Council Approves Budget Of $1,042,000 For Coming Year

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Murray Ledger & Times Editor
The first million-dollar-plus budget in the history of the City of Murray was approved without the slightest of ripples in a unanimous action by the Murray Common Council meeting in regular session Monday night.

The budget, which totals $1,042,000 for the year 1975, reflects major increases in three revenue-producing areas over the 1974 budget. Property taxes are expected to produce $437,000 in 1975, $127,000 more than the $310,000 budgeted in 1974; police court fines are anticipated to reach $85,000, up $37,000 from the amount anticipated in 1974; and the city's nine per cent insurance tax is expected to generate $100,000, $26,000 more than the $74,000 expected in 1974.

The jump in anticipated property tax revenues is due mainly to a reevaluation of property taxes throughout Calloway County recently completed by County Property Valuation Administrator, Charles Hale.

Mayor John Scott reported that at this time the city plans to retain its 40.4 cent per $100 property tax rate for 1975 which will mean an increase of 16 per cent in city property taxes to the average homeowner.

Some property owners, whose property has not been revalued in recent years, will be faced with an even greater increase in city taxes, however, and some others, who have purchased real estate in the last two to three years, will not receive as high an increase in property taxes, Scott said.

Councilman Melvin Henley pointed out later that the property tax figure of $417,000 will not even cover the expected expenses of the police and fire departments for 1975, which total $525,400.

The majority of the increases in budgets for all city departments went for additional salaries for city employees.

The Police Department budget of $249,500 reflects an increase of $64,500 over the 1974 budget for that department.

The Fire Department, with a total budget of $275,900 for 1975, is projected to cost the city taxpayer $61,400 more to operate in 1975 than it did this year.

The budget for the Street Department is up from $84,500 in 1974 to $96,200 next year; the Sanitation Department is up from $162,000 this year to $186,000 in 1975; and the city park budget has been increased to $23,300 from 1975 from the 1974 figure of $19,500.

In addition to the $1,042,000 in revenues in the city's budget for 1975, Murray is expected to receive approximately $300,000 in federal revenue sharing funds during the coming year.

Other Action

The council delayed action on the hiring of a purchasing agent for the city at the request of purchasing committee chairman, Rex Alexander. Alexander asked for postponement of the matter until the next meeting of the council due to developments that "need to be discussed" by the mayor and the purchasing committee.

Three men, Jerry B. Atkins of 1611 Ryan Ave., Robert S. Lax, 225 S. 15th, and Jimmy D. Paschall, Fox Meadows, were hired to begin work with the Murray Fire Department on March 1, 1975, subject to the normal six month probationary period.

In another Fire Department related matter, the council voiced its approval of Mayor Scott's action in the suspension of fireman Danny Paschall for three full shifts. Scott said that Paschall was suspended, without pay, because of an incident in which he left duty with the fire department in the department's emergency vehicle.

Ordinance number 608, raising the fee charged for hookup to the city sewer system, was approved on the first reading. The ordinance raises the hookup fee from $50

Stubblefield Resigns Seat In House Early

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Frank A. Stubblefield of the 1st District has resigned his congressional seat, effective today, three days before his term officially ends.

His resignation papers were filed Monday afternoon in the office of Secretary of State Thelma Stovall.

Stubblefield, who is from Murray, was defeated by state Sen. Carroll Hubbard, D-Mayfield, in the May Democratic primary.

Stubblefield is expected to receive additional retirement benefits because of his resignation before the end of the year.

But the retiring congressman said Monday that the benefits were not the main reason for his resignation.

He said he had private business ventures that needed attention.

His resignation does not give Hubbard the opportunity to be appointed as his replacement and pick up a few extra days of seniority.

Under the federal Constitution, only U.S. senators can be appointed by the state's governor.

A special election is necessary to fill a House vacancy.

Initial Public Response To Gold Sales Rather Quiet Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The initial public response today to the first day of legal gold trading in the United States in 41 years was rather quiet, banks and brokerage houses reported.

But at various commodities exchanges dealing in contracts for future delivery of gold, activity was unusually brisk. Trading on both the New York Mercantile Exchange and at the Commodity Exchange, Inc., also in New York, was halted only minutes after it began to allow traders to catch up with an influx of orders.

"It's a wild house here," a spokesman at the New York Mercantile Exchange said.

January 1975 contracts opened at $194 per troy ounce on the New York Mercantile, and at $189.50 at the Commodity Exchange.

On the Mercantile, contracts are for one kilogram — 32.151 ounces. On the Commodity Exchange, contracts are for 100 troy ounces. At the $194 opening price, one Mercantile contract would cost about $6,237. One Commodity Exchange contract at the $189.50 price would cost $18,950.

At Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Co. in New York, the nation's largest brokerage, a spokesman said there appeared to be "widespread interest" in futures trading, but he added that most of the early buying was being done by "professionals, including jewelers and dentists with experience in the metal."

At a Merrill Lynch office in Providence, R.I., however, commodities specialist Charlie Sedlak said, "People aren't knocking any doors down to purchase gold. It's no land rush business. The inquiries have been good, but purchases have been low."

The minimum amount being sold by Merrill Lynch is five troy ounces. The company is charging a markup of $2 an ounce over the base price, which is linked to the price on European markets, plus 5 per cent of the first $5,000 in value.

In New York, Sen. James L. Buckley was among the early bird purchasers, buying 2½ ounces at 12:01 a.m. EDT.

In Los Angeles, actor Dean Jones purchased a two-ounce gold bar and promptly bit it to see if it was good. He left teeth marks.

In Southfield, Mich., Carlene Brown, 12, purchased a quarter of an ounce of gold for $52.79. It was part of a shipment brought in by helicopter from Canada.

Advance predictions on reaction to the end of the gold ownership ban varied.

TVA Stockpiles Reported Above Four Million Tons

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Coal stockpiles at the Tennessee Valley Authority's 12 steam power plants are back above the 4-million-ton level, the agency said Monday.

The stockpiles gained 47,000 tons over the weekend, TVA said, boosting supplies on hand to 4,025,000 tons, or a 37-day supply at the normal rate of burn.

TVA's coal reserves dwindled to nearly 3.5 million tons during the nationwide miners strike that ended on Dec. 9.

Homestead Exemption Extended

Homestead exemption for persons 65 years of age or older has been extended from the original $6500 exemption to $7700, according to Charles E. Hale, Calloway County Property Valuation Administrator.

"All persons that are now getting homestead exemption will automatically receive this increase," Hale said. It will not be necessary to file a new application.

All persons that will become 65 years old anytime during 1975 must file an application during January and February. Failure to file application during this time will disqualify exemptions for the 1975 taxes.

Taxpayers must be at least 65 during the 1975 tax year and own and reside in a single family dwelling to be eligible.

Deeds to property and verification of age must be presented when making application for homestead exemption, Hale pointed out.

Telecasting of the Junior Parade begins at 9 a.m. Wednesday, also on NBC.

OFFICE DAMAGED—The local office of retiring Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield was damaged by a late afternoon fire Monday at five p.m. Firemen said the blaze probably originated when a chair caught fire in front of an electric heater. The building is owned by L. D. Miller. A spokesman for the office said no important papers were lost in the blaze, and no official estimate has been placed on the damage.

New Kentucky Penal Code Takes Effect At Midnight

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Murray Ledger & Times Writer

Something major will happen in Kentucky on New Year's Day, seconds after the clocks strike midnight and the parties roar.

The new Kentucky Penal Code becomes law, but until the majority of the state's residents are stopped by the police, arrested, or make a court appearance... they probably will be unaware of its existence.

While no special achievement awards for speed will be presented to Frankfort lawmakers, the introduction of the code is viewed as a significant advancement in the right direction by most state attorneys, judges, and law enforcement agencies.

Motivated by the 1968 General Assembly, the Kentucky Crime Council and the Legislative Research Commission conducted a lengthy study of the state's criminal laws contained within the old Kentucky Revised Statutes (KRS).

A July 1st target date (this year) was given the project by the next version of the General Assembly four years later with the idea the group of legislators in 1974 could correct any flaws in the plan. Additional changes were made, however, prior to that time and a new date of Jan. 1st, 1975, was set.

The new code abolishes common law crimes and requires a statutory designation of every criminal offense. Under present KRS which were adopted in 1962, the crime "willful murder" is punishable by confinement in a state penitentiary for life, or by death.

However, the term "willful murder" is not defined within the KRS. And that is where the headaches have begun for Kentucky's courts.

A person would be guilty of murder under the new code when, "with intent to cause the death of another person, he causes the death of such person or of a third person... a person acts intentionally when his conscious objective is to cause that result."

Present theft statutes provide numerous examples of the web-like entanglement of existing state laws which often snare courts into hours of delay and postponements at the expense of the taxpayer.

For example, a hog worth more than $4 is stolen or a fowl valued at $2 is lifted from its owner's farm, the thief (if arrested) can be imprisoned for one to five years. But the same person convicted of petit larceny (stealing money or property of value of less than $100) may receive imprisonment from one to 12 months and/or a fine of $50-$500.

The new code establishes a classification system designed to provide a uniform, rational sentencing structure which eliminates deliberate discrimination among penalty provisions. Seven classes of offenses exist under the new law, ranging from "class a felony" (murder-punishable by death, life without parole, or imprisonment for 20 years to life) to a "class d felony" and two classifications of misdemeanors.

By classifying crimes according to their relative severity, the code not only eliminates inconsistencies, but also provides an objective reference source for future lawmaking.

The code consolidates more than 60 separate theft offenses (the most common violations) into seven code provisions.

Property Valuation Office To Be Open For Listings January 2

The office of Property Valuation Administrator Charles Hale will be open for taking assessments for the 1975 tax year beginning January 2, 1975.

All persons making changes in their property should report the changes to the office during the period of January 2 through March 1. Persons building new homes or buildings or making improvements on existing homes or buildings should also report during this time, Hale said.

Taxpayers are required to report intangible items such as notes receivables, accounts receivables, stocks in out-of-state corporations, bonds other than government or municipal bonds, and money-in-out of state banks and building and loan associations. Also, paid up life insurance policies that are subject to withdrawal on January 1, is taxable.

Watercraft, aircraft, vehicles, mobile homes, office equipment, business equipment and business inventories are the major tangible properties that are subject to property taxes.

The office of the property Valuation Administrator will be open for listing property January 2 through March 1. The office is located on the first floor of the court house and office hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Don't get caught in foolish maneuvers, time-consuming, pointless conversation. Listen and learn, and give good suggestions a try.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Think twice before you voice that strong opinion. You may need a change of words, even thoughts, after a second reviewing. Avoid pessimism and contrariness.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Day calls for better-than-ordinary action and forethought. Returns can be fine (though not all immediate) with your steady, knowing cooperation.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
This is a day for aggressive action. Aim for your goals in a swift, sure manner. Details may not be crucially important but are still a part of the pattern.

Without much planetary assistance, you can still net top returns now but, before acting, plan well, be sure of facts and details, and DON'T procrastinate.

Important now: common sense, logical analysis, ease of action. Domestic and social interests highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.

Straining to accomplish this or that may not be necessary if you review your methods. There may be a better, more compact way; consider new helpful devices.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely versatile individual, ambitious for success and, happily, are endowed with the persistence and determination to achieve it. Certain traits could fetter you, however: moods of despondency and pessimism; also a tendency to be suspicious of those with whom you deal; secretiveness as to your real aims. Free yourself from these bonds for, only then, can you live up to your highest ideals and potentials. You could be a brilliant writer, an amusing raconteur, a scientist of note. Your fields are almost limitless. Don't fail yourself. Birthdate of: Paul Revere, early American patriot; J. Edgar Hoover, founder of the F.B.I.; Barry Goldwater, U.S. statesman; J.D. Salinger, renowned author.

Safe color

Concerned about the safety of the food coloring used in maraschino cherries? The coloring used in maraschino cherries is Red #4, also used in some medications, and considered perfectly safe in amounts used for either purpose. Red #2 is the coloring which was under some suspicion. That is never used for maraschino cherries.

Small Appliances Not Energy Hogs

Probably none of the small appliances received as gifts for the holiday season will have much bearing on the amount of electricity a family consumes.

Officials of the Murray Electric System and the West Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation said that the most effective energy-saving tips are those that have been given previously—lowering the thermostat and properly insulating the home. Savings can also be had by using less hot water because the water heater is one of the biggest energy users.

Cutting down on the use of small appliances will have little effect on either the bill or the total energy consumed. Generally, appliances that produce heat use more electricity than those that don't. For instance, an electric roaster uses more than twice as much energy as a radio.

The figures below come from the Electric Energy Association and represent the average usage of the appliances. The cost of operating them annually is figured from the cost of a kilowatt hour in Murray, 1.5 cents, as of January 1, according to Luther Nance, assistant superintendent of the Murray Electric System.

Abby's rules for a happy, healthy New Year

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published nine rules for living. You suggested that they would make an excellent set of New Year's Resolutions, and that's exactly what I used them for.

I read them every morning, and can truthfully say that I am a much better person today than I was a year ago simply because I tried to live by those rules.

In my humble opinion, that was the best advice I've ever read. This is to thank you for that column, Abby, and ask you to please run it again for those who may have missed it. I hope it will do for others what it did for me.

I am not a teen-ager. I am a 33-year-old wife and mother, but we are never too old to learn, right?

STILL LEARNING

DEAR STILL: Right! But don't thank me. I didn't originate those rules. I paraphrased them.

It's the credo for Overeaters Anonymous—an organization of loving, caring, confessed compulsive overeaters who have regained their self-esteem by losing weight, feeling better, looking better and helping others to do the same.

Overeaters Anonymous is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous and Gamblers Anonymous. Both organizations have been hugely successful in rehabilitating compulsive drinkers and gamblers after all else has failed.

Their credo:

1. Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for twelve hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

2. Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

3. Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things which I can change, and accept those things I cannot change.

4. Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will exercise my soul in three ways: I will do a good deed for somebody—without letting them know it. (If they find out I did it, it won't count.) I will do at least two things that I know I should do, but have been putting off. I will not show anyone that my feelings are hurt; they may be hurt, but today I will not show it.

6. Just for today I will be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously, and speak ill of no one. Just for today I'll not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

8. Just for today I will have a quiet half hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective of my life.

9. Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

It makes sense, doesn't it? And so does their program. It's free. For information about this wonderful organization, write to Box 34854, Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

Teen-age Drinking

Among New Year's resolutions for many Americans should be an earnest consideration of ways to reduce the social pressures that encourage social drinking and the hazards associated with it.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reports that social drinking now poses an alarming accident threat to American youth. A recent study showed that, at least once a month, one out of three teen-agers is in a car driven by a heavily drinking driver. One-fourth of the youths studied had themselves driven three or more times while drunk. When one considers that highway fatalities total more than 50,000 a year, and that fully half of all fatal auto accidents involve alcohol, the seriousness of drinking trends among the young is evident.

Unfortunately, such scary statistics alone do not seem to carry much weight in discouraging the dangerous mixing of drinking with driving. And those who prepared the teen drinking study also think that "no amount of legal action" will correct the problem. They look to "encouraging social pressures against drinking and driving" as the most promising route.

In some countries such as Finland, where penalties for driving after drinking are severe, hosts take care to provide nonalcoholic drinks for guests who must drive. Indeed, Finnish nondrinkers find that driving to a gathering is a surefire way to cut off any pressures to drink. American hosts could help break the dangerous drinking/driving tie by respecting the nondrinking guest's position and not making alcohol central to social occasions.

The highway safety study found that the teen-age students in contact with alcohol-related situations are not "farout, dropout, alienated, or underachieving types." They are "mainstream" youths. It should be clear, then, that change must come in the mainstream culture's thinking and practices.

In recent years, great progress has been made in challenging the primacy of the smoker over the nonsmoker in social and public settings. The start of the new year 1975 is a good time similarly to challenge the assumption that alcohol is essential to good times or celebration — an assumption that is posing a grave hazard to a new generation.

Mental Health

A health column from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Mental Health of Children

From a mental health standpoint, what is "normal" behavior in a child?

This is not an easy question to answer, because children are so different. You might say that ideal or normal for your child is that which occurs when he is allowed to be most truly and deeply himself.

There are no easy formulas for raising mentally healthy children, and parents should not be misled into believing that there are. But the following basic factors seem to be very important:

- The parents should be mature and emotionally healthy. If they themselves have not had happy childhoods, they should be especially careful not to allow their own emotional problems to interfere with their understanding of the needs of their children.

- Each child should be allowed to grow in his or her own way, not being pressured into satisfying the dreams of parents. When a child feels encouraged and loved for himself, he has the strength and motivation to discover and achieve his potentialities.
- A third crucial factor is the degree to which the total community environment seems to be "for" or "against" children. The child's experiences at school, on the playground, and in his neighborhood can thwart or foster healthy development.

The National Institute of Mental Health, a component of HEW's Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration, has published a pamphlet titled Facts About the Mental Health of Children, which gives helpful information and advice for raising mentally healthy children. The publication discusses the influence of heredity and environment on mental health, saying: "Today we are just beginning to understand that heredity and environment are so deeply entwined that one can never separate them, and that both factors play extremely important roles in human growth."

Also discussed are the differences between an emotionally disturbed child and one who merely needs firmer discipline; the major symptoms of mental illness in children; the causes of over-aggressive and antisocial behavior in a child; best ways to discipline children; and other important topics.

A question posed in the pamphlet is: Can a parent who has suffered from mental illness raise mentally healthy children? The answer is yes—if the parent has had a successful recovery and certain conditions are met.

Free single copies of Facts About the Mental Health of Children can be obtained by writing to the Public Inquiries Section, National Institute of Mental Health, ADAMHA, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Funny Funny World

Rosario, Argentina — Not only did the groom run off with another woman on the eve of the wedding, but he took the jilted bride's automobile and the $4,000 they had saved together for their honeymoon. Police declined to identify the couple involved, but said they were investigating the bridegroom and his blonde companion, who appeared suddenly at the bachelor's stag party, and convinced the groom to leave with her. Some Dealers Expect Gold Prices To Continue Upward

LONDON (AP) — Anyone investing in a bar of gold in February 1972 paid $50 an ounce or less. He has seen that investment double, and double again to almost $200 an ounce in less than three years.

Some dealers believe the price could rise to $300 or more. Others expect it to drop. In retrospect, the skyrocketing of gold prices appears to have been inevitable, because of inflation and the troubles of the international monetary system. As fears for the value of paper money grew, more and more people bought gold as a safe hedge.

Back in 1972 the gold market made headlines if the price rose $3 an ounce in a week. Recently, the price has jumped that much in a morning.

As recently as 1968 gold was considered a poor investment. The official price, $35 an ounce, had been unchanged for three decades. Storing and insurance costs were high; so were brokers' commissions, and gold paid no interest.

But the British pound had been devalued in 1967, and the dollar was weakened by the cost of the Vietnam war. Speculators were pouring money into gold, threatening to force the price up and in effect devalue the dollar.

To prevent this, the leading industrial nations agreed on a two-tier gold market. Government central banks would continue to trade gold at the official price of $35 while speculators, jewelers and industrial users would trade separately on Europe's free markets. There the price would change according to supply and demand. In theory there would be no pressure on the official price and no devaluation pressure on the dollar because of the separation.

Gold opened on the London free market on March 8, 1968, at $37 an ounce. Traders had doubts and built the free market price up to a high of $43.83 in the first year of trading. But by Nov. 19, 1969, the London price had dropped back to $36.65.

In December 1971, the United States devalued the dollar, bringing more apprehension about paper currency. Within four months, on May 1, 1972, the price of gold in London had risen to $50.45 an ounce.

By August 1972 the price was up to $70 an ounce. The Vietnam war was still a drain on the U.S. economy, and in February 1973 Nixon devalued again. Gold jumped to $87 an ounce in London.

Later that year came Watergate and the growing conviction that the Nixon administration could not conquer inflation and other U.S. economic problems. Gold rose to $102.25 an ounce by May 14, 1973.

When the U.S. Congress agreed to let Americans own gold legally, anticipation of an American gold rush sent the price soaring toward $200 an ounce.

Gold remains an attractive hedge against inflation and weakening paper money. But it is still expensive to hold and pays no interest.

What happens to the price may depend on South Africa and the Soviet Union, the world's largest gold producers, and the United States.

Should the producers reduce the flow of newly mined gold to the market, the price could rise significantly. And the U.S. Treasury can always bring the price down by auctioning some of its 276 million ounces of gold. It will sell 2 million ounces on Jan. 6.

Little Kathy Knows The Real Santa; All Others Just Help

By M. C. Garrott

One last Christmas story and I'll shut the book on another of the merry seasons.

Since Christmas has become so commercialized, one of the most difficult problems parents of small children have at Christmastime is explaining why there are so many Santa Clauses. They see them on every corner ringing a bell or handing out candy. There's one in every store. Another is holed up in a little house on the courthouse yard. Still others drop into town in a helicopter, on a fire truck or aboard some colorful parade float.

It's pretty tough to explain, but not for Kelly Bolis, 5-year-old daughter of Jerry and Karen Bolis, 1506 Belmont. As far as Kelly is concerned, the first Santa she saw, played by Roy Hancock, a neighbor who lives across the street, is the REAL Santa and all the others are his helpers. She has been visited by the REAL Santa on three different occasions, and by now she knows him pretty well because he has curly whiskers and wears regular shoes. Others, she has noticed, have straight whiskers and wear boots with no bottoms in them. She delights in watching for and seeing her REAL Santa, who, incidentally, plays the role of sorority and fraternity parties as well as at other occasions during the Christmas season.

One night last week just before Christmas, Kelly's parents were startled as she came running into their room and excitedly proclaimed:

"I just saw the REAL Santa Claus outside! He's across the street visiting Mr. Hancock!"

Let's don't sell the little people short. They are thinking all the time. A good illustration is a recent Sunday School lesson in which Bob Long III, grandson of Bob Long, the Murray State board of regents member from Benton and Mayfield, was involved.

According to his proud grandfather, six-year-old Bob's Sunday School teacher had been telling about God's way of teaching the animals and birds of the air how to feed and care for their young.

Turning to little Bob, she asked: "Aren't you dependent upon your mother and daddy just like the animals and the birds are?"

"No," the boy replied. "Oh, you're not!" exclaimed the teacher. "Nope," little Bob went on. "I can wash and dress myself. I can make a peanut butter sandwich, and I've got $3.00."

Johnny Parker, who lives just off Highway 121 southeast of town and an uncle of the brothers at Parker Ford, apparently doesn't have to get out of his house to squirrel hunt. He just lets them come to him.

The other day, Mr. Parker heard a couple of the little rascals in the chimney of his family room. So, he closed all the doors into the room and opened the damper to the chimney. Then, taking a small baseball bat, he stepped back to await their entrance through the fireplace.

Within minutes they showed up and he started swinging. It took a bit of doing and he almost drove a lamp or two over the breakfast table but eventually he killed them both. Seems to me that's a lot easier way to get a mess of squirrel and dumplings without having to shiver under a dipping hickory tree waiting for a couple of them to show up.

If you are in the habit of taking up two parking spaces with your car, you might wind up getting a "Citizen Parking Violation" citation stuck under your windshield wiper like Margaret White did recently out at the University.

Margaret, who works in the Alumni Affairs Office, vehemently proclaims her innocence of any such improper parking, and can't understand how or why she got the citation which reads as follows:

"This is not a ticket, but if it were within my power, you would receive two. Because of your bull-headed, inconsiderate, feeble attempt at parking, you have taken enough room for a 20-mule team, 2 elephants, 1 goat and a safari of pygmies from the African interior."

"The reason for giving you this is so that in the future you may think of someone else, other than yourself. Besides, I don't like domineering, egotistical or simple-minded drivers and you probably fit into one of these categories."

"I sign off wishing you an early transmission failure. Next time leave a can opener so I can get my car out. People like you should ride the bus."

I don't believe Margaret would do a thing like that either. Besides, judging from the feeble attempt at printing at the time, license number and the make of the car, the person who gave Margaret her citation must be in the first grade at University School.

Postponement Of Visit By Brezhnev 'Encouraging'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the postponement of Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to Cairo is "mildly encouraging" for the possible success of Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach to a Middle East settlement.

Moreover, these officials say the postponement serves to ease Soviet pressures on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to swing away from the American strategy being pressed by Secretary of State Kissinger.

"It gives us a little more time," said one of the officials interviewed after the sudden postponement of Brezhnev's planned trip. The Soviet leader had been scheduled to visit Cairo in January. No new date was set for any future visit.

All agreed that Kissinger is working for a Middle East settlement against a deadline of next spring when the lease for U.N. buffer forces in the Sinai and the Golan Heights expires and when fighting could be resumed unless there is substantial diplomatic progress.

In the interim, Kissinger hopes to bring Israel and Egypt within negotiating range of each other. Proposals brought here earlier this month by Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Alon are currently the subject of an intensive diplomatic exchange. Alon's plans to return on Jan. 10 have not been changed by the Brezhnev development.

Kissinger is due back Thursday from his vacation in Puerto Rico. In his absence, the State Department is willing publicly only to reiterate confidence in a step-by-step approach. Spokesman Paul Hare was instructed to brush aside questions with "No comment."

However, top U.S. officials privately suggest Brezhnev called his visit off when he became convinced that Sadat would not commit Egypt to an immediate resumption of the Geneva Peace Conference in exchange for new Soviet arms.

Sadat is understood to have made it clear that he favors further exploration through Kissinger of prospects for an interim deal with Israel. Geneva negotiations would come later.

Let's Stay Well

Avoid That Hangover!

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Have a Happy New Year's eve and watch out for hangovers! A hangover is not imaginary. It is for real and means that the victim has had too much alcohol.

That "morning-after" condition consists of some or all of these symptoms: sharp headache, loss of appetite, weakness, dryness of mouth and nose, foggy mind, and a feeling of depression.

It makes little difference which form of alcohol is consumed — beer, wine, whisky, or mixed drinks. It is the amount that counts.

The best treatment for hangover is prevention. If you are taking alcohol, limit the amount to that which you can tolerate — one to three ounces. And take it in slowly.

Dilute hard liquor well with water and sip it in small amounts. The body burns up alcohol slowly.

In an hour, the average adult metabolizes only an ounce of whisky.

Eating foods, especially those which are fatty — even peanuts — will help to slow the rate of absorption. However, food will not prevent a hangover if the intake of alcohol is excessive.

All sorts of "home remedies" have been suggested for hangovers — a hot bath, tomato juice, exercise, a dose of vitamins, black coffee, and even another drink of alcohol. None is altogether effective.

If resorting to aspirin or some other mild pain reliever, it should not be taken on an empty stomach but along with a small portion of bland food — milk, cereal, consommé or broth.

Alcohol is a toxic chemical. Excessive intake produces an irritating effect in many tissues as the high level of alcohol circulates in the blood.

Too much alcohol is in effect a poison; therefore, regardless of other remedies, time also is needed for recovery.

Migraine sufferers are often more susceptible to hangovers. These victims have appeared to benefit from the intake of foods which contain a fruit sugar, fructose, found in honey, maple and corn syrups, raisins, figs, bananas and tomatoes.

Q. Mr. R. asks whether an adult person can be "hooked" on aspirin by taking it regularly three to four times a day or three to four days each week over an extended period.

A. Aspirin has no tendency to produce habituation or addiction. Taking any drug regularly should be avoided unless it is advised by a physician and the reason is based on a diagnosis of the disease by him.

Q. Mrs. E. E. writes: "You wrote about psittacosis, or parrot fever, a condition caught from birds. What is the treatment?"

A. This condition responds to antibiotics.

Q. Mr. R. E., who has received a letter from a friend saying that he had a "compound" fracture, wants an explanation of the term.

A. A fracture is usually referred to as "compound" when a part of the broken bone is exposed through the skin, in contrast to a "simple" fracture, which is not so exposed. Compound fractures are often more serious, often contaminated by germs, and may heal more slowly, especially if an infection complicates the fracture.

Auburn Upends Texas 27-3 In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The most famous quote in Darrell Royal's quotable career goes something like this: "Three things can happen when you pass the ball, and two of them are bad."

He was referring to interceptions and fumbles. But Royal, the foremost exponent of the famed wishbone rushing offense, learned the hard way Monday night that three things can happen when you run the football and two of them are bad: you can gain ground, lose ground or fumble.

Royal's 11th-ranked Texas Longhorns, a one-touchdown favorite, proved the odds makers wrong by dropping an error-filled 27-3 decision to sixth-ranked Auburn in the 30th Gator Bowl game.

The Longhorns lost four of five fumbles, all in the first half. They also lost the ball on three pass interceptions, botched several handoffs on their tricky kickoff return plays, had a punt blocked for a safety and were penalized at crucial stages.

Since they closed out the regular season by whipping Texas A&M more than a month ago, little has gone right for the Longhorns. A combination of final exams, Christmas vacation and inclement weather prevented them from doing any contact work this month.

Monday night, things got worse. They had trouble with the phone lines between the field and scouts in the press box and Royal's headset picked up the ABC-TV feed at one point.

They had to play on grass for the first time in more than a year — grass made slippery by Powerful Alabama, big, bad, unbeaten and hoping for a national championship, faces ever-popular Notre Dame, big, bad, somewhat beaten but hoping to redeem itself Wednesday night in an emotional climax to college football's 1974 season.

The Crimson Tide, 11-0 and ranked second only to Oklahoma, will meet the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish, 9-2, before a packed house in the Orange Bowl and a national television audience. But before that, there are some preliminaries to clear up.

Nebraska of the Big Eight Conference and Florida of the Southeastern Conference will match 8-3 records tonight in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. Penn State, 9-2, carries Eastern grid hopes into Dallas Wednesday against Baylor, 8-3, surprise winner of the Southwest Conference, in the Cotton Bowl. And Big Ten co-champion Ohio State, 10-1, visits Pacific-8 titlist Southern California, 9-1-1, in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., also Wednesday.

Monday night, sixth-ranked Auburn dumped Texas 27-3 in an error-filled Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., that saw the teams lose the ball on turnovers seven times apiece. In between miscues, quarterback Phil Gargis threw touchdown passes of seven and 14 yards to wingback Ed Butler.

The Alabama-Notre Dame game has enough emotional factors to stir the heart of even the most jaded Hollywood B picture producer. Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama has been turning out dynamite teams that fizzle in post-season competition for years. He has one tie and six losses to show for his last seven bowl appearances.

"It looks as if I will go down as the losingest bowl coach in history," moaned Bryant. "I would like to keep that from happening."

Bryant's last bowl loss came last New Year's Eve in the Sugar Bowl when Coach Ara Parseghian's Irish won the national championship with a thrilling 24-23 decision. As if revenge isn't enough, the Tide will also be going for the national title.

An impressive showing could boost them ahead of Oklahoma, 11-0, in the Associated Press poll. The Sooners are barred from post-season competition for past recruiting indiscretions.

On the Notre Dame side, the Irish will be out to win one for Ara, who has decided to give up college coaching after 11 seasons at the Irish helm.

Notre Dame will also be out to erase the sting of a humiliating 55-24 loss to Southern Cal in the regular-season finale.

While emotions build in Miami, seats are still available in New Orleans where the Nebraska-Florida clash has failed to ignite the populace.

Despite equal records, Nebraska is a solid two-touchdown favorite. Florida star wide receiver Lee McGriff has his own pre-game analysis.

"I think it's quite possible they could blow us out of the park," said McGriff. "I also think it's possible we could blow them out of the park."

In Dallas, Penn State's Joe Paterno and Baylor's Grant Teaff have been offering observers a lesson in contrasting coaching philosophies. Penn State has rented 40 cars to carry the team sightseeing around town. Baylor's Teaff has imposed a strict curfew and has been lecturing his troops on the importance of going to bed early and getting up early.

Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State and runnerup Anthony Davis of Southern Cal will match footwork in the Rose Bowl where the Trojans will be trying to avenge a 42-21 loss to the Buckeyes last season.

"We've got to stop what they do best," said USC defensive tackle Gary Jeter, referring to Griffin. "We've got to control the line of scrimmage. If we do, I feel we can win the ballgame."

Woody Hayes, volatile Buckeye coach, meanwhile, continues to defend his three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust offensive philosophy.

"The fancy teams finish ninth and tenth in the conference," said Hayes. "We'll let them do the bouncing around with the football. This isn't basketball you know."

Five Teams Making Final Pitch To Catfish Hunter

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) — Five teams will make what could be their final pitch today for Catfish Hunter. And a high baseball source says the 28-year-old righthander and his attorneys asked one team for a contract totaling $3.75 million.

Thomas Cherry, one of four attorneys working with Hunter on the contract negotiations, acknowledged Monday night that the bidding had been reduced to five teams.

The San Diego Padres, Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Atlanta Braves all maintain they are still in the running and when questioned about the still-crowded field, Cherry said: "If they say they are still in the running, you would be correct in saying so."

Cherry himself refused to specify the teams because, "I don't feel at liberty to divulge them. (But) if an individual club is willing to say it is in the running, we will confirm it. We anticipate an announcement on who he will sign with shortly."

No one here would say when a contract might be reached. Cherry said it would be from one to 10 days, Phil Seghi, general manager of the Indians, predicted Catfish would be hooked within two days and Yankee President Gabe Paul said, "It's getting down to the nitty-gritty now."

Paul made that comment after his third meeting on Monday with Hunter and his attorneys. Sandwiched between them were one session with the Indians and a telephone conference call with three Padres officials.

Rully Carpenter, Philadelphia Phillies president, withdrew his team from the bidding Monday, saying a $2.6 million offer was too small. The Texas Rangers said their $2.5 million offer was rejected.

A major league baseball source said he had seen the proposal Hunter and his attorneys gave to one team. He said it called for $2.5 million for Hunter, $200,000 in attorneys' fees and $1.05 million in insurance policies for Hunter and his children.

The source said the proposal called for a $1 million bonus for Hunter, a five-year contract at $200,000 per year, a 10-year retirement plan at $50,000 a year, a $1 million life insurance policy for Hunter and a $25,000 policy for each of his two children. The proposal was said to ask that $50,000 of the salary be deferred each year for 10 years and that the $1 million policy be paid in 10 years.

Several major league executives confirmed the general outline of the proposal spelled out by the highly placed source, who refused use of his name.

Rangers Massacre North Stars 8-1 In National Hockey League

By The Associated Press

For the New York Rangers, Monday night was the best of times. For the Minnesota North Stars, it was the worst of times.

New York moved the puck as if the Minnesota defense wasn't on the ice in recording an 8-1 National Hockey League massacre of the North Stars. Most of the players agreed: the North Stars defense really wasn't there.

"It was our worst game of the whole season. I don't blame the fans for walking out," said Minnesota wing J.P. Parise. "We were really terrible."

The Rangers strafed goalie Cesare Maniago with 47 shots, including 21 in the middle period and 17 in the second. Maniago's teammates managed just 25 on Gilles Villeneuve, who lost his shutout to John Flesch in the second period.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Pittsburgh Penguins tripped the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-5 and the Los Angeles Kings nipped the Detroit Red Wings 3-2.

In the only World Hockey Association game, the Phoenix Roadrunners dropped the Quebec Nordiques 6-3.

"It was our best offensive game of the season," noted Coach Emile Francis after eight players scored goals in leading New York to its third consecutive victory. Jean Ratelle scored a goal and assisted on three others, defenseman Ron Greshner had three assists, and Rod Gilbert and Steve Vickers continued the scoring parade with a goal and two assists each.

Brad Park, Bill Fairbairn, Pete Stemkowski, Rick Middleton and Ted Irvine had the other Rangers goals.

Penguins 7, Maple Leafs 5
Rick Kehoe scored two goals and Ron Schock added another and three assists to carry Pittsburgh past Toronto.

Kings 3, Red Wings 2
Bob Berry's goal at 5:44 of the third period proved the gamewinner for Los Angeles, now only two points behind first-place Montreal in Division 3. The Kings can tie the Canadiens tonight with a victory over Chicago.

Roadrunners 6, Nordiques 3
Right wing Don Borgeson scored in each period and goaltender Gary Kurt withstood a 25-shot Quebec onslaught in the third period, carrying the Roadrunners past the Nordiques.

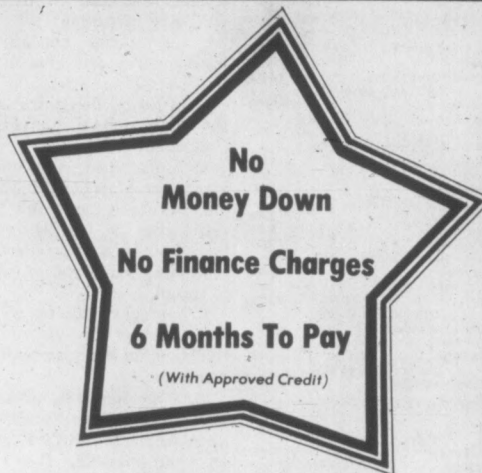

Borgeson broke a 3-3 tie in the second period with the winner, his ninth goal of the season.

Six Of College Basketball's Top Twenty Upset Last Night

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Eastern college basketball in general, and New York ball in particular, got a big shot in the arm Monday night as Fordham, St. John's and LaSalle all won holiday tournaments, beating a trio of top-ten teams in the process.

Fordham, an 11-point underdog to Pacific-8 powerhouse Southern California, got 24 points from Darryl Brown and 22 from Kevin Fallon and upset the fifth-ranked Trojans 83-66 to win the ECAC Holiday Festival before a wildly partisan throng of 11,117 at Madison Square Garden in New York.

In Providence, R.I., Mel Utley poured in 25 points to lead St. John's, N.Y., to a 91-79 triumph over Providence, giving the Redmen the title in the ECAC Ocean State Holiday Festival and ending the Friars' 41-game winning streak at the Providence Civic Center.

And LaSalle's Joe Bryant snapped a 73-73 tie with a tip-in with 30 seconds to go, then added another basket at the buzzer to give the Explorers a stunning 77-73 upset over sixth-ranked Alabama in the final of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament at New Orleans.

In the stunning round of upsets, No. 12 Penn, No. 15 South Carolina and No. 19 Memphis State also went down to defeat.

Meanwhile, in the final of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, second-ranked Indiana turned back Hawaii 69-52. The victory was the undefeated Hoosiers' 11th of the season.

Big Kent Benson collected 15 of his 17 points in the first half as Indiana built a 41-30 halftime lead. Steve Green, who topped the Hoosiers with 18 points, scored 10 in the second half.

All three Eastern teams — Fordham and St. John's are in New York City, LaSalle in Philadelphia — were heavy underdogs, and none boasted rankings in the top 20.

Southern Cal Coach Bob Boyd was deeply upset by his team's loss, its first after eight wins.

"They just beat us in every department. They outshot us, they outrebounded us, they out-hustled us."

St. John's dealt Providence its first loss after seven triumphs, and stunned a crowd of 12,069 in the process.

Glen Williams' layup snapped a 65-63 tie midway through the second half, putting the Redmen on top to stay, and seven straight points with about five minutes to go sealed the decision.

LaSalle held a 13-point lead over Alabama at the half, but the Crimson Tide finally drew even with 1:24 to play on a short jumper by Johnny Dill.

LaSalle worked deliberately for one shot. Guard Charlie Wise took a 15-foot jumper with 30 seconds to go that spun off the rim, but Bryant tipped it in to make it 75-73.

Wise stole the Alabama toss in but missed a shot, so the Crimson Tide had the ball again — only to commit an offensive foul with eight seconds left, giving the ball back to LaSalle.

Oregon, ranked 11th, won the Far West tourney, coming from behind in the second half to beat Washington State 74-65 and raise its record to 8-0.

Forward Greg Ballard scored 19 of his 23 points in the second half as Oregon erased a 32-27 halftime deficit, using a tight man-to-man defense to force 12 Washington State turnovers in the second half.

In the consolation game of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, 12th-ranked Penned Tulsa 75-72 with 3-49 to play. Zack Jones of the Golden Hurricane sank a free throw, then stole the ball and went in for a tying layup. Another turnover gave the Hurricanes the ball with 2:07 to play and they held the ball for one last shot.

Ken "Grasshopper" Smith, who had scored 20 first-half points but had been held to three field goals in the second half, took it with three seconds left. He was fouled by Penn's Ron Haigler, and when Quaker Coach Chuck Daly walked onto the court to dispute the call, he was hit with a flagrant technical foul.

That gave Smith a total of four free throws, and he made them all for Tulsa's eighth victory in 10 games. Tim Carson sank two free throws in the final second for the six-point margin.

Bob Elliott scored 30 points and 14th-ranked Arizona reeled off 14 in a row in the first half en route to an 80-67 triumph over Stanford, despite 28 points and 13 rebounds by the Cardinals' 7-foot center, Rich Kelley.

Larry Haralson scored 21 points to lead Drake to a 92-71 upset of 15th-ranked South Carolina in consolation play in the ECAC Ocean State tourney.

Drake shot 53 per cent from the field, opened a 42-30 halftime lead and coasted home.

Arizona State, ranked 16th, raised its record to 10-1 by coming from 10 points back in the second half to beat Oregon State 80-71 for third place in the Far West Classic. Guard Lionel Hollins scored 22 points and paced the Sun Devils with his ballhandling and defense.

Calvin Bruton, playing with a leg cast to protect torn ligaments in his right foot, scored 18 points and guided Wichita State to a 95-91 upset over 19th-ranked Memphis State.

Adrian Dantley's 35 points and 11 rebounds carried Notre Dame, which is tied for 19th with Memphis State in the national rankings, to a 93-83 victory over pesky Butler.

In the finals of the Big Eight tournament, Rick Stuttle's twisting jumper with 38 seconds to play lifted Kansas to a 76-75 triumph over Iowa State.

In the Virginia Commonwealth Classic, the host team was buried by a 16-2 spurt in the second half, with Sonny Parker scoring 10 of the points — and dropped an 84-70 decision to Texas A&M in the final. Parker finished with 27 points on 13 of 17 shooting from the field.

In other games, Brigham Young beat Bradley 100-87, Ohio U. defeated Loyola of Chicago 75-63, Tennessee whipped Vermont 115-86 and New Mexico State stymied Texas-El Paso 61-39.

And DePaul Coach Ray Meyer, who got the 500th victory of his career Saturday night, has started on his next half-century. Freshman Dave Corzine scored 20 points and Ron Norwood added 18 to lead DePaul to a 76-63 triumph over Northwestern.

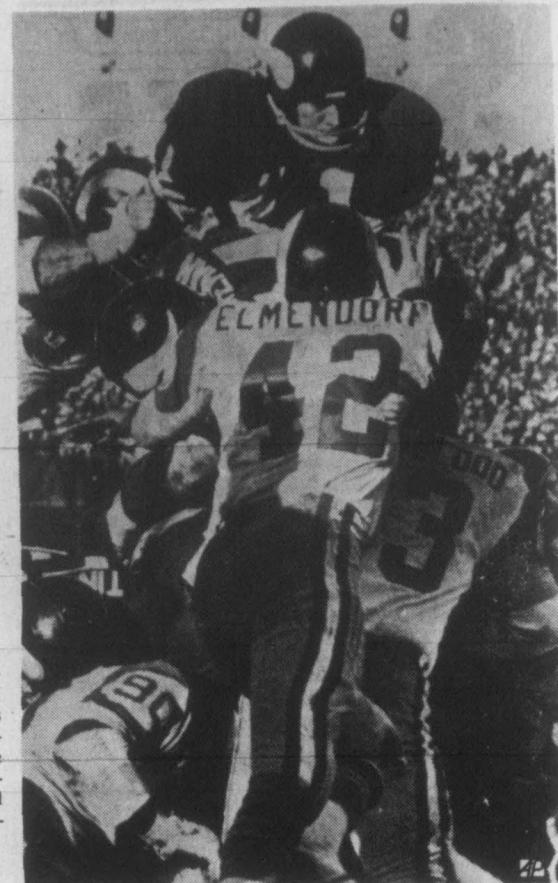

Superstars Prelim

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — Seven major league baseball players are among the 12 athletes who will take part in the preliminary men's Superstars competition here Jan. 22-23. Four of the 12 will go into the finals Feb. 17-18.

Steve Garvey, Lou Brock, Rollie Fingers, Rod Carew, Carl Yastrzemski, Jim Wynn and Bobby Murcer will represent baseball. The others are soccer's Kyle Rote Jr., boxer Jerry Quarry, rodeo's Marvin Sholders, skier Hugo Nindl and motorcycle daredevil Joe Einhorn.

The top four placers will join pole vaulters Bob Seagren and Steve Smith, skater Ard Schenk and pro basketball player John Havlicek, who gained the final in the first qualifying last August.

OSBORN OVER — Minnesota Viking Dave Osborn (top) goes over the top of Los Angeles Rams Dave Elmdorf (42) and Jim Youngblood, right, to score winning touchdown in the fourth quarter of the NFC championship game in Bloomington, Minn. Vikings will meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Super Bowl in New Orleans.

North Carolina State Rings In Year As Number One Team

By The Associated Press
North Carolina State rings in the New Year as the No. 1 team in the world of college basketball — but Kentucky has something to cheer about, too.

The Wildcats leaped into the Top Ten by dumping Notre Dame 113-96 Saturday night in a battle of ranked teams. Kentucky, 17th a week ago, rose to ninth place on a 7-1 record in The Associated Press voting released Monday, while the Irish, now 4-3, plummeted from 13th to a tie with Memphis State for 19th place.

Oregon, 7-0, also rocketed eight places to the No. 11 spot, after beating Villanova then reaching the final of the Far West Classic with victories over Creighton and Arizona State. Despite the loss, Arizona State moved into the rankings as the No. 16 team with a 9-1 record.

North Carolina State, 8-0, remained atop the weekly rankings, again followed by 10-0 Indiana, 8-0 UCLA and 7-0 Louisville. The Wolfpack, who conquered Pitt and Kent State last week, received 756 points and 26 of 40 first-place votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Hoosiers, who beat Florida and Ohio State in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, were favored on 11 ballots and wound up 40 points behind N.C. State.

UCLA received two first-place votes and 668 points after winning the Maryland Invitational by handing Maryland its first loss of the season. The loss left the Terrapins, with a 7-1 record and dropped them to seventh from fifth.

Louisville captured the remaining No. 1 vote and 568 points after winning its own Holiday Classic by beating Western Kentucky and Florida State.

Southern Cal, 8-0 after routing Rutgers in the Holiday Festival in New York, and Alabama, 5-0, after beating Virginia Tech, advanced one place to sixth and seventh, respectively. Rutgers' loss dropped the Scarlet Knights to 8-2 for the season and out of the rankings.

North Carolina, 5-1, held on to eighth place after edging Utah 94-91, and Providence, 7-0, moved up two places to 10th behind Kentucky after two Holiday Festival triumphs.

Joining Oregon in the Second Ten were No. 12 Penn, Marquette, Arizona, South Carolina, Arizona State, Michigan and Purdue with Notre Dame and Memphis State, tied for 19th.

Penn was ninth a week ago, Marquette 14th, Arizona 10th, South Carolina 11th, Purdue 15th and Memphis State 16th. Michigan and Arizona State are newcomers.

Bucks Hand Buffalo Its Fifth Defeat In Six Outings

By The Associated Press
No one ever really stops Buffalo's Bob McAdoo but Kareem Abdul-Jabbar came relatively close Monday night, close enough for the Milwaukee Bucks to hand the slumping Braves their fifth loss in six games.

The 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar scored 31 points and hauled down 28 rebounds while holding McAdoo to 29 points and only 10 rebounds as the Bucks dumped the Braves 106-91. McAdoo's 29 points were only three below his National Basketball Association season's average, but the Buffalo sharp-shooter managed to hit just 11 of 33 attempts from the field.

"I think the inspirational play of Kareem early in the game jacked everyone up," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello. "He knew he had a tough job to do, covering McAdoo, and the way he went at it gave everybody a charge."

"I just tried to play a good game," said Abdul-Jabbar. "Inspiration is all right, but when you're in last place in your division like we are, every game is important."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Washington rolled over Cleveland 103-90, Detroit beat Chicago 86-81, Houston topped Los Angeles 120-107 and Golden State defeated Kansas City-Omaha 110-102.

In the American Basketball Association, New York downed Memphis 128-119, Kentucky trimmed Virginia 104-85 and Utah shaded San Antonio 105-104.

The Grapefruit Bowl?

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — If Penn State's Nittany Lions can beat Baylor in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day, Pennsylvania will be richer by one crate of Texas grapefruit.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania sent a telegram Monday to Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas, betting a bushel of mushrooms against the grapefruit on the game's outcome.

Shapp plans to fly to Dallas for the game.

Franchise Revoked

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The American Soccer League has revoked the Rhode Island franchise from its present owners and plans to put the franchise up for sale at a meeting in New York Jan. 4.

Bob Cousy, league commissioner, said Monday the league definitely would have a team in the Providence area during the next season, even if the league has to operate it.

The franchise was revoked from Soccer, Ltd., the corporate name of the Rhode Island Oceaners, after the owners failed to post a $100,000 league assessment earlier this month.

Enter Hall Of Fame

DALLAS (AP) — Golfing great Lee Trevino, Olympic gold medalist Randy Matson and former All-Pro Baltimore Colt safety Raymond Berry enter the Texas Sports Hall of Fame today.

Also being enshrined during the annual luncheon, a prelude to the Cotton Bowl game, will be the late Bill "Jitterbug" Henderson, a five-sport letterman at Texas A&M.

LONG LAST QUARTER

MIAMI (AP) — When the Miami Dolphins beat the New York Jets 24 to 17 the final quarter lasted 50 minutes. Time outs and the numerous ball exchanges sent the National Football League game past the midnight hour.

Honor Student Faces Murder Charges Following Shootings

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — An honor student who was one of the best marksmen on his high school rifle team faces arraignment today on three murder charges in the sniper shooting deaths of three persons at Olean High School.

Eleven persons were injured. Eight of them apparently were struck by bullets or fragments of bullets, authorities said, and the other three were hit by flying bits of glass.

Anthony Barbaro, 17, a senior, was captured Monday afternoon after police stormed a room on the school's third floor. The youth, lying on the floor and wearing an apparently defective gas mask, was not injured but was overcome by police tear gas, police said.

A National Guard tank had been sent to the school to help in the removal of injured during the bloody two-hour shooting rampage by the son of a manufacturing firm executive. Authorities said they did not know why the youth opened fire.

Classes were in recess for the holidays, but several pupils and school employees were in the building at the time.

Shot to death were Mrs. Carmen Wright, 25, who was riding by the school in a car; Neal Pilon, 58, a gas company meter reader who was gunned down on the street; and school custodian Earl Metcalf, 62, who was shot inside the school.

Most of the wounded were firemen responding to a report of fire at the school. Hospital spokesmen indicated that eight were struck by bullets or fragments of bullets while three others were hit by flying bits of glass. One of them, Herbert Elmore, was reported in serious condition with a head wound.

School Principal Louis Nicol said the youth ranked eighth in his class scholastically and had "no discipline problem whatever." Nicol described Barbaro as "quiet, more of a loner than not," and "a real good shot" on the rifle team.

Richard Krott, the school's head custodian, said the shootings began about 3 p.m. He and his 12-man crew were in the school doing routine maintenance when a school secretary told him there was a fire on the third floor.

He said he and his men rushed to the floor and found the hallway was filled with smoke. He said that shots were fired and he and his men fled. He said Metcalf, a custodian at Olean High for 27 years, failed to return with the others.

Metcalf, who had been shot in the chest, was found about 20 feet from the room where Barbaro was arrested.

Watergate Cover-Up Jury Begins First Full Day Of Deliberations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the Watergate cover-up trial began its first full day of deliberations today amid indications it will not rush to judgment in its assigned mission "to ascertain the truth."

The jurors arrived early, a full half-hour before the defendants, who include three of the most powerful men in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon and two employees of his 1972 re-election committee.

Dashing any expectations of a quick verdict, the jury's first major request after receiving the case Monday was for transcripts, some of them from the earliest stages of the three-month-old trial.

"We'd be trying this case all over again," said U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica as he turned down the request.

Defendants John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson remained in the courthouse while the jury was weighing their fate.

Providing the jury with transcripts was out of the question because the trial record contains bench conferences and testimony taken out of the jury's hearing, Sirica said.

An alternative would be to have the testimony read in Service Planned

A watch-night service beginning at 10 p.m. will be held tonight (Tuesday), December 31, at First Assembly of God, S. 16th Street and Glendale Road.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Lloyd Griffin, pastor of Trinity Assembly of God, Benton. Also, there will be a candlelight service.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the service. Pastor Jerry Hendley invites everyone to attend this special meeting.

Free Coffee To Be Offered At Parkway Rest Stops

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Sleepy drivers traveling the Kentucky Turnpike and the Western Kentucky Parkway on New Year's Eve will be able to get free coffee at three service-area restaurants.

Gladioux Food Services Inc. will serve free coffee at the three sites from 10 p.m. tonight until 7 a.m. Wednesday, the State Transportation Department announced Monday.

Secretary of Transportation Billy Paxton said he hoped the service would induce a rest stop by travelers who need to offset any drowsiness caused by late hours and fatigue.

The centers are at Beaver Dam on the Western Kentucky Parkway and at Lebanon Junction and Shepardsville on the Kentucky Turnpike.

Miss Foust Vows To Get Rid Of 'Chairwarmers' If Elected

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The only announced candidate so far for governor next year declared Monday that if elected she would "get rid of the chairwarmers and use the money saved for needed services to the people."

State auditor Mary Louise Foust said that the cost of administering the Kentucky state government is far too great.

"Tax dollars should be spent, according to law, to benefit all the citizens," she said.

She said she also would cut down on the number of state-owned vehicles, which she said totaled 8,647 as of Oct. 31. She said their purchase price totaled $27.4 million.

"Too many taxpayer-owned cars are used by officials to commute in and drive to a restaurant for lunch when cafeterias are located in all the larger office buildings," she asserted. Miss Foust noted that taxpayers also pay for the gasoline used in the cars.

She said documents have come across her desk recently to buy 51 more new vehicles in November and December at a total cost of $205,745.

'Whistling-In-The-Dark' This New Year's Eve

By The Associated Press
New Year's Eve this year has a whistling-in-the-dark quality about it.

"Things are bad," said a maitre d' at one of San Francisco's better hotels. "No one knows what's going to happen next."

However, a big night was expected there Tuesday at prices ranging from $40 to $55 a person for dinner, dancing, favors and entertainment atop Nob Hill and elsewhere.

Not all is frivolity, however. A college-age group from the First Christian-Reformed Church in Salt Lake City plans a midnight candlelight service.

"In this time of uncertainty, we believe it's best to begin New Year on the firm foundation of God," said a spokesman.

Los Angeles was preparing for its annual Rose Bowl festivities.

Boredom was the mood of Miami Beach socialite Mrs. Lester Moshon as she prepared to usher in the New Year. She declared:

"Going out is the price you pay when you have friends. Staying home alone with the family is utopia. The last three New Year's Eves I recall as not being much fun. We were all so determined to have a good time. It's such a silly thing."

A downtown Honolulu street will be blocked off for a New Year's Eve outdoor dance.

High school senior Robert Howell expects to welcome the New Year on ice skates at Decatur, Ala. He's been spinning around since early last Saturday in quest of a world ice-skating endurance record. Although he hopes to break the record late this afternoon, he plans to continue skating until midnight.

More Americans may stay closer to home this holiday than usual. American Airlines and United Air Lines said holiday bookings were down about 12 per cent. Said a Manhattan travel agent:

"It's very, very slow this year. People are still going to Miami and San Juan, but compared with the past, not as many. People say they just can't afford to go."

The annual New Year's Eve celebration in New York's Central Park begins at 10:30 p.m. In Times Square, an illuminated ball will descend at midnight from atop the 23-story Allied Chemical building as it has every New Year's Eve since 1906, except for two years of World War II blackouts.

Guy Lombardo and his orchestra will ring in the New Year as usual on a national telecast coast to coast from the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on New York's Park Avenue. Those taking in the show in person are doing so at rates of $65 to $75 each.

For those wishing something more sparkling than champagne, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said that it's still legal to use firecrackers in states which permit such use.

The commission seeks a ban on firecrackers and stiffer labeling and performance standards for other fireworks.

Guards Storm Prison Hospital To Rescue Hostages On Monday

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Guards stormed their way into a prison hospital to rescue two women hostages who were being stabbed by convicts in one of two disturbances at the Washington state penitentiary.

The women were among 13 persons held hostages by prisoners during the disturbances which occurred at nearly the same time Monday. All of the hostages were later freed.

"Things are quiet," A. J. Murphy, prison information officer, said Monday night. "Everyone has been returned to his cell."

Murphy said charges probably will be filed against the two inmates involved in the hospital violence. Their identities were not released.

The two inmates forced their way onto the first floor of the three-story hospital and first seized two doctors. Then they released the doctors and moved to the second floor, taking six more hostages, Murphy said.

Prison Supt. B. J. Rhay and aide James Harvey negotiated with the inmates from the first floor for about one hour before 25 specially trained guards carrying riot sticks stormed the floor and freed the hostages.

As the guards entered the hospital, the inmates began stabbing two women hostages, authorities said. They said the two inmates by that time were under the influence of seized hospital drugs.

Stabbed were Wanda Goins, a registered nurse, and Annie Sporleder, a dental assistant. Injured by broken glass were Delores Day, an office worker, and Mrs. Gene Miller, an X-ray technician. All four were reported in good condition at local hospitals.

About the same time, some inmates took control of a cellblock wing and held five guards hostage. Rhay and Harvey negotiated for their release after entering the cellblock unarmed. There were no injuries reported in that disturbance and the 200 inmates in the wing were returned to their cells while guards searched for weapons.

Officials said they did not know how many of the 200 took part in the disturbance, but they believed it was a small number.

Doctor Accused In Death Of Louisvilleian

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. C. Milton Young III, a Louisville physician charged with involuntary manslaughter, has accused the Jefferson County Police Department of bringing the charge as a means of "settling a vendetta" against him.

Young, one of Kentucky's leading authorities on drug abuse, Monday accused the police of "blatant character assassination" and asserted that they had no case against him.

Young, arrested Thursday in connection with the death of Susan Canaccini, 37, told newsmen the toxicologic report on the woman's death revealed a "high level of alcohol" but no drugs in her body.

Charging he is being "harassed by the police," Young said the authorities resent his means of fighting drug addiction by "taking addicts off the street."

He said the police prefer to arrest addicts and added, "I believe in the more permanent means, namely curing them."

Friday Commonwealth Atty. Edwin A. Schroering, Jr. told newsmen he had refused a request by Jefferson County Police to take the case to the county grand jury. He said the information he had been given did not warrant a direct submission.

Code . . .

A principal reason given by many lawmakers for the code not taking effect on July 1st of this year was "to afford a reasonable opportunity for the officer on the block as well as the bench and the bar to become familiar with its contents."

"Kentuckians should be aware of the code's contents and proud their state was one of the first to act in an ever-present problem of keeping society's laws a step ahead of the times," said one Commonwealth official.

Carroll Says Economic Conditions Prompted State Spending Cut Backs

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — While not saying surplus state funds may be less than was anticipated, Gov. Julian Carroll has taken steps to cut back on state spending until he can look into the situation closer.

Carroll took several such steps Monday, his first full day as governor after taking over from former Gov. Wendell Ford Saturday. He said economic conditions prompted the moves, as well as a desire to give him a chance to review existing practices.

Carroll put a 90-day freeze on capital construction projects still in the planning stage as well as on all new property leases and purchasing of new cars and communication equipment. He also told state agency heads to review their personnel vacancies the next 30 days and to abolish those not essential.

Ford came in for considerable criticism earlier this year for awarding property leases to his friends. He later ordered all such leases to be awarded only on the basis of competitive bidding.

Carroll noted some economists are predicting "a drastic change" in the nation's economy next year. While that change might help families by lowering prices, he said, that also would lower the state's tax revenue as well.

He said he did not anticipate any drastic, abrupt change in the construction projects planned by Ford but wanted to per connection to $100 per connection within the city and to $200 per connection outside the city.

Mayor Scott announced the resignations of four persons from positions in the city government. Bob Billington and Charles M. Baker have both resigned from the Murray Planning Commission effective Dec. 31. Baker's term on the commission actually expired 11 months ago but he was asked to remain on the commission by Mayor Scott.

City Prosecutor, Wm. Donald Overbey, announced his intention to resign the position on Jan. 1, 1975, in order to enter the race for Commonwealth's Attorney for the 42nd Judicial District serving Calloway, Marshall and Livingston Counties. That post is currently held by Murray attorney, Ron Christopher who was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Boyce Clayton who was elected in November to the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Mayor Scott also said that Marjorie Dunn, city treasurer, had indicated to him her desire to resign from the post. City attorney Wells Overbey informed the council that the law firm of Hubbard, Null and West in Mayfield was representing a group of residents in the recent annexation on the north side of the city in an appeal before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Overbey did not reveal the particulars of the case but left the impression that he did not think the Supreme Court would hear the case.

Gold. . .

National City Bank and Chase Manhattan Bank, have declined to buy or sell gold.

In a statement typifying the banks' reasons, Chase president Willard C. Butcher said Monday, "We don't at this time believe it is in the public interest to encourage speculative activity in this volatile commodity."

Banks and brokerages which started dealing in gold today, such as New York's Republic National Bank, Bache & Co. and Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., have urged potential purchasers to use caution.

The Mid-American Commodity Exchange in Chicago, one of the smallest dealing in gold futures contracts, held a gathering of traders in the early morning hours today to sell the nation's first gold forward contracts.

Other gold firsts were claimed by the Medallic Art Co. of Danbury, Conn., and Franklin Mint of Franklin Center, Pa. Franklin said it minted the first gold coin since the ban ended by stamping a gold piece for Panama just at midnight. Medallic Art said it struck President Ford's golden inaugural medal at the same time.

In Europe Monday, the price of gold reached record peaks and then fell back in "utter confusion" over upcoming trends, according to dealers in London and Zurich.

In European markets, prices changed hour by hour, with London dealers terming the $196.25 per ounce Zurich closing price "already outdated" by the time the London market closed an hour later at $192.50.

The price of gold jumped to $201.40 an ounce in Paris Monday morning but dropped to $200.12 there in the afternoon. The price is normally higher in France because of exchange control regulations.

Trading was minimal Monday for London and Zurich dealers, and some interpreted the sharp drop in London at the close as an indication of lower trading levels to occur in Europe today.

Two plane loads of gold valued at $10 million went through London's Heathrow Airport in the past few days bound for New York, according to customs officials.
