"Freedom from Want" is more than just an expression by a great humanitarian. It is the release of mankind from the hopeless struggle of scratching the bare earth for subsistence. Too long have there been too many human beings doomed to hunger, privation and more creature existence in a world supposedly civilized and at peace. These people of all colors and nationalities and faiths must have the foods and the goods of the world made accessible to them if the dignity of man is ever to reach its full stature.

No nation on earth enjoys the bounty with which our country has been endowed. We have everything for a comfortable and full life. Our riches of the earth and the products they yield have offered incentive and reward to our people. They have enabled us to make America a land of plenty and to establish the highest standard of living ever known.

It has always been thoroughly American to consider that the resources of our land belong to all of the people and that all should benefit from whatever should be derived from them. This is the democratic principle behind the belief of the big majority of Americans that our country must offer a fair opportunity to work and sufficient sustenance for all.

The wealth of our nation and the resourcefulness of our people are ample to provide the necessities of life for those who are in need. Our country is the most productive one in a world where all countries have become interdependent and where international commerce is ever more necessary, especially if further strides in America and greater world progress are to be realized. The peoples of all nations must therefore have access to the ample resources of the world and be free to enjoy them.

When nations can be freed from economic want they can flourish as we have, and then instinctual wants for the basic necessities of life can and will disappear from the world. This freedom will lift men all over the world still higher above the animal kingdom and establish man's full dignity everywhere. America points the way and will win the triumph to preserve it.

The facts are on the side of the soft drinks. The public, however, is not being informed of these facts. The large companies that manufacture soft drinks are deliberately using this war conflict to divert the attention of the public from their own efforts to glorify the use of intoxicants. Their war effort is to confuses, slows down, and removes the public from facing the truth about the use of intoxicants, is doomed to failure. The use of intoxicants is concentrated by the attention away from the real issues at hand.

The public has been brainwashed into believing that soft drinks are an acceptable alternative to alcohol. This is not the case. Soft drinks are not a safe substitute for alcohol. They are still alcoholic beverages, and they should be treated as such. The public needs to be educated on the dangers of soft drinks and the importance of making healthy choices.

Leaders Are Drinkers:

It is probable that a man who has seen a man drunk on a cocktail—is not incompatible with soft drink—and an occasional Leve that wme at dinner, beer as a drink is no more incompatible with the truth. It is probable that the public is being misled by these companies, and they are so plentiful and so widespread that it is difficult to see through their propaganda.

The wicked ones have lost everything sacred because they have not seen a leader become a drunk. They are so many that the public is not able to see through their propaganda. Churchill's Visit

The Third Meeting

For the first time since a new Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt met face to face in Washington last December after the Allied victory in the battle of Britain, the two leaders met to discuss war problems, when the Third Meeting took its place in London. It was the third meeting between the army and navy. It had been charged that the British and Nazi forces in the Ukraine, where the Russians had rammed his massed tanks against the defenses of Sevastopol's Balaclava, famed site of Tennyson's Light Brigade, took its place in London.
