a constant battle against all sorts of little fuzzy leaf choppers of tiny aphids eating the life out of a plant. But have worked so hard to make survive.

But you look around at the beautiful gardens in our town, you can see a lot of people have been successful. If we take each day as it comes and do a little checking in the garden, we can usually keep a jump ahead of these predators. But we do need to be on the alert, watching for signs of insect, before they can do much damage.

One of the loveliest commercial spots I have seen is around a branch bank on Mineral Wells Avenue. Beautiful beds of colorful petunias and some of bright red cannas catch the eye when you drive in. Some of the beds I hear, are overlaid with plastic to keep down weed growth and crushed rock on top gives an interesting effect. Walks are bordered with monkey grass or Liriope and will be so pretty later in the summer. I am glad to see Commercial institutions taking an interest in beautifying their surroundings.

Evans-Hendley Wedding Vows Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hendley

Admire a lovely setting of flowers and candelabra in the sanctuary of the Farmington Baptist Church, Miss Patricia Lynn Evans of Murray became the bride of Jerry Hendley of Mayfield Route Five on Saturday, June 8, at seven p.m.

Rev. Harry Yates officiated at the double ring ceremony read at the altar centered with the brass cathedral arch of burning tapers flanked by summer bouquets of gladioli, fuji mums, carnations, baby's breath, and Baker's fern. To further enhance the scene were Grecian urns filled with stock, fuji mums, carnations, baby's breath, jade, and daisies.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Pat Evans, 406 South Twelfth Street, Murray, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie T. Hendley of Mayfield Route Five.

Special music for the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Doris Hunter.

Bride's Dress
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white wedding dress of peau de sole overlaid with silk organza. Tiny pearls accented the lace which was featured on the neck, waist, hem, and sleeves of the dress. Her veil was attached to a lace mantilla which was also accented by tiny pearls.

Her only jewelry was a floating opal necklace, gift of her parents. She carried a princess bouquet of three gardenias, miniature carnations, and baby's breath, accented with a cathedral strand of pearls.

Mrs. Randy Tucker was the matron of honor and Miss

A Day To Honor America

July 4th, 1974

John Hancock of Massachusetts signed the Declaration of Independence with a bold, elaborate and most legible flourish. It was followed by the signatures of 55 others from the 13 American colonies, 198 years ago today.

And in signing this document they called their erstwhile colonies, "FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES," by appealing to the Protection of divine Providence (the capitals are theirs) and did "mutually pledge to each other our lives, our Fortunes, and our Sacred Honor."

On July 4, 1776, this was no empty pledge. It meant very starkly that each signer had affixed his signature to his own death warrant. Each inscription convicted its perpetrator, automatically, of treason. Yet such was the overwhelming strength of their patriotism in their fledgling nation that they pledged their all that it might be achieved.

And in years of battle, blood, hardship and often despair, it was achieved. Today nearly two centuries later, we of America are still a nation bound by the principles set forth in that Declaration and in the Constitution which followed it.

John Adams, second President of the United States, wrote of July Fourth—"It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of the country to the other from this time forever more."

Our nation has survived much, from minor upheavals to major corruptions, to bloody civil war. But that Declaration and that Constitution remain intact. We still pledge to them our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

And in these troubled times, more than ever, we might take heed of one of our most prominent contemporary constitutional lawyers, Louis Nizer, who in a recent address at New York University Law School, said:

"Ours is a great and noble nation. We must not give vent to despondency or skepticism...our great nation couldn't have achieved its eminence in science, business, and culture without a healthy core..."

We hold these truths to be self-evident...

And by honoring America's founders we also honor America, itself.

Roll Call Report

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 20 through June 26.

HOUSE

WHITE HOUSE STAFF—Rejected, 181 for and 237 against, an amendment to preserve the President's existing White House staff hiring policies.

The President now gets a fixed sum for staff salaries, with few restrictions on staff size or pay levels.

The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 14715) authorizing funds for White House operations. The bill, later passed and sent to the Senate, establishes civil service salary levels for White House staffers.

Supporters wanted to perpetuate the President's relatively free hand in hiring.

Opponents argued that the White House staff—which is not subject to Senate confirmation—is growing too large and usurping jobs of Cabinet officers. Rep. Morris Udall (D-Ariz) argued against returning to "the blank check system of the past."

Reps. Gene Snyder (R-4) and Tim Lee Carter (R-5) voted "yea."

Reps. Frank Stubblefield (D-1), William Natcher (D-2), Romano Mazzoli (D-3), John Breckinridge (D-4) and Carl Perkins (D-7) voted "nay."

HOUSING FOR ELDERLY—Passed, 274 for and 112 against, an amendment to authorize a $1.5 billion federal fund for guaranteeing mortgage money for housing the aged. Non-profit organizations—such as churches and labor unions—would qualify for the loans.

The amendment was attached to H.R. 15361, a Housing and Urban Development bill that later was passed and sent to conference.

The amendment also provides rent subsidies for the low-income aged.

Supporters argued that a critical shortage exists in suitable housing for the elderly. Rep. Ben Blackburn (R-Ga) said, "The budgetary impact will be minor compared to benefits derived."

Opponents called the fund budget-busting. Most opponents argued that such mortgage money should come from private institutions, instead of directly from the federal government.

Stubblefield, Natcher, Mazzoli, Carter, Breckinridge and Perkins voted "yea."

Snyder voted "nay."

OMB FUND CUT—Rejected, 152 for and 252 against, an amendment to slice operating funds for the Office of Management and Budget.

The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 1544) appropriating funds for various executive departments. The bill was later passed and sent to the Senate.

The amendment would have cut OMB's funds from $2 million to $16 million. After rejecting the $6 million cut, the House approved a $2.6 million reduction in OMB funds.

OMB controls the spending levels of most federal programs. It has come under fire for impounding funds approved by Congress.

Supporters argued that OMB threatens to dominate the three branches of government. Rep. Jake Pickle (D-Tex) said, "It is time for OMB to end its one-man rule of the federal budget."

Opponents argued that OMB has harnessed the "overblown federal bureaucracy." Rep. John Rhodes (R-Ariz) called the $6 million cut

"a meat-ax amendment."

Stubblefield, Natcher, Mazzoli, Snyder, Carter, Breckinridge and Perkins voted "yea."

FOOD STAMPS FOR STUDENTS—Passed, 195 for and 123 against, an amendment to prohibit college students from using food stamps, if they are supported and claimed as tax deductions by parents.

The amendment was attached to a bill (H.R. 15472) to appropriate fiscal 1975 funds for the Department of Agriculture and other agencies, which later passed and was sent to the Senate.

Supporters argued that many students from high- and middle-income families abuse the food stamps program.

Opponents did not speak against the measure.

Stubblefield, Mazzoli, Snyder and Breckinridge voted "yea."

Natcher, Carter and Perkins voted "nay."

SENATE

TAX REFORM—Rejected, 33 for 64 against, an amendment to cut taxes for low- and middle-income persons and to end certain tax breaks for corporations and wealthy persons.

A week of parliamentary maneuvers had blocked a vote on the major tax-reform amendment.

The proposals called for raising the personal income-tax deduction from $750 to $825, and for killing the oil depletion allowance, overseas corporate investment credits and some tax loopholes used by the wealthy.

The amendment was offered to a debt ceiling bill (H.R. 14832) that was later passed and sent to the White House. The bill was passed without amendments. If it had not been signed into law by June 30, the federal government could not have paid its bills.

Supporters argued that low-income persons need relief from inflation and that tax cuts would boost the sagging economy. They said the oil depletion allowance should be eliminated because of high oil company profits. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass) called for providing "some degree of tax relief and equity" for those who pay more than their share.

Opponents argued against burdening a debt-ceiling bill with non-germane amendments. They said that tax cuts would feed inflation, and that oil companies must be encouraged to search for oil. Some opponents feared that the amendment would encourage a flood of tax proposals. Sen. James Allen (D-Ala) said tax reformers were playing "brinkmanship with the entire economic well-being of the nation."

Sen. Walter Huddleston (D) voted "yea." Sen. Marlow Cook (R) voted "nay."

LIVESTOCK SUBSIDIES—Passed, 82 for and 9 against, a bill to guarantee loans to cattle and hog producers (S. 3679). It now goes to the House.

The subsidies are designed as relief from rising grain and declining livestock prices. Producers could get federal loans of up to $350,000.

Supporters argued that producers need relief and consumers need meat.

Opponents attributed producers' problems to government bumbles, such as the Soviet Wheat deal. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) protested "the anti-consumer views of the Congress and the Administration."

Cook and Huddleston voted "yea."

A Curious Malady

By CAROL JOHNSON

Readers' indulgence, please. Because this writer wants to tell you about a curious malady afflicting her since birth—that date being July Fourth.

The eyes leak at every parade; the nose runs. The American flag causes an immediate reaction—a choked-up feeling in the throat.

Baseball games are an ordeal, as well as basketball and football games, since on hearing "Oh, Say Can You See," an instant blurring of vision occurs.

Treatment for this disease is administered regularly. Doses of strong medicine such as Dallas, Kent State, Watergate, and Chapquiddick cause a temporary remission, but just when it looks like the disease is cured, it's the Fourth of July, and Zap! Flat on my back again, in a manner of speaking.

It's highly unlikely that many Americans will succumb to this dread disease, but just to be safe, I have a plan. I'd be glad to donate some serum to launch a nationwide inoculation campaign. I have plenty. A little of patriotism wouldn't hurt a thing—it might even help.

Letters To Editor

Humble People Can Build Bridge Of Peace

Dear Editor:

Our son, Richard, married a Dutch girl while stationed with the Army in Germany. Having been transferred to Ft. Leonard Wood, he has felt it appropriate to bring her parents to the States during our Independence Day week. They have never been out of Holland, never owned a TV set or a car: on his salary of $250 per month as an accountant, he has raised three girls and three boys.

My wife and I, too, raised three girls and three boys. Both have Scholastic Aptitude Tests (we have never met), served on opposite sides in WWII. This has added special meaning to our Independence Day, both to us and to them.

They will arrive in Murray this Thursday evening, along with my son and his wife, and will be with us Friday. My wife and I would like to show them our city and the meaning of our American heritage.

We would like to show them our newspaper as well as the University. Would you mind if we brought them in? Would it be convenient? Mayor Scott has asked that I bring them by the City Hall for greetings in the hands-across-the-sea spirit.

They speak little English, my son tells us, but his wife is a fluent linguist and will be along to translate.

We Americans travel the world over, but too few think of inviting Europeans here, and giving poor, humble people a chance to see the blessings of our land and way of life as exemplified in our small towns and rural areas. It's the humble people who shed their blood in wars devised by politicians, but it's these same humble people who can build the bridge of peace and friendship among nations.

Yours very truly,
Edwin Larson, Ph. D.

We feel that this would not have been possible without the wonderful cooperation we received from the staff at the Murray Ledger & Times. Your help was always efficient and prompt. Thank you and "Bless your Heart."

ANIMALS

A new gnu arrived at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago. The cage for the gnu wasn't finished, lacking the laying of floor tile that was stacked in the corner, but the gnu was put in the cage for the night. Next morning, the surprised zoo keeper saw that the floor tile had been installed. Curious, he put the gnu in another cage, which also lacked floor tile, and left him overnight with another stack of tiles. Sure enough, next day the cage floor had been tiled. Still not believing what he had seen, the keeper called the zoo from which the animal had been procured and asked if there was anything unusual about the animal. The other zoo keeper answered, "Not at all, he's just a typical gnu and tiler, too." (Playboy VIP Magazine)

My dog is so smart when he was being paper trained, he learned how to read. (Rodney Dangerfield)

Although millions of research dollars have been spent during thousands of freezing hours of penguin watching, not even the experts can tell a girl penguin from a boy penguin by sight. Dr. Michael Fedak of Duke University thinks maybe even the penguins have a little trouble sorting out their sex, and he is convinced French scientific claims that the boys squawk differently than the girls are false. "It's not uncommon to see an emperor penguin waddle up to another bird at the rookery and get bowled over when his amorous advances apparently are mistakenly directed toward another male," Fedak said. "And the way he squawks and the tones he uses are identical to those we've recorded from known females."

Isn't It The Truth

by Carl Riblet Jr.

Ever since the written word was first put down, the male of the species has taken unfair advantage of the female through authorship of myths, proverbs, satire and cruel jokes. Modern women, however, can easily and effectively cut through the male ego by telling him to go measure his waist and undouble his chin.

Group Plans Suit Against Corps Of Engineers Over Red River Dam

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A newly incorporated organization plans to sue the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to halt construction of a proposed dam in the Red River Gorge.

Ralph Madison of Louisville, a spokesman for the Red River Gorge Legal Defense Fund Inc., said the group's purpose is to provide a means for concerted legal action in connection with the proposed $27 million dam.

Madison, vice president of the Louisville Audubon Society and president of the Kentucky Audubon Council (which represents the nine audubon societies in Kentucky) said the organization plans to take legal action after the final environmental impact statement on construction of the dam is released by the Army Corps of Engineers.

He said that report could be issued within the month.

"The idea is that when the impact statement comes out we are allowed a 30-day period to object or sue," Madison said. "We expect to have legal action ready either to obtain an injunction or 'whatever it takes' to stop the dam."

Members of the organization, which incorporated Tuesday, have been studying the corps' preliminary environmental impact statement in order to build their case against construction of the dam.

Oscar H. Gerald, a Lexington attorney working with the defense fund, said "Unless they (the corps) do a complete turnaround in the final statement, we will challenge it in court."

Gerald said construction of the dam would be challenged on the following grounds:

- validity of the cost-benefit ratio.
- adequacy of the alternatives included in the statement.
- basis of the corps' conclusions that a dam should be constructed on the Red River.

According to the corps regulations, the project can only be built for the purposes of flood control and recreation. Water storage can be included if the state or interested companies pick up the tab.

Proponents of the dam have justified its construction on the basis of flood control for Clay City, increased recreational benefits and a water supply for Lexington.

Madison said the issue of recreational benefits is a "very delicate area" that is being studied intensively.

Lexington was initially the only city to express an interest in the dam as an additional source of water, but later withdrew from the project.

Opponents of the dam argue that it would lessen the beauty of the gorge and ruin many of the trees and other flora, as well as result in the relocation of 55 families.

County Youths Compete, State 4-H Talk Meet

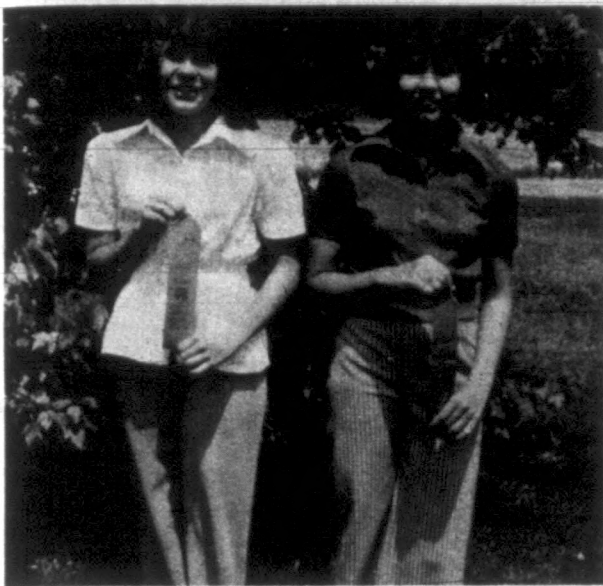

Kentucky youth spoke out on issues that concern their generation and their future during the state 4-H Talk Meet at Lexington Friday, June 28, at the University of Kentucky.

Taking part from Calloway County were Jo Beth and Melanie Norwood, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ed Norwood of Kirksey.

in the Talk Meet were: pollution, conservation, gasoline shortages, food prices, drug abuse, the metric system, mental retardation, capital punishment, education, physical fitness, patriotism, citizenship, and the value of 4-H work.

The 4-H Talk Meet competition is divided into seven age divisions, so those taking part compete only against those in their own age group. Separate competition is held for 9-year-olds, 10-year-olds, 11-year-olds, 12-year-olds, 13-year-olds, those ages 14-15, and those ages 16-19. In all these divisions, boys compete only against and girls against girls, making a total of 14 different competitions.

COMPETING IN the State 4-H Talk Meet at Lexington from Calloway County were Jo Beth Norwood, left, and Melanie Norwood, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ed Norwood of Kirksey.

U. S. Drops From Number One Spot In Production Of Oil

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States has dropped from No. 1 in world crude oil production to No. 2. And it may be on its way down to No. 3.

Latest production figures from Saudi Arabia show that it is now the world leader in crude production with nearly 9 million barrels produced daily in May.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union, generally considered a close third, has been creeping up slowly. Soviet production figures are difficult to obtain, but many oil experts think the U.S.S.R. will pass the United States soon, if it hasn't done so already.

The drop from No. 1 is a benchmark in American oil industry history. It reflects the continuing deterioration of American oil production, a decline that started slowly from the high point of 10.8 million barrels a day in November of 1971 to its current level of about 8.5 million barrels a day. The U.S. had been the No. 1 producer since the turn of the century.

Comparing United States production figures to those of Saudi Arabia is tricky business. The weekly U.S. figures provided by the American Petroleum Institute lump crude oil production together with something called lease condensate, oil produced from natural gas. Saudi Arabia produces no lease condensate, so its figures represent crude oil only.

The latest API figures show American production at about 8.9 million barrels a day. Lease condensate represented about 400,000 barrels of that daily total.

The Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco), Saudi Arabia's largest oil company, says it alone produced 8.7 million barrels of crude a day in May. The two other oil companies in the country produce about 260,000 barrels a day.

The experts say Saudi Arabia could move to 9.2 million barrels a day overnight without drilling another well. It could produce 20 million barrels a day eventually, some experts say.

But it's unlikely that Saudi Arabia will push production up much soon. Experts say an oil surplus has developed in the wake of the Arab oil embargo.

Conservation efforts, increased production in the Middle East and resistance to higher prices from consumers have reduced demand worldwide.

A further surplus would put a downward pressure on crude prices, something most of the oil exporting countries want to avoid.

Saudi Arabia is an exception when it comes to price, however. It has called for a reduction in the price of oil, saying that has fueled world inflation. But Saudi Arabia has been unable to convince the other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reduce prices.

The experts say the Soviet Union appears to have the potential for passing the United States but not Saudi Arabia. And whether it becomes No. 2 depends largely on a decline in U.S. production.

Now that domestic prices are up, the industry says it has increased its drilling efforts and the decline may be turned around eventually, especially when off-shore drilling sites begin to pay off and oil starts flowing in the Alaska pipeline.

Crude production has declined about 400,000 barrels a day from this time a year ago.

Alan Gibbs Strikes Out 17 Men In 3-1 Mound Gem Over Yanks

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

It was like a western movie where the two gunslingers have a shootout and then after the smoke has cleared, one is left standing.

There wasn't any shooting going on Tuesday night on the Little League diamond but there was some smoke left hanging in the air.

And the smoke was from a pair of the top pitchers in the league, Alan Gibbs of the Twins and southpaw Mark Erwin of the Yanks.

Going into the contest, the Yanks had an 8-2 season record and were one game ahead of the Twins in the race for the league pennant.

But after the Twins 3-1 win behind the stout pitching of Gibbs, the two teams are now left in a deadlock in the standings with each team sporting 8-3 workbooks.

It was a shame someone had to lose because the game was so well played and other teams played near-perfect baseball.

Gibbs was almost untouchable as he struck out 17 batters in the six-inning contest and allowed only four hits. It was the second time of the season Gibbs had accounted for all the outs but one.

In earlier games, he has fanned 17, 13, and 10. He has won four games and lost only one this season, giving up a total of nine runs in five games, with only four of the nine being earned.

His only loss was a 4-3 setback to the same club he defeated

Tuesday, the Yanks.

And in that game, a grand-slam homer in the bottom of the seventh by Robert Santagato made the difference in a win and a loss for Gibbs and the Twins.

Gibbs relied mainly on his fastball but did throw the curve several times.

Also on several occasions, he threw a change of pace pitch.

"I threw the changeups to Robert Santagato because he was getting out in front of the ball," Gibbs said.

The first person in the contest to get in front of the ball though was Kim Kendall of the Twins. Kendall led off the bottom of the first inning with a solo homer and the Twins led 1-0 as the little shortstop crossed the plate.

In the second inning, both pitchers set down the sides on strikes.

Then in the third, the Yanks put Eddie Rhodes on base with a leadoff walk and Donny Thompson hit a Baltimore chopper for an infield hit and left runners at first and second.

On a double steal, the throw to third from the catcher went wild down the line in left the Rhodes crossed with the tying run.

Gibbs got the next two men to fan before the inning ended on a fine play by second-baseman

Ben Underwood who took a hard grounder and threw to Kelly White at first for the out.

The Yanks scored twice in the fourth inning to win the game. With two out, Bradley Wells reached on a single down the rightfield line. Sammy Smith then hit a slow roller up the middle and runners were on a first and second.

Scotty Orr walked to load the sacks and then Kenny Parish ripped a double for two runs and the Twins led 3-1. Erwin fanned the next batter for the third out of the frame.

Donny Thompson again reached on an infield single in the top of the fifth for the Yanks as Underwood made a beautiful backhand stab on second but couldn't throw to first in time.

But again Gibbs fanned the final two men and pitched himself out of trouble.

Kim Kendall reached on an error in the Twins' half of the sixth and Ben Underwood bunted his way on base.

Gibbs' long fly advanced the runners to second and third.

Following an infield fly for the second out, the Yanks got out of the inning as Thompson came up with a beautiful play as he charged in from third to grab a suicide squeeze play bunt and fired to first for the out.

Erwin began the top of the sixth with a single for the Yanks but the next three men went down on k's and that was the game, which incidentally, took only about an hour to play.

For the winning Twins, Kendall, Wells and Smith had hits while for the Yanks, Erwin, Mark Overby and Thompson all hit safely, with Thompson picking up two hits.

The opening contest played Tuesday in the Little League found the A's pounding the Astros 11-3.

Marty McCuiston went the distance on the hill for the winning Athletics.

The Astros used four hurlers, Scott Hill, Randy Mayfield, Tony Herndon and Stacy Smith.

Ricky Garland paced the winners with two hits, including a two-run homer and a ground-rule double. Trey Britt had two hits as did Trent Jones, Joey Rose and George Bell. Bill Leslie had a solo homer.

For the Astros, Rick Smith had two hits, including a homer, as did Mark Smith.

Also hitting safely were Randy Mayfield, Hill and Don Rodgers.

No further information was available on the game.

Games set for Thursday will find the Cards playing the Cubs at 5 p.m. with the Nats and Reds meeting in the second contest.

Sam Snead Likes Golf's Kiddie Corps And Says They're Nice

By BOB GREEN

AP Golf Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The youth movement has been the dominant theme on the pro golf tour this year with the so-called kiddie corps coming into its own.

"Most of 'em are real nice boys," observes 62-year-old Sam Snead, who was winning golf tournaments long before any of the Young Lions were born.

"A lot of 'em are good players, too. Big and strong, and ooo-wheee, don't they hit the ball hard? Real long, lots of 'em. They're nice, respectful boys. A lot of 'em call me 'Mr. Snead.' Now that's real nice."

"Of course, a lot of 'em call me other things, too. I hear 'em in the locker room. They're saying, 'Why don't that old buzzard go home to the rockin' chair where he belongs and quit comin' out here and takin' our money?'"

"Yeah, they say a lot of that, too."

And they're saying it this week, too, with the still-sweet-swinging Snead an entry in the $130,000 Milwaukee Open that got under way today on the 7,010-yard, par-72 Tuckaway Country Club course.

He's considerably more than a sentimental favorite for the $26,000 first prize in this event that got started a day early to make way for next week's prestige-laden British Open.

Snead scored the last of his record 84 official career titles in 1965 but has challenged strongly several times since.

The latest was his second-place finish—he lost by a single shot—in the Los Angeles Open early this year. He was in contention through 71 holes, finally bowing on the 72nd to Dave Stockton.

In only six previous starts this season, Snead has collected almost $23,000 and ranks in the top 70 money-winners.

He says he plays "just as good as I can and try to pick up a little check when I can. It's pretty hard to win with these old nerves."

"But," he continued, with a big smile, "if they just let me make me a couple of putts, just let me hole a few of 'em, and maybe we can give 'em a little something they can sit up and take notice about."

Snead and Lee Trevino ranked as the two top gate attractions in the 144-man field that also included Hubert Green, a three-time winner this season, and such other 1974 title-winners as Buddy Allin, Bob Menne, Jim Colbert, Allen Miller, Dave Hill and defending Milwaukee Open champion Stockton.

The tournament runs through Saturday.

Reds Fans Bored By Flying Glass

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Flying glass from an exploded window pane rained down on a crowded section of left field at Riverfront Stadium Tuesday night, sending 12 persons to a hospital.

Sixteen were reported injured after the double-thick glass blew out of a section of a private box overlooking the left field stands and showered on fans 30 feet below.

"It just showered down," said an uninjured bystander. "We thought someone was just throwing ice at first."

The Cincinnati Reds said all of the stadium's 10-by-4 foot sections would be checked before tonight's doubleheader. It was the second window to shatter since June 22. No one was injured in the earlier incident.

"There was a loud bang and it popped out," said Mel Koenig of Hamilton, who was sitting in the enclosed private box when the window collapsed.

The glass fell during the bottom of the first inning of Cincinnati Reds-Los Angeles Dodgers game, just as Joe Morgan hit a home run to give the Reds an early two-run lead.

Witnesses said the glass fell in two pieces. The first and largest piece of the 10-by-4-foot pane injured the spectators. The other piece fell after the area had been cleared.

First NFL Picket To Begin In San Diego

By NICK ALLEN

Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Despite refusal of U.S. International University—site of the San Diego Charger training camp—to permit on-campus protests, the striking National Football League Players Association planned its first picketing for today.

And, even as the NFLPA, striking with the slogan "No Freedom, No Football," readied for the first picket lines in the history of professional sports, a discordant note appeared among the ranks of the union's members.

"We're not going to come out smelling like roses, making ridiculous demands for twice as much money with less work and no discipline," charged center Jim Langer of the world champion Miami Dolphins. He said 80 per cent of his teammates want to play against the College All-Stars on July 25 at Chicago.

While the veterans prepared for the walkout, the Los Angeles Times reported that 40 of the 49 rookies under contract to the Chargers were in the training camp before midnight Tuesday.

The Chargers were the first of three NFL teams scheduled to open training camps this week.

An informal survey, however, indicated that many, if not all, of the young players planned to report to the San Diego camp.

And Coach Tommy Prothro said: "All of the rookies we've contacted say they'll come out. We have talked to all but a very few."

NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey said the union would abide by the university's decision.

Jesse Freitas, one of the Chargers' two first-round draftees and a quarterback prospect, said he would cross the picket line. "I don't think I should be going on strike for something I really don't belong to."

Rookies are not eligible for NFLPA membership until they make a team and the regular season begins.

Negotiations broke off last week between the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council, representing owners. The strike began Monday.

The 1,200-member NFLPA's demands include elimination of the reserve and option clauses.

When the NFLPA struck four years ago the Kansas City Chiefs were allowed to practice and play against the College All-Stars.

The Dolphin veterans will meet Friday night to determine what to do for this year's game against the College All-Stars.

There were these other developments on the strike front:

—Charger owner Eugene Klein said there was a good chance the entire 1974 NFL season would be played without striking veterans.

—Bud Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers, said cancellation of the exhibition season, considered very possible at this stage of the dispute, would result in "every club in the NFL winding up in the red."

—George Halas of the Chicago Bears, patriarch of NFL owners, said pro football players can not be considered "just like other people" despite what the striking players association thinks.

—Joe Namath, star quarterback of the New York Jets, said he will honor the strike but won't picket.

Marshall Appears In 12th Consecutive Game

By HAL BOCK

AP Sports Writer

It's getting so they don't even bother answering the phone in the Los Angeles Dodger bullpen. Mike Marshall knows the call will be for him without picking it up.

Marshall's ironman act reached a record 12 consecutive games Tuesday night and he earned his eighth straight victory as the Dodgers bested Cincinnati 3-2, stretching their National League West lead to a fat 8½ games.

No baseball pitcher ever worked in more than nine straight games before Marshall started his daily march to the mound two weeks ago. He hasn't missed a game since and has now appeared in an arm-busting 52 of Los Angeles' 77 games.

"I don't know what the limit is, but I haven't found it yet," said Marshall, who ran his record to 10-3 with the victory over the Reds. "We've only played half a year," he added. "How can I be tired?"

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday night, Houston downed Atlanta 5-1, Pittsburgh topped Montreal 4-2, New York trimmed Philadelphia 4-2, Chicago edged St. Louis 4-3 and San Diego defeated San Francisco 5-1.

Padres 5, Giants 1
Ex-Giant Willie McCovey belted a two-run homer and Clarence Gaston added a solo shot, powering San Diego to its victory over San Francisco.

Astros 5, Braves 1
Claude Osteen spaced six hits and contributed three of his own, moving Houston past Atlanta.

Pirates 4, Expos 2
Jim Rooker surrendered two runs on four straight hits at the start of the game but then steadied to pitch Pittsburgh over Montreal.

Mets 4, Phillies 2
Tom Seaver, who gained his fifth victory of the season for the New York Mets, needed late help from reliever Jack Aker to six-hit Philadelphia.

Cubs 4, Cards 3
Chicago scored all of its runs in the first inning when Rick Monday pounded his eighth home run and Bill Madlock and Vic Harris added run-scoring doubles to defeat St. Louis.

Nastase Joins Upset Victims At Wimbledon

By RONALD THOMSON

Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Ili Nastase, in his wily way, tried to steal the show, but Dick Stockton stood quietly in the wings and emerged as the star of Wimbledon.

The 24-year-old Texan, ranked only 13th in the United States and unlisted among the favorites for the Wimbledon Tennis Championships, reached today's quarter-finals with a 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 9-8 victory over the second-seeded Romanian.

Stockton was nearing victory in the fourth set when Nastase, apparently trying to thrust his opponent to the ragged edge, turned on the gamesmanship for which he is known.

As a light rain fell over Wimbledon late Tuesday, Nastase walked to the sidelines, lifted an umbrella from a spectator, returned to the court and, with the umbrella in one hand and his tennis racket in the other, pretended he was ready to receive Stockton's serve.

But Stockton showed wisdom beyond his years. By right, he could have served. But by so doing, he could have irked the fans, many of whom found the Romanian's antics amusing.

So Stockton stood expressionless, patiently waiting for Nastase to finish clowning.

Then he turned the heat on and won the crowd's applause with the sheer quality of his play.

"I wasn't mad," Stockton said later. "But I didn't like wasting time like that. And I've seen too many guys join in the clowning. Before you know it he's back on top of you."

It was the first time that Stockton had beaten Nastase in three meetings. It also is the furthest Stockton has advanced in a major tournament, although as a youngster he won a record 20 national junior titles.

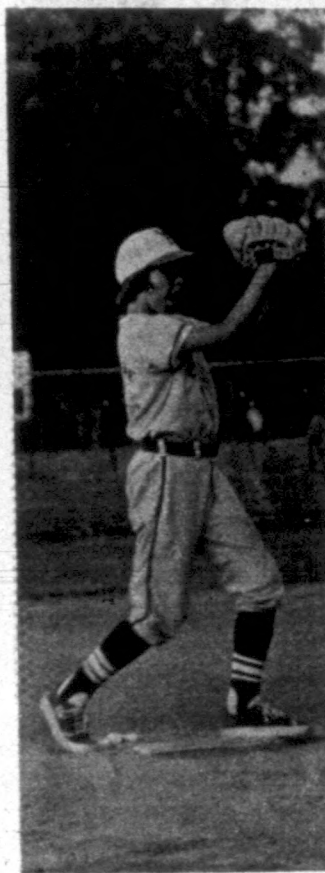

The 6-foot-2, 180-pound sociology graduate of Trinity University in Texas, a native New Yorker, was to meet Alex Metreveli, the No. 10 seed from the Soviet Union, in the quarter-finals.

The two met once before on a clay court, and Stockton won.

Road Race

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Wide Track Drive, the bypass road around the city of Pontiac, will be turned into a race course Thursday as part of that city's Fourth of July celebration.

A local sports car club is sponsoring the race over the winding, 1.2-mile course. Sports cars will compete in various classes.

PITCHER'S DUEL—Little League hurlers Mark Erwin (left) of the Yanks and Alan Gibbs (right) of the Twins had a real pitching duel Tuesday night as the Twins took a 3-1 win in the contest and moved into a tie for first place in the league.

Giant Killers To Resume Play In Quarterfinals At Wimbledon

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Dick Stockton and Ismael el Shafai moved into today's quarterfinals of the All-England Tennis Championships undaunted by the big guns that stalk the Wimbledon grass.

Stockton, ranked only 13th in the United States and relegated to the second-string dressing room here, was to face Alex Metrevell of the Soviet Union and El Shafai, who won the junior title here 10 years ago, was scheduled to meet veteran Stan Smith.

"I've played Alex only once before on slow clay and I beat him," Stockton said before meeting his 10th-seeded opponent.

"I've played Stan countless times and never beaten him," said El Shafai of the fourth-seeded American who won the title here two years ago. "But there always has to be a first time and this could be it."

In other quarterfinals today, top-seeded John Newcombe was to meet veteran Ken Rosewall, the man he beat for the title in 1971, in an all-Australian match, and Jimmy Connors, the No. 3 seed, was to face defending champion Jan Kodes, the No. 6 seed from Czechoslovakia.

South African Linky Boshoff, a 17-year-old schoolgirl who gained the women's quarterfinals by upsetting Rosie Casals, was to face Britain's Virginia Wade. Defending champion Billie Jean King was to test Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union; Evonne Goolagong and Kerry Melville were locked in an all-Australian match, and Chris Evert was pitted against West Germany's Helga Masthoff.

Stockton earned his quarterfinal berth by defeating second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania in Tuesday's fourth round; Metrevell defeated seventh-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands; El Shafai beat Manuel Orantes of Spain Tuesday, the day after taming fourth-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

Smith beat Patrice Dominguez of France; Newcombe qualified by topping Erik van Dillen of Apts, Calif.; Rosewall beat back a strong challenge from Roscoe Tanner, of Big Canoe, Ga.

Connors, of Belleville, Ill., downed Jaime Fillol of Chile, and Kodes barely survived a powerful attack by 11th-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle.

Ms. King, highly favored to win her sixth singles crown for the United States, disposed of Lesley Charles of Britain and Miss Evert, the No. 2 seed, ousted Mona Schallau of Iowa City, Iowa.

World Cage Tourney To Begin In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN (AP) — The United States and Russia claim they are not at top form, but both teams are rated as favorites in the World Basketball tournament which begins tonight.

The United States has been labeled the team to beat despite U.S. Coach Gene Bartow's admission that his squad had only six practice sessions before coming to Puerto Rico.

The Russians' pretourney performance belies the fact that they are missing four of their players from their Munich Olympics team and that Soviet Coach Vladimir Kondrashin believes his team does not have the strength to win the competition.

The Russians looked strong in blasting Canada 110-83 and Australia 90-45 in games earlier this week.

The United States has won the competition only once, in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1954 and has placed second twice.

Other past winners are Argentina in 1950, Brazil in 1959, Russia in 1967 and Yugoslavia in 1970.

In the preliminary round, the United States plays The Philippines.

The preliminary round ends Friday after three days of play, with the two top teams in each advancing to the finals with the defending champions Yugoslavia, and the host team from Puerto Rico.

Allison Has Top Speed For Holiday 400 Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Allison, the newest million dollar winner in stock car racing, is relaxed and ready for the Firecracker 400 Thursday.

He is tentatively on the pole in Roger Penske's 1974 Matador with the best Tuesday qualifying speed of 180.755 miles an hour.

Rain cut short the pole position runs, leaving Cale Yarborough, Bobby Isaac and David Pearson a chance to bump Allison off the hot spot when the cars took the track again today.

Twenty-two cars completed a pair of qualifying laps around the 2.5-mile high-banked Daytona International Speedway. Another 29 were on the line and ready when the third and longest storm of the day took over.

The full 40-car starting field will be filled today.

As it stands now, Donnie Allison's Chevrolet is in the front row alongside his brother. He qualified at 179.755 m.p.h.

Next best were Buddy Baker in a Ford at 178.479; Richard Petty in a Dodge at 177.992; rookie Dan Gurnery in a Ford at 174.445, and A.J. Foyt in a Chevrolet at 174.229.

Bobby Allison is relaxed even though his own racing operation ran into problems, and his Chevrolet is parked temporarily.

"Some people play golf or fish to relax," Allison said. "When I get problem, I go off with my sportsman car and race the small tracks. That's what I did the past week."

Allison moved into the million dollar winners' circle two weeks ago at Irish Hills, Mich., joining Petty and Pearson as the only ones to collect that much prize money in the stock car field.

Although Allison also was on the pole here a year ago with his Chevrolet, he's never won on Daytona International Speedway. His best finish was third.

For the past three years, Petty has finished second in the 400-miler.

Soderholm Didn't Goof Up Again, Indians Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Eric Soderholm was fined for poor baserunning and made the Texas Rangers pay for it.

Clipped of $50 Monday night for fouling up a suicide squeeze play, the Minnesota infielder made sure he didn't foul up anything Tuesday night.

At the swing of Glenn Borgmann's bat in the ninth inning, Soderholm was off and running from first base and scored the winning run in the Twins' 5-4 victory over the Rangers.

"You have to gamble late in the game," Soderholm said after coming home on Borgmann's double off the left field wall. "We might as well win it now as wait around."

Soderholm made a head-long dive into home plate and just beat the relay throw to Texas catcher Jim Sundberg. It was so close that Texas Manager Billy Martin and Sundberg protested the play vehemently.

"There was no question about it," Martin said. "He was out."

"I wouldn't have argued like I did if I didn't feel we had him," said Sundberg. "He missed the plate with his hand and tried to get his leg in, but I had my foot and glove right there."

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles 9-6; the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3; the Detroit Tigers stopped the New York Yankees 4-2; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Kansas City Royals 4-1 and the Oakland A's defeated the California Angels 7-5.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 6
A pair of double steals and Dwight Evans' two-run single helped Boston to four runs in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and lifting the Red Sox over Baltimore.

Indians 5, Brewers 3
Frank Duffy's two-run single sparked Cleveland's four-run, second-inning rally, and George Hendrick hit his third home run in two days, leading the Indians past Milwaukee.

Tigers 4, Yankees 2
Detroit erupted for four runs in the fifth inning, two on a double by Gary Sutherland, and the Tigers defeated New York to extend the Yankees' losing streak to six games.

White Sox 4, Royals 1

Murray Legion Ripped By Paducah

Paducah's Mark Young laced a two-out triple in the bottom of the seventh inning to drive in the winning run and lift the Paducah American Legion to a 4-3 win over visiting Murray Tuesday in the second game of a twinbill.

The first contest found Paducah bringing down the walls of Brooks Stadium as they sprayed 18 hits over the park in a 15-4 win.

With the pair of losses, Murray falls to 12-10 for the season and will be playing a pair of Friday games at Union City before hosting a weekend tourney.

The opening game was never any contest as Paducah ripped Murray starter Mark Miller for four runs in the first inning and three in the second while winning hurler Champ Webb scattered only seven hits in going the distance.

Then in the fifth, Paducah exploded for six more runs and turned a 7-3 lead into a 13-3 rout.

Murray scored a single tally in the third when Gary Mitchell tripled and scored on a single by Greg Smith.

In the fourth, Murray used a walk, an error and singles by Randy Conner, Johnny Hewitt and Mitchell to drive in runs. Mitchell had four-for-four at the plate to lead Murray while Hewitt, Smith and Conner each hit safely to account for the seven-hit offensive.

In the second contest, Mayfield's Gary Latta had a 3-1 lead going into the bottom of the seventh and had retired the first batter before the trouble came.

Gene Roof belted a long triple and came around to make it 3-2 as Kevin Paschall singled. Bobby Jones singled to put men on at first and second and then Randy Treece singled into right to load the sacks.

Young hit the first pitch for a double and the game was over.

Murray scored first in the opening inning as Mitchell singled, took second on a bunt by Hewitt and scored on a single by Smith.

In the third, Murray scored two more times as Mitchell and Hewitt both singled and scored on Smith's two-run single.

Murray State hurler Steve Darnell went the distance on the hill for Paducah and scattered six hits while striking out nine and walking nobody.

Mitchell and Smith each had two hits for Murray while Johnny Shelley and Hewitt also hit safely.

Reds Regain Share Of Kentucky League Lead

The Kentucky League Reds held on to their share of first place in the pennant chase as they won an 8-3 contest Tuesday over the Mets.

The win leaves the Reds with a 7-2 season mark and in a tie for the league lead with the Cards, who they will face in an important contest at 6 p.m. Friday with the winner taking over first place and sitting in the driver's seat in the standings.

Keith Baar pitched the distance on the hill for the Reds and gave up only five hits while chalking up 13 big strikeouts.

Losing pitcher Paul Denton scattered eight hits and fanned eight batters in a fine effort for the Mets.

It was the first inning of the contest that provided the win for the Reds.

Bill Milton led off the game with a single and then came around to score when Mark Allis sacrificed.

Mark West drew a walk and Baar reached on an error, sending in West and leaving the Reds with a 2-0 edge.

Bob Daniel then ripped an RBI double and scored along with Mike Ward, who walked, when Chuck Wilson reached base on an error.

Both pitchers threw gooseeggs until the bottom half of the fifth inning when Baar was touched for three runs by the Mets.

With one out, Timmy Adams opened the rally with a walk and David Cooper then followed with a single.

David Story reached base on an error to score Adams with Cooper being out at third.

Barry Lee walked, Paul Denton was hit by a pitch and Mike Gough ripped a double, sending in a pair of runs and leaving the Mets trailing only 5-3.

But in the top of the sixth, the Reds scored three times and sealed the win.

Chuck Wilson led off with a single and then with one out,

Milton doubled for an RBI.

Alls doubled in another run and later scored when Baar singled.

For the Reds, Milton had two hits while Alls, Baar, Daniel, Mike Ward, Mike Nichy and Wilson all hit safely.

Cooper, Lee, Denton, Gough and Mike Pearson all hit safely for the Mets.

No games will be played in the league tonight but action will resume with a 6 p.m. contest Thursday that will find the Cubs playing the Mets.

Pirates Continue Hex Over Giants

By JIM PIERCE

The Pirates' jinx over the league-leading Giants continued Tuesday night as the Pirates rallied for an 8-7 victory.

The Tigers mauled the Braves in the second game 17-4. The victories left the Tigers and the Pirates one full game behind the Giants.

The Pirates' Terry Vance pitched and hit his way to victory over the Giants. Vance scattered 10 hits in picking up his third win of the campaign.

Vance also smacked a seventh-inning double to tie the score. Lindsey Hudspeth scored the winning run as a bases-loaded walk was issued to Bill McHugh.

Vance and York Stinson's two hits paced the Pirates while Barry Wells, Steve Utley and Mike Schroeder also hit safely.

The Giants were led by Steve Winchester's three hits. Tony Bayless added a pair of safeties while David Hall, Tom Chavis, Joel Smith, Larry Geib, Ken Adams and Mike Stephenson all had hits.

The Tigers' 17-4 victory was paced by Lindy Suiter, Dwaine Musgrove, Mickey McCuiston and Kris Kurz. All had a pair of hits.

Keith Tabers, Lance Hooks, Linus Kodman and winning pitcher Dickie Nesbitt all hit safely.

Fifteen of the Tigers runs were scored in the sixth and seventh innings. The Braves' offense was led by Ricky Melton's two hits. Tim Garland, David Frank, Pat McMillen, Darrell Foster and Paul Robertson all hit safely.

With only three games remaining, the Giants stand 7-5, the Pirates and Tigers 6-6 and the Braves 5-7.

Action resumes Friday night as the Giants meet the Braves and the Pirates square off against the Tigers.

Brazil Underdog In Soccer Cup Play

By COLIN FROST

Associated Press Writer
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Brazil's soccer crown went on the line in the 1974 world cup today, with the three-time champion cast in the improbable role of underdog.

Only a victory against Holland at Dortmund can put the Brazilians in Sunday's World Cup final. A draw lets Holland through.

West Germany and Poland met at Frankfurt to decide the other final place. A draw is enough for West Germany. Only a victory can give the Poles a chance of adding the world championship to their 1972 Olympic crown.

Georg Buschner, a man qualified to judge, reckons West Germany and Holland will be the final contestants.

JUST BARELY—Cary Redden of the Pirates is just nipped at first base as the Giants' Jerry Jones takes the throw for the out. The Pirates rallied for an 8-7 win in the Colt League contest.

Garrett To Retire And Enter Social Work Field

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mike Garrett, the San Diego Chargers' halfback who ranked no. 5 among active players in rushing, is retiring to lead a drug rehabilitation program.

Garrett, 30, a Heisman Trophy winner at Southern California, ended his turbulent career with a retirement notice sent to the National Football League. He sent the notice several weeks ago but asked the club to make no announcement. An NFL official confirmed his retirement Tuesday.

Twice Garrett gained more than 1,000 yards in a season, once with the Kansas City Chiefs, once with the Chargers.

With 5,481 yards to his credit, he ranked 12th on the all-time rushing table.

He was injured for most of the season but he led the Chargers in rushing in 1971 and 1972.

To Defend Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Daryl Freeman of Bristol, Tenn., will defend his championship in the $10,000 Professional Putters Association National Tournament starting Friday.

Freeman, 30, a 15-year pro, posted a record 93-under-par 193 total for 144 holes in romping to the 1973 national crown at Tulsa, Okla.

Weiskopf To Defend British Open Title Despite Fracture

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tom Weiskopf will defend his British Open Golf Championship despite a hairline fracture in the left wrist that hampered his play in the Western Open last week.

"Of course it hurts, but I can play with it," Weiskopf said Tuesday before boarding a plane for an overnight flight to London and the defense of his title in the most venerable of all the world's golf tournaments.

The British Open will be held in St. Annes, England, July 10-13.

"I think I should defend," Weiskopf said. "I want to play. That tournament means a great deal to me. I don't want to withdraw. I feel I owe it to them to play."

"The doctor said it probably won't cause much more damage to play in one more tournament."

He said, however, he is not sure when he will next compete. His next scheduled start after the British Open is in the Canadian Open, in which he also is the defending champion, at Port Credit, Ont., outside of Toronto, July 25-28.

Those two titles climaxed an incredible season that vaulted Weiskopf to the front rank of the game's great stars last year. He won seven tournaments in four countries and collected well over $300,000 in total prize money.

He has not won this year.

He sustained an injury to his left thumb in the Phoenix Open in January and has had problems with the hand and wrist ever since. He has undergone a constant but varying series of treatments, examinations, shots and medication.

There is no indication when the hairline fracture occurred, Weiskopf said. It was disclosed in X rays his physician took Tuesday.

He played with the injury in last week's Western Open in Oak Brook, Ill. It is possible he played with the injury when he finished second in the Masters.

He declined to take refuge in the excuse either at the Masters or at any other time. "It doesn't bother me that much," was his unvarying response to questions.

But he bristled last week after a last-round collapse cost him the title in the Western. "I've told you I have no excuses," he said. "I just played bad. If I wanted to complain about my wrist, I'd be complaining about my wrist."

The Hotel Latham As Sketched By James Harris

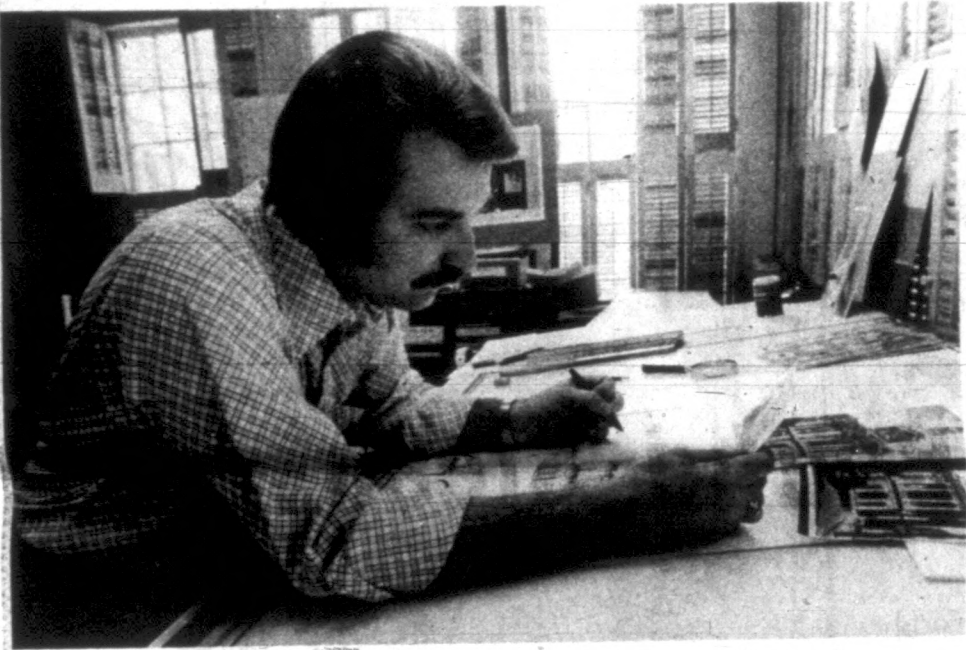

Artist James W. Harris Releases Limited Editions

Hopkinsville.—Robert L. Cave, president of First City Bank and Trust Company, Hopkinsville, announced that the bank recently commissioned Murray artist, James Wayne Harris to sketch twelve selected local historical buildings and landmarks in the Hopkinsville—Christian County Area.

The scenes are: First National Bank 1903-1930, Union Tabernacle 1893-1941, Salubria Spring Hotel 1907-1916, Central Fire Station 1904-1924, Baptist Church of Hopkinsville 1834-1894, Pilot Rock (scene in 1900) Major Ferrell's School for Boys 1873-1903, L & N Passenger Depot 1892, Binns Mill 1855-1950, Hotel Latham 1894-1940, Christian County Court House 1869 and Church Hill Grange Hall 1878.

The original works will hang in First City Bank's new main office building, to be occupied in late 1974. A limited edition of 8 1/2" x 11" prints have been made and are being offered for sale to the public for $8.00 for the packet of twelve. All returns on the prints will be donated by First City Bank to the Hopkinsville Christian County Public Library.

Mr. Harris, the artist, resides at 1320 West Main Street, Murray. He has rapidly been developing state-wide recognition as one of Kentucky's upcoming artists of property.

The Artist At Work On His Sketches

$50 Million To Be Retained By State Turnpike Authority

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Turnpike Authority decided Tuesday to retain nearly $50 million from toll road bond sales in case it is needed to help make payments on those bonds over the next year.

Gov. Wendell Ford, chairman of the authority, suggested such a policy was necessary because the energy crisis might further cut into receipts from the toll roads. Those receipts are used to help pay off the bonds.

Kentucky's toll roads took in $93,000 less over the first five months of this year than for the same period in 1973. The gasoline shortage was the apparent reason for the decline in travel.

Ford said the state had a $48,899,327 balance accumulated from various toll road bond issues, which is invested at interest rates varying from 6.04 to 11.2 per cent. That is about what is needed to pay for principle and interest on toll road bonds for one year, he said.

Ford commented it would be tempting to use the $49 million and its interest to pay debt service on the bonds now, thus freeing road fund money now used for that purpose. That road fund money then could be used to build more roads, he said.

But Ford said he could not do that because the road fund's viability must be maintained.

"Adequate precautions must be taken to overcome drastic reductions in toll receipts should a severe shortage of fuel develop," he said. "And we must prevent any situation which may cause a default on any outstanding bonds."

"At least an amount necessary for one year debt service must be held as a reserve," he added. "These funds are our only reserve and without them a crisis of major proportion could practically bankrupt our transportation system."

State finance and administration commissioner Charles Pryor Jr. said after the meeting that the previous administration of former Gov. Louie B. Nunn had used a similar balance for debt service right away. Road fund money thus freed was used for "a big splash of black-topping" around the state just before election time, he added.

Nunn said by telephone from his Lexington law office later that he did not remember exactly how the funds were handled.

"We tried to utilize our funds to serve the public good," he said. "Maybe we had to use all we had because we didn't have it to spread around like Johnny Appleseed as they (the Ford administration) do."

Nunn said he did not have to do more black-topping at election time.

"We did more black-topping with the money we had in four years than they will do at the rate they're going if they stayed in eight years," Nunn declared. "And they raised the gas tax to get more money ... after Ford promised he wouldn't."

ed had a force equivalent to 57 million tons of TNT and was exploded by the Soviet Union in 1961.

Kissinger said the two governments had in mind a follow-up agreement that would permit explosions for peaceful uses above the 150-kiloton limit. Such an agreement, he said, would call for the presence of observers at the test explosions, most probably from the two powers but possibly from third countries.

The agreement on missile defense systems expands the 1972 treaty which limited the two countries to two such installations each. Only one is in place in each country—the Soviets' protecting Moscow and the American system shielding Minuteman missiles at Grand Forks, N.D. Today Nixon and Brezhnev agreed not to build the second installation.

Kissinger said this "has profound strategic consequences" since multiple warheads were developed primarily to overcome the antiballistic missiles, or ABMs.

Nixon and Brezhnev also advocated that measures be taken to guard against changing the environment for military purposes.

The communique touched on a number of world problems and other negotiations that are going on.

The two leaders said "removal of the danger of war and tension" in the Middle East was of paramount importance and urgency.

Furgerson Speaks To Optimist Club

Murray State University head football coach Bill Furgerson and Dr. Dick Stout of the Big M boosters club were guest speakers at the regular meeting of the Murray Optimist Club Tuesday night at Seven Seas Restaurant.

Furgerson outlined expectations for this year's Racer football team and Stout explained the programs sponsored by the Big M club to support football at Murray State.

Following the meeting, Furgerson toured the club members through the dressing room areas and coach's offices of Roy Stewart Stadium.

Women Nominated For Master Farm Homemaker Award

Eight women have been nominated by various homemakers clubs in Calloway County as candidates for the Master Farm Homemaker Award from the county.

Nominated have been Mrs. Danny Cunningham, Mrs. Ellis Ross Paschall, Mrs. James H. Stahl, Mrs. Charles Dan Bazzell, Mrs. James Dixon, Mrs. Anton Herndon, Mrs. Eugene Nance, and Mrs. Clinton Burchett.

The eight women have been visited in their homes by a committee from the Calloway County Homemakers Council, according to Mrs. Alfred Taylor, county president. The winner will be announced later.

To be eligible for the honor the person must be a bonafide farm homemaker, living on a farm, and deriving half or more of the family income from the farm.

The winner from Calloway County will compete for the honor of area homemaker from which that winner will compete with women from other areas of the state for the Kentucky Master Farm Homemaker award.

The Murray Ledger & Times today started publishing a story on each of the candidates with the stories and pictures by Jo Burken, Community News Editor of the daily newspaper.

"LaRue informed Dean he would not make the delivery without someone's authorization and upon Dean's advice he contacted John N. Mitchell . . .

"LaRue telephoned Mitchell, relaying Dean's conversation, and questioned if he should provide Hunt with $75,000 for attorney's fees. Mitchell responded inasmuch as it was for attorney's fees, if he were LaRue, he would, since previous amounts had been paid for this purpose.

"LaRue will testify that no other authorization was given by any White House personnel for this payment."

Dean, Bittman and Mitchell are to be called next week by St. Clair, although there is some doubt Mitchell will agree to testify.

St. Clair notified the committee Tuesday that a sixth witness he wants, former White House aide H. R. Haldeman, has informed him he will refuse to testify if called.

Haldeman is awaiting trial on

Williams Attending Civitan Convention

Wayne Williams, president, Murray Civitan Club is representing Murray Civitans at the 54th Annual convention of Civitan Clubs International at Boston, Massachusetts June 29 - July 4. During the convention Williams will serve as one of the assistant sergeants at arms under the direction of International sergeant of arms Mike Anderjack of Nashville, Tennessee.

Among issues to receive attention at this convention is the possibility of local clubs granting memberships to females; improving community service projects; strengthening service to youth and ratification of by-laws and constitutional changes.

Williams also preached at the Melrose Church of Christ in Boston on Sunday June 30. This is where Ernie Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Williams, worships in Boston where he is enrolled in Harvard Law School and from which he will graduate in June 1975. Williams will return to Murray on July 4.

Watergate cover-up charges and, through his attorney, told St. Clair he would assert his Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination if called by the Judiciary Committee, a member of the committee reported.

Mitchell is awaiting the same trial and is expected to raise similar objections, but Rodino said as yet no word has been received from him and so he is still on the witness list.

The committee's opening witness Tuesday, Alexander P. Butterfield, a former presidential appointments secretary, provided a detailed explanation of how the Nixon White House operated during the Watergate period.

From the accounts of members, Butterfield described a well-organized, efficiently run system in which Haldeman exercised tight control over everything and reported fully to Nixon.

Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., R-N.Y., said the picture of Nixon that emerged was of "a man of enormous attention to detail—a man whose relaxation and recreation was work."

Butterfield's testimony was intended to provide members with a basis for judging whether the activities of Nixon's aides in connection with Watergate and other matters under investigation should have come to his attention.

Butterfield spoke only in generalities, however, and under a cross-examination by St. Clair that one member called "brilliant," he conceded he lacked knowledge of specific activities.

Getting More For The Money

A British-born aerospace engineer has developed a "better mousetrap" approach to American industry. And he has tacked on a "for less money" label as well.

Laurence A. Davis started what he calls "value engineering" as chief engineer at the British Aircraft Corp. Then he brought the technique to the United States in 1967. Today Davis is manager of Value Engineering Operations, Re-Entry & Environmental Systems Division, General Electric Co., Philadelphia.

But Larry Davis' formula, based on the concept that if two heads are better than one, four or five are even better than two, has been applied far beyond the bounds of the aerospace industry.

Value engineering is the technique of finding more efficient and cheaper ways to do things in industry. That means cutting time and the number of people required to produce an item or achieve a goal, whether it be running a hospital catering system or building a hot gas filter for a rocket.

Davis' success with value engineering at GE plants has attracted so much attention that today he and his staff travel across the land, conducting three-to-five-day seminars or "workshops" for production and management men in a variety of industries.

"We call it the space systems management approach to business and industry," Davis says in an interview. "But what it boils down to is the concentration of several trained minds on a particular problem. The objective is always the same: a better product or management system for less money, so that the industry and the consumer both come out ahead."

Davis thinks he and his team even could go into a toy factory and teach toy makers how to turn out better products for less dollars by applying the value engineering technique. So far, however, he has stayed clear of the toy business.

Value engineering, Davis says, has improved the quality of electronics components for the Minuteman, America's No. 1 intercontinental ballistic missile at the Motorola plant in Scottsdale, Ariz., and Teledyne Telemetry in Los Angeles.

While Davis and his team are farmed out to other industries for a nominal fee, they spend much of their time helping to apply value engineering techniques to GE products. For example, the company's medical systems division at Milwaukee, Wis., asked the Davis team for advice on how to improve production of hospital electronic equipment, such as X-ray and patient-monitoring instruments.

One of the team's present challenges is to improve and refine the diver's backpack — an Aqualing breathing unit. GE has called on the Davis team for value engineering to come up with a better Aqualing for less money.

Recently a GE value engineering team cut the weight of the Huey Cobra helicopter by 10 per cent. And it chopped 30 per cent off the cost of catering for the Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia, where outdated management methods had allowed food costs to climb alarmingly.

Old Ship Returning For Bicentennial

WASHINGTON — After a 10-year struggle to save the bark Kaialani, the historic vessel, last of the American-built square-riggers, will be returned from the Philippines to take part in U.S. Bicentennial celebrations.

In disclosing this, Helen Delich Bentley, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, said the 1,570-ton sailing ship would be used as a floating memorial to "a brilliant era" of American maritime supremacy.

The 75-year-old Kaialani, largest three-masted bark ever built in the United States, has been in the Philippines since the end of World War II. Following the war it was purchased by a Manila shipping firm and — minus its masts — served as a log barge until 1964.

The company then gave it to the National Maritime Historical Society as a gift to the American people.

Despite earlier plans to bring the 225-foot-long Kaialani home, financial difficulties delayed the project and the old ship, which had been battered by typhoons and suffered constant exposure to the elements, appeared destined for the scrap heap.

Mrs. Bentley, however, was instrumental in persuading the government of the Philippines to provide protection for the ship until the historical society could work out a plan for saving it.

"It is essential that we preserve the Kaialani, because this is America's last and only relic of a golden era when the United States ruled the oceans with the most splendid sailing vessels ever built by man," she said.

"For that brief period in history, when American sailing vessels unfurled their canvas, the entire world was dazzled with their splendor, their beauty and their flashing speed."

The historical society's naval architect, Charles Witt-holz, is in Manila preparing to mark and cut up the bark into manageable portions so that it can be shipped back to the United States by the Navy's military sealift command for reconstruction in time to take part in the Bicentennial.

Such a procedure is possible because, unlike its contemporaries, the Kaialani was built of steel. Its decks were covered with heavy pine.

Current plans call for reconstructing the ship at Todd Shipyards, Seattle, Wash., in time for it to become the flagship of Operation Sail.

Scheduled for 1976, Operation Sail will become part of the nation's 200th birthday anniversary jubilee when sailing vessels from all over the world will come to the United States to join the party.

After the Bicentennial, the Kaialani will be berthed at the South Street Seaport Museum, in Lower Manhattan, New York City. It will be maintained there as a living and mobile museum.

The Kaialani was built in Bath, Maine, in 1899 for the Honolulu-San Francisco sugar trade. It was designed to carry 2,400 tons of sugar.

According to Mrs. Bentley, the bark is the last surviving hull from the age of sail, when the United States rose to a position of undisputed supremacy as the world's largest builder and operator of ships.

The ship, which was named after Princess Kaiulani of Hawaii, the heir apparent to the Hawaiian throne after her aunt, Queen Liliuokalani became ruler in 1891, made the last cargo-carrying voyage of an American-built square-rigger.

This voyage began in September, 1941, when every seaworthy vessel capable of carrying cargo was pressed into service.

APARTMENT MODES

Patio enhances interior decor

The patio to your apartment should be more than just a place to get a breath of fresh air or to barbecue steaks. It should be treated as an outdoor extension of your apartment — an area that can enhance the decor of your interior.

Because you are working with so little space on your patio, good design and composition are vital. In your use of plants, for example, think in terms of massing them in a balanced composition rather than scattering them over the patio. By centralizing your foliage, you create a focal point and an arrangement that is pleasing to the eye.

You also can set up an asymmetrical balance consisting of a plant or two grouped with a sculpture.

This composition makes for an interesting and dramatic effect.

If you are a real plant buff, you might consider starting your own plants from seed, or purchasing bedding plants from a nursery. Flowering plants add color to the patio environment; and hanging plants are always a delight. Don't forget, there are many attractive ceramic pots on the market that can enhance the beauty of your plants.

A good way to create unit and a relationship between the indoor and outdoor area is by painting the parapet (the fence that keeps you from falling off the terrace) the same color or a stronger shade of the same color as one of the accent colors in the room directly off the patio. If the living room has a gold carpet, for example, you could paint the parapet a deeper shade of gold.

Lighting is another tool you have at your disposal for enhancing your patio and creating an interesting evening effect.

Low-voltage lighting gives a soft look. This can be achieved with a string of little Christmas lights or clear Italian plastic lights which give the illusion of the sparkle and glow of candles.

Be sure all the lighting you use is waterproof; avoid glaring and blinding lights; and remember that yellow lights are good because they do not attract bugs.

In choosing furniture for your patio, you will find a wide variety of items on the market. You should try to keep your patio furniture compatible with the mood of the interior. Lacy wrought iron outdoor pieces go well with a country French interior; and the new contemporary plastics carry the theme of a modern interior outdoors.

Keep in mind that you must scale your furniture in proportion to the limited size of your patio.

A well-designed patio can make an effective statement and provide an outside setting that is pleasing to the eye.

Alternative education a hit with students and teacher

IDYLLWILD, Calif. — There is much talk these days about alternative ways of teaching the nation's youngsters. Those who talk about such changes should visit the junior high school in session amid 250 acres of pines in this mountain village of 3,000 people about 112 miles east of Los Angeles. It is a unique school with an unusual name — the LIFE school (Living in Free Education) and the students picked the name.

You might find a boy taking his math lesson at the cash register of the village's Alpine Market. You will find on a regular basis a number of the school's 42 students taking their journalism class helping put together the little weekly newspaper.

You surely will find those studying biology out in the woods observing wildlife and the many varieties of flora in this beauty spot at the 5,300-foot level of the San Jacinto Mountains.

And, if you think such off-beat teaching is frivolous you also can observe Dr. Mary Glavin, school director, teaching college level literature to 8th and 9th graders in a classroom at the Idyllwild School of Music and the Arts, a University of California campus usually devoted to summer sessions in the high and performing arts.

"Sure it's working," Mary said in an interview. "There is no formality between students and instructors here — everybody is on a first name basis. The two other teachers at the school are Ellen (O'Toole) and Bob (Davis)."

"It's working because the kids are learning self-discipline. They are learning, and fast, to make their own decisions. The use of the word alternative education is very real here."

"There are all kinds of alternatives, all kinds of ways to learn and the development of autonomy and self-discipline are the bulwarks that have made success possible."

But, how really successful is this experiment, approved last fall by the supervising Hemet Unified School District, and started with the help of federal money? Don't some of the more traditional educators take a dim view of Mary's unorthodox methods? And, aren't some of the Idyllwild parents dubious of sending their youngsters to such a school?

"Here's how successful it is," Mary replied. "Last September we tested the kids. We found that half of them were from one to four points below their grade level in reading and arithmetic. We tested them again in January and found all of them were up one to four grades since September."

"That is success, I think, and it is one of my greatest satisfactions, along with the indications of increased self-discipline."

"As far as the other criticisms are concerned, I couldn't care less. It's what goes on in there that counts (she pointed from her helterskelter "office" to the classroom where serious study was under way). Plenty is going on in there."

There are other unusual aspects of the school. All the students are volunteers. They selected this "home" education rather than the tiring bus ride every day to school in Hemet, 24 miles "down the hill." Also, while there are only three full-time teachers, there are 25 volunteers in many facets of business and professional life. Ernest Maxwell, artist and outdoorsman, conducts realistic walking tours and other environmental sessions. Architects come to rap with the kids; so do lawyers, accountants.

An editor from San Diego conducts full participation sessions on world affairs.

Nobody brings a lunch. Lunch is cooked by the students in the ISOMATA cafeteria as part of home-making courses. After lunch and during recess students can be seen caring for the flowers and the shrubs about the school. There is nothing rigid and somehow this makes volunteering come easy.

But, are the standard academic studies neglected because of too much concentration on "alternatives?"

"Not at all," Mary said. "We teach the 15 required college preparatory subjects, plus seven others. Here's another example. The kids choose their subjects but in the 9th grade no math or science is required. However, the entire 9th grade class chose to take math and science. Also, we are teaching algebra in the 8th grade and usually kids don't get it until the 9th."

"Our kids will leave here prepared completely in college preparatory courses and I'm convinced the voluntary nature of the school helps in this."

Do the students like this departure from formal ways of education? Yes, truancy is practically unheard of. And, so many kids come to the school on weekends that parents must urge them to come home.

"The atmosphere does away with the anxieties that kids have in school," Mary said. "They have no fears and they are proud that they are contributing so much to their own advancement."

U.S.-China ties are cooling

WASHINGTON — The euphoria of the Ping-Pong and panda era in U.S.-Communist China relations is gone but Peking and Washington are continuing "professional exchanges and contacts on trade matters."

Analysts had noticed a definite "cool" period in late 1973 and early 1974 when the Chinese canceled a number of Americans' visits without explanation.

Also, for several weeks during that period, the top diplomats in each other's capitals — Ambassador David Bruce in Peking and Ambassador Huang Chen in Washington — had stayed away from their posts.

But both are now back at their desks — Bruce in the new American compound in the Chinese capital and Chen in the remodeled hotel which the Chinese purchased on Connecticut Avenue in Washington.

Both diplomats hold the rank of ambassador, even though the missions are referred to as "liaison offices" because formal diplomatic ties have not been established.

Peking's precondition for such ties is that the United States break relations with the Republic of (Nationalist) China on Taiwan, something that Washington is not prepared to do at the moment.

In the absence of diplomatic relations between the two countries, the National Council for U.S.-China Trade is the focal point for trade with the most populous nation (there are an estimated 800 million people living in China) on the globe.

The council's president is former Deputy U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Christopher H. Phillips. In June, Phillips told a gathering of 150 American executives that in the first four months of this year trade with China reached $441.2 million, compared with $336.4 million in U.S. trade with the Soviet Union.

The Department of Commerce projects 1974 figures to reach $1.25 billion with China, and $1.27 billion with the Soviet Union.

"In three years," Phillips noted, "we have moved from virtually no trade with China to become the People's Republic of China's third-largest trading partner."

PRC envoy Chen attended the national council's banquet in June in Washington.

High-technology items and agricultural products have comprised the bulk of U.S. shipments to China.

The biggest single deal yet fulfilled was the sale of 10 Boeing 707 jetliners to the Chinese for $125 million. The planes are now being used on China's domestic routes. The first overseas flights are expected to be to Canada, as the two countries — which have formal diplomatic ties — recently signed an aviation agreement.

Aside from their "correct" stance on trade matters, however, the Chinese have been more restrained in their relations with Americans. Numbers of visits by U.S. professional groups have been reduced and Peking seems to be allowing the visits on a more selective basis.

Two recent groups of Americans to tour China were six state governors and a delegation of American archiects. China continues to hold its doors open to most Chinese-Americans who request visas.

It has been nearly a year since any American newsmen were allowed in China and the anticipated exchange of news bureaus has not materialized.

One explanation for this seemingly cool posture on the part of the Chinese was that they were having their own domestic political problems. The "criticize Confucius, criticize Lin Biao" campaign appeared aimed at least partly toward the fast pace of China's new interchange with the West.

Another interpretation was that the Chinese had become wary of Watergate's effect on U.S. foreign policy.

These other elements have been offered as evidence of a cooling in Peking-Washington relations of a year ago.

Premier Chou En-lai, whose name is most closely associated with the opening to the West, has been criticized inside China because the United States has moved too slowly in reducing its troop presence and military links with Taiwan. Chou has been less prominent in mainland official functions lately.

Criticism continues inside China against "corrupting foreign influences." Late in May, the Chinese government asked the United States to withdraw its contingent of Marine guards from the liaison mission in Peking.

China has expressed impatience with U.S. refusal to grant most-favored-nation status which would allow Chinese-made goods to enter the American market without added tariffs. Peking is upset that its consideration for this treatment is linked with similar status for the Soviet Union.

Rubella vaccination fights birth defects

Children from 1 year of age to 12 are prime targets for rubella vaccination because they are the principal transmitters of the virus.

Rubella (German measles) is a mild childhood disease, but if a woman becomes infected early in pregnancy there is risk of severe birth defects and sometimes death to her unborn child.

High gas cost worries many

A study of travel activities shows that many Americans consider the high cost of gasoline to be their biggest problem during the present fuel shortage. Others are bothered by the irregular hours of gas stations, and some by the uncertainty of getting gas and the long lines at gas stations.

The survey of 1,273 persons in various parts of the country was made by Better Homes and Gardens as a major sponsor of the U.S. Travel Data Center study. Of those questioned, 32 per cent said they would stay at home and not take a vacation by car if gas went to $1 a gallon. But 25 per cent said they would still go on vacation even if gas went that high.

If you are ever down in Kaohsiung, the industrial boomtown at the southern tip of Taiwan, try taking the Chukang Express train back to Taipei. The six-hour trip only costs about $10 and you get to see some closeup views of rural China while riding in a comfortable, air-conditioned train. Attractive young hostesses in blue uniforms serve tea.

Icelanders this summer will celebrate the 1,000th anniversary of their island's first settlement at Reykjavik in the year 874 A.D. There will be a special outdoor meeting of the Althing, the world's oldest parliament, at the July 28 festival. On Aug. 3-5 in Reykjavik there will be a torchlight ceremony, parades, concerts, folk dances, and sporting events, including swimming in hot spring-heated pools.

If you're thinking of visiting Vermont, there's a free summer travel kit which would be useful.

It consists of a 48-page color "Tour Guide," a 160-page "Visitors Handbook" and a highway map. The "Tour Guide" lists 22 tours, with an average length of 80 miles. Write State of Vermont, Department 18, Montpelier, Vt. 05602.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, has just taken delivery of its eighth Boeing 747-B. By the end of next year the airline expects to have 11 of the wide-bodied jets on its routes.

The P&O line's Arcadia this summer will sail on eight 14-day cruises to Canada and Alaska from Los Angeles and San Francisco. Prices range from $545 ... P&O liners will make four voyages to New Zealand and Australia via Honolulu and Fiji during 1974-75. Prices start at $635 to Auckland and $750 to Sydney.

BREATHE DUMMY—Grand Rapids, Mich., youngster digs finger into mouth of demonstration dummy as he takes part in Red Cross course in resuscitation.

$20,000 A Year Man Invests Up To $200 Million Each Day

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim McCormick makes about $20,000 a year, but he has the authority to invest $200 million any day for his employer without anyone's permission.

McCormick, 27, is head of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust's money market.

He deals in fixed-income, short-term IOUs or other valuables—such as bonds—issued by banks, corporations and various government bodies.

On any given day, his department will buy or sell $100 million or $200 million worth of these money-market instruments for the nation's ninth largest commercial bank. The bank's entire bond department buys and sells more than $1 billion worth any day.

The same institutions that use the market as buyers also use it to sell IOUs. The market is primarily a place for them to put a large amount of cash to work for them for a short period of time. IOUs have a life span of from one day to one year, but most are for 90 days and less.

For McCormick, the money market "is the only place where the action is." He came to the bank from Miami University of Ohio four years ago.

At Miami, he obtained bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration. For a year, he worked as a trainee in the bank's bond department, then turned to specialization and the money market. Recently he was named a second vice president.

From an airy, well-lit room on the fifth floor of the huge bank building in Chicago's financial district, McCormick directs operations of a staff of about a dozen men and women. While he generally deals in many millions of dollars each day, the size does not disturb him.

Whether he deals in $100 million or $200 million "it's a mere zeroes," he said.

Recycling method found for plastic

A method of reclaiming and recycling a plastic made from petrochemicals and widely used in telephone housings and receivers as well as pipe, automobiles and electrical appliances has been found by the Bell System.

Up to six million pounds of the used plastic (acrylonitrile butadiene styrene) can be reclaimed annually by the Western Electric Co. and reused in communications equipment and elsewhere.

Religious Affiliations Listed

NW YORK (AP) — The people of Utah, Rhode Island and North Dakota are more extensively affiliated with churches than the populations of any other states of the nation.

In contrast, the smallest degree of church affiliation is in the West Coast states of Washington, Oregon and California.

These are among conditions turned up in the first compilation in 20 years of religious statistics by denomination in each region, state and county in the country.

"The West Coast seems to be attracting a non-church sort of population," observed Douglas Johnson, of New York, one of an interdenominational research team that collected the figures.

"This doesn't necessarily mean that the West Coast is irreligious, since many of the new religious movements spring from there," he added. "But it does indicate that the migrations to the West involve some sort of tacit rejection of affiliation with the organized churches."

Heavily Mormon Utah tops the list of states in the proportion of church affiliation, with 83.6 per cent of its people belonging to churches. North Dakota is second at 76.6 per cent and Rhode Island third, with 75.3 per cent.

The scantiest percentage of church affiliation is in Washington State, where only 32.5 per cent belong. Next, in small degree of membership, is Oregon, with 33 per cent, and California, with 33.5 per cent.

Regionally, that same pattern holds true, with the slimmest segment of church-belonging—33.5 per cent—in the Pacific coast region. The heaviest affiliation is in the New England states, where 60.4 per cent belong.

The 237-page statistical report was a joint project of the Glenmary Research Center, a Catholic agency in Washington, D.C., and research sections of the interdenominational National Council of Churches and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synnod. Here is how the 50 states rank in percentage of people belonging to churches:

Utah, 83.6; North Dakota, 76.6; Rhode Island, 75.3; South Dakota, 69.2; Wisconsin, 67.3; Minnesota, 66.3; New Mexico, 63.3; Massachusetts, 63.2; Iowa, 62.4; Nebraska, 60.4; Connecticut, 60.4.

Louisiana, 59.8; Pennsylvania, 59.1; Texas, 56.2; Illinois, 55.2; Oklahoma, 55.1; Kentucky, 54.8; Idaho, 53.6; Kansas, 52.7; South Carolina, 52.4; Montana, 52.3; Vermont, 52.1.

New Jersey, 51.6; Mississippi, 51.1; Missouri, 51.1; North Carolina, 50.7; New Hampshire, 50.3; Tennessee, 50.1; Alabama, 47.8; Wyoming, 47.6; Arizona and Ohio, 47.4; New York, 47; Georgia, 46.2; Michigan, 45.9; Arkansas, 45.8.

Maine, 44.8; Indiana, 44.6; Virginia, 43.3; Delaware, 43.2; Maryland, 42.8; Colorado, 41.5; Florida, 41.2; West Virginia, 40.5; Hawaii, 37.9; Nevada, 37.8; Alaska, 37; California, 33.5; Oregon, 33; Washington, 32.5.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1974

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Start the day with verve and at a steady pace. Investigate the validity of new offerings. Proper restraint in all matters advised.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

You will now be in competition with top-flight people and their activities. You can hold your own, advance some.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

You may have an unusual opportunity to advance your interests immediately — one which could have an important bearing on your future as well. Be ready to accept.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

This is no time for dwelling on old errors, except to recognize that they must not be repeated. On with your present program — especially if it's been built on a solid basis.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Do not lower your dignity by using strong-arm or other forceful measures to achieve success. You will accomplish more through tact and graciousness.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

New offerings may attract you, but do not give up old projects of value. In those fields in which you are trained and for which you have a liking you may well speed ahead now.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Ride along with propitious influences now. Acquaint yourself with new trends and take measures as occasion demands.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)

With your innate enthusiasm and competence, you should be able to reap a fine harvest now. Some good opportunities for advancing your interests in the offing.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You always enjoy a challenge, and you may meet some interesting ones now. Tackle with vigor, but don't undertake enterprises you would not usually consider.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Fine gains for like efforts. However, be on the lookout for "gimmicks" that could trip you, persons who would undermine your self-confidence by belittling your efforts.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Auspicious aspects favor partnerships, promise cooperation in putting over new deals and projects. Don't procrastinate.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

A splendid configuration of your planets encourages your fine talents and know-how. This is a day in which to give your finest performance, to stress good management.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly conventional individual, but imaginative and versatile; also, cautious, conservative and intuitive. Your qualities are, in general, constructive, and it's rare indeed to find you going to extremes or, once having started a project, to waste energies by going off on unprofitable tangents. Your love of family and country are outstanding, and you find no service to either burdensome. Your talents are suited to many fields and, properly educated, of course, you could succeed in almost any field of your choice. Your best spots, however, would be in the areas of teaching, science (especially medicine), finance and real estate; in the arts: painting, sculpting, writing, music and interior decoration. Try to overcome a tendency to be dictatorial with those under your supervision. Birthdate of Calvin Coolidge, 30th Pres., U.S.A.; Stephen Foster, Amer. song writer; Mitch Miller, musician, TV personality.

RULES OF THE ROAD

Because early surveys indicate that more recreational boating will take place on Kentucky's waterways during the 1974 boating season than ever before, the state Division of Water Enforcement advises boaters to pay particular attention to others on the water. As in highway driving, common sense and common courtesy will go a long way toward preventing accidents.

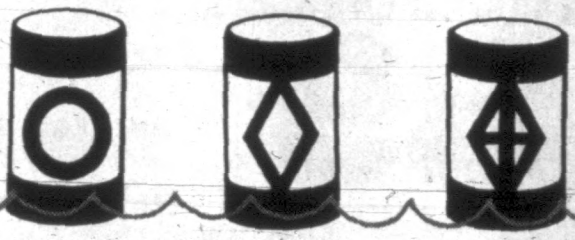

When two boats are meeting head on, each boat should keep to the right.

When you are overtaking or passing another boat, the boat being passed has the right of way. Keep clear as illustrated below.

UNDERSTAND AND HEED THESE BUOYS

They are the road signs of the waterways and have the same significance as highway road signs. A circle signifies control or zoning; vessels operate in areas designated by this buoy under restrictions spelled out on the buoy. Open diamond shape indicates danger. A diamond with a cross inside indicates a prohibited area; vessels are excluded from areas marked by such buoys.

BANK BLOOD BEFORE SURGERY
NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — People who are anticipating surgery are urged to bank a pint or more of their own blood for possible use later.

"The safest blood for a patient to receive is his own," says Dr. Arthur Sawitsky, chief of hematology at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center here. "Though all blood used for transfusion at the Medical Center is analyzed for sterility, safety and patient compatibility, there still remains the possibility of undetectable infection or of individual sensitivity to blood group or tissue type antigens."

"There need be no fear of being weakened," says Dr. Sawitsky. During the three weeks before surgery, a patient may contribute one or more units of his own blood for blood bank storage, and go to the operating room with fully restored blood value.

'Cool John' One Of Last Of The Ice Men

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Jefferson is one businessman who welcomes a freeze and fears a thaw. And it's only by careful balancing that he keeps his cool.

They call him "Cool John."

He's the iceman.

For 35 years, Cool John Jefferson has pedaled a bicycle through the streets of downtown Louisville, balancing loads of up to 300 pounds in the basket.

Some days he's up to his ears in business—literally. And about a month ago, the 64-year-old Jefferson, unable to see over a 250-pound load, collided with a utility pole and emerged with a busted eye.

That's an occupational hazard, he says.

When he first entered the ice business, Jefferson converted old cars into trucks for ice delivery, but he never learned to drive himself.

"I had to get winos to drive for me, but they kept busting up the trucks," he said.

So Jefferson hopped a bicycle and learned to balance the heavy loads.

Once part of a booming business, Cool John now is one of only about a dozen persons who deliver ice on routes here, and the pedaling figure often draws jeers. Kids yell, "Hey, Cool Daddy" as he bicycles through the streets.

And when a customer falls through and business isn't so hot, the weather sometimes is, and Cool John can watch his margin of profit melt away.

"I put one 50-pound block in my refrigerator one night," he said. "It was down to 25 pounds by morning."

When two boats are intersecting (or crossing as above), the boat on the right has the right of way. Slow down and permit him to pass.
