Bulldogs Lose Second Game To Clinton

The Fulton Bulldogs lost their second conference game Tuesday night at the Science Hall when they were beaten 20 to 17 by the Clinton Red Devils. The Bulldogs seemed unable to hit the basket though their floor work was splendid. The Red Devils piled up a 4-point lead in the first half, which really won the game as the Bulldogs began to hit the basket after the half.

In the preliminary game the Clinton B team won over the Pups by a score of 21 to 4.

Only one other home game remains on the local schedule, that being on Friday night of this week when the Wingo lads come to Fulton. Next Tuesday night the Bulldogs go to Arlington and on Friday night they will journey to Hickman for the last game of the season.

Boxing Match To Be At Welch Friday

Welch high school gymnasium will be the scene of an all-star amateur boxing bout Friday night, according to Bobby Matthews, who has been sponsoring amateur matches here for several weeks. J. D. McGee, well liked principal at Welch, states that a suitable arrangement has been made for the matches.

In the main event B. Noble Holland of Dukedom and Ed Robertson of Fulton will battle for three rounds, the winner to be recognized as the mythical, middleweight champion of the Ken-Ten territory.

The sensation of the evening appears to be the probable exhibition, featuring Prof. McGee against some 134 lb. boy. Mr. McGee had some little experience in athletics in college.

Boys from Latham, Palmersville, Dresden, Pilot Oak, Lynnvill, Chestnut Glade and any other community are invited to enter for matches. See Bobby Matthews if interested.

Otis French will be master of ceremonies, Kettie Forrest will be referee and the judges will be decided upon.

Greenfield Man Dies In Local Hospital

John Edward Brock, 72, prominent business man of Greenfield, Tenn., died early Sunday morning in the Fulton hospital from a heart attack caused by shock which he suffered as a result of an auto accident occurring on the Fulton-Martin highway at 1:15 a.m. Sunday. Mr. Brock was alone driving south to Greenfield from Fulton when his car sideswiped a car going north. Mr. Brock's car shot off the levee and turned over. Occupants of the other car, who were uninjured, found Brock unconscious at the foot of the levee. They flagged the next automobile, which was an ambulance, and Brock was rushed to the hospital. He died fifteen minutes after reaching the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Greenfield Presbyterian Church and burial was in Highland cemetery in that city.

Fulton Bakery Joins National Defense Program

The government is calling for more and better body-building food in connection with the national defense program. So the Fulton Bakery joins the ranks of co-operators by featuring "enriched" bread with vitamins and iron. A free coupon goes with each purchase of bread which can be applied on the purchase of defense stamps. By this two-fold method the Fulton Bakery is doing its bit to aid in the national defense program.

The management announces that many tasty pastry specialists are offered each week, and those desiring special baking may obtain their heart's desire by requesting the services of the local bakery.

WAR EFFORT DOMINANT IN BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The enormously expanded war effort forecast by the President's recent message to Congress is by all odds the dominating factor in the economic outlook for 1941, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The production of 60,000 airplanes this year and 125,000 in 1943, the increase of merchant ship construction from 1,100,000 tons last year to 8,000,000 tons in 1942 and 10,000,000 tons next year, and the achievement of the other production goals mentioned by the President will require industrial readjustment and economic sacrifice on a scale not previously imagined. The Survey continues, even by a people repeatedly warned that readjustment and sacrifice were inevitable and imminent.

The war program for the coming fiscal year, according to the President, will require a total expenditure of more than one-half of the estimated national income. On the financial side, this means, according to the President's budget estimates and recommendations, that the Government will spend nearly sixty billion dollars and that the people will have to supply this amount by paying about twenty-five billions in taxes and buying about thirty-five billions in Treasury obligations. With several more billions added for the financing of governmental corporations, the total increase in the national debt during the year is estimated at forty billions.

On the industrial side, the program implies a transfer, by one means or another, of roughly one-half of the nation's labor force and one-half of its productive facilities war production. This is more than three times the proportion devoted to war purposes thus far, according to recent estimates.

An important preliminary step toward the achievement of the Government's goal was taken when the President asked Congress for the record-breaking sum of twenty-eight and one-half billion dollars for war purposes. Nearly sixteen billion is for the Navy and about twelve and one-half billion for the Army. The largest single item, totaling more than nine billion, is for the Army Air Corps. The total amount of the requested appropriation is only a few billion dollars less than the entire cost of the first World War of the United States.

A start has been made also in effecting the tremendous industrial readjustments that will be required for the all-out war effort. Steps have been taken to suspend or curtail production for civilian use by industries whose facilities or raw materials are needed for military supply; and these measures have been accompanied by new price controls to maintain stability in the markets for strategic materials and products. The President's recommendation that seven billion dollars in new taxes be levied during the coming fiscal year seems to have caused some concern in Congress, where doubt exists as to the feasibility of raising tax rates to any such extent without subjecting business to a financial burden that would interfere with productivity. Several possible methods of obtaining the additional revenue are reported to be under consideration, but none is regarded as wholly satisfactory. Among the possibilities that have been mentioned are higher rates on individual and corporate incomes, lower exemptions, higher excise taxes, a "withholding" tax on salaries and wages, and a broad extension of the list of articles subject to excise taxes.

One of the difficult and crucial problems that must be solved if the Government's program of expansion is to be realized is that of transportation. This problem, in turn, is closely related to that of storage space at shipping and terminal points. It may be assumed that every effort will be made to avoid a repetition of the experience during the first World War, when congestion at terminals resulted in the use of thousands of railroad freight cars for storage purposes and seriously impeded traffic movements. It is believed in some quarters that a broad use of freight embargoes will be required, a prospect that suggests the further possibility of a regular system of transportation priorities.

A sharp upward revision in the Government's farm production goals has been announced. The program provides for substantial increases in "floor" prices offered by the Government for a number of essential food and vegetable oil products. The new production goals, according to Secretary Wickard, call for the greatest production in the history of American agriculture and "for putting every acre of land, every hour of labor, and every bit of farm machinery, fertilizer, and other supplies to the use which will best serve the nation's wartime needs."

FOOD FOR VICTORY GOALS INCREASED

Farmers of the Nation have been requested by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to increase 1942 food production goals which they set for their farms in the fall sign-up.

The 1942 goals, revised in view of Pearl Harbor, call for the greatest production in the history of American agriculture, and for putting every acre of land, every hour of labor, and every bit of farm machinery, fertilizer, and other supplies to the use which will best serve the Nation's war time needs, Secretary Wickard said.

"Some of the goals will be very difficult to reach but we believe farmers can do it despite war time shortages of farm labor, machinery, and production supplies," he said. "For wheat, cotton, and tobacco, the goals should not be exceeded. To do so would waste precious labor and supplies. For the other commodities, if farmers are able to exceed the goals and processors can handle the products, the Nation's interests will be served."

Efforts will be made to step up the production of lard, tallow, and grease in packing plants. To increase the supply of animal feeds, corn goals and corn acreage allotments are raised 10 per cent and there will be no marketing quotas on corn this year.

Revised goals call for substantial increases in eggs, hogs, dry beans, dry field peas, canning peas and tomatoes and soybeans, peanuts and flax seed for oil. Price support at 85 per cent of parity for these products and dairy products has been extended to June 30, 1943.

THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGEHARBINGERS OF GLOOM WERE WRONG

It will be remembered that certain harbingers of gloom forecast a terrible breakdown in rail transportation more than a year ago. Those prognosticators of disaster proved 100 per cent wrong. And the reason they were wrong constitutes an enduring tribute to the industry which hauls some two-thirds of this nation's freight.

Some twenty years ago the railroads started preparing for war. Like the rest of us, they hoped it would never come again—but they knew that it might. They laid down the beginnings of a program for rail improvement which has been steadily broadened and speeded.

The efficiency and abundance of railroad transport cannot be judged simply by the amount of rolling stock on hand. The capacity and speed of that rolling stock is the most vital factor. The American railroads have led the world by a wide margin in the utilization of freight cars, and the speed of trains.

A freight car is in the hands of the railroads only about half the time. The rest of the time it is in the hands of shippers and receivers of freight. In the last war, freight cars were used as warehouses for weeks at a time—thousands of them stood idly on sidings, waiting to be unloaded, and completely out of service. This was the principal reason for the so-called "railroad breakdown of 1918." So the railroads joined with the shippers to make sure that would never happen again. Today cars are loaded and unloaded with unprecedented speed, and sent back to work without waste or delay.

These are but a few highlights of the long railroad story. The lines are now prepared to handle nearly 520,000,000,000 ton-miles of freight this year—ten per cent more than was handled last year, when a new record was established. They have ordered 115,000 new freight cars and 974 new locomotives to be delivered by October 1. They have performed a tremendous task with complete efficiency. They will perform the still greater tasks which the future will demand.

FOUR BITSGovernment Competition

Representative Henry Ward, who is leading the fight for the TVA bill, seems to be very bitter because the men who have built up the private utilities industry in Kentucky are trying to save it from destruction. Mr. Ward is an employee of the Paducah Sun-Democrat. I wonder how he would feel if some government agency decided to start another newspaper in Paducah? The government paper, we'll say, would have rent-free quarters in the Federal building. It would be manned by a staff sent from Washington, their salaries paid with taxpayers' money. It would not have to pay all the taxes that the Sun-Democrat has to pay. With all these advantages, it ought to be able to put the home-town paper out of business in a little while. Wouldn't Mr. Ward feel that he had a right to oppose such a thing?

Just One Example

I used the newspaper business as an example merely because Mr. Ward is in that field. However, in your own case, no matter what business you're in, you can draw a similar parallel and decide whether your firm could last long against a government competitor that wouldn't have to worry about meeting expenses, paying so many taxes, etc. How would you like it? And can you blame the utilities men for fighting for the survival of their business?

A SHRINKING STATE

In the spring of 1941 I gave fourteen high school commencement addresses in various parts of the state, going to every one of them in my car. I could not help contrasting this season with my first several, largely because of the ease with which I taught until the end of the day and then had plenty of time to drive even a hundred and forty miles to fill my engagement. Sometimes it seems almost impossible that the world, or the state, can have grown so small.

When I went away to teach school in 1907, I had to take nearly a whole day to get to my destination—now a drive of an hour and a half, with a little time out to see some places of interest along the way. The highway, as I have said in an earlier article, is not compelled to follow any geological route, though, and cuts right across the three railroads that I had to ride on to reach the far-distant places less than seventy miles away. Only at Christmas could I have enough time, or money, to go home, whereas many students at Murray Teachers College now commute over the same route every week end. And such hours as I had to keep to catch the train! The schedule was arranged for larger cities north and south and was a bit unfair to people who merely wanted to ride twenty or thirty miles before changing to another railroad and running almost parallel for a slightly longer distance, all the time approaching by indirection the destination. Of course, automobiles were nine-days' wonders then and not to be used for a seventy-mile trip at a moment's warning.

Where railroads did not reach, my commencement dates were even harder to fill. On one occasion I was to speak at a neighboring county seat, now just forty minutes away. But, though I owned a T-model, I could never have made the trip, even that late in the spring, without two or three extra passengers to push me out of mudholes. I had to take a boat very early in the morning, ride the better portion of the forenoon, and then kill time until eight o'clock in the evening. By great good fortune, a boy with a T-model found a way to bring me home, though we spent four hours making twenty-five miles; I thought then and still think that he was a good driver and earned the three dollars that he charged me.

As roads grew, I could inch up a little nearer to remote places. I recall having to park my car some six miles from one high school and depend upon a wagon and sole leather for the rest of the way. But even then the roads and the car were such that I had to remain overnight, though one would now wonder how it would be possible to dread a return trip over such a short distance.

Though I would not say that I prefer the old-time trip to commencement, I must confess that no one trip now is quite so memorable as some of those earlier ones were, when I had to spend nearly two whole days to travel from places now less than fifty miles apart by road. The crowd had not become used to strangers from far-away and probably listened with a bit more eagerness; I probably felt myself more of an adventurer than I do now when I eat my supper at home, read the evening paper, and then drive quite leisurely to the same place where I gave my first address; consuming exactly an hour and a quarter, whereas I left home on the first trip at six o'clock in the morning and, by long traveling by train, arrived at home again at noon the next day.

The state, with roads and cars, has shunk somewhat like the little field that lay between our house and the big road. When I lived in the Fidelity section, that field seemed immense; two years ago, when I saw it last, it had shrunk to the size of a big front yard. The only wonder I have is whether my generation has increased as much in worth as their horizons have widened.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH NATIONAL HEALTH

Any extensive effort to increase the number of physicians graduated each year, as has been proposed in some quarters, will mean a lowering of professional standards, and the ultimate effect will be serious both on the army medical service and on service to the people, the American Medical Association warns.

In this country, under our system of private medicine, the people have been given a quality of health service unequalled elsewhere. Standards for admittance to practice have been high and have been steadily raised. That is why this country has become the world center of medical research and education—and it is also the reason for the tremendous improvement in the general average of public health which has taken place in the last few decades.

Various specific suggestions which have been made for speeding up the production of doctors seem impractical no less than unwise. It has been suggested, for instance, that summer vacations be eliminated so that students could give all of the year to study. But that would mean that the high proportion of students who must finance themselves in whole or part, would have to give up their work or find finance elsewhere. It has also been suggested that the tempo of training be upped—but that would require slow and difficult readjustments in our medical schools, along with great expansion of teaching and technical staffs.

We can't take chances with this

OIL FOR ALL

Don't get excited about rumors of impending oil shortages.

The facts are these: This country's oil producing capacity is virtually limitless. Its refining capacity is greater than all the rest of the world combined.

We have, as a result, oil for our Allies and plenty for the civilian population, as well.

Only one thing can cause a shortage of oil products for civilian consumption—the loss or transfer of oil tankers. That may make it necessary to ration oil temporarily in some areas. But, if that happens, remember that lack of oil is not the cause. This country's oil industry is one of the most important and most certain Allies the United Nations have.

nation's health. "Super-speed" medical training looks like one of those superficially attractive ideas which won't stand analysis.

WPA EFFORT DEVOTED TO WAR AND DEFENSE

Announcement was made this week by George H. Goodman, WPA administrator, that 35 per cent of all WPA effort in Kentucky was devoted to war and defense work. Mr. Goodman expects this percentage to increase as other projects are completed and new ones set up to win the war.

WPA now has 2544 men doing every conceivable kind of job at Fort Knox to help the war program along and to release other men for active duty in the armed forces. It was this group of workers to whom Fort Knox officers, in charge of construction, referred to recently in the public press as: "the unsung heroes of the Second World War." WPA has employed an average of 2000 men at Fort Knox since 1937.

WPA workers at Fort Knox live in barracks and have their own mess halls the same as soldiers. The Army furnishes medical attention. Special trains are operated from West and Southeastern Kentucky every two weeks for the benefit of this group. Each WPA worker pays his own railroad fare and board and is paid by check at the end of each two week work period when he returns home for two weeks and a new group is installed.

We have been asked to increase food production. Let's smile and do it. In Europe you would be told, not asked; your crop would be taken, not bought.

The surest way to stop the hens from laying is to neglect to give them water. One hundred laying hens will drink from 35 to 40 lbs., or about five gallons, of water a day.

The Nation's food goals, revised since Pearl Harbor, call for substantial increases in eggs, hogs, dry beans, dry fields peas, canning peas, tomatoes, soybeans, peanuts and flax seed for oil. Price support at 85 percent of parity for these products and dairy products has been extended to June 30, 1943.

"As we open up the throttle on our agricultural production machine, we are producing food for three principal purposes: First we are producing food for the American people; second, we're producing food for the British; and third, we're producing food to go into stock piles, or reserves, to be used after Hitler is defeated, to feed the people he has impoverished."

Full Length Motion Picture To Be Made Of Various Activities In Fulton

TO MAKE LOCAL MOVIE

A full length movie in color of Fulton people, institutions and activities is being made this week and will be shown for 2 days at the Fulton Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, February 25-26, it was announced yesterday with the arrival of the camera crew of Reelife Motion Pictures. The movie will be entitled "Fulton In Reelife."

Starting today the camera crew will begin shooting the many scenes that will make up the picture. The movie will depict significant activities in the communities, educational, industrial, religious, recreational, civic, governmental and social life. Filming will continue until Sunday, Feb. 22nd and suggestions as to the sequences for the picture will be welcomed by Wayne Cayton at the Fulton Theatre.

Many residents of this community will have the opportunity of seeing themselves on the screen in Fulton's first movie, when the production is completed.

The Reelife Motion Picture Company has been operating in most of the states east of the Mississippi during the past four years taking this type of picture in various cities. The productions have proved a "hit" in every city filmed and it is expected that "Fulton In Reelife" will be another outstanding success.

As a special feature for the movie mothers are invited to bring their babies to the Fulton Theatre, Saturday morning at ten o'clock when color movies will be made of all children up to the age of six and will be included in the completed film.

The daily schedule of the camera crews comings and goings will be printed each day so that everyone will have the opportunity to follow the making of the picture and the privilege of being present and included in the "takes."

SMALL FARMS STILL RULE IN KENTUCKY

Kentucky is still a land of small and medium sized farms, despite the national trend to "factory farms," according to the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Nearly half of the farms contain 20 to 99 acres. There has been no appreciable signs of a trend toward larger farms over the past 30 years.

For the country as a whole, more than a third of all land in farms is handled in tracts of 1,000 acres or more. In Kentucky, only two-tenths of one percent of the farms are in the 1,000-acre class, and they contain only three percent of all the land farmed in the state.

Of the farm situation in Kentucky, Robin M. Williams of the Experiment Station says:

"A land of small farms produces a numerous stock of citizens who exemplify the old 'rural virtues,' once scorned, now coming into their own again. Hard work, personal discipline, patriotism, devotion to duty, ability to withstand privation and maintain morale—such characteristics have found favorable soil for growth among the men of rural Kentucky. From the farms of the state are coming large numbers of workers and soldiers for the essential tasks of the nation in the present emergency."

Contempt leaves a deeper scar than anger. Cleverness and cunning are incompatible.—Byron.

AGE IS ONLY SKIN DEEP

This old farmhouse is a perfect example of a home made uninhabitable by neglect rather than obsolescence. The foundation and frame, which represent almost fifty per cent of the cost, are sound. With a fifty per cent saving to start, the modernizer of this old building was able to get more for his money than a builder of a new home with a like amount of money to spend.

Aside from the frame and foundation, very little of the original structure was worth saving. New wood siding, modern millwork, a new living, an up-to-date porch and complete rehabilitation of the interior effected a miraculous transformation.

VICTORY FOOD PRODUCTION TIPS FOR FEBRUARY

February will usher in increased field activity on Tennessee farms. The Secretary of Agriculture has called on farmers of the Nation to exceed production goals for all crops except cotton, tobacco and wheat—an increase in these crops would be a waste of precious labor and supplies he said.

The greatest need is for record production of dairy, garden, poultry and swine products. Specialists of the U-T Agricultural Extension Service offer the following timely suggestions for February:

Dairying—Keep up milk production by feeding a liberal, well balanced ration. Keep records, fertilize pastures, plan to grow sufficient feed crops, breed cows to a good dairy bull for fall freshening.

Gardening—Plant early crops, spray fruit trees, get potato seed and other garden seed and fertilizers early.

Poultry—Keep up egg production by feeding liberally on mash and grain, hatch or buy baby chicks early—February and March are the best months to start chicks for fall layers.

Swine—Keep pigs gaining rapidly by feeding protein supplement with corn, if milk is not available use equal parts of tankage and cottonseed meal. Make full use of pasture; otherwise feed alfalfa hay. Give brood sows special attention, sterilize farrowing pen, provide guard rail and clean bedding—save every pig possible.

Machinery—Repair farm machinery and equipment; get needed repair parts immediately—supply is limited.

AMERICAN FOOD SENT TO GREAT BRITAIN

From: Kentucky USDA War Board
One million tons of American foods have reached England under the Lend-Lease Act, the British Food Mission has advised Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

This food, even in its highly concentrated form would fill a string of freight cars about 400 miles long, or approximately the airline distance from Lexington, Ky., to Washington, D. C. Of the total amount, about a fifth consisted of dairy and poultry products, another fifth of fruits and vegetables, and still another fifth of pork and lard.

The British listed their specific requirements of American food soon after the Lend-Lease Act became law on March 11, 1941. Shipments were moving into Great Britain by May. Agriculture was able to deliver immediately and was fully prepared to make necessary adjustments to keep on delivering at a rapidly accelerated pace.

In six months, America sent to the British people 14 per cent of the cheese produced in the United States, 13 per cent of our evaporated milk, 12 per cent of our dry skim milk for human consumption, and 5 per cent of the eggs produced in this period.

In 1942 American food will flow abroad in even greater quantities. Lend-Lease shipments will amount to nearly a third of the cheese produced in this country, more than a third of our dry skim milk output, over a fifth of our evaporated milk, about a tenth of the eggs produced on American farms, and about one-seventh of the pork and one-fifth of the lard output of the United States.

If American farmers reach their 1942 food production goals, there will be enough of practically all of these foods to supply Lend-Lease requirements and still have more for this country than our people consumed last year. Preliminary returns from the Food for Freedom survey indicate that farmers throughout the nation expect to exceed their goals.

CALL FOR WORKERS "DRAINING" FARMS

If Kentucky farms keep up the present rate of furnishing men for the army, and both men and women for factory work, the farmers of the state may have difficulty meeting the increased food production asked by the Secretary of Agriculture. So report men at the Agricultural Experiment Station who have been looking into the farm situation.

Census figures show that the farm population of the state has relatively fewer persons of "working ages" that is, 20 to 64, than do the cities. This has come about through the "draining off" of young people to cities and towns, and now to the armed forces and the defense plants.

In Kentucky cities only 31 per cent of the population is under 20 years of age, but on the farms 46 percent of the population is in this age group. Eight percent of the city people and 6 percent of the farm people are 65 years of age or older. This leaves the cities with a larger proportion of their people in the years of greatest working capacity. Sixty-one percent of the city people are between the age of 20 and 64, compared to 48 percent of the farm people.

The eighth grade students enjoyed a Valentine party in the classroom of their sponsor, Shannon Murphey. The vocal selections were accompanied by Martha Jane Wall at the piano. Paul Smith was crowned King of Hearts and Hilda Sue Stallins, Queen. In a contest to see who could list the most words taken from the word "Valentine" Hilda Sue Stallins won first place and Martha Jane Wall second. Refreshments were served at the close of the period.

The local Elks Club will sponsor a charity basketball game at the Science Hall Friday night, February 20, between Fulton and Wingo, the two leading teams of the Purchase conference. Money Talks

Congress is now worrying over the new budget for the next federal fiscal year which begins July 1, 1942. And it has reason to worry. This new budget calls for a total expenditure of $58,928,000,000. Can you realize how much 58 billion dollars is? Very few Americans can.

This proposed budget is three times as large as the largest for World War I, and unlike any other budget we have ever had, 90 per cent of it goes for war materials. Thus of the 58 billion, defense and war activities take over 52 billion while non-defense activities account for only 6 billion.

We all know what the defense activities are, but let us look at the non-defense expenditures. Of this 6 billion, aids to agriculture will take 854 million, interest on the federal debt, 1,750 million, relief agencies (such as WPA, PWA, etc.) a little over one billion while general expenditures will take about two and one-half billion.

Now where are we going to get this money? The Government now figures that it will secure 23 billion from taxes and a little over 35 billion by borrowing from its citizens.

Of the 23 billion it will collect in taxes, corporation income tax will account for over 6 billion, individual income tax for over 5 billion, excise taxes (such as those on cigarettes, whiskey, radios, furs, etc.) for over 3 billion, and miscellaneous revenues for about one billion. That leaves about 7 billion unaccounted for. This means but one thing—increasing present taxes and adding a number of new ones. We can expect much higher income tax rates next year along with much lower exemptions. We can also expect a federal sales tax. Don't expect to get off lightly. There never has been a budget like this. It is the world's largest, and it will call for sacrifice on the part of every citizen.

SKILLED WORKERS NEEDED IN DEFENSE WORK

Reports from Kentucky's war industries and from neighboring states show that they are not producing at capacity because of the lack of skilled workers. Skilled mechanists and machine operators with machine shop experience are in urgent demand.

Men who formerly worked in skilled or machine trades, but have lost some of their skills through unemployment or through working in other occupations now have a chance to get back to their former crafts. These men can be referred to training classes through any office of the United States Employment Service, so that they may brush up on their former occupations. The fact that a worker has not worked at his skill for several years will not keep him from returning to his trade.

If a worker is skilled, physical defects are no longer a handicap if these are not serious enough to endanger the worker and his fellow workers. The age of a worker is no longer a barrier as long as a man is active and can produce satisfactorily.

It is not only the patriotic duty but vital to victory that all persons possessing mechanical skills let it be known through the nearest office of the United States Employment Service. There is an office conveniently located at 123 N. 3rd street in Paducah, Ky.

It is not necessary that qualified skilled men report in person. The employment office will give full particulars of the current labor demands by telephone or letter. The telephone number of the Paducah office is 701.

The following statement in printed form has been placed in the hands of each senator and representative in Frankfort.

DON'T BE RUSHED!

Why Pass Any T V A Bill Now?

With the present and increasing demands for Electric Power in Tennessee and the adjoining areas, occasioned by war production, it is not expected that there will be any power available from T V A to the municipalities of Kentucky until after 1944.

Then why pass a bill at this session to meet a condition that will exist some years hence, when not a single city or person in Kentucky will be damaged if you don't? On the contrary, the passage of this T V A substitute bill at this time will definitely:

1. Stop the construction of a $4,000,000 taxable generating plant and transmission program.
2. Cripple and obstruct the efforts of our Company in its war production program, rendering it as ineffective as a wounded soldier who has been dropped on the field of battle by the bullets of an enemy.
3. Close in our face the doors of all sources of new money necessary to carry out the improvements and enlargements of our system. (Since this T V A bill came before the Legislative Council and this Legislature, the market value of our preferred stock alone, owned by people living in Kentucky, has shrunk substantially more than $2,000,000.)

4. Deny our Company the opportunity to determine if, during the intervening period, it can continue to pay approximately 25c out of every dollar that it takes in for taxes and still reduce its rates to approach the levels of T V A.

5. Destroy the morale of over 1,100 employees of our Company in Kentucky, whose maximum efforts and production are as vitally needed today as are those men actually fighting in the front lines of battle. As a matter of fact, many of these men have shed blood on the battlefield in the defense of our country.

It is a significant and exceedingly important fact that, so far as we know, only two newspapers in Kentucky have indicated that they favor the passage of this T V A bill. If it could be determined at this time, a large majority of the users of electric service would also oppose its passage now.

On behalf of a vast majority of the people of our State, we beg of you to close your ears to political promises, to political pressure, and to political threats, long enough to listen to your conscience and let it guide you to a correct conclusion.

RAILS HUM ASPACE to WIN the WAR

RAILROAD PEOPLE are not given to much talk. Their disposition is to do their job—do it right—and let the results speak for themselves. That would be a good rule for all of us to follow in a time like this, a time of war, when the need is for action first and discussion later.

In keeping with that thought, railroad workers have been cautioned not to talk about such things as the movement of armed forces and war materials, which of course are military secrets in wartime. This secrecy must be scrupulously observed.

However, it is no longer any secret that in the first seven weeks after Pearl Harbor the railroads moved some 600,000 troops with their equipment to new and distant stations within the United States. It was the greatest feat of military transportation in the history of our country.

While this record-breaking troop movement was going on, the railroads also transported many thousands of individual soldiers, sailors and marines on holiday furloughs. At the same time also they were meeting the vast needs of war production by transporting great quantities of materials for planes and tanks and ships and other vital instruments of war.

All this was done so smoothly and efficiently that few outside had any idea of the magnitude of what was going on.

And nobody had to go without necessary transportation. There were occasional delays when civilian traffic took the siding, but all trains went through with a minimum of inconvenience.

Such results do speak not only for themselves but for those who did the job. They are a magnificent tribute to the men and women who run our railroads. These men and women are working to win the war.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 22

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JESUS APPOINTS AND TEACHES THE TWELVE
LESSON TEXT—Luke 6:12-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 5:16.

God is sovereign and has all power. He might, therefore, perform His works without the help of man, and on many an occasion He does just that.

That fact makes it all the more glorious that He ordinarily works through men, giving to them the privilege of companionship with Him in service. Sinful and weak though they may have been, they become strong and holy in Him, able to do valiant service in His name.

1. Appointed to Serve Christ (vv. 12-19).
It is the constant teaching of Scripture that those called to serve God are not self-appointed. They are

1. Chosen by Him (vv. 12, 13). He chooses whom He will, gives them the gifts and the grace for ministry (and both are important!), and provides them a place of service. It is vital to the servant of Christ that he know that he has been chosen and called of the Lord. Only with that assurance can he meet the problems and bear the burdens of the work.

Observe that it was after a night of prayer that Jesus appointed the twelve. How many churches give that much prayer to the choosing of its leaders? Do we not need it far more than did our Lord?

2. Called from Many Walks of Life (vv. 14-16). The apostles were men of widely differing gifts, temperaments, and personal characteristics. Some had unusual ability, others apparently were of ordinary qualifications. They were of many occupations, fishermen, a tax gatherer, etc.; but not one was by profession a preacher or priest.

Were men to choose for such offices they would look within the narrow limits of a few learned professions, with certain nationalities preferred, and with position in life an important factor. God cuts across every man-made limitation and calls His workers as He sees fit.

3. Companions in Service (vv. 17-19). At once the twelve received their introduction to service to the great multitude diseased, demon possessed, in spiritual need. It was Jesus who healed them (and notice that "he healed them all," v. 19), but verse 17 tells us that the newly appointed apostles came and stood with Him. They had fellowship with the healing and serving Christ, just as we may have it in service for Him today.

II. Prepared to Live for Christ (vv. 20-26).
Service for Christ is as much (perhaps we should say, more) by life as by ministry. The twelve needed instruction that their spiritual perspective might be right. He tells them

1. How to Meet Difficulties (vv. 20-23). Poverty, hunger, weeping, being hated for Christ's sake, these were the things that Jesus knew His servants might expect, so He prepared them. They were told that these things need not disturb them, for there is a kingdom coming; there will be a time when every hunger will be satisfied, when weeping shall turn to laughter.

Hatred for Christ's sake is declared to be the occasion for an outburst of joy because of the reward which awaits in heaven. Scripture speaks much of rewards, and we do well to encourage ourselves and other Christians by the blessed prospect.

Meeting difficulties is a matter of having mental and spiritual eyes rightly focused. If we do, we can see right through them and see that on the other side there is blessing. But there are temptations in another direction, so He tells them.

2. How to Avoid Dangers (vv. 24-26). Jesus is here speaking of those who, lacking true spiritual vision, revel in the satisfaction of worldly things without a thought of God. The passage, however, may well be applied to the worker for Christ. Often he will be tempted to covet the wealth, the prosperity, the pleasures, and popularity of these round about him.

The question which comes to him is, Why should I and my family not share these pleasant things? Therein lies a temptation to become worldly-minded, centered in the temporalities of life. Let him learn that money in itself cannot bring lasting joy; that the fullness of this world is soon exchanged for an eternal emptiness; that the shallow laughter of this world's fun rapidly gives way to weeping.

The praise of men—popularity with those who know not Christ—is a fickle thing. One day they will praise a man to the skies, and the next day no evil word or disgraceful treatment is spared to destroy and dishearten him.

THINGS FARM FAMILY CAN DO FOR DEFENSE

The U-T Agricultural Extension Service has listed many things the Tennessee farmer and his family can do to help win the war. They are:

1. Raise more hogs.
2. Produce more milk.
3. Produce more eggs.
4. Waste nothing. Can surplus produce.
5. Grow an adequate home garden to provide food for the family.
6. Cull barren and other inferior milk cows and beef animals from the herd and sell them for slaughter.
7. Work with others in home defense activities.
8. Collect scrap metal and old rubber that cannot be used on the farm and sell it to the junk dealer.
9. Practice selective cutting on woodland, leaving enough good trees to provide seed and to keep the tract in production. Plant seedlings for future production and for conserving the soil.

A&P Prepares For Fourth War

As America moves into the third month of World War II, its largest food distributor, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, adapts itself to war-time operations for the fourth time in its history.

In announcing plans for local participation in Founder's Week, Feb. 16-21st, J. B. DeJarnatt, Vice-President, for this area, explained that the organization was established two years before the war between the states, serving also through the Spanish American and the first World War.

"Founder's Week honors George Huntington Hartford who, in 1859, not only organized the Company, but established a new, straight line distribution system that today is more important than ever before," DeJarnatt said.

America has been called upon to complete the greatest industrial production program the world has ever seen, he explained, pointing out that as a consequence the nation as a whole must be stronger and healthier than ever.

"To achieve this strength and health we must all be better fed and nourished than ever, which means that every man, woman and child in the country must get the most possible food for the money," he declared.

The economics inherent to the streamlined distribution system established by Mr. Hartford 82 years ago thus assume a vital role in the nation's war effort, the executive said. In this connection he noted that recently John A. Hartford, a son of the founder and now president of the company, had publicly pledged the organization to "cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods."
