COFFEE BY CANDLELIGHT — If you don't think the power shortage is getting bad, check out the Murray Electric System coffee break area, where Luther Nance, Bill Barker and Ronnie Foster were seen this morning enjoying their coffee break by candlelight. The overhead lighting was turned off, and the only light in use was from candles and the sunlight that filtered in.

Stations Keep Heat On Tennessee Agencies

By The Associated Press

Two Tennessee television stations kept the heat on public agencies Thursday in the wake of Tennessee Valley Authority's call for saving electricity, including cutting back the thermostats to 65 degrees.

At Chattanooga, WRCB-TV newsmen found the thermostat at the Chattanooga Power Board, the TVA power distributor, was set at 75 degrees. A power board official ordered the television crew to leave when he discovered what they were doing.

At TVA offices in Chattanooga, the WRCB-TV newsmen found eight thermostats set at 72 degrees and others ranging from 70 to 74.

In Nashville, WLAC-TV said the temperature in the office of Jack Eakins, TVA Nashville manager, was 72. At Nashville Electric Service, TVA's power distributor, the temperature was 74.

The previous day, WLAC-TV found the temperature in Mayor Beverly Briley's office at 74 and Gov. Winfield Dunn's office was measured at 70, although the thermostat was set at 65.

A check this morning at the Murray Electric System showed the thermostat for the building set at 70 degrees, although it was quickly moved back to 65 when the setting was pointed out to electric officials.

Local electric system employees were also seen at the time sitting around a coffee-break table with the overhead lights off and candles burning.

Central Purchasing For City Approved By Council

The Murray City Council voted unanimously last night to create a new "City Purchasing Department," on equal status with other city departments, to handle purchasing requirements for all municipal agencies.

The vote followed a recommendation from the city purchasing committee, presented by committee chairman, Rex Alexander. The council will attempt to hire someone for the position of city purchasing agent by January 1, 1975.

The purchasing agent will be trained at Murray State University over a period of approximately six months. The plan supported by the council calls for the eventual hiring of a secretary and a warehouse worker for the department.

The committee recommendation was an outgrowth of a study prepared by university personnel and presented at the last regular meeting of the council.

Alexander said he felt the new department would "provide much better internal control" over purchasing and that "by purchasing on a volume basis the city would more than offset the costs (of establishing the department) over a long range period (two to three years)."

Annexation Zoning

The council adopted on the first reading an ordinance establishing zoning districts in the annexation of the north side of the city. The ordinance, which will be published in The Murray Ledger & Times, is scheduled to be read on the second reading at the next meeting of council, scheduled for Tuesday, November 26, due to a conflict with the Thanksgiving holiday.

Second Layoff Announced At Fisher-Price

The Murray Fisher-Price Toy Plant announced today additional lay-offs of 88 persons, bringing to 168 the total laid off in the past three weeks here.

Terry Thompson, public information director for the chain of toy factories, said all those laid off will be direct labor personnel, in assembly and fabrication.

Thompson said the Murray plant is not the only factory in the Fisher-Price system to be affected by the slowdown. Others are showing similar cutbacks in personnel.

"There is a certain amount of seasonal layoffs that we experience each year at this time," Thompson said, "But this cuts deeper than that."

Thompson said the reasons for this lay-off are just an extension of the slow-downs announced October 29, when the first lay-off of 80 persons occurred. Fisher-Price said then it was experiencing little let-up in the demand for toys from consumers, but that inflation was causing some retailers to curtail their buying.

"Because it is prohibitively expensive to finance high levels of inventory, due to interest rates, we have had to adjust production schedules in all our domestic facilities," a spokesman for the company said.

It is hoped that normal production will resume sometime in the first half of 1975.

Nearly 200 hourly workers will remain on the job at the local plant.

the park and recreation committee, reported that the "in-kind" work on the new tennis courts at Murray High is 85 per cent completed and that paving on the courts would begin next week, weather permitting.

Mrs. Crass also reported that she had met with Hugh Wilson, an assistant regional director in the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation office in Atlanta recently and that Wilson was "very impressed with the master plan" for the new city-county park facility.

She said that Wilson told her the Atlanta office presently is considering 18 projects from Kentucky and that as soon as a decision is made on the Murray project BOR would notify the Purchase Area Development District.

The council voted to purchase new radio equipment for the Murray Fire Department from Motorola at a cost of $2,481.05. The equipment, replacing tube type equipment presently in use, consists of a base station, a remote station for the 16th street fire station, and a mobile unit. General Electric submitted a bid of $2,815 on the

Electric Plant Board Reveals Contingency Plan For Mandatory Reduction Of Power Consumption

A contingency plan for the mandatory reduction of electric power consumption by customers of the Murray Electric System was revealed to the Murray City Council last night by Mayor John E. Scott.

The contingency plan, prepared by the electric plant board, would only be implemented if voluntary reductions in power consumption did not result in enough savings of power, Scott said.

Scott pointed out that the contingency plan would only be implemented if and when it became necessary.

The electric plant board said, "We have already asked our residential customers to reduce electrical consumption of 20 per cent. Because of the effect on them by forced reduction to our commercial and industrial customers, we feel the residential consumers will respond affirmatively."

The contingency plan is as follows:

"Step 1—All advertising and marquee lighting, signs, lighting on signs, outdoor building lights, yard lights, and decoration lighting will be turned off on a 24-hour basis, minimum security lighting and street lighting will be exempted.

"If step one does not achieve the necessary 20 per cent reduction, step two will be implemented.

"Step 2—All commercial and industrial customers will be requested to reduce hours of operation. Industrial customers with a monthly consumption of 100,000 KWH will be given a specific reduction figure. This figure will be based on consumption for the same period of time last year.

"If step two does not achieve the necessary reduction we will proceed to step three.

"Step 3—All commercial and industrial customers will be required to close for one eight-hour daylight weekday workday. That is one eight hour period from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on a Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. This eight-hour period shall not be transferred or recovered during the seven day week. These customers will be required to notify the plant board in writing which day of the week they will be closed.

"If step three does not reduce the necessary consumption, step-four will be implemented.

"Step 4—All commercial and industrial customers will be required to close for one 24-hour weekday workday. This 24-hour period shall not be transferred or recovered during the seven day week. These customers will be required to notify the plant board in writing which day of the week they will be closed.

"Step 5—If the above mentioned steps do not produce the necessary 20 per cent reduction, we will take whatever steps are necessary to achieve this reduction.

"Exemption for hospitals, emergency facilities, such as the Police and Fire Departments, medical, etc. will be notified by the Plant Board, in writing of their exemption status.

"In the event of a shutdown period, consideration of freezer units, refrigeration, etc. will be made to insure the safety of equipment or perishable goods.

"Please remember, everyone is in this together, no one wants these restrictions. The more co-operation we receive, the quicker we can alleviate this situation. Your co-operation will be greatly appreciated," the plant board said.

Ford Assures Public Of No New Controls

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — President Ford has assured Americans they need not postpone purchases to help fight inflation and that he will not seek wage and price controls or higher gasoline taxes.

Fielding wide-ranging questions at an on-the-road news conference, Ford also said:

—He wants Congress to promptly confirm Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president and stressed there are "no conditions I can imagine" that would force him to withdraw Rockefeller's nomination.

—He won't fire Gen. George S. Brown as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for his remarks about Jewish influence in America.

—He plans to make his trip to the Far East as scheduled next week.

—Republicans "took a licking" in last week's congressional elections because of past scandals and a slumping economy.

New Program Will Be Offered At University

A new program, involving both evening and day classes, will be offered this spring by Murray State University to help women and other members of minority groups prepare themselves for the better positions of employment which are becoming available to them under affirmative action programs required by current civil rights and equal employment opportunity legislation.

Coordinating the program will be Mrs. Penny Warren, an instructor in the Department of Marketing of the College of Business and Public Affairs at the University.

"Qualified women are gaining an employment and promotion advantage as firms are being forced to discontinue the underutilization of minority groups in key, well-paying positions," Mrs. Warren said.

She went on to emphasize that the new Murray State program, which will be open to anyone regardless of whether or not they have a college degree, also will be beneficial to area employers in helping them find trained qualified personnel to fill vacated or newly-created positions in their firms.

To be known as the Business Opportunities Program for Women, the new program will offer night classes for the working woman and day classes for the housewife, she said.

"Women have greater opportunities than ever before.

Penny Warren

Federal and state legislation concerning discrimination in employment is being interpreted more and more broadly to encompass a large number of business firms and government agencies," Mrs. Warren added.

Dr. John Lindauer, dean of the College of Business and Public Affairs, stressed that, "Business and government agencies suddenly must promote and pay women. The present shortage of qualified women means above average opportunities exist for the

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

It is raining this morning but who can complain! I don't think I will ever fuss about the weather again. After such a glorious month such as we have had, we can accept the rain and cold with good grace. And we can be sure that there will be more pretty days before winter really sets in. So enjoy seeing the thirsty ground soak up some of the life-giving nectar.

I read a few days ago that "Horticulture is an art," fascinating, exciting and satisfying in its beauty. It is interesting to know that a plant does everything it possibly can to live. The urge to live and grow is overpowering. I have had plants that were neglected and yet for some reason kept on living and putting out blooms. It will not do its best, but it will do its best to survive, and given any encouragement what-so-ever will develop into a healthy plant.

If a shrub or some other plant doesn't do well after being set in a certain spot for a couple of years, I would not hesitate to move it to a different place. But I would first try to find out just what the specific requirements of that plant were. Usually our failure to get the best out of growing things is a lack of knowledge of what we need to do.

coming up each spring and blooming as pretty as ever. You might try some of the different kinds this year, the double ones, or the cluster type that has several blossoms on each stem. One of my favorites is the lily type that has the pointed petals. Or if you would like a more exotic type there is the Parrot tulip with its sprawling petals.

This is one flower that comes in every color of the rainbow, from a dazzling white to an almost black, with the reds, blues, yellows, pinks, and stripes giving you all the varying shades in between. A wonderful flower.

Don't forget the little bulbs that can be tucked away in the corner of your flower bed and will give just a little "umph" to the garden next spring. The Scillas, the Ixias, the Chionodoxas, Pushkinias and several more. All are so inexpensive that they can be planted periodically. They are small so don't need deep planting. And have you planted your crocus-yet?

Charter Presented To Murray PWP Chapter

Chapter No. 792 Murray Parents Without Partners received its official charter Saturday night, November 9, during presentation ceremonies at Ken Bar Inn.

With Zone Manager David Carlson, Paducah, officiating, Lucy Howlett, Bardstown, president of the Mason-Dixon Regional Council, presented the charter to the local group.

Accepting on behalf of the Murray Chapter was President Arlene Seaford who expressed her "appreciation to the founders for making available this organization in which to meet with others who walk the same path we walk. In joining hands, we borrow strength from each other and we all walk more steadily."

In later comments, President Seaford stated, "The vast number of divorced single parents is eloquent testimony to the difficulties inherent in establishing and maintaining a stable marriage and family relationship. I feel it is our responsibility, as individuals and as organizations, to somehow or other turn the tide of divorce so that our children's children may have the most meaningful heritage that our topsy-turvy world can offer them - that of two strong and loving parents. I can think of no more difficult or worthwhile challenge."

Attending the charter ceremony and dance were some 125 PWP members and guests from chapters in Louisville, Bardstown, Jeffersonville, Indiana, Paducah, and Murray.

Other Murray officers introduced were: Vice President, Ed Covington; Secretary, Faye Stephens; Membership Director, Judy Adams; and Treasurer, Shirley Scarbrough.

General meetings of the Murray chapter are held at eight p.m. on the first and third Thursday of each month at the United Campus Ministry, 202 North 15th Street, Murray.

Hubby should quit keeping score

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I am 44 and Louie (my husband) is 49. I work in a laundry ten hours a day, and when night time comes I need a rest. Louie still acts like a teen-ager when it comes to sex. He can't get enough.

On weekends if we go for a drive in the country, Louie starts looking for an abandoned farmhouse or a secluded road. When we go for a walk in the woods, Louie looks for some bushes for us to crawl under. (We were nearly caught several times.)

I got so tired of being hounded for sex, I made Louie ask our family doctor how much sex was normal for people our age. The doc said three times a week was normal, so now Louie keeps a record. If it's less than three times a week, he says I owe him, and he adds it on to the next week.

I am falling behind, and dread the thought of going on a vacation trip with this man. Any suggestions? TIRE

DEAR TIRE: The time for sex is when BOTH partners are agreeable. Louie shouldn't feel that he's entitled to a certain number of encounters, and you shouldn't be made to feel that you "owe" it to him. Tell him to quit keeping score—you'll tell him when you're ready.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what to do with a 10-year-old boy who is such a coward he lets every kid in the neighborhood (some younger and smaller than he is) pick on him and boss him around.

He won't stand up for his rights. In fact, he will run away from a fight rather than try to defend himself.

My husband and I have scolded him and even punished him, but it hasn't done any good. How can we get him to change?

He's not stupid. He loves sports, except boxing and wrestling. Or are some kids born to run from a fight? ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: What's so great about exchanging punches? There is a lot to be said for avoiding physical combat, so don't scold or punish your son if he chooses to go the nonviolent route.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "DOOMED," who wanted a big wedding but didn't know if his parents should help her parents foot the bill because of tradition.

I am getting married next month, and when my fiance and I became engaged, his parents offered to split the bills straight down the middle. They figured that their son is also getting married, and they should help pay for the wedding.

This has helped my parents immensely, and now we can have the big wedding we've both always dreamed of. HAPPY IN CLEVELAND

DEAR HAPPY: I'm happy too. Happy that someone has had the courage to break with tradition in the interest of fairness and common sense. Maybe you'll start a new tradition. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: A widow wrote to tell you how her grown children removed all her husband's possessions immediately after he had died suddenly. They didn't consult her first, and she was crushed.

I can understand that. Going through the belongings of a loved one, keeping some to cherish, giving some to others who loved him too, can be a great comfort in the agonizing stages of one's grief.

I lost my teen-age son, Steve, in a motorcycle accident. He sang, played the guitar and had grown so tall and handsome. So many people loved him—and still do.

I will treasure some of the items he used in his everyday life. They were part of my life, too. I'm glad no one did me the favor of getting rid of all his belongings.

PROMISE OF RENEWAL

God had given the people of Israel a good land and numerous other blessings, but instead of being grateful for what He had done for them and in love and appreciation being obedient to Him, they plunged into the depths of wickedness. Unwilling to tolerate their wicked ways, God chastised them by allowing them to be taken into captivity. While in exile, many of them were brought to the realization that they were suffering on account of their sins, and justly so. Their realization was wholesome, but their captivity afforded their enemies a splendid opportunity to dishonor God and to damage His reputation among the heathen by declaring that God's failure to defend and protect them was a clear indication that He was not as strong as the gods of their captors.

The Reason-Ezekiel 36:22-23

Determined that His holy name should no longer be dishonored and held in contempt by the captors of His people, who were also His enemies, God declared that He would exalt His name above the names of all the gods of the heathen by doing something special with and through the Jews. He announced that His power would be displayed in such a remarkable manner that the heathen would be compelled to acknowledge that He was unique and supreme. God made it clear that He was going to do this primarily for the sake of His great and matchless name and not merely for the sake of the people. However, it is well to remember that whatever brings honor and glory to God's name is always beneficial to people also.

The Regathering - Ezekiel 36:24

Not because of any right or claim that they deserved to be regathered in their homeland, but for the sake of that great name which had been defiled and dishonored without justification, God announced the regathering of His people from captivity and their restoration. He knew that the regathering of these exiles would certainly vindicate His name, and that was a matter of tremendous importance to Him. Moreover, it would be a clear demonstration of His sovereign power to all who observed what took place. The Jews did not have any right to expect God to bless them in a significant way in Ezekiel's day or in the present unless they repented of their sins.

The Results - Ezekiel 36:25-30

When the penitent exiles returned to their homeland, they had lost their desire to engage in any form of idolatrous worship. In grace and mercy God had forgiven them and cleansed them as soon as they had genuinely repented of their idolatry and immorality. They experienced a spiritual purification. Through the miracle of divine grace, their former good relationship with God was restored. He replaced the impulses which formerly had been regulating their thoughts, motives, desires, and conduct. The removal of their stony hearts and the submission of their stubborn wills to God's perfect will enabled them to do what they were not able to do formerly, namely, obey the divine commandment and walk in God's way for them. When people accept God's will for their lives, and, above everything else, try to comply with it, they always achieve their highest and best.

The Remembrance - Ezekiel 36:31-32

Through Ezekiel God called to the attention and remembrance of His people the fact that their concentration upon the wonderful demonstrations of His love and mercy would cause them to blush with shame on account of their previous sinful conduct and deeds. Centering the thoughts on the wonderful blessings received from God frequently causes His children to recall their past sins, to be truly ashamed of them, and to loathe themselves because of what they have done. Many can testify that the remembrance of past sins often brings regret, shame, and self-rebuke. It is important to remember that all such loathing can be avoided by allowing His matchless grace to find expression in their hearts and lives, and by committing themselves fully to the doing of His precious will. His children who worship, obey, and serve Him faithfully, will certainly enjoy His presence, protection, provision, and power. Ever keep these truths in remembrance and be governed accordingly, if you want to be happy and useful throughout life.

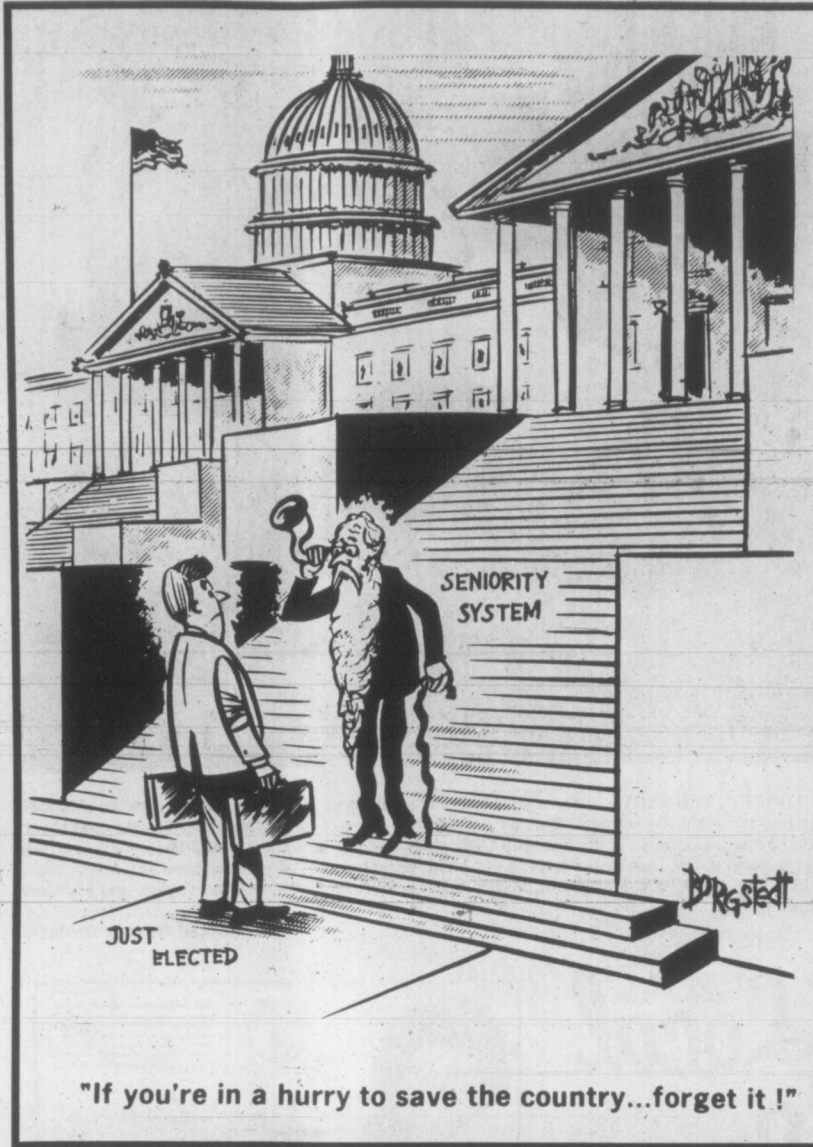

Ezekiel taught his listeners, who were vitally concerned about their national restoration, with those ancestors God had made a covenant, that in God's own time and manner thousands of them would be delivered from captivity and be permitted to live in the Promised Land. He assured them of God's presence with them, protection of them, and provision for them. What more can one ask than that? In the light of what He has done for us, He both desires and deserves our very best in service for Him.

Comments From Others

NITRO, W. VA., KANAWHA VALLEY LEADER: "If a businessman loses sight of the fact that he is employed by his customers, he is soon out of business and unemployed. The public office holder is insulated somewhat from immediate customer reaction because the customer is locked in until the next election; it is the only game in town. Oftentimes the dissatisfaction has been tempered by the time the next election rolls around, particularly if the contested decision was proven correct though unpopular at the time. However, in the long run the public servant, like the businessman, must be responsive to the public he serves if he wants to remain employed."

This Myth Deserves To Die

By Dr. DAVID ROOS
First Christian Church

Undoubtedly you are asking the question, What myth deserves to die? I'm referring, of course, to the myth which claims that America was a Christian nation in its beginnings and has gradually declined to a new low in modern day paganism.

I would contend rather that America was for the most part pagan in her inceptions and only very gradually moved toward becoming Christian in a pluralistic context.

This topic I would argue is timely for two reasons. First, this is the year of Kentucky's Bi-Centennial which is supposed to give us a better understanding of our American heritage. Second, it would help overcome some of the strong cynicism in our society about our national institutions. Surely correcting a false self-image in one aspect of American life would render its bit in challenging our cynicism generally.

Let us pursue the facts for a few moments to see the falsity of our self-image.

Fact One—Daniel Dorchester, an early American church historian, figured that in 1790 only five per cent of the population were church members, in 1800 there were six point nine per cent church members and in 1850 it had increased to fifteen point five per cent, by 1900 it had more than doubled to thirty-five point seven per cent, in 1926 it had continued to increase to fifty plus per cent, and today in 1974 it is 62 plus per cent who are members of an organized religion in the United States. From these figures you can see that there has been a gradual increase in church membership through the art of persuasion since the State Churches were disestablished starting in 1787. It is therefore self-evident that although we may have been officially Christian we nevertheless were by actual statistics in 1800 almost entirely pagan.

Fact number two—Jamestown was established in 1607 as the earliest of the English Colonies and had a state church from the beginning, the Anglican. In 1620 Plymouth Rock was established for religious freedom, and that was true, but it was religious freedom for themselves and for no one else.

When someone disagreed with what was considered to be their established creed, they banished them from the colony, and so a Roger Williams started a Rhode Island Colony. Lord Baltimore in England set up the Maryland Colony in its earliest days with wide latitude of Christian beliefs. William Penn did the same in Pennsylvania. But these "religious freedom freaks" either on principle or of necessity were a minority in the colonies. The powerful colonies such as Virginia had state churches. And you had to pay taxes to support these state churches whether you wanted to or not. Most people were totally indifferent to the established state churches. What little vital religion there was could be found where revivalists had had some success. These dissidents with some politically powerful rationalists united in overthrowing the established state churches. And frankly the last one and three-quarters centuries have been spent winning back to the churches the people who had been abandoned.

Fact number three—The American Church is not a footnote appended to European Church history as had been assumed until recently by many scholars. Rather the American Church has the problems of "newness" where freshly converted masses carry over into the church the mores of their unbaptized condition. These are the problems of nativism, racialism, and materialism. Comparable problems of "newness" can be seen in African and Asian churches.

In conclusion let us all give this myth a decent burial. Let us strike down the whole image of early America as a Christian nation. Let us admit that for all practical purposes early America was essentially pagan and that through very hard work we have won a majority of the people to the church and synagogue.

Advances in Breast Cancer Treatment

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Recently 400 breast cancer specialists attended a meeting at the National Institutes of Health, where they heard two physicians describe successful results with a relatively harmless drug, L-phenylalanine mustard (L-pam) in patients who had had a cancerous breast removed.

In patients in whom one or more lymph nodes were positive for cancer, therapy with L-pam appeared to decrease the chances that breast cancer would recur after surgery, the researchers reported. Though the greatest effect was in the premenopausal patients, benefits occur in postmenopausal women.

Among the many reports at the meeting was one indicating that the traditional type of radical surgery is no better than the less radical procedure. Based on 1,700 cases of breast cancer treated in 37 hospitals, the National Institutes director, Frank Roucher, Jr., Ph.D., estimates that "well over half of those would be candidates for the less radical procedure." He hailed this study as one of the "most important series of findings in the history of cancer research."

A laboratory test that can determine whether a patient's cancer may respond to hormone therapy has been developed, according to a University of Texas, San Antonio, report. The discovery of the three chemical markers in the blood that hit abnormal levels when cancer is present was described by a National Cancer Institutes researcher.

Q. Mrs. Q. writes that she reads often about substitution in filling prescriptions and wants an explanation.

A. When a physician writes a prescription, he may specify a particular medication, even one that is manufactured by only one company. The pharmacist may not have that company's brand in stock but have a similar product by another pharmaceutical manufacturer. In such cases, if the two products are equivalent in their action, one may be substituted for the other product, usually after the pharmacist checks with the physician and is given his permission to substitute the product of another manufacturer.

Q. Mr. K. inquires about the meaning of hypertrophy of the heart.

A. Hypertrophy means enlargement. The size of the heart increases when that organ has to do added work such as in high blood pressure or a leak in the heart valves. In other words, hypertrophy means that something else is wrong and needs diagnosis as to the cause, evaluation, and treatment.

Spaceship Of Excitement On Pad

Tigers And Glasgow Collide Saturday Night In First Step Toward State Championship

MURRAY LEDGER & TIMES SPORTS

Bartos Tapped As Man To Fill In For Collins

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "We're getting ourselves ready, not only the backs, but the whole team," says Bill Bartos, who has been tapped to replace University of Kentucky star running back Sonny Collins in Saturday's game against the University of Florida in Lexington.

Collins was lost for the remainder of the season last Saturday when his leg was broken in Kentucky's 38-12 victory over Vanderbilt.

"We got a lot of game experience after Sonny was hurt. We got used to the feel of the ball and to running with Mike (quarterback Mike Fanuzzi)," says Bartos.

About 35 minutes of action remained when Collins was forced out of the game, which gave Kentucky a 5-4 record. Bartos, a 6-foot-1, 200 pound junior from Amherst, Ohio, ran 14 times for 46 yards, and Joe Dipe picked up 36 yards in seven tries.

"I've been playing a little in each game, and it helps to know you'll have an opportunity to get in there," Bartos adds. "With Sonny, they had a back to key on, so it should be a little more balanced now."

Florida coach Doug Dickey appears to feel Bartos is right in believing Kentucky will be ready for his 7-2 Gators.

Florida has set a goal of winning 10 games, which means the Gators must beat Kentucky, Miami and then Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Florida has no serious injuries although quarterback

Don Gaffney has a leg bruise. Defensive end Preston Kendrick, who missed three games with a bad shoulder, played some against Georgia and expects to be fully recovered by Saturday.

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor
Can you imagine how astronaut Alan Shepard felt on the eve of his journey into space, the first time an American was ever launched into the heavens?

The thrill and the excitement of the moment of the liftoff could never be recorded in writing.

That's just the way John Hina and his group of Murray High Tigers are going to feel Saturday night as the opening kickoff goes hurtling into the tension-filled atmosphere of Holland Stadium.

For one moment, the thrill and the excitement will be almost unbearable. And then, like a fallen eagle, the ball will drop back to the grass turf and it will be just another football, almost.

Because that football will be the friend or foe that will be remembered by all of the Murray High players. That football will either slide out of the hands or it will stick like glue.

And after it's all over, the football will come back next week or be stored away on a shelf for the rest of the winter.

The 7:30 p. m. contest against Glasgow will be, hopefully, the first step for the Tigers leading up the ladder to the Class A State Championship. But on the other hand, it could be the first stumbling block, and the only one as all it takes is one loss now to end the season.

It was nine years ago when the two teams met at Glasgow, with the host team taking a 14-13 win. That was the last time Murray High had the honor of being the District Class A Champions.

Since that time, it has been a long dry spell in football. Murray High has thrived off the history of football at the school. But in the past few years, nobody has been afraid of Murray High.

But now that's changed. The Tigers are 8-2 this season coming into their Regional playoff game with Glasgow.

With an awesome defensive unit, the Tigers are big enough to scare opponents. They have allowed fewer points than any other team, Class A or AA, in the District.

The offense is powerful, a threat exists in both the running and passing phases of the game.

Make no doubt about it, Murray High is a football team that can easily scare an opponent.

There's only one problem. Glasgow is too.

Before they defeated Warren East 21-8 Tuesday night in a playoff game for the District title, Glasgow had a string of seven consecutive shutout wins. Glasgow has received recognition from all corners of the state because of its defense, which has yielded only 26 points all season.

And 19 of those came in one game, a 19-0 loss to Bowling Green in the second contest of the season. It marked the sixth consecutive year Glasgow has lost to the Purples.

The only other time an opponent has scored was in a 7-0 loss to Elizabethtown. On the season, Glasgow is 9-2-1, the tie being a 0-0 battle with Franklin-Simpson.

Twice an opponent has scored against Glasgow and twice, Glasgow has lost. So if you are thinking that all a team must do to beat Glasgow is to score, you are wrong.

And the reason: a 36-0 win over Metcalf County, a 39-0 win over Warren East, a 39-0 win over Hart County, a 41-0 win over Campbellsburg, a 27-0 win over Russellville and a 27-0 win over Allen County.

Write it down on your hand and look at it during the ballgame. Glasgow not only has an outstanding defensive team but it can also roll up the points.

"I know they are a very sound ballclub," Murray High coach John Hina said.

"They block very well and on defense, they are strong and exceptionally quick."

Aaron Says His Main Goal Is To Bring Crown To Milwaukee

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Aaron has yet to hit a baseball for the Milwaukee Brewers, but the all-time home-run king already has made a profound impact on his return to the city where he began his quest for stardom 21 years ago.

"I want to end my career here. My main challenge is to come back and bring a championship to this city that I love so dearly," Aaron said Thursday in his first appearance here since the Brewers obtained him in a trade with the Atlanta Braves Nov. 2.

Brewers' president Bud Selig announced that Aaron, who will be 41 Feb. 5, had signed a two-year contract as a player. Manager Del Randall said Aaron will be used primarily as a designated hitter.

The news conference, described as the largest ever held here, was considered momentous enough to be televised locally live. The dozens of newsmen were joined by admiring dignitaries — including former Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles — and many cheered as Aaron entered the conference room at the downtown hotel.

Aaron, who hit 398 of his record 733 home runs for the old Milwaukee Braves from 1954 through 1965, said he was confident he could improve on his 1974 figures of a .268 batting average and 20 home runs.

He said the pressure of trying to surpass Babe Ruth's previous record of 714 career homers was past, and that not having to play in the field every day should help his stamina.

But Crandall and others pointed to Aaron's potential leadership value to the team. American League president Lee MacPhail said Aaron should boost attendance not only here, but in AL cities where he never has played.

"I'm delighted and so are all the other 11 clubs in our league," MacPhail said. "A couple of years ago a few of us worked quite hard to sell the concept of the designated hitter. Today, all those people will be recompensed a thousand-fold for getting the DH rule through."

Aaron said one of his reasons for asking to leave the Braves and the National League, which does not have the DH rule, was to be able to play without the strain of regular outfield duty.

Ticket director Dick Hackett said the trade has produced

"stacks of mail inquiring about season tickets."

"It's unbelievable," he said. "We get letters from little old ladies, little kids, saying 'God bless you for bringing Hank Aaron back.'"

Selig declined to discuss Aaron's contract, other than to call it "an extraordinary contract for an extraordinary athlete."

Aaron reportedly earned $200,000 annually under his expired three-year contract with Atlanta.

Selig also declined to say whether Aaron has been promised a front office job with the Brewers, who have been without a general manager since Jim Wilson resigned in August.

Braves Adjust Their Game But Others Can't Adjust To Them

By The Associated Press
The Buffalo Braves have adjusted their game because of the absence of injured Ernie DiGregorio, their classy play-making guard, but the other teams in the National Basketball Association can't seem to adjust to the Braves.

Buffalo stretched its winning streak to six games and its Atlantic Division lead to 2½ games over defending league champion Boston, beating the Celtics 112-100 Thursday night.

"We're playing stronger team defense now because we realize we're not going to score as many points without Ernie," explained Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay.

The player who did it most for the Braves against the Celtics was Randy Smith. He fired in a game-high 27 points, including 17 in the last quarter. Jim McMillian added 20 points and Bob McAdoo, the league's leading scorer, contributed 18. Jo Jo White was high for Boston with 25.

John Johnson broke loose for 17 of his 19 points in the third quarter, sparking Portland's victory over Atlanta, but it might have been a costly triumph for the Trail Blazers. Bill Walton, their celebrated rookie center, suffered a dislocated finger in the second quarter. Atlanta rookie John Drew scored 31 points and grabbed 18 rebounds.

Earl Monroe pumped in 26 points, including 21 in the second half, lifting New York past Cleveland and giving the Knicks their 12th straight victory over the Cavaliers at Madison Square Garden.

Rudy Tomjanovich scored 24 points and sparked a fourth-quarter surge that carried Houston over Chicago and helped nullify a 33-point performance by the Bulls' Chet Walker.

Billy Paultz' 29 points and 13 rebounds paced New York's triumph over Memphis. Paultz scored eight points in the last six minutes and hit all seven of his field goal attempts in the second half. Stew Johnson topped Memphis with 26 points.

Donnie Freeman's 17-foot off-balance shot with three seconds remaining in overtime, plus a 24-point, 29-rebound effort by Swen Nater, keyed San Antonio's victory over Kentucky. Artis Gilmore had 20 points and 23 rebounds for the losing Colonels.

Freddie Lewis hit 12 of 18 field goal attempts and scored 31 points in leading St. Louis over Virginia.

Padres In Yuma

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Padres plan to hold spring training in Yuma, Ariz., for the seventh straight year, says Peter Bavasi, general manager of the National League baseball team. The workouts begin March 5 and will end April 6.

Blazers Win In Final Second On Field Goal

ANAHEIM (AP) — It's been a season of difficulties for the World Football League in its first year. Just ask the Florida Blazers.

Money troubles have afflicted the new league and with one of the conference's most publicized problems, Blazer players have not been paid in 11 weeks.

But with a promise of new owners and new money, the players decided to travel west for the final game of the WFL's regular season, a meeting between the Eastern Division champion Blazers and the Southern California Sun, the winner in the Western Division.

And with a pair of key defensive plays by linebacker Eddie Sheats, including a blocked punt to set up the winning field goal with four seconds to play, the Blazers closed out the regular season with a 27-24 victory over Southern California on national television Thursday night.

"I'm very proud of this team," said Florida Coach Jack Pardee.

"No one really knows the adversity we have overcome. All year long we've had to react in tight situations and tonight was no different."

The Blazers' only score in the second half was Dave Strock's 25-yard field goal to win the game as the Sun, trailing by 17 points at halftime, came back with 14 points in the final quarter.

Southern California tied the score on a desperation play with 2:29 left in the game. On fourth down on the Blazer 26-yard line, with 24 yards needed for a first down, Sun quarterback Tony Adams hit Keith Denson with a touchdown pass.

But Sheats intercepted Adams' pass on the action point try and kept the game tied 24-24.

The Blazers ended the regular season 14-6. Southern California finished 13-7.

Florida got two touchdowns on passes by Bob Davis to rookie tight end Greg Latta. The first was a 26-yard throw in the first quarter for a 10-0 lead after Strock booted a 28-yard field goal to open the Florida scoring, the second a four-yard toss in the second quarter.

Florida's Tommy Reamon captured the WFL rushing title running 68 yards to complete the 20-game regular schedule with 1,576 yards.

Kernit Johnson scored on a 33-yard touchdown run for Southern California and finished the season with 1,008 yards, becoming the sixth back in the league to go over 1,000 yards.

Both teams are playoff bound. The Sun hosts Hawaii next Thursday night and Florida hosts Charlotte Wednesday night.

Busby Honored

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Steve Busby, who hurled a no-hitter en route to a club record 22 victories this past season, has been named Pitcher of the Year by the Kansas City chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Busby, a 25-year-old right-hander, will receive the award at the Kansas City Baseball Awards Dinner Jan. 26.

Busby became the first pitcher ever to throw no-hitters in each of his first two major league seasons when he accomplished the feat for the second time June 19, 1974 against Milwaukee. His first no-hitter came April 17, 1973 against Detroit.

A Continuing Series

Women Able To Make Mistakes Like Men

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Title IX of the 1972 Education Act is designed to give women equal opportunities in sports. It will also give them a shot at making the same mistakes as the men.

Until now, there has been little athletic competition on the campus for the women, but also no cut-throat recruiting and no big-time pressure competition.

The female athletes say they are big girls now, and armed with a friendly piece of legislation that forbids sexual discrimination in college athletics, they want the whole wide world of sports.

"I'm kind of nervous about it," says Anne Findlay Chamberlain, one of Penn State's crop of first-year sports scholarship winners. "We're the first. It places an obligation on us to be better, but I think it's really a good thing."

Across the state, at the University of Pittsburgh, scholarships have become an integral part of the school's women's sports program.

"I know the women's program will be a big success here," says volleyball coach Mary Kromer, one of three coaches Pittsburgh lifted from a successful state high school program this past summer.

"Pitt is going to have a strong winning tradition," she says. "In the past, it's kind of been a play-day thing, where we competed for the fun of it, all very lady-like. We intend to remain feminine, but we also intend to win."

"I think scholarships are a good idea," says Mary Ellen Klobchar, a basketball scholarship recipient at Pitt. "It doesn't bother me. We sure are getting better players."

Some old-time women athletic administrators would cringe at that kind of talk, and blow their whistles on Pitt and Penn State.

Many in the forefront of the women's sports movement say that next to men, the old-line women athletic types have been holding the female sports movement back the most.

"The women haven't asked for anything big," says Mary Jo Haverback, a publicist at Penn State. "They didn't ask for scholarships and they didn't ask for uniforms. Women administrators have always fought against recognition for female athletes. They're afraid to make the same mistakes the men have made."

"For a long time, the physical education people who controlled athletes felt everything that had happened in male athletics was bad," says Linda Estes, director of women's intercollegiate sports at the University of New Mexico. "The attitude was that scholarships lead to recruiting and the buying of talent."

The Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), an NCAA-like governing body for female sports, did not permit athletic scholarships until recently.

"Specifically, we deplore the evils of pressure recruiting and performer exploitation which frequently accompany the administration of financial aid for athletes," says a policy statement of the Division of Girls and Women Sports, a parent organization of AIAW.

But in 1973, succumbing to pressure from women's groups and some of the colleges, AIAW's scholarship ban was lifted, although active recruiting is still forbidden.

"We can mail brochures, but we can't go out to a high school and talk to a girl," says Barbara Hedges, assistant athletic director at the University of Southern California, where 38 full or partial scholarships were awarded to women this fall.

Among the many schools now giving women scholarships this year are the University of Alabama, which awarded 20 athletic scholarships—20 more than last year—the University of New Mexico, which increased its tuition grants to women from eight to 21 and the University of Miami, which announced that 700 girls applied for its 26 scholarships.

As an indication of the way things are going, the Arizona Board of Regents recently granted Arizona State 60 scholarships in women's athletics.

The AIAW had no choice but to loosen its attitude since Title IX's enforcement regulations, effecting all schools receiving federal aid, forbid discrimination in any phase of a school's athletic program.

"Generally, comparable efforts must be made by recipients (of federal funds) to recruit members of each sex," the tentative enforcement regulations say.

"Scholarships designated for men only will not be allowed," says Gwen Gregory, a lawyer for Health, Education and Welfare, Title IX's enforcement agency.

A lot of women say the regulations requiring scholarships will raise the competitive level of women's athletics, and at the same time will lower their grades and place unbearable pressure on them.

"Our real concern is that the girls programs are run too much like the boys," says Dorothy Coleman, chairman of the women's physical education department at Oklahoma State. "We are trying to hang on to the fact that women are here first to get an education."

"I think women are very inclined to consider first their academic pursuits and their athletic pursuits second," says Karol Kahrs, women's athletic director at the University of Illinois.

"I don't know that we really want to add the pressure of a girl wanting to perform up to a certain level if she has a scholarship," says Pat McTarsney, Penn State's softball coach.

Many male athletic administrators, forced to cut back their programs and scholarships to pay for the upgraded women's athletic needs, say HEW's regulations will knock them out of business.

"I feel the HEW requirement is a threat to the intercollegiate program because some schools will be forced to do away with intercollegiate athletics entirely," says Stan Watts, athletic director at Brigham Young University.

Other athletic directors take a softer position, recognizing that changes will have to be made in the men's program.

"With the money situation like it is," says Georgia Athletic Director Joel Eaves, "Georgia will begin to be more selective about sending individuals or teams to national tournament competition."

"Major cutbacks would have to be made," says Ray Graves, athletic director at the University of Florida. "The place to begin would be with men's scholarships. They are the big expense item for most schools."

"If every college had to cut back, if we could only give 20 scholarships and Notre Dame and the rest were doing the same—in other words, if we had to go back to playing with amateur athletes—I am not sure it would be a bad thing."

Regardless of whether the men or the women accept the recent marriage of women and sports, it is here to stay.

"I don't think men's intercollegiate athletics will ever be the same when this is over with," says Dr. Joe Kearney, director of sports at the University of Washington.

"Right on," answer the women athletes, who may not be satisfied that they've grabbed an equal slice of the collegiate sports pie until the University of Oklahoma goes on AIAW probation for illegally recruiting a 6-foot, left-handed quarterback named "Helen."

"I'm kind of tired of playing the role of the typical woman athlete who plays for her own enjoyment and the expectation that we play for nothing more," says Penn State scholarship recipient Gwenn Hannigan.

"You spend so much time, energy and years that you get a little frustrated with no spectators, no publicity and no recognition."

Western And Eastern To Play Non-League Games

Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky are like expectant papas whose wife is eight months along. The current situation is important, but next week is even more critical.

Western and Eastern, co-leaders of the Ohio Valley Conference football race, play non-league foes Saturday and then return to OVC action next week to decide the conference crown.

In this week's conference games, East Tennessee State and Middle Tennessee State both seek to reach the .500 mark in the OVC when they tangle in Murfreesboro and Tennessee Tech invades Austin Peay.

Non-league games are Western Kentucky at West Carolina, Eastern Kentucky hosting Ashland, Morehead entertaining the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse and Murray hosting Eastern Illinois.

Laker Girls Lose But Freshmen Rip Pilots

What the Calloway County freshmen had was what the varsity girls didn't and as a result, the Laker frosh got what the girls didn't.

Using their height advantage and their overall physical strength, the Laker frosh cruised to an easy 50-24 win at Fulton County Thursday night in their opening contest of the season.

But in the nightcap of the doubleheader, it was a different story for the Laker girls as they were outsize and outscored 43-32 by the host Pilots.

Fulton County moved out to a 10-7 lead at the end of the first period in the girls contest and at halftime, the Pilots had increased the margin to six at 22-16.

It was simply a case of the Lakers not being able to come up with the big bucket in the second half. Several times in the third period, Calloway County pulled to within two points but couldn't come up with the two-pointer to tie the contest.

By the end of the third period, Fulton County held a slim 29-25.

edge. With three minutes left to play in the final eight-minute quarter, Fulton County led the Lakers by just two points but the Pilots rallied and increased the final margin to 11, a margin not really representative of the type of game it really was.

Marilyn McKenzie scored half of the Laker points as she tossed in 16 in a fine effort.

Her sister, Patricia, was injured just before the end of the first half and didn't return to the court for the final two periods.

Laker coach, David Lanier said he thought if she'd played in the final half, the outcome of the game might well have been different.

The freshmen boys had to use their fine free throw shooting in the first half to gain the upper hand.

Calloway County hit on nine of 13 foul shots in the first two periods while Fulton County had a miserable night from the charity stripe, hitting on just six of 23 for the entire contest.

At halftime, the Lakers led 26-21, two points more than their 13-10 first period margin.

But in the second half, Calloway County outscored the Pilots 24-3 and coasted the rest of the way as Coach Clayton Hargrove emptied his bench.

The Lakers, playing a sagging man-to-man defense, had a decisive rebounding edge with Glen Olive leading the effort while Terry Boggess, Mike Watson and Danny Kingins all added board strength.

Olive paced the scoring with a super game, firing in 21 points while Jimmy Lamb added 10. "They played as well as I could ask them to for an opening game," Hargrove said.

The varsity girls and the freshmen will play at Ballard Memorial on November 25.

New Experiment In Health Education To Debut On KETV

THE MURRAY KV.: LEDGER & TIMES, Friday, November 15, 1974

"Feeling Good," television's most ambitious attempt to convey health information through entertainers techniques, premieres Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. EST on Kentucky Educational Television (KET). "Perhaps when you're sick, it's a person's own actions that play a major role in the kind of health he enjoys. As one doctor put it, 'It's what you do hour by hour, day by day, that largely determines the state of your health, whether you get sick, what you get sick with and perhaps when you die.'"

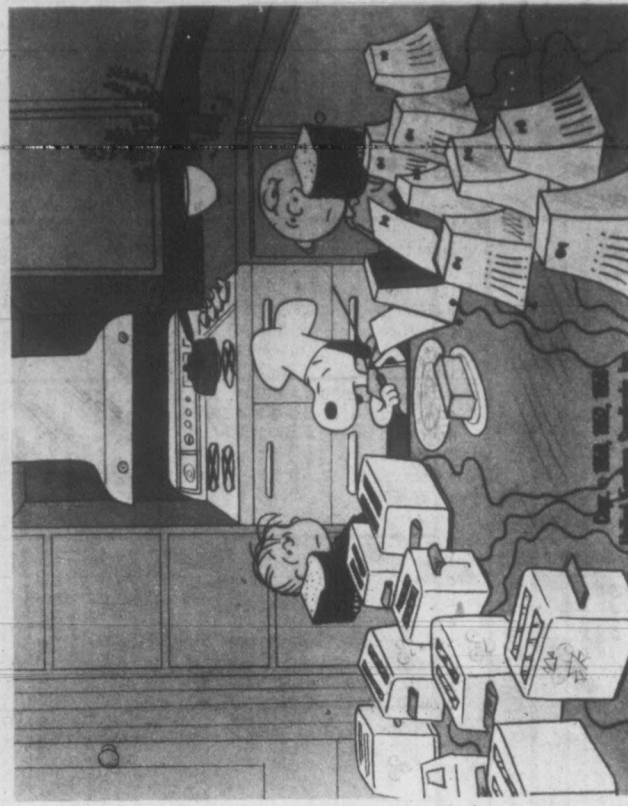

The show employs song, dance, drama, documentaries and situation comedies to convey its health message—prevention. A cast of eight performers provides continuity for the series, and celebrities make frequent appearances. Bill Coshy, prenatal care.

appearances. Bill Cosby portrays an unborn child talking to his mother about prenatal care. Sportscaster Howard Cosell calls the "shots" for immunization. The blues singer, B.B. King, cooks up some broccoli, and comedians Bob and Ray run a tooth brush hall of fame to dramatize the treatment of dental plaque. Aimed at informing people about and motivating them to use good health practices, "Eating Good" stresses that it problems—whether it means having their blood pressure checked, seeing a doctor for mental depression or obtaining prenatal care.”

"Feeling Good" marks the first program produced for adults by the Children's Television Workshop (creators of 'Sesame Street'). It is the result of more than two years of extensive research and a $7 million budget.

Major underwriters for the series include: The Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the Exxon Corporation, and Aetna Life and Casualty Co. In addition, six foundations helped underwrite the early feasibility and planning studies of the project: The Edna McConnell Clark Foundation, the Commonwealth Fund, the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation, the Van Ameringen Foundation, the Itellson Family Foundation and the Grant Foundation.

A special package of Peanuts add a totally distinctive flavor to America's oldest, holiday season as Linus, Snoopy and Charlie Brown (L-R) conceals a rather unorthodox meal on "A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving," Emmy Award-winning animated special to be rebroadcast on the CBS Television Network Thursday, Nov. 21 (7:00-7:30 p. m., CST).

New Game Encourages Less TV For Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly every game show on TV has a play-at-home version on sale in toy stores. But a new play-at-home TV game now coming on the market isn't seen on television. Nor is it likely to be.

The reason: Its goal is to encourage less TV viewing by children.

The game is "Switch." It's being sold by mail by Action for Children's Television, an activist group which since 1968 has demanded higher quality children's programs without

The general aim of the $1.50 commercial on television, "you do that," says Mrs. Charren, "we hope the children — and we hope their parents play the game with them — will really learn what the switches mean."

The game, printed on folding paper, starts with an imaginary TV set switched "on." It takes a player a maximum of 56 moves, fewer if luck prevails, to reach victory, which in this case is "off."

There are 10 draw cards which let the combatants make five moves at a time.

"What they're trying to do is switch off, to try another kind of activity, like walking or reading a book, or avoiding the sugar foods sold on children's television, or switching from buying the expensive toys that seem to make up almost all the TV advertising on TV this season," says the author.

from one to five moves at a time. They must thread their way through a total of 30 commercials, one technical difficulty, one station break and 19

Patricia Neal stars as a woman who must confront reality, and her family, when she learns she has leukemia, on the "GE Theater" drama special, "Things in Their Season," Wednesday, Nov. 27 (8:30-10:00 p.m. CST) on the CBS Television Network.

Lazarus

*A*t one time or another, all of us make mistakes. Of course we hope that we'll be given a second chance. Perhaps the mistake isn't so important, but what we do correct it is.

Lazarus, the brother of Mary and Martha, was given an unusual second chance. And after four days in the tomb, Christ resurrected him. Once back in the daylight, Lazarus had to make a decision: what should he do with his life . . . his second chance.

John 12:9-11 tells us he used it for God.

And because of Lazarus testimony, many accepted Christ as their Savior.

This unusual act of God proves to us that Lazarus received physical life, so that we might understand eternal life.

He wanted us to know, beyond doubt, that the Spiritually dead could live again . . . that they could have a second chance to live their lives for Him.

God may not add years to our lives, but He will add life to our years whenever we turn to Him. Then, seek your second chance.

Ford Again Rejects Gasoline Tax Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, facing massive auto industry layoffs, has again rejected a gasoline tax hike that would reduce driving.

Ford also rapped his top energy official for reviving the idea after the President had already rejected the gasoline tax proposal.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton had surprised reporters Wednesday by renewing the proposal. Some equally surprised officials considered it unlikely that Morton would revive the idea without White House approval.

But Ford in a broadcast news conference in Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday night slapped it down hard and needed Morton for raising it.

"We are not considering an additional gasoline tax," Ford said.

"I thought that others in the executive branch got the word. And I hope that this word is gotten to my good friend, the Secretary of the Interior. I am not considering an increase in the gasoline tax."

Morton told reporters Wednesday he felt it his duty as chairman of the President's policy-guiding Energy Resources Council to study all fuel-saving options, including the gasoline tax. Morton also said he had economists studying it and that he would discuss it with key Congressmen.

Morton also had acknowledged that a gas tax hike would have an impact on the auto industry.

Ford is a former Congressman from Michigan, the home of the auto industry. Auto makers already have laid off 69,000 workers as new cars sales have sagged.

There was more bad news Thursday from the auto industry. General Motors, with 36,000 workers already on indefinite furlough, announced it would lay off another 1,064, definitely at eight Chevrolet plants after Friday's shifts. GM also said 5,000 more workers would be laid off for two weeks starting Monday at its Vega plant in Lordstown, Ohio.

Ford Motor Co. has laid off 8,500 indefinitely and 3,000 others for one week.

Chrysler, with 8,800 on indefinite furlough, will lay off another 8,000 indefinitely on Monday. Some 12,600 other Chrysler workers are on a one-week layoff.

The gasoline tax idea also had drawn negative reaction from some Congressional Democrats, including two in key positions.

One was House Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California; the other was Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., second-ranked on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee.

Morton could not be reached for comment late Thursday, but close associates admitted they were puzzled at his apparent public divergence from the President's opposition to the gasoline tax.

Meanwhile, in other economic news Thursday:

—The Commerce Department said personal income increased $8.4 billion in October, rising about seven-tenths of one percent. That marked a slowdown from the September increase of $10.8 billion, or one percent.

The department said the slowdown was caused largely by job layoffs and shorter work weeks, with unemployment hitting the manufacturing payrolls hardest.

—The Agriculture Department said that higher food stamp benefits would take effect Jan. 1, including an increase of $4 a month for a family of four.

THE MEADE Evangelistic Team, Rev. Larry Meade and Dolle Meade, world touring ministers from Mayfield, will present gospel singing and preaching at the First Assembly of God Church, South 16th Street and Glendale Road, on Sunday, November 17, at ten a.m. and seven p.m. The Meades have taken tours throughout the world including parts of India. Rev. Gerald Hendley, church pastor, invites the public to attend.

Highlights Of President Ford's News Conference

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Highlights of President Ford's news conference here Thursday night:

ROCKEFELLER: Ford urged prompt congressional approval of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president and said he could not imagine any conditions that would make him withdraw the nomination.

ECONOMY: Ford rejected a return to wage and price controls, urged Congress to enact his proposal for a 5 percent surtax on middle and upper income taxpayers and said flatly he is not considering an increase in gasoline taxes. He indicated there is a possibility of mandatory restrictions on energy use if voluntary controls fail.

FOREIGN: Ford said the decision on whether to negotiate with the Palestine Liberation Organization should be left to Israel. He also said he has no intention of limiting Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's broad authority in foreign policy.

BROWN: Ford said he would not request the resignation of Gen. George Brown as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, despite the controversy over Brown's statements on Jewish influence in the United States. "I don't think he should be fired for that mistake," the President said.

GIBSON: Ford said he had made a mistake in nominating Andrew Gibson to be head of the Federal Energy Office. Gibson withdrew after disclosures that he received more than $80,000 a year in severance pay from an oil transporting company.

POLITICS: Ford said he

Nixon Settles Down For Recovery From Operation

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, pale and thin, settled down at his ocean-side villa today for a quiet recuperation from phlebitis surgery.

Nixon left Long Beach Hospital Medical Center in a wheelchair Thursday and returned to his San Clemente home. Meanwhile the head of a medical team assigned to determine whether Nixon is well enough to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial said he wanted the court to assist him with legal matters before he attempts the examination.

Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel, one of the three court-appointed physicians, said in Washington that the determination might not actually involve a physical examination of Nixon, but he said it likely would.

Hufnagel, chief of surgery at Georgetown University Hospital, said he has asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to clarify his instructions. He said he expects a response in two or three days.

Hufnagel said he and the other two doctors — all internationally known cardiovascular specialists — want the court to contact Nixon's lawyers to make arrangements for the examination.

"Otherwise, what are we supposed to do? Go out to Long Beach, rent a hotel room and start making phone calls asking whom do we contact? This should be clarified before anything is done," he said.

Sirica's order Wednesday instructed the doctors to report to the Washington D. C. court if Nixon refused to undergo examination.

Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said the stress of a court-ordered examination might cause Nixon's blood pressure to rise and set off renewed internal bleeding. But he said of the examination, "... I have no control over it and he has no control over it."

Nixon, wearing a Navy blue robe over light-blue pajamas, left the hospital through a rear door.

Nixon had lost 10 to 15 pounds since entering the hospital Oct. 23.

WHY do local Merchants begin Christmas Promotions before Thanksgiving?

Remember how crowded our stores are the final two or three weeks before Christmas?

Now imagine how impossibly jammed they would be if no one did his Christmas shopping early. Imagine how difficult it would be to select that gift for a far-off friend and get it mailed on time.

People sometimes wonder why merchants start Christmas shopping promotions before Thanksgiving. But suppose they didn't? It would not only pose many problems for the merchant, but for YOU, the customer.

Any business has a responsibility to all its customers. Many people prefer to do their Christmas shopping in the pre-Thanksgiving period when stores aren't quite so crowded.

What if all Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving? An impossible problem would be created because most stores even now are strained to capacity to provide the type of service you've come to expect, even during the peak of the season.

If no one was able to do his Christmas shopping early, the problem would be compounded many times. Thousands of children who wanted to visit Santa would be unable to because it would be physically impossible for him to see them all.

Early Christmas shopping promotions also make it easier for the merchant to stock and display the goods he needs, and also easier for his employees, who would be even busier during the peak season than they are traditionally.

The reason merchants start Christmas before Thanksgiving can really be summed up in two words—"Public Service"—the kind you've come to expect from progressive stores.

Plan to attend the Rotary Club Christmas Parade, 1 p. m., Dec. 7 and The Woman's Club "Breakfast With Santa" 9:30-11 a. m. & 1-2 p. m., Saturday, Dec. 7.
