HOPKINSVILLE, CHRISTIAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1888.

NUMBER 112.

VOLUME III.

CONDENSED NEWS.

Jeffersonville is undergoing a mad-dog scare. Several people have been bitten recently.

William George, proprietor of the Hotel Springfield, Neb. died in terrible agony Saturday. In caring for his horse during its sickness with glanders, Mr. George contracted the disease. Mr. George's last hours were spent in most terrible contortions and suffering.

Admiral Luce, at the request of prominent citizens of Annapolis, Md., has decided to send the Osage to the site of the recent collision in which T. H. Garret was drowned, for the purpose of endeavoring to bring his body to the surface by lifting heavy fuses over the waters.

Saturday Miss Mary Stauffer, of Schuykill, Pa., bright, young and the belle of her circle, was married upon her death bed. While walking in a field her clothes caught fire from burning brush, inflicting fatal injuries. She was to have married Luke Fisher next week, but her wish to die as she was granted, and they were united a few hours after the accident. Five minutes after the ceremony she was a corpse.

A great sensation was created in Evansville, Saturday, by a criminal proceeding filed by Rev. William M. Bullman, president, in charge of St. Boniface church, against ex-Couty Auditor Charles F. Yeager, charging him with embezzlement. He is charged with obtaining and using the money of a lunatic named Joseph Fromm under false pretenses. Yeager was made Fromm's guardian, but never qualified or gave bond, but assumed and did act as such, collecting about $2,700, which he failed to turn over to a subsequent qualified guardian. Parties who have paid money into Yeager's hands have been compelled to pay it again to the new guardian.

Saturday morning about daylight, Lawrence Roland, constable, and J. C. Hicks, placed in jail at Henderson, James Foster, colored, charged with criminally assaulting Georgina, the 8-year old daughter of John Howard, also colored. The assault was committed on the farm of Mr. Young Watson, about five miles from there, on the Knoblock road. The negro says he is innocent of the crime and claims that the little girl fell upon a stick, injuring herself. The negro's story is not plausible, although he tells it so coolly as possible. There is most convincing proof of his guilt. The neighborhood where the crime was committed is said to be greatly excited and threats of lynching are freely indulged in.

Jokes are now being told about Judge Thurman, and one is Billy Armstrong's to the effect that the judge at his house of chambers once invited some gentlemen to come up and have something to drink. I want some water, he said, which he gravely opened and said: "Friends, Mrs. Thurman will not permit any liquor to be in the house, and I must offer you just what I get myself." They drank the apollinaris water humbly. When they got down stairs they were about to go, Judge followed them out into the street. "The fact is, gentlemen," said he, though Mrs. Thurman does not control the whole town, I want some whisky to wash the taste out of that apollinaris water out of my mouth."

Henry Watterson was serenaded at his home Saturday night by the Waters and Democratic clubs. They marched to his house headed by a band and accompanied by a large concourse of citizens. He replied to their compliment and repeated calls of his name by walking out on the steps of his residence and speaking at some length upon the work done at St. Louis. He said there was at St. Louis a formidable array in favor of limiting the tariff plank to a reaffirmation of the platform of 1884 and a general endorsement of the platform. The platform of 1884 he had helped to make and had interpreted, as he thought, according to the letter of its meaning, but the country-at-large had stamped it as a straddle. In place of this he only asked that the new platform make sure the gains of party on this issue since 1884. He asked no additional advance. Said he: "Nowhere have I proposed anything extreme or destructive. I am a builder by preference, a conservative by nature. No more than my friends Gorman and Scott would I proceed in the work of reform with rash precipitation. I am the friend, not the enemy, of manufacturers, of mining and industrial developments, of labor in the sense of honest work for honest wages. As for free trade, it is no wise at stake and never will be realized, if it is ever realized, until the manufacturers put themselves at the head of the movement and put it through. The menace, like the chimera of the rebel brigadiers, is a figment of sectional and partisan malevolence."

"Say," began the round-shouldered man to the man with the bass voice, "you know Fuller, the chap who was made a justice?" "Yes, your honor," responded he of the deep tones. "No, sir, he's a dude," howled the round-shouldered man. "I went to his office to-day to get a warrant against a saloon-keeper for assault and battery and he wouldn't give me no warrant. I offered to pay him for it, but he snubbed me. I tell you I always did hate a dude."

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "We think Walter Q. Gresham is 10,000 votes stronger in Indiana than Benjamin Harrison, and we think Grover Cleveland is 10,000 votes stronger than Walter Q. Gresham."

UNCLE SAM'S BOOKS.

Remarkable Increase of Useful Government Publications.

"Books! Books! Books every where, but nothing to read!" exclaimed a Government official as he called the attention of a visitor to a big pile of books just received from the Government Printing Office.

"Their appearance is attractive," suggested the visitor, smiling at the poetical paraphrase of his friend.

"Yes, they look very well on the outside," he assented, "but like the apples we used to read about, and like these, to our dismay, we discover, after we have bitten into a rosy-cheek, they have nothing inviting or attractive within the covers."

"In other words, they are Government publications," remarked a reporter, who overheard the conversation.

"That is it exactly," said the official. "Those words are becoming synonymous with stupidity and dreary waste—stale, flat and unprofitable. It used to be, when people wanted a figure for supreme dullness, they spoke of the Patent Office reports, but now the Government publications are likely to take the place."

"They aren't any worse than they used to be," observed the reporter.

"Perhaps not," said the official, gently sighing, "but there are more of them. The annual reports are increasing in bulk, and there are publications of all kinds and every description. The bureau officers have the elaborate reports now, and some of them are illustrated; the clerks write essays, and they are printed. There is a great printing-press constantly at work, and any quantity of white paper is wasted. Every thing is printed. There is no check or balance. It is a free press with a vengeance, and as long as it costs nothing, no one is going to take any trouble to condense or abbreviate matter for the printer. It is much easier to print. The consequence is that vast piles of material are thrown into the Government printing office hopper, and handsome books are ground out by the million. Sometimes there is no index, and sometimes an incomplete index. A mass of undigested stuff put together in a very careless manner."

"Now look at this big volume," he went on, picking up a book lying on his desk. "That is only part of an annual report. It is made up of long tables of no value, letters written by citizens and official letters, long disquisitions giving the views of some men whose opinions are entirely worthless, and so it goes. There is no concise, orderly statement of the facts. If you want to know what has been done by any bureau, you have got to root around in a lot of stuff, and as likely as not fail to find the diamond you are after. I would rather take a trip through Central Africa than try to make a summary of a government publication, and I think that I would do the first with considerably less fatigue and injury to my health."

"It will be worse this year. The bureau chiefs and every body else that can possibly scrape together any thing at all are now hard at work gathering the trash, and these reports, which are known to be minor reports, are larger in many instances than that of the head of the department. It is nothing new. Why in 1885 Congress passed a law to check this very thing, and this is what they enacted:

"That it shall not be lawful for the head of any Executive Department, or of any bureau, branch, or office of the government, to cause to be printed, nor shall the Public Printer print any document, or matter of any character whatever, except that which is authorized by law, nor shall any bureau officer employ in his annual report or report to be printed, any matter not directly pertaining to the duties of his office as prescribed by law."

"What good did it do? No good. It can't be stopped. It is a madness, a kind of frenzy. There is an ambition to make big books, and it can't be checked."—Washington Star.

Detection of Hot Bearings.

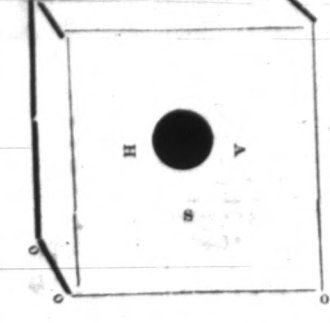

M. Gerboz has devised an apparatus by which an audible and visible signal is given to the engine driver if any part of the machinery to which the apparatus is fitted should become unduly hot. In its simplest form, as applied to the crank-pin of a steam engine, the device consists of a small cylinder fastened to and projecting from the crank-pin, and containing a plug of easily fusible alloy, which is pressed against the end of the crank-pin by a perforated piston and spring. The piston-rod controls by means of a lever a catch belonging to the mechanism of a bell placed over the apparatus. The gear of the bell, which is actuated by spring power, is previously wound up by hand and is locked by the catch. If the crank-pin should heat, the fusible plug melts, thus allowing the piston to descend, thereby releasing the catch and sounding the bell. In addition to this audible signal a disk hidden underneath the bell is turned in such a position that a bright color is seen through two holes in the disk of the bell.—Industries.

Thirty years ago farmers cut wheat with a cradle, and their wives sewed by hand. Now they have the reaper and the sewing machine and wonder how they got on in those days without them. Such is the progress of the age and Acru-man's Purgative Pills for all disorders of the liver, blood and kidneys, is acknowledged by the people to be far superior to all old time remedies. The New York Press is more skeptical on the subject of campaign lies than are some of its eastern contemporaries. It says: "The report that Judge Gresham murdered his great-grandmother and stole a Queen Anne cottage that one of his neighbors left on the lawn lacks confirmation."

Speaking to commence at 8 o'clock p. m. at each place, which will take place promptly at 8 o'clock.

Cleveland and Thurman!

Thurman will make 'em fight for Ohio.

Now trot out your "Florentine Mosaic!"

Kentucky always gets there, and very frequently via Christian county.

The press of the country unite in complimenting McKenize's St. Louis speech.

The ticket can't be beaten by all the "mosaics," "leobers" or "bloody shirts" in the country.

The business men of the city owe it to themselves to join the Commercial club. Only unity in action will secure success.

The O. V. directors meet in New York to-day. It is believed that the road will be extended to this place and on south.

Suit has been brought against Tate and his household to recover the amount of defalcation. The odds are that the full amount will never be collected.

Of course there will be those who will say Thurman cannot carry Indiana. Next thing some poor fellow will be saying Cleveland can't carry Kentucky.

"Quinine" is getting to be quite a fashionable medicine over this way since the convention. It is put up in bottles of various sizes, from a half-pint to a quart.

The Courier-Journal of Saturday contained a column account of the "blow out" given by the Commercial club of this city. Many complimentary things were said.

Argument in the Banks-Littleton murder trial at Nashville began Monday. The prosecution in the rebuttal testimony adduced evidence almost destroying the testimony of witnesses for defense.

Prominent Republican politicians in the east say that unless Sherman is nominated Cleveland and Thurman will sweep Ohio as he was never swept before. With Sherman as the Republican nominee the Democrats will sweep the Pacific slope.

Kentucky carried off the honors at St. Louis. The great reform editor was greeted with applause strong enough to shake up the glasses in Randall's headquarters, while the "tall Kentuckian" from over this way fairly walked away with the convention.

The following sent to the Chicago News by its special correspondent at the St. Louis convention serves to show what great folks there are in this broad land of ours. It is worth reading as a good joke on "Jeez" if for nothing else.

The speech of Mr. McKenize of Kentucky, which followed that of Mr. Dougherty, awakened more genuine enthusiasm and really woke up the audience for the only time during the day. McKenize is a tall, lank, white-whiskered man, with a ruddy complexion and straw-colored hair. His features were awkward, his postures and his language were not those of a finished orator, but the audience seemed to be overcome with delight at his comparison of the president with a Kentucky race-horse; and when he said that in all this broad land there was only one Democrat more revered than Grover Cleveland—and that the queenly woman he had made his wife—the shouts were more hearty than any heard in the hall to-day.

McKenize comes from the southeastern part of Kentucky, is a lawyer with a good practice, as well as a stock farmer, and has served several terms in congress. During the last state campaign he was a candidate for governor, but was defeated for the nomination by the present incumbent.

Mr. T. W. of Georgia, who also secured the nomination, has a Teutonic face and wears spectacles. He was not a success. Coming after the original and picturesque McKenize, his speech seemed commonplace and the audience soon grew tired of him.

A Dangerous Lunatic.

Intelligence has been brought from Whitesville that John Yocum, the lunatic who escaped from the asylum here a short time since, is again "at his old tricks." Before he was taken to the asylum he had been frequently guilty of beating his aged mother, demolishing house furniture with an axe and other like things to amuse himself, and a note from her to the Owensboro authorities states that he is at it again; that she had been driven from home by her son and could not go back as he had threatened her life. In the note she besought the officers to come at once, as she was not only in deadly peril, but "every thing was going to waste." The meeting says that Yocum is fortified in a house which stands on the top of a hill and there is no friendly shelter within three hundred yards, and no way of getting near the house unperceived. If Yocum is armed, as he probably is, any attempt to arrest him would be extremely dangerous. He should, however, be attended to at once.

With a Grand Banquet and Ball in Honor of Their Guests.

The report of the proceedings of the mass meeting Friday, given in Saturday's issue of the New Era, was necessarily condensed, and justice was hardly done the speakers. They all did well and we regret that it was not possible to print each speech in full. Just before adjournment the following telegram was received and read:

New York, June 8.—Commercial Club of Hopkinsville: Thanks for your invitation. Regret I cannot be present; am in hearty sympathy with your club and any measure that may promote the progress and commercial welfare of Hopkinsville and Christian county.

Jno. C. Latham.

After the meeting adjourned the Louisville visitors were placed in carriages and driven over the city and surrounding country until about 6 o'clock, when they were carried to the hotel to arrange for the banquet at a later hour.

About 8 o'clock the guests commenced to arrive at the beautiful residence of Mr. Geo. O. Thompson, on Seventh street, where the club's visitors were to be entertained. Mr. Thompson's residence is one of the prettiest and best located in the city, the view being especially fine. The house is well adapted for just such an entertainment as was given, and a better selection could not have been made. One could not have been made. One enters the building through a wide hall, on either side are large rooms, which by means of sliding doors can be connected with the hall; at the end of the hall is the dining room, which is so arranged that it can be doubled in size by opening wide doors leading into another room beyond.

The lawn from the street presented a most beautiful appearance, the scene being distributed over the building and grounds in great profusion but with an eye to good effect. Visitors on arriving invariably stopped at the gate before entering to admire the scene. Within the building was beautifully decorated, and everything arranged for the convenience of the guests. The Italian band was stationed in the main hall and charmed the audience with its sweet music. The four tables were loaded with every delicacy that could be thought of as well as substantial food of almost every variety. About one hundred guests were present, the ladies being in costumes marked for their elegance and richness.

To the committee of ladies having the management of the affair, wives of club members, as well as many others who volunteered and were especially active in work, is due great and merited praise. Their work was hard and tiring, yet they performed it cheerfully and willingly, doing everything in their power to make the evening one of pleasure. They can have the consolation of knowing that they succeeded admirably, and that the evening was one that will be referred to for many years as one of the most elegant and pleasant receptions ever given in Hopkinsville. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Metcalf and Mr. George O. Thompson were tireless in their efforts to entertain their guests. Mr. Metcalf is a useful member of the Commercial club, and to his and Mr. Thompson's kindness and hospitality is due in a great measure the success of the evening.

About 10:30 o'clock the guests began to depart to fill out the remainder of the program and the evening at a ball at the armory. Extensive preparations had been made for this, the grand finale, which, like the banquet, was a huge success. The large building was filled with dancers and spectators who seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. The floor was in good condition, the music excellent and everybody in high spirits.

The ladies and gentlemen were all in full evening dress and the spectacle was a pleasing sight. The Louisville guests, of course, were all there, and if one should judge from appearance were thoroughly enjoying themselves. The ladies and gentlemen present exerted themselves to please and it is safe to say they succeeded. Among the ladies in the march were noted:

Mrs. Duncan Galbreath, black lace, orange trimmings.

Miss Eloise Gordon, white lace, more trimmings.

Miss Lucy Henry, cream Henrietta cloth.

Miss Carrie Crenshaw, yellow satin.

Miss Rosa Featherston, black lace, white surah trimmings.

Pitcher, J. G. Given, Hinton Hepler, W. C. T. Cross, August R. Almond, Wm. W. Beeler, all of Louisville. Lieut. A. J. Dabney, A. C. Notes.

The hall was cleared at 3 in the morning.

The costumes were elegant and the ladies beautiful.

Even the weather clerk was in sympathy, as the rain was held off till after 4 o'clock a. m.

"Who must we thank for all this pleasure?" was asked by an hundred people at the banquet.

Several of the young men deserve special credit for working so hard to aid the Commercial club in making the evening a success.

Those who attended both say that the elegance and richness of the toilets and the size of crowd surpassed even the "unveiling ball."

The young society men of the city were earnest in their endeavor to please the visitors, giving up their engagements and otherwise working to fill their programs.

It would be impossible to name all who were in attendance and only those who were noticed in the grand march, both ladies and gentlemen, were taken down by the reporter. If any names are omitted, it is because of the large attendance.

The following is a copy of a letter sent to President Bassett. It explains itself:

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—E. B. Bassett: President Commercial Club. At a meeting of the Commercial club of Louisville, guests of your club, in this city, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That the thanks of these representatives and of the Commercial club of Louisville, be extended to the Commercial club of Hopkinsville, for the generous and characteristic hospitality which we have received at the hands of your club and the citizens of Hopkinsville generally; that a copy of this be conveyed to the Commercial club of Hopkinsville.

Trusting that you will convey this to your club as a merely informal attempt to express the appreciative feeling that exists amongst our representatives, I have the honor to be,

Very truly yours,

Jno. S. MORRIS, Pres't.

Hopkinsville's Educational Facilities.

The educational facilities of Hopkinsville are surpassed by no city in the south. We have located in our midst two of the most thorough colleges in the state, the best public school to be found in Kentucky and a high preparatory school for young men of which any city might be proud, besides numerous private schools and classes of a higher order.

Bethel Female College is one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the state and Prof. J. W. Rust, the veteran principal, one of the most thorough educators in the south. He always calls around him the most competent teachers and his faculty this year has been an unusually strong one. This college has just brought to a close another successful term and Prof. Rust, with his indomitable energy, is already making arrangements for the ensuing term.

South Kentucky College for young ladies and gentlemen, under the successful management of President Snow and Prof. Lipcomb, has already achieved a reputation as an educational institution, which is not confined to the borders of our own state. The term which closed Thursday night was one of the most successful in the history of the school, over one hundred pupils having received instructions within its walls. The faculty is composed of the best talent to be secured, teachers who are thoroughly interested in their work.

Hopkinsville High School. Maj. J. O. Ferrell has established an enviable reputation as an educator. He is the most systematic and thorough going instructor of young men in Hopkinsville. He is not only a scholar, himself, but he has mastered the difficult art of making scholars out of others. He is a very strict disciplinarian, and if a young man wants to go to school to have fun Maj. Ferrell's is not the place he is looking for.

The Hopkinsville Public Schools will close Friday, June 15th. The attendance this year has been very large, and has taxed the capacity of the large building. Prof. Dietrich is the right man in the right place. A thorough scholar, a patient, energetic worker and a Christian gentleman, he has become identified with the institution to such an extent that his success is attributed to him. His lady assistants are all efficient teachers.

Tear Down the Stiles.

Will the editor of the New Era be kind enough to give some information in regard to our cemetery? Who has the authority to put stiles steps on the back fence—three of them—making it a common pass-way? Why keep the front gates locked, when the back part is open to every wayfarer and deprive one of his own property? A talk with the two other ladies and the sexton, and in the course of ten minutes' conversation, and with only three persons, we found that from one lady's lot a fine geranium had just been stolen, from our two bell-towers, from the other lady the complaint came that all she had put there had been stolen. She had forced a quantity of hyacinth bulbs and when they were in perfection had set the pot around her baby's grave. Next evening she went over and every one had been pulled. A talk with the sexton revealed a shocking state of bad management. He cannot attend to his duties and patrol the place; he has seen persons stealing the flowers and breaking the shrubbery, but before he could come up with them they had made their escape over one of the other of the stiles. Six fine roses have been stolen from Mrs. Tandy's lot. The sexton said that as the family had all gone from home, and as the lot was left in his care, he had replaced them. Elsewhere geraniums had been taken from the lot. He saw a young white girl pull up a rose from Mrs. Ellis' lot, hurried up, but she denied it; a little search found it in the grass where it had been thrown, so he reset it, and as there was no harm done, he promised not to tell of her conduct on her promise of future good behavior. All this is very discouraging to the owners of lots, those of us who wish to keep the resting place of our dead in sacred remembrance. Our lot was full of spring flowers—hyacinths, crocus, narcissus, tulips, etc.—Every one of them had been pulled, and it had been made a play ground, apparently, as the leaves of some of the bulbs had been twisted and plaited together. I heard the excuse made for making the cemetery a by way, "that it was convenient for persons living beyond it." So our yards and gardens would be also, and why one is kept in violation and the other not, is a mystery we would like to have solved. This spring it was full of women and children, black and white, "getting greens." Will somebody, who is responsible, explain matters?

Worth Knowing.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe cold, attended with a distressing cough and running into consumption in its first stages. He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and has had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures, as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption guaranteed to do just what is claimed for it. Harry B. Garner's City Pharmacy.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Williamson, accompanied by Mrs. Grissom, drove out to the chalybeate springs, about four miles north of the city. When returning the horse became frightened at an umbrella held by a pedestrian in front, and ran away, kicking and plunging as it dashed along. Mr. Williams finally recovered control of the vicious animal but not until it had done considerable injury to the buggy. The occupants fortunately escaped unhurt.
What this town needs just now is a police force sufficient to put a stop to the lawless depredations which are being perpetrated every night by a set of midnight prowlers, who roam through the less frequented streets of the city, cursing and yelling and firing revolvers at a reckless defiance of the laws. It is impossible for three policemen to guard over the entire city. The city council is fully aware of this, but it has persistently refused to augment the force. It enacts laws and fixes penalties for the protection of public and private property and for which the people pay, but laws are mere burdens when not enforced, and penalties on paper the targets for ridicule, when ruffians openly set them at defiance. The police protection of Hopkinsville is inadequate, and no one knows it better than the present policemen. They do their duty, but as said above, three men can not cover the whole city. If the council wants to do something to please the people it should turn its attention to such matters as this.

MEETING TO-NIGHT.
Those Who Wish to Join the Commercial Club Should Attend.
The Commercial club will hold a special meeting to-night at their hall, second floor of the Howe block, for the benefit of the large number who wish to join the organization. Every man in the city and county interested in progress and improvement should join this organization and lend their weight and influence to the good cause undertaken. This club, if only co-operated with by the people, will work wonders, and it is the duty of the citizens to stand by it. For the benefit of those who wish to know the cost of a membership we will state that the dues are $5 per year, initiation fee $2.50 and one share of stock $1.25 for one share of stock, $1.25 for one quarter's dues, and $2.50 for initiation fee, making a total of $8.75. This is a very little sum, but money is not what the club wants, it is the influence and co-operation of the business men. All who feel an interest in the future of the city and county it is hoped will come out this evening.

"Drug Emporium."
Feeling grateful to my many friends, and to the old patrons of my predecessor, J. R. Armstrong, for their liberal patronage and support, I desire to state that they will always find at my Drug Emporium every thing usually kept in a first-class drug store, embracing fresh drugs, medicines, chemicals, dye stuff, artists material, toilet articles, combs, brushes, perfumery, stationery, etc. I am daily receiving fresh drugs, and enlarging my stock to meet the wants of every one who may favor me with their valued orders. Country physicians will find it to their interest to favor me with their orders, as I purchase strictly for cash, getting a liberal discount by so doing, and can therefore offer them special inducements. I have just added to my stock a large and complete line of Lyle's Homeopathic Pharmaceutical preparations, which I offer to Homeopathic physicians at the regular wholesale prices and guarantee satisfaction. Cigars and tobacco still on hand. It will not pay you to pass us by on this line of goods this summer. SHYER'S COR.
Our Millinery Department is still in full blast; notwithstanding the immense trade we have had. New Stylish Shapes added daily, also complete lines of Ribbons and Flowers still on hand. It will not pay you to pass us by on this line of goods this summer. SHYER'S COR.
