THE LISTENING POST

Outside a cold November rain was slashing against the windows and running in rivulets down the street. Low clouds swept down upon the earth and over all was the suggestion of December and the dying year. A friend came in; a friend who has recently known the keenest sorrow that can come to man. He had come to the end of the trail here in Fulton after some forty years and he came to tell me a sort of farewell.

For some little time we discussed the many memories we both had and compared some of our experiences. He told me that my friendship for him had meant a great deal, and while we had not been together a great deal over the years, our similarity of professions made us closer together than most people realize. Both of us have followed the same line of work for a great many years and many of his experiences have been mine, and many of mine have been his.

"Naturally it is a big change to me to leave Fulton," he said. "I have been here for more than forty years and I have seen the town change. I have seen friends and acquaintances die or leave this community and somehow it seemed then that such things happened only to other people. Now it is my turn and I am leaving. I knew I could not leave without talking to you and leaving a small token of my esteem."

"While sorrow has come to me I can truthfully say that I am leaving without hopeless sorrow. I wish that I might have gone on here as I have for so many years, but the years have a habit of preventing these things and my time has come to make a big change. I am going to miss many friends as I take up my abode elsewhere, but there will always be the abiding memory of the many deep pleasures I have had over the past years. Those things can never be taken away from me. They are graven deep in my memory, and there they will remain as long as I live."

We talked on at length, and there were some smiles over some almost forgotten memories and experiences. There were also some unshed tears as I remembered some other experiences in connection with this friend. I remembered a hot July day many years ago, just at noon, when death first came to my home. The edition for that day was on press, but when death came suddenly I was dazed and bewildered. It was just at noon and I felt that I should try to get the edition out. I was working at the task, sick at heart, weary, when this man came in. His trained eye took in the situation at a glance. His arm was about my shoulder fleetingly. "Go on home, son," he said. "I will take care of this. Don't give it another thought. I'll get the edition out." And he did. I went home, and he took care of the job that had to be done.

I felt his friendship on other occasions, but the one mentioned will show how closely men of the newspaper profession sometime

PARHAM FAMILY GOES ALL-OUT TO AID IN WAR EFFORT

Jackson, Tenn. —The Parham family of Jackson and Fulton is well represented in this war on both the military and home front.

Thomas A. Parham, William L. and Gerald D. Parham, sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Parham, all are in the Navy. Their father was a well known Illinois Central employe and was chairman of the local B. R. T.

All three were in service before Pearl Harbor.

Thomas, 30, is an electrician's mate, first class, and has been in the service eight years. The only married brother, he is the father of twin baby girls. His wife is the former Helen Hilliard of Martin, Tenn.

William, 21, a fireman, first class, has been in the Navy two years, while Gerald, 19, an aerographer, third class, with the aviation branch, enlisted in September 1941.

The youngest brother, Byron Parham of this city, is a 12-year-old Boy Scout.

EARNST TUCKER DIES IN DURANT

Mrs. Sophia McDowell was called to Durant, Miss., yesterday on account of the death of her brother-in-law, Earnst Tucker. Funeral services and burial were held in Durant yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Tucker, a conductor for the Illinois Central Railroad System, was well known in Fulton. His wife preceded him in death ten years ago.

He leaves a daughter, who lived with him in Durant, and a son in Los Angeles, Calif.

Shakedown Is Mentioned As Flynn Is Held For A Trial

Los Angeles. —Errol Flynn was held today for Superior Court trial on three counts of statutory rape, after a preliminary hearing which ended with a photographer's testimony that the actor had told him he was being made the victim of an attempted shakedown.

Flynn, looking little like the dashing hero of a movie drama, was ordered to appear in Superior Court November 23 for assignment of a trial date. At liberty on $1,000 bond, he is accused of twice violating Peggy La Rue Satterlee, Hollywood showgirl, on a yacht trip when she was 15 years old, and of once raping Betty Hansen, 17, of London. —Adolf Hitler declared Sunday night that Germany would strike a counter-blow in due time against the United States Army landings in North Africa.

"Wherever the fronts may be again and again Germany will parry and go over to the attack," he said in a world broadcast speech delivered to his party stalwarts at the Loewenbrau beer cellar in Munich on the eve of the anniversary of the Munich putsch of 1923. He spoke for 85 minutes, starting at 6:08 p. m. Munich time (12:08 p. m. Fulton wartime).

"The decisive last word will certainly not be spoken by Mr. Roosevelt," he asserted, and then added in an implication that Germany was caught unprepared for immediate action:

"We will prepare all counter-blow as thoroughly as always, and they will come in due time."

At one point in his speech Hitler promised terrible reprisals against his foes, whom he accused of attacks on non-military targets in Germany.

"The moment will come," he said, "when the enemy will find out that Germany's inventive genius has not been asleep. The enemy will receive such a reply that he will be overwhelmed and stupefied."

Although Hitler did not explain his threat, some listeners believed he was hinting at the use of a new weapon—perhaps gas.

The end of the war seemed much on the Nazi Fuehrer's mind and again that his confidence was unshaken—that he would not desert them and flee the country, but would stay and fight to the bitter end.

In this unusual tone, Hitler said to recall the conditions of Germany's crackup in World War I. He told his followers that he foresaw no repetition of Germany's collapse of 1918.

"The Kaiser," he said, "was a man who did not have the strength to see things through."

"In me they (the Allies) have an opponent now who doesn't even think of the word capitulation."

Nation's Income Hits All-Time High In Washington Reports

Washington. —Monthly income payments to individuals totaled $10,128,000,000 in September, and were the largest for any single month, the Commerce Department announced today.

The September figure was at an annual rate of $116,200,000,000, the department said, which would compare with the totals of $2,100,000,000 last year and $82,600,000,000 in 1939.

Chief reason for the rise, the department said, was the sharp increases in wages and salaries paid by war industries. Another factor was seasonal disbursement of dividends and interest and heavy marketing of farm products.

During the first nine months of this year income payments to individuals reported by the department have aggregated $80,529,000,000, an increase of 22 per cent over the period last year. Wage and salary payments, $55,991,000,000, were 25 per cent greater.

HARTMAN COMES BACK TO FULTON FOR THIRD YEAR

Rev. Rucker And Rev. Peery Return To Two Circuits Here

Rev. Loyal O. Hartman, pastor of the First Methodist Church here for the past two years, was returned by the Memphis Conference for the third year in the closing session held in Memphis yesterday. While it was generally believed that this popular pastor would return, final action brought genuine pleasure to the entire community. For Pastor Hartman has done a great work with the local church and has been a splendid citizen in every sense. Last year the Methodist Church enjoyed its best year in history and under Pastor Hartman's leadership it is probable that even greater work will be done in the future.

Also returned was the popular Rev. E. B. Rucker to the Fulton Circuit, and the well-known Rev. T. L. Peery to the South Fulton Circuit. This action is also pleasing to the people of the community as well as to the churches involved.

In the Paris District, of which the Methodist Church is a member, the following assignments were made:

R. A. Clark, District Superintendent; Almo Circuit, L. E. Schaefer, Accepted Supply; Big Sandy Circuit, R. E. Hickman; Bradford Circuit, C. A. Riggs; Cayce Circuit, B. A. Walker; Cottage Grove Circuit, J. E. Hopper; Dresden Station, H. W. Davis; Dresden Circuit, Bryan Bishop, Accepted Supply; Fulton Station, L. O. Hartman; Fulton Circuit, E. B. U. S. DISPUTES ON SMALL POINTS CHEER PRESIDENT

Washington. —The question of just how to brew coffee, President Roosevelt said today, appears destined to rank with the old controversy of whether to crumble or dunk.

Such little issues, he remarked to his press conference, reflect a grand American sense of humor.

The President said he had seen that his friend, the little Mayor of New York, had stirred up a hornet's nest with his suggestion of how to stretch limited coffee.

Mayor LaGuardia's idea was to save used coffee grounds, and, when an extra cup or so is wanted during the day, sprinkle in some fresh grounds and make the mixture do.

B. M. STONE WAS POPULAR PRINCETON MAN—FUNERAL TUESDAY

Mrs. N. T. Morse returned to Fulton yesterday from Princeton where she was called because of illness and death of her brother, Bayless M. Stone, a very popular citizen of Princeton who imparted unforgettable kindness and cheer to Princetonians during 30 years of service at the postoffice there. He was 60 years of age.

He was born near Princeton and lived his entire life there. In 1913 he became an employee of the postoffice and is known among postoffice employees in Fulton.

He is survived by his widow, a son, B. M., Jr.; a daughter, LaRue; three sisters, Mrs. N. T. Morse, Fulton, Mrs. Anna Lee Stone and Mrs. J. E. George of Princeton; a stepmother, Mrs. W. O. Stone, a nephew, Oscar Prince George and many relatives.

He was a charter member of Princeton Elks Club, which conducted a ceremony at the grave, and a member of First Baptist church. He was also secretary of the Civil Service Commission in Princeton.

Miss Pauline Earle returned Saturday from Memphis, Tenn., where she has been visiting her brother.

Briton To Help America In Fixing Arms Goal To Be Set

Washington. —A blueprint of Anglo-American war production in 1943, President Roosevelt indicated today, will result from the current visit to this country of Oliver Lyttelton, British Production Minister.

The President told a press conference he had been conferring with Lyttelton yesterday and today, that the British official probably would be here two or three weeks, and that they were going over the British-American production program for the next calendar year.

Estimates Prepared Periodic check-ups and revisions of the joint production program

Washington. —American forces smashing forward by land, sea and air along the shores of French Africa "are advancing rapidly," the War Department announced Sunday night—"and other landings continue."

Further, said a communique, "the lack of resistance encountered at most of the North African beaches" indicated that the French there "had no desire to oppose the entry of American troops."

"Our naval forces are in control," the communique declared after noting that only the French Navy units, commanded by British-hatting Adm. Jean Darlan, appeared to be contesting the advance of the substantial American force upon which rests a hope of striking decisively at the point where the Axis appears most vulnerable in this global war—time European shores across the Mediterranean from North Africa.

"Several important airfields have been occupied by the United States Army Air Forces and the Royal Air Force," the communique said, adding that the Rangers, hard-bitten American version of the British Commandos, are taking part.

Navy losses were listed as two small ships sunk in Oran Harbor and one transport damaged.

The men aboard this transport, under an unidentified commander "who refused to be identified," though his ship had been torpedoed, took to their landing craft and, some hours and 120 miles later, landed at their objective Sunday morning.

He pointed out, as he has previously, that experiences and conduct of the war required constant revision of plans.

While Lyttelton does not speak for all the United Nations in production, Mr. Roosevelt said, all the output of Britain and America is earmarked for these nations.

Through constant daily contacts, the President said, the wishes of the other United Nations are ascertained.

SPORT TALK

One of the best games played in the West Kentucky Conference was turned in by Henderson and Hopkinsville, with the latter team nosing out the Purple Flash 25 to 18. Henderson has come forward remarkably this season, and it seems evident that the team is one of the best in the loop. Hopkinsville, while not as strong as last year, has turned out to be pretty strong and only Mayfield holds a decision over the Tigers—that being by the skippy margin of 6 to 0. It seems evident that if Madisonville can get all crimples ready for Thanksgiving the Maroons may give Hopkinsville a spirited argument, but outside of that one game Hopkinsville is not due to lose any more games.

It also appears that Mayfield will be the Conference champs, although Marion is likely to finish with a clean slate. The Blue Terrors have not played as tough a schedule as the Cardinals, however, being matched against B teams for the most part, and it isn't likely that Marion can be awarded the championship.

Tilghman faces the possibility of another loss this week when Manual of Louisville comes to Paducah for a game. Manual is said to be one of the strongest teams in the state—much better than St. X, defeated by Tilghman—and expert observers are inclined to favor Manual in this game.

Mayfield will have a breather this week in the first home game played there in five weeks. Bowling Green comes to the Cardinal stadium, and Bowling Green has been kicked around by practically every team faced this season. The Cards came out of their hard game in Cape Girardeau in good shape, and will run over Bowling Green quite nicely, it seems certain. Last year Bowling Green held the Cards to a 12 to 0 score, with the Cardinals losing to Fulton the next Thursday 19 to 6. The games come in the same order this year, but only a miracle could upset the Red made this year. Neither the Bowling Green team nor the Bulldogs appear to have as much as they had last year, although the local team may be going to throw more of its strength into this final game than for the past two or three weeks.

While I do not have any figures on the matter, I am inclined to believe that high school football has done pretty well financially this year. Many games have had capacity crowds, and while gas rationing may have some effect on Thanksgiving Day games it seems certain that every team has had at least average attendance this year. Whether this will be the final season for the duration remains to be seen, for it may be that travel restrictions will be loosened before another football season rolls around.

Basketball is now the problem that is confronting the schools. Many of the smaller schools are located where they cannot be reached by regular trains or buses, and it is also true that guarantees for visiting teams have never been large enough to buy such transportation. In past years the Bulldogs have traveled in private cars, with school organizations supplying the gasoline. It has been easy to get three or four cars under these terms and carry the players wherever necessary. This season this will be impossible, for few people wish to use up their tires in such manner, and after this month not many car owners can get over four gallons of gasoline per week. This is going to make other arrangements necessary and what these arrangements may be I have no idea. Certain localities can be reached by regular train or bus, if it is true, but using only these methods of travel will make schedules vastly different. It isn't likely that crowds could be attracted to games played in the afternoon, although playing in the afternoons might make it possible to reach certain places which otherwise could not be reached without an overnight stop. It is to be hoped that government officials will issue some rulings which will make basketball possible.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

IN making a bull's-eye or making a soft drink there are no short cuts to "know-how". That's the explanation of why so much satisfaction is packed into the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Fifty-seven years of knowing how to blend Nature's choicest ingredients explain the different kind of refreshment you get in Coca-Cola.

A finished art in its making creates its original taste. You've never found this delicious taste in anything else except in Coca-Cola itself. The same skill guarantees the unique quality you expect in every drop of this best-liked soft drink on Earth.

Note how Coca-Cola goes beyond merely quenching your thirst to leave a delightful after-sense of refreshment. Here's energy that you can really feel. Be sure you get the real thing. There's no comparison. Call for ice-cold Coca-Cola by its full name or by its familiar abbreviation—Coke. The best is always the better buy.

Outdoor action calls for a refreshing indoor reaction. It calls for ice-cold Coca-Cola. It's only a little thing, but the big things it does to please people make it the best-liked soft drink on Earth.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember! Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

TRAVEL in WARTIME

THE fact that the United States is a nation of travelers is largely due to the efforts of the railroads to increase passenger business by cultivating the desire to go places and providing attractive transportation to get there. It is therefore surprising to find the railroads withdrawing accustomed passenger services and urging the American people to refrain from unnecessary travel. This, however, is being done and will be done increasingly.

The reasons for this move need to be recognized and understood.

The passenger transportation required by our armed forces is enormous and is increasing every day. This must be met in full and will be, come what may.

Civilian travel essential to winning the war has also grown tremendously and will continue to grow. For this the railroads must provide transportation to the limit of their ability to do so.

After these comes the movement of civilians whose travel, however important to themselves, is not an indispensable part of the war effort. So far the railroads have done about all they have been called upon to do for these travelers. However, the time is at hand when there will have to be an increasing curtailment of this kind of travel to make way for war transportation.

Changes are being made in railroad passenger services. Seasonal trains to Florida have been ruled out. There will be no chartered cars or special trains except for military business. Second sections of established trains will not be operated except where they have been operated regularly in the past. Passenger schedules are being lengthened to accommodate longer trains and more stops. Such changes are being made to insure that the railroads continue to provide all the passenger transportation that is needed to win the war.

This will call for some sacrifice by all of us. It will mean giving up, possibly for the duration of the war, the cherished privilege of going whenever and wherever we please. Knowing it is for our national war effort, we all should and will respond willingly, cheerfully. In so doing we shall be contributing to the ultimate victory wherein lies our hope for preservation of the American way of life.

THE LISTENING POST

Outside a cold November rain was slashing against the windows and running in rivulets down the street. Low clouds swept down upon the earth and over all was the suggestion of December and the dying year. A friend came in; a friend who has recently known the keenest sorrow that can come to man. He had come to the end of the trail here in Fulton after some forty years and he came to tell me a sort of farewell.

For some little time we discussed the many memories we both had and compared some of our experiences. He told me that my friendship for him had meant a great deal, and while we had not been together a great deal over the years, our similarity of professions made us closer together than most people realize. Both of us have followed the same line of work for a great many years and many of his experiences have been mine, and many of mine have been his.

"Naturally it is a big change to me to leave Fulton," he said. "I have been here for more than forty years and I have seen the town change. I have seen friends and acquaintances die or leave this community and somehow it seemed then that such things happened only to other people. Now it is my turn and I am leaving. I knew I could not leave without talking to you and leaving a small token of my esteem."

"While sorrow has come to me I can truthfully say that I am leaving without hopeless sorrow. I wish that I might have gone on here as I have for so many years, but the years have a habit of preventing these things and my time has come to make a big change. I am going to miss many friends as I take up my abode elsewhere, but there will always be the abiding memory of the many deep pleasures I have had over the past years. Those things can never be taken away from me. They are graven deep in my memory, and there they will remain as long as I live."

We talked on at length, and there were some smiles over some almost forgotten memories and experiences. There were also some unshed tears as I remembered some other experiences in connection with this friend. I remembered a hot July day many years ago, just at noon, when death first came to my home. The edition for that day was on press, but when death came suddenly I was dazed and bewildered. It was just at noon and I felt that I should try to get the edition out. I was working at the task, sick at heart, weary, when this man came in. His trained eye took in the situation at a glance. His arm was about my shoulder fleetingly. "Go on home, son," he said. "I will take care of this. Don't give it another thought. I'll get the edition out." And he did. I went home, and he took care of the job that had to be done.

I felt his friendship on other occasions, but the one mentioned will show how closely men of the newspaper profession sometime

PARHAM FAMILY GOES ALL-OUT TO AID IN WAR EFFORT

Shakedown Is Mentioned As Flynn Is Held For A Trial

Los Angeles, —Errol Flynn was held today for Superior Court trial on three counts of statutory rape, after a preliminary hearing which ended with a photographer's testimony that the actor had told him he was being made the victim of an attempted shakedown.

Flynn, looking little like the dashing hero of a movie drama, was ordered to appear in Superior Court November 23 for assignment of a trial date. At liberty on $1,000 bond, he is accused of twice violating Peggy La Rue Satterlee, Hollywood showgirl, on a yacht trip when she was 15 years old, and of once raping Betty Hansen, 17, of London, —Adolf Hitler declared Sunday night that Germany would strike a counter blow "in due time" against the United States Army landings in North Africa.

"Wherever the fronts may be again and again Germany will parry and go over to the attack," he said in a world broadcast speech delivered to his party stalwarts at the Leewenbrau beer cellar in Munich on the eve of the anniversary of the Munich putsch of 1928. He spoke for 55 minutes, starting at 6:08 p. m. Munich time (12:08 p. m. Fulton wartime).

"The decisive last word will certainly not be spoken by Mr. Roosevelt," he asserted, and then added in an implication that Germany was caught unprepared for immediate action:

"We will prepare all counterblows as thoroughly as always, and they will come in due time."

At one point in his speech Hitler promised terrible reprisals against his foes, whom he accused of attacks on non-military targets in Germany.

"The moment will come," he said, "when the enemy will find out that Germany's inventive genius has not been asleep. The enemy will receive such a reply that he will be overwhelmed and stupefied."

Although Hitler did not explain his threat, some listeners believed he was hinting at the use of a new weapon—perhaps gas.

"The end of the war seemed much on the Nazi Fuehrer's mind and again that his confidence was unshaken—that he would not desert them and flee the country, but would stay and fight to the bitter end."

In this unusual tone, Hitler saw fit to recall the conditions of Germany's crackup in World War I. He told his followers that he foresaw no repetition of Germany's collapse of 1918.

"The Kaiser," he said, "was a man who did not have the strength to see things through."

"In me they (the Allies) have an opponent now who doesn't even think of the word capitulation."

Nation's Income Hits All-Time High In Washington Reports

Washington, —Monthly income payments to individuals totaled $10,128,000,000 in September, and were the largest for any single month, the Commerce Department announced today.

The September figure was at an annual rate of $116,200,000,000 the department said, which would compare with the totals of $2,100,000,000 last year and $2,600,000,000 in 1939.

Chief reason for the rise, the department said, was the sharp increases in wages and salaries paid by war industries. Another factor was seasonal disbursement of dividends and interest and heavy marketing of farm products.

During the first nine months of this year income payments to individuals reported by the department have aggregated $80,529,000,000, an increase of 22 per cent over the period last year. Wage and salary payments, $55,991,000,000, were 25 per cent greater.

U. S. DISPUTES ON SMALL POINTS CHEER PRESIDENT

Washington, —The question of just how to brew coffee, President Roosevelt said today, appears destined to rank with the old controversy of whether to crumble or dunk.

Such little issues, he remarked to his press conference, reflect a grand American sense of humor.

The President said he had seen that his friend, the little Mayor of New York, had stirred up a hornet's nest with his suggestion of how to stretch limited coffee.

Mayor LaGuardia's idea was to save used coffee grounds, and, when an extra cup or so is wanted during the day, sprinkle in some fresh grounds and make the mixture do.

Briton To Help America In Fixing Arms Goal To Be Set

Washington, —A blueprint of Anglo-American war production in 1943, President Roosevelt indicated today, will result from the current visit to this country of Oliver Lyttelton, British Production Minister.

The President told a press conference he had been conferring with Lyttelton yesterday and today, that the British official probably would be here two or three weeks, and that they were going over the British-American production program for the next calendar year.

Estimates Prepared Periodic check-ups and revisions of the joint production program

Washington, —American forces smashing forward by land, sea and air along the shores of French Africa "are advancing rapidly," the War Department announced Sunday night—"and other landings continue."

Further, said a communique, "the lack of resistance encountered at most of the North African beaches" indicated that the French there "had no desire to oppose the entry of American troops."

"Our naval forces are in control," the communique declared after noting that "only the French Navy units, commanded by British-hatting Adm. Jasp Darlan, appeared to be contesting the advance of the substantial American force upon which rests a hope of striking decisively at the point where the Axis appears most vulnerable in this global war—time European shores across the Mediterranean from North Africa."

"Several important airfields have been occupied by the United States Army Air Forces and the Royal Air Force," the communique said, adding that the Rangers, hard-bitten American version of the British Commandos, are taking part.

Navy losses were listed as two small ships sunk in Oran Harbor and one transport damaged.

The men aboard this transport, under an unidentified commander who refused to be identified, were though his ship had been torpedoed, took to their landing craft and, some hours and 120 miles later, landed at their objective Sunday morning.

ELEVEN MONTHS AFTER PEARL HARBOR

Eleven months ago today Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor while Japan's special envoy Saburo Kurusu and Ambassador Nomura were conferring with Secretary Hull on possible ways of maintaining the peace of the Pacific. In the light of that treacherous assault we may now look back over the long hard road that led through humiliating reverses to the gallant stand of the Army and Marines on Guadalcanal, to the epic defense of Stalingrad and to the headlong flight of General Rommel's Germans and Italians in North Africa. In the brief period the war picture has completely changed.

Eleven months ago our Pacific fleet was seriously crippled; our planes and hangars on Hickam Field a mass of twisted steel. Then followed the series of lightning Japanese conquests which began at Hong Kong and ended in Burma; Malaya, Singapore, Java, Sumatra, the Philippines, Timor, New Guinea, the Bismarck archipelago and the Solomon Islands. From December to May the Japanese enjoyed a field day of conquests. Then came the battle of the Coral Sea, the battle of Midway and the seizure of Guadalcanal with its strategic air field and of Tulagi and its valuable harbor. The encroachments of the enemy were thrown into reverse; his fighting strength was whittled down; the Americans and Australians had taken over the offensive. The long hard trek to Tokyo had begun.

Eleven months ago the Germans were driven out of Rostov, the gateway to the Caucasus was slammed shut on the herrenvolk and the siege of Moscow was lifted, but the Wehrmacht had dug in for the winter, had established bases from which to launch an offensive in the following summer, had formulated a campaign which, according to the Nazi strategists, would result in the occupation of Stalingrad, in the separation of the Russian Army in the Caucasus from the Russian army on the Volga and in the seizure of the rich Caucasian oil fields. But the miracle of Russian resistance was reported. The Red Army holds doggedly to Stalingrad, Hitler's legions hammer in vain at the defense wall guarding the passes through the high mountains and another winter moves inexorably down from the Arctic Circle upon the German invaders.

Eleven months ago the British Eighth Army under Auchinleck was pushing its way over the desert to lift the siege to Tobruk and to entrap the wary Rommel. Initially the movement was brilliantly carried out, but Rommel escaped, was reinforced, and, following a debacle in which the British lost a half of their men and material, the Germans and Italians established themselves almost at the gates of Alexandria. Now the Eighth Army is determined to finish the job and Rommel's much vaunted Afrika Korps is hotfooting it over the desert faster even than their despised Italian allies.

Looking back over the past eleven months we may well feel that the tide has definitely turned and though warned by officials in Washington against over-optimism we can share the exultation of our British cousins. —Courier-Journal.

cling together. Now the time had come when he was to go, and both of us felt a little like looking down the trail we both have walked. I thought he took his impending change quite sensibly and without any false notions. He knew he was going to miss many of the joys he has known, but even so, there was still something in the future. I thought of Tennyson's great line, "Though much is taken, much abides," and knew that the same though, in different language, perhaps, was in his mind.

After he had gone I looked at the small package he had left. It was the best pen and pencil set that can be bought, and this good friend, in his memory of a long friendship, left two for two members of the staff. I knew then that those things would never be used without a swift thought coming of the kindly man who had given them. That is the best sort of a present—something that will be used daily, and which daily brings thoughts of the giver.

Thus it was that I told farewell to R. S. Williams, for more than forty years a newspaper worker in this town.

TRY TO KEEP ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF DOCTORS FOR CIVILIANS

Washington — Senate manpower investigators strove today to find a way of halting an exodus of physicians from private practice to the armed forces.

Spurred by warnings that the continued commissioning of doctors by the Army and Navy was leaving many communities without adequate medical service, a labor sub-committee called Dr. Thomas Faran, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, for professional advice.

One member, Senator Hill (D-Ala.) said he was convinced that only a compulsory overall manpower mobilization program would solve the problem.

26 BOILED EGGS EATEN AS MARINE'S BREAKFAST

San Diego, Calif. — Pvt. Freeman B. Johnson, Jr., 18, after only three weeks training as a Marine, decided to show his superiors what he could do even without training. He gulped down for breakfast twenty-six boiled eggs. He explained to the alarmed officers that it was an old habit of his and that he often took seventeen eggs at one sitting.

The Marine officers put their heads together and came out of the huddle with the calculation that Johnson had eaten the egg ration of thirteen men.

MISS DORIS BUSHART
WEDS GERALD COOPER
AT STARKVILLE SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Irad Bushart, Fulton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Doris Elizabeth, to Captain James Gerald Cooper, United States Army, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 7, 1942, in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cooper, Starkville. The Rev. Ray, pastor of the First Baptist church in Starkville, performed a simple single ring ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The vows were spoken before a lovely altar of white and green, the background being formed by ferns and palms. White chrysanthemums stood in the foreground and standards of white tapers completed the scene.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a tailored suit of light blue with accessories of navy blue. She carried a white prayer book and orchids. Miss Maxine Maurer, Starkville, was the bride's only attendant, wearing a dress of purple with brown accessories and a harmonizing shoulder corsage.

Gene Cooper of Starkville attended his brother as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for an unannounced wedding trip of a week.

The bride is a graduate of Eastern High School, City of Detroit, and received her A. B. degree from Murray State Teachers College, Murray, Kentucky. She is now doing post graduate work and acting as secretary to Dr. Herbert Drennon, dean of the Graduate School, Mississippi State College, State College, Mississippi, and will continue her work there.

The groom is a graduate of the Starkville High School and received his B. S. degree from Mississippi State College, majoring in Chemistry. He was formerly associated with Borden's Creamery in his chosen profession. He also took ROTC training in college and having become a reserve officer, was called into active service May 6, 1941. He was recently promoted to Captain while in foreign service. Capt. Cooper has, since December, 1942, been stationed in the battle zone in the southern Pacific, but is now on a twenty-day furlough, after which he will assume new duties, at some place now unknown on the Atlantic seaboard.

Attending the wedding were the bride's parents from Fulton.

Mrs. T. M. Pittman will arrive tonight from Waterloo, Iowa for a visit with relatives in Fulton.

PROHIBITION laws are designed to prevent the sale of alcoholic beverages. Such laws do prohibit legal sales in licensed places—but they do NOT and never have prevented illegal sales by bootleggers. The history of Prohibition—federal, state and local—is one of complete failure.

Here is a concrete example: consider the experience of Clark County, right here in Kentucky. In 1938, Clark County voted dry. In June, 1941, it held another election, and this time voted for legal control.

According to records of the Clark County Court and the Winchester Police Court, during the last 11 months that Clark County was "dry", 28 persons were convicted of drunken driving and 11 were convicted of bootlegging. During the first 11 months since Clark County has restored legal control, drunken driving convictions were cut 60%, and only one was convicted of bootlegging.

This is the record where prohibition has been tried and rejected. Doesn't that record speak for itself?

ding Out Program If Aided At Security

Honolulu.—Hawaii is going to become more self-sufficient and have fewer Japanese mouths to feed under plans disclosed by the islands' military commander, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons.

"We are taking no chances with the security of these islands," Emmons said in announcing the new program yesterday. "Enough chances were taken before December 7 and we are not going to be foolish again if I can help it."

He announced the appointment of Walter F. Dillingham as director of food production on the islands and disclosed that some of Hawaii's 161,000 Japanese soon would be evacuated to the American mainland.

"I want to make two points clear," Emmons told reporters. "First, it will not be a mass movement like that on the Pacific Coast; second, it will be on a resettlement plan movement to areas where schools and employment will be available. And we don't plan to evacuate many."

"We do not propose to interfere with the economy of the islands, but

TYPEWRITER SALESMAN OUT TO BUY 'EM BACK

New York.—Typewriter salesmen, going into reverse, are being assigned this week to undoing a good part of their work of the past five years.

They're going to try to "un-sell," to repurchase for war uses, about 600,000 of the typewriters made and sold since 1937, nearly 25 per cent of the "first line" machines turned out in that period.

The potential sources of good used machines, it was pointed out, were offices, schools, industries, institutions and individuals. The salesmen of leading makers would act as procurement agents for the War Production Board, through which the machines would be purchased.

we would like to get rid of as many non-production people as we can. The islands are overcrowded."

FEED LAWN AFTER CRABGRASS KILLED

By feeding the lawn in the late fall, after the crabgrass has been killed, and in the winter or early spring, the bluegrass will get the greatest benefit from the plant food, and the crabgrass will get the least, says Prof. N. R. Elliott of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. On the other hand, if fertilizers are applied in summer or late spring, the crabgrass will get more benefit from them than the bluegrass, for the crabgrass then is making its most active growth while the bluegrass is more or less dormant.

12,787 Shells A Day

Translated into ammunition, kitchen fats and greases turned in each day to Kroger stores throughout the Middle West and South are sufficient for the manufacture of explosives for 12,787 anti-aircraft shells. Examining one of these small but deadly missiles in a Kroger market in Cincinnati is Miss Shirley Doellman, employee of the meat merchandising department at Kroger's general office, who has just given the butcher a pound of waste fat, enough for four shells. Officials of the company report that 19,181 pounds of the fat is collected each week, and when final arrangements for collection from the stores by the renderers are completed, the average weekly figure will be much higher.
