COUNTY TOURNEY STARTS THURSDAY

The Fulton county basketball tournament will be held February 12, 13 and 14 in Hickman. This is the first county tournament to be held in Fulton county and only four high school teams are in the competition.

Representatives of the four schools met in Hickman recently and drawings were as follows:

Fulton and Western play on Thursday night, both the first and second teams. Cayce and Hickman, both first and second teams, play Friday night. The surviving teams, both first and second, will play Saturday night.

At the close of the finals Saturday night trophies will be awarded to the winning first and second teams.

The games will begin at 7:30, with the second teams playing first.

Harry Newton, Hickman, will be the official timekeeper and Billy Campbell, Cayce, the official scorer.

Bob Phillips, Wickliffe, will call the Thursday and Saturday games, and Willard Carroll will call the Friday night games.

This tournament is being held on a co-operative basis, and each school will share equally in the net ticket receipts.

Sale Defense Bonds On Increase Here

There has been a steady increase in the sale of defense bonds at the Fulton post office. After the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, and declaration of war on December 8, sale of defense bonds here have jumped from $5,000 a month to nearly $35,000.

During the month of December 150 bonds were sold in Fulton, but January topped that with 200 bonds being issued.

More Than 1400 Federal Motor Tax Stamps Sold

More than 1400 federal motor tax stamps have been issued from the Fulton post office. Because this city is located on the Kentucky-Tennessee state line, many stamps have been issued for Tennessee motorists as well as Kentucky drivers. Those who operate motor vehicles are urged to apply for this federal stamp for the first quarter before they become delinquent.

The next payment of the federal tax on use of motor vehicles becomes due July 1, 1942, at the rate of $5 for the full fiscal year.

Charles Ivy Succeeds Fishgall At Swift's

Charles Ivy, who has been assistant manager of the Swift and Company plant here for the past year, became local manager February 1, succeeding William Fishgall who was transferred to Clarinda, Iowa. Mr. Fishgall, who has been with Swifts for about twenty years, had been manager here for the past two years and had many friends in Fulton who will wish him much success in his new position.

Mr. Ivy has been an employee of Swift and Company for eleven years and came to Fulton from West Point, Miss.

E. E. Speight has been named as the new assistant manager.

FULTON TO GO ON WAR-TIME MONDAY

On Monday, February 9, at 2 a.m. Daylight Saving Time will go into effect in Fulton and South Fulton, as it will in every other community throughout the nation. A proclamation to that effect has been issued by local officials and at that time all clocks will be set forward one hour.

In Fulton, city schools will open at 8 o'clock, D.S.T., and close at 3:40, D.S.T., according to J. O. Lewis, superintendent of the city schools.

In Obion county all schools will operate under the Daylight Savings plan but schools will open and close one hour later than they formerly did. This regulation will be in effect at South Fulton school which is a part of the county school system.

The Seigel factory, which has been opening at 8 o'clock and closing at 5 o'clock present time, under the new plan will start at 8 o'clock and quit at 5 p.m., D.S.T.

Bulldogs Whip Hickman In Close Game

The Fulton Bulldogs defeated the Hickman Wildcats 22 to 20 in one of the closest and most thrilling games of the season Friday night at the Science Hall. A five-minute overtime period was necessary to decide the winner. At the end of the regular time, the referee had ruled the Bulldogs winner by a score of 19 to 18, but because of dissatisfaction among the Hickman coach and spectators, Coach Giles agreed to call the score a tie at 18 to 18 and play a five-minute overtime period.

The Hickman team led through most of the game but in the last half the Bulldogs seemed to be able to surpass the Wildcats and came from behind to win. McClellan was high point man with 11 points.

The Hickman "B" team won 21 to 9 over the Pups.

BULLDOGS BEAT BARDWELL BY 40-25 SCORE

The Bulldogs of Fulton High whipped the Bardwell Indians by a score of 40 to 25 at the Science Hall Tuesday night. The Bulldogs were in the lead all the way and held the Indians to only nine points in the first half.

Reed was high point man for the local team with 13 points, and McClellan was second with 10.

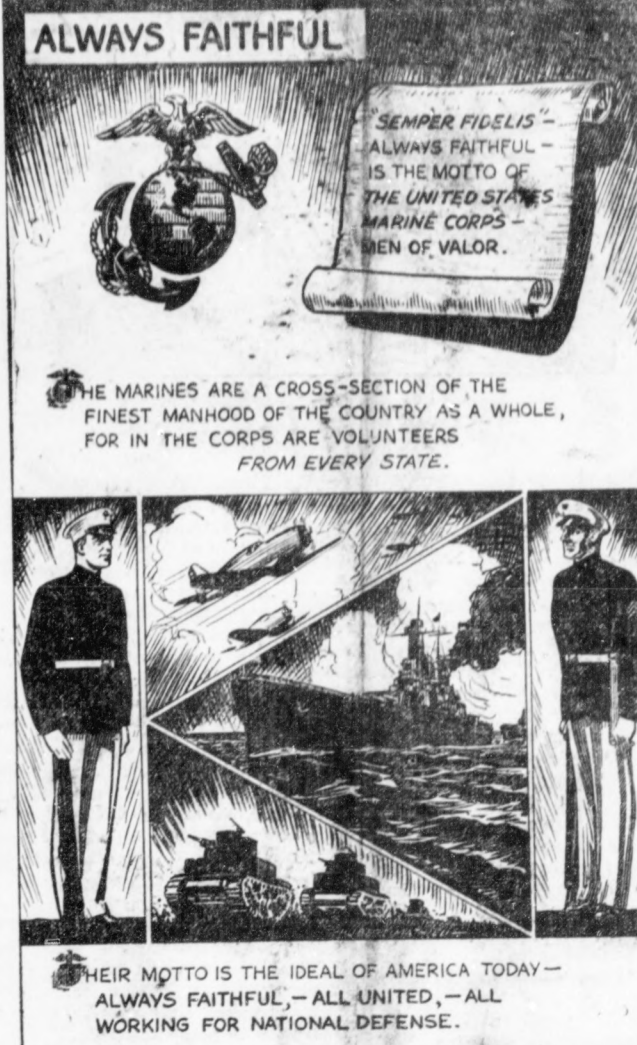

The Bulldogs have only one home game left on the schedule, when Clinton comes to Fulton on February 17. The Bulldogs go to Milburn on Friday night of this week, to Arlington on February 24, and to Hickman on February 27.

Wheat Loans For 1941 Total $1,148,102

Commodity Credit Corporation loans to Kentucky wheat growers totaled $1,148,102.37 on 1,031,631 bushels of the State's 1941 wheat crop, the State AAA Office announces.

The loans, which support the market by placing a floor under prices, are secured by grain stored in warehouses approved by the corporation. The total amount represents 2,447 individual loans.

Virtually all wheat loans to Kentucky farmers in previous years have been repaid, upon repayment of the loans, farms reclaim the wheat stored as collateral.

COUNCIL IN REGULAR MEET MONDAY NIGHT

The Mayor and City Council of Fulton met Monday night in regular session with all members present. After the routine business matters, several important questions were discussed and acted upon.

The council voted to raise the city automobile tax from $3.00 to $5.00.

J. H. Stone was reappointed tax assessor.

Carl King, who had charge of the city street cleaning and garbage work, was reappointed for the same job at $245 per month.

Frank Brady, chairman of the street committee, was authorized to obtain the necessary parts and see to the repair of the street flusher. A reconditioned used truck was recently purchased for $225 to be used in mounting the street flusher.

The council approved the purchase of a new police car as soon as the federal government restriction ban is lifted. The city police car was stolen Christmas night by a negro and wrecked on the Mayfield highway near the city limits. Adjustment has been obtained from the insurance company on the old car and this amount will be applied on the purchase of a new car.

The council set the tax rate at $1.05 per hundred, which is the same as it has been in the past.

A new innovation that the city of Fulton will be hearing before long is a new fire siren which will be placed on the roof of the City Hall.

The council went on record as endorsing the TVA bill now pending in legislature.

It was agreed to issue a proclamation in conformity with national regulations in regard to Daylight Saving Time, by which the clocks of the city of Fulton will be set up 1 hour at 2 a.m., February 16.

The car was driven by Gaither Jones, manager of the New York store, at Hickman, and witnesses stated that the victim stepped directly into the path of the car.

FOR DEFENSE

OUR RISING SUN

The Duty of Civilians

By RUTH TAYLOR

No longer is war for the military alone. With the annihilation of time and space, we have foreshortened the world, and the front line trenches are just as liable to be in our cities and villages, as on a far off battle front. This puts us in the war—for civilian defense is as much an arm of our fighting forces as the army, navy or air corps.

Civilian defense does not signify that you have any right to protection. It means work for you, and me, and each and every one of us, no matter where we live, nor what our station in life, nor at what we toil.

It really isn't anything new to us. Every frontier settlement knew what civilian defense meant. When the alarm was sounded and the settlers trooped into the blockhouse, each of them had a task to do, from the men with their muskets at the loopholes, to the women, reloading the rifles and molding the bullets, to the small boys carrying water, and putting out fires, and to the girls looking after the younger children.

Civilian defense is self-preservation, pure and simple. The armed forces must be free to think only of the enemy. Civilians must be trained to look after themselves and not be spectators. They must not divert either supplies, time or energy from the main task of winning the war.

There are certain simple rules to follow. First, coordinate your own household for defense. Be sure you have followed all your local defense board's suggestions for blackouts and precautions against incendiary bombs, and that you know the basic rules for personal protection. Plan what you would do in an emergency and be prepared for it. Better a false alarm than unpreparedness. Know just what you and each member of your family is to do—and give them all, even the youngest, set tasks. Work is the greatest preventative of panic.

Next—register for same specific job. Learn how to do it, and be ready to obey orders. This is not a time for heroics. Single handed heroism is fine, but a little careful cooperation is likely to be more efficient.

Last—trust those in authority to tell you when an emergency arises. Don't listen to or spread rumors. When the time of trial arises, do what you are told to do and keep cool. It's like going up in an airplane—you have to do your worrying first, for worrying after you are up won't do you any good—there's nothing you can do about it.

Isolation has become a fact. We are now an island under siege and we must subordinate ourselves voluntarily to the all out effort to win this war!

Behind the Scenes In American Business

ABNORMAL — The feverish national shopping spree continues unabated as customers stock their pantries, clothes closets and linen presses against threatened shortages. Department store sales for four weeks average 34 per cent above a year ago, and other storekeepers report distinctly abnormal demand for about 50 items and commodities. OPA has been given power to ration all consumers' goods, but until the machinery for officials limiting of purchases can be set up it'll be largely a matter of customers' patriotism, conscience and good taste that determine whether the buying wave is confined to prudent anticipation of needs or breaks over into the category of hoarding. Old-timers say that, generally speaking, hoarding is not as rife now as during World War I. . . . they're confident that pressure of public opinion and disapproval by "the neighbors" is holding in check any tendency for customers to stock up outlandishly, at the expense of fellow consumers.

HALF-AGAIN — Indications now are that by the time the auto industry reaches its peak of arms production—around mid-43—it will require a total of about half-again as many workers as it ever employed at any one time in making autos. General Motors, for example, expects to have need for 450,000, against a peacetime top of 300,000. Rate of re-employment in the industry's new and converted arms plants now is figured at about 20,000 a month, and the hiring rate will get progressively faster.

HOME MADE — America's all-out war effort works vast changes throughout the whole geography of the nation. A case in point is Arkansas. Known as the principal U. S. source of bauxite (ore of aluminum) for more than a half-century, the Razorback state has never achieved a plant for making aluminum, nor one for making alumina, the intermediate step in the conversion of bauxite to metal. You see, it takes nine pounds of other materials, and more than 10,000 watts of electric power to make a pound of aluminum; and Arkansas

BITS O' BUSINESS

Quick-frozen foods, due to get a further popularity push from the tin can curtailment, already have been making giant strides. Installation of some 4,500 freezer-locker plants has doubled consumption of that type of food, with plants in nearly every state serving at least a million families. . . . Home sewing's comeback as a war economy trend is reflected in White Sewing Machine Company's sales gains for 1941. . . . Freeport Sulphur company has renewed its pledge of a year ago not to increase its base price of sulphur for delivery this year, an action applauded by OPA chief Henderson as exemplary (this product is a primary industrial raw material particularly vital to war industries). . . . Spring fashion notes, a la WPB, skirts will be shorter and have fewer flared effects, women's coats and suits will have trim, non-balloon sleeves, "inside" rather than "patch" pockets, and scantier linings.

ARMY-RETREADERS — If there were any lingering doubts in civilian minds about the reality and critically of the rubber situation, they should be dispelled by news that the Army is doing its part to conserve rubber and make tires go farther—even as you and I, and maybe more so! A new training school, in which army personnel will learn tire retreading and proper tire care, went into session last week under the direction of B. F. Goodrich technicians. In addition to instruction in care and maintenance of tires and tubes of all types, the soldiers will learn about rubber, "endless tracks," aircell rubber and other products made by the company for military purposes.

Financial Changes

The drastic readjustments necessitated by the emergency have brought about marked changes in financial conditions, but these have occasioned no serious disturbance, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. Many foreign currencies have virtually disappeared from the exchange market, and transactions in the others have been subjected to increasingly close governmental control. The Survey continues. The flow of gold to the United States has been the smallest in several years, and in the last few months the movement has dwindled to an almost insignificant volume. Thus the principal factor contributing to the increase in bank reserves in recent years has been eliminated. At the same time, the amount of currency in actual circulation has continued to expand rapidly. The increase in circulation during the year has been more than twice as large as the growth of the gold stock, with the result that bank reserves are considerably smaller than a year ago.

The excess reserves of member banks have declined even more sharply by reason of the increase in reserve requirements that became effective at the beginning of November. This increase was met by the banks without difficulty, but it was largely instrumental in reducing the excess reserves of member banks to the lowest level in nearly three years. Another factor tending to lower the amount of excess reserves has been the marked expansion of bank credit. Both the loans and the investments of the banks have increased sharply. The rise in loans is accounted for mainly by larger commercial, industrial and agricultural loans, which reflect the more active demand for business credit incident to the defense program and the general trade expansion. The increase in investments is due primarily to larger holdings of Government obligations, which, of course, also reflect the growing financial requirements of national defense. The deposits of the banks likewise have risen sharply during the year, although the increase has been much smaller than that in loans and investments—presumably because of the withdrawal of currency for hand-to-hand use.

The rising demand for short-term business credit has found only a faint reflection in the market for new corporate securities. Flotations have been larger than in the last few years but very small in comparison with the levels reached before the great depression. The bulk of the new issues has continued to represent mainly refunding operations, with the amount of new capital even smaller by contrast with past experience.

Other Results of Rearmament

In foreign trade, even more than in domestic business, expansion due to war requirements has been offset by shrinkage in other directions. Our trade with continental Europe has been almost non-existent throughout the year, and the same conditions existed in our trade with Japan for some time prior to the outbreak of war with that nation. To an even greater extent than last year, our trade has been sustained by the exchange of strategic war materials with a comparatively small number of countries. The only important division of our foreign trade representing a partial exception to this tendency has been with the other countries of the Western Hemisphere, and even in that area the volume and composition of our exports and imports have become increasingly subject to centralized control dictated by strategic considerations. Military requirements have, of

Speed As Usual

Business as usual—that's what some people are saying about American industrial production in 1941. According to them, industry didn't change quickly from making consumer goods to making weapons.

Such criticism indicates a lack of understanding of the facts, however. Business was anything but usual during that year. America had no armament industry. Before it could begin making weapons in quantity, it had to build new factories, new tools, develop new skills. It had to start from scratch. But it did start and start quickly to meet defense requirements. The 245 per cent increase in military plane production in 1941 over 1940 can never be called business as usual. The 23 per cent increase in steel production, 72 per cent in motor truck output—these are anything but "usual" in America or anywhere else in the world.

The record of the past year shows that progress on war orders has been fast. New plants have gone up in record time. Many specific orders have been finished ahead of schedule. The keynote of the whole production job has been speed—speed as usual. That's the only "as usual" there has been in the entire program.

Not Too Big

An airplane every four minutes with fewer of the comforts and . . . two ships a day . . . a tank every seven minutes. That's the war work schedule that President Roosevelt has set for American industry. That's what 125,000 planes, 75,000 tanks and 10,000,000 tons of shipping mean in terms of actual production. Some idea of the size of the job ahead may be had from the fact that the airplane goal is six times our 1941 output.

Even though it's a big job, industry's past record indicates that it's not too big to handle. It will take hard work, of course, and long hours. We'll all have to get along with fewer of the comforts and conveniences we accepted so casually in peace time. We'll all have to make sacrifices and do our share. But, with a continuous flow of materials and the cooperation of all groups concerned, the job can be done.

And it shall be done. That is the important fact. The industrial system that in former years gave us the highest standard of living in the world can now give us the most weapons. In peace time that system was the envy of our enemies. Now in war time it will be their final destruction.

Waste Not . . . Want Not

America has always been a wasteful country. Nature has been so lavish and mass production so prolific that we've had an abundance of everything from crude oil to hair pins. Advertising and attractive prices have encouraged our natural tendency to get something new rather than to patch things up or get along with the old.

Now things are different. Over night, almost, there are shortages. We begin to see dimly for the first time what it would mean to have to make the old thing "do" much longer than we wish—what it would mean to "get along" with what we have. We begin to realize that discarded tucks away in the attic, or piled up in a shed in the back yard, or even thrown on the village dump heap, have value.

Freedom to waste is among the luxuries we must sacrifice during the war. We've got to begin saving our resources, turning them to be the best account for victory. Though we may have to pull in our belts now, in the long run the habit of saving will do us good. Perhaps after the war, when our factories begin turning out all kinds of civilian goods again, we'll make more careful use of our raw materials and have a greater appreciation of manufactured products than we've ever had before.

God must have loved the plain people; He made so many of them. —Abraham Lincoln.

TIME TO STOP RAISING THE COOKIE JAR

Special taxes on Kentucky motorists during the last five years July 1, 1936, to June 30, 1941, amounted to $6,300,000. The annual $1 drivers' license fee produced $2,180,000 and the 3% sales tax on automobiles brought in $6,120,000. None of this money was used for road purposes but was diverted to the state general fund for non-highway uses. An amendment to the state Constitution to stop the practice of diversion is being urged by Kentucky motorists.

Farm Defense Board Says Order Repair Parts Now

This farmer is ordering his repair parts now, thereby making sure that his farm equipment will be in top shape for seeding and harvesting. The County USDA Defense Board says it is highly important that all farmers do this. Last minute repairs may not be possible due to shortages. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has declared that it is every farmer's patriotic duty to have his machinery in best possible condition in 1942 for production of victory foods. "Check over your old machinery and order necessary parts from your dealer," he advises. "If parts cannot be obtained, notify your County USDA Defense Board."

The New Hat

By SELMA HART
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service)

BILL KEMP, the head of the exchange department, looked up wearily from his desk. It had been a day of odd jobs—refunds, complaints, exchanges. Everything had been relatively unimportant and yet everything demanded instant attention. Had Bill Kemp been ten years older than he was he would not have taken it so seriously, and consequently would have been nearly as fresh at the end of the day as he was early in the morning.

"I want," said a pair of violet eyes, at least Bill Kemp would have sworn that it was the eyes that spoke, so timidly and questionably did they regard him. "I want to know if I could do something about my lace hat."

Bill Kemp sighed. They were such marvelous eyes. And then to be mundanely interested in a hat—a silly lace hat.

"Well," he said gruffly, "what did you contemplate doing about this lace hat? If it's been worn it can't possibly be accepted for exchange or refund."

The latter words issued mechanically from his mouth, and he wondered subconsciously how many hundreds of times he had uttered that same sentence—sometimes about gloves, sometimes about hair goods, sometimes about shoes.

"Oh, it hasn't been worn!" came the soft voice again. The voice sounded as though it were full of tears and he looked at the violet eyes again. Sure enough, there were large tears there.

Bill Kemp steeled himself. All women used tears as a means to an end and he determined that he would not be taken in. "Well, go on, go on," he said as testily as he could.

"You see I decided last Saturday that I could take it—it's a beautiful hat. Oh, it was really the most beautiful hat in the whole world, I think," she said wistfully. "I looked and looked at it—before, you know—and on Saturday I paid a deposit on it, a deposit of a dollar. I was to take it this Saturday, but—"

"I—I believe that I shan't need it after all."

"And so you want the dollar back again I take it?" he said, tapping his pencil against the desk and regarding it coolly.

"Oh, my, no," she said softly. Of course they wouldn't give back the dollar, but I went to the millinery department and the clerk said that I had agreed to take it and I would have to finish paying for it. I—I have the money, but—"

"Will you sit down?" said Bill Kemp, rising suddenly, wondering why it was that he had not thought of it before. "I haven't been head of the department long and I am at a loss to understand one thing. Why do women buy a thing, take it home and then run right back here to return it?"

The violet eyes crinkled at the corners and the soft pink lips twitched. "I don't know," she confessed. "I never do myself. It's not that I probably wouldn't if I had the chance, but I work and so I scarcely have time to buy what I need let alone buying things for the fun of thinking I really owned them for a while before I returned them. It must be lots of fun, mustn't it?"

"And so you want to leave this flower hat on our hands," he expostulated. "Oh, no, not flower!" she exclaimed in horrified tones. "It's lace. And besides, I don't want to leave it on your hands. I'd love to keep it myself only I heard about this Mrs. Benzinger whose husband is in the hospital and whose children are all so small that she can't work. It wouldn't be right to wear a lovely hat when they might be—hungry. If you say I don't have to take the hat I'm going to take a basket out there tonight." She looked at her watch. "It's 'way, 'way out in—"

"You run along and get the basket and I'll see about the dollar refund. Then when you get the basket filled come back here and get the dollar and I'll take the basket out for you—wherever it is. You can't be running all over town—a girl like you—"

He listened to her words of thanks with an air of abstraction. "We ought to get a bit of supper at a restaurant, first, maybe," he said nonchalantly, quite as though he were in the habit of asking strange girls to eat with him. He sent the call boy for the dollar and pulling a card from his pocket, wrote down: "She'd like a hat—lace—later."

And the violet-eyed Mrs. Bill Kemp was happily surprised on her birthday a few months later with a round hatbox with a huge violet bow. The hatbox held a hat of lace.

Diamonds, Platinum, in Steel
Diamonds and platinum, used in steel manufacture, run into thousands of karats and grams a year. Most diamonds look like dark gray, sharp-edged pebbles, cost $100 a karat, come from Brazil, are known as "carbons." Another type of diamond used is "borts," imperfect white diamonds, cost $30 a karat. Diamonds are for rock drilling in iron ore mines, for truing grinding wheels, for making dies for drawing wire. Platinum, fine jewelry grade, has at least 10 different uses in steel laboratories.

She did not know that any fire had been left on the poker, and went out to do the washing. In a few minutes her small daughter went to the door and said, "Mother, the wall is afire." Where upon the mother rushed into the house and threw a bucket full of water upon the burning wall paper before much damage was done.

Chickens Help To Feed

The Farm Family.

Here are some interesting facts about the poultry population and its value in Kentucky. Chickens are found on approximately 90 per cent of the 278,298 farms and bring in annually about $25,000,000.

However, they are in small numbers on the majority of the farms, since 62 percent of these farms have fewer than 50 chickens and another 28 percent fewer than 100. This means only 10 percent of the farms in the state have over 100 chickens. Since the figures show that 90 percent of the farmers keep less than 100 chickens and since poultry products are important in the diet of most farm people, an effort should be made to make the small farm flocks more profitable. A good slogan would be "An Egg a Day for Each Member of the Family."

Essential Requirements

1. Five laying pullets per person in the family.
2. Fifteen chicks started per person (March or April).
3. Buy chicks from reliable hatchery or hatchery dealer. Chicks from flocks bloodtested for Pullorum disease.
4. Chickens from general purpose breeds.
5. Use a lantern brooder or other good brooding method.
6. Feed a complete ration.
  - (1) 1st to 4th week—commercial food—1 lb. of feed per chick.
  - (2) 4th to 12th week—home-grown grain (corn and wheat) 6 pounds, 1-2 pound of meat scraps, (2 percent salt), 1 gallon liquid skim milk and clean green range.

H. T. Edwards went to St. Louis with a load of hogs last Saturday. Mrs. H. T. Edwards and son, Tommie, visited in Gibbs last week end.

Mrs. Homer Dunn visited Mrs. Will Britton last Thursday afternoon.

(3) 12th to laying age—home-grown grains (corn and wheat) 13 pounds, 2 pounds of scrap meat and clean range.

5. Laying year—home grown grain (corn and wheat) 60 pounds, 4 pounds meat scrap, 5 gallons of liquid skim milk, 2 1-2 pounds of limestone and clean green range.

6. Equipment:

- (1) Laying house 10'x12' or the equivalent to 120 square feet of floor space.
- (2) For layers:
  - a. One feeder 4 feet long for mash and a smaller feeder for meat scrap.
  - b. One quart bucket for water or milk.
- (3) For baby chicks:
  - a. Two one quart jars with star tops for milk and water.
  - b. Two feeders 2 feet long, 2 inches deep and 6 inches wide for meat scrap and grain.
7. Preservation of eggs:

Not necessary to preserve many eggs if program is followed closely except for late summer or early fall (approximately 6 weeks).
8. Eat or can cull hens.

MORE REPAIRS

MEANS MORE GUNS

Repair farm machinery and put more guns in the hands of the fighting forces.

This is the suggestion made to farmers by H. M. Pewitt, Chairman of the Fulton County USDA War Board, who points out that every piece of old farm machinery that can be reconditioned and put to use in 1942 means critical materials saved for a new implement of war.

The Office of Production Management recognized the vital importance of farm production in the war effort by allocating for farm machinery and repair parts as much as possible of the materials needed for guns, tanks, planes and ships, Mr. Pewitt explained.

But every farmer who repairs an old machine, instead of buying a new one to replace it as he might do in normal times, is giving two-fold aid to the fighting forces by releasing essential materials for war use as well as producing food for the war effort, Mr. Pewitt said.

In the campaign now under way for the repair of old farm machinery in Fulton County, time is the essential element, Mr. Pewitt emphasized. Farmers can be sure of getting repair parts for planting, cultivating and harvesting this year's crops only by checking all machinery now and ordering repair parts immediately, he said.

COSTS LESS TO RAISE MORE PIGS PER LITTER

In order to supply the pork needed in 1942 for the Nation and our allies farmers should make every effort to raise more pigs per litter, states J. S. Robinson, U-T Agricultural Extension swine specialist. When the number of pigs saved per litter in increased the cost per head is reduced, he says.

You can raise a litter of eight pigs to weaning time about as cheaply as you can four, according to Robinson's figures. At present feed prices, it costs approximately $5.00 each to get a litter of four pigs old enough to wean, but this can be cut to about $2.50 each in a litter of eight.

The annual loss of pigs in the suckling stage is about thirty-five per cent, Robinson says. The average sow raises about six pigs, in spite of the fact that she farrows eight or nine.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture lists eleven causes for pig losses as follows: 9 per cent are laid on, 5 per cent farrowed dead, 4 per cent farrowed weak, 3.5 per cent have intestinal infection, 3.3 per cent are born prematurely, 2 per cent are starved, 1.8 per cent have scours, 1.6 per cent are chilled, 1.5 per cent are eaten by the sow, and 2 per cent die of miscellaneous causes.

Habit, if not resisted, soon becomes necessity.—St. Augustine.

Why Keep Advertising

WHEN BUSINESS IS SLACK WHY ADVERTISE!

Did you ever notice that it takes time and experience to accomplish anything worth while? You can't advertise today and expect to find your store crowded tomorrow unless you have through constant advertising educated the public to read your ads.

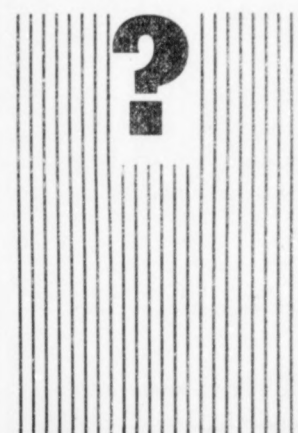

The majority of people are slow to act. You have to tell them the same thing over and over again before they will heed your message.

Advertise now for the business you hope to do next month. It is the cumulative effect that brings results.

SAFETYGRAMS

Are you paying a speed tax? It's a well-known fact that the amount of gasoline and oil used by automobiles increases at higher speeds, but have you ever stopped to figure out how much?

Tests were conducted using 12 cars in the $1,000 and under group. It was found that cars traveling at speeds of 20 to 40 miles per hour averaged 18 to 22 miles per gallon of gas, while the cars traveling at 70 miles per hour got only 12 miles per gallon.

It was also shown that the average engine uses 7 times as much oil at 55 miles per hour as it does at 30.

Don't forget, higher speeds increase tire wear.

Fast driving is highway robbery!

11 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD OPPOSE THIS BILL

1. There is no need for the Legislature to pass the pending bill for the sale of Tennessee Valley Authority electricity in this State because there is no law prohibiting TVA from coming into Kentucky. Its own arbitrary rules alone prevent it from doing so. Why not change the rules and not the law?

2. Kentucky Utilities Company is not opposing TVA's coming into Kentucky, but it does strongly oppose the special privileges which TVA demands before it will come.

The reason for this objection is that the enactment of such a law will ultimately and surely destroy taxpaying electric utility systems in Kentucky as it has in Tennessee.

3. The proposed act is special legislation because—

(a) It permits TVA to come into Kentucky entirely free of any regulation or control. It permits it to come under its own terms and conditions, accountable to no one in the State.

(b) It denies these special privileges to municipalities which generate their own electricity or buy power from anyone else.

4. TVA has no surplus electricity now. Kentucky Utilities and other companies are supplying millions of kilowatt-hours to the TVA system. Why not wait until TVA has power to sell? Conditions at that time may be entirely different than they are now —WHY RUSH TO PASS THIS BILL?

5. Where will the Federal Government and the State of Kentucky replace the following taxes now paid by the private electric utility companies:

State Income Tax . . .

Federal Income Tax . . .

State Unemployment Tax . .

State Old Age Benefit Tax . .

State Gasoline Tax . . .

Capital State Tax . . .

Chain Store Tax . . .

Corporation Commission Tax . . .

Miscellaneous Operating Tax . . .

6. Many taxing districts in Tennessee are not getting as much ad valorem taxes as they got under private operation.

The Pineville Sun reports that as a result of withdrawal from taxation of lands flooded by TVA's Norris Lake, the tax rate on farms in Claiborne county, Tenn., jumped from $2.25 to $3.41 on the $100 valuation, an assessments for many property owners were more than doubled.

7. TVA is an electrical system owned by the Federal Government and is supposed to operate for profit. Yet TVA denies to cities using its power the right to make a profit for their general fund.

8. Proponents of TVA advocate control of electric service because it is universally used. The same might be said for food, medicine and clothing. The government with all its advantages could probably sell all such things cheaper than any private company.

If it is a good thing for electric service, why not place all essential services and products under government operation and control?

9. The use of Hydro-Electric-Power will replace thousands of tons of coal mined in Kentucky by Kentucky miners and hauled by railroads whose employees are Kentuckians.

10. The sponsors of this special legislation have nothing at stake. We of Kentucky Utilities Company have our "Business Life in Kentucky" at stake, along with the welfare of our families and our home communities.

JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in the measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

I. Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3).
These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:35-4:54), but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. May they not be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but have again become engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into a lifetime of service, and the first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was first yielded to Him.

It was not by chance that it was Peter's boat which was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God, and with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to us.

II. Yielded Service (vv. 4-7).
Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitfulness of service apart from His guidance and control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, He showed the disciples that He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows more about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand, and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fisherman—who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11).
The giving of their possessions, the yielding of their work into His hands in obedience, led up to His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims upon the life of the Christian as though it were the fiat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has full authority and power over all of us, but He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the place where they make their own decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of proclaiming the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not visionaries or dreamers, but were practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the school of common toil . . . Though unlearned so far as formal theological training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of the Son of God Himself they received matchless informal training, leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through a study of His Word, assisted by His Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Christ no longer walks this earth to seek and call out disciples as He did these men, but the blessed succession of those of whom it may be said, "They forsook all and followed Him" (v. 11), continues to this day.

We repeat what we have said before, that one of the thrilling things about teaching Sunday school is that somewhere, in some class this next Sunday, God is going to touch the heart of some boy or girl who will be a leader for Him for the next generation.

MEASURING THE CHILDREN

Everywhere now there are health nurses, who weigh and measure us until we hardly feel that we have had our day's allowance of experience until we have had our weight checked. Especially is this true of those of us who have a waist that bulges or protrudes or just plain sags. We are told to weigh before eating or after eating or when hungry or otherwise. Bathroom scales are just too tempting for us all. I like them, because I can weigh without knowing that my shoes or my pocket knife will add a few unnecessary ounces. And I especially like to step up on scales that also measure your height at the same time that your age are seeing whether that long agony of doing without white bread or sweets has taken away any ounces. I know that my height has not changed since the early nineteen-hundreds, but anyway, it is lots of fun to think you may have added a half inch to a height none too great. None of this compares, though, with the measuring bouts we used to indulge in every time some one came to sit till bedtime or when some one came bringing a child that had really grown since we last saw it.

In our particular house there was a closet door that came to be the measuring stick for all of us and the visitors. The door was exactly six feet tall, just the height of my father, who was one of the tallest men in our community. So often had we measured people that the three-foot line was very well marked; in fact, it was a furrow almost entirely across the door. It came to be a base line for us who had got to be big children. Not to come up to it was to be a little fellow indeed. But none of except Father could reach the top of the door, which strangely, looks mighty short today when I see the old house where I was born. Ranged all up the door were the heights of the various ones of us, labelled, but it did us good to make another mark a little higher up.

Do you remember how tall the grown-ups looked when you were a small child? My mother was exactly five feet tall, but to my children she was a giantess. One of my earliest dreams was to be so tall that my head would touch Mother's arm when it was held out straight from the shoulder. By eating heartily, for the purpose of growing and "just 'cause," I one day found that I was away up in the world and actually could feel Mother's outstretched arm tickle my hair when measured. I am none too tall now, but an eight-foot giant never felt bigger than I did then. That form of testing my getting to be a big boy had to yield to something else. It would have been an insult to test myself by that childish method again. But I looked in vain at the top of the closet door, where Father's height was marked.

My body grew in length, breadth and thickness, but short, stock legs were mine. When I see tall fellows even yet, I just remind myself that if I had legs like them, I would look down upon them as they have always looked down on me. Many

The value of telephone service increases as more telephone subscribers are added. During the past two years alone, a net gain of almost 290,000 telephones was made in the area served by Southern Bell. To make possible this unprecedented increase in telephones has required an expenditure of nearly one hundred million dollars and a net increase of more than 6,000 new employees, making a total of 28,000 men and women now employed by Southern Bell. Today, as never before in history, the telephone is indispensable to business and industry, a source of ever present comfort, convenience and security to the home, and vital to our national welfare in war and peace. The telephone has become a part of our modern way of life—indispensable—valuable.

NOW What Kind of Funny Business Is This?

YOU'VE BEEN HEARING about the cost of living going up by leaps and bounds. The prices of food, clothing, fuel, rent and almost everything have been rising steadily—everything, that is, except electric service. The situation inspired our artist to draw this cartoon which graphically tells the story.

In the last seven years our company has cut electric rates eight times, and these slashes have saved you customers all told $1,420,309 each year . . . a pile of money not to be laughed at.

For the twelve months ending in June, 1941, our 84,679 residential customers each used an average of 33 kilowatt-hours of electricity more than they did in the previous twelve, but paid for it an average of 61 cents less. In the same period our commercial electric customers each used an average of 37 kilowatt-hours more and paid an average of $3.11 less.

In spite of higher taxes and operating costs, we have been able by careful management and higher operating efficiency to pass these savings on to you.

JOHN ADAMS HAS BIRTHDAY

Mr. John Adams very quietly celebrated his eighty-second birthday last Saturday at his home on the Martin highway. A dinner is usually planned in his honor, but since Mr. Adams has been ill for some time, no celebration was held this year. Several of the children gathered at the Adams home at noon, each bringing a dish. Others called during the afternoon.

Mr. Adams received many nice gifts from his children and many of his friends. Each of his children brought eighty-two cents.

One of the nicest surprises of the day came when Mr. Adams received a gift from his little granddaughter, Lou Ann Anderson, of Birmingham, Ala.
