Army is testing spring wheels in tire search

Army is Testing Spring Wheels In Tire Search

The military department is testing spring wheels for the first time in its history. The department has purchased 1,000 sets of spring wheels for use in its vehicles and trucks. The test will be conducted at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, where the wheels will be subjected to a series of tests to determine their effectiveness.

The wheels are designed to absorb shocks and vibrations, thereby improving the performance of the vehicles. They are made of a special alloy that is highly resistant to wear and tear.

The military department is interested in the performance of the wheels because they could potentially improve the comfort of soldiers and reduce the risk of accidents. The department is also interested in reducing the weight of the vehicles, which could potentially improve their fuel efficiency.

The testing will be conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Army Research Laboratory, which is responsible for developing and testing new technologies for the military. The results of the test will be used to inform future purchases of spring wheels.

It is not known when the test will be completed, but the military department is committed to using the results to improve the performance of its vehicles and trucks.
The most valuable single piece of news in the world today is in Japan, as Mr. Snow, author of "Red Star Over China," was about to discover. The Japs have been chasing Mr. Snow through a large part of Asia, and he does not make the mistake of seeing things from an American viewpoint. His latest book, "Red Star Over China," is in the hands of the Post before Rommel invaded Egypt. He recognizes the over-all importance of this area.

Warfare will be conducted in regard to the all-important oil fields of Iraq, Iran and the Caucasus. Although Mr. Snow sent his cable to the Post before Rommel invaded Egypt, he recognizes the over-all importance of this area.

If the United Nations lose this area, they will be Compelled to depend for military supplies be delivered to, as a bastion against the Japanese. Both aims are now accomplished.

Still more important, this area is the site of a great new base built by Americans. It is a close call at best. WASHINGTON — Elmer Davis, the director of the new Office of War Information, promised the public that bad news would be withheld "just because it is bad news." Davis, radio reporters and public relations men from the federal government have been discussing their contents with him. Jefferson R. Rankin (D. Okla.), said he was opposed to the war, and he went on the record as being opposed to the war.

The April 13, 1942, edition of the Fulton Daily Leader contains an advertisement for BUCK'S BILLIARD PARLOR with the words "HAPPY HOUR DUTY FREE." It also contains an advertisement for "WAR DAMAGE COVERAGE," which states that the War Damage Corporation has received a favorable report on its work from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The article also contains an advertisement for "LOWE'S CAFE," which is described as "Fulton's Most Popular Restaurant."
