U. S. Economy Experiences A Potpourri Of Ups And Downs

By The Associated Press
The nation's economy Monday experienced a potpourri of price increases and decreases, labor agreements and disagreements, additional layoffs and a prediction that the worst is yet to come for the unemployment rolls.

Meanwhile, efforts to put the energy problem in some order developed on the international and national scene.

On the energy front:
—President Ford returned from his weekend summit meeting with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing on the Caribbean island of Martinique with a compromise agreement over ways for the two nations to combat the energy crisis.

—A blueprint for a national energy policy worked out by administration staffers is expected to go to Ford later this week.

—The Senate passed a bill that requires 30 per cent of imported oil coming into the United States be carried on U.S. tankers.

On the economic front:
—Supermarket sugar prices fell as much as 70 cents per five-pound bag in some stores in the Northeast and U.S. Steel announced price increases averaging 8 per cent over two-thirds of its product line.

—Federal mediators entered the stalled contract talks for United Mine Workers construction employees and United Airlines pilots agreed to a new contract.

—American Motors Corp. announced temporary layoffs for 15,000 workers.

On the prediction front:
—Sen Edward M. Kennedy said there is a real prospect of a national unemployment rate of 8 or 9 per cent and he called on President Ford to provide mandatory wage and price controls.

The agreement, signed by President Ford and French President Giscard d'Estaing calls for both nations to participate in an international consumer-producer oil conference next year and make efforts toward preparing a solid consumer position on oil. The document outlined a series of steps intended to bring importing and exporting nations to the international conference table, probably next summer.

The Senate also acted on the energy problem with a 44-40 approval of a compromise measure that requires 30 per cent of the imported oil coming into the United States be carried on U.S. tankers.

The bill is aimed at protecting the U.S. merchant marine from foreign vessels that are able to operate more cheaply by using inexpensive labor. Opponents claimed it would raise the price of gasoline and heating oil.

Consumers in the Northeast received some good news Monday on the spiraling price of sugar — it was down.

The price dropped to $2.79 for a five-pound bag at many stores, compared with $3.49 a

Planners Elect Officers Tonight

The Murray Planning Commission is scheduled to elect officers for the coming year at its regularly scheduled meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at City Hall.

The commission will also discuss a possible provision for high density housing and hear a report from the City Planner, Dan Grimes.

SNOWY SCENE — Swirling snowflakes surround the shining lights off 16th Street as the brightly lit Education Building provides a backdrop on Murray State's west campus. Murrayans awakened this morning to find a thin cover of snow decorating the landscape. An extended forecast of weather for the state does not mention snow, but there may still be a chance for a white Christmas.

Schools To Begin Annual Vacations

Annual Christmas vacations in local school systems begin today when schools in the Calloway County System close for the holidays at 1 p.m.

The fall semester at Murray State University will officially end Wednesday and Murray City Schools will dismiss classes on Friday of this week.

Calloway County schools will be back in session on Jan. 2. The city system will reopen for all students except the high school on Jan. 6, which will be an in-service day for teachers at Murray High. MHS students begin classes on Jan. 7.

Registration for the 1975 Spring term at Murray State will begin Thursday, Jan. 9, at 8:15 a.m. and continue through Thursday, Jan. 9, at 8:15 a.m. and continue through Saturday, Jan. 11. Classes for the spring semester will begin Monday, Jan. 13.

Murray High students will be dismissed Friday at 1 p.m.; Carter students at approximately 1:15 p.m.; Middle School students at approximately 1:30 p.m.; and Robertson students at approximately 1:45 p.m.

At Murray State, seniors will register from 8:15 a.m. to noon and Juniors from noon to 4 p.m. on Jan. 9, and sophomores from 8 a.m. to noon and freshmen from noon to 4 p.m. on Jan. 10. Graduate students and students enrolling for Saturday and evening classes will register from 8 a.m. to noon on Jan. 11. Graduate students may also register Jan. 9 and 10.

Coal Construction Pickets Idle More UMW Miners Today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Federal mediators met in Washington this morning with negotiators for United Mine Workers construction employees and management, while, in the coalfields, picketing by the 4,400 construction workers idled an increasing number of their fellow UMW miners.

The formal meeting just before noon followed a series of separate preliminary sessions between William Hobgood, special assistant to federal conciliator W.J. Usery Jr., and negotiators for the union and the Association of Bituminous Contractors.

Meanwhile, coal industry officials said more than half of the nation's 120,000 miners were not working today, with more mines closed than on Monday.

Hobgood said mediators were trying to define the disputed issues during today's meetings and indicated an agreement was not close.

"It's really too early to give an evaluation for assessing the prospects of a settlement," he commented.

He said the government has entered the negotiations because of its concern about the strike's effects on the vital coal industry.

Construction workers are asking for benefits similar to those included in the miners' contract, including a pay raise of about 64 per cent, but also want extra-travel pay and unemployment.

ment benefits. It is the latter two items, apparently not included in a first tentative contract approved last week, that triggered the UMW bargaining council's rejection of that pact and forced additional negotiations.

Not since the general miners' strike began Nov. 12 were mine absentees at such high levels as Monday. An estimated 24,000 were idle in West Virginia and another 20,000 were out in Pennsylvania. About 7,000 stayed home in Illinois, another 3,500 in Kentucky, 2,500 in Indiana, 2,000 in Virginia, and 1,000 in Ohio.

Mrs. Hodges To Review Book At Public Library

Mrs. Helen Hodges, well-known dramatist of Calloway County, will present the Christmas story, "The Littlest Angel," at the Calloway County Public Library, on Wednesday, December 18, at 3:00 p. m.

This program is planned for 3:00 p. m., so as to include children from schools, and all school-age children are urged to attend. This Christmas story was last dramatized by Mrs. Hodges for children in Calloway County ten years ago, and as the theme of the story is timeless, it is sure to lighten hearts of the young and old with Christmas spirit again this season.

"Take time from your busy schedules to stop by the public library Wednesday afternoon for this holiday treat," Mrs. Diane Johnson of the library staff said, "and bring a friend."

President Expect To Sign Controversial Oil Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has passed an oil import bill the Ford administration considers contrary to the national interest, but the President is expected to sign it in exchange for congressional approval of a foreign-trade measure.

The bill, approved by the Senate 44 to 40 on Monday and sent to the White House, would require that 30 per cent of imported oil be carried on American ships.

The State, Interior and Defense departments and the Federal Energy Administration have criticized the bill.

Two months ago, Ford said he had serious concerns about the bill's potential impact on foreign relations, national security and inflation.

But the President is expected to let the bill become law. Senate aides say it was made clear to Ford last week that he would have to accept the oil shipping measure in order to win congressional approval of the omnibus trade legislation he seeks.

The House-passed trade bill subsequently was approved by the Senate and now is in conference committee.

Both supporters and foes of the shipping bill conceded it would raise the prices of heating oil and gasoline.

Opponents estimated the cost at three cents more for a gallon of gasoline and a total bill of $60 billion over the next 10 years. Backers said the impact on the price of fuel would be almost too small to calculate but forecast the total cost at about $1 billion over the next decade.

The compromise bill, which cleared the House two months ago, is designed to help American shipping interests offset the competitive advantage of foreign vessels, which operate with cheaper labor.

The oil-cargo bill is backed by maritime unions and opposed by major oil companies and numerous economists of all political persuasions, who contend it would cause additional inflation.

In another development dealing with foreign trade, the Senate refused to accept a compromise bill extending the Export-Import Bank's lending authority for four years at a $25-billion level.

In a series of votes, senators sent the bill back to conference with the House and insisted that the final version prohibit U.S. loans for energy development in Communist countries unless each project is approved by Congress.

In other business as Congress prepared to adjourn:

—The House backed off from an amendment which would have banned the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from requiring schools getting federal aid to classify students and teachers by sex, race or national origin and supply that data to HEW.

—The Senate passed 84-0 a $1.1 billion emergency unemployment compensation bill designed to guarantee most jobless workers a full 52 weeks of benefits in 1975 and 1976. The bill was sent to the House for consideration of a minor amendment. The House has passed the bill.

—Legislation clearing the way for construction of deep water oil supertanker ports off the U.S. coast was approved by a conference committee. The measure now goes back to both

A display of Christmas memorabilia, now being shown at the Calloway County Public Library, are from the collection of Dan McDaniel, owner of the Murray Antique Mall. Most of the collectables are representative of the early 1900's. Included in the display are an early Sears and Roebuck doll in her original clothes, metal toys, and a Santa Claus that was used in store displays. McDaniel also has an extensive Christmas postcard collection, part of which is being shown. Most of the cards have postmarks of the 1900-1920 years. The public is invited to come see these articles which are representative of Christmases at the turn of the century.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Last week I mentioned the amount of egg-plant that is grown in Israel. It was served to us in some form nearly every day and was delicious. I never cared too much for this vegetable, but would like to have the recipes they use over there. They cook it with herbs and cheese and it rivals a dish we ate composed of zucchini baked with the inevitable cheese and other unrecognizable ingredients, but always so very good.

But when you enter a walled gootie or mosque or chapel you find flowers. They evidently love them and appreciate them. Outside the old city walls there are beauty spots everywhere and I believe that all one would have to do would be to just drop a seed and it would grow. I was simply amazed at the size and beauty of the plants and even the trees. The soil is evidently fertile enough to produce anything.

Here at home there is little we can do but dream of the springtime to come. The sun is shining brightly as I write, but I hear that possible sleet is predicted for tonight. So we can turn our attention to our house plants and keep them in good condition through the winter. Each plant requires a little different treatment, especially its requirement concerning watering.

I have a palm tree that needs watering every day and seems to wilt without it. But next to it is a variegated geranium that doesn't need water but once a week. So check each plant and learn its needs. In other words get acquainted with your plants as individuals; you will enjoy them better and they will respond.

Even a child called out to us on the street. "Welcome Americana." It made our visit all the more pleasant to feel that we were really welcome. There were smiles as we passed and pleasant conversation with those who could speak English. The climate is about that of Florida. And by that, I mean southern Florida. Things grow so abundantly and lushly all the flowers and shrubs and trees are mostly outside the Old City walls. For the streets there are so narrow and so filled with people and donkeys and goats and sheep and myriads of children that nothing could possibly grow.

I was surprised that we ate so little fish, for the Sea of Galilee is teeming with them. One could ask nothing more of the meals that were served except for the bread. I still can't see how they get the rolls so hard and dry. All of us longed for just one hot biscuit or even a slice of nice soft bread. But we couldn't complain because everything else was so delightful and everyone was so cordial and pleasant.

Quota Club Has Party At Hospital

The Murray Quota Club sponsored a party for Women's Ward Nine at Western State Hospital, Hopkinsville, on Saturday, December 14.

Each patient in the ward was presented with a gift, donated by members of the Murray Club.

Special music was by Mary Lee Hudson, sophomore at Murray State University from Dyer, Tenn., who played the guitar and sang.

Refreshments of Cokes, cake, candies, and chewing gum were served from the table centered with a lovely floral arrangement. About twenty-five patients were included in the hospitality.

Quota Club members going to Hopkinsville for the party were Helen Spann, Virginia Morgan, and Dorothy Phillips who said it was in their opinion, one of the most rewarding and worthwhile projects the club had sponsored.

Progressive Club Has Dinner At The Holiday Inn

The Progressive Homemakers Club held its Christmas party on Tuesday, December 3, at the Holiday Inn with all club members present.

Several word games were played with prizes being won by Sophie Segreera, Ruth Daughaday, and Shirley Morton. The door prize was won by Freda Steely. Gifts were exchanged among the members.

Jean Richerson and Betty Hassell were in charge of the plans for the special event.

Those present were Vickie Baker, Jane Blair, Lynda Cooper, Ruth Daughaday, Marie Forrester, Lashlee Foster, Betty Hassell, Marilyn Herndon, Shirley Morton, Judith Nall, Norma Paschall, Jean Richerson, Barbara Rose, Sophie Segreera, Freda Steely, Glenda Wilson, and Bernice Crawford.

Roberts Home Is Scene Of Lottie Moon Meeting

The home of Mrs. Hollis Roberts was the scene of the meeting of the Lottie Moon Group of the First Baptist Church Women held on Monday, December 2, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Odelle Vance conducted the program on "Missionary Work in Rhodesia." Missionaries from Tanzania, East Africa, were discussed and letters were written.

Fruit was brought by the members to be sent and distributed the shuttins by the members. Mrs. Vance, chairman, read the prayer calendar with Mrs. Earl Warford leading in prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Vance to Mesdames Allen McCoy, Porter Holland, Purdom Outland, Codie Caldwell, Earl Warford, and Murray Turner, members, and Madelle Talent, visitor.

Magnesium for Hearts

Medical researchers in areas as widely scattered as Finland, England, Canada, South Africa, Canada, and the U.S. are turning up evidence that a deficiency of magnesium in the diet may be a factor in heart attacks.

Lumberjacks in eastern Finland who have heart attacks at three times the U.S. rate in spite of their vigorous, healthful life, are the subjects of a study sponsored by the UN World Health Organization and the Finnish government.

Dr. Pekka Puska, chief investigator for the study, points to their diet, which is loaded with cream, butter, sausages, cheese pastries, and refined flour. But this does not explain why the heart attack rate in eastern Finland is twice that in southwestern Finland, where the diet is similar.

Two other Finnish researchers, Dr. H. Karppanen and Dr. P. J. Neuvonen, have pointed out that the soil in the eastern part of Finland contains only one third as much magnesium as in the southwest, where it leaches into the drinking water.

This plus the fact that the Finnish diet is lacking in vegetables, whole-grain cereals, and other dietary sources of magnesium would support the theory that this mineral is vital to healthy hearts.

But the researchers have found even more evidence in the lifestyle of the Finnish lumberjacks. Their high protein and sugar intake increases their need for magnesium, which is required to metabolize them. At the same time their magnesium stores are lost in the perspiration created by their strenuous work.

The findings of this Finnish study are supported by many other studies. In animal experiments, addition of magnesium to drinking water gave protection against arteriosclerosis even when the animals were fed a high cholesterol diet.

Studies in England, Europe, and South Africa have shown that magnesium increases the recovery rate of heart attack victims. But more important than cure is the question of how still-healthy people can use this evidence to prevent heart attacks.

The answer lies in making necessary changes in diet to prevent a magnesium deficiency. Along with reduction in high-cholesterol, low-magnesium animal products, the protective diet should include generous amounts of vegetables, whole-grain cereals, legumes (peanuts, soy and other beans). Nuts, dried fruit and blackstrap molasses are also good sources of magnesium.

Pork cuts for any occasion

Pork comes in many shapes and has a flavor to fit any occasion and appetite. There are pork cuts that will be perfect for picnics, ball games, family meal or elegant dinner party.

Unfortunately, when many shoppers visit retail markets to buy pork chops, their knowledge of the availability and variety is limited. Most think of pork chops as a one-variety item, when the fact is that there are center rib and loin chops, blade chops, sirloin chops, boneless loin chops, boneless butterfly chops, smoked chops and many more.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1974

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Shun controversies which merely take up time and dissipate energies. Change your mode of approach if the occasion demands.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Look below the surface for more leads which will help you solve problems, get ahead faster in your occupation. Creative pursuits highly favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊
You may face some resistance, obstacles you had not anticipated. But you can find ways to skirt them. Largely, it will depend upon your perception, good reasoning and foresight.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋
Be alert: A thoughtless move could have more repercussions than you could possibly imagine. Emphasize your steadfastness, practicality.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
Restlessness or over-zealousness could send you off too readily on a detrimental bent, a truly wrong turn. Stop, look and listen before taking any action.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
Mixed influences. Organize talents and know-how to promote current interests more efficiently. You may be looking too far ahead at the moment.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Independence of thought and action should be stressed, but don't arbitrarily reject unusual ideas. A different viewpoint could give your efforts new direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Avoid that far-out limb which has neither been tested for strength nor offers good reason for examination. What fascinates is not always worth going after.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
A favorable day for routine affairs, but care needed in financial matters. Don't speculate or gamble in any way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
Job matters are likely to conflict with personal desires, but accept the situation for the present. It will pay off later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
An original twist or a new method could brighten routine, but don't go to extremes or attempt the bizarre.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
A pick-up, a brighter set of stimulating influences. Yet there goes with this (as with Aquarius) an admonition to avoid extremes, to curb emotions.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect; are highly objective and keenly analytical in your thinking; would make an excellent arbitrator or business counselor. Your talents are many and, being extremely enterprising, you could make a success of almost any career you choose. Fields to which you are most happily suited: business, finance, literature, the law, science, diplomacy, statesmanship, music and the stage. Knives and guns for a peaceful man's kids?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from a student who was unfairly punished for defending himself against another kid who started a fight.

You advised the boy who had been picked on to report the matter to the school authorities, since fighting on the school grounds was against the rules.

I disagree with you. Running to the authorities to tattle is a coward's way out. That would only make the bully more determined to get even.

I am a father of three boys who have run up against this situation, and the advice I gave them is as follows: "Never strike the first blow, but if the other guy does, then it's clearly a case of self defense, so you are perfectly justified in using anything handy (fists, feet, club, gun, knife, etc.) to wipe out the aggressor."

If this happens, and my child is about to be punished, he is to call me, and I'll be at school within ten minutes, and if it's a case of self defense, nobody will punish my child without getting past me!

My method may be crude, but it works. If my kids follow my advice, I doubt that any hoodlum will tangle with them more than once. I am a peaceful man and I detest violence, but there are times when it is the best and most convincing way.

MEMPHIS FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You claim to be a peaceful man who "detests violence," yet you suggest using a knife or gun! While exchanging blows may be justified in a case of self defense, no peaceful man would consider knifing or shooting one who threatens him unarmed.

DEAR ABBY: This morning when I got up, our house was icy cold! My husband asked me what the matter could be, and then I told him that I had had my bridge club over the day before. All the women in the club are between 45 and 55. One of the women got up and pushed the thermostat down—saying she was "burning up."

A little later another woman got up and pushed the thermostat up, saying she was "freezing." That went on all afternoon, and I suppose from all that adjusting, it put the thermostat on the blink.

My husband just about hit the ceiling. He said that if a guest is uncomfortable, she should tell her hostess, but under no circumstances should anyone ever touch the thermostat in someone else's home!

My husband said if I didn't have the nerve to tell this to my friends I should write to Dear Abby, and ask her to put it in her column. So I am asking.

CELIA

DEAR CELIA: So I'm complying.

DEAR ABBY: A man signed "Bugged" objects to his wife writing him notes to remind him of important things. I wish my husband would write ME notes instead of expecting me to read his mind. I sure could use an occasional note telling me when he wants something special for dinner instead of being told 30 minutes before I'm ready to serve.

I write my husband notes and keep the carbons so he can't say I didn't remind him of his mother's birthday, or that so and so is expecting a return call.

Note writing is a lot easier than reminding him verbally. Besides, if I remind him more than once he tells me to quit nagging him.

PRO-NOTES

DEAR PRO: Hooray for you. Lucky is the spouse who's "note-ified." I'm a note nut myself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UPSET IN PITTSBURGH": The Chuck who wanted to interest his wife in swinging did NOT live in Pennsylvania, far from it. About 1,000 miles.

North Elementary Parent-Teacher Club Hears Program By Students

The North Elementary School Parent-Teacher Club met Monday, December 2, at seven p. m. in the Commons Area with Mrs. Sherrill Gargus, president, presiding.

Bro. Heyward Roberts gave the devotion. Entertainment was by the chorus and guitar class of the seventh and eighth grades. The chorus led the entire group in singing the national anthem.

Mrs. J. W. Jones read the minutes. The executive board had earlier formed the by-laws which were adopted by the PTC.

It was announced equipment from the old schools to the new schools will be moved on December 14.

Tentative plans were made for a talent show and chili supper. Teachers are in charge of the Christmas parties for the children.

The room count was won by Mrs. Patricia Lassiter's eighth grade class and were awarded five dollars from the PTC.

Refreshments were served by the seventh and eighth grades. The January meeting will be held in the afternoon.

Down Concord Way— Christmases Of Past Are Remembered By Writer

By Estelle Spiceland

December 7, 1974

Instead of sending cards saying "Merry Christmas" if it were only possible that those cards could wish to all a "Memorable Christmas."

The Christmases we remember best were never elaborate. Really Christmas trees and jolly Santas never were a part of our pleasant memories.

But a Murray store window, Corn-Austin, I believe, decorated with an old snow covered rail fence and a frosty old black lantern, sent a pang of loneliness and loss for Christmases past such as we should not experience at the holiday season.

"Silver Bells," though a beautiful song, never pealed during our childhood, but joy bells rang from the rafters when the parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, and children had reunions in the simple, old fashioned, country homes.

Years have taken their toll until when we try to have reunions in rented halls in an attempt to recapture the spirit of the past, it is vain.

But in our despondency over losses of loved ones, the memory of Christmas together becomes more precious.

Mrs. Hylan Thompson who celebrated her 91st birthday at her home near Concord recently just last week fell and broke a hip and is in intensive care.

Mr. Kermit Kemp, long time high school principal at Buchanan School, then Henry County school superintendent, died Saturday morning.

So for many Christmas time will be sad. To all we can say you are not alone.

Calloway Chapter Of FBLA Holds Party At Home Of Mrs. Woods

The Calloway County High School Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America held a Christmas party on Monday, December 2, at the home of a sponsor, Mrs. Joann Woods.

The purpose of the party was to promote interest in FBLA, and the games played were designed to help the 1974-75 members become better acquainted.

Refreshments were served. The FBLA officers for 1974-75 are: Russell Hopkins, president; Stanley Anderson, vice-president; Patsy Kirk, treasurer; Mary Beth Cavanaugh, corresponding secretary; Pat Barnett, historian; Martha Outland, assistant historian; and Sharon Beach, reporter.

Thinner Dime

The Norfolk-Virginia Beach Toll Road people are disturbed over the growing number of motorists who're helping themselves to a free ride.... It seems that some just ignore the toll receptacles altogether while others try to activate them with slugs and washers.... But the relentless pace of inflation may in time prove even more effective in discouraging at least some of the offenders. Because the way prices have been going lately at your friendly neighborhood hardware store, just how long might it be before washers and slugs are worth more than dimes?

Ultrasound As A Diagnostic Aid

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Ultrasound as a diagnostic tool is growing in value. Some authorities think that ultrasonography may prove to be a medical advance equal in importance to the discovery of X-ray.

Advances in the use of ultrasound were summarized recently by Gilbert Baum, M.D., of the Department of Ophthalmology, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, New York, in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Ultrasound waves do not damage tissue. They are painless and harmless in the required dosage. The procedure can be repeated safely as often as is needed. The equipment is relatively inexpensive, portable, and even useful at the bedside of seriously ill persons.

As Dr. Baum describes, the examination is carried out by coating the skin with an oil or jelly. A small transducer, which produces ultrasound waves, is then placed over the area to be examined. These ultrasound waves enter the body and are reflected back, depending on the density of the subjacent tissue. The same transducer reconverts the reflected energy to an electric current, which is amplified, producing a cross-sectional view of the exposed area on a cathode-ray tube or recording it on a film.

These images are capable of showing soft tissue tumors or certain foreign bodies which are not visible on X-ray films.

In ophthalmology, ultrasonographs are a diagnostic aid in soft tissue tumors of the orbit or in changes in the eyeball.

Ultrasound can be helpful in studying the heart, its size, changes in shape during beating, and fluid accumulation outside the heart in the pericardial sac, caused from injury or inflammation.

Ultrasound waves assist in locating abdominal tumors and giving precise information regarding the fetus and the placenta during pregnancy.

Ultrasonography may prove even superior to X-rays in locating small tumors of the breast.

Improvement of equipment and new diagnostic techniques will likely develop more uses for ultrasonography, enhancing the quality of medical care and perhaps aiding in reducing its costs.

Q. Mr. C. D. asks whether tonometry refers to testing the eye.

A. Tonometry refers to measuring the pressure inside the eyeball. An increase in pressure is evidence of glaucoma, and this disease is detected rapidly and accurately by a tonometer applied to the outside of the eyeball.

Q. Mr. K. T. inquires about the difference between a stupor and a coma.

A. The difference is a matter of degree. Usually, a stupor is a suspension or lessening of sensibility, from which a person can be partially aroused. A coma is a deeper state of unconsciousness, from which the victim cannot be aroused.

Dear Consumer

Don't Cheat Yourself

By Ed W. Hantock

Attorney General of Kentucky

Make a New Year's resolution to stop cheating yourself! Yes, you—so knowledgeable about common consumer frauds like bait and switch, so able to pass by phony bargains with an iron will that exhausts swindling salesmen and a glance that would shrivel any fly-by-night operator—you may be cheating yourself!

Are there times when you lose money simply through carelessness—carelessness with something like looking over your monthly bank statement? If the balance doesn't correspond to your own calculations, do you dismiss it as a mistake on your part? Don't. Banks, just like any establishment, can make honest mistakes. Be diligent in your balancing and report any errors immediately.

How about your last grocery store visit? When the checker rang up your sale items, did you notice if the items were marked correctly? If they weren't marked, did the checker remember the correct sale price? You must be an alert shopper, not because everyone is out to get you, but because everyone can, and does, make an honest mistake now and then. Help prevent these kinds of mistakes and save yourself some money.

Another such situation may occur in a restaurant. You're eager to leave and ask for the bill. When it comes, check it over to be sure the correct charges were made. Don't be afraid of offending the waiter or waitress instead of offending your wallet.

Almost every consumer situation is open to error. At the dry cleaner or laundry, make note of what articles of clothing you have taken and check to be sure all are returned to you. When you receive a telephone bill, utility bill or credit card bill, look carefully at each charge. If you don't remember a particular charge, look at the accompanying receipt, call the company or store or write to the credit card company or whoever has the information. But never pay a bill that you're not sure is correct. Instead, put your doubts in writing before the bill is due to be paid.

If you feel that you have been a victim of some type of consumer fraud, write to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, the Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Kentucky. Kentucky residents may call on the toll-free hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

35 Years At MSU A Great Experience For 'Miss Ruby'

By M. C. Garrott

Thirty five years and 10 months of service at Murray State University ended today for Mrs. Ruby K. Pool. "Miss Ruby" is retiring.

For the past three years she has been secretary to Johnny McDougal, who directs the student financial aid program, and last Wednesday Johnny and her fellow workers in that office gave a big, going-away party in her honor.

Almost from her first day on the campus, "Miss Ruby" has been helping students get or stay in school—finding them housing, getting them jobs or loans, or just getting them out of trouble. They haven't forgotten either. Seldom a week goes by without one or two coming by to see her or bringing their children in to be "goochie-goochie" by "Miss Ruby."

"Some of them even call me 'Grandma,'" she said proudly the other day while looking back across the years. "It has been a great experience. I wouldn't take anything for it."

"Miss Ruby" has served under all six of Murray State's presidents. Her first job on campus was secretary to W. J. Caplinger, who was superintendent of the Murray city schools, and William Jonah Gibson, the first principal of the old Murray State Training School. He later became head librarian.

"I had come to register for college that fall," she recalls, "but the only course they were offering in commerce (business education as we know it today) was penmanship under Garland-Murphy."

So, she went to Murray High School and enrolled in the typing and shorthand classes there, courses she already had taken at Paducah Tilghman High School, from which she graduated in 1927. She had moved to Murray in July of that year when her father came here and opened an ice cream plant.

"That's one reason I'm in the shape I'm in today," she said with chuckle.

Starting at Murray State on July 28, 1928, "Miss Ruby" worked until June of 1932, when, in the throes of the depression, she was let go in a campus-wide cost cutting move.

"The first thing I knew, though, Norman McKenzie's wife had my job," she said. "Norman was a big football player and his wife had to have a job. Mine paid only $50 a month and was the lowest one on the payroll, so I guess they just figured they would give it to her. I've always wondered how that particular maneuver cut any costs."

"Miss Ruby" then married Kirk A. Pool on January 6, 1934, had a couple of children, lived in Louisville for a year and in Dallas for two before coming back to Murray for good in 1940 when Kirk opened an office supply store here. He died in February, 1973. The business still bears his name.

It was in 1943 that "Miss Ruby" came back to the campus for good. She became secretary to the officer in charge of the U. S. Navy Flight Preparatory Program. She later worked for the late M. O. Wrather in the Extension Office until being moved to the Business Office to work for the late R. E. Broach.

"Mr. Broach only had a year and a half to go until he retired," she recalls, "when he was hit in the eye by a piece of wood he was chopping. After that Preston Ordway took over as Business Manager of the college, and Mr. Broach took over the federal housing program."

"I went with him to keep the books," she went on, "and we kept up with 76 apartments, 32 prefab houses and 17 trailers. We became known as 'the keepers of Pregnant Hill.'"

"Miss Ruby" worked for Mr. Broach until then President Ralph H. Woods asked her if she would like to be secretary to the dean of students, and for the next 22½ years, she was the secretary to former Vice-President for Student Affairs J. Matt Sparkman, now retired, moving three years ago to the student financial aid office.

"We were one big happy family," she said, her eyes fighting back the tears. "It's hard to accept the fact that it's all over, but I've got a lot of fond memories."

She's got a lot of favorite people, too. . . . Johnny McDougal, "one of the finest boys I have ever known," Norman and Carolyn Lane whose children call her "Aunt Ruby"; Eldon Heathcott, who says she took him "out from under a tree" and gave him an apartment so he could stay in school; Tom Hogancamp, the vice-president for administration and finances, who she remembers "sweeping floors to pay his way through school," and the Hanson twins, Wally and Wesley, from Wisconsin and who make it a point to see her every Homecoming.

What's she going to do now that she has retired? "Not much of anything," she says, but she and Mrs. Lucille Thurman, who retired from the Business Office last year, are cooking up a real deal. They're trying to go around the world with the World Campus Afloat program at Murray State as secretaries.

I hope they make it. They deserve it.

Sensing The News

Economic Realism Needed

Whereas foreign policy was the primary concern of Americans in the 1960s, economic issues absorb the attention of our people in the mid-1970s. As a result, numerous conferences are being held at which economists, politicians and businessmen debate the economic fate of the nation.

One such meeting held in November was the conference on price inflation sponsored by the Committee for Monetary Research and Education in cooperation with the Georgetown University for Strategic and International Studies.

John Hagerty, a young Chicago banker, attended this conference as an observer for the U. S. Industrial Council. He comments as follows:

"Sen. William Proxmire suggested we turn President Ford's Whip Inflation Now (WIN) button upside down to spell NIM standing for No Instant Miracles. This sort of realism by Proxmire and other speakers is the most encouraging thing I have heard. We have been riding the wave of inflation like a welfare recipient in an unpaid-for Cadillac, and we must face the reality of paying for this ride in the next few years or even decades."

"Sen. Proxmire feels the major cause of inflation over the years has been a 'ponderous, bloated, burdensome government.' He reviewed several major areas in which we could cut the increase in our federal debt from an expected growth of $35 billion, which would be the largest increase in history, to $25 billion."

Mr. Hagerty cites the remarks of Prof. Hans Sennholz of Grove City College who "labeled government as the profligate of inflation, looting beyond all measure. He talked about the destruction of our middle class, the redistribution of wealth from one class to another and the falsification of normal creditor-debtor relationships caused by inflation."

Mr. Hagerty also cites the comments of economist Lawrence Fertig and Gary North.

"Lawrence Fertig said that the U. S. government can be no more stable than the morals and ideals of the electorate. This is a frightening and all too true statement. Gary North offered a rather bleak scenario of 15 per cent inflation burdening a large segment of Americans with the responsibilities of entrepreneurship which they do not want. When many find themselves unequal to the challenge and fail, the government will become the object of their wrath. Similarly, when a man has set goals in terms of savings and wealth, and finds his goals and efforts eroded by inflation, then he will certainly be very bitter toward something, probably government."

Mr. Hagerty asks: "So what happens?" The answer, he says, is much less dramatic than depression or war. He concludes that "We must continue to peek away at our economic problems with hopefully more intelligent fiscal and monetary policies."

"We must boringly plot through many years of decreased productivity and drastically reduced consumption. And most importantly, we must return by necessity to something resembling a Puritan ethic where people finance growth and consumption through savings not the printing press, where those who do not work are not supported by those who do, and where a large government has been cut down to a size where it works for the workers and not against them."

Worth Repeating

LAKE PARK, MINN., JOURNAL: "It seems that the government's continual increases in taxes is the biggest contributor to inflation. Rising taxes cause the producer to increase prices. In turn labor must have more to meet the increase in the cost of the product. The government then spends more of our money. It seems that a decrease in taxes and government spending could just cause a reverse of this trend."

LINN, MO., OBSERVER: "We may never be able to cure poverty but with the way prices are going and the present rate of taxes we sure are going to be able to cure wealth. It's got to be a businessman can't pay his employees a living wage. There just ain't that much money around."

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

PERCY INSISTS ON GAS TAX INCREASE

Senator Charles H. Percy (Ill.) "...Stricter measures have to be taken if we are to appreciably reduce fuel consumption. The gasoline tax, which I have favored, is one method which strikes at the heart of the problem."

"Tom Wicker makes an effective argument for a gasoline tax which my colleagues should find most interesting. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the Record." (Excerpts follow):

One Way To Bite The Bullet. (By Tom Wicker)

Now that the immediate necessity to face the wrathful voter is out of the way, both the executive and legislative branches should find the courage to take necessary economic steps, Right? So far, the indications are not so encouraging.

A gasoline tax would be the quickest and the most effective means of imposing the kind of oil conservation on American consumers that is the most useful response to the general energy crisis and to the threat of another Arab oil embargo.

A gas tax increase would effect that kind of conservation without affecting the more vital uses of oil—for home heating and industrial fuels. It would drive down demand, rather than reducing imports and making demand conform, as the French are trying to do.

A gasoline tax increase would have more anti-inflationary impact than Mr. Ford's proposed 5 per cent surcharge on income taxes, making the latter unnecessary. A ten-cent increase, for example would bring in an estimated $11 billion in additional revenue—taking $6 billion more out of the public's pocket than the surcharge would.

Somebody should also advocate opening the highway fund to general transportation uses. That's a logical next step after a gasoline tax increase, and just in case the public won't accept the latter, there's an old saying that goes, "You might as well be hung for a sheep as a goat."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

We suspect that Tom Wicker of The New York Times and most congressmen take a dim view of having to pay a 5 per cent surcharge. Statements that people in the low income brackets will get a income tax credit is phony inasmuch as they don't earn enough to pay a Federal income tax. Also the statement that, "Now that the immediate necessity to face the wrathful voter is out of the way," is proof of a shifty approach to an increase in the gasoline tax.

Isn't It The Truth

by Carl Riblet Jr.

Now that things are getting worse before they get better, we have more time to contemplate the antics and non-antics of the species Potomacus Exoticus, which is to say congressmen, and we note that the philosopher Austin may have spoken more truly than he intended when he said that the monkey is nature's sarcastic comment on the human race.

"The difference between monkey and man is in their tail and nose. Each has a lot of one but not so much of the other."

Sure-Handed Seivers Leads Vols' Upset Win

By JOE EDWARDS
AP Sports Writer
MEMPHIS (AP) — The Tennessee press guide describes wide receiver Larry Seivers: "Although he doesn't have the swiftest feet in the world, he may very well have the surest hands."
Seivers lived up to that billing Monday night as Tennessee edged 10th-ranked Maryland 7-3 in the nationally televised Liberty Bowl — the first major college bowl game this season.
Seivers, a 6-foot-4, 202-pound sophomore, made a leaping grab of an 11-yard Randy Wallace pass with 2:38 left for the game's winning touchdown.
It was the third time this year Seivers had caught a scoring pass late in a game to save Tennessee from defeat. He caught a two-point conversion pass to give the Vols a 29-23 victory over Clemson and caught another two-point conversion to tie Vanderbilt 21-21.
The victory over Maryland left Tennessee undefeated in its last six games this year. The Vols thus converted a disappointing 2-3-1 record at mid-season into a final 7-3-2 mark.
However, the victory was marred by a fatal heart attack suffered near the end of the game by the father of Tennessee Coach Bill Battle.

W.R. Battle, former athletic director at Birmingham Southern University, collapsed in the stands and was taken to Methodist Hospital, where a spokesman said he died at 12:35 a.m. He was 66.
The younger Battle went into the stands after the game and rode with his father to the hospital. He did not meet with his players.
The coach's mother had died Nov. 27.
Seivers said the touchdown play "was just a beautiful pass. We always practiced this. He (Wallace) told me he'd lay it up there."
The game was particularly rewarding for Wallace, who missed the early part of the season with a mysterious ailment that caused numbness to the left side of his body.
He was substituting for Condrage Holloway, who was dazed when hit on Tennessee's previous offensive series.
Maryland, champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference, had held the lead on Steve Mike-Mayer's 28-yard field goal in the second quarter.

The Terps, closing at 8-4, had four other scoring opportunities but failed to cash in on any. They drove to the Tennessee 20 after the Vols went ahead but Tennessee's Ernie Ward intercepted a Bob Avellini pass at the two-yard line with 39 seconds left.
On the play before, Louis Carter had thrown a halfback pass to Frank Russell, who caught it but was out of bounds.
"It was a question of mistakes," said Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne. "We moved the ball well, but we couldn't get any consistency in our drives. You have to give Tennessee credit for forcing the mistakes, but we gave them a lot of help."

Muhammad Ali Named 1974 Fighter Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali is the Fighter of the Year for 1974 and the man behind the world heavyweight champion, Herbert Muhammad, is the Manager of the Year.
Their election was announced Monday by the Boxing Writers Association.
Ali will receive the Edward J. Neil Award, named for the late Associated Press writer, and Muhammad will get the Al Buck Award, named for the late New York Post sports writer, at the association's 50th anniversary dinner next year.
Ali fought twice in 1974 — avenging an earlier defeat by scoring a unanimous 12-round decision over Joe Frazier Jan. 28 in Madison Square Garden and then regaining the title by knocking out George Foreman in the eighth round at Zaire Oct. 30.
It was Ali's second Neil Award. He first won in 1965, when he successfully defended the title by knocking out Sonny Liston in one round and by stopping Floyd Patterson in 12.

Wildcats Up To 20th In Poll, Memphis State Moves To 11th

NEW YORK (AP) — The Hoosiers of Indiana moved up to the No. 2 spot, dropping the UCLA Bruins to third in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll. North Carolina State remained No. 1.
Indiana Coach Bob Knight's team had victories over Notre Dame and Texas A&M last week to boost its record to 5-0. The Hoosiers received 780 points in the nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters, picking up 12 first-place votes.

The 4-0 Bruins, who did not play last week, dropped to third with 772 points and three first-place votes.
North Carolina State, college basketball's defending champion, received 33 first-place ballots and 868 points. The Wolfpack increased its season record to 5-0 last week by beating Oregon State.
Louisville, 3-0 after beating Florida State, maintained the No. 4 spot. The Cardinals got 617 points and were the only other team to get a first-place ballot.

5-1; Providence, 4-0; Oklahoma, 4-1; Kansas, 4-3; Oregon, 4-0; and Kentucky, 3-1.

Senate Bill Not Met With League Approval

By The Associated Press
A Senate bill that officially opens the doors for girls wanting to participate in the Little League baseball program has been greeted with reservation by Little League officials across the country, though all say they will comply.
In an informal survey of league officials by The Associated Press, all said they expected no moves to undermine the legislation, which was sent from the Senate to President Ford Monday.
The bill strikes all mention of sex from the federal charter granted the Little League by Congress in 1964.

Little League President Robert Stirat was the most enthusiastic in his response to the bill.
"We're pleased. This is something we asked the Congress to do. We asked them to take the word 'boy' out of the charter," he said. "We had hoped they would do it before this session of Congress closed."
However, other Little League officials expressed reservations ranging from housing to the safety of the girls who tried out.

Mrs. Jan Cochran, state coordinator of Little League at Waco, Tex., said: "We accepted this long before the final blow. We have advised our administrators across the state to allow the girls to try out, but they must meet the same requirements as the boys."
The director of Little League baseball in the West, Thomas Boyle of Los Angeles, said: "Certainly we will comply. We have already been gearing up to allow girls in 1975."
Still, he said, "we are concerned for their safety. We still feel girls, because of their muscular and skeletal structure, can't compete with boys in contact sports. I hope I'm not proven right in a collision trying to break up a double play at second base. If that's not contact, I don't know what is."

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Dan Devine, expected by almost everyone to be walking the unemployment lines today, instead has one of the most prestigious jobs in college football.

Devine resigned Monday after four stormy years as coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, just hours before the National Football League club had been expected to announce his firing. Moments later Devine announced he would succeed Ara Parseghian as head coach at Notre Dame.

The stunning developments began Sunday when Parseghian announced his resignation, saying he was exhausted after 11 seasons with the Fighting Irish in which he compiled a 94-17-4 record. The Packers finished their season the same day with a 10-3 loss to Atlanta, a three-game losing streak and a 6-8 record.

Devine was expected to discuss terms of his agreement with Notre Dame and how it was achieved at an 11 a.m. news conference today at the South Bend, Ind., school.

Packer President Dominic Olejniczak, who announced Devine's resignation Monday afternoon, said the club's seven-member executive committee, including himself, would meet Wednesday to discuss a successor.

He mentioned no names, but rumors centered on Bart Starr, the Packers' brilliant quarterback of the 1960s, and defensive coordinator Dave Hanner, who has been with the team 23 years as player and assistant coach.

"Yes, I am interested in the job," said Starr, who lives in the Green Bay area. He said his interest is "an emotional thing, although I feel it's wrong to make a major decision based strictly on emotion."
Hanner said he had not been contacted about the position, "and I've given very little thought to it. But I definitely have to say I'd be interested."

Devine, who will be 50 on Dec. 23, had a 120-40-8 record in 16 seasons as head coach at Arizona State University and the University of Missouri.

Hired by Green Bay in January 1971, Devine's mission was to return the Packers to the glory they had experienced under the late Vince Lombardi in the 1960s, when they won an unparalleled five NFL championships.

The Packers won a division title in 1972, but lost in the first round of the playoffs to the Washington Redskins. Devine compiled a four-year regular season record of 25-27-4 while under constant and growing criticism.

"While we won a division championship, we certainly did not accomplish what we had hoped," Devine told another news conference moments after Olejniczak had spoken. "I'm not sure, given the circumstances, that any human being could have."

"I have mixed emotions, but right now we want to remember the many friends we have in this area and the great players we have," Devine said.

"I am tradition- and challenge-oriented and I have always admired the manner in which Notre Dame has conducted its intercollegiate athletic program," he added. "I couldn't be happier with this opportunity."

"I'm leaving a much better football team than I inherited. I'm leaving a potential championship ballclub."
Only a few days ago, Devine had appeared desperate to stay in Green Bay in 1975 and complete his five-year contract.

"It would be a damn shame if someone else comes in here and reaps the rewards of all my hard work," he said last week. "This team is going to win 10 games next year."

Hanner said the decision caught the coaching staff by surprise.

"This thing had not been discussed among the coaching staff," he said. "I didn't know about it and I don't think anybody knew about it until today."

Indications a major development was pending began when Devine postponed his customary Monday noon news conference, saying he might have a statement by mid-afternoon. He spent much of Monday morning with his attorney, Paul Kalverkamp.

Olejniczak said Devine called him Sunday night after the team's return from Atlanta and the two had visited for an hour at Olejniczak's home.

"He requested the conference with me," Olejniczak said. "He did not submit his resignation then, but talked in general terms about it."

Parseghian, who resigned for reasons of health and family, had hoped one of his 11 assistants might be selected to succeed him.

"Obviously, the decision was not mine to make," the 51-year-old Parseghian said.

Parseghian, who will stay on at Notre Dame in a non-athletic capacity with the Notre Dame Foundation, is second only to Knute Rockne at the Indiana school with a record of 94-17-4. He passed Frank Leahy earlier this season.

"We have long been aware of Dan Devine's successful career at every level and in particular the great success he enjoyed in the collegiate ranks," said Notre Dame Athletic Director Edward W. "Moose" Krause.

"We are extremely pleased that he has decided to return to college football, and we feel fortunate in getting a man of Dan's stature to succeed Ara Parseghian, who added a glorious chapter to Notre Dame football."

Parseghian said he plans to remain away from coaching for at least one year in order to have time "to rejuvenate myself physically and emotionally."

North Girls Nipped In Overtime By Rebs

South Marshall took a pair of basketball wins over visiting North Calloway Monday night in the Rebel gymnasium.

In the eighth grade boys game, the Rebels eased to a 37-32 win while in the nightcap, the South Marshall eighth grade girls won a 34-33 overtime battle.

The Laker girls trailed for most of the second half and with just over a minute left to play, South Marshall led 31-27.

A charity toss by Stefanie Wyatt trimmed the gap to three points and then with 43 seconds left, a calm Sheila Lawrence put in a pair of free throws and the Lakers trailed just 31-30.

With seven seconds left, Deb McDonald had a chance to tie the game for the Rebels with a one-plus opportunity. But her first shot fell off and into the hands of Lawrence who was fouled.

After a timeout, which added even more pressure, Lawrence stepped to the line and hit the front end of the bonus to tie the score at 31 apiece. Her second shot dropped through the net, apparently giving the Lakers a one-point lead.

But the officials ruled she stepped over the line and the point was taken away, much to the disagreement of the Laker fans who thought it was a bad call.

South Marshall managed to get off a final shot which fell short of the mark.

Even without Wyatt, who fouled out in the final few seconds of regulation play, the Lakers played well in the three-minute extra period.

The scoring ice in the overtime was broken when Lawrence hit from eight feet away on the left side, giving North Calloway a 33-31 edge.

South pulled to within a point at the 1:40 mark when Renee Watkins netted a grattis toss and then with 26 seconds left in the contest, the Rebels went ahead on a five-footer by McDonald.

The Lakers had a chance with four seconds left but Tammie Turner's front end of the one plus just fell off the front of the rim.

Thompson, playing a brilliant game for the Rebels, took game honors with 15 points.

For the Lakers, Lawrence scored 12 points and played an outstanding game, both on offense and defense. Several times her great defensive play drew either charging fouls or walking violations from opponents.

Wyatt controlled the boards and played an outstanding game, scoring 12 points before fouling out. Kim Starks, also played a fine pressure defensive game, added seven while the other starter, Coursey, who also played a fine defensive game, added two.

The loss drops the North record to 3-2 on the season.

It was a very well-played game as both teams did an outstanding job of moving the ball and both teams played very aggressive defensive games. In fact, it might well have been the best girls game played in the local area this season.

In the boys game, South Marshall roared to a 14-6 first period lead and the Lakers never managed to recover.

At intermission, the Lakers moved ahead 19-17 but just like the outset of the game, the Rebels came out strong at the start of the second half and outscored the Lakers 10-4.

It was nip and tuck in the final period with the Rebels finally pulling away in the final minute.

Craig Rogers paced the scoring with 17 points for the Lakers.

North And South Meet In Blue-Gray Contest

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The North pits a high-powered offense against the South's super-quick defense in tonight's 37th annual Blue-Gray all-star football game.

Quarterback Steve Joachim of Temple heads the Blue attack. He led the nation in total offense this season with 2,227 yards in 10 games. He completed 128 of 221 passes for 1,950 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Kickoff for the game is 8 p.m., EST.

South Coach Dave Smith of Southern Methodist is counting on his defense to stall the North attack.

On his team are Randy Rhino, a second-string All-America defensive back from Georgia Tech, and two first-string Little All-American standouts, 261-pound tackle Gary Johnson of Grambling and 243-pound end Cleveland Elam of Tennessee State.

But it won't be all defense for the Grays. Quarterback David Fowler of Memphis State will be throwing to Georgia Tech's Jim Robinson and LSU's Ben Jones. Fowler completed 92 of 174 passes for 1,135 yards and seven touchdowns.

Joachim has top receivers in John Ross of Toledo and Mark Miller of Missouri. Ross was the nation's second-best receiver this year with 77 for 866 yards while Miller caught 38 passes.

North Coach Jack Christiansen of Stanford says Oklahoma's John Carroll, who can play tight end or wide receiver, "has been real impressive."

Running the ball for the Blues will be Michigan's Chuck Heater and Stanford's Scott Laidlaw. Heater rushed for more than 650 yards this season.

FOOTBALL

CLEVELAND — Nick Skorich, the head coach of the National Football League Cleveland Browns since 1972, was fired, owner Art Modell announced.

Tammy Boone Scores 20 To Pace Tiger Win

Using the 20-point performance by Tammy Boone, the Murray High girls coasted to an easy 39-23 basketball win Monday night at Fulton City.

In the preliminary game, the Tiger freshmen took an easy 51-24 win over the Bulldogs.

Boone, only a sophomore worked the baseline all night, hitting 10 of 14 field goal attempts in setting the single game record for Murray High girls basketball, which is in its first season.

The Tigers rolled to an easy 9-0 lead at the end of the first period and at intermission, Murray led 21-10, with Boone racking up 14 points in the first half.

With reserves playing for most of the third period, the scoring slackened off with the Tigers outscoring the Bulldogs 4-3 to lead 25-13 entering the final canto.

Tammy Curd tossed in 10 points for the Tigers while guards Cindy Jetton and Lynn Hewitt added five and four respectively to round out the attack. Starting center Melissa Miller was ill and was not able to play.

In the boys game, it was just as easy as the Tigers soared to a 16-5 lead at the end of the first period and in the second quarter, it was all reserves playing for Murray High.

At intermission, the Tigers led 20-11.

The starting five returned in the third period and scored 14 points, increasing the lead to 16 by the end of the quarter at 34-18.

Then in the last frame, it was the reserves running up 17 points while at the same time, holding Fulton to just six.

Murray pulled down 60 rebounds in the game while Fulton had only 18. Willie Perry and Frank Gilliam each had 11 rebounds while Tim Harrell grabbed nine.

Gilliam led the scoring attack with 12 points while Gregg Garland added nine and Perry eight.

Now 2-1 for the season, the frosh Tigers will play at 3:30 p.m. today at Reidland.

The girls, 3-1 for the campaign, won't play again until January 7 when they host Marshall County.

Mayfield Tournament Wide-Open Affair

Flip a coin between any of about five clubs and you might find a favorite for the Mayfield Christmas Tournament which will begin Wednesday night.

In the opening contest at 7 p. m., the host Cardinals play a tough Marshall County while in the nightcap, Calloway County will try to snap a four-game losing skid against once-beaten Carlisle County.

Games set for Thursday will find Reidland and Lowes playing in the opener while Hopkinsville and Hickman County play in the nightcap.

Marshall County has lost once, that being at home by an 82-67 score to a tough Cairo team.

Mayfield has lost once, falling on the road 63-62 to top-rated Paducah Tilghman.

This could be one of the best games in the tourney as both teams are nearly even, though Mayfield should be favored because of their home-court advantage.

Fans will get a chance to see two of the top players in the Region, Eddie Williams of Mayfield and high-scoring Larry McGregor of the Marshalls.

If the past two years mean anything, then fans are in for a real treat in the second game when rivals Thomas Jenkins of Carlisle County and James Wells of Calloway County run up against each other again.

When the two last met on the basketball floor, neither stayed in the game very long as both were whistled out for exchanging punches on the floor.

Calloway County must slow the ball down and hope to control the pace of the game against the lightning-quick Comets, champions of the St. Mary Thanksgiving Tournament.

But if the Lakers can't slow the pace of the game, then look for the Comets to win in a run-away, maybe by as much as 40 points. The first four minutes of the game will tell the story.

The Reidland-Lowes game Thursday could be one that will find the winner breaking the 90-point barrier or maybe even the century mark. Reidland would probably rate as a slight favorite.

If Hopkinsville hasn't seen Hickman County play, they could well be in trouble because a team will have to be ready to play against the slow-down type tactics of Falcon Coach Dale Ray.

Hopkinsville has come closer than anyone to Christian County, losing 88-60.

One thing for sure: There will be a new champion since last year's winner Murray High was not invited back. Wonder why? I've never really heard an official reason.

If I remember correctly, the Tiger fans showed up in full force last year so it couldn't be because tournament officials thought Hopkinsville would add more money to the event.

I'm still curious about the whole thing.

Don't Panic Yet

Don't panic yet.

After a non-indicative 102-77 loss at Memphis State Saturday, the Murray State Racers have a long layoff to get back in shape.

What happened?

We lost to a better team, that's all.

I honestly don't think they are 25 points better, I'd say more like 10 or 12.

Murray had a pathetic shooting night, and the Memphis State defense was partly to blame, grant it. But the Racers missed many shots they normally hit.

With Memphis leading 20-14, the Racers had the ball and Moffett shot from inside.

The ball bounced off the rim, which was still shaking because someone had grabbed it, a move which calls for a technical foul.

Grover Woolard stood at the top of the circle and with his hands, gave the "technical" call to an official who simply turned his back.

Fred Overton got off the bench, at which point an official timeout was called.

The official went to Overton, who was complaining about a technical foul not being called.

"You want a technical?" the official asked.

He then told Overton if he didn't sit down and be quiet, he'd call a technical on the Murray coach.

At which point, even though the Racers trailed 20-14, I pretty well knew the game was over.

Some fans in the county saw the game on television, on a station which isn't on the cable and they will pretty well agree. Had the game been played in Murray or on a neutral floor, it would have been much closer.

But it wasn't and the Racers will simply have to learn to live with those type things if they desire to improve the cage schedule and play the better teams.

It's all part of the game called "playing on the road."

Win Meal At Rudy's

I didn't have the time or space last week to run the question for the free meal at Rudy's Restaurant so this week, two people will be able to win.

Here's the question:

"With a minimum of 20 free throws scored, what college basketball team in the United States owns the best percentage for a single game?"

For the first two people with the correct answer, $2.50 off the menu at Rudy's is yours. Call me at 753-6977 after 5 p. m. Thursday.

And again, speaking of Rudy's, the Class A State Champion Murray High Tigers will be honored with a spaghetti dinner this coming Monday at 7:30 p. m. Coaches, players and cheerleaders are invited to attend.

Arkansas Report

Zip Zanetta has passed along some more information regarding the basketball team at East Arkansas Community College, which is made up of outstanding ballplayers from the western Kentucky area.

The team is averaging 94 points per game, second in the conference and they rate third in the league in rebounding, pulling down an average of 50.7 per game.

Freshman guard John Martin of Carlisle County High School set two individual point records, scoring 41 and 43.

Martin is averaging 29.1 points per game, which leads the conference and ranks among the top in the United States.

Tyrone McCuiston of Murray High leads the league in rebounding with 17.7 per game while another former Tiger, Danny Hudspeth, is third with a 12.3 rebounding average.

Tyrone is second in the conference in assists with 4.3 per game, John Martin fourth with 4.1 and Herbert Winfrey is fifth with 3.4 average. Winfrey is from Forrest City, Ark., the town in which the school is located.

Here's a quick look at their past two games: Against the Memphis State jayvees, in a 101-91 loss, Martin and Tyrone each had 27 points while Hudspeth had 18. Tyrone had, believe it or not, 27 rebounds, which must be some sort of record.

Last Thursday, they won 90-81 over Garland College, improving their record to 3-6.

Martin had 26 points, Hudspeth 22 and Tyrone 12. Mike Woods of Carlisle County, added 16.

In that game, Hudspeth had 20 rebounds while Tyrone had 18.

The team will get a big lift after the first of the year when Porter McCuiston becomes eligible to play.

Area Cage Picks

Area cage picks last week found me hitting seven of 10, bringing the season total to a rather poor 38-17 for a .691 pace, which should be up around .750 before long.

Here are picks for games around the area tonight: TILGHMAN at Ballard by 19, Cuba at FULTON COUNTY by 16, HEATH at Farmington by nine, FULTON CITY at Sedalia by five, Brookport at LONE OAK by 11 and MURRAY HIGH at Symsonia by seven.

Surprised? No, it's about time the Tigers broke their streak and tonight, against a good Symsonia club, would be a good time for it.

The Tigers have 16 games left and don't be surprised if they win 12 or 13 of them, or maybe even more. Because by the time tournament times comes around, people might be talking about Murray High's chances of going back to Louisville.

Morehead Wins 92-89 Overtime Game Monday

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Morehead State's basketball team invades Xavier, Ohio, Wednesday with a 4-1 record after a 93-89 overtime victory over visiting Louisiana Tech.

In other Kentucky games Monday night, Kentucky Wesleyan downed Southern Colorado 83-67 at Owensboro, and Cumberland defeated visiting Bethel 76-49.

At Morehead, George Williams hit for a career-high 29 points to lead the home team, and Arch Johnson added 19 in a scrappy game that saw the lead change hands 24 times.

The widest margin was Morehead's 43-35 halftime advantage.

Morehead tied it 79-79 on a Williams layup with 1:25 to go in regulation play, sending the game into overtime.

The 6-8 senior then hit twice from the foul line to put Morehead ahead for good with 2:28 left in overtime.

Louisiana Tech, now 1-4, was led by Lanky Wells and Mike McConathy with 18 points each.

Kentucky Wesleyan took the lead midway through the first half Monday night and never looked back on the way to its win over visiting Southern Colorado.

Lou Martin hit 18 points to lead Wesleyan's offense.

The visitors — playing their third game in four days on the road — took an early 14-4 lead.

But Martin led a burst of 14 straight points as Wesleyan moved ahead 18-14 and pulled away to a 39-26 halftime margin.

Southern Colorado, now 1-4 for the season, was led by John Provost with 22 points. Wesleyan has a 3-2 record.

Cumberland, led by Earl Black's 27 points, took a 31-20 halftime lead over Bethel and the visitors never threatened.

Melvin Harris added 14 for Cumberland. Bethel, now 3-4, was led by David Hale with 11. Cumberland is 6-4 for the season.

East Tennessee Rips Appalachian

BOONE, N.C. (AP)—East Tennessee State broke open a tight basketball game with just over 10 minutes remaining and handed Appalachian State of the Southern Conference a 96-79 defeat Monday night.

Bruce Curtis hit a field goal for East Tennessee to put the Ohio Valley Conference team ahead 61-59 and they were never headed. ASU went almost four minutes before a free throw by Chet Marshall put the score at East Tennessee-72, ASU 60.

Field goals by Charlie Stuart and Morris Tampa put the game away for East Tennessee as they took a 20-point lead with 3:07 remaining.

Bob Brown put in 26 points for East Tennessee. Stuart added 17 and Bruce Curtis 15. Tim White was high scorer for the Mountaineers with 16 and Ed Kane had 11.

The loss put Appalachian State at 1-6 for the season. East Tennessee State has a 2-5 mark.

Second-Rated Hooisers Score Easy 92-70 Win

By The Associated Press
Toledo Coach Bobby Nichols hadn't seen Indiana's basketball team since a 73-72 overtime loss to the Hoosiers last season in the Conference Commissioners Association Tournament.

Things have really changed since then.

"I think they are a much better team than when we faced them last year," Nichols said after the No. 2-ranked Hoosiers scored an easy 92-70 victory over the Rockets Monday night. "They're doing most everything better."

"I know they shot better and their defense is stronger than last year."

The teams were basically the same units which met last season. Indiana has all of its starters back. Toledo has four of five.

Southern California was the only other member of The Associated Press Top Twenty in action and the seventh-ranked Trojans nipped Houston 97-96 behind Clint Chapman's 30 points.

Elsewhere, Creighton's Doug Brookins poured in 32 points and held Southern Illinois' touted Joe Meriweather to five as the Blue Jays downed the Salukis 81-69; freshman Chad Nelson's 10-foot jump shot with 37 seconds remaining lifted Minnesota to a 53-52 triumph over Stanford; Ron Norwood's 18 points led DePaul to a 50-48 overtime victory over Rhode Island; Riley Dotson scored 22 points and Terry Thomas added 18 as Detroit rallied to turn back Bowling Green 82-69; Michigan State walloped Northern Michigan 91-59 behind Lindsay Hairston's 23 points.

SANTA'S PROBLEM PUP

CHAPTER 6
By Bob Boyle

When they got to the kennel she let Peako off the leash. He went to the big window in front of the kennel and looked toward Santa's house.

"That won't do you any good," Miss Kay Nihn said as she put a chain across the door.

Halfway through he got stuck.

East Side Court Sq.

Peako continued to look out the big window. It was made up of many small panes of glass that crissed cross each other. Miss Kay Nihn finished chaining the door and said, "Well, you missed your supper so you'll have to go hungry until tomorrow. Now good night and stay put."

As she left she turned off the light. Peako started to cry. "Be quiet," Miss Kay Nihn shouted.

After she was gone for a few minutes Peako went to the door and tried to push the chain back with his nose.

He couldn't budge it. He stood on his hind legs and tried to move the chain with his front paws.

It still wouldn't budge. He then tried to grab it with his mouth but it was too tight. The chain wouldn't move.

Peako couldn't get out the door.

He walked to the back of the kennel but found no way out there.

He went to the front window again.

He put his nose against one of the small panes.

He pushed and pushed and pushed.

Pop went the pane of glass as it fell against the snow.

Peako scrunched himself up, put his head through the opening and then squeezed his tiny body through it.

Halfway through he got stuck. He started to whimper.

But he couldn't move. His cries alerted the other little puppies in the kennel. They saw that Peako was stuck.

Two of the little puppies got behind him and with their noses they started to push.

They pushed and pushed and pushed and, suddenly, Peako slid through the opening.

He turned to them and wagged his tail as if to say "thank you."

He then turned and ran lickity-split toward Santa's house.

He went to the front door and breathed on the knob to make it warm. He grabbed it in his mouth and again did a somersault, and click, the door opened.

He closed it by pushing his nose against it and ran to the dining room.

But Santa and all the elves had gone.

Peako started to whimper.

"Hey, what's that?" Juniperperper said, as he rubbed the sleep from his eyes.

"I hear something, too," Jinkersnipes said as he awoke. "It sounds like a dog."

"You don't think it's him, do you?" Juniperperper asked.

"No, I don't think it could be Peako," Jinkersnipes said.

"Miss Kay Nihn said she put a chain on the kennel door."

Just then, Peako leaped up onto Juniperperper's bed and started to lick his face. He jumped down and then jumped to Jinkersnipes's bed and licked his face.

The two elves started to laugh.

"It's Peako, it is Peako," they shouted.

The other elves began to awaken.

"Hey, Peako is here," they said. "Good old Peako got out and is here."

The dog ran from elf to elf, licking their hands and faces.

"Hurray for Peako," Jasper said. "He showed old Miss Kay Nihn."

Mrs. Claus was sleeping soundly but the commotion awakened her, too.

Putting on her robe she went into the elves' room.

Peako ran toward her and started to wag his whole body.

"Peako, Peako," she said. "What are you doing here?"

Miss Kay Nihn will be furious.

After licking Mrs. Claus' hand, Peako ran into Santa's bedroom.

Santa was sleeping soundly in his red pajamas, with a huge nightcap on his head.

Peako jumped up and started to lick Santa's face.

"What's this, what's this?" Santa said. "What's going on? Who is licking my face?"

Mrs. Claus came in and turned on the light.

"Look who is here," Mrs. Claus said.

"It couldn't be, but it is," Santa said. "It's Peako. My, my, how did you get away from Miss Kay Nihn?"

The elves crowded around the door.

"Let him stay, Santa, let him stay," they shouted.

"Please let him stay."

"Well, it is late," Santa laughed. "And I wouldn't want to wake Miss Kay Nihn at this hour, so I guess it will be all right for Peako to stay here tonight at the foot of my bed."

"Now boys, back to bed," Mrs. Claus said. "We must get settled."

When the elves had gone, Peako went to the foot of Santa's bed and fell soundly asleep.

"He is some dog," Santa said, as he closed his eyes.

Attorney General Says Legislature Has Wide Latitude To Spend Budget

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The attorney general's office says the constitution gives the legislature wide latitude to spend budget money as it wishes without undue restrictions. On that keynote, it said Monday surplus state funds can be used to build industrial sites around Kentucky, even if the sites had not been planned under this fiscal year's budget.

Rep. Joseph Clarke Jr., D-Danville, chairman of the Interim Appropriations and Revenue Committee, raised that and two other questions. He said the projects—for as yet undisclosed locations—do not appear in the current budget and also were not in work papers submitted by the state commerce department—through which such money would be channeled. "The committee apparently feels there has to be a specific purpose and a specific amount in the budget to be effective," Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Runyan said. "This is not true. . . we are unable to find any legal defect or abuse of authority in the industrial sites allocation." The Finance and Administration Department claimed the sites were in work papers, but not shown in the budget because there was no money available at the time. A $125 million surplus has accumulated since.

Runyan said it does not really matter—that there was no need for the industrial sites to be shown either in the budget or work papers. Clarke also asked if the site of the new Human Resources complex could be changed legally from that specified in the 1974 budget. Yes, Runyan responded. "It is of no legal significance that the (finance) department has, for obvious and cogent reasons, merely changed the location," he said. Plans for the structure, estimated to cost $46 million, first envisioned a site on the Louisville Road west of Frankfort. Finance Department engineers balked when it appeared acquisition of that site might cost $500,000, and now the location is a state-owned farm across the Kentucky River from the capitol.

Volume increased more than 1.5 million pounds on Kentucky markets, but the average price was down 57 cents. Burley tobacco growers across the state sold 23,676,195 pounds for an average of $118.09 per hundred pounds. The average on the final day of sales last week was $118.66 on volume of 22,094,603 pounds. Buyers at Greensburg paid Monday's highest average price — $120.37 a hundredweight — for 702,444 pounds of tobacco. London's $111.90 was the day's lowest average price. Volume at London was 628,595. At Lexington, the largest market, 3,452,471 pounds of burley sold for an average of $119.54 a hundredweight. Markets close after Thursday's sales for a holiday break lasting until Jan. 6.

Five Persons Killed In Arkansas Shooting Spree

DENNARD, Ark. (AP) — Five persons were killed Monday in a shooting spree that started near this rural Arkansas town and ended 70 miles away at Harrison, authorities said.

Averages On Burley Are Steady

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Grade averages held generally steady as markets began the final week of burley tobacco auctions before the holiday break. The Federal-State Market News Service said quality changed very little Monday and volume ranged from medium to heavy at most markets in the burley belt.

Volume increased more than 1.5 million pounds on Kentucky markets, but the average price was down 57 cents. Burley tobacco growers across the state sold 23,676,195 pounds for an average of $118.09 per hundred pounds. Darrell Samuel Davis, believed to be in his 20s, was jailed at Harrison in connection with the deaths of his father, two of his brothers, a sister-in-law and a motel operator, said Van Buren County Coroner Dr. John A. Hall.

State police said no charges had been filed yet and that the shootings apparently had resulted from a family problem.

The four members of Davis' family were killed about 1 p.m., the coroner said. The body of the fifth victim was found at the Sands Motel where Davis had registered about 4 p.m., authorities said. Davis was arrested a short time later at the Harrison bus station.

State police identified four of the victims as Davis' father, Ward Samuel Davis, 83; Davis' brothers, Oren, 43, and Dale, 56, and Dale's wife, Shirley, 46. The bodies of Ward and Oren Davis were found in their house about five miles west of Dennard in Van Buren County.

Dale and Shirley Davis were killed in their house about one-fourth of a mile from the other Davis house. Their bodies were discovered by their daughter, Marsha Gail Davis, 17, when she returned home from school.

In Little Rock, Maj. W.A. Tudor of the state police said telephone lines had been cut in the Dennard area and he was having trouble getting information. He did not know why the lines were cut, and added: "It's so remote that we don't have radio contact with our people."

In Harrison, Boone County authorities identified the motel operator as Bill Martin, 47, a former state policeman.

Authorities said Martin became suspicious of Darrell Davis when he registered at the Sands Motel. Martin telephoned Lt. Jim Stobaugh, assistant commander of the state police at Harrison.

Stobaugh, who had heard a radio dispatch about the Dennard shootings, immediately went to the motel and found Martin's body in the motel office. Martin had been shot twice.

Authorities then discovered that Davis had called a taxi from a nearby motel.

THE SOUNDS OF CHRISTMAS was the first presentation in a week-long series of programs at the Calloway County Public Library. The program, presented Monday, was presented by students of Murray State University, coordinated by Henry Bannon. (Staff Photo by David Hill)

Development Of Synthetic Tobacco Not Viewed As Serious Threat Here

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The development of synthetic tobacco is not viewed as a serious threat to the Kentucky burley market by the director of the Tobacco and Health Research Institute here.

Dr. John Wyatt told members of the Kentucky Tobacco Research Board that manufacturers want the synthetic smoking materials to "fill the gap" between burley production levels and the anticipated demand for tobacco.

Wyatt said a partially synthetic cigarette could be on the market by 1978, which would contain from 10 to 20 per cent of new smoking materials because "that is the range in which you can mask it."

Wyatt said he doubts that cigarette composition will ever be as high as 50 per cent synthetic.

Despite Wyatt's optimistic view that synthetic materials will be used only as "extenders" in the manufacture of cigarettes, some board members voiced concern that Kentucky burley production is being threatened by the development of the new materials. A split developed between board members over whether the direction of the research now being done at the University of Kentucky should change. The board was created in 1970 to oversee tobacco and health research projects.

The law directs the board to channel state funds toward "improvements in the tobacco industry, and more specifically toward proving or disproving questions of health hazards to tobacco users and toward preserving and strengthening the tobacco industry in Kentucky."

Dr. Charles E. Barnhart, dean of the UK College of Agriculture said he felt the board should re-examine the direction tobacco research is going at UK.

"I have a strong feeling that we have a number of conditions and forces working adversely for the tobacco farmer that we need to give our attention to," he said.

The board should become involved in aspects of tobacco production such as marketing, labor and growing problems, he said.

Referring to the board's statutory obligation to study tobacco and its relationship to health, Barnhart said, "It doesn't make any difference if we solve the problem of the relationship of burley to health if by the time we solve it we're not growing burley any more."

Barnhart's comments drew a strong reaction from Dr. Alvin Morris, UK's representative on the board, who said the tobacco and health issue is still the major one before the board.

Morris told Barnhart that the study of burley production belongs in the college of agriculture, and questioned whether enlarging the board's role would be within the law.

Barnhart replied that it was a question of interpretation of the law.

Dr. Arthur A. Stein, scientific technical advisor to the board, suggested that the board could examine aspects of tobacco production as they relate to the health issue, but warned that the board must have a focus. "The dollars that this board controls will lose their impact if funneled into broad areas," he said.

Harris said the board would ask the attorney general's office to interpret the law.

"We should proceed to have a thorough understanding of legally how far we can go with what," he said. "And see if we want to change our direction." "It's evident that there are things we need to pursue in light of new information... that we have neglected in the past," he added.

Officials Seeking Return Of Hijacker From Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The pilot of the first American plane hijacked to Cuba since 1972 said he feared for his life after the gunman threatened to shoot him in the leg if he tried anything.

"I was scared," Tampa charter pilot Frank Haigney said after his safe return to Miami Monday night. "I asked him nine or 10 times not to shoot me."

Haigney, 30, said the lone gunman talked little during the flight and the only reason he gave for the hijacking was that "he was tired of living in the United States and it was his mission to go to Cuba."

The man, described by Haigney as balding and in his early 40s, was taken into custody by Cuban officials on his arrival in Havana Saturday night.

FBI officials, who were still attempting to identify the hijacker, said they would seek to have him returned to the United States under terms of a

Pre-Christmas Verdict In Cover-Up Trial Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — On one side, an argumentative witness. On the other, a dogged prosecutor. In the middle, a federal judge impatient with the slogging pace of the Watergate cover-up trial.

Determined to speed things up, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica sought to put a quick end today to the cross-examination of defendant Robert C. Mardian.

Sirica warned assistant prosecutor Jill Wine Volner on Monday she would have only an hour today to conclude her questioning of Mardian, a witness who coupled his answers with challenges, lectures and occasional disdain.

The judge said the last of the defendants, Kenneth W. Parkinson, would begin presenting his case this afternoon. The attorney for the former re-election committee lawyer said his defense would take 2-2 1/2 days, making a pre-Christmas verdict unlikely.

Mardian, Parkinson, John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice. All but Mardian also are accused of obstructing justice and there are perjury charges against Mitchell, Ehrlichman and Haldeman.

Mardian, a former assistant attorney general under Mitchell, reacted angrily to some of Mrs. Volner's questions. Pressed whether Mitchell was present when Mardian learned that the June 17, 1972 Watergate burglary was the second entry into Democratic headquarters, Mardian said:

"Mrs. Volner, I don't know how your mind works. I know how my mind works. I can't recall what I did. I can recall what I didn't do."

When the prosecutor suggested that Mardian expressed shock at learning the burglary involved re-election committee employees because he worried about the effect on Richard M. Nixon's re-election, Mardian replied: "I can tell you, I was utterly shocked by the White House horrors that were dumped on me that day. To say I wasn't concerned about its effect on the campaign would be ridiculous."

After a long complex question, Mardian said: "I'm not going to dignify that with an answer. If you want to make another speech, go ahead." But shortly later, Mardian apologized.

Mardian was appointed by Mitchell to handle the re-election committee's legal affairs after the break-in. Mardian told of interviewing burglar squad chief G. Gordon Liddy and learning that Liddy's men had been involved in the Ellsberg psychiatrist break-in and the spiriting away of Dita Beard during the ITT hearings.

Mardian insisted he didn't go to prosecutors with what Liddy told him because he was acting as the committee's lawyer and protecting information given to him in confidence.

One Injured In Accident

One person was injured in a one-car accident this morning at 6:55 a.m. north of Murray. State Trooper Guy Turner said a car driven by Patricia Rowe, 19, Route One Hardin, was going south on Highway 641 when it went out of control on a bridge about six miles north of Murray.

Miss Rowe was treated and released for cervical strain at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital, according to authorities.

SECOND TIME — Sheriff Maurice Wilson and Deputy Benjie Jackson stand behind the goods from the most recent of the department's continuing series of raids in the county. This time, the home of Terry Tulley, 121 South, was raided for the second time in recent weeks, and 110 cans of beer and four fifths of liquor were confiscated. Tulley was released on $500 bond, charged with possession of alcohol for purpose of sale in a local dry option territory.

The authentic Jefferson Cup.

In 1810, Thomas Jefferson designed a handsome, round bottomed drinking cup. He commissioned a Virginia silversmith to craft eight cups in silver lined with gold. Jefferson treasured them highly, and bequeathed seven to his daughter for her children. Steff faithfully reproduced the eight-ounce Jefferson Cup (as well as two-ounce miniatures), for you and your family. It is the only authentic reproduction available—truly something to treasure and hand down.
