"The moment will come," he said, "when the German people will settle the question of the Yanks on African soil. The end of the war in Africa will be decided on land, not at sea."

U.S. DEPUTIES ON VICTORY POINTS:

SECOND PLACE:

President Roosevelt

Washington, D.C. — America's forces are marching forward by sea and land along the shores of French Africa. "We are advancing rapidly," the War Department announced today. "Our forces are making good progress.""}

Parker, said a commentator, "the lack of resistance encountered at most of the North African landings indicated that the French forces had no desire to oppose the enemy. "Our naval forces are in control," the commentator declared after noting that only the French Navy units, commanded by British-born Admiral Jean Darnand, appeared to be providing the advance of the Allies with the necessary support. "Our forces are making good progress," the commentator concluded.

World War II, 1941-1945

The conflict marked a turning point in the war, with the Allied forces gaining the upper hand. This victory was a significant moment in the Allies' campaign to defeat the Axis powers and bring an end to the war. The defeat of Nazi Germany and Japan marked the end of World War II and the beginning of a new era of global diplomacy and cooperation. The war resulted in the deaths of millions of people, including civilians and military personnel, and had a profound impact on the world's political, economic, and social systems.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The question of just how many forces will be necessary to control the Axis forces in North Africa is still being debated by military leaders. The President said he had heard reports that his friend, the Italian leader Mussolini, had ordered his troops to withdraw from the African front. "Mussolini's crackup in World War I must not be forgotten," the President said.

The President also addressed the question of the war in Africa. "I believe Flynn said he was in the heat of battle," the President said. "I believe he said he was in the heat of battle."
One of the best games played in the West Kentucky Conference was turned in by Henderson and Hopkinsville, with the latter team beating out the Purple Plush in the Conference champion, through Marcin's ability to finish with a clean side. The Blue Tyees have not yet reached their all-star one, however, but with the selectors unable to see the Purple Plush in person, it is safe to say that Henderson fans need not worry about their team in the Conference championship.

Tilghman had the possibility of another tie this week when Manual faced Louisville to round out the schedule of the West Kentucky Conference. Henderson and Hopkinsville will be expected to meet the teams for the most part, and it seems that Madisonville can't get another loss this week when Manual holds the decision over the other team. It seems evident that the team is one of the strongest in the state, and it doesn't seem likely that Marion can be up to that standard.

Mayfield holds the decision over the other team, and it seems evident that high school football has done pretty well financially this year. Many more games have had capacity crowds, and white gas rationing may have some effect on Thanksgiving Day games as some schools have had at least six games without all of the games in the state. Whether this will be the final season for the duration remains to be seen, for it may be that travel restrictions will be imposed before another football season rolls around.

Basketball is now the problem that is overshadowing the schools. Many of the smaller schools are located where there cannot be much played by regular teams or home, and though some have never been home enough to keep up with the regular schedule, those that have have played in private cars, with school expectations hoping the outcome. It has been easy to get through six or nine men under these terms and have the players themselves. This means that we should wish to see them in the coal region, and after this month has run, many car owners can get over five miles of gasoline per week. This is going to make other arrangements necessary and what we should be thinking of is the gas situation. Certain limitations can be set up by regular teams or home, but using only these methods of travel will make resultados ready to get through those. It isn't likely that schools will be able to get through those limits of gasoline per week. It is to be hoped that gasoline will ease soon. Gasoline will ease soon. Gasoline is getting cheaper. PARKHAM FAMILY TO BE WARNED AGAIN TO AID IN WAR EFFORT

NATION'S INCOME HITS ALL-TIME HIGH IN WASHINGTON REPORTS

March 10, 1943

WASHINGTON. — Weekly income payments to civilians totaled $4,864,000,000. war deposits were the largest for any single month, the Commerce-Department announced today.

The publication was at the annual rate of $50,000,000,000, which would carry the total up to a billion dollars. The previous high for any single month had been reached in December, 1942, at $50,000,000,000. The report was based on a sample of 100,000 families.

The chief reason for the rise in income payments was that the number of families receiving them had increased. The Commerce-Department said that the number of families receiving them had increased 20 per cent in the past year. This was due to the fact that more families were now employed in the war industries.
