CHARLIE JONES
Fulton's Top Man

ZANE TAYLOR
Leading Lady

Taylor, Jones Top Pinsters In Fulton

Zane Taylor and Charlie Jones own the best season averages in Fulton—a town that is on the Kentucky-Tennessee state line—and features bowlers from both sides of the line.

Zane, only in her first year of bowling, has had a very successful season in her first turn at the game. For three different leagues she is sporting a respectable 151 composite average and promises to be an even better next season.

Charlie is a four-year veteran of the sport, but his first three years were not near as fruitful as the current season. Only rolling regularly in one league, Charlie is holding a good 180 average.

Charlie's bowling has been improving each year. His first attempt at league bowling gave him a wee 137 average, then he pumped it to 147 the following year and finished up last season with 164. His 180 in the Ken-Tenn League this season and his 192 as a sub in the Ferry-Morse Loop are indicative of his improvement.

Zane is a hard worker on the lanes. She bowls just about every day, getting in an average of 15 practice games each week plus her three nights of league bowling.

In the Wednesday afternoon Hi-Lo League, she is carrying a 150 average while her games in the Couples League range in the mid 150's, as does her keging in the Friday night Ladies League.

Zane's best single game in sanctioned play is 213. She mastered this score while competing in the Jaycee Christmas Tournament and it earned her the high game award. In open bowling, she has accumulated a 226 score and a 585 series. Rolling a straight ball, her nemesis is the No. 10 pin, which she leaves only too often on pocket hits. And her light 12-pound ball also causes more than her share of splits.

Spud Edwards Was A Man Everybody Called A Friend; His Death Is Loss

By Jo Westpheling

For what seemed like hours on Tuesday I stared at the white sheet of paper in my typewriter for some way to write the words that Spud Edwards had passed away, suddenly and unexpectedly sometime Monday night or early Tuesday morning. I learned the news while doing the live-wire on Tuesday morning and the shock of the announcement from Whit-nel Funeral Home was one that I shared with literally hundreds of people who could not believe that this popular, this affable, this friendly man had passed away.

In every conversation on Tuesday morning grief was expressed at the death of "Spud Edwards" and it was the general consensus that he was a person rare among men who surely never had an enemy. Spud was the kind of fellow who understood his friends, whether they were right or wrong, or whether he agreed with them or not. People liked to be around him to talk with him, to laugh with him and many times to un-burden their problems on him. He took them all in stride and you just felt better because Spud knew about them.

Not long ago Spud and I disagreed on a policy voted upon in the Fiscal Court of which he was a member as magistrate from the First District. I felt that perhaps he ought to have taken some other action and discussed it with him. "Jo," he said, "I had to do it because it was the only thing I felt was right in my conscience." You couldn't argue with a fellow who voted the courage of his convictions, because in this instance he had every occasion to be swayed by other influences that were contrary to his beliefs.

That's what made Spud Edwards the kind fellow who commanded the admiration and respect of everybody who came in contact with him. In the election on May 23 he was unopposed in his race. It was not perhaps that others did not want the office, but because Spud was such a man of high principles, honesty and integrity and performed his duties so efficiently there was nothing to campaign upon in opposition to him.

Spud has been the caretaker at the Fulton Country Club for several years. If he made the slightest enemy in the discharge of his duties there it was certainly a well kept secret. He inconvenienced himself and oftentimes his family, I am sure, to accommodate the members of the club and he was always there until the last straggling golfer and put his clubs away for the day. Maybe the thanks were not always forthcoming to Spud, as perhaps they

Fulton County Benefitting From Stepped Up State Aid; Teachers Get Most Money

Fulton County felt the direct impact of new and expanded services from State Government in 1960, as stepped-up programs made themselves evident.

A new broader-based revenue structure financed advances in such State services as education, highways, health, industrial development, agriculture, parks, welfare and mental health.

Here are some of the direct expenditures of State funds in Fulton County:

County schools received $417,797 for the current school year, $131,959 more than for the previous year. The increase brought funds for buildings and other facilities to $46,020, transportation for pupils to $27,768, teachers' salaries to $274,973, free textbooks to $11,229. All textbooks for elementary students were furnished free, and, for the first time, some free books were furnished to high school students.

In the State's welfare programs, new funds combined with Federal matching money to produce an all-time high in benefits to the needy.

In 1960, grants to this County totaled $430,983. The needy aged received $223,372, the needy blind $7,355, dependent children $163,087, and the totally and permanently disabled $39,169.

Another State service helps the unemployed find jobs. In a four-county area including this County, 20,167 unemployed found jobs in 1960 through the Employment Service Division.

The Highway Department spent $293,000 here for construction, maintenance, rights of way and engineering, including $650 in Federal matching funds. A highway crew works throughout the year repairing and maintaining roads in the County.

State funds totaling $15,261,711 combined with other local and Federal money to operate the County Health Department.

In 1960 Fulton County received $600 in State Library Extension services and $830 for Bookmobile books.

Hickman was one of 51 cities in Kentucky for which an industrial resources brochure was prepared and published in 1960 by the Community Development Division of the Department of Economic Development. These brochures are a vital aid for locating industry in this area.

In the calendar year 1960, $564,800 was allotted to airports in 21 sites over the state. This figure included the latest three to receive state aid—Elkon, Campbellsburg and Murray. Ful-

Governor Names Mrs. Fred Stokes, Jr. To Make Study Of Tourist Attractions

Governor Bert Combs today appointed Mrs. Fred Stokes, Jr. of Hickman a member of the important Tourist and Travel Advisory Commission and has asked her to make early recommendations for a study of the tourist attractions in Hickman and other historic parts of the county. Long interested in the development of the Mississippi River area at Hickman, Mrs. Stokes will make recommendations to Governor Combs, with a view toward bringing the area into proper focus as a major tourist attraction of Kentucky.

Rich in the historic lore of the old Mississippi river boat days and boasting its share of Civil War history as a landing area for supplies for the Confederate Army, Hickman is one of the oldest cities in Western Kentucky. With much of its residential area overlooking the river, Governor Combs shares the view of enthusiastic Hickman residents that the area could well attract many tourists into Kentucky.

Highway Commissioner Henry

Ward, who is also chairman of the three-member Parks Commission said that both the Highway Department and the Parks Commission said that both the Highway Department and the Parks Commission will make a comprehensive study of the recommendations made by Mrs. Stokes and believes that a roadside park could be established in the immediate future.

Commenting on her appointment Mrs. Stokes expressed appreciation to Governor Combs for the opportunity to make recommendations for a study of the area and asks interested citizens to inform her of any points of interest that might be explored to be contained in the State study.

"Development of the Mississippi River area as a major tourist attraction would benefit all of Fulton County," Mrs. Stokes said. "It is not uncommon on any day for many cars to drive along the levee and park to look at the river and to explore other historic sites along the way. With the cooperation of civic leaders all over the county we can present concrete recommendations that our area is just as important, tourist-wise as any other area in Kentucky," she added.

Other members of the Tourist and Travel Advisory Committee in Fulton County who will advise with Mrs. Stokes are Mrs. Ward Bushart, Paul Westpheling and Ro Gardner.

Returns Slow In Contributions To Little League

Approximately $650.00 has been collected in the drive to have the little boys baseball and the girls softball programs here in Fulton this summer. This is only about one fourth of the total amount needed to operate the program in the right way.

Charles Pawlukiewicz, president of the Boys Baseball Program, announced at a meeting of interested parents and children, that although about 860 letters asking for contributions have been mailed out, only about 150 responses have been received by the committee. He also stated that there has been much enthusiasm shown by the boys and girls and that if the funds come in as hoped, this should be the best season yet in Fulton.

Over 160 boys and 115 girls have already signed the applications for membership in the various teams and more are expected. Volunteers to serve as managers and coaches are also needed to complete the plans for the project.

Students, Faculty Think "Man In Space" Is Courageous Gamble

By Karen Dublin

Last Friday when the United States stood on the brink of an adventure into unknown space, everyone in this great country held their breath and prayed that the space shot would be a success and that Commander Shepard would come back to earth safely.

So it was, also, with the students at Fulton High School. As soon as the news media announced that the flight had been a success and that Shepard was the first United States astronaut, the news spread through the school like wildfire. The prospective scientists looked toward the future when perhaps they, too, would be involved in the world of space and everyone else, generally, breathed a sigh of relief and of pride.

Now that the flight is history, people all over the world are speculating on the degree of its success. Once again, the same holds true for the FHS students and faculty. In a recent interview many of them expressed their feelings aloud to your NEWS reporter.

Hal Warren, a senior and a future lawyer, had this to say: "Commander Shepard's space flight is the greatest achievement the United States has accomplished in many years. It was carried out in full view of the world, not hidden as Russia's flight was. In fact, many Russians actually know more about our flight than they do of their own. I feel that this gives Russia a good taste of her own medicine in propaganda."

The faculty watched the flight with a great deal of seriousness, since it is the job of the teachers to prepare their students for future accomplishments such as this recent one.

Superintendent W. L. Holland made the following remarks about the successful flight: "I think that it is one of the most courageous things that has happened since Columbus made the historic voyage across an uncharted and unknown ocean to discover America. In risking complete failure before a TV camera with the whole world looking on, the United States was courageous enough to attempt to put a man into space when even his fate might be in doubt. "It certainly typifies the contrast in the two world powers in which Russia, by secret decree, operates her government and likewise, by that same secrecy puts a man into orbit. On the other hand, America operates to the open mandates of the people and puts a man into space for the world to view.

"Nothing could be more characteristic of the two forms of government and I feel that the world will sit up and take notice of how two projects have come into being and were put into operation."

Lynn Williamson, a leader in his sophomore class, said in answer to the question, "I think this is a great accomplishment for the United States. Moreover, I feel there was even a more significant accomplishment in the news coverage of this project. The fact that the United States, through our freedom of the press and even though Commander Shepard was supposedly the second man in space, caused not only great recognition for this country, but also a doubt in the minds of the Russians and their allies of their own systems of press censorship."

Jimmy Wright and Kay Morris, the two future editors of the school newspaper, the KENNEL, were interviewed together and both expressed the same feeling: "We think it is the most wonderful thing that could happen to America. It was done with full publicity and was a big gamble which really paid off for the United States. We really wonder

Only American People Protest Can Stop Flood Of Immoral Movies Shown To Public

NATIONAL PUBLICATIONS have recently joined in the chorus protesting the immoral, sadistic trend in motion pictures. They have gone to great lengths to point out the almost total disregard for human decency in many of the Hollywood produced spectacles of our day.

Unquestionably, the moral tone of most motion pictures has taken a big dip since the Hayes office and its functions have been "watered down" by Mr. Personality—Eric Johnston. This former head of the United States Chamber of Commerce is serving as a public relations man rather than a leader in maintaining some semblance of standards in motion picture production.

Basically, however, the problem is more complex than just a few nasty-type movies. It returns to haunt the doorsteps of a good many people who read books. Yes, most of your more trashy movies are toned down versions of best selling books. And how do they become best selling books? People buy them for their private pleasure.

Perhaps there is nothing wrong with adults indulging in books bordering on the obscene, found all too often in the best-selling bracket. But when those books are available to youngsters, whether it be in book form or movies, we feel that it becomes an injustice to the youth of our country.

The problem will remain ever-present, however, until the American people decide that they have read enough trash and watched enough sex exploitation on the screen and television. After all, it is within the power of the people to "call the shots" for they control the purse strings of this nation. Once the flow of money is checked, a new type of literature will emerge and a new era in motion picture production will be forthcoming. Do we, as a people, want this change? It is within our power to make it possible.

The problem is not one to be solved by your local motion picture theatre manager. He shows only what he is sent. It remains for you, the American public, to protest by not attending objectionable movies.

Does This Poem Describe Your Fulton News?

When the evenin' shade is falling at the end of the day,
An' a feller rests from labor and
smokes his pipe o' clay,
There's nothin' does him so much good, be fortune up or down,
As the little country paper from his Ol' Home Town.
It ain't a thing o' beauty an' its print ain't always clean,
But it straightens out his temper
when a feller's feelin' mean;
It takes the wrinkles off his face
an' brushes off the frown,
That little country paper from his
Ol' Home Town.
It tells of all the parties and balls at

Pumpkin Row;
'Bout who spent Sunday with whose girl and how the crops'll grow;
An' how it keeps a feller posted
'bout who is 'up an' who is down;
That little country paper from his
Ol' Home Town.
Now, I like to read the dailies and the story papers, too,
An' at times the yaller novels an'
some other trash—don't you?
But when I want some readin'
that'll brush away a frown,
I want that little paper from my
Ol' Home Town.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

Pain For Peace

By Murray Powers

Maria was a mere youngster and this was her first baby. Fear enveloped her. The pains stabbed more frequently. She gripped her hands, suddenly alone in the midst of many white-uniformed people.
Then her eyes, scanning the wall ahead of her, centered on something—a plaque! And all at once it came back to her.

"Dear God, please help me. Bring my baby and me safely through this. Help us. On you alone can I call. I offer You these pains for peace in this world, dear Lord. Let that be my intention if I should forget you in my sufferings in the next little while."

Plaques for Peace is a simple devotion. It started in 1956 in a small Ohio community. Three young mothers offered their labor pains for the safety of a brother-in-law, an American infantry lieutenant in Korea.

The coincidence of dates—the birth of the babies and this soldier's narrow escape from death, his safe return home and his complete recovery from injuries—started these women thinking.

Now if their prayers, their pains offered up, could help one soldier, would not there be a tremendous force for peace if everyone so offered his headaches, his ulcer pains and, particularly, if women offered their labor pains?

THE THREE WOMEN felt that, aside from the all-important message of prayer for peace, the project had other values. It might foster a spirit of brotherly love in a selfless way. And when pain has a purpose it is not so hard to bear.

It was decided that plaques bearing the inscription should be hung in hospitals, in surgical corridors, in lying-in rooms, in delivery rooms. A priest and some young artists spent days working on a design for the plaque, trying to create the effect and feeling of the inscription. "Offer Pain . . . as Prayer . . . for Peace," so that it would appeal to all faiths.

A young development engineer wanted a plaque that would be crack and fire resistant, light in weight and sealed for sterilization.

A SCULPTOR took nine months to satisfy himself that his model plaque was perfect before he made the final copy.

A Protestant chemist of an Akron company used six weeks of his spare time to test the mold before it could be poured, and the Jewish manager of the department said of the expensive mold: "Cost? For such case we make this as a gift!"

The program has grown slowly and steadily. Now, in hospitals throughout the world, forty-one of these plaques beg for pains as prayers for peace.

If YOU are interested, write: Mrs. Mary Ann Wojno, Box 572, Stow, Ohio.

An historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago; original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance . . . ED).

BY WILLIAM H. McHENRY

By William H. McHenry
Second week in May, 1861

The Confederate States of America declared that a state of war existed between the Northern and Southern states on May 6th, 1861. The North never did formally declare war on the South. In fact, the North never went beyond insisting that the contest was a mere "insurrection" or "rebellion."

Arkansas left the Union for the Confederacy on May 6th, by a vote of 69 to 1. The Tennessee legislature passed the same vote on May 7. Tennessee also approved of a "military alliance" with the Confederacy. Kentucky hopefully announced her "neutrality."

May 10 the State of Missouri saw its citizens settle their differences in what would become the accepted way, by direct action! Secession, as most historians have said, was revolution . . . and in Missouri certain men saw it that way.

Pro-Southern men had established a training camp in St. Louis. The City was mostly Pro-Union. Somehow it had been expected that everyone would choose sides then go their way rejoicing. That was not to be.

On that May 10, the pro-Union forces under Francis P. Blair, Jr., and Capt. Nathaniel Lyon seized the pro-Southern camp and took the militia prisoners. Fighting began. The city became a battleground in which at least 28 people were killed.

An interesting sidelight of the affair was that among the spectators was one William T. Sherman, and one U. S. Grant. Neither man was at that time in the army. It is highly probable that the events which took place in St. Louis that day helped to determine both those future generals of the Union on their courses of action.

Southern commissioners to Great Britain had hoped to gain quick recognition for the Confederacy . . . they didn't gain that end, but Queen Victoria did, on May 13, proclaim that Great Britain would be neutral, and she did recognize the Confederacy as a belligerent. (Which meant that captured Southerners should be treated as soldiers, prisoners of war, not as traitors.)

And even yet, up to the middle of May of 1861, North Carolina had not yet joined the Confederacy. North Carolina would furnish one-fifth of the Southern soldiers, would boast of being "first at Big Bethel, furthestest at Gettysburg, and last at Appomattox." But North Carolina took her time above seceding from the Union.

The Maryland legislature, strongly secessionist in sympathy, agreed that Maryland would remain neutral. Governor Hicks (Strongly pro-Union) said: "I most earnestly and sincerely entertain the conviction that the only safety of Maryland lies in preserving a neutral position between our brethren of the North and South."

The Maryland legislature, while they did not pass the ordinance of secession, did declare: "If the people desire it, (secession) they will have a chance to vote sometime in the future." There were charges that the Federal government had used bribery and corruption on Maryland. Said the Alexandria (Va.) paper: "Old Frank Blair says that Maryland will remain in the Union even if every white man in the state must be killed!"

(During the four years of the War Between the States, the Confederate brigades from Maryland, Kentucky, and Missouri would be called "Orphan" brigades by the other Southern soldiers. Due to the State's Rights system of supplying the soldiers, those men would have extra difficulty in being supplied with uniforms and other necessities.)

Northern papers hailed the stand of the "neutral" states, saying: "Strange as it may seem, the Border States are quite as earnest as the North. They seem to hail the positive position of the Administration as a prospective bulwark, protecting them from the desolation, anarchy, and taxation of secession . . . a firm maintenance of the rights of the General Government is the sole preventative of the Border States Secession." Col. Ellsworth's Zouaves arrived in Washington . . . 1,100 strong—was preparing for war. Every re- Ellsworth would soon be called source, every shipyard, every "the first martyr of the Civil factory, was busy. Virginia, for War." The zouaves were wonder-example, was rounding up every full fellows. themselves. And also at Bull Run the distinctive uniforms of the Zouaves would make very distinctive targets for the riflemen of the South.

Even in the face of a coming war between the North and the South, the scientific forces of the nation were still busy. A ship was the Gulf Stream east of Cape Hatteras studying the ocean bed. Studies were being made of the ocean bed between England and North America. A section of the Atlantic cable had been brought home, stripped to its core, and the reports said that the gutta-percha covering was still sound and solid.

The companies involved in the Atlantic Cable said that before any other cable was laid, it would be necessary to make a chart showing the configuration of the bed of the Atlantic Ocean. Allowance must be made in laying the cable for the strain of the cable stretching from under-water mountain-top to underwater

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

It seems that, in spite of 'ole man rain' and his recent antics, spring has finally arrived here in Fulton. There are very few trees which have not come out in their full greenery and the roses, tulips and iris are forming splashes of brilliant color against the green grass and shrubbery. The air is balmy and when the sun does take a notion to peep out, its rays are warm and bright.

In other signs of the coming summer, girls are changing from their wool and heavy clothes and are beginning to wear the light and bright summer clothing; schools all over the area are preparing for their closing exercises; the whirring of lawn mowers can be heard on almost any afternoon (that is, if the rain isn't coming down in sheets) and the bright red of the strawberries can be seen in the grocery stores.

Spring also means prom-time at the area high-schools. Although Fulton High will not have a prom this year, several FHS students are having a private Spring Formal dance at the Strata Club at Martin this week and it is being eagerly looked forward to by many of the students.

South Fulton held their prom on Friday night, April 28, at their school gym. The theme was an oriental one, "Sayonara." It followed a banquet which had the same oriental setting. A color scheme of orchid, blue and purple was used throughout the gym and colorful Japanese lanterns and wind chimes were hung from the rafters.

Music for the event was provided by Charles Andrews and his Melody Men.

A large crowd attended the annual Evening of Music presented by the Music Department of the Fulton Women's Club at the club home last Friday night. There were approximately ten numbers on the program which included talent from the department, itself, and from the Junior Music Club as well as from the local area in general.

Mrs. Walter Voepel was the director for the event and the accompanists were Mrs. Leonora Bushart, Mrs. J. U. McKendree and Miss Judy Moore.

Several out-of-town guests were present and had high praises for the performers.

Little Dave Burrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burrow, celebrated his seventh birthday with a delightful party at his home. The theme for the party was "Baseball" and this was carried out by a lovely cake in the shape of a baseball glove and ball, made by Mrs. Doyle Shupe.

Those attending were: Timmy Bates, William Mitchell, Mike Hatfield, Bob Engel, Steve Lawrence, Stevie Ray, Kenneth Fields, Greg Scates, Dickie McIntosh and Robert Burrow.

Don Reed was elected president of the Junior Music Club at a recent meeting held at the home of Miss Susan Stokes. Sherri Elliott was selected to serve as vice-president and the other officers were Sherry Milstead, secretary; Lydia Wright, treasurer and Mae Mann, publicity chairman.

The installation of officers was the main order of business at the final meeting of the year of the Junior Department of the Fulton Woman's Club held last week. A delicious pot-luck supper preceded the ceremonies.

Those installed included Miss Wanda Holland, president; Mrs.

Thomas Lane, vice president. Mrs. Bill Fenwick, secretary; Mrs. Charles Moon, corresponding secretary; Miss Joe White, treasurer; Mrs. Nathan Wade, Kindergarten chairman; Mrs. Virgil Barker, Kindergarten registration; Mrs. Bill Fossett, Ways and Means chairman; Mrs. Herbie Hunt, Hostess chairman.

The annual "Mystery Tour" for the Weakley County Home Demonstration Club took the group to Holly Springs, Mississippi, for the pilgrimage tour of the lovely plantation homes in that area.

The members left in two chartered buses at 5:45 a. m. and arrived back home at approximately 9:30 p. m. Enroute home, they stopped for dinner in Jackson, Tennessee.

Mrs. Virginia Austin and Mrs. Clara Hatler were two Fultonians who spent the weekend in Louisville and attended the famous Kentucky Derby there.

Members and guests of the Woman's Club enjoyed a real treat when Miss Aaltje VanDenberg presented a program of Folk Songs, Friday, at the final meeting of the year. Miss VanDenberg, who teaches Related Arts and Crafts at the University of Tennessee at Martin, sang a varied group of songs and accompanied herself on the Auto Harp, a simple instrument which blends in well with the simplicity of the songs she sings. Mrs. Hendon Wright gave the story of folk songs previous to the musical program.

Forty members enjoyed a delicious pot-luck luncheon at noon. Mrs. Virgil Barker, of the Hospitality Committee, was chairman of the arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. Nathan Wade, Mrs. W. C. Jacobs and Mrs. R. O. Brown. The beautiful floral arrangements on the luncheon and speaker's table were furnished by Mrs. S. M. DeMyer, Chairman, and Mrs. R. A. Fowlkes, of the Decorations Committee.

Following the luncheon Barry Adams and Danny Carver presented a trumpet duet. Barry also played the trumpet solo that brought him superior rating at the Murray Music Festival. Miss Judy Moore accompanied them at the piano. Mrs. Mike Hernon, Band Director at Fulton School, made the arrangements for the students to appear on the program.

The business session was opened by a trio, Mrs. Nelson Tripp, Miss Andy DeMyer and Mrs. George Albritten, singing a beautiful arrangement of the club's collection. They were accompanied at the

Mrs. Harvey Caldwell Honors Three Lovely Brides At Beautiful Event

One of the loveliest of the spring social event was a beautifully planned tea given by Mrs. Harvey Caldwell honoring three recent brides; Mrs. Jimmy Edwards, the former Miss Carolyn Roberts, Mrs. John Westfall Morrison, Jr., the former Miss Marion Blackstone, and Mrs. Larry Sullivan, the former Miss Jill Edwards. The tea was at Mrs. Caldwell's home on Carr Street on Saturday afternoon the sixth of May, nineteen hundred and sixty-one. The handsome Caldwell home was enhanced by arrangements of roses and other spring flowers.

The guests were received by the hostess who wore an afternoon frock of navy blue silk with Chantilly lace bodice. In the receiving line were the honorees, their mothers, Mrs. A. B. Roberts, Mrs. William M. Blackstone, and Mrs. Jack Edwards, and Mrs. Joe Cochran, mother of Mr. Edwards, and Mrs. Joe Fly, mother of Mr. Sullivan. Mrs. Edwards wore a stylish sheath dress of black peau de sole with deep neckline and very brief sleeves. Mrs. Morrison wore a cocktail dress of French blue silk organza made over matching peau de sole and designed with a draped bell skirt and deep neckline. Mrs. Sullivan wore black brocade fashioned with a widely flared skirt and closely fitted bodice with deep V neckline. Each of the honorees had a corsage of white carnations.

The tea table was draped with a handsome cutwork cloth. Centering the table was a large crystal epergne filled with pink candles and pink wiggly flowers. Mrs. Harvey Maddox and Mrs. W. F. Clark presided at the silver tea services which were at either end of the table. Delicious tea dainties were served. Assisting with the serving of the guests were Miss Ann Caldwell, Mrs. Gilson Latta, Miss Gertrude Murphy, and Mrs. Leslie Weeks. Mrs. Caldwell presented each honoree with Madeira pillow cases and an attractive cook book.

A large number of guests called between the hours from four to six o'clock.

TAYLOR, JONES—

Charlie rolls a conventional grip ball with a slight hook. A 250 game and a 696 series in open bowling are proof that his ball has plenty of working action. His best game and series in league have been 242-625.

Charlie had never had much success in tournaments until this season when he captured the singles title in the Mayfield City Association Championships. Fulton is a member of the Mayfield association, which accounts for his entry in the tourney. He whipped out a 625 scratch series and had 673 with his handicap in taking the title.

Both Zane and Charlie are members of bowling families. Charlie's 15-year-old daughter, Pat, is a substitute in the Ferry-Morse League in which she carries a 138 average. And Zane's husband, Dan, is an avid bowler and one of the best in Fulton.

Jet Lanes has every reason to be proud of Zane and Charlie. Not only are they the top average bowlers there, but they are also two of the establishment's best customers.

Sawmill Firms Warned: Don't Hire Youths

Since an 18-year age minimum applies to work in most sawmilling and logging jobs, Regional Director Pat Melon of the U. S. Labor Department urged local lumbermen to make sure of the ages of the youths they are hiring for summer jobs. This age minimum is because of the hazardous type of work the boys are required to do.

"The easiest way to avoid unintentional violation of the law is to require an age or employment certificate for each young boy hired," Melon adds. This certificate, which serves as proof of age under the law, shows whether or not he is of legal age.

Hiway Officials
Of Four States
To Talk Routing

Highway officials of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Illinois will gather at Kentucky Dam Village May 15 to private attempt to work out a routing on the controversial Interstate-24.

This is the route that is going to cross Western Kentucky somewhere and end in Nashville.

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward noted Tuesday that Nashville is definitely the eastern terminus and that four recommendations were under study for the western terminus.

He named these as Charleston, Mo.; Cairo, Ill.; Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Pulley's Mill, Ill.

Ward said there are many different routes that 1-24 can follow from Nashville to either one of the proposed western locations to serve as a connecting link for traffic headed toward St. Louis.

He added all possibilities will be explored and, after a final decision is agreed upon, a formal recommendation will go before the United States Bureau of Public Roads within three or four months.

STATE BENEFITS

ton received $40,000.

Under supervision of the Division of Soil and Water Resources, the Reelfoot-Indian Lake watershed project was started in 1960. The Division of Forestry distributed 17,918,525 seedlings in Kentucky last year. Fulton County used 12,500 of these.

The 21 counties receiving aerial and ground mosquito spraying service last year from the State Department of Agriculture included Fulton. The agency said 185,000 mosquito-infested areas were treated in 1960—more than in any previous year.

"Apart from direct local expenditures, Fulton County, like every Kentucky county, benefits from the services of each agency of State government," Gov. Bert Combs said in discussing State services.

"There's no yardstick for dividing the activities of most departments into 120 hunks to show to what extent citizens of a particular county were served. But it's obvious that all Kentuckians benefit from the State funds which operate the Courts, the Legislature, the University, the five State Colleges, the 14 vocational training schools, the schools for the blind and the deaf, the State's four mental hospitals, six tuberculosis hospitals, and the Kentucky Training Home," the Governor continued.

All counties, the Governor pointed out, benefit from the statewide services of the State Health Department, the Commission for Handicapped Children, the Child Welfare Department, and the vital departments of Agriculture, Conservation, Parks, Highways, Economic Development and Aeronautics. People in all areas benefit also from the services of the tourist and travel promotion program, the Military Department, the Department of Public Safety, State Police, Mines and Minerals, the Attorney General's Department, and the State's reformatory for men and women and the State Prison.

SPUD EDWARDS

should have been, but then sometimes you didn't think they were needed, he seemed to enjoy being nice to people so much.

For years Spud was agent for the Commercial Appeal in Fulton. One friend said of him "All the years that he carried the paper I never got a wet one and if one did get in the water, Spud would set to it that I got another one. He was the most considerate man I ever knew," he said.

Few people in Fulton undertook more projects for livelihood than did Spud and he worked at all of them diligently. He was custodian of the Country Club, contractor for tree surgery for Kentucky Utilities and he did other contracts of this nature on his own; he went into the quail raising business last year and this year was to be in full production; he was part owner of a sub-division; he was Magistrate; and for whatever the name of the business, I called him to do work on the radio station tower.

Yet, with all this varied interests he was always pleasant, and always considerate. He was devoted to his family, his friends and his community. He was a man who shied away from publicity and enjoyed anonymity.

These things I knew about Spud Edwards and in extending my sympathies to Jane and little Jane and Ginger and Becky I want them to know that all of us have lost a kind friend and a wonderful citizen.

C. D. Edwards

Cornelius DeMyer (Spud) Edwards, 50, manager of the Fulton Country Club for 12 years and Magistrate of the First District, died suddenly of a heart attack early May 9 at his home in Country Club Court.

He was born July 27, 1910 in Fulton, the son of the late William Foster and Olivia DeMyer Edwards.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Jane Scates Edwards; three children, Ginger and Jane Edwards, and Mrs. Rebecca Miller of Bolivar, Tenn.; a sister, Mrs. Jack Burton, a brother, Jack Edwards and half-brother, B. J. Edwards of Memphis and several nieces and nephews.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church and was active in the Young Men's Business Club. For the past 12 years he had served as manager of the Fulton Country Club and is credited with the many improvements made on the local golf course, including the nine new greens that have been built during the past few years.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist Church Thursday morning (today) at 10 a. m. Rev. J. L. Leggett, pastor, will officiate. Burial by Whitnel Funeral Home will be in Greenleaf cemetery.

Active pallbearers for Spud Edwards: Joe Hall, John C. Bondurant, Foad Homra, Robert Burrow, Ernest Fall and Dr. J. L. Jones. Honorary pallbearers will be members of the Country Club and neighbors.

Members of the Fulton Country Club and neighbors will be honorary pallbearers.

The Princess is little and it's lovely. It even has a dial that glows and lights up brightly when she dials at night. You may choose her Princess from five soft colors—blue, turquoise, pink, white or beige. Better call us today and order this ideal gift.

SECONDS FOR SURVIVAL—I've often mentioned the Bell System's role in our nation's defense. Well, a mighty interesting new sound-and-color film, "Seconds for Survival," is available for showings. Narrated by Raymond Massey, it describes our nation's continental defense system and shows how flexible, reliable communications provided by telephone companies make it all possible. To arrange a free showing of this or one of many other films, just call our business office.
