The experience of police agencies in these sections of the country in which recent maneuvers have been held will be made available to all police agencies. For example, at the conference of 370 graduates of the FBI National Police Academy held at FBI headquarters in Washington in October, a unanimous report was made by police officials engaged in traffic control work in Louisiana, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, and other maneuver areas that a minimum of accidents occurred in city streets when military convoys were operated at a maximum speed of twenty miles per hour, each unit being separated by a distance of at least twice the length of each unit and with not more than fifty units in a single convoy or serial. Higher speeds and larger convoys were found to produce a number of accidents.

Kite Flying Near Electric Power Lines Dangerous

The kite-flying season among boys and girls is now in full swing, and Kentucky Utilities Company managers and other employees through the State are requesting parents and teachers to warn children not to fly kites near electric power lines, substations and other equipment.

Kite string containing fine wire may come in contact with heavily charged power lines and seriously shock the kite flyer. And youngsters may be injured by burns, shocks or falls if they climb on electric line poles or into substation enclosures to rescue kites caught in the equipment.

DYERSBURG TO GET $5,000,000 AIR FIELD

The War Department at Washington announced this week that a site near Dyersburg, Tenn., has been approved for the establishment of a training school for Army fliers. It is said that the field will cost $5,000,000 to construct a large advance flying school on land eight miles south of Dyersburg, lying west of Highway 51, and extending to Halls, a distance of about 2 miles.

It was said in Union City this week that sites north of Union City, one lying east of the Jordan road and running to the state line, and the other lying between the N. C. & St. L. and the G. M. & O. railroads and extending almost to Woodland Mills, had been viewed by Army officers here some weeks ago for the project which, it now has become apparent, that Dyersburg will get.

Dyersburg and Blytheville, Ark., are both scheduled to get basic army flying fields. There is still a possibility of obtaining a primary training field in Obion County, at which Army cadets receive their first 13 weeks of training. From the primary fields, cadets go to regular Army fields for the second and final stages of their training.

BOOMERANG LAWS

Laws which are designed to hurt "the other fellow" sometimes boomerang. Through judicial interpretation, they're likely to turn around and strike at some business which regarded itself as safe.

The anti-chain store laws are notable examples of this kind of legislation. In a number of states, it has been held that they can be applied to businesses which never regarded themselves as chains. A recent incident comes from Texas. There the Austin Court of Civil Appeals has upheld a lower court judgment assessing an oil company more than $900,000 in chain store taxes on filling stations, from 1936 through 1941. The Texas chain store law specifically excluded any place of business exclusively engaged in the oil business. But the State held that these service stations were not excluded because each sold various standard accessories as well as petroleum products, and the courts upheld that argument.

The moral of this is that when we throw a monkey wrench into the wheels of free and honest competition, unlooked for trouble is apt to result. In at least one case, it has been held that chain store taxes are applicable to independent stores whose only connection is membership in a cooperative purchasing organization. When you permit the hamstringing of your neighbor's business, you're open to the same kind of treatment in return.

There is no room in this country for punitive laws or taxes of any kind. They amount to discrimination in its worst form—and in the long run, all must pay the bill. The people should demand the repeal, at the earliest possible time, of every tax and class law on the statute books.

MEAT FOR DICTATORS

Government officials have asked for and received unlimited wartime powers—"total" government. By simple fiat Government can now make or break industry. Plans are being formulated for a universal draft. The public and industry itself have granted this grim, total authority to Government in the belief that it is the only way to win the war. Government has not been slow in demanding great sacrifices from the American people and their industries under this authority. But is Government giving, as well as taking? In many vital respects it most certainly is not.

For example, high government officials have asked for "all out" cooperation from defense industries. Quick production of limitless quantities of tanks, planes, guns and ships together with the ammunition, coal and oil to operate them, have presented stupendous technical obstacles. But technical obstacles are not all that industry has had to face. It can conquer those. It has had to face almost insurmountable political obstacles, many of them created by the very officials who have been so quick to ask for cooperation.

To get vast production requires just what the government has asked for, cooperation—cooperation between different industries just as much as between Government and industry.

Industrial representatives have worked for months to secure the right to cooperate with each other without being thrown in jail for infringement of the anti-trust laws. Late interpretations of these laws virtually prohibit a fully unified industrial war effort. Procurement of military equipment has been inexcusably delayed by this one example of bureaucratic stupidity. No one wants to permanently weaken the anti-trust laws any more than any sane person wishes to permanently establish a "total" government. But Congress can enact special legislation for the duration that will allow industry to pool its resources and abilities, and thereby assure the greatest immediate industrial output without subjecting its management to prosecution.

We have a war on our hands. The men on the battlefield need equipment. If they suffer the fate of "too little and too late," it is the fault of those who remain at home. Failure will bring a day of reckoning that no excuses, political or otherwise, can answer. Legal red tape which jams production is meat for the dictators.

THIS IS DEMOCRACY

"Democracy," said President Henry M. Wriston of Brown University, recently, "is simply the political aspect of an assertion of the supreme values in individual life. It was predicated upon the right to self-development, physical, mental and spiritual. It assumes man's infinite worth, and the measureless riches that arises from the variety of his inventiveness. It is designed to implement his right of self-expression in vocation and avocation. It puts the greatest possible reliance upon self-discipline and the least possible dependence upon compulsion. If democracy is worth fighting on all the continents of the earth to defend, it is worth a struggle to protect it at home. That faith is the way to national unity; it is the path to peace."

The individual has been the root cause of this country's progress and greatness. The Constitution was written to protect and preserve the individual from oppression by the state. That economic system which we call Capitalism simply reflects the desire of the individual to earn, to progress, to prosper, to go as far in the world as his energies and abilities can take him. The distinction between total government and democratic government is very simply put: In the first, the individual exists to serve the state; in the second, the state exists to serve the individual. This war marks the inevitable conflict between those irreconcilable philosophies of life.

This country is a vast and growing monument to the individual. Individuals started and built our industries—the agencies of transport, the mines which produce our coal and oil and metals, the power systems which turn our factory wheels, the thousand and one enterprises which give us unprecedented luxuries in times of peace and are today turning out unprecedented volume of weapons in times of war. Men took risks, men had vision and faith, men worked and experimented, failed and tried again—and these were the results. Today other men are laying the groundwork for great industries of the future.

We are fighting to maintain a nation and a world in which the individual will be supreme. It is true that we must invest government with great power in time of war—but we must never forget the equal truth that these powers are a loan from the people, not as a gift in perpetuity. On land and sea and in the air American soldiers and sailors are giving what Lincoln called "the last full measure of devotion," to defend the ideal that is America—the faith that is America. The inescapable duty of us here at home is to guarantee that they shall return to a free land of opportunity when they have won the final victory.

Be not the first to quarrel, nor the last to make it up.

Steel-Piercing Eye

Steel used in vital parts for war machines—planes, tanks, ships, guns—must be flawless, because America's fighting men must have weapons that are both accurate and tough.

1. The new million-volt X-ray built by General Electric saves precious hours in finding flaws. It is so powerful that its rays can pierce thick steel castings.

2. Defects in the steel show up on X-ray film. Therefore faulty materials are tossed aside before costly hours of machining have been spent on them.

3. A regular check-up on pieces of X-ray film worn on workers' wrists helps guard against prolonged exposure to the rays given off by the X-ray tube.

4. X-ray exposure needed for 5-inch-thick steel is now 2 minutes instead of previous 3 1/2 hours! Whole days are saved in examination of even thicker castings.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

YOU can see and smile at Billy's nickel double-decker. But there's another double-decker you can't see—though you enjoy it every month.

It's in your electric bill—the fact that the average household rate is only about half of what it was 15 years ago.

You may not realize it, because you use more electricity. While the rates were going down, you were adding useful new electric appliances.

Right now, for a nickel a day, about 1/2 of all American families light their homes, play their radios, run their vacuum cleaners.

For two nickels a day, about 1/2 of all American families operate lights, radio, cleaner, toaster, percolator, clocks and washer.

That makes the electric nickel just about the biggest double-decker in the world!

How was it done? By good business management of the nation's electric companies.

Our own electric power stations and transmission lines now supply more than one million kilowatt-hours every day (over 30,000,000 kilowatt-hours a month) to make planes, guns and other weapons to whip the Japs and Nazis.

Poultry raisers and farmers have a responsibility which should become a privilege; that is, to contribute their full share in the FOOD FOR FREEDOM program for the duration of the war. This emergency calls for greater efforts on the part of the farmer to produce more eggs and meat.

The National Safety Council tells us that 101,500 people were killed in the United States in 1941 by accidents.

Only four diseases took more lives heart disease, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, and nephritis.

This means that every five minutes of the day or night someone is killed accidentally in the United States. This is a frightful toll; if war casualties amounted to this astounding figures, we would soon become greatly alarmed and would do something about it.

However, we take for granted that we shall have accidents and will do nothing to reduce this terrific figure. Let's make 1942 a better year by conserving lives, limbs, and material so that we shall have all help available for our boys at the front.

MEMPHIS BOUND ON WRONG TRACK

A New York subway speeding north under Manhattan ground to a sudden stop. The amazed motorman had sighted a spectral figure plodding toward him in the wooden guard protecting the deadly third rail.

When asked where he thought he was going, the underground stroller, John Scott, 50, a negro, said only:

"Memphis bound."

Magistrate Samuel Orr postponed Scott's trip South for at least 30 days.

LOSS OF TASTE

Some of the things I liked as a child I still enjoy, with no apparent impairment of my sense of taste. But there are many things that seem too strong or too insipid today. Long association with well-prepared meals and regular times to eat will make most of us a bit fixy about what we eat.

It is no temptation now for me to pass an orchard before the apples or other fruits get ripe. Just what was good about green apples I do not know. Maybe it was not wholly a matter of taste but was also a desire to take a chance with colic and similar ailments. It seems now that we were always starved for fruits of all sorts. Hence green grapes, green apples, green blackberries, and all the other fruits attracted. I remember that all of us ate quantities of wood sorrel leaves, with their oxalic acid strong enough to take the skin off the tongue. One boy of my acquaintance got so hungry for sour things that he ate all the leaves off a potted plant of this family and required the services of my father, the country doctor.

How hungry I would have to be now to scrape the mixing bowls where cake or other pastry has been made! But we used to scramble over the bowls when we were children; it was necessary to have a schedule, so that each child would get his share. Similarly we used to eat quantities of gingercake dough before it had been baked. But, after all, how much does this differ from our eating, then and now, dried beef?

Dried fruits have not wholly lost their flavor, but I seldom find myself tempted to eat any that are lying around waiting to be cooked. Our pockets used to be full of dried apples and peaches, sometimes in school, during books at that. Some of those dried apples were green before they were dried and were sour enough to cause a slight case of mumps.

Smoking has lost much of its flavor, too. Cornsilk seems insipid and not very tempting. Life everlasting smells pretty good out in the fields, but I do not want a pipeful of it just yet. Grapevines never tasted very good, even in the days of our childhood, but they looked big and cigar-like. The sore they left on the tongue was just one of the small penalties we paid for trying to be grown. I cannot remember just how the rattan of buggy whips tasted, but my impression is that it was so porous that the heat from the lighted end was a bit too much.

Not long ago I heard a great Russian scientist tell how he used to chew licorice root in the Old Country. His English was pretty hard to understand, but I told him that his liking of licorice made him kin to the whole big world of small boys. And still I cannot find licorice sticks very tasty now, much as I liked them formerly. Probably that is due partly to the fact that I am not particularly trying now to impress older ones with the dark-brown nature of my expectation as if I were becoming an adept at chewing tobacco. And hoarhound candy is a bit too much, too. I used to have it fed to me to help break colds. It took a lot to do any good, I suppose, for I liked it and ate it ravenously rather than let it melt in my mouth as my mother told me to do.

Really, it is pathetic that one should thus come to think less highly of the tastes he once enjoyed. Probably that is one of the severest penalties we pay for growing up. Sometimes I refuse to believe that the charming things I used to know have ceased to appeal; a few trials soon convince me that I had better taste licorice, and "rabbit tobacco," and hoarhound, and cake dough only in memory, since my taste buds have become older and more civilized.

A SMILE

The thing that goes the farthest towards making life worth while. That costs the least and does the most is just a pleasant smile.

The smile that bubbles from a heart that loves its fellowmen. Will drive away the cloud of gloom and coax the sun again. It's full of worth and goodness, too, with manly kindness blent. It's worth a million dollars, and doesn't cost a cent.

A few bombs, judiciously dropped in the United States, might persuade some people that war is going on and that this nation can be attacked.

A fish wouldn't get hooked if he knew when to keep his mouth shut.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE, MR. TAXPAYER

... between an unregulated traffic contributing nothing in state, county or local taxes, and Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry which has paid more than $7,000,000 in taxes to the state alone during the past seven years!

But occasionally some people, losing sight of this difference, would unwittingly deprive state and county treasuries of this revenue thereby increasing their own tax burdens as well as inviting a return of the anti-social conditions resulting from unlicensed, unregulated outlets.

Through our Committee's self-regulation program, the Kentucky beer industry is cooperating with law-enforcement officials to preserve these benefits by helping maintain wholesome conditions in licensed retail beer outlets in counties where the sale of beer is legal.

YOU can help by (1) patronizing only law-abiding beer outlets; and (2) reporting any abuses to the proper authorities.
