Resignation Pressure Grows In Both Houses

WASHINGTON (AP) — One by one they took their stand on the impeachment of President Nixon, and at the end of the day it was clear the vote in the House will be a mere formality.

GOP Senators May Send Delegation To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Senate Republicans are considering whether to send a delegation to President Nixon with word that a majority of GOP senators wants him to resign and that chances of conviction in an impeachment trial are growing.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott told reporters late Tuesday afternoon the GOP leadership will meet again today "to discuss the desirability and means of conveying to the President" views expressed earlier in the day at a party luncheon.

After that luncheon, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., told reporters "It is my guess that the majority sentiment among Republican senators is that he should retire from office."

The Texas Republican, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said that there was "great concern that the President does not perhaps comprehend the great hazard he faces in coming to trial in the Senate."

Other GOP sources said the majority favoring resignation was overwhelming and that "there was no expression of support" for Nixon at the meeting, a regular Tuesday session many of them calling for Nixon's resignation as well.

The list included all 10 Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee who had voted against the articles of impeachment that will be brought to the House floor Aug. 19.

Their statements, issued in response to Nixon's admission that he withheld evidence linking him to the Watergate cover-up, left no doubt Tuesday that Nixon faces a Senate trial and possible removal from office if he does not resign.

And, despite repeated statements from the White House that Nixon will not resign, the belief persists on Capitol Hill that it remains a possibility, especially if there is a heavy House vote for impeachment.

Rhodes said at a news conference he felt Nixon would resign whenever he felt he was unable to govern. Asked to evaluate Nixon's ability to govern now, Rhodes said, "I would say it has been sadly impaired."

The hopelessness of Nixon's situation in the House was underscored by Rhodes' response to a question as to whether there was anything the President could do to save himself.

"I suppose there might be, but right now I couldn't say. I'm at a loss to know," he said.

Rhodes did not deny at the news conference a comment by Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., that he had told Rhodes over the weekend the President would release new and damaging material on Monday. The Los Angeles Times reported in today's edition that Wiggins had been given a sneak preview Friday of the latest Nixon transcript at a meeting with Nixon aide Alexander M. Haig Jr. and the President's chief impeachment lawyer, James D. St. Clair.

Meanwhile, administration and congressional sources said the disclosures by Nixon had been prompted in part by St. Clair, who had learned last week that Nixon had withheld important evidence from him. The sources said St. Clair told Nixon "You make a statement or I will," after which the decision was made to release the material.

The surge in support for impeachment was reflected in the House on Tuesday.

Ford And Haig Meet Today White House Sources Acknowledge That Resignation 'A Possibility'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's closest aide, White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., held a private, hour-long meeting with Vice President Gerald R. Ford today as demands mounted for Nixon to resign.

The meeting in Ford's office was requested by Haig, said Ford's press secretary, Paul Millich.

Millich said the two men "exchanged views on the current situation" but refused to elaborate.

Earlier, White House sources acknowledged that a presidential resignation remains a possibility.

"Sure it is — all options are open," said one source.

Another agreed, saying that despite Nixon's vow to his cabinet Tuesday that he has no intention of resigning "the situation is fluid. We don't know what is going to happen."

The sources' comments in interviews reflected the clearly perceptible mood of uncertainty cloaking the corridors and cubby holes where the President's men work.

One after another, Nixon aides responded with a sigh or a shrug of their shoulders when asked what could or would happen next.

Some said they thought the wave of resignation and impeachment demands would subside. Others weren't too sure and privately were glum about the President's chances of clinging to the nation's highest office.

Presidential spokesmen did little to dispell the mood of uncertainty when they stopped short of ruling out a possible Nixon resignation.

Resignation demands mounted Tuesday, especially among congressional Republicans in the mushrooming reaction to Nixon's dual, damaging disclosures Monday that he tried two years ago to thwart a major phase of the FBI's Watergate investigation, and that he withheld this information from Congress and his own lawyer.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren skirted direct answers to reporters who

Locker Plant To Be Emptied After Coil Damaged In Cooler

This area's last frozen food locker is having problems keeping its cool.

Gibson's Frozen Food Locker is asking its customers to come and get their products out of the giant cooler, before the food spoils, since a broken coil has left the refrigerator limping to maintain a zero-degree temperature.

Mrs. Dan Hutson, owner of the locker, said about 60,000 pounds of products are contained in the 320 lockers, with an estimated value of $20,000 to $25,000.

A coil in the refrigeration unit has been damaged and is leaking ammonia fumes. Ammonia is piped through the coils to act as a refrigerant.

Although there is no danger from the fumes, the products will spoil within a matter of days if they are not moved to a cooler storage.

If the coil cannot be repaired locally, it will be mid-November before parts will be available to put it back into operating order, Mrs. Hutson said that customers who have products in the locker now will have priority when the cooler is opened up again in November.

Since this is the last of a rapidly-disappearing business, it is extremely difficult to get parts for repairs. Most refrigeration systems have gone to freon as a refrigerant, for smaller coolers that don't require as much. Ammonia was popular a few years ago for the large coolers, because it was not as expensive or hard to get as freon.

Mrs. Hutson's customers are from as far away as Hopkinsville and Cape Girardeau, and must be contacted as soon as possible to move their stores.

The Murray student entered the contest last spring while a first grade student of Mrs. Mary Lassiter at Robertson Elementary School and has just been notified by the company of her being a winner. She has one sister, Mae, who will be in the fifth grade.

Zoning New Annexation Is Discussed

The Murray Planning Commission denied approval of a request for rezoning a lot on N. 16th St. and held a work session to discuss initial zoning of over 1,100 acres that was recently annexed into the City of Murray at a special meeting held at City Hall Tuesday night.

The zoning change, from residential (R-4) to business (B-2) had been requested by Rafe Jones, Jr., on a lot on the southwest corner of 16th and Olive streets.

Dr. Thomas Hogancamp, vice-president for administration and finance at Murray State University and a former chairman of the planning commission, said that the university was against the rezoning because "we feel it would not enhance the community or the university to rezone this area to business."

The property in question has been operated as a parking lot in the past, which is prohibited in an R-4 zoned district. Jones had requested the zoning change to enable the parking lot operation to continue.

City Planner Richard Nash presented preliminary suggestions for the establishment of zoning districts in the newly annexed area on the north side of the city. Nash gave a lengthy explanation of several maps he had prepared to illustrate the present use of the land in the area and his suggestions for zoning districts.

Tentative plans for zoning districts in the area classify much of the property as agriculture or non-urban use. A public hearing on the zoning proposal will be scheduled in September according to planning commission chairman, Bob Billington.

Nash pointed out that preliminary plans do not suggest any commercial zoning along N. 16th St. due to the present inadequacy of the street to handle additional traffic. This suggestion was questioned by some citizens present and will be looked into further.

Billington said that the commission appreciated the attitude of those interested in establishing the proper zoning for the area and welcomed community-wide input on the zoning proposals.

Nash announced that copies of the city zoning regulations were available to the public. He said that anyone desiring a copy could obtain it at his office at a cost of $1.

Jacobsen Pleads Guilty To Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas lawyer Jake Jacobsen today pleaded guilty to a charge of bribing his one-time friend John B. Connally with $10,000.

In return, the Watergate special prosecution force agreed to drop the government's seven-count indictment against Jacobsen in an unrelated savings and loan scandal in San Angelo, Tex., and to bring no further charges against Jacobsen concerning matters already uncovered by the prosecutors.

Jacobsen was indicted last week at the same time Connally was named in a five-count indictment charging bribery, perjury and a conspiracy to obstruct justice. Connally is scheduled to enter his plea Friday and has said he is innocent.

Jacobsen promised prosecutors to testify truthfully at a trial if called as a witness. He is expected to be the Watergate prosecutor's star witness at the anticipated trial of Connally, a former secretary of the Treasury and one-time governor of Texas.

Jacobsen said, in pleading before U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr., that he had given Connally two $5,000 payments on behalf of his client, Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's largest dairy cooperative.

The money allegedly was given to Connally in return for his help in persuading President Nixon to raise federal milk price supports in March 1971.

Jacobsen was once a close aide to the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Abby explains a "miracle"

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your advice works miracles. On June 2, the Philadelphia Bulletin ran the following item, datelined Toronto, Canada:

"The tax department received a letter along with a tax return recently.

"I haven't been able to sleep since cheating on my income tax," the letter read. "Am enclosing my check for $500. If still unable to sleep, will mail you the balance."

The following item appeared on the same day in the DEAR ABBY column in the Washington (D.C.) Star-News: "DEAR ABBY: I haven't been able to sleep very well. You see, I did a little creative bookkeeping on my income tax by way of 'deductions.' Any suggestions?"

INSOMNIAC

"DEAR IN: Send the Internal Revenue Service a check for $500. And if you still can't sleep, send them the balance."

Now, that's what I call action!

A.C. ROBIDOUX, DOVER, DEL.

DEAR A.C.: Not really. The letter in my column was scheduled for release on March 22nd. And that's when it ran in Toronto.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a big mouth. I've heard that he has been blabbing all around the warehouse where he works all kinds of personal things about his sex life.

This is very embarrassing to me because I know all the guys who work there, and I can hardly look them in the eye knowing they know so much about me.

This is enough to make me want to pack up and leave him. Am I wrong?

STELLA

DEAR STELLA: Don't pack until you're sure he was talking about you.

DEAR ABBY: My wife of 20 years has never shown me much affection.

You may say: "All right, some people just aren't the affectionate type," but let me lay this on you. When she and her brother get together, you never saw so much hugging, kissing and pawing in your life. They can't keep their hands off each other.

The other night they both sat squeezed together in one little loveseat, and it was obvious that they had more than a sister-brother relationship going.

I didn't make an issue of it because I didn't know how to. This is something completely outside my experience. Maybe divorce is the answer, but I don't want that.

Please publish this with a workable solution as there must be other readers of your column with the same problem.

PUZZLED IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR PUZZLED: Don't jump to any conclusions. You could be wrong, and you probably are. Many siblings are overtly affectionate to each other, and they have nothing going except brotherly and sisterly love. Since your wife obviously is capable of responding to affection, initiate some, and see what happens.

CONFIDENTIAL TO KAY: Take your time, and get to know him better. When his true character "crops out," you may witness a crop failure.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Reeder-Elkins Vows Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd Elkins

The marriage of Miss Tonya Reeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reeder, and Robert Boyd Elkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Elkins, was solemnized in a summer ceremony at the Goshen United Methodist Church.

Rev. William C. Hart officiated at the double ring ceremony read at six p.m. on Saturday, July 20.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Cheryl Burken, soloist, and Miss Carolyn Venable, organist. Selections were "O Perfect Love," "Ever Gentle Eyer Sweet," and the traditional wedding march.

The ceremony was performed before an arch with columns on each side with baskets of yellow daisies and baby's breath. Two white tapers were used at the altar above the kneeling pad where the couple knelt for The Lord's Prayer.

Bride's Dress The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, was lovely in a floor length dress of white scalloped eyelet, designed with fitted bodice and wide shaped inset midriff. The scooped neckline was accented with a wide self ruffle. The slightly flared gathered skirt was accented with a wide ruffle at the hemline.

She wore a large white picture hat with white eyelet lace and long white streamers. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, English ivy, and baby's breath.

Miss Melissa Miller was her maid of honor. She wore an identical floor length dress of yellow batiste and wore a yellow picture hat accented with yellow bow and streamers. She carried a French hand bouquet of yellow daisies, English ivy, and baby's breath with yellow streamers tied in love knots.

Jeffrey Reeder served as best man. The candles were lighted by Phillip Elkins and Michael Miller who also served as ushers.

Miss Donna Miller registered the guests as they entered the church.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Reeder, wore a floor length blue knit dress. Mrs. Elkins, mother of the groom, wore a gold jersey floor length dress. Both had corsages of white gladiolus.

Reception Following the ceremony the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ted Lawson, was hostess for the reception held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with white antique satin overlaid with yellow net and net bows accenting the corners. Centering the table was a beautiful arrangement of yellow daisies and mums in a silver vase flanked by yellow tapers.

The wedding cake, designed and made especially for the couple by Mrs. William Elkins, was iced in white and decorated with yellow rosebuds and topped by a bride and groom statuette. Punch and mints were in the same colors.

Miss Connie Lawson and Mrs. Coleman Reeder presided at the bride's table.

Rice bags were given to the guests by Miss Donna Elkins, Miss Angela Reeder, and Mrs. Laurie Reeder.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Elkins are residing at their home on Kirksey Route One.

Rehearsal Dinner The groom's parents entertained with a lovely buffet dinner at their home before the rehearsal.

COUNT KILOWATTS WHEN cooking is one of the biggest energy users in the home, and with the energy shortage and increased electric rates, homemakers may want to do realistic conserving. Your cooking appliances can be used at a savings if you'll organize their use. A small or very specialized cooking job can be adequately done with a small appliance. For example, popcorn poppers are more efficient than heating up a heavy pan and popping corn on the range. A toaster for two slices of toast costs only one third as much as using an oven. — Mrs. Barletta Wratner, 209 Maple St., Murray.

SUGGESTIONS FOR KEEPING GOOD MENTAL HEALTH 1. Keep physically healthy. 2. Have good mental habits by keeping a positive approach to living. 3. Associate with people who have good mental health. 4. Balance life with music, art, physical recreation, hobbies and a variety of interests. 5. Have an abiding faith in yourself, in others and in God. — Mrs. Sue Fraser, Bardwell.

It isn't over-emphasizing to speak of "the overwhelming importance of fit." More so in America than anywhere else, the people who make our clothes have added more categories of sizes, along with more kinds of clothes.

Generally, misses sizes up to 20 now start with six instead of eight, and junior sizes (the uneven numbers) start with three instead of seven. Petite sizes were originally scaled for figures shorter than five feet, three inches. Today, we think of this category as for those under five feet, five inches.

Half sizes are for those women who formerly wore short-waisted junior sizes or petite sizes, but whose figures have changed in width.

Women's sizes are for figures five feet, five inches and up, but less slim than misses figures. It's never enough to know that red tickets mean size 10 or green, size 12. No one designer's clothes are sized exactly like another. Keep in mind about ready-to-wear that almost every dress needs some slight alteration for your figure. A coat, on the contrary, should need nothing more than shortening or lengthening the hem.

Fit and "I should have worn my girdle" aren't one and the same thing. The way sleeves are set in at the shoulder and under the arms, the way a neckline sets, the way a dress curves to your figure or falls straight, and the way it moves with you are important points to check for fit. — Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson, Hickman.

Did you know that according to the United States Government Health authorities food poisoning ranks second only to the common cold as the most frequent cause of illness in this country? Food left at room temperature is an ideal growing place for bacteria infection or intoxication. Keep hot foods (above 120 degrees F.) and cold foods cold (below 40 degrees F.). — Mrs. Patricia Curtsinger, Benton, Ky.

How about some good old fashioned Apple Butter? Here's the recipe:

APPLE BUTTER
4½ lbs. apples
2 quarts water
1 quart apple cider
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground allspice
1 teaspoon ground cloves
Wash and slice apples. Place in 5-quart Dutch oven. Pour water over apples; cover. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer until apples are soft, about 20 minutes. Press apples through sieve. Mix apple pulp and remaining ingredients in 5-quart Dutch oven. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer uncovered, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens, about 2½ hours. Follow Standard canning procedures, leave ½ inch headspace. Process at simmering temperature (180 to 185 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. — Mrs. Maxine Griffin, Federal Building, Clinton.

Miss Cindy Mills, bride-elect of Dale Southard, was honored with a lovely bridal tea held at the Community Room of the Murray Federal Savings and Loan Building on Monday, July 22.

The gracious hostesses for the event were Mrs. Janis Hicks, Mrs. Joyce Kay Tidwell, and Mrs. Annette Smith.

For the pre-nuptial event the honoree chose to wear a long sky blue halter dress and was presented a corsage of yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Ruth Mills, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. Christine Southard, mother of the groom-elect, were also presented with yellow and white daisy corsages.

Approximately fifty-five persons were present or sent gifts.

Salads Solve Summer Menu Problems When Protein-Rich Meat Is Included

When warm weather wilts your enthusiasm for cooking and appetites request lighter meals, let a sprightly salad star as the supper entree. Remember, however, that no matter what the temperature, a balanced diet is needed to maintain energy and good health. The addition of cooked meat boosts salad sustenance as well as contributing high quality protein, vitamins and minerals.

Compatible combinations of meat, fruits and vegetables, such as the following, are especially tempting in the sultry days of summer, says Reba Staggs, National Live Stock & Meat Board home economist.

Tropical Ham Salad
1 to 1½ pounds cooked smoked ham, cut in julienne strips
1 can (13½ ounces) pineapple chunks
½ medium cantaloupe, cubed
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg yolk, beaten
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 avocado, sliced
1 banana, sliced
¼ cup toasted slivered almonds

Drain pineapple chunks, reserving juice; combine with cantaloupe and chili. Blend sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; stir in ¼ cup reserved pineapple juice, lemon juice and egg yolk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened; cook 2 minutes longer. Fold in sour cream and chill. Dip avocado and banana slices in remaining pineapple juice and combine with ham strips, pineapple, cantaloupe and almonds. Lightly stir in chilled dressing. 6 to 8 servings.

Chef's Meat Salad
2 cups julienne strips cooked beef, pork or lamb
1 can (16 ounces) cut green beans, drained
1 cup sliced celery
2 medium tomatoes, cut in eighths
¾ cup French dressing
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon garlic salt
2 slices cooked bacon, crumbled

Combine meat, green beans celery and tomatoes. Combine French dressing, mustard, garlic salt and bacon. Pour over salad ingredients and toss lightly. Chill. 4 servings.

Summer Sausage Salad
1 pound summer sausage, cut in wedges
1 medium head lettuce, broken into pieces
1 medium cucumber, pared and sliced
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup buttermilk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon dill seed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine meat, lettuce and cucumber. Chill. Mix mayonnaise, buttermilk, lemon juice, dill seed, salt and pepper. Just before serving, pour dressing over salad mixture and toss lightly. 6 to 8 servings.

More Alice In Wonderland

From the Rocky Mount (N. C.) Telegram

Do you ever wonder where your tax money goes? Occasionally we ask that question, especially where some exotic project, such as studying the mating habits of the tse-tse fly in the Congo, is found to be financed by U. S. funds.

That isn't as facetious as it might sound. The General Accounting Office has issued a report to a number of congressmen who had demanded an explanation for projects disclosed in a March, 1974, article by James J. Davidson, executive director of the National Taxpayers Union.

In the report is an account of a project devoted to finding out how Australian aborigines smell when they sweat.

To learn how they smell cost you, as a taxpayer, $70,000. The report didn't describe how the sweat smells. Perhaps that's classified information, and you, as an ordinary taxpayer, are not entitled to know.

Anyway, that was one of the items for which tax funds were wasted by various quixotic projects listed by the General Accounting Office.

Want to learn more? Well, how about $20,000 spent to study blood groups of Polish pigs?

Or the $29,361 for an odor-measuring machine purchased for Turkey under an Agriculture Department research project.

And then there is the $15,000 study of lizards in Yugoslavia, a $6,000 study of frogs in Poland and a $35,000 look at wild boars in Pakistan.

The General Accounting Office is a congressional watchdog agency. It studied 35 projects cited by Davidson, confirmed the existence of most and concluded that none were authorized specifically by Congress.

GAO did not evaluate the merits of the projects, and we don't blame it for not trying.

What we are wondering, though, as did Rep. Robert Daniel of Virginia: Why we could not have prevailed upon Turkey to lend the Australians the odor-measuring machine?

Why Not?

Isn't It The Truth

By Carl Riblet Jr.

The statistics say that bachelor men and women are laggards who sleep later of a morning than do married people. Of course, they do! The reason is that bachelors can stumble off late to work without first having to exchange opinions with somebody else about the sunrise, last night's argument or burnt toast.

Someday your garbage man may pay you for the privilege of carting away your garbage, according to predictions being made in various circles.

If you'd take a close look at what you are about to throw away, you might see why. Even a never-worn anymore class ring that cost only $18 to $25 may contain a half-ounce of 10-karat alloy worth $7, recycling experts advise.

Ultimately towns, no doubt, will take over the garbage sorting problem, turning wastes into profit for the taxpayers' benefit.

Fair Melon Booth Scored

Dear Editor:

A matter came to our attention during the recent County Fair sponsored by the Murray Jaycees which distressed us considerably. Approximately one month prior to the fair our organization called Mr. Van Waugh, president of the Jaycees, to ask whether or not we could sponsor a watermelon booth at the fair. A portion of the money we earned at the booth was to be donated to the Speech and Hearing clinic at Murray State University.

We proceeded to give him all the details and he assured us that he thought it was a good idea and he would check with the Fair board. He then called us back to inform us that the Jaycees had signed a contract with the carnival which included a clause stating that no new concessions were permissible. The clause covers both edible and non-edible items.

This was acceptable, although we question the wisdom of restricting the fair to the same number and same types of booths each year. When the fair opened you can imagine our consternation when we discovered that the Jaycees were running a watermelon booth. This booth was identical to the project we had described to Mr. Waugh. Perhaps we would have been more mollified if the Jaycees had had the courtesy to inform us that they were allowed to introduce a new concession and felt that the watermelon booth would be a success. However, there was no mention of their proposed plan. Perhaps by some strange coincidence this erstwhile group had the same idea. Had this been the case, however, surely Mr. Waugh would have so stated during our initial conversation with him.

In the past it has been our experience that the civic groups of Murray worked in close cooperation. We consider it neither cooperation nor courtesy on the part of this group of young men to bar other groups from participating in the Fair while borrowing their ideas to further Jaycee interests.

In addition their action prevented money from being donated to the Speech and Hearing clinic at the University which will benefit children and adults throughout Calloway County.

Sincerely,

PREP for Life

If we don't want kids to grow up to be losers, we have to make sure they enjoy the experience of success in their formative years.

In schools, the under-achieving student may have entered a vicious circle of failure from which he isn't likely to escape without help. His academic and behavioral problems keep him in trouble with school officials. He never gets motivated by the usual rewards found within the school system.

The Institute for Behavioral Research in Silver Spring, Maryland, is testing a work-study program for junior high school students who seem to have slipped into such a vicious circle. It is called PREP, which means Preparation Through Responsive Educational Programs.

PREP is based on the assumption that the replacement of failure with successful learning experiences will have useful and rewarding ramifications for the child in particular and for society in general.

The program involves three elements: (1) math and English work units which are programmed to meet the individual needs of the students; (2) interpersonal skills classes where students learn to develop the behavioral skills needed to succeed in school, at home, and in the community; and (3) a counseling program for the parents.

Specialized teachers following scientifically based behavior management principles make the program work.

PREP students receive points for completed work units and for productive, cooperative behavior. They lose points for inappropriate behavior such as sleeping, damaging equipment, or missing classes. The points are used to get "time out" in a nearby lounge, time to play games, and other desired rewards.

Various students indicate that young people who experience problems and failure in school, who have difficulties in getting along with their parents, and who also have problems functioning in the community, are more likely to become involved with the juvenile justice system.

The Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) is supporting the program in the interest of developing preventive mental health measures. Helping schools to help children develop effective academic, social, and interpersonal skills is helping to avoid serious future problems of a mental health nature.

NIMH is the mental health agency in the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Programs such as PREP can help train youngsters out of the habit of failure and increase their chances for building a successful life.

Wheels Hopping To Get Rolling With Victory

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Revenge is always a nice incentive for a football team, which means Detroit's Wheels should have plenty of it going for them tonight.

"We need a victory badly," Coach Danny Boisture says of his Wheels, "and it might as well be Birmingham."

The Wheels, still smarting from their 21-18 loss to the Americans a week ago, are seeking revenge — as well as their first World Football League victory — in a rematch in Birmingham tonight.

In other WFL games tonight, Houston is at Portland, Memphis goes to Philadelphia, New York visits Southern California and Florida is at Chicago. The Hawaiians take on the Sharks in Jacksonville Thursday night.

Birmingham, one of only two undefeated teams in the new league, will be after its fifth victory with the status of quarterback George Mira still in doubt ... not that his absence has hurt much.

Two weeks ago, rookie quarterback Matthew Reed replaced the injured Mira and helped bomb Memphis into submission 38-33. Last week in Detroit, Reed swept in for a nine-yard touchdown run with 2:12 to play, giving the Americans an 18-14 victory. He'll probably start again, although Mira is expected to be able to play if needed.

The Storm is also winless while the Texans, with a rugged defense that leads the league, have split their four games.

But it's Houston Coach Jim Garrett who's doing the moaning.

Mike Taliaferro, a 10-year veteran of the National Football League, was the starting quarterback in a season-opening loss to Chicago. He was injured early in the game. Don Trull started in the Texans' second game, but he suffered a shoulder injury and another veteran, Harry Theofilides, took over.

Then Theofilides was hurt in the club's third game and rookie David Mays directed last week's 7-6 victory over Florida.

Taliaferro is expected to start against the Storm. Trull and Theofilides still have sore arms.

Rookie Ken Johnson will be at quarterback for Portland, and he's just off the injury list. He broke a finger on his throwing hand prior to the Storm's season opener a month ago.

Philadelphia's Bell must contend with running stars John Harvey and J.J. Jennings of Memphis, Nos. 2 and 3 in WFL rushing and the main reason the Southmen have the No. 1 offense with an average of 375.5 yards a game.

The Stars dropped their first two games but since then have won two with some pretty fancy footwork of their own. New York is No. 2 in WFL offense with Bob Gladieux, Andy Huff and even quarterback Tom Sherman handling the rushing chores. It should be primarily a ground-oriented game featuring that trio and Kermit Johnson of the Sun.

The unbeaten Fire, sharing the Central Division lead with Birmingham, has averaged 31 points a game behind the passing of Virgil Carter. But the Blazers, 3-1 and first in the East, have allowed only 7.8 points a game.

Wide receiver Jim Scott is Carter's main target. He leads the WFL with 23 receptions for 283 yards while Mark Kellar is No. 1 in WFL scoring with 57 points.

Orantes: 'It's Not Where You Are Seeded. . .Whether You Win'

By JOHN SHURR
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Defending U.S. Clay Court champion Manuel Orantes of Spain has a new twist on an old saying that goes: "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game."

Moments after he outclassed Humphrey Hise of Venezuela on Tuesday, 6-2, 6-0, Orantes commented about his No. 4 seeding in this year's tournament.

"It's not important where you're seeded," he said. "It's whether you win."

"Everybody's very tough this year so it doesn't matter whether you're seeded No. 1 or 2," the handsome Spaniard added with a smile. "You have to beat 'em all."

Orantes may not have to beat every entry in the field. But to advance to the finals from the lower bracket he must face Wimbledon singles champ Jimmy Connors and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina.

Connors, of Belleville, Ill., is the top seed and Vilas is sixth behind No. 2 Ilie Nastase of Rumania and third-ranked Bjorn Borg of Sweden. Nastase, who arrived in Indianapolis on Tuesday, is scheduled to play for the first time today.

Orantes, however, is always a favorite in clay court competition. "I learned how to play on clay," he explained. "I come from Barcelona where we have nice weather year around so I feel very much at ease on this kind of court."

And at ease he definitely was in the match with Hise. Spectators and other players around the Indianapolis Tennis Club stadium court applauded Orantes' expertly placed volleys throughout the contest.

The highlight of the game, which perhaps wasn't really a contest, came when Orantes overran a forehand shot and made the return from the baseline behind his back.

Earlier in the day, the female half of the Wimbledon singles love duo, petite Chris Evert, completely devastated Helle Sparre of Denmark, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Evert, the top women's seed and two-time Clay Court titlist from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., lost only five points in the first set while fiance Connors watched nearby. Connors had the day off after winning a tough match Monday night.

The No. 2 women's seed, Julie Heldman of Houston, had difficulties getting her game going against Joy Schwikert of Los Vegas, Nev. Miss Heldman lost the first set 7-5, then gained momentum for the last two, 6-0, 6-1.

Terry Holliday of La Jolla, Calif. the No. 5 women's seed, needed three sets to defeat Sally Greer of Miami, Fla., 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Mexico's Raul Ramirez, seeded No. 5 in men's competition, won his first-round match against Sherwood Stewart of Redlands, Calif., 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Unseeded Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif., who finished second in last week's Western Open at Cincinnati, downed Nick Saviano of Los Altos, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

First No-Hitter

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (AP) — Sam Basile faced just 23 batters and fired the first no-hitter in New Westminster Frasers' history Tuesday night as the Frasers swept a Northwest League baseball doubleheader from the Portland Mavericks.

Basile was almost letter-perfect, allowing just two runners to reach base as the Frasers took the second game of the doubleheader 6-0. Ed Cervantes walked for Portland in the first inning and Cliff Holland made it to first on a throwing error by shortstop Larry Pearman with only one out remaining in the game.

Marichal And Cepeda Begin On Comeback Road With Success

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Play some spooky music for the American League where two old pros have surfaced from baseball's scrap heap like ghosts drifting through a haunted house to do a little scaring of their own.

You're excused if you closed the books on Juan Marichal and Orlando Cepeda, whose glory days are long past. But open them up again. The veteran pitcher and the old slugger aren't quite through yet.

Marichal, who has spent most of the last two months on the disabled list, hurled seven innings of two-hit baseball Tuesday night as Boston blanked Milwaukee 6-0 to complete a doubleheader sweep over the Brewers. The Red Sox took the opener 6-3.

Meanwhile, Cepeda, who was cut by Boston in spring training and was languishing in the Mexican League until last week, showed up in Kansas City and ripped a pair of singles in the Royals' 17-3 romp over Minnesota.

Marichal, 35, came off the disabled list last Friday and turned in a sparkling six innings of relief to beat Baltimore. That earned him the start against the Brewers and this time he went seven before Diego Segui came on to complete the three-hitter. Dwight Evans, who singled home the deciding run in the first game, drove in four more in the nightcap, three of them on a homer. "I don't fool myself," said wonderful Juan. "I don't throw as hard as I used to. I used to strike out 200 a year and I didn't even try to."

Now Marichal tries to outsmart the hitters and usually succeeds. "I just want to make the good pitch. When you get the ball where you want, you've got a good chance to get them out."

Catcher Bob Montgomery agreed. "I don't think he's going to overpower anyone, but with that control, he doesn't have to," said Montgomery. "He had super control."

Meanwhile, Minnesota couldn't control Kansas City, which collected 19 hits. Amos Otis drove in four runs with a homer and a double but the most intriguing part of the attack were a pair of singles by Cepeda, who drove in two runs in his return to the big leagues.

"It was a good game to break in on," said Cepeda, who will be 37 next month.

"I realized tonight this is the only place to be, in the big leagues. When you've been in the Mexican League, you know that's true."

Manager Jack McKeon was just as pleased with Cepeda's debut.

"He made a great debut," said McKeon. "It was very appropriate that we'd break loose on his first day. We hope to get a psychological lift from Orlando. I thought he was swinging the bat pretty good. Give him three, four or five games under his belt, and I think he'll really show you what he can do."

of the Oriole runs but errors by Bill Sudakis and Dick Tidrow in the first inning and Sandy Alomar in the seventh gave Baltimore the edge.

Dave Johnson, who relieved starter Don Hood when the Yankees scored their run in the first inning, got the victory with Jackson saving it on three shutout innings in relief.

White Sox 12, Angels 2. Ken Henderson rapped three hits including a bases-loaded triple that capped a seven-run second inning as the Chicago White Sox thumped the California Angels.

Henderson opened the second inning by drawing a walk and eventually scored on a single by Carlos May and a double by Brian Downing.

Singles by Buddy Bradford, Jorge Orta and Dick Allen plus a walk to Bill Melton preceded Henderson's base-clearing triple into the right field corner.

Wilbur Wood won his 17th game and Bill Sharp homered.

Indians 9, Tigers 7. John Ellis ripped five hits including a home run and Cleveland wiped out a five-run deficit to overtake Detroit.

John Lowenstein's seventh-inning homer snapped a 7-7 tie and Buddy Bell singled home another run, moving the Indians to the victory.

Bill Freehan homered for Detroit.

Major Upset Marks Opening Of Tourney

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Lyndell Pickett won't be going home early and that's about the only thing he had to look forward to when he arose this morning.

Instead, Pickett, the number two seed in the boy's 18 singles, will be playing in the new feed-in consolation bracket of the State Junior Closed Tennis Tournament at the Murray State University courts for the rest of the week.

The Greensburg native was the only upset victim in Tuesday's opening round action as he was stunned in split-sets by unseeded Marty Wolf of Edgewood.

After losing the first set 6-3, Pickett bounced back to take the second set 6-1 and force the match into split sets. But in the third set, Wolf made it quick work as he crushed Pickett 6-2 and thus chalked up the first upset of the week-long tourney.

The feed-in consolation bracket will include losers of first round through fourth round matches, thus giving everyone a chance at playing more in tournament competition. Otherwise, Pickett, seeded behind favorite Danny Lucas of Georgetown in the 18-year-old division, would be on his way home.

No other seeded player fell, although there was another close call in the 18-year-old division.

Lucas had to battle a determined David Lang of Louisville before winning the match in the third set, 6-3. Lucas won the first set 7-5 but Lang took the second 6-2. Also in the 18 singles, Steve Bright of Paducah won 6-1, 3-6, 6-4 over Chris Rose of Paris.

All the other matches involving seeded players went straight sets with the favorites picking up easy victories.

There were no matches played Tuesday in the girl's 14 and 18-year-old divisions but competition will begin there today.

Also on tap for today, play will begin in the consolation bracket and in the doubles.

In the girl's 16 singles, all the top seeds advanced as did Mary Ann Littleton of Murray and Cheryl Lancaster of Mayfield.

Miss Littleton won by default over Pam Peacock of Owensboro while Miss Lancaster won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, over Paula Cvergros of Paducah.

Tammy Boone of Murray was dropped in straight sets, 6-0 6-0, by fifth-seeded Beverly Ramser of Louisville.

Only two matches were played in the boy's 10-year-old division, one of which found Paul Austin winning over Robert Rudd of Paducah.

Austin won the first set 6-0 and was leading 3-0 in the second when the judge retired Rudd.

Mark Austin will play top-seeded Derek Weiss of Louisville today in the same division.

Tim Clark, the top seed in the 12-year-old division, drew an opening round bye while second-seeded Tom Grossman won an easy match over Greg Wolf of Edgewood.

The only local player who played in the division Tuesday was Mark Overby, who lost 6-2, 6-0 to Ricky Boland of Louisville.

In the 14 singles, the only local player entered was Greg Cohoon who won a match by default over Jim King of Lexington.

The top 10 seeds in the 16 singles all advanced with no trouble. Also winning in the division were Brent Austin, Kim Trevathan and Mark Homra, all of Murray, and Paducah Tilghman stars Mark Taylor and John Dallam.

Austin won 6-0, 6-1 over Robby Ebernez of Louisville while Trevathan won by default over Tom Schuff of Georgetown.

Homra won an easy 6-3, 6-1 match over Kevin Ryan of Prospect.

Dallam won 6-4, 6-1 over Danny Key of Clay while Taylor won shutout sets over Bruce Tafelk of Prospect.

The finals in the singles are set for Saturday afternoon.

Bench Homers To Give Cincy Win Over Dodgers, Cards Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Johnny Bench walked up to the plate thinking "home run" all the way. Then he translated his thoughts into action.

Bench hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning to carry the Cincinnati Reds to 6-3 decision over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night and make the National League West race a little more interesting.

"We won tonight, now we have to win tomorrow night and then get about six more," Cincinnati's All-Star catcher said after the Reds cut the Dodgers' lead to 6½ games. "It's going to take a lot for us to catch them. Even if they split the games they have left (the Dodgers have 51 remaining), we'd have to play .700 ball."

"The Dodgers are a sound team fundamentally. They're a fine club and have a lot of plusses. They just don't make mistakes."

Bench's game-winning blast came off a screwball from Mike Marshall, the Dodger relief star. Bench guessed right on the pitch, but added: "Even if you guess right on Marshall, that screwball of his doesn't always hang like that one did."

With the Reds and Dodgers tied at 3-3, Pete Rose led off the 10th with a single and one out later, Bench blasted his 21st homer into the left field pavilion off Marshall, 11-7.

Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring single provided the Reds with an insurance run.

The Dodgers tied the score at 3-3 on Jimmy Wynn's run-scoring single in the eighth inning.

Dan Driessen had doubled home a run with two out in the top of the eighth to give Cincinnati a 3-2 lead. Joe Morgan flied out and Bench bounced out before Tony Perez drew a walk off Don Sutton and scored on Driessen's shot to left-center.

The Dodgers scored in the fifth inning on a bunt by pitcher Don Sutton which scored Steve Yeager from third. Yeager had walked and Bill Russell had singled him to third.

Cincinnati, restricted to just two hits the first five innings by Sutton, struck back in the top of the sixth when Joe Morgan doubled, his second two-base hit of the night, and one out later Perez homered over the leftfield wall. It was Perez' 21st homer of the season.

Los Angeles tied the contest when Wynn hit his 26th homer of the baseball season.

Cards 5-3, Expos 4-4
Mike Tyson's two-run triple highlighted a four-run rally in the fourth inning that carried St. Louis over Montreal in the first game of their doubleheader. The Cardinals scored seven runs in the third inning of the second game to complete a sweep.

Astros 13, Giants 4
Left fielder Gary Matthews dropped Tommy Helms' liner for a two-base error and Houston rallied for three unearned runs in the sixth inning and went on to beat San Francisco.

Milt May's one-out single and a two-out single by Doug Rader started the rally. Matthews then dropped Helms' liner and both runners scored, breaking a 3-3 tie.

A single by pitcher Mike Cosgrove, 6-1, chased starter Ed Halicki, 1-5, and Greg Gross' run-scoring single capped the rally off reliever Elias Sosa.

The Astros scored five more runs in the eighth inning with Larry Milbourne's two-run single capping the rally.

Braves 5, Padres 2
Home run king Henry Aaron drove in four runs with two homers and right-hander Phil

Niekro hurled Atlanta past San Diego.

Aaron, who passed Babe Ruth's record 714 homers in April, tagged his 14th and 15th of the season, raising his all-time record to 728.

A single by Ralph Garr and a walk to Darrell Evans set up a three-run homer by Aaron in the third inning and he opened the sixth with another.

Vic Correll knocked in a run for the Braves with a sacrifice fly and Niekro, 12-9, extended his string of scoreless innings to 29-23, breaking the Atlanta club record of 25 set earlier this season by Buzz Capra.

Niekro's shutout streak ended in the ninth inning when Willie McCovey crashed a two-run homer for the Padres. It was Niekro's third victory in as many decisions against San Diego this year and gave the Braves their 10th victory in 11 meetings with the Padres.

Phillies 8, Cubs 3
Willie Montanez hit his first major league grand slam home run to lead Philadelphia over Chicago.

Pirates 9, Mets 8
Gene Cline reached base on an error by shortstop Bud Harrelson in the 11th inning and later scored on an error by pitcher Tug McGraw to help Pittsburgh beat New York.

Vets Continue Trickling Into Camps

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of the striking National Football League players and club owners were scheduled to meet again today with federal mediator W.J. Usery Jr., as veterans continued to trickle into various training camps in defiance of the 38-day-old strike.

Usery met with the two sides Tuesday, and the only announced result of those meetings was that they would meet again this morning.

Meanwhile, management said that as of Tuesday over one fourth of the NFL veterans had reported to preseason training camps. A spokesman for the NFL Management Council put the number of defections at 380, or 28 per cent of the total NFL work force, and claimed that 111 of them were starters.

He said 910 veterans, about 500 of those starters, remain out of camp.

Tuesday's camp arrivals included kicker Pete Gogolak of the New York Giants, defensive tackle Jon Kolb of Pittsburgh, middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti and offensive tackle Norm Evans of Miami and guard John Niland of Dallas.

Niland said it was "God's will" that he join 19 other Dallas veterans at the team's camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

But a group of about 30 Minnesota Vikings veterans, at a meeting Tuesday night, decided to begin working out as a unit but reaffirmed their decision not to report to camp.

Cornerback Bobby Bryant, speaking for those who attended the two-hour meeting which included Coach Bud Grant, said, "We'll be working out daily but nobody is going to camp. The main purpose of the meeting was to get ourselves organized."

Bryant said Grant attended about one-half hour of the session, but was not involved in the discussion of the strike. He said Grant had been invited to hear the players' positions on the strike.

Following Tuesday's negotiations, the first since last Thursday, mediator Usery said he was more hopeful than before. "We still have some difficult issues, but they are surmountable when you have people willing to bargain hard. This is the first time we saw some genuine desire on both sides to try to consummate an agreement."

Usery said he "was very impressed with both sides' desire to dig in as hard as they could to see if they could find a resolution to the problem."

Homra won an easy 6-3, 6-1 match over Kevin Ryan of Prospect.

Major League Expansion To Be Among Discussions

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The expansion boom that has marked nearly every major sport in the past few years has been noticeably absent in baseball — and perhaps the major leagues now are ready to do something about it.

Expansion was expected to be one of the important topics of discussion as the major league owners began their two-day summer meetings today.

Although there was no proposal for expansion talk at the sessions, "It doesn't mean that expansion couldn't come soon," one league official said.

When expansion does come, probably for the 1976 season, the cities most likely to be awarded franchises are Seattle, Toronto, New Orleans and Washington, D.C.

Seattle was one of the four cities included in baseball's last expansion, in 1969, when the major leagues jumped from 20 to 24 teams. Seattle was joined in the American League lineup five years ago by Kansas City, while Montreal and San Diego were added to the National League.

That year also saw the introduction of divisional play, with the American and National Leagues each split into East and West Divisions, with six teams in each sector.

However, Seattle lasted only one year. The team went bankrupt and was sold for $10.8 million to a group that relocated the franchise in Milwaukee in 1970.

Later, however, the American League promised Seattle it would receive a franchise no later than 1976. When Seattle rejoins the league, it will play in a domed stadium now under construction.

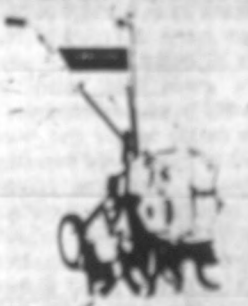

New Orleans, which also likely will join the American League when the majors' next expansion is completed, also has a domed stadium under construction, the Louisiana Superdome. It is scheduled for completion next year.

Washington, like Seattle, formerly was a member of the American League. But in 1972, the franchise was shifted to Texas.

Philadelphia (AP) — Jimmy Powell, a 6-foot-5 forward from Middle Tennessee State University, has signed to play for the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association, the club announced Tuesday.

Over 370 golfers from several states plan to participate in the sixth annual Murray Shrine Club Invitational tournament this weekend with both The Oaks Country Club and the Murray-Calloway County Country Club courses being used in the two-day affair.

The field will be packed with top golfers from over the state as well as from Clarksville and Nashville, Tennessee.

Norman Hoad of Murray was the guest division last year with a 143. Jerry Cladwell was second in a 145. Pat Nanney was second in the Shrine Division last year with a 145. All will participate in this year's tournament.

Other past winners of invitational tournaments in the state who will be on hand this weekend include Bobo Foster, Bob English, Johnny Campbell, Wally Young, Mike Holton, Randy McCully, Buddy Hewitt, Johnny Quertemous, Jim Brown, Jeff Brown, Steve Du Perrieu, Frank Miller, Art Jordan, and W. H. Richtmeyer.

In the five years of its existence, the Murray Shrine Club Invitational Tournament has grown into one of the favorite tournaments in the state, growing from sixty golfers in its first year to the over 370 this year. Golfers will be teeing off from both the Oaks golf course and the Calloway course Saturday morning with play being completed Sunday afternoon. On hand for the occasion will be the Potentate of Ritzpah Shrine Temple Thurman Harp, as well as the Divan, the ruling body of the Temple. Nearly 2,000 Shriners make up the Ritzpah Temple in West Kentucky with headquarters in Madisonville.

The large contingent of country music stars from Nashville, "Music City USA" which has participated in each tournament, will be back this year with even more than last year.

Ready to try their luck and skill once again will be Lester and Leslie Wilburn of the Wilburn Brothers radio and TV show and Smiley Wilson, widely known and highly popular country music performer, with his lovely wife Kitty.

The tournament is the largest event held in the Ritzpah Temple area each year. The field of 60 in the first tournament has grown this year to over 370. Last year over $1800 in prizes was awarded with $1500 of it in silver. This year nearly $2400 in prizes will go to golfers with the greater part in silver.

Last year Travis Webb of Murray Datsun, Inc. 604 South 12th Street, offered a brand new Datsun automobile to any golfer who made a hole-in-one on the 165 yard, par three seventh hole at the Calloway Course.

about as close as anyone - he hit the pin with his five-iron shot only to see the ball bounce inches away from the set of keys. This year, Mr. Webb is doubling his offer. He not only is offering a new Datsun for a hole-in-one on the seventh at Calloway, but also for the 160-yard par-three, 15th hole at the Oaks Country Club.

A dinner and dance for the entrants, their wives and families is planned for Saturday night at the Student Union Building at Murray State University. The Top Five band will play for the dance. Sponsored by the Murray Shrine Club, the tournament is being managed by Don Robinson for the sixth year. Robinson is a member of the Calloway club's board of directors. The boards of directors of the Oaks and Calloway country clubs have been praised by the Murray Shrine Club for their cooperation. A host of local Shriners, their wives and friends will be working at the various posts to insure that the tournament runs smoothly.

Huge WFL Crowds Spurred By Give-Away Tickets To Games

By BRUCE LOWMYER
AP Sports Writer
Tonight in Philadelphia, the Bell will host the Memphis Southern in a World Football League game. A crowd of 36,000 is expected, but it's anybody's guess how many of those will be paid admissions.

The rookie league has been rocked by reports of "papering the house" with free admissions to its games — most notably Philadelphia, which claimed over 130,000 spectators for its first two home games when in fact only 26,000 had paid for their seats.

So the surprising, often amusing claims of attendance in the WFL's first month have become suspect. After boasting an enthusiastic reception, the WFL has been sent running for cover.

Only 45, five of the 12 teams, responding either independently or directly to Associated Press inquiries, said they had given away 100,000 free tickets to their home games. Assuming that none of the other seven league teams gave tickets away, the paid attendance for the league's first 36 games is 363,000 or an average of 36,000.

Bell Executive Vice President Barry Lieb admitted his club gave the extraordinary number of tickets away. Only 13,000 of the home opening 55,534 admissions were paid; just 4,200 of the 64,775 paid for the nationally televised game against New York two weeks ago.

"We just had to do it or we would have been a joke," Lieb said. "I admit we lied to everybody. What can I say? I never thought the figures would come out."

But they did come out, as they have in a number of other places — to a lesser degree — around the league. And the reaction of people around the circuit has been surprise, shock and dismay.

"God, this really hurts," said Southern California Sun General Manager Curly Morrison. "Why in hell would they do something like that? It's bad. It didn't serve any purpose to inflate the gate."

League President Gary Davidson said that the league's initial policy had been for each team to announce only a turnstile count and not divulge paid attendance.

Davidson added, "The thing I realize is that the management in Philadelphia misled the public," and acknowledged the WFL's reputation had been damaged.

The Jacksonville Sharks disclosed that the announced attendance of 59,112 for its TV opener and 46,780 two weeks later had been overstated, saying that a total of 44,000 had been admitted free and 2,000 half-price tickets had been sold to servicemen.

The general manager of the Southern, Leo Cahill, said his team's giveaways go only to "people that have to get them" although he wouldn't specify how many "have to" there were in Memphis.

Tests Reveal Vida Blue Has Irregular Heart Beat

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—An electrocardiogram test on Oakland A's pitcher Vida Blue may have revealed an irregularity in his heart beat, a team spokesman admitted early today.

The left-hander complained of chest pains in Minnesota Monday night and was taken to Baylor Hospital here Tuesday morning.

Robert Fulton, the A's director of public relations, reached at his Oakland home, said, "Our traveling secretary called me before the game (Tuesday night) and said Vida had had an EKG (electrocardiogram) and it was supposed to have shown an irregular heart beat."

Jim Bank, traveling secretary for the American League baseball team, would neither confirm nor deny the statement from his hotel room in Dallas.

"All the information I have is what I gave in the press box," Bank said. "The doctor is not releasing any word until he can get the EKG from New York from July 11. He wants to compare it with the test he had Tuesday."

"Vida is resting comfortably and doctors are, of course, running other tests," A's manager Alvin Dark said. "We just don't know how serious it is."

Blue was scheduled to pitch Tuesday night but Blue Moon Odom took his place.

TVA Power Sales Up Over 197

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Valley Authority power sales for the fiscal year ended June 30 totaled 106 billion kilowatt-hours, an increase of 2.5 per cent over 1973, the agency reported today.

The gain was less than the 3.5 per cent increase in TVA's 1973 power sales, because of a drop in summer peak demand, TVA said.

Electric heating requirements also reported a drop in winter and peak demand at its power plants are down to a 58-day supply. A 90-day stockpile is considered normal.

His Ph.D. is from Florida State University.

Prior to his appointment to Cumberland, Tarry was head of the Music Department at Jefferson Davis State Junior College in Brewton, Alabama. Previously, he held church music positions in Rockford Lane Baptist Church, Louisville, Kentucky, and Lincocoy Hills Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn.

He has sung in numerous oratorios and will be featured soloist in the Cumberland College presentation of Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas season this year. Dr. Tarry's choir at Jefferson Davis State Junior College was honored by being named the resident choir at the Graz, Austria, International Youth Music Festival in 1973. Dr. Tarry will assume his duties at Cumberland College in September.

Baseball League Plans Meeting On Saturday

The Kirksey Baseball League will hold its annual family picnic on Saturday, August 10, at the ball park at Kirksey.

A potluck supper will be served promptly at seven p.m. followed by the business meeting and election of officers. Trophies will also be awarded at the meeting.

All interested persons are invited to attend, a league spokesman said.

As a means of inducing a favorable attitude toward resignation in the White House, some members revived talk of legislation that would grant Nixon immunity from criminal prosecution.

The proposal was quickly squelched, however, by Rhodes and Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee.

Rhodes said he doubted that Congress had any authority to

Court Clears Way For Cook To Appear On November Ballot

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Declaring part of the state Corrupt Practices Act unconstitutional, the Kentucky Court of Appeals has cleared the way for U.S. Sen. Marlow Cook to run for re-election in November.

In a ruling issued late Tuesday, the high court unanimously upheld the validity of the Louisville Republican's candidacy for re-election.

The decision threw out as unconstitutional a 1970 change in the state Corrupt Practices Act which said a candidate's filing papers were incomplete unless he designated his campaign treasurer.

Cook had failed to name his treasurer until two days after the April 3 filing deadline for the May 28 primary.

Secretary of State Thelma Stovall, on the advice of Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock, had refused to certify Cook as a candidate in the primary because of that failure.

However, Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs subsequently held that Cook had substantially complied with the state filing law, a decision which Mrs. Stovall took to the peachment brought with it a marked release in tension among House Republicans, who had been dreading the coming vote. Although they made frequent references to the sorrow and anguish of their decision, they found comfort in the numbers of their colleagues joining them.

"Obviously, it relieves the pressure on a number of members who were just on the brink, who were beside themselves," said Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

So strong was the surge, members reported it was hard to find anyone who still opposed impeachment. "I don't think there will be anybody in the House who will vote against impeachment," said Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich.

Rep. Earl F. Landgrebe, R-Ind., who said his support for Nixon is unshakable. "I'm going to stick with my President even if he and I have to be taken out of this building and shot," said Landgrebe.

He said a Lynch mob frenzy had swept the House following Nixon's disclosure that he knew of the Watergate cover-up long before the March 21, 1973, date he spoke of in repeated public addresses.

"Even if he lied or obstructed justice, where's the disadvantage?" asked Landgrebe. "No traumatic thing is happening to the country."

Few members shared that view, however. Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., called Nixon's conduct in the Watergate affair "an appalling betrayal of his responsibility to his country."

In other reaction to impeachment developments: —Rabbi Baruch Korff assured Nixon of his continued support in a meeting in Nixon's office. In a statement issued through his National Citizens Committee for Fairness to the Presidency, Korff said, "This President will go down in history as the greatest president of the century."

—California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Nixon should subject himself to interrogation by the House during impeachment proceedings and answer any questions the lawmakers have.

—Reflecting the latest impeachment developments, the stock market pulled away to strong morning gains, then dropped nearly half the advance.

—The U.S. dollar remained steady on European money markets and some foreign exchanges reported what was felt to be the increased possibility of Nixon's resignation had helped to strengthen the U.S. currency after months of unease.

Then, on short notice, Nixon summoned his cabinet to a Tuesday White House meeting where participants said he told them he "intends to stay on and allow the Constitution to be the overriding factor."

Court of Appeals. Tuesday's decision affirmed Meigs' ruling.

Following the Franklin Circuit Court ruling, Cook won the May 28 primary easily, getting 87 per cent of the Republican vote over two little-known candidates.

Gov. Wendell Ford, likewise, easily won the Democratic nomination for Cook's Senate seat and, at this time, is given a good chance of winning in November as well.

Cook had filed for the primary in accordance with Kentucky's basic election law, but had not complied with the 1970 change in the Corrupt Practices Act.

The high court ruled that the change in the Corrupt Practices Act was unconstitutional because its title only said it pertained to campaign contributions and spending. Kentucky's Constitution requires a bill to pertain to only one subject, and that subject must be stated in its title.

The appeals court said the penalty provisions of the Corrupt Practices Act "cannot reasonably apply to a mere delay in appointing a campaign treasurer."

grant immunity, which is a power reserved to the executive branch. "It wouldn't be worth the paper it was written on," he said.

Conable said he thought it was especially wrong for Republicans to be seeking immunity for Nixon.

However, in the Senate, Assistant Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin said he was leaning toward support of legislation to grant immunity.

The prospect of an overwhelming vote for impeachment led House leaders to revise their schedule for the debate and vote, for which they had planned to allow 10 days to two weeks.

Some members suggested running through the whole process in a day, and others said it could be done in hours, but Speaker Carl Albert and Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., of the Judiciary Committee, are resisting any such drastic pruning of the schedule.

After a meeting between leaders of both parties and Rodino and the ranking Republican member of the Judiciary Committee, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., it was tentatively agreed to try to confine consideration to the week of Aug. 19.

Nixon

pressed him repeatedly to say flatly that Nixon would not resign.

Finally, Warren said, "He does not intend to resign." Rather, the spokesman said, Nixon intends to "see that the business of the people continues ... as we move through the constitutional process."

By constitutional process, Warren said he meant a Senate impeachment trial.

But he dodged questions on whether the "constitutional process" might include invoking the 25th Amendment, which sets procedures for a president to temporarily step aside if unable to carry out the duties of office.

Warren said that when Nixon met Sunday with his closest aides at Camp David, Md., there was no discussion of using the 25th Amendment to install Vice President Gerald R. Ford as acting chief executive until completion of a Senate trial.

But the spokesman confirmed what other White House sources disclosed Monday night — that Nixon again considered during the weekend whether to resign.

"Obviously, the President did not choose that course," Warren said.

Instead, Nixon issued a statement and made public the partial transcripts of three more White House tape recordings disclosing his attempt to sidetrack the FBI investigation of his campaign committee's bankrolling of the Watergate burglars.

Then, on short notice, Nixon summoned his cabinet to a Tuesday White House meeting where participants said he told them he "intends to stay on and allow the Constitution to be the overriding factor."

urer in the manner and in the time provided."

"Hence, the appellee's (Cook's) temporary default in that respect in the Cook case did not amount to a violation of the corrupt practices statutes," the court said.

The same ruling affirmed the right of Lyle Willis of Corbin to be on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for Congress in the heavily Republican 5th District.

Jones, Teer, Lpw Bidders On Project

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The J. A. Jones Co. of Cannelton, Ind., and Nello L. Teer of Durham, N.C., are the apparent bidders for a contract to construct the Smithland Dam on the Ohio River between Kentucky and Indiana.

Officials of the Nashville District of the Army Corps of Engineers said the $200 million project is the largest ever undertaken by the District.

Jones and Teer bid $98,205,000 for construction of the dam and removal of two outmoded locks and dams.

Construction of the Smithland project began in 1971 with construction of a twin-lock complex. Completion of the project is scheduled for 1979.

The project is designed to improve navigation on the Ohio, corps officials said.

State To Appeal Ruling Striking DWI Practice

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The state plans to appeal a federal court ruling that struck down a Kentucky law permitting the state to revoke a license in a drunken driving case without a hearing.

And in the interim, the law will remain in force. Perry Lewis, state Department of Transportation attorney, said Tuesday that the state will "continue to go by the statute as the legislature has written it" until the issue is settled by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The state contends that the ruling, issued by U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford, applies only in the case of the Floyd County man who brought the suit, since Swinford's decision didn't order the state to abide by his ruling.

The decision came in the case brought by Denver Slone of McDowell, whose license was revoked on the basis of an affidavit from a State Police trooper who said Slone refused to take a chemical test to determine whether he was intoxicated.

Swinford held that the state law under which the license was revoked — the 1968 implied-consent law — "denies notice and hearing prior to license revocation" for failure to submit to a chemical test.

The implied consent law, in effect, holds that a motorist is deemed to have given his consent to a chemical test to determine intoxication if he is arrested and suspected of drunk driving.

Swinford said the intent of the law is to protect the public from drunken drivers, but said an interest in public safety doesn't justify a statute "contravening the guarantees of due process."

Slone had contended in his suit that he was denied due process of law when the state revoked his license without a hearing.

Slone also alleged that the implied-consent law is unfair because it permits automatic revocation of a license if a chemical test is refused, while allowing persons who take the test to keep their license until the charge of drunken driving results in conviction or acquittal.

Text Of President's Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the text of a written statement issued Monday by President Nixon:

I have today instructed my attorneys to make available to the House Judiciary Committee, and I am making public, the transcripts of three conversations with H. R. Halde- man on June 23, 1972. I have also turned over the tapes of these conversations to Judge Sirica, as part of the process of my compliance with the Supreme Court ruling.

On April 29, in announcing my decision to make public the original set of White House transcripts, I stated that "as far as what the President personally knew and did with regard to Watergate and the cover-up is concerned, these materials — together with those already made available — will tell it all."

Shortly after that, in May, I made a preliminary review of some of the 64 taped conversations subpoenaed by the special prosecutor.

Among the conversations I listened to at that time were two of those of June 23. Although I recognized that these presented potential problems, I did not inform my staff or my counsel of it, or those arguing my case, nor did I amend my submission to the Judiciary Committee in order to include and reflect it.

At the time, I did not realize the extent of the implications which these conversations might now appear to have. As a result, those arguing my case, as well as those passing judgment on the case, did so with information that was incomplete and in some respects erroneous. This was a serious act of omission for which I take full responsibility and which I deeply regret.

Since the Supreme Court's decision 12 days ago, I have ordered my counsel to analyze the 64 tapes, and I have listened to a number of them myself. This process has made it clear that portions of the tapes of these June 23 conversations are at variance with certain of my previous statements.

Therefore, I have ordered the transcripts (be) made available immediately to the Judiciary Committee so that they can be reflected in the committee's report, and included in the record to be considered by the House and Senate.

In a formal written statement on May 22 of last year, I said that shortly after the Watergate break-in I became concerned about the possibility that the FBI investigation might lead to the exposure of either of unrelated covert activities of the CIA, or of sensitive national security matters that the so-called "plumbers" unit at the White House had been working on, because of the CIA and plumbers' connections of some of those involved.

I said that I therefore gave instructions that the FBI should be alerted to coordinate with the CIA, and to ensure that the investigation not expose these sensitive national security matters.

That statement was based on my recollection at the time — some 11 months later — plus documentary materials and relevant public testimony of those involved.

The June 23 tapes clearly show, however, that at the time I gave those instructions I also discussed the political aspects of the situation, and that I was aware of the advantages this course of action would have with respect to limiting possible public exposure of involvement by persons connected with the re-election committee.

My review of the additional tapes has, so far, shown no other major inconsistencies with what I have previously submitted. While I have no way at this stage of being certain that there will not be others, I have no reason to believe that there will be.

In any case, the tapes in their entirety are now in the process of being furnished to Judge Sirica. He has begun what may be a rather lengthy process of reviewing the tapes, passing on specific claims of executive privilege on portions of them, and forwarding to the Special Prosecutor those tapes or those portions that are relevant to the Watergate investigation.

It is highly unlikely that this review will be completed in time for the House debate. It appears at this stage, however, that a House vote of impeachment is, as a practical matter, virtually a foregone conclusion, and that the issue will therefore go to trial in the Senate. In order to ensure that no other significant relevant materials are withheld, I shall voluntarily furnish to the Senate everything from these tapes that Judge Sirica rules should go to the Special Prosecutor.

I recognize that this additional material I am now furnishing may further damage my case, especially because attention will be drawn separately to it rather than to the evidence in its entirety. In considering its implications, therefore, I urge that two points be borne in mind.

The first of these points is to remember what actually happened as a result of the instructions I gave on June 23. Acting Director Gray of the FBI did coordinate with Director Helms and Deputy Director Walters of the CIA. The CIA did undertake an extensive check to see whether any of its covert activities would be compromised by a full FBI investigation of Watergate.

Deputy Director Walters then reported back to Mr. Gray that they would not be compromised. On July 6, when I called Mr. Gray, and when he expressed concern about improper attempts to limit his investigation, as the record shows, I told him to press ahead vigorously with his investigation — which he did.

The second point I would urge is that the evidence be looked at in its entirety, and the events be looked at in perspective. Whatever mistakes I made in the handling of Watergate, the basic truth remains that when all the facts were brought to my attention I insisted on a full investigation and prosecution of those guilty. I am firmly convinced that the record, in its entirety, does not justify the extreme step of impeachment and removal of a President. I trust that as the Constitutional process goes forward, this perspective will prevail.

Washington Swamped With Rumors Of Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a few hours Monday, the capital was swamped with rumors that President Nixon would resign. That announcement didn't materialize.

There has been speculation about a possible presidential resignation for more than a year, since the Watergate scandal chased some of Nixon's closest aides from the White House.

The speculation picked up again Sunday when the President summoned speech writers to his secluded, mountaintop retreat at Camp David, Md. In that wooded setting Nixon has pondered some of his most startling presidential decisions, including his 1971 order to impose wage and price controls after a career of opposition to such measures.

Monday morning, the Washington Post was on capital doorsteps with frontpage reports, from unnamed White House aides, that material in soon-to-be-released tape recordings would further damage the President's chance to survive impeachment. One such aide was quoted as saying "All hell will break loose" when the material is made public.

During the morning, Senate Republican Whip Robert P.

Griffin of Michigan called for Nixon to resign. He said it would be in the best interests of the President and the nation.

By afternoon the speculation hardened into rumor. The White House postponed its usual daily briefing, and Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told newsmen there would be an announcement after 3:30. The time is important. The New York Stock exchange closes at 3:30 p.m. each trading day, and important government announcements that might affect stock prices are routinely held up until after that time.

For weeks, economic analysts have predicted that stock prices would soar if a new President took office. Warren insisted that the announcement would not be a resignation. Nevertheless, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped up 13 points during the afternoon, before settling to a close with an increase of almost 8 points.

Newsman, starved for hard information, found clues everywhere. A White House aide in a position to know what the statement would say canceled a luncheon engagement with an outsider at the last minute.

A former White House aide who maintains contact with middle-level officials there said the rumor agreed with his theory that the President would soon resign. He refused to say more.

A Watergate committee source, told of the rumor, contacted his own White House source and reported that the resignation rumor was true.

By midafternoon the rumors had spread as far west as Chicago. One major firm headquartered there called its Washington representative to inquire about rumors that the President would announce his resignation after the close of the stock market.

Those who didn't believe the rumors were right. The President conceded that he almost certainly will be tried in the Senate and he released three new White House transcripts that he said may cause further damage to his case.

But he didn't quit, although White House aides acknowledged that such an act was openly discussed at Camp David the day before.

No Alternative To Red River Dam Ford Says In Stahr Letter

By WILLIAM BRADFORD Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Reminding National Audubon President Elvis Stahr he once approved the Red River Dam himself, Gov. Wendell Ford has said there is no alternative to it.

Ford made the statements in a letter to Stahr dated Aug. 2 but which the Associated Press obtained late Monday.

It was in response to a letter to Ford in which Stahr asked him to seek to prevent construction of the dam. Stahr then offered to send Ford "an impressive set of documentation" showing the dam was not needed.

Ford noted that Stahr, when he was secretary of the army, had recommended to Congress in 1962 that the dam be built at the original, upstream site.

Since that time, Ford said, "years of study and alternatives have been examined. With the help of former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, former congressman John Watts, Congressman Carl Perkins, former Gov. Louie Nunn, Sen. Walter Huddleston and hundreds of concerned Kentuckians, including local officials, the lower site, now pending approval in Washington, was developed," Ford asserted.

Nunn and Cooper, both Republicans, both were instrumental in getting the site of the proposed dam moved about five miles downstream while Nunn was governor. That move was intended to keep more of the scenic gorge area from being flooded and was hailed at the time as a substantial victory by environmentalists.

Lately, environmental groups have come out against building the dam anywhere on the Red River, a position now supported by U.S. Sen. Marlow Cook, Ford's opponent in the November senate race.

Backers of the dam say it is needed for flood control, especially at Clay City and Stanton, and for future water supply for Lexington and other central Kentucky cities. Opponents discount those claims.

"If there were any alternatives — firm, workable and conclusive alternatives — I, like most Kentuckians would not be in favor of the dam," Ford wrote to Stahr. "But as you will understand, having held high public office, alternatives are sometimes impossible. Responsible, though difficult decisions must be made," he added.

Ford said he had three overriding concerns: — "That adequate water be available to central Kentucky, not only for our generation but also for generations to come.

"That we preserve as much of the natural wonders of the Red River Gorge as humanly possible, and "That we prevent the nearly annual flooding which occurs in Powell County."

"The lower site provides all such objectives," Ford said. "The upper site certainly would not have provided the second."

If you're of Dutch or German descent, you probably eat sauerkraut every New Year's Day. But just in case you're not, I'd like to tell you about it.

You see, there is an old Dutch belief that in order to insure a prosperous and successful year, you must eat sauerkraut on New Year's Day. And thus sauerkraut is just as traditional on New Year's tables in areas populated by Dutch and Germans as turkey is on our Thanksgiving tables.

However, contrary to popular belief, the Germans didn't invent sauerkraut. The Chinese did, and they did it by accident.

Centuries ago, the workers who built the Great Wall of China lived all summer on rice and cabbage. And as winter approached, they added rice wine to the cabbage to help preserve it. Well, the wine soured the cabbage and gave it a delicious new flavor...and sauerkraut was born!

Today sauerkraut is still made from cabbage which has been salted and pressed into barrels until it has slightly fermented. And, of course, sauerkraut juice is canned and served widely as an appetizer.

Just in case you think there's anything "foreign" about sauerkraut, I'll have you know that the American Legion, no less, sponsors an annual Sauerkraut Festival in Forreston, Illinois. Tons of cabbage are cooked in huge vats and stirred with pitchforks. And the event is so popular that some thirty thousand tourists come from all over the country to this tiny town 130 miles from Chicago, to share in the fun...and the sauerkraut.

So, a salute to sauerkraut, with its German name, its Chinese ancestry, and its American Legion backing. Enjoy some soon. And get it at Jim Adams' IGA where value prices were not invented by accident!

New Inflation Fighting Price Policy at Jim Adams IGA

In order to help curb rising food prices we are starting a new price policy in our stores.

For years grocers have increased the prices on goods already on the shelf with the advancement of cost on goods received. At Jim Adams IGA we will NO LONGER follow this method.

As of July 31 we will continue to sell our shelf stock at the old lower price until it is sold out. We will only increase the retail price on the new stock received as it increases in cost to us.

This will afford you, the consumer, an opportunity to save money by continuing to purchase goods at a lower price for an extended period of time. We will need your help and patience because sometimes there will be 2 prices on the same item on the shelf. The old lower price and new higher price. We will still have some price changes because of special sales. Jim Adams stores are cutting our profit so that you can cut your grocery bill. At Jim Adams IGA we are the king of low prices.

We are going to help curb inflation in the supermarket.

Traffic deaths — good and bad news

The good news is that 1,000 fewer persons died in traffic accidents in 1973 than 1972, according to the National Safety Council, probably due to reduced speed limits and shortage of gasoline in December.

The bad news is that there were still 55,600 traffic fatalities last year, compared with the 56,600 in 1973, a 2 percent reduction. — CNS

Pickle Picker May Boost Kentucky Cucumber Acreage

It has always been done that way before—pickin' pickles by hand, that is. At least, it was always done that way in Kentucky until recently, when a different way was demonstrated on the Ray Mackey farm in Hardin County.

A mechanical pickle picker, or cucumber harvester if you prefer, was used to harvest some 23 acres of cucumbers grown by Mackey on his farm south of Elizabethtown. It was the first use ever of such a machine in Kentucky, according to C. R. Roberts, extension vegetable specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The machine, which is mounted on a regular farm tractor, has an apparatus which cuts through the soil about two inches deep, going under the cucumber roots. Then a pick-up attachment lifts the vines onto a conveyor. The conveyor takes them through a set of rollers which strip the cucumbers from the vines. They fall onto another conveyor, which carries them into a hopper mounted behind the tractor. The hopper holds about 80 bushels, and can be emptied into a truck.

The cucumbers harvested by the machine were the first ever grown for commercial processing by Mackey. Besides Honey Gives Many Dishes A New Zest

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
During my brief stay in a German prison camp during World War II, there was precious little sugar with the meager rations. But to my surprise, the Germans occasionally lavished generous dollops of honey on the coarse black bread they doled out each day.

This became more understandable after I recently thumbed through Hazel Berto's book, "Cooking With Honey." (Crown). According to Mrs. Berto, the honey bee has survived disasters, presumably including wars, famine and the inroads of civilization to continue supplying man with its nectar.

Despite bulldozers that wiped out her meadows and deadly insecticides, the bee has continued to gain usage in a health-conscious nation.

There is a growing trend away from refined white sugar, whose easy solubility allows it to pass through the walls of the stomach. Some disciples of natural cooking substitute raw or dark brown sugar, but the most popular substitute is honey.

This natural, unrefined food is unique because it is said to be the only unmanufactured sweet available in commercial quantities. Since 75 to 80 per cent of its composition is sugars, honey has an energy-producing value that is virtually unmatched.

Football players, swimmers and runners use honey for quick energy. And, Mrs. Berto says that Sir Edmund Hillary included it on his Mt. Everest expedition.

We have some 1,200 commercial bee keepers in America and with more than 300,000 amateur apiarists, this country produces about one third of the world's 900 million pounds of honey a year.

There are innumerable flavors of honey to choose from but most of it is made from orange, locust, sage, maple, blueberry, blackberry, buckwheat, clover and fireweed. Clover, sage and fireweed are among the milder types and are good for general cooking.

One dish I like is chicken breasts basted with honey and Port wine.

4 chicken breasts, boned, skinned and split
1 cup honey
1 cup Port wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash nutmeg
Dash mace

Salt and pepper to taste
Season chicken with salt and pepper, place on broiler and cook until tender, or about 35 minutes. Turn and baste frequently with mixture of honey and the other ingredients. Serves 4-5. Good with a chilled rose wine.

When the American Revolution of 1776 caused a shortage of cotton rags to make paper, the proprietors of a cotton fiber paper mill in North Carolina appealed to the people to turn in their old rags. They particularly encouraged young ladies to send in their worn-out cotton handkerchiefs, telling them that they would be returned to them again in the form of love letters from their sweethearts.

getting into cucumber production this year, he also raises about 500 acres of corn and has beef cattle, hogs and tobacco on his 1200-acre farm.

The Hardin County farmer's first cucumber crop has proved to be profitable. He sold the cucumbers on contract to the Paramount Food Company of Louisville for $2.40 per bushel. The crop yielded about 200 bushels per acre, providing a gross return of some $480 per acre.

Mackey figured the cost per acre for growing the crop at about $151. This includes the cost of land preparation, seed, herbicide, insecticide, and $70 worth of fertilizer per acre. Adding a cost of $40 per acre for the harvesting and another $50 per acre for transporting the crop to Louisville brings the total cost per acre to about $241.

Thus, the crop produced a net return of about $240 per acre.

UK's Roberts said mechanical harvesting could lead to a great expansion of cucumber production in Kentucky. "There is a strong consumer demand for pickles, and Paramount Foods tells us they could use all the cucumbers produced on 5,000 acres," said Roberts. "But it seems unlikely that we can grow that many without mechanical harvesting."

Last year, some 1,800 acres of cucumbers were grown in the state and sold under contract to Paramount, with the entire acreage harvested by hand. The company offered higher prices this year in an effort to encourage growers to increase their acreage. However, Roberts said there has not been a significant increase this year.

Cucumbers are a short-term crop, being ready to harvest about 50 days after they are seeded in the field. Mackey plans to seed a second crop, which he hopes to harvest in September. Roberts said it should also be possible to double-crop cucumbers with edible beans or to seed alfalfa or small grain into a field where cucumbers have been harvested.

Because cucumbers mature so rapidly, it is important to use a well-drained soil when growing the crop for mechanical harvesting, notes Jack Snyder, Hardin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. In order to harvest the cucumbers when they are a desirable size for processing, the machine must be able to get into the field within a day after a heavy rain.

A good supply of bees is also necessary to produce top cucumber yields. Bees for Mackey's fields were provided by Kenneth Garman, also a Hardin County farmer, who keeps over 500 colonies of bees. Garman explained that bees are necessary to pollinate the cucumber blooms.

The mechanical harvester used on the Mackey farm was made and owned by the Wilde

Manufacturing Co. of Bailey, Mich. Bernie Wilde, vice-president of the company, said Kentucky has great potential as a cucumber-producing state, especially in view of its long growing season which makes double-cropping possible. He said Mackey's crop would compare favorably in yield and quality with many of the best fields in Michigan. In that state, some 22,000 acres of cucumbers are grown annually for mechanical harvesting.

Mackey grew his cucumber crop on an experimental basis, with the company agreeing to provide the harvester. The machine costs around $20,000, or about the same as a large corn combine. Mackey says a grower would probably need at least 200 acres of cucumbers to make ownership of a harvester worthwhile, or else he would need other growers to raise cucumbers which he could harvest on a custom basis.

Snyder says about 60 acres of hand-harvested cucumbers are being grown for commercial processing in Hardin County this year. He says the county's cucumber acreage would probably expand to 400-500 acres if a mechanical harvester were available. Thus, it appears that cucumbers may make quite a contribution to agricultural income in Hardin County and Kentucky in the years to come.

Hana Hideaway Is Hawaiian Haven

By ROBERT MURPHY
Associated Press Writer
HANA, Hawaii (AP) — The world's rich and famous have always searched the globe for far-away secluded vacation spots where they can let their hair down without interruption. They've discovered such a spot hidden in Hawaii, on the island of Maui. It's called heavenly Hana.

The Robert Kennedys used this little known Pacific spot as their honeymoon retreat. And Clark Gable made Hana his tropical hideaway to escape the hectic life of a superstar. But on the surface, Hana doesn't look like your ordinary millionaire-filled resort area. Hana, a community of about 850 people, is one of Hawaii's sleepiest towns, with some saying it almost snores at times. It's nestled in exotic greenery around Hana Bay, where Captain Cook once dropped anchor in the late 1700s.

The closest city of any size is Kahului, some 60 long miles away. Those 60 miles can be traversed by car in about three hours, over a road that has more than 700 hairpin curves and just as many holes. The only other way to get to Hana is by small plane, and only one commuter airlines has scheduled stops at the tiny Hana airport. The town consists of two general stores, a couple of gasoline stations, one movie theater that is open only on Thursday and Friday nights, and the Hotel Hana-Maui — the resort that houses this affluent segment of society.

The resort was built in 1946 by Paul I. Fagan, a wealthy San Francisco businessman. An East Coast corporation bought the resort along with the 10,000-acre Hana Ranch in 1968, and is continuing Fagan's original policy of catering to the rich, as the room rates show — about $100 per day for most of the rooms, with one cottage complete with private swimming pool that goes for $300 per day. These prices, of course, include the meals.

When Fagan opened his resort, his fellow millionaires mostly made up the guest list. But as the 1950s began to unfold, the Hollywood set discovered Hana, with Gable leading the pack.

Josephine Kauakea Medeiros, a resort employee for 28 years and now the social director, said royalty from Japan, Finland, and Holland have also visited here, along with political leaders from all over the world.

But why are these people attracted to this small, unassuming little town with its quaint resort?

"If you want a basic reason why they keep coming and returning, I guess I would have to say it's the people of Hana," Mrs. Medeiros said.

The people here are the kind that made Hawaii famous. They are gentle, warm and friendly — the type the guests apparently aren't in contact with in their parts of the world, she said.

Another reason is the area's isolated location.

Since there isn't much entertainment in the town, the hotel has to provide something for its

By ANDY LANG

Fastening anything to a solid concrete or other masonry wall presents certain difficulties that can be overcome only by the use of the proper materials.

Most basic of the fasteners used in concrete is the concrete nail, made of hardened steel, which has the virtue of not requiring a predrilled pilot hole. To prevent it from bending, it must be driven through the wood first and then into the concrete, as is done with 2 by 4 studs. Varying results are obtained with this type of nail, depending on the strength of the person doing the hammering and the resistance of the particular concrete being attacked. When a large amount of fasteners must be driven into concrete, it is well to look into the various kinds of stud drivers and stud hammers on the market. The heavy duty, power-actuated models can be rented.

Expansion anchors — shields are hammered into pre-drilled holes in the masonry. The anchors are smaller than the shields, but both operate on the same principle. A hole is drilled into the masonry and the anchor or shield is then hammered or tapped into the opening. When a screw or bolt is inserted into the anchor or shield, the latter expands inside the hole and grips firmly.

Because the bit in the chuck of a drill will be duller quickly when used in concrete, a carbide-tipped masonry bit must be used. In the absence of a drill and such a bit, you can make a hole with a screw drill, which is hammering it then turned, then hammering and so on. When using the drill with a masonry bit, steady pressure must be applied during the drilling. If the pressure is relaxed while the bit is in the hole, the bit will tend to slip, accomplishing nothing except dulling it.

Smaller plastic and fiber anchors are available for jobs where the stress won't be too great. They are excellent for such projects as fastening to brick and stucco walls.

Among the other fasteners available is the anchor nail, which actually is a metal plate with holes on it, on the outside of which is a protruding nail. The plate is attached to the wall with a special adhesive, applied generously so that some of it comes out through the perforations, thus providing extra gripping power. A wiring strip or stud is nailed on to the nail, which is then torqued into the wood.

Another possibility is to attach wood directly to the masonry with one of the new, extra strong adhesives. Although this practice is frowned on by most professional workmen, I have seen a completely finished basement in which only adhesive was used to attach the wood to the masonry. It was done two years ago and appears to be a solid job.

It has always been done that way before—pickin' pickles by hand, that is. At least, it was always done that way in Kentucky until recently, when a different way was demonstrated on the Ray Mackey farm in Hardin County.

A mechanical pickle picker, or cucumber harvester if you prefer, was used to harvest some 23 acres of cucumbers grown by Mackey on his farm south of Elizabethtown. It was the first use ever of such a machine in Kentucky, according to C. R. Roberts, extension vegetable specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The machine, which is mounted on a regular farm tractor, has an apparatus which cuts through the soil about two inches deep, going under the cucumber roots. Then a pick-up attachment lifts the vines onto a conveyor. The conveyor takes them through a set of rollers which strip the cucumbers from the vines. They fall onto another conveyor, which carries them into a hopper mounted behind the tractor. The hopper holds about 80 bushels, and can be emptied into a truck.

The cucumbers harvested by the machine were the first ever grown for commercial processing by Mackey. Besides

During my brief stay in a German prison camp during World War II, there was precious little sugar with the meager rations. But to my surprise, the Germans occasionally lavished generous dollops of honey on the coarse black bread they doled out each day.

This became more understandable after I recently thumbed through Hazel Berto's book, "Cooking With Honey." (Crown). According to Mrs. Berto, the honey bee has survived disasters, presumably including wars, famine and the inroads of civilization to continue supplying man with its nectar.

Despite bulldozers that wiped out her meadows and deadly insecticides, the bee has continued to gain usage in a health-conscious nation.

- There is a growing trend away from refined white sugar, whose easy solubility allows it to pass through the walls of the stomach. Some disciples of natural cooking substitute raw or dark brown sugar, but the most popular substitution is honey.

This natural, unrefined food is unique because it is said to be the only unmanufactured sweet available in commercial quantities. Since 75 to 80 per cent of its composition is sugars, honey has an energy-producing value that is virtually unmatched.

Football players, swimmers and runners use honey for quick energy. And, Mrs. Berto says that Sir Edmund Hillary included it on his Mt. Everest expedition.

We have some 1,200 commercial bee keepers in America and with more than 300,000 amateur apiarists, this country produces about one third of the world's 900 million pounds of honey a year.

There are innumerable flavors of honey to choose from but most of it is made from orange, locust, sage, maple, blueberry, blackberry, buckwheat, clover and fireweed. Clover, sage and fireweed are among the milder types and are good for general cookery.

One dish I like is chicken breasts basted with honey and Port wine

When the American Revolution of 1776 caused a shortage of cotton rags to make paper, the proprietors of a cotton fiber paper mill in North Carolina appealed to the people to turn in their old rags. They particularly encouraged young ladies to send in their worn-out cotton handkerchiefs, telling them that they would be returned to them again in the form of love letters from their sweethearts.

getting into cucumber production this year, he also raises about 500 acres of corn and has beef cattle, hogs and tobacco on his 1200-acre farm.

The Hardin County farmer's first cucumber crop has proved to be profitable. He sold the cucumbers on contract to the Paramount Food Company of Louisville for $2.40 per bushel. The crop yielded about 200 bushels per acre, providing a gross return of some $480 per acre.

Mackey figured the cost per acre for growing the crop at about $151. This includes the cost of land preparation, seed, herbicide, insecticide, and $70 worth of fertilizer per acre. Adding a cost of $40 per acre for the harvesting and another $50 per acre for transporting the crop to Louisville brings the total cost per acre to about $241. Thus, the crop produced a net return of about $240 per acre.

UK's Roberts said mechanical harvesting could lead to a great expansion of cucumber production in Kentucky. "There is a strong consumer demand for pickles, and Paramount Foods tells us they could use all the cucumbers produced on 5,000 acres," said Roberts. "But it seems unlikely that we can grow that many without mechanical harvesting."

Last year, some 1,800 acres of cucumbers were grown in the state and sold under contract to Paramount, with the entire acreage harvested by hand. The company offered higher prices this year in an effort to encourage growers to increase their acreage. However, Roberts said there has not been a significant increase this year. Cucumbers are a short-term crop, being ready to harvest about 50 days after they are seeded in the field. Mackey plans to seed a second crop, which he hopes to harvest in September. Roberts said it should also be possible to double-crop cucumbers with edible beans or to seed alfalfa or small grain into a field where cucumbers have been harvested.

Because cucumbers mature so rapidly, it is important to use a well-drained soil when growing the crop for mechanical harvesting, notes Jack Snyder, Hardin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. In order to harvest the cucumbers when they are a desirable size for processing, the machine must be able to get into the field within a day after a heavy rain.

A good supply of bees is also necessary to produce top cucumber yields. Bees for Mackey's fields were provided by Kenneth Garman, also a Hardin County farmer, who keeps over 500 colonies of bees. Garman explained that bees are necessary to pollinate the cucumber blooms.

The mechanical harvester used on the Mackey farm was made and owned by the Wilde

Manufacturing Co. of Bailey, Mich. Bernie Wilde, vice-president of the company, said Kentucky has great potential as a cucumber-producing state, especially in view of its long growing season which makes double-cropping possible. He said Mackey's crop would compare favorably in yield and quality with many of the best fields in Michigan. In that state, some 22,000 acres of cucumbers are grown annually for mechanical harvesting.

Mackey grew his cucumber crop on an experimental basis, with the company agreeing to provide the harvester. The machine costs around $20,000, or about the same as a large corn combine. Mackey says a grower would probably need at least 200 acres of cucumbers to make ownership of a harvester worthwhile, or else he would need other growers to raise cucumbers which he could harvest on a custom basis.

Snyder says about 60 acres of hand-harvested cucumbers are being grown for commercial processing in Hardin County this year. He says the county's cucumber acreage would probably expand to 400-500 acres if a mechanical harvester were available. Thus, it appears that cucumbers may make quite a contribution to agricultural income in Hardin County and Kentucky in the years to come.

Hana Hideaway Is Hawaiian Haven

By ROBERT MURPHY
Associated Press Writer
HANA, Hawaii (AP) — The world's rich and famous have always searched the globe for far-away secluded vacation spots where they can let their hair down without interruption. They've discovered such a spot hidden in Hawaii, on the island of Maui. It's called heavenly Hana.

The Robert Kennedys used this little-known Pacific spot as their honeymoon retreat. And Clark Gable made Hana his tropical hideaway to escape the hectic life of a superstar. But on the surface, Hana doesn't look like your ordinary millionaire-filled resort area. Hana, a community of about 850 people, is one of Hawaii's sleepiest towns, with some saying it almost snores at times. It's nestled in exotic greenery around Hana Bay, where Captain Cook once dropped anchor in the late 1700s.

The closest city of any size is Kahului, some 60 long miles away. Those 60 miles can be traversed by car in about three hours, over a road that has more than 700 hairpin curves and just as many holes. The only other way to get to Hana is by small plane, and only one commuter airlines has scheduled stops at the tiny Hana airport. The town consists of two general stores, a couple of gasoline stations, one movie theater that is open only on Thursday and Friday nights, and the Hotel Hana-Maui — the resort that houses this affluent segment of society.

The resort was built in 1946 by Paul I. Fagan, a wealthy San Francisco businessman. An East Coast corporation bought the resort along with the 10,000-acre Hana Ranch in 1968, and is continuing Fagan's original policy of catering to the rich, as the room rates show — about $100 per day for most of the rooms, with one cottage complete with private swimming pool that goes for $300 per day. These prices, of course, include the meals.

When Fagan opened his resort, his fellow millionaires mostly made up the guest list. But as the 1950s began to unfold, the Hollywood set discovered Hana, with Gable leading the pack.

Josephine Kaukaea Medeiros, a resort employee for 28 years and now the social director, said royalty from Japan, Finland, and Holland have also visited here, along with political leaders from all over the world.

But why are these people attracted to this small, unassuming little town with its quaint resort?

"If you want a basic reason why they keep coming and returning, I guess I would have to say it's the people of Hana," Mrs. Medeiros said.

The people here are the kind that made Hawaii famous. They are gentle, warm and friendly — the type the guests apparently aren't in contact with in their parts of the world, she said.

Another reason is the area's isolated location.

Since there isn't much entertainment in the town, the hotel has to provide something for its guests. One night a week, about two dozen of the local townspeople — including the community's only postman — gather at the hotel to sing and dance for the guests. The show is definitely not "professional" by Las Vegas or Hollywood standards, but this is what everyone likes.

"They get enough of that Hollywood stuff on the mainland," said Mrs. Medeiros. "Ours is just Hawaiians in its natural form and beauty — and that's why the people like it so well."

There are an estimated 300,000 wild or unowned cats in Rome.

Fastening anything to a solid concrete or other masonry wall presents certain difficulties that can be overcome only by the use of the proper materials.

Most basic of the fasteners used in concrete is the concrete nail, made of hardened steel, which has the virtue of not requiring a predrilled pilot hole. To prevent it from bending, it must be driven through the wood first and then into the concrete, as is done with 2 by 4 studs. Varying results are obtained with this type of nail, depending on the strength of the person doing the hammering and the resistance of the particular concrete being attacked. When a large amount of fasteners must be driven into concrete, it is well to look into the various kinds of stud drivers and stud hammers on the market. The heavy duty, power-actuated models can be rented.

Expansion anchors or shields are hammered into pre-drilled holes in the masonry. The anchors are smaller than the shields, but both operate on the same principle. A hole is drilled into the masonry and the anchor or shield is then hammered or tapped into the opening. When a screw or bolt is inserted into the anchor or shield, the latter expands inside the hole and grips firmly.

Because the bit in the chuck of a drill will be dulled quickly when used in concrete, a carbide-tipped masonry bit must be used. In the absence of a drill and such a bit, you can make a hole with a star drill, which is hammered, then turned, then hammered, and so on. When using the drill with a masonry bit, steady pressure must be applied during the drilling. If the pressure is relaxed while the bit is in the hole, the bit will tend to slip, accomplishing nothing except dulling it.

Smaller plastic and fiber anchors are available for jobs where the stress won't be too great. They are excellent for such projects as fastening to brick and stucco walls.

Among the other fasteners available is the anchor nail, which actually is a metal plate with holes on it, on the outside of which is a protruding nail. The plate is attached to the wall with a special adhesive, applied generously so that some of it comes out through the perforations, thus providing extra gripping power. A furring strip or stud is nailed onto the nail, which is then toenailed into the wood.

Another possibility is to attach wood directly to the masonry with one of the new, extra strong adhesives. Although this practice is frowned on by most professional workmen, I have seen a completely finished basement in which only adhesive was used to attach the wood to the masonry. It was done two years ago and appears to be a solid job.

Christian Group Helps Poor Mothers

By BOB COOPER
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth."

This verse, from the first Epistle of St. John, is the spark that ignited Lexington's Mother-to-Mother program, a small band of church women who reach out to help the poor.

"That's the whole idea of the thing," Linda Ashley, founder and chairwoman of the organization here, said.

As a part of a much larger program started by the Christian Church Disciples of Christ six years ago in St. Louis, Mrs. Ashley formed the Mother-to-Mother chapter here earlier this year.

In it, teams of three church women are matched with a fourth mother, who is on welfare, to help her reach whatever goals she sets for herself.

"It's a completely inter-denominational and interracial," Mrs. Ashley said, "and we don't think of it as helping the mothers on welfare, but rather enabling them."

At first, Mrs. Ashley said, the State Welfare Department "was a little leery about giving us names of people on welfare, but now that they've seen how it's working out, they're tickled to death with it."

The mothers on welfare receive no money through the program. In fact, "we ask our members never to give money," Mrs. Ashley said. "Instead, we help them find resources where they can get what they need."

"We have a $25 emergency fund in case money is ever needed, but we've never spent it," she added.

"One team in St. Louis did pay a woman's rent for a few months and, after that, she didn't want to see them again and the whole project failed," she said.

Otherwise, there are almost no rules in the Mother-to-Mother program, Mrs. Ashley said, "except the simple rules of humanity and love."

The idea is to form lasting friendships, with those who are on welfare and those who are not sharing common problems and helping each other solve them.

"We don't try to convert anybody, but actions speak louder than words and sometimes it works out that way," Mrs. Ashley said. "This is just what Christians should be doing."

Meetings are held each month, but members don't have to attend, she said. "In fact, the beauty of this program is that women can work at it whenever they have time."

Three church women are selected for each team "because people don't always relate," Mrs. Ashley said. "Usually, one of them becomes a friend to the fourth woman and the others can help in other ways."

Although she won't be too specific lest the women on welfare might be identified, Mrs. Ashley did give some examples of her group's work.

"One girl, who grew up in a foster home, didn't know how to look for a job, so the other women took her to 17 places until she finally got a job," she said.

"And another woman has a job, but is still eligible for food stamps. She can't go get them though, unless she takes a day off from work, so one of her friends is going to get them for her," she said.

Besides helping those who need help, Mrs. Ashley said, the program "helps us learn some of the myths about the welfare program. In fact, the lady who volunteered to get the food stamps drives a Cadillac, so I guess we'll be adding to those myths ourselves."

The Lexington program, which includes 11 teams of women who are members of 16 different churches, was begun in February, "but it was just about last month that we got set up."

"Our teams are just now getting comfortable with each other," Mrs. Ashley said, "but we're planning to start some more teams in the fall."

With some financial help from churches here, the Mother-to-Mother program also receives some funds from the Christian Church, Mrs. Ashley said, "but we're hoping to become financially independent soon so those national funds can be used to start programs in other places."

Currently, some form of the original change through involvement program that was begun in 1968 is in action in 35 communities in 11 states, Mrs. Ashley said.

BLACK ARTS FESTIVAL LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — At least 71 nations have registered to participate in the second World Black and African Festival of the Arts and Culture, to be held here in the fall of 1975.

A government announcement said, however, only 15 countries have so far paid the required $10,000 registration fee.

Emilio Pucci Designs With Tender Loving Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

People are looking for L.C. (tender loving care) in the market place. And they are getting it, says Italian fashion innovator Emilio Pucci. The merchandising scene is changing mainly because "Americans are leading the world in the matter of perfected ideas."

"In any Godforsaken spot in Africa, Asia or wherever, a little man in a tiny village is working on something that has name are from his own vineyards. Pucci's six signed lithographs on view now in galleries in New York, Washington, D.C., Miami, Houston, San Francisco and Oakbrook, Ill., depict a serene atmosphere "because people are not in the mood to be distressed further by the objects around them," he insists.

"If art is to have value, it should express this urgent feeling — serenity and optimism — that people seek. People have a desire to get back to a human dimension of life."

"It is the reason people shop flea markets for old things that reflect concern on the part of people who made them. It might be a little lace pin cushion with a hand-embroidered initial that is not just a cushion but an object made lovingly to express affection for a grandmother," he says.

The persistence of Americans is one reason his own design board is going off in so many directions. In fact, 25 years ago while in the Air Force Pucci was, in essence, an American discovery. He was pressed into designing sportswear when an American fashion editor found that he had designed the ski clothes he was wearing. Later he went on to design dresses, purses, shoes, lingerie and jewelry. In these last years he has designed everything from bath towels to carpets for the home. Now he is on to lamps.

"If I achieve what I want in lighting — a whole new concept of color — it will be unique in the history of interiors," he says enthusiastically. "I am trying to get out of light and color things which, historically, never have been done."

Famed for his vivid colors in clothes — Capri blue, geranium, almond green, Emilio pink and the like — often combined in his unmistakable geometric prints, he remarked that they were designed for open air activity "at a time when colors were drab." He considers "the framework of nature the very best test of color."

In Florence, the nobleman — he is a marchese — conducts a majestic household. He lives in a thousand-year-old family palace with such heirlooms as plates painted by Raphael and bedroom walls done by Wedgwood. The wine bearing his People may talk about the ugly American, but one day this effort will be recognized as the greatest economic and sociological influence of American civilization over the rest of the world," he said.

Even he feels the impetus as he is constantly invited to do new things and now finds himself "more and more in the field of home furnishings." A life-long painter, he has just introduced his first collection of lithographs.

We are turning away from the "infinity of products which have surrounded us since the industrial revolution, the essentially materialistic things that were created with a view to mass-production and low cost," he continued.

"Fewer people are buying things just because they look pretty, but if the object gives one the feeling that it originated with human warmth, one may be drawn to it."

Newsday's visual element of a product must embody something more than an aesthetic feature. It must convey a message which relates to a human feeling or concern for other people.

"It is the reason people shop flea markets for old things that reflect concern on the part of people who made them. It might be a little lace pin cushion with a hand-embroidered initial that is not just a cushion but an object made lovingly to express affection for a grandmother," he says.

Recipe Search Was Successful

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It took a long time, but Lily Roberts was finally able to recreate the Fresh Plum Tart her mother made when Lily was a child and which she loved better than any other dessert.

When she was 16 years old, Mrs. Roberts escaped from Vienna at the time of the Hitler regime and came to the United States to live with a cousin. Among the few treasured possessions young Lily brought with her was her mother's handwritten cookbook. When her cousin, who prided herself on being extremely practical, saw the cookbook was written in metric measurements, she tossed it away as being of no use in this country.

Lily was heartbroken but determined. After she married and had a home of her own, she searched through cookbooks from Austria and Germany to find the Fresh Plum Tart recipe. When she did, she translated it into English and then into American measurements before she tried it. These days Mrs. Roberts bakes the Fresh Plum Tart at the special request of her granddaughter.

When we made the dessert, our tasters gobbled it up! Here is the recipe for the delectation of your family and guests.

FRESH PLUM TART
2 cups unsifted flour
1-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons heavy cream
2-3 cups red currant jelly
1 tablespoon brandy or water
2 pounds fresh plums (about 12), quartered with pits removed
1/4 cup sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon nutmeg
In a medium mixing bowl stir together the flour, sugar and lemon rind. With a pastry blender cut in butter until particles are fine. In a cup, with a fork, beat together the egg yolks and cream until combined; add to flour mixture and toss with a fork to blend. Pat over bottom of a lightly buttered 15 by 10 by 1 inch jelly-roll pan; prick well with a fork. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. Meanwhile in a small saucepan over low heat, stirring often, melt jelly with brandy; brush some of the hot jelly over the hot pastry; arrange plums, cut sides down, over pastry; sprinkle with sugar-nutmeg mixture. Continue baking in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven and spoon remaining warm melted jelly over plums. Cool partially; cut into portion and serve while still quite warm. Makes 12 servings. This delicious dessert tastes best eaten at one sitting because if it stands after it is cut, the juice from plums will seep into the pastry and take away from its delicious "short" quality.

Be a Sport: Add New Words To Vocabulary

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The English language often grows by leaps and bounds, but these days it could be said to be growing by "leaps and rebounds."

Because of the phenomenal interest in sports, many new sports words are coming into the language and old ones are being dusted off and put back into circulation.

All kinds of new words — from "enduro" to "orient-eering," from "demolition derby" to "crackback" and from "juke" to "black-flag" — can be heard wherever sports fans gather.

The instigators in all this sports excitement are television, plus a greater interest in leisure sports such as skiing and golf, says Robert Copeland, associate editor at G. & C. Merriam Co. As the specialist in sports words he researched and edited all the new ones in this category going into Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. They included "kung fu," "slot-back" and "squib kick," among others.

Not only the giant sports, like baseball, football or basketball, have captured the imagination of the nation. Golf, Tennis, ice hockey, auto racing, bowling, boating and skiing are all popular today, and they all have their own terminology.

"Leisure sports have been an important factor," Copeland notes. "For the most part these are not spectator sports. People get involved, and naturally they want to know what the words mean." The language of any sport, he adds, is really a means for understanding it.

"If I didn't know what 'schuss' meant in skiing, how could I be a good 'schussboomer'? We have 'hang five' in surfing, 'masse' in billiards and 'repechage' in rowing. Knowing what they mean heightens our interest in the sport."

Copeland points out that ordinary words have taken on new meanings with their use in sports. Some of the newer terms are actually made up of familiar words like "time trial," "upfield," "racetracker" and "passing shot."

Each year new words turn up in the ever-changing world of sports. "Biathlon" is a cross-country ski and sharpshooting event. "Suicide squad" is a special team used in kickoffs in football. "Autocross" is an automobile gymkhana, which is a timed contest for automobiles to test driving skills. "Crackback" is a blind-side block in football. While most new words or phrases come from the big sports like football and baseball, a surprising number come from auto racing and other sports that mushroomed in popularity during the '60s. Such words as "rallymaster," "shunt" and "fueler" all come from auto racing.

Other words have come from other sports: "body surfing," which means surfing without a board; "goalmouth" from hockey or soccer, meaning the area directly in front of the goal; "unweight" from skiing, meaning to momentarily reduce the force exerted on a ski.

From track we have "rabbit," a runner who sets a fast pace in the first part of a long-distance race; from football "clothesline," a tackle in which the player's outstretched arm catches the ball-carrier by the neck; "dunk shot" from basketball, where the ball is thrown down into the basket.

Football has given us "power sweep," "shotgun" and "red dog." From baseball we get "home stand," "fire power" and "warning track." The roller derby has given us "jam," basketball "pivot man" and track "thin clad."

Copeland notes that some sports which have an entire terminology of their own, like soccer and rugby, have yet to catch on in this country on a professional basis, while others like ballooning, skeet and gymnastics, are just beginning to get attention.

"We never know when some sport will suddenly take on international excitement and bring into play a whole set of unfamiliar terms," Copeland says. "When it does, we'll have to be alert to find the words, define them and put them into the dictionary."

Rugby, anyone?

Atom power on the increase

Thirty-seven per cent of electric generating capacity added by utilities in the United States this year will be nuclear, according to a survey conducted by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

By the end of 1974, the association estimates, generating capacity will be 10.6 per cent above the capacity at the end of last year. — CNS
