Nineteen TVA employees recently completed a 15-lecture hour course in blueprint reading. The Continuing Education Course was taught by William C. Adams, Jr., a teaching assistant from Murray State University in the Department of Industry and Technology. The course was designed to teach students to read and understand blueprints, centered on TVA work drawings of the type used in Land Between The Lakes. Drawings covered in the class included architectural, structural, electrical, and mechanical. Employees completing the course included: front row, 1.r. Noble Mitchell, Cadiz; James S. Outland, Murray; Thomas G. Melton, Grand Rivers; Harvey L. Tucker, Kevil; Donald R. Thorn, Murray; Walter G. Daivs, Smithland; Carroll L. Jones, Benton; William C. Adams. Jr., teaching assistant. Back row, 1.r. Carlee Saylors, Murray; J. L. Hendricks, Cadiz; Douglas E. Mitchell, Cadiz; James Cox, Cadiz; Carl W. Butler, Dexter, Luke Woodward, Murray; Larry E. Cossey, Cadiz; Donald E. Anderson Charges Eisenhower Deceived During 1958 Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) - High U.S. military officials deliberdeceived President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1958 during the Quemoy-Matsu crisis in an attempt to use nuclear weapons, columnist Jack Anderson says.

Citing documents that were stolen from Daniel Ellsberg's home in the San Francisco area earlier this month and later turned over to a congressional committee, Anderson said Pentagon officials wanted to use tactical nuclear weapons to destory China's underground munitions dumps and gun en-

Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles went ahead with tentative plans to use nuclear weapons against Communist China. Meantime, the Quemoy-Matsu crisis sim-mered down and there was no actual American military in volvement.

Anderson said details of the deception were collected in a 1967 Rand Corp. report by Morton H. Halperin. When Ellsberg was with Rand, he had official access to the Halperin report and later made a copy of it in hopes he could someday testify about it to Congress.

The study was among the documents stolen in the burglary of Ellsberg's home but cost-price squeeze is threatening to take a healthy bite out of a record corn crop predicted by the government for 1975, agricultural experts say.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has forecast that good weather could stimulate a 6.7 billion bushel crop.

But the president of the National Corn Growers Association says a larger supply of corn will mean a lower price for farmers — who may divert acreage to other crops like soybeans. He thinks the government projection is about 600 million bushels too high.

A University of Illinois expert would still surpass the current record of 5.64 billion bushels set in 1973. In 1974 the crop was a disappointing 4.62 billion bush-

"We look for the real possibility for the price of corn to decline to the cost of production level or maybe even below it in the next 12 months with aver-age weather," said Walter Goeppinger of Boone, Iowa, the NCGA president.

He said inflation and the demand for products required to meet the official projection are driving up production costs.

"We are going to see a pricecost squeeze here," he said.

a reduction in the price of corn and an increase in the price of operation still further.

Corn has sold at about $3 a bushel recently, and by planting time the price could fall more than 50 cents, Goeppinger said. He compared that with a production cost of $2.47 a bushel on land that will produce an average yield, about 125 bushels an acre.

"I think that's right. I think that obviously it is going to be much closer than it has been in the last two years," said Dr. Royce Hinton, a University of Illinois specialist in farm management.

Corn fertilizer prices doubled in the past year and other costs also rose — for seed, land, farm machinery, fuel and other

wants Abby choose his wife

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a big decision to make and I need your help. My wife died 14 months ago. She was 41, and I am 39. We never had any children as she was never strong

Two women came into my life and both are pressing for Two women came into my life and both are pressing for marriage. One is a fine lady who could give me an easy life. By that I mean a place in society, a beautiful home and a very, very secure income. I would never have to worry about money with this lady. She is a widow who says she is 51, and she looks it—and more. She can't give me a very exciting lovelife, however, as she is quite dried up and not a beauty by any means. beauty by any means.

The other woman has nothing to offer except herself. An exciting lovelife would be assured with this one. She is very good to look at, and is only 28.

If I knew I would live to a ripe old age, I'd marry the widow, but if I could be sure I would die in 10 to 15 years from now I would marry the younger one.

Please don't leave this decision up to me. One day I think one way and the next day I change my mind. Thank you. CAN'T DECIDE

DEAR CAN'T: If you think I am going to choose your wife for you, you're mistaken. That's a choice you'll have to make yourself. Nobody knows how long he'll live, but it's wise to live as though there will be a tomorrow—because

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I am out of my mind, but I have always had the feeling that they gave me the wrong baby when I left the hospital.

The "baby" is now 15 years old and I can't get this notion out of my head.

I have the baby's little footprint on the certificate of hith and I know footprints don't change on I wonder if birth, and I know footprints don't change, so I wonder if you would think I was crazy if I asked my daughter to step in some ink and make another footprint to compare to the one of her certificate? Thank you for not laughing. WRONG BABY MAYBE

DEAR WRONG: If it will make you feel better, go ahead. But be warned: How will you feel and what will you do if the footprints do NOT match?

DEAR ABBY: My husband had a very bad heart attack a month ago. We live in the country and there wasn't an ambulance available, so I drove him 52 miles to the hospital. Need I tell you what an ordeal that was?

I stayed with my husband for three hours, then the doctor told me he was out of danger so I should go home and get some rest, so I went home.

In the meantime I had phoned my daughter and son to tell them about their father. When my daughter got to the hospital and found that I had gone home, she called and raised the roof, saying I should have stayed at the hospital with her father. Abby, she has brought this up several times since, and it bothers me.

I love my husband dearly and prayed for his recovery night and day, but my daughter keeps trying to make me feel guilty.

Do you think I neglected my husband?

DEAR HURT: You took the doctor's advice, which I think was very wise. Your daughter can't make you feel guilty without your cooperation. You KNOW you didn't neglect your husband, so tune your daughter out, and don't

DEAR ABBY: In reply to Mrs. M.H., you write, "What you are saying is that the secret of getting your children to listen to you is to listen to THEM."

Abby, I wonder how many people realize that there is a right NOT to listen. The late William Ernest Hocking wrote, "The speaker has no right to compel a hearing; there could be no right of free speech if there were not a could be no right of free speech if there were not a corresponding right not to listen. It would hardly do to make free speech free, and listening compulsory, though that might be a speaker's dream!" OLD FAITHFUL IN MEMPHIS

Ah, Wilderness....

Other than working out the specifics, Congress should have little difficulty approving President Ford's recommendation to add nine million acres to the nation's wilderness preserves.

Conditions that once made development of remote areas desirable and even necessary have changed. So have attitudes. No longer is conquest of new land imperative to our survival. Rather, the wilderness, or what remains of it, serves as a haven from what can be the stifling consequences of our success.

Mankind needs to make no apologies for using nature's bounties. But it is wasteful to take more than we need. If nothing else, preservation of wilderness areas assures that nature's grandeur will remain as an unspoiled source of inspiration.

There is an unseen bond between nature and the human species, long recognized by poets and sages as the link to a more 'relaxed and rewarding life.

We need not renounce civilization to live at Walden Pond. But it is consoling sometimes to know that Walden, or something akin to it, is still there.

Most '75 Cars On Unleaded Gas

By Ed W. Hancock

Attorney General of Kentucky If you're thinking about buying a 1975 car, you should know that most of these cars can only unleaded gasoline. Why unleaded gas? It has to do with keeping our air clean and protecting something called a "catalytic erter," a devise installed in most 1975 cars for the prpose of reducing automobile exhaust pollutants.

The catalytic converter reduces harmful carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in your automobile exhaust to harmless carbon dioxide and water. This means less air pollution for all of us.

The ability of this catalytic converter to perform is seriously impaired by even small amounts of lead, which is a commor ingredient in "regular" and "premium"

The 1975 catalytic-converter equipped cars tell you they're special. Labels reading "unleaded gas only" are found on the dashboard and in the vicinity of the gas cap. Most of these cars also have a special gas filler pipe which is compatible with—and only with—a special nozzle on all unleaded gas pumps. This is to prevent leaded gas from ac cidentally being pumped into your car's tank

The use of unleaded gas is said to increase spark plug life, reduce oil contamination and provide better fuel economy and improved

On July 1, 1974, more than 100,000 gas stations across the country began selling unleaded gas. By the end of December, 1975, about one out of every two stations in the country will be required to have at least one unleaded gas pump.

MAN OF COMPASSION

When it was rumored that Christ Jesus might preach at the synagogue in Nazareth on the Sabbath, His fellow-townsmen assembled there in larger numbers than usual. Luke 4:16-21

From His infancy and childhood it had been the custom of Christ to attend the services in the synagogue on the Sabbath. That was a regular part of His weekly routine. So, that was a memorable hour when He appeared in His hometown synagogue.

After the service had been opened with prayer, the first of the two lessons for the day was read. Then the Lord Jesus was officially invited to read from the Holy Scriptures and to deliver a message therefrom. Always alert to embrace opportunity to speak to the people, to preach, and to serve, He readily accepted the invitation. When Christ stood to read, the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was handed to Him. Turning to the sixty-first chapter of that great prophecy, which begins with the statement, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me," He read the verses which declared God's purpose to send the Messiah to preach the gospel to the poor, to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who were bruised, and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord. What

After reading that messianic passage in a most impressive fashion, Christ gave the scroll back to the attendant, who had handed it to Him, and sat down, which was a sure sign that He was about to speak. This was in keeping with the Jewish custom - they stood when they read and sat when they taught.

In front of Christ were the acquaintances, sociates, and patrons of former years. With the attention of all riveted upon Him, He made the explicit and startling declaration that Isaiah's prophecy was fulfilled in Him. At first, all had listened to Him with marked attention, astonishment, and wonder. They had marveled at His words and manner. As soon as they began to think about the claims that He had made for Himself, they became very angry at what He had said. They rejected both the Messiah and His message.

Luke 5:18-25 Upon His arrival at Capernaum, where Christ retained His headquarters after His rejection by the residents of Nazareth, He entered a certain house, where He always received a cordial welcome. As soon as it was reported that He had gone to this house, curiosity, concern, anxiety, and antipathy prompted the crowds to assemble there.

The Paralyzed Sinner There was one man who could not come to the house where Christ was because he was a victim of palsy, that insidious disease which deprives the affected part of the body of sensation or of the power of motion, or both, according to whether the memory or motor nerves, or both, are attacked.

Powerless to move, the man had to be carried by loved ones or kind friends wherever he went. Truly, he was in a pitiable condition. This paralytic was suffering from a still more terrible malady of which his disease was the startling symbol, namely sin. His palsy had rendered him impotent, inactive, and helpless, thus presenting us a picture of a sinner in the state of nature insensible of the exceeding sinfulness of sin, of the danger and misery to which he was exposed, and of the need of salvation by Christ. He is without strength to free himself from sin and to make himself acceptable to God.

The Persistent Saints With implicit confidence in the ability and willingness of Christ to cure their friend, four men lovingly and carefully carried him on a pallet to the house where Christ was teaching and preaching. Their inventive and energetic faith was evidenced by their persistence in overcoming all obstacles, even to the opening of the roof in order to let the man down into the presence of the Great Physician. They certainly manifested their faith by their works. The Powerful Saviour Impressed with the faith of the four in His power to heal their friend, and because of the faith of the paralytic, our Lord bestowed upon him that priceless blessing, the forgiveness of his sins. When Christ uttered those life-giving words, "Man, thy sins are forgiven thee," He spoke home to the deepest needs of that man, and of every other person. The fact that Christ forgave his sins and saved his soul before He healed his body proves that the soul is of greater importance and value than the

The Protesting Sinners

As usual, the critics gof busy. Was there ever a congregation without some critical onlookers? Far too often critism comes from those who ought to be rejoicing. As soon as the scribes and Pharisees heard Christ's words of forgiveness, they began to reason within themselves and to accuse Him of blasphemy. They did not express their hostility in words but Christ was able to read their thoughts, so He rebuked them. They were right in their contention that only God could forgive sins but they were wrong in assuming that Christ was not God. Their minds were closed and their hearts were hardened.

What an encouragement to all who need forgiveness and healing! This incident teaches us that any and all can come to Christ for the forgiveness of their sins and for deliverance from their physical afflications. He was on the day that He forgave, saved, and healed the paralyzed sinner portrayed in this lesson. Because Christ forgave his sins and healed his body, the man was filled with gratitude and glorified God on account of what had been done for him.

FRANKFORT-There are going to be several new faces in old places in state government when Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll becomes acting governor January 3 when Gov. Wendell Ford takes off for Washington to become Kentucky's junior senator.

Carroll has been announcing, or the reporters on press row have been speculating, about some top election people who will take over policy and direction positions under Carroll.

John C. Roberts, a professional engineer and Frankfort native, will become highway commissioner, assuming part of the dual role now played by former State Representative Paxton of Central City. Paxton now holds the title of Secretary of Transportation and highway commissioner. Paxton is expected to stay on as secretary of transportation, the top job in the conglomerate put together under Governor Ford's reorganization.

John Stanley Hoffman, a former state representative of Henderson and former county judge there, will become secretary of Environmental Protection and Natural Resources, replacing Tom Harris, of Carrollton, who carried the title of commissioner. Harris cound not be named secretary for he voted for the bill that created this agency under the reorganization plan. The constitution prevented his being named secretary, buy he could be commissioner of natural resources, an existing department before the reorganization.

Bruce Montgomery, Danville businessman and former manager of Kentucky Dam Village State Park, will become parks commissioner, succeeding Ewart Johnson who has been mentioned as a candidate for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primary next spring.

William Scent, former Revenue Commissioner and former U. S. District Attorney for Western Kentucky, will become secretary of the cabinet and commissioner of Finance and Administration replacing James King who is returning to his post at the University of Kentucky

Rep. Terry McBrayer, D-Greenup, who is now serving as head of the transition task force for Carroll as a volunteer, will become Carroll's chief executive officer. McBrayer has served as a member of the House for eight years and was majority floor leader under Russell McClure, a vice president of Morehead State University, will be deputy commissioner in finance under Scent.

Carroll is changing the press situation in the governor's office. He will have three men with John Nichols, former WAVE news correspondent here, as chief press secretary with Ralph Ed Graves, a state representative and weekly newspaper publisher in Western Kentucky, handling information for weekly newspapers and Hank Lindsey, a radio newsman of Hopkinsville, in charge of radio.

Les Dawson, former commissioner of Economic Security under Governor Edward T. Breathitt, will become secretary of the sprawling Human Resources cabinet, now headed by Laurel True. This division of government is the largest and covers about 10,000 employes, or a third of state workers.

These were the only major changes noted when this column was written but more can be expected in the future, but not for the

Carroll hasn't announced any definite decision about breaking up this unmanageable cabinet, but there is strong speculation that it may be divided into two or three divisions. Some employes in this division are still having problems getting their paychecks and services are not being delivered to the people as efficiently as Carroll would like.

There has been no mention about Gail S. Huecker who is commissioner of Economic Security in the Human Resources Cabinet, and presumably she will remain.

The same holds true for Elijah M. Hogge who is secretary of Consumer Protection and Regulation Cabinet. There has been nothing said about replacing Julian W. Knippenberg who is commissioner of Alcoholic Beverage Control in this cabinet.

Howard T. Sallee, commissioner of Banking and Securities, hasn't been mentioned in the changeover and he apparently may stay. The same holds true for Harold B. McGuffey, commissioner of Insurance, and James R. Yocum, commissioner of Labor, hasn't been in the speculation. H. N. Kirkpatrick probably will remain as com-missioner of Mines and Minerals since his name has not been in speculation and the same holds true for William A. Logan, chairman of the public service Commission.

Henri L. Mongeot, secretary of justice, is credited with doing a good job and probably will remain and the same holds true for Charles J. Holmes, commissioner of Damon Harrison, commissioner of Commerce, is expected to remain, but John Y. Brown Jr., who announced last week he will not be a candidate for governor, will join Carroll's staff in industrial development in a role yet not defined, but at Brown's choosing that he will not be a paid employe. Brown said he wants to contribute something for Kentucky.

State Government Report

State Investmnt Policies Criticized

By SENATOR CARROLL HUBBARD

MAYFIELD, Ky.-Any Kentuckian who would deposit their savings in bank accounts that only paid 5 per cent interest when other investment opportunities are available could be asked why they do so.

Our state government in Kentucky for years has put Kentucky taxpayers' money in accounts that either earned no interest or paid far less than the going market rate.

As is pointed out in the December 22 edition the Courier-Journal & Times: legislative subcommittee looking into the matter was informed last week that state Treasurer Drexell Davis has made available for investment an additional $5 million from state checking account funds. The change is expected to increase state revenues by about $350,000 yearly.

"But some $80 million in state inactive funds—the equivalent to money an individual would nut into a savings ac earning only 5 per cent, while $100,000 bank certificates of deposit are paying almost 8 per cent. State officials and bankers have justified the present arrangement by arguing that this enables the state to spread its inactive funds among most of Kentucky's 343 banks. That, in turn, is supposed to enable the banks to make more loans and stimulate local

"This argument collapses, however, when one looks at how other states invest their inactive money. As Courier-Journal staff writer Livingston Taylor reported, the state of Illinois permits banks to bid for inactive deposits. In the latest bidding, the state was offered an 8.24 per cent return, compared with the 5 per cent earned by Kentucky. Yet the money did not end up in only a handful of Illinois banks. In fact, 84 per cent of Illinois' banks have state deposits. (The big Chicago banks are excluded from bidding, although other types of state deposits are available to them.

'This state's investment philosophy should be to get the maximum safe return on the taxpayers' money. Political considerations, such as campaign contributions by some bank executives, obviously should have no bearing. Nor should haphazard attempts to stimulate the economies of various Kentucky communities. That sort of activity should be done directly and with legislative approval through

"Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, when he takes office as governor, should review state investment practices and policies. And the 1976 General Assembly should offer him firm guidance if Kentucky's return on inactive funds doesn't improve in the coming year.

State Bureau of Vehicle Regulation officers issued 473 overweight truck citations during that state agency's most recent reporting period, Oct. 26-Nov. 29, 1974. Included in the total are 207 citations issued to operators of overweight coal trucks, and 266 issued to carriers of other types of freight. Most of the latter were cited at the bureau's permanent weigh stations, which are located on the interstates and other major truck routes in Kentucky.

The October-November citations bring the total for 1974 to 5,492. With a month left in the year, the number of citations issued in 1974 is already in excess of the 1973 total of 4,764.

The number of strip mine permits issued this year by the division of reclamation in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is almost double the

This year, 1058 permits have been issued. The record total of permits has been matched with a record number of enforcement actions. Suspensions increased by three and one-half times over 1973, while fines have nearly doubled over last year. The division has collected $112,700 through November of this

Terry McBrayer, state representative from McBrayer and Hall on Dec. 12. They were the first appointments of his upcoming ad-

McBrayer, 37, has been volunteer director of Carroll's government transition office since Thanksgiving. He will resign his state legislature post on Jan. 3 to become Carroll's chief executive officer. He has served 10 years in the Kentucky House of Representatives and was elected House speaker pro tempore in 1968. He was named by his colleagues as Democratic majority leader in

"I was prepared to give service in the executive branch, but illness cancelled those plans," said McBrayer. "However, my condition is such that I can still offer something to state government." McBrayer referred to his plans to run for the office of lieutenant governor in next year's primary election. He shelved those plans in October when his physician advised him that making the political race could endanger his health

Hall, 42, who will be responsible for the internal affairs of the new governor's office, will be granted a one-year leave of absence from UK, where he has been dean of students and assistant vice president for student affairs since August, 1970.

Don't Eat Pet Foods

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

With the pet population at an all-time high, and with the promotion of pet foods very intense, it may be surprising to learn that all the pet foods sold in this country are not being eaten by pets. Some is being eaten by humans. Their doing so is a health hazard to them

Inner-city markets often have large sections of pet foods, the shelves being loaded with a wide variety. Consumption of pet foods occasionally is high in areas of the city where pets are

Department Agriculture defines pet foods as unfit for human consumption. This department of our federal government apparently believes that the amount of pet food which is consumed is in excess of that which could be eaten by pets, according to Louis Kohlmeier in his syndicated col-

Manufacturers are concerned, but they are not discouraging the practice except to say that a person should not eat pet foods.

The labeling is accurate and describes the content as "all meat" (some is horsemeat), "all beef" or "meat by-products with cereal." Included in some of the pet foods are those parts which are left over after preparation of meat for human consumption and include blood, ground bone, stomach and intestines, chicken feet, and other odds and ends of skin, fat, and gristle.

The label states that the content is for animal consumption but avoids stating that it is unfit

With the pressures of inflation cluding foods, the temptation may arise to subsitute pet or animal foods for higher priced items marketed for human consumption, especially the more expensive meats.

In this connection, it is worthy of note that the sales of meat for human consumption declined last year, while the sales of pet foods increased.

It is safer to buy cheaper but adequate foods (less expensive cuts of meat and vegetables. such as beans) than to resort to eating pet foods.

Q. Mrs. H. B. asks whether her mother-in-law, who has one good lower limb, will be able to get about on her other limb, which now has a stiff straight knee joint, a condition resulting from a recent injury.

A. Your mother-in-law should be able to get about quite satisfactorily despite having one knee joint which is fixed in an extended position. Such a disability is compensated for by elevating and tilting of the pelvis on the side of the injured knee, freeing the foot off the ground and allowing her to bring the lower limb forward for the next step. She will experience some inconvenience in getting in and out of an automobile, a chair, or a bathtub. Such fixed joints are usually free of pain.

Q. Ms. C. Q. wants to know the nutritional value of brown sugar as compared to white sugar.

A. The calorie value is almost the same, being slightly greater for white sugar. Brown sugar contains some of the residue of molasses. The principal benefit from the residue is iron

... Happy New Year!

Somehow we always associate the New Year with youth. Such an associate is natural. It is logical because both the baby and The New Year are beginning a life of their very own. Of course these youngsters eagerly greet the New Year, while the not so young try to stay the same age. But the New Year comes for all of us to gire us a chance to rid ourselves of old problems that disturb our peace of mind. New Year is for the aged too. But there is little to distinguish New Year for them. Their days, weeks and years all seem to run together. But the rest of us do need their wisdom. We must quit pushing our older citizens around and end more time trying to make each New Year a happy occasion for everybody. New Year time is bigb time that we spend more time seeing that our older citizens have a good time along with our young folk. Let everybody sing Auld Lang Syne this New Year, with new meaning, as we say Happy New Year to all.

Knievel Will Stay On Ground But Bartkowski Will Go To Air

AP Sports Writer STANFORD, Calif. (AP) Evel Knievel will stay on the ground but All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski figures to go to the air frequently Saturday in the 50th Shrine East-West Game.

'I think the thing to do in allstar games is emphasize pass-ing, because you don't have much time to practice and this gives linemen easier blocking assignments," said West Coach Ben Martin of Air Force.

The West blockers will have two All-American passers to protect, the University of California's Bartkowski and Little All-American Jim McMillan of

The East team, coached by Michigan's Bo Schembechler, is expected to try more running plays in the college football all-

Three Cougars players, play er-coach Pat Stapleton, center Ralph Backstrom and goalie Dave Dryden, have been negotiating a deal to buy the fran-weak fan support. If the sale is made, Stapleton reportedly favors moving the team temporarily to a 4,500seat arena in suburban Schererville, Ind., a few miles south

Still, there was little indication that the transfer would be completed, and Kaiser said the next scheduled home game Saturday may be postponed as well if nothing develops. The sale was to have been completed last week, but problems have popped up.

Snake-Hunting Season To Open For Steelers

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer OAKLAND (AP) — Greene and the rest of the Pittsburgh Steelers' meanies arrive here tonight with only one thought in mind: Snakehunting season opens Sunday.

"The Snake," of course, is the nickname owned by Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler, who tossed four touchdown passes last Saturday in the Raiders' incredible 28-26 victo ry that dethroned the National Football League's champions, the Miami Dolphins.

That was the first round of the playoffs. Now it's the American Conference championship that's at stake. And, as might be expected, the Steelers figure the best way to get it is to get to Stabler as hard and as often as possible

It's expected by Stabler 'That isn't something unusual. In fact, it's old news," he said as he prepared for the third Pittsburgh-Oakland playoff showdown in three years, but the first for the conference

Nebraska blew an 11-point lead early in the second half, In a pair first-round games, the Steelers won 13-7 in 1972 on then came on again to upset 18th-ranked Oklahoma in the the so-called "immaculate reception" by Franco Harris, South Carolina, ranked 11th, then the Raiders cruised to a overwhelmed Assumption 113-81 33-14 romp a year ago.

"The quarterback is always the principal target of the defense;" Stabler continued. "The Steelers keyed on me during our playoff game last year and they did the same in September," when Stabler passed for one touchdown and ran for one in a 17-0 victory.

Greene thinks the Steelers have something new-mainly a high-powered offense. He believes the Pittsburgh defense. which led the league with 52 quarterback sacks, isn't the only thing the Raiders have to

"We're all in this together." he said. "Now I'm proud to in-clude our offense. Baby, Baby, they've arrived!"

They certainly arrived last Sunday, routing Buffalo 32-14. And the man who got them there was quarterback Terry Bradshaw. He decimated the Bills by hitting seven of nine in a decisive 26-point second period and directed the Steelers' attack that rolled up an impressive 438 yards.

Chug Coleman Has A New Nickname

Fly Williams and Mike Coleman were in the same boat. Now, they are in different worlds. Williams, a sophomore last year at Austin Peay and Coleman, who would have been a senior this year at Murray State, were declared ineligible for basketball because of the Ohio Valley Conference's continued use of the defunct conversion table for entrance.

The 6-6, 220-pound Coleman is playing his senior season at the University of Southern Mississippi, where he has picked up another in addition to "Chug" as he was called in Murray.

And that nickname is that of another former Murray player, Harlem Globetrotter Frank Streety

Yep, they call Coleman "Shake and Bake." Coleman is, at least from the report I got last week from Southern Mississippi, playing outstanding basketball, which is a surprise to nobody

At Murray last year, he averaged 24.1 points per game but as it sometimes happens, the crowd turned against him during the middle of the season and his performance sometimes suffered from it because the situation bothered him.

Coleman was a superb outside shooter for the Racers, and when they fell, the crowd loved him. And when they didn't, the crowd didn't. But it was true that Coleman, at times did play selfish ball. At Southern Mississippi, he's averaging 29.1

points per game and 14.4 rebounds. His high game this season has been 34

His team is currently 6-1, the loss being a 102-76 setback to Georgia. But Coleman didn't play in that game because of illness.

Otherwise, it would have been a different

The Golden Eagles, who are based in Hattiesburg, have defeated some good teams ncluding Georgia State, Delta State, Lamar, Mercer, Southern Methodist and Georgia

And Coleman has been the leader He's been working mainly from the inside though against Georgia Tech he had his best outside shooting game. And according to the report I got, Coleman is playing team ball. Southern Mississippi will be playing this coming Monday in a 7:30 p.m. game at Austin Peay in Clarksville. I had originally planned to go to the game but I'll be taking off work for a few days and thus won't make it. So if anyone would like a couple of free passes to the game, stop by the

Fly Williams

While Coleman is still playing in the college ranks, Fly Williams skipped his remaining two years of eligibility, (though declared ineligible, he still could have played outside the conference) and moved on to the St. Louis Spirits of the ABA.

Here is a story on Fly that appeared in the Tuesday issue of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It was written by staff writer

Fly Williams shuffled his feet a few times, looked around the crowd, then refocused his attention on his teammates on the court.

The unorthodox actions were the same the former Austin Peay standout performed the 6-5 stringbean was playing before delirious throngs who responded wildly to his

Now, the rookie for the Spirits of St. Louis is getting most of his baptism to the American Basketball Association on the bench.

'The time he's spending on the bench hasn't hurt," claims Spirits' coach Bob MacKinnon. "He's learning quite a bit just

But while the Fly learns on the bench, his fans in the stands are yearning for their hero to pull his basketball wizardry on the court the way he did while becoming the nation's third leading collegiate scorer last season

"Sure I hear the crowd calling for me," Fly says. "That makes me feel better. It helps a great deal when they're behind me.

"I'm getting to play only five or seven minutes a game, and I'd like to play more than that," Williams adds. "I figure we have a lot of rookies on this team, though, and the coach has a lot of decisions to make. So, I'll just have to show them what I can do when the time comes.'

During the Spirits first few games of the season, Fly came off the bench and was the team's leading scorer. But his playing time continued to decrease. Recently, though MacKinnon has inserted the unpredictable performer on a more regular basis.

"He's making good progress," MacKinnon says. "And because he is, I'll keep using him more. He's fitting himself in as a playmaker and rebounder and he's been playing better

"But what I'd like to do is fit him in more at guard," MacKinnon continues. "He has the tools to play guard - he's quick and he's a good shooter.

Fly also wants a better crack at the

"I'd have been the No. 1 guard at Austin Peay this year if things hadn't gotten mixed up there," he says. An ineligibilty problem caused by an entrance requirement mix-up ended Fly's college days two years early.

Williams' philosophy about the game also is beginning to change. I'm really not looking to score now when I'm out there," the former gunner admits. "If a shot's there, I'll take it. But it doesn't bother me now when I come up with four points in a

Like playing defense, which is probably where the Fly has improved on most.

"I've worked hard on defense," he contends. "I've gotten to the point where I'm not letting them get inside on me. Sure, I like to mess around out there - the fans eat that up but I have to concentrate on defense and the coach (MacKinnon) has helped me alot."

Maybe it's that philosophy that prompted MacKinnon to use more of the Fly's talents On the Spirits' recent swing to the East Coast, Fly was the club's top point producer with 18 points at New York. He then came back with 14 off the bench at Virginia.

'By playing me, it shows the coach is getting more confidence in me," Fly says, "One night though, I'll play 20 minutes and the next night maybe only two. I can't get used to that.

"But it's not that bad coming off the bench," he adds. "It's not if you start that counts, but how much you contribute.'

And Fly is hoping to contribute more to the rat-infested cell.". If Joe Barbee had to summarize his personal working philosophy, that undoubtedly would be it. As chief jail conthe Kentucky Department of Justice's Bureau of Corrections, Barbee has the difficult job of inspecting local jails and trying to persuade local officials that improvements need to be made if rehabilitation is ever going to become a reality.

But convincing county officials that jail improvements ought to have a higher fund priority hasn't been easy, he says, especially since most unities are hard pressed to meet their financial sibilities

Of 119 county jails inspected by the justice department last 'very poor" ratings. Another 25 were rated as being in "fair" condition only, while the remaining 30 earned "good" to very good" ratings.

According to Barbee, no one area of the state has a monopoly on good or bad jails. There is an even distribution of every ality of jail in every part of security, sanitation and dietary provisions for inmates. How well the jailers do their job is not on Barbee's checklist. Barbee said that the low ratings received by most county jails were due largely to the limited amount of local tax money being allocated for jail the improvements. But situation is changing, albeit ever-so-slowly, he says, and some of those changes are expected to become more evident soon.

For one thing, more funds for jail improvements now are becoming available without having to tap local tax sources. Much of the new money is reaching local government through federal revenue sharing and grants from the Kentucky Crime Commission (KCC).

In addition, the 1975-77 the justice department last Comprehensive Criminal mmer, 64 received "poor" to Justice Plan for Kentucky, approved just last October at a special KCC session, also has earmarked an additional $50,000 for more jail renovation work 1975. Least Contested Office Victors Will Assume Office In January FRANKFORT, Ky. - The 242 victors of one of the least contested races in history will Last take office soon. November they all ran unopposed for the office of conservation district supervisor.

Most of those who take the oath this January will be familiar with the duties of a conservation district supervisor 90 per cent of them were reelected to that post.

According to Bill Gayle, director of the division of conservation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the last election was not unusual. "Generally," said Gayle, "the race for supervisor is not contested."

A subdivision of state government, each of the 121 conservation districts is run by seven-person board of supervisors. Two supervisors, each serving a four-year term, are elected for each district.

"The boards of the conservation districts," said Gayle, "are responsible for the conservation and development of the natural resources in the area they serve.'

'Much of the board's effectiveness," continued Gayle," depends on the know-how and work of the individual super visors because a major tool of the board is the power of persuasion. These people spend much time trying to get land owners to develop and carry out conservation plans and to use according land capabilities. It's a big job and a thankless job with long hours and no pay. I'm happy to see experienced, dedicated supervisors returning to the boards.

Though conservation district boards have no enforcement or regulatory power, members of the policy-making Kentucky Soil and Water Conservation Commission are chosen from their ranks. That nine-man, bipartisan commission sets regulations which are enforced by the division of conservation According to Gayle, most of the district board supervisors are agriculturalists. "We've been encouraging other groups to participate," said Gayle, and some doctors, merchants and attorneys do serve on the agriculturalists still predominate. Before a candidate for supervisor can be placed on the ballot, 25 land owners in the conservation district must sign a petition nominating him.

Environmental Quality Commission Meets Recently

FRANKFORT, Ky. - At its recent meeting in Frankfort, state Environmental Quality Commission covered a wide range of topics pollution, water quality stan-dards, wild rivers, noise pollution, strip mining reclamation, solid waste and environmental education.

The advisory board to the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Enfirmed its recommendation that Jefferson County be designated an air quality maintenance area for particulates. The department had previously decided to ask the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to designate the district as an air quality maintenance area for sulfur dioxide.

A region may be designated as an air quality maintenance area if projections show it will not be able to meet and maintain ambient air quality standards during the next ten years. The Louisville District said it qualified for designation as A maintenance area for particulates as well as for sulfur dioxide. However, the state air pollution division disagreed. Reading a statement from the department, Herman Regan, commissioner of the bureau of environmental quality, said, "It appears that this matter cannot be resolved to the satisfaction of all concerned, other than to designate Jefferson County as an air quality maintenance area for particulates. The departrecommends designation based on the recommendation of the Environmental Quality Com-mission, the Louisville Program and the support of the public to do so.

Kentucky Unemployment Rate Well Below National Average

FRANKFORT, Ky.-The nemployment rate is a far cry "cut and dried"

"Determining the rate involves a 70-step estimating procedure required of each state and developed by the United States Department of Labor," said Robert W. Mac-Donald, head statistician for the Bureau for Manpower Services, Department for Human Resources (DHR).

Simplified, the unemployment estimates include everyone 16 years of age or over is looking for and is available for work, including persons who are laid off and aiting to return to work.

The methodology uses the number of persons who are collecting unemployment insurance benefits as a base for the estimaate.

employment "Covered represents about 65 per cent of Kentucky's work force, so the represents a substantial portion of the state's total jobless," said in Kentucky. MacDonald.

Persons not covered under Insurance Program are added to this base figure to give a total unemployment figure for the state. The non-covered portions of the unemployment estimate include most government workers, railroad workers and new and returning job seekers, such as college and high school graduates and dropouts.

estimate includes everyone who works for one hour or more during the reference which includes the 12th of each month. This reference week has been established by the U.S. Department of Labor and all states in the nation use the same

"The nationwide upsurge in unemployment means we are experiencing a recession, if one is defined as a slow-down in the economy due to decreased consumer demand for goods, said MacDonald.

"What underlies our national recession, though, is the personal 'depression' that jobless individuals are experiencing," MacDonald said.

Considering that the soaring unemployment rates of the early 1960's averaged 11.6 per cent of the work force, the situation has been worse.

What complicates the picture of the 1970's, however, are the energy crisis, inflation and the general national and world economic situation," said MacDonald.

Convict Surrenders; Hostages Found Dead

A farmwife and her teen-age daughter were found shot to death after the surrender of an escaped prisoner who had held them hostage in their home for seven hours.

Authorities identified the victims as Marian Napierala, 53, and Gayle Napierala, 19. A second daughter, Cynthia, 17, also was held hostage. She was uninjured but was taken to a hospital in shock.

The Indiana State Prison escapee, Riley Mosley Jr., 29, of Indianapolis, was taken to the state prison's main compound in this rural community. He had been serving a 10-20 year sentence for armed robbery at nearby minimum security prison farm.

State police said discovery of the bodies Thursday night surprised them because only 25 minutes before the surrender with 14 shotgun-armed state policemen surrounding the house police had talked by teleone with all three hostages.

Anthony Vicari, commander of the Dunes Park state police post, said officers had also talked with Mosley. "All during conversations, he sayd he would not har the hostages," Vicari

Vicari also said the policemen, who were at least 100 yards away, had heard no shots and did not fire their guns at

Jim Smith, Gov. Otis R. Bowen's executive assistant in charge of corrections, said Mosley walked out of the Napierela home at 10:10 p.m. and dropped two guns — a pistol and a rifle - as he surren-

Officials said Mosley escaped from the prison farm 10 miles west of here about 2:30 p.m. CST, took a pistol from a guard's home where he had been a houseboy, then invaded the Napierala home three-quarters of a mile away and demanded a car.

A neighbor, Robert T. Stephens, said the father, Stanley Napierala, and his 16-year-old n Mark were hunting nearby at the time. Mark heard

The origin of the escapee's rifle was not immediately

> State police said at one point Mosley said he would surrender if he could talk with his father in Indianapolis. Efforts to reach the father were futile.

A Correction Department spokesman said Acting Warder Jack Duckworth and a member of the inmate council went to the farmhouse to negotiate with State police said that after Mark reported the screams, a plainclothes officer went to the Napierala home and was met at the door by Mosley holding a gun to Mrs. Napierala's neck. Mosley ordered him to get out and he did, police said.

Cloid L. Shuler, executive di-rector of the Indiana Adult Authority, said at one point he agreed to supply the escapee with a car and personally escort him to it in exchange for the hostages' safety, "but he rejected that "

But Stephens said that at another point a buddy of the escapee was brought from the prison and spent 10 to 15 minutes talking with him. didn't trust his buddy. The fellow wouldn't buy it. He wanted a car. That was his only demand. It went on hour after

It was Stephens' home which police used as a command post and from which they negotiated by telephone

Prison records show Mosley began his term in January 1972, convicted of the knifepoint robbery of $200 from an Indianapolis restaurant.

Stephens, who has known Stanley Napieala since grade school, said, "They were poor people, and they worked hard. Good people. It's just a dirty shame.

Stephens said convicts at the prison farm "get out all the They're up and down the roads.

"Usually they don't stop here. They usually head for home. This is the first time tainer's advanced age.

In addition to Benny's wife, other family members present when he died Mrs. enny, the former Sadie Marks, is popularly known as she took when she joined Benny on stage. The couple adopted one daughter, Joan.

Visitors to Benny's bedside on his last day included California Gov. Ronald Reagan, entertainer Frank Sinatra, comedians Bob Hope and Danny Kave, and Benny's friend of 50 years, comedian George Burns. Benny was flown to Los Angeles for tests at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after suffering pain before a Dallas benefit Oct. 19. But doctors pronounced him in good health and he was discharged five days later. He intended to tape a television special and take a guest role in a film.

His most recent public appearance was Dec. 8 to accept an award from the Hollywood Women's Press Club.

Benny's career began more than 60 years ago in vaudeville. Decades on radio, television and in motion pictures made him one of the nation's most beloved comics, and he maintained a schedule of personal appearances until recently. But his television appearances of late were kept to occasional guest roles and an infrequent special.

Benny's humor as a fussbudget was built with a cast that included his wife, black comedian Eddie "Rochester" Anderson and singer Dennis Day.

His tightwad image fostered classic scenario - Benny befuddled by a bandit's demand for "Your money or your life." His anguished reply: thinking! I'm thinking.!"

On stage Benny became the nation's leading booster of his hometown, Waukegan, where he was born Benny Kubelsky, Feb. 14, 1894. He was the son of Orthodox Jewish immigrants from Russia who owned a saloon.

Sloane Aide Resigns His Staff Post

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) -An aide to Mayor Harvey Sloane, who told the Louisville mayor of a possible bribe attempt involving city officials, has resigned his post

Lawrence Mattingly told the mayor he would return to the operation of his construction firm Jan. 3.

The mayor's office reported Sloane had offered Mattingly another city job but Mattingly declined the offer. Mattingly had been on paid leave from his job for the last three weeks.

The December Jefferson County Grand Jury returned indictments against State Sen. Lacey T. Smith, Sloane's special counsel, and Louisville contractor William Cropper, Sloane said it was Mattingly
