Attorney General Ed Hancock Announces For Lt. Governor

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock formally announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor today, leading the way for what is expected to be a crowded field.

Hancock pledged in a statement that if elected, he would have the old Governor's Mansion converted to offices for the Kentucky Historical Society. The mansion is now the official residence of the lieutenant governor.

Hancock has his own home in Frankfort, where he has lived several years.

He also said he would return to the state Finance Department for other use the state car usually assigned to the lieutenant governor.

He noted that during his three years as attorney general he has not taken a vacation, been out of the state, submitted an expense claim or used the state owned car assigned to the attorney general.

Hancock said he has spent his time and effort as attorney general in working for Kentucky citizens and taxpayers and would do the same if elected lieutenant governor.

Hancock, 49, a lawyer and certified public accountant, rose to attorney general from political obscurity.

Opposed by three democratic rivals in 1971, he won by taking 35 per cent of the total vote.

The only other announced candidate is state Sen. Tom Ward, D-Versailles, who began campaigning months ago, but plenty are in the wings.

The front-runner formerly was Rep. Terry McBrayer, D-Greenup, who recently announced he was withdrawing because of ill health.

There is almost certain to be another contender from Eastern Kentucky, and speculation now centers around Barkley Sturgill of Prestonsburg and Pike County Judge Wayne Rutherford.

From the Louisville area, Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach has been regarded as either a gubernatorial or lieutenant governor hopeful.

His specific goal seems to depend in part on whether former fried chicken king John Y. Brown Jr. will run for governor.

Another expected possibility may arise from Louisville—Mayor Harvey Sloane reportedly has sounded out some top politicians on the matter.

That doesn't nearly complete the current list of potential Democratic candidates.

Among others mentioned have been Secretary of State Thelma Stovall of Louisville, a veteran secondary office holder; Tom Harris of (See Hancock, Page 12)

Break-In Is Reported At Merle Norman

A break-in was reported over the weekend at the Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio here, according to the manager of the store.

Taken in the burglary was $25 from a bank bag which was kept in a refrigerator at the store. Murray Police were to investigate the break-in today.

Calloway Speech Team Wins Honors At Tourney

The Calloway County High Speech and Debate Team received second place honors in the Harrison County Invitational Tournament held Saturday.

Calloway finished competition with 113 points, one point under tournament winner Bourbon County with 114 points. St. Xavier High of Louisville placed third.

Calloway students winning individual honors were:

Karen Edwards, first place in analysis of public address, Randy Herndon and Randy McDaniel, first place in Duet

Acting. Second place honors were won by Gail Tucker in Analysis of public address and Krit Stubblefield in Original oratory. Jimmy Burken won third place in humorous interpretation.

Calloway entered forty-eight students and twenty-seven were ranked superior in competition. Calloway's Varsity debaters Tommy Riley, Rick Wilkerson, Kevin Bowen and Randy Hutchens won four debates while losing two.

The Laker Speech Team will compete in the Trigg County invitational next Saturday.

Play Will Be Presented At Jeffrey Gym

"Meet Me In St. Louis," a comedy in three acts, will be presented by students of Calloway County High School on Tuesday, November 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Jeffrey gymnasium, according to Kathy Harding who is in charge of publicity.

This comedy concerns the antics of the Smith family in 1904. The trouble begins when Mr. Smith gets a job transfer to New York, and many problems he faces especially when the children refuse to leave and start doing everything in their power to stay, said Miss Harding.

Krit Stubblefield, junior at Calloway County High School, will play the role of Mr. Smith, and Cindy Rogers, also a junior, will play the part of Mrs. Smith.

Other members of the cast are Terri Erwin, Regina Cook, Carla Roach, Sherry Snyder, Joe Ross, Randy McDaniel, Cindy Bailey, Teresa Turley, Tammie Feltner, Randy Herndon, Steve McCuiston, Lisa Cleaver, Danny Hutson, Randy Walker, and Timmy Alton.

Mrs. Marie Manning, teacher at Calloway County High School, is the faculty sponsor.

Prior to curtain time, a musical program will be presented. The admission will be one dollar for adults and seventy-five cents for students.

Local observers are predicting a light voter turnout at the polls in Calloway County tomorrow, saying voter apathy, a lack of any hotly contested local races, and the possibility of rain will keep many voters away from the polling places.

The only local races to be decided in the Tuesday, Nov. 5, general election are school board positions.

A field of six candidates are vying for three spots on the Murray Independent School Board. Three candidates in each of two districts are vying for election to two posts on the Calloway County School Board.

In the race for the city school board positions are Perry T. Johnson, Donald E. Henry, Will Ed Stokes, Mrs. Dick George, C. F. Harrison, Jr., and Kenneth Humphreys.

Candidates for the county school board are Joe R. Dyer, Jerry (Red) Overbey, Robert A. Baker, Faye McReynolds Orr, Walter Byars and Kathryn Hufnagle.

The race for U. S. Senator has drawn the most local voter interest. Three candidates, including incumbent Republican Sen. Marlow Cook, Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford, the Democratic nominee, and American Party nominee, William Edward Parker, will be listed on the ballot for the Senatorship.

The only other contested race on the local ballot is for the Congressional seat currently held by Frank A. Stubblefield of Murray. Democratic nominee, Carroll Hubbard, Jr., who defeated Stubblefield in the May primary election, is opposed by Republican Charles Thurman Banken, Jr., in that race.

Boyce G. Clayton, Democrat, faces no opposition for Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Calloway County Court Clerk Marvin Harris has announced changes in places of various voting precincts in the County, which were made necessary due to the closing of the six elementary schools across the area.

The voting machines for several precincts had been located at the schools, but after they were closed, it was felt that voting machines might not be safe at the unoccupied buildings.

Persons who voted at Faxon School in the last election will now cast their ballots at Alfred Duncan's Garage, one mile east of Faxon School Road on Highway 94 East.

Persons who voted in the Clayton Creek district, and who cast their ballots at Morgan's Gift Shop in the last election will now vote at the new East Elementary School gymnasium on the Pottertown Road.

Persons who voted at the New Concord School in the last election will go Tuesday to the New Concord grocery.

Voters who went to Potts' Store in the Harris Grove precinct will now cast their ballots at the new Southwest Elementary School at Wisewell. The Lynn Grove precinct voting place has been moved from the Lynn Grove School to the Ruble Taylor Clean-Up Shop at Lynn Grove.

The Kirksey voting place has been moved from the old

Kirksey School to the Woodmen of the World Building at Kirksey.

Also adding somewhat to the confusion of the voters has been the necessity of splitting two precincts in Murray.

Voters who are affected should already have received a letter notifying them of the change in voting places.

Murray Precinct No. 7, a division of Precinct No. 3, which votes at Murray Middle School, will now vote at Robertson Elementary School in the lobby next to the principal's office.

Murray Precinct No. 8, which is a division of Precinct No. 4, which votes at Murray Datsun, will now vote at the Administration Building of the Murray Vocational School.

County Clerk Marvin Harris said the polling places would be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

FREE RIDE TO THE POLLS Members of the Murray Civitan Club will provide free transportation to the polls during Tuesday's general election as part of the club's "Get Out The Vote Campaign."

Persons desiring a ride to the polls in Murray should call 753-1651 between 8 a.m. and 5:45 p.m. and give their name, address, and their polling place.

Democratic Landslide Predicted Across U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic landslide appeared imminent today on the eve of the first election to feel the full brunt of Watergate and a staggering economy.

The final pre-election survey by The Associated Press shows Democrats have a shot at two-thirds control of both houses of Congress and a record number of governorships.

Confident Democratic leaders predicted Sunday their party would carry a virtual sweep of Tuesday's elections, while Republicans talked about holding down their losses.

The balloting for 35 governorships, 34 Senate seats and all 435 House posts will be the first since Richard M. Nixon resigned as president and was pardoned by his chosen successor, Gerald R. Ford.

The election also comes amid mounting inflation and unemployment and national debate over what to do about both.

Ford has campaigned for GOP candidates saying he needs a Congress he can work with to cure the economy, while Democrats have called for the congressional strength to put through their own solutions.

Ironically, the anticipated Democratic romp comes just two years after Nixon had won for the Republicans one of history's two biggest presidential landslides. But it was reminiscent of 1966 when Republicans turned the same trick after their presidential disaster in the Barry Goldwater campaign of 1964.

Although Republicans contended that their embattled candidates were closing gaps across the country, the latest available information showed Democrats still ahead in most of the key races.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in all 50 states, late polls and interviews with political strategists for the major parties and candidates gives this picture:

Senate — The Democrats likely to gain from 5 to 7 of the 14 GOP seats at stake and with a good chance to hold all 20 of their own. This could mean 63 to 65 Democrats in the new Senate, compared to the 58-42 margin they already hold.

House — The Democratic

gain could be as high as 50 seats and probably no less than 30 if present trends hold. They now hold a 248-187 edge and could approach the massive 295-140 majority they achieved in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Governors — The Democrats hold the record for most governorships in the hands of one party — 39 in 1939. Already holding 32 of the 50 statehouses, they now appear likely to gain from 7 to as many as 10.

The party out of the White House normally gains in off-year elections — an average 4 senators and 26 House members in the last five.

"Our mission is to keep it under the average losses," Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" show Sunday.

"Frankly, I would like to keep it in the range of 20 to 25" (See Election, Page 12)

18 Persons Charged With Burning Auto

A total of 18 persons were arrested Saturday by the Calloway County Sheriff's office in connection with the burning of a car in Kirksey Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies identified eight of the persons as Danny Champion, Route Six; Jackie Wyatt, Route One, Kirksey; Roger Green, Route One, Kirksey; Joe Manning, Route One, Kirksey; Kenneth Mohler, Route One, Kirksey; Jackie Carson, Route One, Kirksey; Gary Green of Route One, Kirksey; and Terry Manning, also Route One, Kirksey.

Deputies said the car, a 1965 model, was purchased by Champion for $40 earlier last week, and burned at about 11:30 p.m. Friday. Seven of the eight were released on $1,000 bond by County Judge Pro-Tem Helen Spann, on charges of disorderly conduct and damaging a public road. The eighth was also charged, but released on his own recognizance.

The burning took place in Kirksey in front of Smith's Grocery. Ten other persons were also arrested in connection with the incident, four of whom were juveniles. The others were reportedly charged with refusing to give information concerning the incident.

The individuals will appear today before County Judge Robert O. Miller.

TWO-VEHICLE COLLISION—No one was injured in this accident Saturday afternoon at one o'clock when a car driven by Betty H. Lahde, 809 North 17th collided with a City of Murray water truck. Police said the Lahde car was going south on Minerva, and had stopped to let the truck back out of Audubon when the accident occurred.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1974

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
After some early morning confusion, day should turn out to be surprisingly productive. You also stand to gain financially.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
You may not have the incentive to try and accomplish the extraordinary now, but a bit of extra thought given to the future could completely change your perspective—and stimulate your ambitions anew.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21) ♊
If a financial transaction is up for consideration, and you have subconscious doubts, it would be better to postpone action. There COULD be something to those hunches of yours.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23) ♋
You may be quite certain in your mind as to exactly how you intend to handle things, but it wouldn't hurt to get another's viewpoint. Some interesting new concepts could result.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
Not a day for forcing issues or deliberately bringing up controversial subjects. Roll with the punches for the time being.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
Strong indications of gain through past efforts. A good period, too, for launching new enterprises. Study all suggestions carefully, however.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
No matter what activities—regular or extra-curricular—you planned for this day, you may have to mark time until others are ready, but don't chafe; use the time for reevaluating.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) ♏
Some intrigue about. Don't become involved. Concentrate on your own objectives and you won't have time to get into dubious activities.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
A problem now may be in handling activities smoothly, without ruffling tempers or leaving yourself open to misinterpretation. But the Sagittarian's innate diplomacy should help you cope.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
Stars promise interesting developments and growth in areas that should stimulate your ambitions—and your ever active mind.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
A better day for completing pending projects than for beginning new ones. Make plans for the latter, but don't launch until later in the week.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
Watch finances, but don't become overly anxious about them. Just make up your mind to pursue a conservative and realistic course.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with an active mind, remarkable inner resources and strong will power, all of which are potent weapons in times of stress. You have a flair for the dramatic, which should serve you well in the theater (as actor, director or producer), in literature or as a trial lawyer. You are a born leader and will always have an enthusiastic following, so... be careful where you lead! Your business acumen is excellent and, as manager of a large corporation or investment counselor, you could easily reach a position of eminence. You are also suited to public life; could reach estimable office via the law. Birthdate of: Vivien Leigh, film star.

Mrs. Harlan Hodges Will Speak In Graves County

Helen Milburn (Mrs. Harlan) Hodges, well known for her dramatic book reviews, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Graves County Extension Homemakers, to be held Thursday, November 7 at 10 a.m. at the First United Methodist Church, Mayfield. The group will meet in the church's fellowship hall, which has an entrance on the south side of the building.

Mrs. Hodges, of Murray, is an outstanding book reviewer and is much sought after for programs at universities, colleges, high schools, civic, fraternal and church groups throughout a wide area. She studies dramatics at the University of Colorado and Illinois College.

The speaker is a member of the National League of American Pen Women, and the International Platform Association. She has participated in seminars related to "the act of acting" the National Theatre, in London, in 1970.

Mrs. Hodge is listed in the Dictionary of International Biographers, published in London, England, in 1969; in Two Thousand Women of Achievement, published in London in 1969, and in Personalities of the South, published in 1972.

Presiding at Thursday's meeting will be the county Homemakers president, Mrs. Howell Brady. During the business session, a new-county president will be elected.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. Brady noted that visitors are welcome to the meeting and to the luncheon.

She shouldn't fleece sleeping sheep

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, I remember seeing my mother tiptoe into the bedroom where my father was sleeping and she'd take some money out of his pants pocket.

Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't.

My question: Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house, but sometimes it's not enough.

PICKPOCKET

DEAR PICK: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To fleece him when he's asleep should make you feel sheepish.

DEAR ABBY: I will never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for six years. We have one child.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and ladylike. That girl gave me gonorrhea. I, in turn, infected my wife with such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old, and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much.

The doctor had to tell her the truth and it nearly broke her heart because she had never looked at another man, and knew it had to be my fault.

She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself.

Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done.

HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that venereal disease is still one of society's most serious problems. Be careful!

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 22, and married. I quit my job as a beautician because I don't like that kind of work.

My friends, neighbors and relatives think that because I'm not working right now I have lots of time on my hands, so they come over and ask me to do their hair—for nothing.

I'm not pushy and I hate to hurt anyone's feelings, so I go ahead and do their hair. It's a lot easier than making up some kind of excuse. Besides, I don't want any trouble.

Now I've had it. Will you please give me a good excuse to use when relatives, neighbors and friends ask me to do their hair?

RETIRED

DEAR RETIRED: You don't need an "excuse"—you have a legitimate reason. Use it. Simply say: "I quit being a beautician because I don't care for that kind of work."

And if you haven't got the courage to stand up and speak your mind because you don't want "trouble"—you're already in a lot of trouble!

DEAR ABBY: "Nameless in Ga." wrote: "If there were a book entitled 'How to Learn to Love Unwanted Children' it would be just what I need."

Abby, what she needs is Margaretha A. Riddle's book, "The Rights of Infants." (New York: Columbia University Press, 1943)

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

DEAR ARTHUR: Your suggestion is a good one. And so is the book, but it's out of print. "Nameless" should try her public library.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Clam Spaghetti

Cut two large green peppers in half lengthwise; remove seeds. Cook five minutes in boiling water; drain. Meanwhile, combine one can (15 ounces) spaghetti in Tomato Sauce with cheese, one can (about eight ounces) minced clams, drained, and one small clove garlic, minced; fill peppers. Place in one and one-half quart shallow baking dish (10x6x2"). Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Top with two slices (about two ounces) mild process cheese, cut into eight strips; bake until cheese melts. Makes four servings.

To Be Married

Miss Anita Lane Duncan

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Duncan of Route Two, Puryear, Tenn., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their youngest daughter, Anita Lane, to Jan Bryce Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burk Howell of Route Two, Dover, Tenn.

The bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of Henry County High School and is now employed at Henry County General Hospital, Paris, Tenn. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Cora Lee Jackson and the late Ernest Jackson and of Mrs. E. D. Duncan and the late Mr. Duncan, all of Puryear, Tenn.

The prospective groom is employed with the H and S Transportation Company of Nashville, Tenn. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Howell and the late Mr. and Mrs. Dave Largent, all of Dover, Tenn.

The ceremony will take place on Tuesday, November 12, at the home of the bride-elect's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Bennett, with only members of the family attending.

Suburban Homemakers Club Meets Home Of Mrs. Russell

The Suburban Homemakers met October 17, at seven p. m. in the home of Mrs. Harry Russell, 1408 Poplar St., with the president, Mrs. Holmes Dunn, presiding.

The devotion, given by Mrs. Max Farley, was taken from John 4:35. The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Prentice Dunn. Ten members were present and answered the roll by naming something they liked about the month of October.

Mrs. Jack Wilson and Mrs. Roy Hancock gave a report on the Annual Day which they attended last month at the Holiday Inn. Mrs. Hancock also reported on the craft lesson of making Christmas tree skirts.

There was discussion on making Macrame Purses, and some members ordered the materials to make the purses later.

Mrs. Janet Hendon was present and distributed Stanley order books to be used in the money raising project for the club.

Mrs. Learon McGary presented the lesson on Family communications, giving many interesting ways in which we might improve our communications with each other.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Russell and the co-hostess, Mrs. Leon Adams.

The next meeting will be November 21 in the home of Mrs. Leon Adams, 803 Sunny Lane. The co-hostess will be Mrs. Jack Wilson.

Leftovers

Don't wait for leftovers to cool completely before refrigerating them. The flavor will be better and the danger of spoilage lessened if you cover and store hot food as soon as steam stops rising. If leftovers are to be used at more than one meal, refrigerate them in several small containers so you need to heat the contents only once per batch.

Local Scene

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

What a month October has been! It is the kind we dream of and appreciate to the fullest. The trees are fast losing their loveliness, but from the number of pictures that I understand have been taken, the memory of them will linger with us for a long time.

How many if you have put some Paperwhite narcissus in water for winter bloom? Someone has asked me about them and the procedure is so simple that everyone can have a few of these pretty things in the house this winter.

Put them in about at least four inches deep, five would be better. Have the bowl perfectly clean, put in a layer of small rocks or gravel, set the bulbs firmly and add more rocks around them. Fill the bowl nearly full of water and put it in a dark closet or any place where it gets no light. The roots will develop and then the tops will begin to shoot up. A piece of charcoal will help keep the water sweet.

Wait until the tops are five or six inches high before bringing them to the light about three weeks. Add more rocks, if necessary, to steady the bulbs. Sometimes the roots will push the bulbs clear up above the rocks. In fact I had to remove one of my bulbs gently and put into a glass to itself as it was bent over so far. But these good strong roots are the source of the big lovely blooms.

Set the bowls in the light, but not sunlight, for a few days and you will see the tops turning a rich green. Then set them by a window and watch them grow. Add more water as it is absorbed and that is practically all you need to do except enjoy them.

They can be obtained in pure white, all yellow and white perianth with yellow cup. Each bulb should have one stem, sometimes two, with several blossoms on each one.

Are you saving your leaves? Gather them up and pile them in a corner. They are so valuable. My leaf pile is now high as my head, but when the rains come it will pack down to only a few inches. So we will continue piling them up as long as they fall. Don't you love the smell of raked up leaves?

And, by the way, it is excellent exercise; one day of constant leaf raking will show you muscles you didn't know you had. But it is such a satisfaction to see the results of your work.

May I add one more thing about the Narcissus in water. When they are through blooming, most people throw them out, but I just can't do that. They have used up so much of their reserve energy that they will not bloom in water again. But I like to set mine out in a corner of the yard and forget them. They will not bloom next year, but after a rest of a year, you may go out some spring morning and find a little patch of these sweet blossoms as a bonus. It's worth trying.

Miss Schwiethale Married To James E. Morrill In Ceremony, Sylvia Church

Miss Shirley Marie Schwiethale and James E. Morrill were married Friday, October 11, at the Sylvia Church of Christ, Sylvia, Kansas, with Harold Mitchell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwiethale of Stafford, Kansas.

Mr. Morrill is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James L. Morrill, Jr., of 2220 Casment Road, Manhattan, Kansas. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James L. Morrill, Sr., of Lowes and Mr. and Mrs. Truman Turner of Murray.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown designed and made by her mother. Fashioned of silk organza over satin, it featured a wide scalloped ruffle of Chantilly lace circling the skirt.

Vickie Fahrenholtz of Sylvia,

Kansas, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Pamela Hornbaker of Stafford, Kansas, and Glenda Turner of York, Nebraska.

Bruce Morrill was his brother's best man. Glen Elliott of Assaria, Kansas, and Scott Morrill, brother of the groom, were groomsmen.

The ushers were Arthur Schwiethale, Jr., of Salina, Kansas, Keith Schwiethale of Stafford, Kansas, brothers of the bride, Troy Burr of York, Neb., and Kenneth Anderson of York, Kansas.

Nancy Wells, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. A reception was held at the church.

The bride, a graduate of Stafford High School, attended York Christian College of York, Neb. The groom, a graduate of Manhattan High School and York Christian College, is engaged in farming.

After a wedding trip through Iowa and Minnesota, the couple is residing in Quinter, Kansas.

Unpaid Mail To Get Dead Letter Treat

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen says that beginning soon all unpaid mail will be returned to the sender if a return address is available. Mail without a return address will be sent to the dead letter office, where letters are opened and there destroyed if there isn't anything inside to identify the sender.

So, be sure to put stamps on your letters. Otherwise, that house payment, insurance premium, utility bill will be directed by the Postal Service to the dead letter office.

If that happens you may find yourself without heat, light, water and facing some irate bill collectors from the department store.

Sorry about that. But you can lick the problem.

Your Vote And Democracy

By Wayne M. Williams,
President, Murray Civitan Club

Most of us will agree that voting is a vital part of a democratic society. Without the freedom to vote as one chooses to vote we usually describe that society as undemocratic, communistic, dictatorial, or by some other title than democratic.

The Civitans of Murray, Kentucky invite you to consider seriously your freedom to VOTE on November 5, 1974 and to consider the following analysis of our Democracy. Democracy is that form of social organization in which the governing authority resides in the people governed. The accepted principles of right by which rule is to be exercised are decided by all the people and not be any special segment such as the intelligent or the "well born."

EQUALITY: The fundamental principle of democracy is equality. This means that in the determination of social policy every person has the same right of consideration. No person is to count for more than any other person; each person is to count for one in political decision. This is the democratic ideal. In reality the strong or the rich usually do count for more than the weak and poor. When this happens, the less favored have the right and duty to seek to restore the balance.

DIVERSITY: Equally fundamental to democracy is the principle of diversity. Equality does not mean uniformity. This principle assures to the individual and to groups the right to be different. Some say that democracy is based upon majority rule. This is not to be understood as the elimination of minorities in favor of a majority way of life. Minorities and majorities are to have equal rights to be different. The ideal of diversity does set limits to the allowable diversity. Those who would imperil the security or infringe the rights of others cannot be permitted to be different in these ways. But within these limits democracy is a means of encouraging diversity within unity, of creating a society in which the maximum individuality prevails consistent with equal rights for all.

REPRESENTATION: The mechanism for democratic rule is government by freely elected representatives. In small groups each can count for one by his personal presence. In the larger community the individual generally cannot make known his will in person and must entrust to his chosen representatives the decision and execution of social policies. By the ballot box he still counts for one, though he must act by proxy.

Respect for law, unqualified allegiance to our Government, and love and respect for the flag of our country are prime objectives of the Murray Civitan Club. "We urge the citizens of this community to join us at the polls on November 5, 1974 and demonstrate their respect for democracy," challenges Wayne Williams, president of Murray Civitans.

Curbing The EPA

Should a federal agency have the authority to force commuters into car pools? Should Big Government be permitted to require municipalities to reduce parking available to motorists? To both these questions, the House Appropriations Committee says "No."

The committee and its chairman, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss.), deserve the thanks not only of commuters but of all citizens concerned about individual rights and local authority.

What the House Appropriations Committee has done, in precise terms, is approve a bill that states that "no part of any funds appropriated under this act (fiscal 1975 appropriation) may be used by the Environmental Protection Agency to administer any program to tax, limit or otherwise regulate parking facilities."

It is no exaggeration to say that the EPA is power mad. In Houston, Texas, and elsewhere it has endeavored to force commuters to join in car pools or ride the bus instead of driving their own vehicles.

An elaborate system of fines has been devised by EPA for those who don't do what Big Brother wants. The agency's stated goal is a reduction of air pollution. But even if the agency's goal makes sense - reducing the number of automobiles on highways, the methods employed to attain that goal smack of a totalitarian regime. An American has the right to choose the form of transportation he prefers. He is under no obligation to join a car pool simply because Washington bureaucrats decide that's the thing for him to do.

Moreover, if parking is to be reduced in a community, the only level of government with a right to do that is local government.

When the Congress passed the law establishing the Environmental Protection Agency, it certainly didn't have any intention of giving the EPA authority to determine how many cars could park on Main Street, USA.

Such matters are properly determined by city officials, not federal employees half a continent away.

Let's hope that the bill approved by the House Appropriations Committee will get wide public attention and approval and that it will become law. It is time to curb EPA's appetite for power.

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane (R-Ill.) commented on this in a recent speech. "Congress," he said, "has given governmental agencies broad grants of authority, grants which have often been used in an autocratic and arbitrary manner."

He observed that "in creating the Environmental Protection Agency, Congress has once again acted in this manner, abdicating its own authority to non-elected bureaucrats. The results, which we are only now beginning to understand, have been disastrous."

In part, the problem lies with the readiness of Congress to allow federal agencies to make rules to carry out the congressional mandate. This rule-making power is cruelly abused by many agencies. The agencies go far beyond the letter of the law or the intent of Congress.

The Environmental Protection Agency is a prime offender in this regard. For example, though Congress decided against a federal land use control law last summer, the EPA has been laying down rules on so-called "indirect source emissions" that will apply to construction projects after Jan. 1, 1975.

U. S. Rep. Robert Casey (D-Texas) has said that when one looks at the EPA's definition of "indirect source emission," one finds that the agency is really talking about land controls. So it goes.

What is involved here is more than a free-wheeling federal agency. The EPA's edicts are incompatible with our democratic system. Thus it is imperative that Congress strip EPA of the rule-making power which it has abused.

Consumer Comments

Negative Option Easier

By Ed W. Hancock
Attorney General of Kentucky

"The easiest thing is to do nothing, and people will always do the easiest thing." That's what many book and record companies feel, so they came up with the negative option plan, where, if you do nothing, you are actually ordering merchandise!

Under the negative option plan, the consumer receives a notice of the name and price of an item—for example, a record. If a consumer wants the record, he does nothing and the record will be sent out and billed to the purchaser. Consumers who don't want the record must respond by mail, usually by checking a box on a card indicating they'd like to pass this one up.

The response usually has a time limit on it; if the consumer waits too long to respond, it will be assumed that he wants the merchandise, and he may find he's being sent or billed for unwanted merchandise.

If a company agrees to take back unwanted merchandise, the consumer may have to bear the cost of return mail, which, depending on the merchandise involved, may be very costly.

The negative option plan, when a consumer has agreed to it, is not illegal, but consumers should understand exactly how the plan works and whether it is suitable for them. Consumers who frequently take vacations or whose employment takes them away for long periods of time may find piles of unwanted merchandise awaiting them at home, just because they were not there to receive and sent back the option cards.

If you have any questions about a negative option plan, or if you would like to make a complaint about any consumer matter, write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Kentucky residents may use the toll-free consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

Letters To The Editor

Writer Takes Issue With U. S. Chamber Article

Dear Editor:

Our attention has been called to the "Guest Editorial" piece from the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S., published by The Ledger and Times on October 23.

We are surprised and shocked that your editors would choose so blatant a piece of propaganda as that provided by the Chamber, an organization heavily big-business oriented and constantly critical of the dedicated men and women who perform a host of vital duties for the American people. The Chamber ironically inveighs against the "bureaucracy" while at the same time it maintains a huge big business lobby housed in a palatial marble headquarters in Washington.

With respect to Federal pay, the subject of the guest editorial, it is noteworthy that the Chamber over the past 50 years has campaigned against every pay adjustment proposed for public employees... and has demanded slashes in Federal services with the unremarkable exception of those which are useful to large corporate interests.

The Congress voted the recent pay adjustment, a very modest one far below those contracted in the private sector, because Mr. Ford's proposal to postpone it was so flagrantly unfair. It would have penalized these competent and loyal workers—who kept the wheels of government turning while a scandal-ridden Administration was immobilized at the top—alone among all of the millions in the nation's work force.

Federal employees always have been willing, and are now, to carry their full share of any burden in the national interest. But they do strongly protest being subjected to a cosmetic and wholly illusory action while other workers and corporations and business and finance generally remain untouched. The notion that the pay adjustment deferral would have served as a useful anti-inflationary symbol is simplistic and contradicted by all the known facts.

Federal workers and their families are in truth the victims of inflation and not the cause of it. It is these men and women, serving the American people in so many essential ways, who are heavily impacted by inflation as the Administration refuses to clamp a lid on prices. Federal employees for the greatest part are in the low or middle income brackets, the chief sufferers from skyrocketing prices, a fact which the Congress recognized if the Chief Executive did not.

I write not only as president of the largest independent union in the Federal service but also as a former 25-year employee of the Federal Government. I have been a member of the Federal Pay Council, created by law, since its inception. There probably are not more than a dozen people who understand the statistical aspects of how pay comparability is determined. The editorial writer is among those who evidently do not.

Statements putting the Federal work force at 3,500,000 lump the Federal civil service and the armed forces into the same bag. Presently 2,000,000 men and women are serving the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Coast Guard. Recent ending of the military draft and concurrent necessity to raise wages high enough to attract all-volunteer forces had a significant effect on present and projected personnel costs across-the-board. Is a voluntary defense force consisting only of "malcontents" and "dispossessed" what is sought? We believe rather that fair wages are vital to a quality armed force.

The comparability yardstick used by the Government in setting pay fails to take into account crucial elements in the equation. As a member of the Pay Council I know that these glaring inequities have been bypassed, and because adjustments always lag so far behind the facts Federal workers invariably are engaged in a frustrating game of catch-up. Congress has been sharply and unfairly criticized by the Chamber for defeating the President's inequitable pay adjustment play. It has been asserted that this was the result of self-serving motivation on the part of members of Congress fearful of "retaliation" at the polls. The fact is that it took considerable courage and fortitude for Senators to take the position they did, in favor of fair play. They could be quite certain that their action would come under heavy fire, which indeed has been the case. There was no political capital to be gained; the over-all accounting would show them a net loss by far. But Senators on both sides of the aisle agreed that if workers were to be called upon to make sacrifices, those sacrifices should be equitably distributed over the entire national sector, at the worker and the corporate level.

In view of the concern which your paper's commentary has caused among the Federal workers in your area, and its adverse effect on morale, we request publication of this communication at your earliest convenience. I am certain a reappraisal of all of the pertinent facts will give you a more balanced perspective on a vitally important issue directly affecting many highly qualified workers and families in your area.

Yours sincerely,
Nathan T. Wolkomir, president

Unfortunate Can Of Worms Opened By Sports Column

Dear Mike:

In your eagerness to take bows in your column Oct. 30 in the wake of Muhammad Ali's regaining the world heavyweight boxing championship, you opened an unfortunate can of worms which you had obviously failed to research properly. Permit me to enlighten you.

First, I pay appropriate homage to your prognosticative powers and acknowledge the prediction you made concerning the outcome of the Ali-Foreman bout in Zaire. But your allusions to the four-year legal hassle over Ali's refusal to be inducted into military service lead me to the conclusion that your foresight may be far superior to your hindsight.

True, the U. S. Supreme Court did in the summer of 1971 reverse by an 8-0 ruling Ali's conviction by a Houston federal court jury which had sentenced him to a five-year prison term and meted out a $10,000 fine. But that decision, admittedly the last word in legality, merely proves that the Solomonic logic ostensibly exercised by that tribunal is often quite fallible.

Calling it "indisputably clear" that the Justice Department had erred as a matter of law in advising that Ali's beliefs are not religiously founded and sincerely held, the high court in its decision determined that the boxer had a valid claim to conscientious objector status.

That decision raised intriguing questions that continue to be as puzzling now as they were more than three years ago.

Ali's claim to exemption from the draft as a conscientious objector was based primarily on his professed devotion to pacifism as a practicing Black Muslim minister. It is unimaginable that the Supreme Court bought that bill of goods.

No man can make a valid claim to pacifism who makes money trying to batter another human being into insensibility. But suppose we excuse that glaring incongruity in his plea in the name of sport and get on to a source of absolute mystification.

At the time of the Supreme Court decision upholding his claim of exemption from the draft, Ali was in a state of semi-communication with the Nation of Islam or Black Muslim faith. The reason? Because he was not willing to quit prizefighting.

Now how could the Supreme Court validate the religious sincerity of a man who embraces his religion in order to avoid the draft and ignores his religion in order to continue to feather his nest with long green?

At that time, the decision probably stuck firm in the craws of many young men who interrupted everyday life to answer the draft call even though they did not relish the idea of going off to fight a war in Vietnam.

Today the decision has even more meaning. Ali was granted what amounted to unconditional amnesty on the basis of his assertion that serving in that conflict violated his conscience. Compare that to those who remain in exile in Canada and other countries or who face some form of alternate service through a conditional amnesty program.

Was Ali more conscientious or more deserving of forgiveness than they? I think not—and I continue to resent such injustice disguised as justice.

Yet, while I deplore the Supreme Court's myopic view of the circumstances in that situation, I do admit to some grudging admiration for Ali's guile. He outmaneuvered the whole American system of justice (imperfect as it is)—not bad for a fellow who was first granted a draft exemption in 1964 because he failed to pass routine intelligence tests.

Sincerely,
Dwain McIntosh

Let's Stay Well

Better Outlook For The Mentally Retarded

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Significant breakthroughs are making history by changing the outlook for victims of mental retardation.

The Civil Rights movement has brought pressure in the courts that has resulted in new legislation requiring the education of every child, including the mentally handicapped.

Special classes are being designed to meet the educational needs of retarded children. The impact of such training will cause adjustments in the homes of these children, in the schools, and in the community, including industry. A growth of employment opportunities is emerging.

A likely shift in the attitude of the public will bring the inclusion of the retarded more into the mainstream of community affairs rather than to limit the activities of the handicapped.

Further, educators are discovering that the mentally retarded are often capable of learning more by nonverbal techniques. A task can often be performed when it is broken down into a series of teachable units.

Marc Gold and his associates at the University of Illinois in Champaign, have been gratified to find that the mentally retarded are more capable of learning than had been anticipated, especially in manual skills, and that these skills are adequate to be competitive in our capitalistic system.

Gold and his group are organizing a for-profit company to employ the mentally handicapped and to use them in assembling parts. The income will allow these impaired persons to live more independently.

Approximately 6 million Americans are mentally retarded. About 2.5 million manage now to live on their own. A like number live with their families—sheltered and unproductive. A million receive care in other institutions. The cost of caring for a retarded person in a state institution is $8,500 per year and much higher in private facilities.

The breakthroughs could change for better the outlook for all of society, especially the mentally retarded.

Q. How long are bacteria in the environment capable of causing an infection?

A. It depends on the species. Some may be alive but lack ability to infect. Other organisms, such as the spore-forming anthrax bacillus and tetanus, can live many years and cause infection.

Q. My sister has bunk beds for her sons, ages 3 and 5 years. I think such beds are a hazard. Do you agree?

A. A fall during sleep or play from the upper deck of a bunk bed can result in serious injury, especially to the head. The safety of the bed depends on its construction. Because mattresses are of different thicknesses, the siderail, to be protective, usually should be at least 10 inches above the surface of the bed structure.

Last year more than 20 Million Credit Cards were lost or stolen!*

These Losses represent millions of dollars annually to credit card holders all over America.

What would you do if you lost your wallet full of credit cards? Are you protected?

Now INTERNATIONAL CHARGE CARD REGISTRY offers charge card holders the kind of protection they've been looking for... PLUS many valuable services!

WHY SHOULD YOU JOIN?

This is the law. Read it carefully:

"Effective January 24, 1971, a Federal law provides that a card holder has no liability for unauthorized use of his credit card, unless all of the following four conditions are met. If the card issuing company (1) has notified you of your new limited liability, (2) has provided you with a pre-stamped envelope by which to notify them of the loss, (3) the card contains an approved method of identification, and (4) the use occurred before the card issuer is notified, then your liability is limited to $50 per card." (Public Law 91-508)

Once your Credit Cards or Charge Plates are missing, TIME IS VERY IMPORTANT. Aside from the fact you may be stranded, you now must worry about notifying all of your Card and Plate issuers.

All these benefits are yours as a member of International Charge Card Registry:

SO YOU THINK IT'S AN EASY SPORT?—To an individual whose never watched a cross country meet, it's hard to grasp the idea of just how tough the sport is on a person. Junior Rod Harvey of the Murray State cross country team passed out from exhaustion following his six-mile run Saturday in the OVC Championship meet.

Braves Trade Aaron To Brewers For May

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Much suspense surrounded the negotiations which led to the week-end trade that sent all-time home run champion Hank Aaron from the Atlanta Braves to the Milwaukee Brewers.

But outfielder Dave May, who made up the other half of the deal along with an unnamed minor league player, says he figured out what was going to happen before the season was over.

"You know baseball players," said May. "They put things together. And when we heard Hank was interested in coming back to Milwaukee, I felt sure I'd be the one to go."

"I expected to be traded right after the season was over," May added. "After all, I wasn't happy with the way I was being played, and one confrontation with Manager Del Crandall late in the year was enough."

May, who slumped to .226 with 10 home runs last season after batting .303 with 25 homers the year before, said he and fellow Brewer outfielder Johnny Briggs had joked about which one of them would be traded for Aaron. He said he was convinced he was right when he learned a Braves scout was following the club on its final road trip.

Aaron, meanwhile, was in Japan for a home run hitting contest with Japanese star Sadaharu Oh when the trade was announced late Saturday.

Aaron said money was not a factor in his going to Milwaukee, despite previous reports that he was unhappy with what Atlanta had offered him. "Money has nothing to do with my going to the Brewers," said Aaron, who will be returning to the city in which he started his major league career.

"I'm going because I wanted to," Aaron said. "I look forward to working with the entire Brewers' organization. I am happy that the Atlanta Braves saw fit to work so closely with me to meet my request."

Aaron said he would like to be more than a designated hitter next year.

"I will do whatever I can to help the ball club," said baseball's all-time home run champion, who eclipsed Babe Ruth's career standard of 714 early last season and now has 733 homers for his career. "I wouldn't want to be purely a designated hitter."

Aaron, 40, who began his career with the Braves in Milwaukee in 1954, belted 20 home runs last year and batted .268.

Manager Del Crandall said he was thinking of using Aaron, with whom he had played with the Braves, primarily as a designated hitter, but added that he might be used in the outfield at times.

Brewer president Bud Selig said financial details of Aaron's pact would be worked out after he returns from Japan on Tuesday. Selig said an outline of the contract had been worked out, but nothing was in writing.

There have been reports that Aaron might become general manager of the Brewers after playing a year or two. Jim Wilson vacated the job this summer to head a scouting bureau. Selig, who had indicated during the World Series that such a move was a possibility, declined to speculate on it Sunday.

Peculiar Game Finds Cavaliers Taking Win

By The Associated Press
Easy-going Bill Fitch has faced plenty of strange events during his four years as the only coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, a perennial National Basketball Association loser. Now, he has seen everything.

"It was a peculiar basketball game," said Fitch, known for his sense of humor, after Cleveland edged the visiting Phoenix Suns 104-101 Sunday night. "Both teams played so unusually."

"We played a hell of a game in the third and fourth quarters," said Fitch about the effort by the Cavaliers. "And then, all of a sudden, I looked up and we were losing the freethrow contest."

Cleveland had rolled to a 94-82 lead with less than six minutes left, but Phoenix — outscored 31-23 in the third period — went ahead 101-100 with 1:16 remaining by sinking eight foul shots.

In an off-handed remark about the officiating, Fitch said he wanted to check the films in order to "really see what happened."

Keith Erickson's four straight foul shots gave the Suns their temporary lead before Bobby Smith put Cleveland ahead 102-101 on a decisive 15-foot jump shot from the corner with 58 seconds to go. The Cavaliers, who have won five games and lost four, were led by Austin Carr's 27 points. Phoenix, 3-5, was led by Erickson's 19.

In other NBA games Sunday, Golden State beat Portland 109-100, Buffalo defeated Los Angeles 124-101, Chicago topped Kansas City-Omaha 86-79 and Seattle downed Milwaukee 101-89.

"We play every game like it was the most important game of the year," said Rick Barry, who scored 41 points to lead the Golden State Warriors to victory against the Portland Trail Blazers.

Barry, who had 14 points to help visiting Golden State to a 39-26 first period lead, praised the Warriors' strong defense.

Los Angeles had a string of 12 straight victories against Buffalo. But the visitors from the East quickly turned things around.

The Braves took a 40-16 edge at the end of the opening period with the aid of 12 points by Bob McAdoo, their 6-foot-10 center who led all scorers with 32 points in the blistering game. Red-hot Buffalo, 5-3, led by as many as 30 points early in the fourth-quarter. The Lakers dropped to 4-4 on the season. In Kansas City, Chet Walker scored 26 points — 20 of them in the second half — to lead the Chicago Bulls to their victory against the Kings. Chicago is 5-5 now and Kansas City-Omaha is 5-3.

The Supersonics, 5-4, getting 28 points from Fred Brown and 21 from Leonard Gray, outlasted the Milwaukee Bucks, 1-8, in Seattle.

In the two American Basketball Association games Sunday, New York beat San Antonio 120-109 and Kentucky defeated Memphis 104-99.

In the NBA games Saturday, it was: Chicago 95, New York 90; Detroit 100, Philadelphia 94; Boston 126, Atlanta 125; Washington 108, Phoenix 94; Houston 120, Kansas City-Omaha 97; and Golden State 99, Milwaukee 90.

Last Second Field Goal Sends Cards From Undefeated Ranks

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are no longer riding high in the National Football League after running into a Cowboy ambush. Effren Herrera delivered the killing shot in the Dallas stronghold Sunday.

"It's nice to win one like that after losing other games on field goals," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said after his straight-shooting Cowboys handed the Cardinals their first defeat of the year, 17-14 on Herrera's 20-yard field goal with four seconds left.

Before Sunday, the Cardinals had won seven straight games for a big lead in the National Conference East Division. Now, their lead is down to two games over the Washington Redskins, and more significantly, they've proved that they are not such tough birds after all.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach drove the Cowboys 71 yards in the final five minutes of their game with St. Louis. The Cardinals aided the drive with three costly penalties.

Staubach connected on a 15-yard pass to Golden Richards with 30 seconds to play and St. Louis was flagged for roughing the passer to put Dallas on the Cardinal five. Staubach sneaked one yard and Dallas let the clock run down before Herrera, a former collegiate star at UCLA who was signed as a free agent three games ago, calmly kicked the winning field goal to send the Texas Stadium crowd of 64,146 into delirium.

St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart completed touchdown passes of 19 yards to Jackie Smith and 10 yards to Mel Gray — the latter giving the Cardinals a 14-7 lead in the third period.

Bills 29, Patriots 28
Linebacker Dave Washington ran 72 yards with a pass interception for a touchdown, then blocked a field goal attempt with 50 seconds remaining to help Buffalo win a spine-tingling game from New England. The victory boosted the Bills into sole possession of first place in the AFC East with a 7-1 record. New England, 6-2, fell one game behind into a second-place tie with Miami.

Washington picked off a pass by New England quarterback Jim Plunkett and sprinted down the sideline to put Buffalo in front midway through the third period.

However, the Patriots, who lost a 30-28 decision to the Bills in Buffalo two weeks ago, charged back as Mark Herron capped a 51-yard drive with a short touchdown run later in the period. John Smith kicked the conversion, putting New England in front 28-26. Led by quarterback Joe Ferguson, the Bills moved downfield to set up John Leyboldt's winning field goal from the 47-yard line with five seconds gone in the fourth period.

Steelers 27, Eagles 0
Pittsburgh's defense allowed only three drives beyond the 50-yard line and Mel Blount delivered the knockout blow with a 52-yard interception for a touchdown as the Steelers crushed Philadelphia.

Raiders 28, Broncos 17
Ken Stabler threw four touchdown passes, two each to Cliff Branch and Fred Biletnikoff, to lead Oakland past Denver. The Raiders sprinted to a 21-7 lead in the first half and held off the rallying Broncos after intermission.

Vikings 17, Bears 0
Fran Tarkenton threw two second-half touchdown passes, leading Minnesota to an easy victory over mistake-prone Chicago. The Vikings' victory snapped a two-game losing streak.

Dolphins 42, Falcons 7
Don Nottingham scored three touchdowns to lead Miami over Atlanta. Miami quarterback

Bob Griese completed 10 of 15 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns.

Redskins 17, Packers 6
Washington beat Green Bay behind Billy Kilmer's short passes and a rugged Redskins defense that closed down the Packers' running game.

Bengals 24, Colts 14
Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns, the last one with 90 seconds remaining, to lead Cincinnati over Baltimore.

Oilers 27, Jets 22
Dan Pastorini threw a 51-yard pass to Ken Burroughs to set up Willie Rodgers' winning touchdown run with 1:56 to play in Houston's victory over the New York Jets.

Lions 19, Saints 14
Levi Johnson returned a squibbed field goal attempt 78 yards for a second-quarter touchdown and Detroit survived a New Orleans' rally to take a rain-soaked victory over the Saints.

Chargers 36, Browns 35
Ray Wersching kicked a 40-yard field goal with 55 seconds remaining as San Diego, led by the four-touchdown, 333-yard passing of Dan Fouts, beat Cleveland.

Giants 33, Chiefs 27
Craig Morton uncorked a 51-yard touchdown pass to Joe Dawkins with 4:13 left in the game to give the New York Giants a close victory over Kansas City. The Chiefs had the ball inside the Giants' one-yard line when the game ended after quarterback Len Dawson engineered a 77-yard march in eight plays.

Bobby Hull Keys Win For Winnipeg In WHA

By The Associated Press
Winnipeg's Golden Jet, Bobby Hull, has found the Midas touch for scoring. So, for that matter, have the rest of the Jets, who crushed the Michigan Stags 11-3 Sunday night.

The victory was the second straight in which Winnipeg reached double figures. They bombed the Toronto Toros 10-1 Friday night in their last World Hockey Association game, then Hull scored twice and added three assists to pace the triumph Sunday.

The performance gave Hull eight goals in the last three games, raised his total to 10 for the season, and the assists brought his league-leading scoring mark to 17 points in seven games. It was the fifth consecutive home victory for the Jets, who have cruised to six victories and a loss in their seven games to take over the lead in the WHA's Canadian Division.

In other games Sunday night, the Edmonton Oilers dropped the Indianapolis Racers 3-1 and the San Diego Mariners topped the Vancouver Blazers 6-2.

Anders Hedberg, Veli Pekka Ketola and Danny Spring had two goals apiece for the Jets, who took 42 shots on net. Gary Veneruzzo, Brian McDonald and Jacques Locas scored for the Stags.

Ken Baird broke a 1-1 tie at 11:18 of the middle period and Ron Climie added an insurance goal into an empty net as the Oilers handed the expansion Racers their seventh loss in eight games this season. Joe Robertson tallied for Indianapolis.

Center Andre Lacroix scored twice and set up a goal by defenseman Kevin Morrison to carry San Diego to its fifth consecutive victory. Norm Ferguson, Wayne Rivers and Harry Howell had the other Mariner goals, while Bryan Campbell and John Migneault scored for Vancouver.

Western Kentucky: OVC Champs

Time Has Arrived For Comparing Grid Teams

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON, AP Sports Writer

The time for college football comparisons is here.

Is Ohio State better than Oklahoma? Is Michigan better than Ohio State? Is Alabama better than all of them?

Texas, ranked 12th, is "a lot better" offensively than top-rated Ohio State, Coach Dave Smith of Southern Methodist said Saturday after his club bowed to the Longhorns 35-15. Five weeks earlier, SMU lost to Ohio State 28-9.

Alabama is "better than Florida," Mississippi State's Bob Tyler said after his 17th-ranked team absorbed a 35-0 licking at the hands of the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide. State's only other setback was a 29-13 loss to Florida, also five weeks ago. Saturday, No. 11 Florida ended fifth-ranked Auburn's unbeaten season 25-14.

"I don't see a heckuva lot of difference between their defenses; they're both fine," Colorado's Bill Mallory said in comparing ninth-ranked Nebraska and No. 2-rated Oklahoma. Nebraska throttled Colorado 35-15 Saturday while Oklahoma trampled the Buffs 49-14 two weeks ago.

Throwing comparisons—and another opponent—to the winds, Ohio State did nothing to diminish its No. 1 standing. Archie Griffin set an all-time record by rushing for more than 100 yards for the 18th consecutive regular-season game and the Buckeyes trounced Illinois 49-7, making Woody Hayes one of the few coaches to reach 200 victories.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma whipped Iowa State 28-10—it was 28-0 until the final two minutes—and No. 3 Michigan struggled past Indiana 21-7.

Southern California, rated sixth, had to come from behind to tie California 15-all but the rest of The Associated Press Top Ten all prevailed.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame rallied for a pair of fourth-period touchdowns and shaded Navy 14-6. No. 8 Texas A&M tripped Arkansas 20-10 and 10th-ranked Penn State edged No. 15 Maryland 24-17.

Besides Florida and Texas, 16th-ranked Miami of Ohio was the only other member of the Second Ten to win. The Redskins clobbered Western Michigan 31-0.

But Rice toppled No. 13 Texas Tech 21-7, Texas-El Paso stunned No. 14 Arizona State 31-27, Washington bombed No. 18 UCLA 31-9 and Cincinnati nipped No. 19 Temple 22-20. San Diego State and Wisconsin, tied for 20th, both lost, the former to North Texas State 14-9 and the latter to Michigan State 28-21.

Ohio State's Griffin rushed for 144 yards and two touchdowns, and Cornelius Greene ran for 127 yards and one touchdown and passed for another 127 and two scores.

Oklahoma maintained its half-game lead in the Big Eight over Nebraska and Missouri—a 52-15 winner over Kansas State—as Elvis Peacock and Grant Burget ran for touchdowns and Steve Davis passed to Joe Washington and Tinker Owens for two more. The Sooners, though, were held to 198 rushing yards, by far their lowest of the year.

Michigan's Gordon Bell came off the bench and rushed for 159 yards and two second-period touchdowns as the Wolverines remained tied with Ohio State atop the Big Ten.

Five Alabama players—Robert Fraley, Calvin Culliver, Richard Todd, Randy Billingsley and Ray Sewell—scored on short runs against Mississippi State as the Crimson Tide opened a one-game bulge over Florida and Georgia in the Southeastern Conference race.

Florida chewed up Auburn's vaunted defense for 324 yards on the ground, with Jimmy DuBose smashing inside for 143 and Tony Green running wide for 78.

Southern Cal trailed California 12-0 before starting its comeback. The Trojans caught up in the third period when Pat Haden sneaked across from a yard out and then flipped a two-point conversion pass to Jim Obradovich.

Notre Dame trailed Navy 6-0 until the final period, when Tom Clements tossed a five-yard pass to Pete Demmerle and Randy Harrison raced 40 yards with an interception.

Texas A&M's entire backfield was on the sidelines with injuries at one point so sub fullback Jerry Honore took over and scored twice against Arkansas, once on a 60-yard gallop.

Nebraska's Dave Humm threw two scoring passes against Colorado while freshman Monte Anthony rushed for 157 yards and John O'Leary tallied twice.

Jeff Hite, benched earlier in the season, raced 79 yards with an intercepted pass against Maryland and scored again on a 21-yard dash after he stole a lateral on a kickoff return.

Texas' Marty Atkins led the Longhorns past SMU by firing his first touchdown pass of the season and scoring once himself. The perennial champs remained one game behind Texas

A&M in the Southwest Conference scramble.

Tommy Kramer scored one touchdown and passed for another as Rice upset Texas Tech for its first triumph.

Texas-El Paso, which failed to win a game last year, notched victory No. 3 of 1974 by shocking heavily favored Arizona State as Bobby McKinley threw a first-period touchdown pass and scored twice himself in the final quarter. The defeat dropped the defending champion Sun Devils into a second-place tie with idle Arizona in the Western Athletic Conference, one-half game behind 3-0-1 Brigham Young.

Kentucky Overwhelms Tulane 30-7 Saturday

By BOB COOPER, AP Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky coach Fran Curci agrees that his defensive unit gave Kentucky its victory over Tulane, but says that most fans probably give the credit to the wrong people.

Kentucky overwhelmed Tulane 30-7 Saturday, with three of the four Wildcats touchdowns coming on runbacks of intercepted passes.

"Sure, our defensive secondary did an outstanding job," Curci said, "but it was the defensive line that forced their quarterback to throw off-balance and made him be off the target or over the target so many times."

Curci cited Jerry Blanton, Tom Ranieri and Pat Donley as the big factors in the Kentucky victory, and added that freshman Art Still "kept the quarterback contained," many times to set up the interceptions.

Kentucky's Sonny Collins made the case for the offense with a 66 yard touchdown run in the first period, part of his 167 yards on 26 carries, 103 yards in the first quarter alone.

Western Has Easy Win While Bucs Edge Murray Out Of Second Place

By MIKE BRANDON, Ledger & Times Sports Editor

The popular English group of four is going to break up.

"We'll be together only at the motel," a spokesman for the group said Saturday.

Many records have highlighted their career. And the impact the four shaggy-haired British fellows have had has been monumental.

No, it isn't what "Rolling Stone" said about the Beatles as they were preparing to break up.

Instead, it's the four Englishmen from Western Kentucky University's cross country team who are going to be splitting apart.

"We are all going our own ways this coming weekend," said All-American-Nick-Rose, the runnerup in last year's National Cross Country Championship.

"We are all going to run our own race and find out just how good we are," Rose said of himself and his three teammates who have finished together all season.

It wasn't any different Saturday at the Murray Country Club as the Hilltoppers easily won the Ohio Valley Conference Championship. Rose, Dave Long, Tony Staynings, and Chris Ridler all crossed with their arms linked and raised in victory.

The win for the Hilltoppers was expected as they are considered one of the top teams in the country. In previous meets this year, nobody has been able to stay with the top four, except at the Owensboro Invitational when Murray State's Brian Rutter nipped Ridler and broke the string.

Other than that, the four Western Englishmen have crossed the line together in every race.

The victory for Western Kentucky was worth 16 points in the All-Sports Trophy race.

Murray Third The Hilltoppers finished with only 22 points in the meet while second place East Tennessee had 60 and third place Murray 65.

Other scores were: Eastern Kentucky 125, Morehead 136, Austin Peay 152, Tennessee Tech 163, and Middle Tennessee 183.

Western will be favored this weekend when they run at the District Three Championships in Greenville, So. Carolina. Then on November 25, the Hilltoppers will journey to Bloomington, Ind., in their bid to win the national title.

"We're happy to have completed another rung on the ladder," Western Kentucky Coach Jerry Bean said following the meet, viewed by several hundred spectators.

In the first mile of the race, it looked as if Murray's freshman Englishman Brian Rutter might stay with the Hilltoppers' fabulous four. At the end of the first mile, the group of five had a phenomenal time of 4:18.

But early in the second mile of the six-mile long race, the four Hilltoppers used a sudden burst of speed and pulled away from Rutter.

The lead opened further with each mile and at the end of the race, the four Western Englishmen were 37 seconds ahead of the fifth-place finisher, Oscar Morgan of Austin Peay.

Morgan, a senior from Birmingham, is one of the best black distance runners in the United States.

An All-American in high school and junior college, he was the prep champion in Alabama his senior year.

Morgan crossed in 30:21, eight seconds ahead of Irishman Ray McBride of East Tennessee.

Mark Finucane of East Tennessee was seventh in 30:35 while senior Gordy Benfield of Murray was eighth in 30:45.

Benfield finished strong over the last mile and passed a half-dozen or more runners.

Frank Grealley of East Tennessee was ninth while Martyn Brewer of Murray State was 10th.

Rutter, obviously tired from the grueling first mile of the race, crossed in 11th.

The Hilltoppers fifth man was Englishman Swag Hartel who crossed in 12th, thus wrapping up the scoring for the winners.

Bob Arnet of Murray was 16th and Clint Strohmeier was 20th to round out the Murray scoring.

Sophomore Don Willcox was 22nd while junior Rod Harvey of the Racers collapsed at the finish line and finished in 29th. Harvey, who was taken to the hospital following the race, hobbled in on just one leg and fell to the ground in pain and exhaustion.

Murray Coach Bill Cornell was extremely upset with the third-place finish of his team.

It marked the second consecutive year Murray has finished third in the meet; and that's the lowest the Racers have finished since Cornell began coaching at MSU.

With only a mile left in the race, Murray was only two points behind East Tennessee.

"If we chased after Western, we thought we could beat Murray," East Tennessee Coach Dave Walker said.

"And if we didn't, then we knew Murray would get us," said Walker, whose team had won the conference title for the past four years.

"If Western can stay healthy, a lot of other folks in other parts of the country will be surprised when they win the national title," Walker said.

"If their fifth man finishes around 50th place, I'm pretty sure they'll win it."

That's the way Swag Hartel of Western feels too.

"Nobody can get our first four in the nationals," said Hartel, who finished fifth for the "Toppers Saturday.

"If our fifth man can finish in the top 60 or 70, we'll win it."

Hartel said he believes the darkhorse in the race will be Ridler.

"He's really been overlooked by everyone," Hartel said.

"I wouldn't be surprised if he were right up there with Nick."

The top 10 runners were all presented trophies by MSU athletic director Cal Luther.

The Racer cross country team also presented Murray Country Club pro Jimmy Sullivan with a huge "Racer plaque" for his cooperation with the cross country program.

Eastern Kentucky Dims Racer OVC Title Hopes

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Ledger & Times Sports Writer

Gambing Murray State forgot to wind its miracle machine Saturday afternoon prior to meeting sophomore sensation Everett Talbert and the Eastern Kentucky Colonels.

And as a result its charm expired and EKV took advantage of six Racer errors enroute to a 30-16 drubbing which seriously damaged MSU's title hopes and delighted an estimated 18,300 Colonel Homecoming fans on a bright, warm day.

Coach Bill Furgerson's squad took a three year win streak and an unreal string of adventures on the turf to Richmond, but the talented Colonels proved to be unimpressed hosts.

Leading the EKV charge was a pair of established Ohio Valley Conference names, senior Jeff McCarthy and Talbert, the previously unknown sophomore. Although the 6-5, 219-pound McCarthy threw only five completions in 13 attempts against the Racers, it was his leadership on the ground which doomed MSU. And the afternoon's outcome provided the veteran signal caller with his first win over a Racer team in four years at Eastern.

Talbert, who was the OVC's leading rusher and the nation's third ranked runner heading into the contest, lived up to his reputation as the 5-8, 175-pound speedster twisted, galloped, and rambled for 150 yards on 29 carries.

Unscrambling the league race somewhat, the loss dropped the Racers from atop the standings into sole possession of third place with a 3-2-0 league mark and a 6-2-0 overall slate. EKV holds on to its share of the conference lead with a 4-1-0 mark and a 5-2-0 overall record. Western Kentucky, a 36-0 winner over hapless Morehead State, holds the other half of the league advantage with its 4-1-0 mark and 6-1-0 overall slate.

A freak pass interception early in the fourth canto was the ultimate play which told MSU its reign comeback was over. Quarterback Tom Pandolfi, who compiled a sensational effort despite being robbed of four aerials, had driven his team to a third and seven situation on EKV 21 with the Racers trailing 20-10.

Pandolfi was forced by rushing Colonel defenders to hurry his throw and fired quickly to wide receiver Willie DeLoach, who already had one touchdown grab to his credit.

But teammate Garry Brumm, the Racers' second ranked receiver in the game, had worked free from his defender and moved towards the area of the intended pass. Both receivers went for the ball which bounced off the players and into the arms of EKV safety Steve Frommeyer who returned it 64 big yards to the MSU 36.

But it was the Colonels' turn to suffer their only running disappointment of the game midway through the period after having driven to the Racer three yard line. EKV fullback Steve Streight fumbled into the end zone and Racer freshman deep back Eddie McFarland pounced on the ball.

Pandolfi then carried his team through 10 plays to score after connecting on his best offensive series of the year. He first found DeLoach for a 15 yard play after sending fullback Doug Baker and reserve tailback Art Kennedy for a combined 16 yards. On the EKV 42, he looped a pass to Kennedy for six before finding DeLoach again for 14.

With the Racers sitting on the Colonel 28, Pandolfi went to a rare MSU first down pass play and caught Brumm for nine. An offside penalty against EKV moved MSU to the Colonel five before Pandolfi connected to DeLoach in the end zone with 4:44 left in the contest.

Electing to go for the two-point conversion, the Racers once again saw their changed fortunes when Pandolfi's hurried pass sailed over the intended receiver's head and MSU stayed behind, 20-16.

The Margin would never again decrease.

EKV sensed the possible danger, but took advantage of a crucial Racer error on a punt reception rather than generating its own defense.

Stalled on their own 35 yard line, the Colonels punted to MSU's Charles Reeves who fumbled the ball in the rush of EKV defenders and the host took over on the Racer 19 yard line with 1:27 left.

Talbert carried for three consecutive plays to move the ball to the MSU 11 where the Colonels' Earl Cody, who earlier had booted two scores and a pair of conversions, calmly split the uprights for a 23-16 EKV advantage.

As if to firmly convince Coach

Furgerson's squad of the outcome, Colonel linebacker Greg Kiracofe hauled down the first pass of the next series and returned it to the MSU 13 yard line.

Substitute Colonel quarterback Jerome Kelly then used his team's advantage to throw the most dangerous pass of the contest which found tight end Joe Brennan in end zone.

But had the EKV receiver missed the throw, Kelly would have been the only defender between desperate MSU and the opposite goal line. A two point conversion could have put the Racers ahead had they managed to get the Kelly pass and score downfield, but their supply of miracles was exhausted.

Cody added the final point of the afternoon to provide the Colonels with their 30-16 margin. EKV managed to intercept the Racers once more following Kennedy's runback of the Colonel kickoff to the MSU 33.

Howard Miller stole Pandolfi's final throw on the MSU 33 and returned it 19 yards before a penalty against the Racers moved the ball to the EKV 44 and the final horn sounded.

The contest started slowly with the only score of the first canto coming from a 36 yard Cody field goal with 5:56 left. McCarthy sent the Colonels through 12 time consuming plays, all but three on the ground, before moving into range for EKV's 3-0 advantage at the quarter stop.

Steve Martin, the MSU conversion kicker who has not missed through a league-leading 15 consecutive tries, failed on a 31 yard field goal attempt minutes later. But the Racers got the ball back when deep back Mark Hickman recovered on the Eastern 18.

Pandolfi completed once to Brumm for six and then to B. F. Behrendt for four before sending senior tailback Don Clayton to score with 13:53 left in the half and provide the only Racer lead of the game.

Clayton, the all-time leading MSU rusher, was heavily covered by the strong Colonels and managed to gain only 34 yards on seven attempts in the first two periods. He was injured early in the third quarter, suffering a possible concussion, and finished with a sub-par 38 yards in 10 tries.

Eastern's Cody then put the hosts back on the scoreboard following a long series which moved EKV from their own 20 to the Murray 15 where the boot made it MSU by one, 7-6. During the drive, Talbert surpassed the 1,000 mark in the total yards gained for the season and became only the third Colonel in history to reach that coveted plateau. He finished the contest with 1,071 markers.

Another Murray State miscue, a fumble by tailback Kennedy following a handoff, gave the hosts their first touchdown on a beautiful third and long yardage play. McCarthy dropped back and hit junior split end John Revere with a beautiful 46-yard touchdown throw. Cody's kick made it 13-7 which proved to be the halftime margin.

The Racers romped back from the early disappointment with a recharged effort that saw MSU linebacker Don Hettich intercept the only McCarthy throw of the game on the MSU 27. He returned to the Colonel 42 and put Murray on a drive which covered seven plays and ended with a long Martin field goal from the EKV 27 that put the Racers within three, 13-10, with 6:05 left.

McCarthy proved his worth as a double threat as he directed the best Colonel drive of the afternoon which covered 59 yards and 12 plays. Although he kept the ball on the ground, he read the MSU defense effectively to allow Talbert and Streight to rip off yardage almost at will.

He climaxed the series with a 21 yard gallop up the middle to put the Colonels ahead and Cody's boot made it 20-10 and set the stage for the wild last period.

The final statistics reflected the EKV advantages in the important contest. EKV outgained MSU 274-105 on the ground and recorded 19 first downs to Murray's 17. Pandolfi outpassed McCarthy by hitting on 14 of 27 throws for 157 yards, but threw four deadly interceptions. The Eastern field general connected on five of 13 attempts and had one interception.

Overall, it was EKV with 381 total yards to MSU's 262. The Colonels fumbled twice and lost both errors, while the Racers did the same. On penalties, Murray lost 54 yards on six calls while the hosts gave up 35 on five infractions.

Clayton was the leading rusher for MSU despite leaving early in the second half with his 38 yards on 10 carries. Kennedy was next with five carries and 37 yards.

Talbert was the big show for the Colonels with his 150 yards and 29 carries. Streight picked up 14 carries and 52 yards, while McCarthy galloped for 34 yards nine carries.

DeLoach was the game's leading receiver with his six catches for 77 yards and one score. Revere lead the hosts with 57 yards on two grabs.

On the defensive charts, MSU's Alfred Caldwell was the outstanding individual performer for either team with 14 whopping tackles and five assists from his linebacker position.

Coach Furgerson's squad travels to Clarksville next Saturday night at 7:30 to meet the Austin Peay Governors in an attempt to improve on their record. The Govs currently are tied with East Tennessee for fifth in the OVC with a 1-0-0 record and a 3-5-0 overall slate.

UPLIFTING EXPERIENCE—MSU's Alfred Caldwell stops Eastern Kentucky's powerful Everett Talbert (45) during this third quarter action last Saturday in Richmond. Caldwell lead all tacklers with 14 in an outstanding effort, while Talbert gained 130 yards on 29 carries in the Racers' 30-16 loss.

Ten Players Score As Bruins Take 10-1 Win

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

There was never any reason to remind rookie Boston Coach Don Cherry that Phil Esposito is the center who wears No. 7 on his hockey team, or that No. 4 appears on defenseman Bobby Orr's back.

Still, it took until Sunday night for Cherry to see what his "real" Bruins looked like.

The club had endured a somewhat awkward start, with Esposito scoring 12 and Orr 10 of Boston's 38 goals while the Bruins stumbled to three victories and four ties in their first 10 games.

Sunday night, Cherry looked for a new approach and broke up Esposito's line with Wayne Cashman on the left and Gregg Sheppard on the right in an effort to balance the scoring punch.

To say the least, the maneuver worked. Ten players scored goals—including No. 7 and No. 4, of course—in a 10-1 rout of the Minnesota North Stars as the new coach received his formal introduction to the Boston Bruins.

"That's the kind of team I thought Boston had had when I came here," Cherry said. "We saw the real Boston Bruins tonight."

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Flyers topped the New York Islanders 3-1; the Buffalo Sabres trimmed the New York Rangers 4-3; the Kansas City Scouts nipped the Washington Capitals 5-4, and the Pittsburgh Penguins tied the Chicago Black Hawks 3-3.

The Bruins rained 42 shots on Minnesota goaltender Cesare Maniago, including 20 in a five-goal first period.

It wasn't as easy for the Flyers' Bernie Parent, although he beat the Islanders behind two goals by Jim Watson. When Watson's second goal gave Philadelphia insurance with 4:10 left in the game, Parent was overjoyed.

Rick Martin scored two third-period goals for Buffalo to lead the Sabres past the Rangers and make successful Roger Crozier's return. Crozier hadn't played since Dec. 6, 1973 because of an internal disorder. Rod Gilbert and Greg Polis scored 14 seconds apart in the last period to give the Rangers a brief 3-2 lead.

Vic Hadfield and Bob Kelly scored Pittsburgh goals within 1:51 of the middle period to help the Penguins tie the Black Hawks. The Hawks have gone eight games without a loss.

Butch Deadmarsh scored at 12:19 of the third period to give the expansion Scouts their first NHL victory after eight losses and a tie. The Capitals, 1974's other expansion team, are 1-8-1.

In the NHL Saturday, it was the New York Islanders 3, Boston 2; Philadelphia 3, Montreal Canadiens 0; St. Louis Blues 9, Atlanta Flames 0; Los Angeles Kings 5, Detroit Red Wings 1; Chicago 4, Kansas City 3, and Buffalo 6, Toronto Maple Leafs 3.

In the World Hockey Association Sunday, the Winnipeg Jets bombed the Michigan Stags 11-3; the Edmonton Oilers tripped the Indianapolis Racers 3-1 and the San Diego Mariners topped the Vancouver Blazers 6-2.

WHA scores Saturday: Minnesota Fighting Saints 6, Michigan 3; Houston Aeros 8, Phoenix Roadrunners 2; Edmonton 4, Cleveland Crusaders 2; Chicago Cougars 4, Toronto Toros 3 and New England Whalers 4, Quebec Nordiques 2.

Western And Eastern Tied For League Lead

By JOE EDWARDS
AP Sports Writer

The Hatfields and the McCoy's are at it again.

Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky, who have no great affection for each other, are feuding for the Ohio Valley Conference football title.

It was a four-team fight until Saturday, when Eastern Kentucky pushed Murray out of contention with a 30-16 victory, East Tennessee did likewise to Tennessee Tech 13-0 and Western Kentucky swamped Morehead 36-0.

In non-conference games, Ball State shelled Middle Tennessee 43-14 and the University of Tennessee at Martin snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 31-26 verdict over Austin Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky are tied for the OVC lead with 4-1 marks and Eastern Kentucky has a slight schedule advantage for the remaining two conference games.

The Colonels play at Tennessee Tech and host Morehead while Western Kentucky, ranked seventh nationally in the college division poll, entertains Middle Tennessee and plays at Murray.

Additionally, Eastern Kentucky may also have the upper hand because ace Hilltopper quarterback Dennis Tomek suffered a shoulder injury Saturday.

Eastern Kentucky last won the conference title in 1968. Western Kentucky has won the crown three of the last four years.

Everett Talbert ran for 130 yards and Earl Cody kicked field goals of 37, 32 and 28 yards as the Colonels dropped Murray's OVC record to 3-2.

Murray trailed only 20-16 with 4:44 left, but Eastern Kentucky took advantage of a Racer fumbled punt and an interception by scoring a field goal and touchdown.

Mike Hayes scored twice from one-yard out and gained 87 yards to lead Western Kentucky past Morehead.

Lee Trautick scored on a six-yard run and Bob Neff kicked field goals of 36 and 32 yards as East Tennessee beat Tech for its first OVC victory after three losses.

Tech was upset for the second straight week by an OVC foe. Last week the Eagles bowed to Morehead 14-7.

Middle Tennessee's nemesis was Ball State quarterback Rick Scott, who completed 11 of 12 passes for 223 yards, threw one touchdown pass and ran for another score.

The Blue Raiders got a fine effort, however, from tailback Dwaine Copeland who gained 200 yards in 17 carries and scored twice.

Austin Peay failed in its bid to reach the 500 mark as a drive ended on the UT-Martin 1 as the clock ran out. The Governors are now 3-5.

A Look At Wendell Ford And Marlow Cook

Cook Terms Campaign 'The Political Battle Of My Life'

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's senior senator, Marlow Cook, white-haired at 48, just smiled when a colleague fumbled his introduction recently and presented him as Kentucky's "senior citizen."

The incident occurred while Cook was campaigning in South Central Kentucky, a stronghold of Republicanism.

The senator, speaking from the back of a pickup truck parked in front of the Russell County Courthouse at Jamestown, was clearly enjoying his two-day swing through the area.

Relaxed despite his arduous campaign schedule, Cook-unbuttoned his jacket, dug his hands into his pockets and lit into his favorite subject — his opponent, Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford.

Speaking off the cuff as he prefers to do, Cook told the crowd that his opponent has left "a trail of broken promises" in every county.

He urged Republican supporters to get out and vote Tuesday, reminding them how long it took to elect a Republican and how long it will be before they get another chance if they lose the seat this time.

"I feel that this is a Republican seat that we've got to hang onto," Cook told crowds at stop after stop. "We need that balance in Congress."

Stumping across Kentucky, shaking hands and speaking to informal gatherings on courthouse lawns and in high school gymnasiums, Cook said it's "the only way I can enjoy it."

"He's waging a Kentucky-style campaign," one of his aides said, "where you get out and you touch people."

Cook resents his opponent's labeling of him as "the Washington candidate," and the implication that he does not represent the people of Kentucky.

Of his campaign, Cook says, "we've been going to the people since last July," and of his term in the Senate, "people elect a representative to go to Congress, not to be in Owensboro or Louisville."

Cook believes he is actually better informed than his opponent on issues and problems facing Kentuckians.

"I'm far more cognizant of the issues in Kentucky than my opponent, because we take a regular poll" of some 200,000 Kentuckians every year. Cook said his office receives a 20 per cent response.

A graduate of the University of Louisville law school, Cook is an articulate and effective speaker and handles questions well. He repeatedly has challenged his opponent to debate but Ford has ignored the challenges.

Cook laments the situation, saying that such a confrontation would save the taxpayers money and would clarify the issues.

"If we could just get back to good old politics — stand up on the courthouse steps, him and me, and answer questions," Cook said.

Cook's emphasis on the need for debate runs counter to the strategy employed by most incumbents, that is, to remain aloof and not give the challenger an opportunity to be heard.

But as governor, Ford makes many public appearances and is at least as well known — if not better recognized — as Cook. Voters don't always know their senator even with his distinctive white hair.

On a recent campaign swing through Northern Kentucky, Cook shook hands with a woman in a shopping center. She seemed pleased to have shaken hands with a senator.

Then she looked puzzled. "Was that Sen. Cooper?" she asked. When told it was not, she shrugged and said, "Well, he certainly was a fine-looking man."

Cook's appearance, slightly reminiscent of a Kentucky Colonel, provokes similar remarks all over the state.

As Cook was campaigning in downtown Barbourville a woman whispered to a companion, "He looks just the way you'd expect a senator to look."

But despite looking like he fits the job, Cook has had an uphill battle in his re-election campaign.

His confidence with campaign issues, a seemingly boundless supply of energy and a sense of humor when things go wrong, have carried him through a long, hard campaign which Cook has termed "the political battle of my life."

Ford Stumps State Vowing To Keep In Touch With Citizens

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer
OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Wendell Ford got a laugh from several hundred hometown supporters with a remark that "behind every successful man there's a good wife and a surprised mother-in-law."

The governor and Democratic Senate candidate then had his wife, her parents and a dozen other relatives stand to be recognized and applauded at a party rally in the high school cafeteria.

"Welcome Wendell Back Home," said the bold print on flyers advertising the rally and dinner, and the 50-year-old governor said he was "delighted to be back home."

And he wouldn't forget where home was, Ford added, if Kentuckians elected him to the U.S. Senate.

"Too many of our officials go to Washington, slam the door, blow up with Potomac fever and forget who sent them," he said, repeating a campaign theme without mentioning incumbent Republican Sen. Marlow Cook by name.

If he were senator, Ford said, he would rent an apartment in Washington instead of buying a home there.

His home would remain in Owensboro, he said, "and I'll be home on weekends to cut the grass and talk to people."

Ford's style was down-home in Daviess County, where most people refer to him simply as "Wendell," and where relatives and friends are so plentiful the county GOP chairman termed it "almost a mortal sin" to back someone else.

"It's always a pleasure for me to be back home," he told Daviess Countyans — but Ford stumped the rest of the state, too, as if it were home.

"I won't forget you," he told party workers at Zion Baptist Church in Louisville's west end.

"My opponent has stood up for the big oil companies and the multinational corporations. He's stood up for Wall Street and fallen down on Main Street," Ford said at rally after rally.

From the state's largest metropolis to the small coal-mining communities and farm towns, the former state senator and lieutenant governor campaigned with an easy grin and a hearty handshake.

Ford said his duties as governor took up 70 per cent of his time, leaving only 30 per cent for campaigning.

Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll took up much of the slack with frequent and wide-ranging appearances on Ford's behalf. But Ford himself covered the state from London and Ashland in the east to Benton in the west and the Cincinnati suburbs in the north, never losing an air of confidence that — with a strong, unified party behind him — he was a front runner.

He shrugged off Cook's repeated challenges to debate face-to-face, saying there were too many invitations to debate Cook on television and radio stations and on college campuses.

If he accepted one, Ford said, he would feel he had to accept them all. Also, he said, why should he "draw a crowd" for the senator.

While Cook attacked Ford's state administration, Ford devoted his speeches to "the big things" — a balanced budget, a budget surplus, an energy research and development program he said could make Kentucky "the Saudi Arabia of the United States."

"We're doing it right in Kentucky," he said, "and hopefully I can take this kind of philosophy to the U.S. Senate."

He seemed more at home talking to people one at a time than speaking before large groups. Turning down a drink from a tipsy court-day reveler in Mount Sterling, or pumping hands of constituents in streets and shopping centers, the quick humor seldom failed and the smile was ever-ready.

Answering a pretty girl reporter's question in Louisville, Ford grinned when she looked up from her notebook. "I'll smile nice at you if you smile at me," he said.

Standing in a western Louisville supermarket, the slightly graying governor was a slender figure, straight-shouldered but shorter looking than in pictures or on television.

People usually recognized him, though, before he grasped the hand, slapped the shoulder and delivered the earnest greeting: "Hi, I'm Wendell Ford. I need your help."

Millions To Pay More Social Security Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans will pay higher Social Security taxes next year, with additional payroll withholding as high as $52.65 for employees earning $14,100 or more.

The increase takes effect automatically under Social Security legislation enacted by Congress in 1972 and 1973.

There will be no change in the present Social Security tax rates of 5.85 per cent each for employer and 7.9 per cent for the self-employed. However, the tax will be levied on the first $14,100 of each wage earner's income, up from the present $13,200.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimated Wednesday that about 19 million workers will be affected by the increase, which will mean an employer's maximum Social Security tax for 1975 will be $824.85, up from $772.20 in 1974. The self-employed will be taxed a maximum additional $71.10 each for a total of $1,113.90, up from this year's $1,042.80.

In return for the increase in taxes, these affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before," HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said in a statement.

"This will mean higher benefits for them and their families in the event of retirement, disability or death, than would have been possible without an increase in the base," he said.

Weinberger noted that Social Security benefits were raised 11 per cent earlier this year. The larger wage base for taxes is expected to bring in an additional $1.8 billion next year.

Model Medicaid Management System Is Being Developed

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Kentucky's Department for Human Resources (DHR) and Georgia are developing a model Medicaid Management Information System that will be used throughout the U.S.

"The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) chose Kentucky because of the efficiency of the present Medicaid operation and the capacity to develop a versatile prototype for other states," said Ms. Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of the Bureau for Social Insurance, DHR, which administers Medicaid.

Using a 90 per cent federal grant of $655,200, Kentucky will revamp part of the existing computerized system. Georgia and Kentucky will combine results of the two-sectioned plan that will be in operation by October, 1975.

"The whole objective is to process eligibility and claims for payments as quickly and efficiently as possible and to benefit from the information made available through such an integrated system," said Richard Jagers, director of Management Systems for DHR.

Now, the computer process for Medicaid involves using about 20 different systems which developed as the program changed and expanded over the years.

Chinn's book is the first of a four-part series on Kentucky's history to be released by the Historical Society. The second will cover the span from 1800-1865, the third will concentrate on 1865 and the last will emphasize 1900 through the present.

The books, all hardback, may be obtained by society members at a special discounted price. The first should be available by Dec. 1.

Lions and tigers eat 'high on the cow'

BRISTOL, England — People on the continent are eating more horse meat, so the Bristol Zoo has found it more economical to feed its lions and tigers on beef.

Horse meat is so popular the price has been forced sky high and the market has been flooded with continental beef at a price which compares favorably and the lions and tigers are not complaining at all. — CNS

The goal is integration into one efficient system that will accommodate changes and growth as they occur in the future, said Jagers.

Medicaid provides payments for health care for the economically disadvantaged and the medically indigent. It covers all or part of the expenses for physician, dental, hospital, screening for children, pharmacy, skilled nursing home, intermediate care, home health care, vision and hearing services.

About 300,000 Kentuckians are eligible for Medicaid. Over half are under 21 years of age.

About 75 per cent of Kentucky's 3,400 licensed physicians treat Medicaid recipients as they choose.

"With speedier payments and fewer claim rejections, it is hoped that more doctors will be willing to treat Medicaid recipients," said Commissioner Huecker.

DHR will contract with a private enterprise group for development of the Medicaid information system. The contract will be finalized within a month.

PCA Officials Attend UN Concert In Washington, D. C.

Two top officials and their wives of the Mayfield-based Jackson Purchase Production Credit Association recently attended the 14th annual United Nations Concert and Dinner in Washington, D. C.

Representing the local PCA and attending the events in the nation's capital by special invitation were PCA President and Mrs. Cloy Hobbs and PCA Board Chairman and Mrs. James Wilson.

The dinner was held in honor of the chiefs of the diplomatic missions of foreign nations to the United Nations organization. The theme of the day was a salute to the food and agriculture organization of the UN. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was the principal speaker at the dinner which was conducted under the sponsorship of president and Mrs. Gerald R. Ford.

Preceding the dinner in the International Ballroom of the Washington Hilton Hotel, the UN Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Antal Dorati and featuring internationally known pianist Van Cliburn, performed in the Concert Hall of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington. In addressing the audience of UN ambassadors, diplomatic corps members hosts and subscribers, Sec. of State Kissinger spoke on the vital need for agriculture in today's world and the advantages of agricultural trade between the nations of the world in order to ensure enough food for all the people.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were seated at the table with the ambassador from Poland and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Traimpzynski.

Both the Akeman and the Widener slayings occurred last November. Both murder trials began Monday.

Both Browns and Taylor will be eligible for parole in 30 years.

Stringbean Killers Sentenced Saturday

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John A. Brown Jr. and Marvin Douglas Brown were taken to the state penitentiary Saturday night little more than an hour after they were convicted of the slaying of Grand Ole Opry star David "Stringbean" Akeman and his wife.

Both men were sentenced by Judge Allen R. Cornelius to two consecutive 99-year terms after the jury returned its verdict.

It was the second conviction in connection with the slaying of a country music star in three days.

Earlier in the week, Maurice McKinney Taylor, 30, Los Angeles, was sentenced to two 99-year terms after he was convicted of slaying guitarist James Widener and a companion, Mrs. Mildred Hazelwood.

Both the Akeman and the Widener slayings occurred last November. Both murder trials began Monday.

Both Browns and Taylor will be eligible for parole in 30 years.

Warden Jim Rose said the Brown cousins were given prison clothes and placed in separate cells in the maximum security section of the prison.

"We got an order from the court Saturday night placing them in our custody for safekeeping," Rose said. He said he expected the formal commitment order from Cornelius in the next few days.

"There was not a great deal of debate, not a great deal of disagreement," said Jury Foreman William G. Sadler Sunday. "Lawyers for the Browns said they plan to appeal the convictions."

"I think the sentence was too harsh, but I wasn't surprised," said Joe P. Binkley Sr., the attorney for Marvin Douglas Brown. "My client took it well. I had prepared him for this."

In his closing argument, Arnold Peebles Jr., John Brown's lawyer, called the prosecution's case "a bunch of scrambled slop."

"It is never pleasant to send a man to prison for the rest of his life, but with all the proof in this case, I think the verdicts were justified," said Dist. Atty. Thomas H. Shriver.

LOSING HAIR? National's Hair Consultant IN MURRAY WEDNESDAY WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

Before Treatment After Treatment
George Swowers shows results by National Hair Treatment.

ONE is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for anyone to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair Consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE
If you are accepted for treatment, you will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from beginning to end.

Landmark Certificates Are Presented

PAINTSVILLE, Ky.—Log cabins, churches, schools, iron furnaces, old houses, natural sites and covered bridges were recognized during a Kentucky Landmark program held Saturday, Oct. 12 at the Paintsville Community Center.

One hundred and ninety-five certificates were presented to owners of historic properties in 25 counties, including Paintsville and Johnson County.

The Kentucky Heritage Commission and the Eastern Kentucky Highland Committee sponsored the program which featured special guests Jesse Stuart, Harry Caudill and Harry LaViers, Jr.

Ms. Eldred Melton, acting director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said, "The Landmark Certificates are given to places in Kentucky considered historically, architecturally, culturally or geologically important to Kentucky's past."

This was the second largest number of Landmark Certificates presented at one time this year by the Heritage Commission. In July, 200 Landmark Certificates were presented to Scott County property owners.

Heritage Commission Chairman Milton Thompson, Director Eldred Melton and Eastern Kentucky Highland Committee Chairman Mrs. Andrew C. Duke of Maysville, presented the Landmark Certificates.

Counties with properties recognized Saturday were: Bell, Boyd, Breathitt, Clay, Elliott, Floyd, Greenup, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, McCreary, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Whitley and Wolfe.

Markers Highlight State's History

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Motorists traveling through the Commonwealth soon learn that Kentuckians' interest in their state's history is not confined to libraries, universities or select societies. During their journey they probably will pass several of the more than 1,200 historical markers interspersed along Kentucky's highways.

The numbered markers relate Kentucky's history from A to Z—from the Abbey of Our Lady of Gethsemani in Nelson County to the feats of Gen. Felix Zollicoffer.

Dianne Wells, chairman of the state Historical Society's Highway Marker Program, noted the project first was instigated in the 1930s by a few local societies but did not expand substantially until 1962 when W.A. Wentworth took charge. His efforts contributed directly to the establishment of 800 markers.

Before Wentworth's leadership, the markers mainly were limited to the Bluegrass area, Ms. Wells added. But today the bronze memorials can be found throughout the state and are financed either through the society's annual allotment of 50 per cent at a cost of $265 each or funded by local organizations.

Ms. Wells explained that the normal procedure involved in obtaining a marker calls for a local county society chairman to submit facts on proposed sites—statistics that are verified in Frankfort. Six weeks usually are allowed for processing the applications, she added.

"We try to take them in the order in which they are received, but we give first consideration to those counties which only have a few markers," Ms. Wells said.

If so, McCracken County might find itself waiting in line quite awhile, for with 69 markers, that county is the state leader. Ms. Wells attributed the large number to Tom Wilson, a past Paducah mayor and present county society chairman, who was instrumental in promoting sponsorship of 56 markers.

But wherever the markers are located, they certainly have broken the monotony of long trips for thousands of travelers who have taken the time to pull off the side of the road to learn more of the area they are visiting. Just by stopping a few minutes countless people have learned of the following.

—The Jackson-Dickinson Duel, Marker 100, near Adairville. As dueling was outlawed in Tennessee, several gentlemen crossed into nearby Kentucky to settle their disputes in the "honorable fashion." So, after Charles Dickinson made some disparaging remarks about Andrew Jackson's wife, the two met on May 30, 1806. Jackson was hit first, but remained upright long enough to mortally wound his adversary. "Old Hickory," of course, survived and later became President, but some historians believe the injury contributed to his death 40 years later.

—The Choctaw Indian Academy, Marker 135, near Georgetown. Between 1825 and 1843, the first Indian school for chiefs' sons educated future leaders for many tribes at Blue Springs Farm, home of Vice President R.M. Johnson.

—Green Mill, Marker 906, near Falls of Rough in Grayson County. Built in 1823, this mill was operated continuously by the Green family for over 140 years. It was part of a 6,000-acre farm-timber complex supporting several family-owned industries.

—Moonlight Schools, Marker 1034, in Rowan County. The schools were established in 1911 by Mrs. Cora W. Stewart "to emancipate from illiteracy those enslaved in its bondage."

Classes were taught by volunteer teachers on moonlight nights since their students had to work during the day. Although the local people only had the moon to light their way, they gladly attended. The movement soon spread nationally and internationally.

—Romantic 1825 Tragedy, Marker 1077, at a cemetery in Bloomfield. Jerebecam Beauchamp and his wife, Anna, were buried here in the same coffin at their request. To avenge her alleged seduction by Col. Solomon Sharp, Beauchamp murdered him at Sharp's Frankfort home in 1825. He and Anna were held in a Frankfort jail. She was released, but joined her husband in his cell, refusing to be separated. Beauchamp was sentenced to hang, but on the execution day they attempted suicide by stabbing themselves. Anna died from her wound, but Beauchamp lived long enough to be hanged, the first legal hanging in Kentucky (1826).

Colonel Sharp was prominent politically so the case received widespread newspaper publicity. Thus, Edgar Allan Poe and several other authors wrote of the tragedy.

—Sassafras Tree, Marker 1192, Owensboro. This giant tree, first mentioned for its size in 1883, has been an historic landmark in Daviess County for several centuries. Believed to be 250 or 300 years old, it measures over 100 feet tall, with a circumference of 16 feet. It probably is the largest of its kind in the world and is registered with the American Forestry Association as the largest in the U.S.

For those who do not have the time to stop by a marker's pull-off area, but would like to learn more about incidents unique to Kentucky's history, the Historical Society has published a book which gives the number of the marker and reproduces the information exactly as is.

The Kentucky Highway Markers Guide is sold to Historical Society members for $1.50 and nonmembers may purchase it for $2. A supplement also is available at a slightly higher cost. Further information may be obtained by writing Ms. Wells, in care of Old Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Woman Hired As Police Instructor

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The first black woman to be hired as a police instructor in the history of American law enforcement education recently joined the staff of the Kentucky Justice Department's Bureau of Training at Richmond.

The woman, Mrs. Donna H. Morton of Lexington, was named only a few weeks ago by Training Commissioner Robert Clark Stone as an instructor-coordinator in the bureau's law enforcement training division.

As an instructor-coordinator, Morton is responsible not only for teaching but also for drawing up lesson plans and programs in all phases of law enforcement, including courses in traffic, crowd and crime control.

"It's a big breakthrough for Kentucky and the nation, and it definitely bolsters the gains women are making in areas that used to exclude them," Stone said. "But what's even more important than the precedent-setting nature of her appointment are the qualifications she brings to us."

Morton served from 1969-74 in the Lexington Metro Police Department, working in juvenile, detective, records, communications and traffic divisions. During that five-year period, she also took a number of police education courses in such things as accident investigation and breathalyzer testing.

"The job represents a great opportunity for me to help other (police) officers update and upgrade their skills and knowledge. Policing is rapidly changing, so there's a definite need for all of us to keep on top of new techniques and procedures," she said.

"Just in the last few weeks I have learned about new ways of doing things through my researching and planning for classes," she added.

Morton is a lifelong resident of Lexington. A graduate of Henry Clay High School, she received a degree in biology from Kentucky State University in 1971 and currently is working part-time toward a masters degree in criminal justice at Eastern Kentucky University.

She is a member of the Fraternal Order of Police, Kentucky Police Officers' Association, Kentucky Patrolman's Association and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

She is married to Herbert L. Morton of the Lexington Police Department. They have one child, a daughter, named Jerrel Karen.

LIMON COMPANY FINDS A HOME
NEW YORK (AP) — The Jose Limon Dance Company, which is carrying on since the death of its founder, will make the 92nd Street Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Assn. its official home.

Mr. Carl Urbont, executive director of the Y, said that in the 1940s and '50s the building had been the modern dance center of New York. "It is our aim to revive that center," he said. He said the Kaufmann Concert Hall stage will be enlarged by 1975.

The company will rehearse, teach and perform at the YMHA. It has 16 dancers, Ruth Currier as artistic director and a technical staff of three. It will work toward creating a repertory theater of American modern dance and also will continue to tour.

At the time of Limon's death, the company was denied the right to perform any of the works of Doris Humphrey. Now that the company has proved stable through the past year and a half, it has received permission again to include Humphrey works in its repertory.

Funerals

Mrs. King, Mother Of Jack Benton, Dies Sunday

Mrs. Allie King, mother of Jack Benton of Murray, died Sunday night at Little Rock, Ark., where she resided.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Healey-Ross Funeral Home, Little Rock, Ark., with burial to follow in a cemetery there.

Mrs. King is survived locally by her son, Jack Benton, one granddaughter, Mrs. Jo Beth Adams, two grandsons, David and Larry Benton, and one great grandson, Jason Adams.

Leonard Whitmer Funeral Services Held At Church

Funeral services for Leonard Whitmer were held Sunday at two p. m. at St. John's Episcopal Church with Rev. Stephen Davenport III officiating at the Requiem Eucharist.

Pallbearers were Chuck Simons, O. B. Boone, Jr., Richard Farrell, Robert Baar, Gary Hohman, Tommy Turner, Larrie Clark, and Morgan Sisk. Burial was in the Murray City Cemetery with the arrangements by the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home.

Mr. Whitmer, age 44, died Friday at 4:15 p. m. at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital. His death followed an extended illness. He was professor of music at Murray State University, was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, and served as choir director at the First Christian Church, Murray.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Nancy Morris Whitmer, one daughter, Elizabeth, and two sons, John and Robert Whitmer, all of 810 North 19th Street, Murray; father, D. R. Whitmer, and mother, Mrs. Meta Hill Whitmer, both of Madisonville; brother, Robert D. Whitmer of Kansas City, Mo.

The family requested that expressions of sympathy take the form of donations in Mr. Whitmer's memory to the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Music Fraternity at Murray State University.

Marion C. Farris Dies This Morning At Local Hospital

Mrs. Marion C. Farris of Murray Manor Apartments died this morning at 3:15 at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital. She was 48 years of age and her death followed an extended illness.

The deceased had been serving as secretary at the East Dayton Baptist Church, Dayton, Ohio, before her return to Murray this year. She was a former resident here, and was a member of the First Baptist Church, Murray. Mrs. Farris was born February 22, 1926, in Tampa, Fla.

Survivors are her son Bill Farris, 118 Riviera Courts, Murray; father-in-law, Loyd Farris of Murray Route six; mother-in-law, Mrs. Gertie Evans, 118 Riviera Courts, Murray; sister, Mrs. Gloria Matrice of Rochester, N. Y.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home after six p. m. today (Monday).

House seats, Michel said, the number of GOP congressmen he concedes are in deep trouble.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee in the Senate, said losing 4 or 5 Senate seats would be normal in the off-year following a presidential landslide like Nixon's but predicted "we'll do better than that."

But that was as close as any Republican leaders — including President Ford — would come to putting numbers on their expected fate Tuesday. When asked for his prediction, Ford brushed aside the question with "not on Sunday."

On another television panel show, GOP party chairman Mary Louise Smith also ducked the "numbers game" but said she saw a "turnaround" in the Watergate backlash that has been hampering Republican campaigns.

However, Democratic chairman Robert Strauss, appearing with Mrs. Smith on "Meet the Press," predicted a gain of 4 to 6 Senate seats, 27 to 32 in the House and statehouse victories to place 85 to 90 per cent of the population under Democratic governors.

The AP survey shows at least four Republican senators in the greatest danger of defeat — in Colorado, Kentucky, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

A fifth, Robert Dole of Kansas, has overcome a deficit in the polls against Democrat William Roy and the race is now rated a toss-up.

A sixth Senate race apparently has turned around but still is too close to call with Democrat Wayne Owens ahead of the GOP's Jake Garn in Utah by a narrow margin in three recent polls. They are seeking the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

Democrat Richard Stone also leads Republican Jack Eckerd for the Senate seat vacated in Florida by the retirement of Republican Edward J. Gurney.

In New York Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits is ahead in the polls but still threatened by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark. In Vermont, Democrat Patrick Leahy appears within reach of Republican Richard Mallory.

On the House side, Republicans are bracing for losses of four or more seats in California and New York. Democrats also have a chance for multi-seat pickups in New Jersey, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Iowa and Virginia.

Republican chances of knocking off Democratic House members are in South Carolina, Louisiana and Utah as well as in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania where Democrats captured traditionally GOP seats in special elections earlier this year.

The Democrats are well ahead and considered sure to capture the two biggest governorships, with Democrat Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr., expected to beat Houston Flournoy in California for the job being vacated by Ronald Reagan, and Democrat Hugh L. Carey a heavy favorite over incumbent Republican New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Republican-held governorships also are threatened in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Arizona, Oregon, Tennessee, Colorado and Wyoming. The hottest race is in Michigan where Democrat Sander Levin has knotted Republican Gov. William G. Milliken in a race too close for the polls to predict.

Alumni Group, Calloway FFA, Being Formed

Seeing an opportunity to promote a greater knowledge of the agricultural industry and support education in agriculture, former members of the Future Farmers of America launched a major drive this week in the Calloway County area to form an FFA Alumni Association.

The aim is to provide a mechanism whereby former members can actively promote and support the FFA organization, FFA activities, and vocational agriculture.

The local drive is part of a state and national effort currently underway to unite former members into the newly formed FFA Alumni Association.

"Since the FFA Alumni Association is a newly formed organization, by organizing now, Calloway County, will be one of the first local chapters in the nation," said Keith Hays, acting chairman of the local organizational effort, "and we would like to have as many 'charter' members as possible."

"We seek the help of every potential member in the area to organize and charter the local FFA Alumni Association," said Hays. All former active, collegiate, and honorary FFA and NFA members, and both present and former professional vocational agricultural educators are eligible for membership.

Nixon Removed From Critical List Sunday

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is off the critical list after complications from phlebitis surgery, but medical officials say there is no word on when he may leave the hospital.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said Sunday that his patient is now receiving "sub-intensive care," which Lungren described as a step down from critical care.

Nixon had been in critical condition for six days after experiencing shock following an operation to partially close a vein in his left groin area. The surgery was designed to keep blood clots from moving to his lungs or heart.

"It's his best morning since hospitalization began," Lungren said in a statement issued at Memorial Hospital Medical Center on Sunday.

It was also reported that the 61-year-old former chief executive began a soft food diet, including custard and vegetables, and would sit up in bed for the first time since re-entering the hospital for treatment of his phlebitis condition Oct. 23.

Nixon had been fed intravenously during the critical period, until Saturday when he was first allowed to take some food and liquid.

Officials said Nixon was also being permitted to see his wife, Pat, and daughters, Tricia Nixon Cox and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, but only for five minutes each hour. The family has been staying near the hospital.

A hospital source said Nixon was not reading books, watching television or carrying on much conversation.

Doctors said the blood clot in Nixon's left leg which prompted the surgery last Tuesday had not enlarged. They also said that postoperative internal bleeding had been stopped.

During a briefing of newsmen, Connie Hamilton, director of critical care nursing at the hospital, described Nixon as "physically quite ill."

She said two nurses had been in Nixon's room at all times during the critical period, but now there would be only one nurse in the room. A backup nurse will remain on the same floor, she said.

Lungren said Nixon was buoyed by his visit from President Ford Friday and was receiving positive pressure breathing treatments administered by a respiratory therapist.

Prosecutors Plan To Recall Howard Hunt To Witness Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Watergate cover-up trial said today they will recall Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to the witness stand because they have discovered that a memo he wrote five months after the Watergate break-in still exists.

The revelation prompted one defense attorney to move for an immediate mistrial. Another declared, "I have now a cover-up within a cover-up."

Asst. Special Prosecutor James F. Neal said existence of the memo, dated Nov. 14, 1972, was revealed to him over the weekend by William O. Bittman, who was once Hunt's lawyer.

Bittman was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up by the same grand jury that indicted the five defendants in the cover-up trial.

Hunt had testified that he and his wife had written a memo detailing the background of the Watergate break-in, including the involvement of White House officials, at a time when only seven lower-level men had been indicted and were to stand trial for the crime.

Hunt quoted Bittman as saying he read the memo to defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, an allegation denied by both Bittman and Parkinson.

Neal said that, until this weekend, Bittman also had denied in grand jury testimony and meetings with the prosecutors knowing that Hunt's memo ever existed.

Parkinson's lawyer, Jacob Stein, said he is now faced with challenging the credibility of Bittman and Hunt, both of whom have now admitted lying to the grand jury.

Stein asked for a separate trial for his client, describing Bittman's role as a "cover-up with a cover-up."

John J. Wilson, defense attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, asked for a mistrial. His request was rejected by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Before the decision to recall Hunt, the prosecutors had indicated they were nearly finished with the testimony of major witnesses and would soon play recorded evidence they say is among the most damning to be put before the jury.

Watergate prosecutors say they plan to play more than 20 presidential tapes, on which are heard only the voices of Richard M. Nixon and one or more of three of the defendants.

However, some legal preliminaries must be cleared up. The first of the tapes may be heard by the end of the week.

The disclosure that Hunt's memo still exists, and the resulting legal arguments, delayed Jeb Stuart Magruder's scheduled last day of cross-examination by the defense.

Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, has withstood most attempts so far by defense lawyers to chip away at his testimony.

Coal Contract Talks Remain Deadlocked, Time Running Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mediators are working to bring about a resumption of contract negotiations aimed at averting a nationwide coal strike after the United Mine Workers broke off talks in a dispute over money matters.

Despite the impasse, UMW President Arnold Miller said there still was a slim hope of preventing a walkout when the current contract expires Nov. 12.

"The onus is on the operators," he said. "The next 24 to 48 hours are rather critical," Miller added.

Chief federal mediator W.J. Usery Jr. said both sides were willing to resume discussion and he was hopeful for a meeting today. However, he acknowledged that no time had been set for a new session.

Usery stepped into the talks Sunday night after Miller led his bargaining team out of the negotiations, saying there was no point in continuing until the coal producers responded to the union's latest economic proposals.

A spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said the mine owners had wanted to first resolve the remaining noneconomic issues.

"We made a great deal of progress and in a short time — in a day or so — we could reach an agreement," said Guy Farmer, the spokesman and chief industry negotiator.

In an apparent move to increase pressure for a settlement, the UMW's 38-member bargaining council approved Miller's recommendation to return to the coal fields rather than wait in Washington.

He hopes that the talks would resume and result in a tentative agreement. Time is already running short and this means at least an extra day before they can return here.

The council must first approve any agreement before it can be submitted to the union's 120,000 members in 25 states under a complicated ratification process which could take up to 10 days. However, Miller said it may be possible to shorten the time provided a settlement is reached early this week.

The union leader was more optimistic in his outlook for preventing a walkout than UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick, who accused the coal producers of "utter contempt" in dealing with the miners' economic demands. Patrick said "there is no way to prevent a coal strike."

Federal energy experts say a long shutdown of the mines would have a more devastating effect on the economy than last winter's Arab oil embargo. Widespread layoffs could be expected in the steel, automobile, chemical and railroad industries, all heavily dependent on coal.

Miller said the union and industry was only five or six percentage points "of being together" on the economic package. "We're not very far apart," he said.
