THE LISTENING POST

● A year, short, action-filled and bitter, has passed since that fateful Sunday morning when Japanese bombers turned Pearl Harbor into a roaring hell of death and destruction for this Nation. Fittingly enough, the Navy, on the eve of December Seventh, gave the public full details of the shocking defeat we suffered on that day—the most shocking, the most shameful that this Nation has ever suffered. On that Sunday the Japanese wiped out half of our battle-ship strength, along with many smaller ships, and left Pearl Harbor wide open for an attack that could have taken the base and left the Panama Canal and the West Coast vulnerable to enemy attack. It was a shameful defeat, and while we may blame Japanese treachery for such startling success, this does not relieve us of a greater share of the blame. Two high-ranking officers were relieved of command following this defeat, but they could not have been solely to blame. There must have been laziness, carelessness, inefficiency in high places. I have often wondered what the effect might have been had Army officers heeded the message a young private gave them—that a large fleet of planes had been accidentally heard over the detectors at the Army base. That was almost an hour before the attack came—probably just after the enemy bombers left the decks of their carriers. Had that warning been heeded and action taken, the enemy bombers would have been intercepted, perhaps beaten and the Jap carriers might have been destroyed. Had this occurred, it is entirely possible that the Philippines might have been held, and the entire course of the war changed.

● That is water over the dam. The warning was not heeded, the Japanese came and American power in the Pacific was crippled for many months. During those months the Japanese spread like locusts over the entire Far East and they are still there. All the outposts have fallen, and the United States had to fall all the way back to Australia to begin the comeback effort. Now for many months could the comeback be started, and even today the effort has barely started to recapture the lost positions.

● A bitter year it has been. Day by day we saw our forces beaten back. Day by day the tide of invasion grew and rolled over the Philippines, Hong Kong, Singapore, Java and lapped at the very gates of India before it began to recede. England felt the power of the Japanese attack, with the loss of all her great bases and the destruction of two of her strongest warships. British troops were beaten back from Burma with terrible losses, and we saw the fall of Bataan and Corregidor, involving thousands of American fighting men.

● Bitter as the year has been we have still made progress. We have not greatly shortened our aid to our allies in the other part of the world, except for the first two months when all available material had to

Deputy Chief Of Staff Says U. S. Must Expect Heavier Losses As Fighting Increases

Declares All Fronts To Be Definitely Widened And Extended

U. S. IS SORRY AS BABY GIRL IS CALLED "HE"

New York — When Uncle Sam is wrong, he'll apologize. Ask the Harold Petersons, parents of Linda Peterson, 2. A photograph made of Linda when she was 10 months old and hadn't the curls she sports now, was used in a Government war bond poster. The poster, circulated nationally, depicts a child saying "please give us little guys a chance . . ." and adds " . . . make sure he grows up a free man . . . on to victory . . . avenge December 7!" The Treasury Department didn't find out until after the posters were printed that Linda was a she, not a he, and she received an apology Wednesday.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

Beginning to night (Monday) every one is asked to be on the alert for a blackout which will be one night between now and next Saturday. Workers are asked to report to headquarters, arrive in Fulton between 5 and 7 o'clock p. m. and call for the town to be blacked out at about 8 o'clock p. m. only about an hour or an hour and a half to get ready for the blackout. Each worker is to be contacted by telephone or otherwise, and requested to get to his respective post. All first-aid workers are asked to report to headquarters at once, unless otherwise advised. All the chiefs are requested to report to headquarters, of (control center) which is at the city hall.

The Air-raid warning signal will be as follows. Both of the Fire sirens will blow for about two minutes and will be followed by the wild-cat steam whistle. This will mean that all lights of all kind and description shall be put out or hidden so it will not be seen from the outside. The all clear signal will be the Wild-cat steam whistle followed by the street lights being turned on.

We hope no one will leave home and leave any light burning any night before the blackout is called. Several did this at the last blackout.

The Defense council wishes to thank one and all in advance for their co-operation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace Gordon of Nashville spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. J. W. Gordon, Eddings street.

Lake Tie-Up For Winter Is Near - Will Affect War Work

Chicago. —Upon a very fickle weather man today hung the fate of a plan to prolong the Great Lakes shipping season to meet the war emergency.

Unseasonable weather threatened to interfere after the Office of Defense Transportation had completed arrangements to encourage traffic beyond the date when the season normally closes.

Lee Now Forming Many vessel men expressed belief the lake season is virtually ended, basing this largely on reports of ice conditions at vital passage points in the upper lakes, and on veterans' intuition about the weather prospect.

However, there are a few boats scheduled to leave some ports with ore, coal and grain and, condi-

Washington. — Extension of America's offensive fronts into Europe and Asia, we can hardly hope to keep our losses low," said Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney. "The bloodless winning of Dakar cannot be duplicated every day. Today all America flames with the offensive spirit. Our watchword is attack. Somewhere ahead lies victory. We must fight our way there. It does not look like a hurry-up job, much as we would have it so."

Green Also Speaks McNarney's address was prepared for a "labor for victory" broadcast sponsored by the American Federation of Labor. He shared the program with Rear Admiral E. W. Mills, assistant chief of the Navy's assistant chief of the Navy's President William Green.

"The Germans are entering their fourth war winter and the Japanese are entering their sixth," McNarney observed. "Both may well be wearying of their ambitions to dominate the world. But, though we be fresh and they aging, we must not miscalculate the degree of their fatigue." Mills said battleships that used to require five years are now turned out in three, and modern destroyers, now turned out in six months, one-third of the time formerly needed to construct them.

"This remarkable increase in the rate of production was made possible only because American labor recognized the urgency," he said. "We have quadrupled war production in less than a year's time," Green asserted. "We have subordinated our own personal advantage to the national welfare and have given priority to only one supreme objective—winning this war in the shortest possible time."

Pauley Says McNutt Likely To Head Man-Power, Draft Systems

Washington. — Executive orders naming Secretary of Agriculture Wickard as food administrator and transferring control over Selective Service to the War Manpower Commission headed by Paul V. McNutt were reported tonight to be on President Roosevelt's desk for action tomorrow.

Washington. — The capital received new indications today that Paul V. McNutt would retain his chairmanship of the manpower commission and possibly be given supervision of selective service as well.

After a conference with President Roosevelt, who has been studying a reorganization of manpower controls, Edwin W. Pauley, secretary-treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, told reporters he would not be surprised if the reorganization had that result.

Pauley said it seemed to him that if McNutt kept his present manpower post, Miss Perkins would be retained as head of the Labor Department. "My personal opinion," he added, "is that Ickes will stay where he is. He has done a most able job in oil."

Pauley said he had visited the President for a discussion of routine party matters. In response to a question, he added that "naturally" he had discussed with the President the political implications of the reported cabinet shifts, which would have required Senate confirmation.

As to the final result of the pending manpower reorganization, he told reporters: "I'm not quoting the President, but I would not be surprised if McNutt kept that job."

SEAL DRIVE IS SCHEDULED FOR COMING WEDNESDAY

Sponsors Are Asking For $400.00 In Annual Drive

Wednesday, December 9th is the date set for the annual Christmas Seal campaign in Fulton and on this date workers will canvass the entire business section of the city in an intensive effort to secure $400. It is hoped to complete the work in two hours, and if the public will give full cooperation this can be done.

The money derived from the sale of Christmas Seals is used for preventing and controlling tuberculosis and one-half of all money raised is used locally. The other fifty per cent is sent to the state headquarters, where it is used in other sections. Tuberculosis has been greatly decreased in recent years by the constant fighting waged against it, but war conditions always bring a rise in the incidence of the disease, and workers are now preparing for an all-out fight to prevent this increase from becoming alarming. The disease will probably never be wiped out, and it will continue to thrive unless active steps are taken against it. Unremitting efforts are required to hold its spread down, and these efforts cost money. This is the sole purpose for the sale of Christmas Seals. All the money thus raised goes into this important fight.

Smith Atkins is the chairman of the local organization this year and has enlisted the aid of the Lions Club for the campaign. He had made plans for several committees to work, and has divided the town into small areas which can be worked quickly.

All business firms are earnestly urged to support this movement as generously as they feel able. They are also asked to have their contributions ready when the committees call on them. This will enable them to get the work through quickly and save valuable time for all parties. Fulton is being asked for $400, and this is a modest sum for so important an object.

POLICE COURT

C. H. Morris was fined $10 and costs on a charge of public drunkenness this morning in Fulton Police court. Jimmie Morrissey and J. E. Burgess were each given 30-day suspended jail sentences on public drunkenness charges and were ordered to leave town immediately. Cramer Mitchell and Oscar Powell, negroes, were each fined $10 and costs for being drunk in a public place. James Burnett, negro, was fined $25 and costs for breach of the peace.

NAME OMITTED

The name of Miss Carla Ann Clark, second grade student at Carr Institute, was omitted from the list of honor roll students published last week.

Talbott Says He Will Quit State Politics In Near Future After Dozen Years

DOG REALLY STRIKES PAY DIRT WHILE DIGGING FOR SKUNK

Guthrie, Ky. — This is a story about a dog that really struck "pay dirt" while trying to catch a skunk it had chased into a hole.

Cents (no, not scents) began to fly as the dog started digging and within a short time gold and silver coins valued at $500 had been unearthed.

It happened several days ago on the Old Camp Place about five miles from here formerly owned by John Willis.

A county official who declined to be quoted by name, said that Bill Spurlin, who lives at the Old Camp Place, reported that the dog dug up a 50-cent piece while digging for the skunk and that several boys who had aided in pursuit of the little animal then took up the search (for more money) and soon had dug out many silver and gold coins bearing dates from 1851 to 1860.

The gold coins were in denominations of $20, $10 and $5 the official said.

The boys said they planned to turn the money over to the owner of the property—a Tennessee whose name was not known here—if he would share it with him.

F. S. — Everybody forgot about the skunk when the money began to fly.

U. S. O. NEEDS DONATIONS FOR NEW CENTER

Fulton People Are Asked To Donate Blankets, Comforts, Pillows, Etc. For U. S. O.

The United Service Organization here is in need of many articles for the new recreation center for the soldiers here and the local citizens are urged to donate to this worthy cause. Blankets, comforts, towels, lights, lamps, cushions, card tables, tables, games, records, and a radio are all badly needed for the new center and any persons having any of the above to contribute are asked to contact Mrs. Jess Nichols or call at the U. S. O. Center.

The new center is open at all hours now for the soldiers passing through Fulton and the public is urged to cooperate in making the new recreation center a success. Signs are now being painted to be put up at the railway and bus stations and volunteer workers are on duty at all times at the center.

Giant Plane Is Planned For Carrying Capacity Of 400

New York. — A gigantic plane which could be transoceanic bomber, cargo ship or transport carrying 400 passengers at a speed of more than 400 miles an hour has been planned to the point where industry could begin production of it, Tom M. Girdler, aircraft and steel executive, asserted.

The engineers who designed the Liberator bomber have conceived this new alrship, Girdler, chairman of the board of Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, Vultee Aircraft, Inc., and Republic Steel Corporation, told members of the New York Chamber of Commerce yesterday. "It could span the Atlantic in a few hours and carry a crew and 400 passengers," Girdler declared. "As a bomber it could make non-stop trips to Europe and return."

Unless something he cannot foresee stops him, Commissioner of Finance J. Dan Talbott will resign January 15 and get out of Kentucky politics, according to a letter from Talbott to Carl A. Saunders, editor of The Kentucky Post, and quoted by Sanders in Saturday's edition of his paper.

Talbott is convalescing from a sinus infection at Naples, Fla., and could not be reached for further comment last night.

In a story under his own byline, Saunders quoted Talbott's letter as follows:

"I have a notion that twelve years of service to the state should be all that one man should be required to give, and I have another notion that if I don't quit and do something for myself now I will soon be at the age where I will be unfit to do anything for myself or anybody else."

Says He Fought Laffoon "Four years I fought Laffoon and tried to cause him to be a good Governor. He refused to be one. For four years with Happy I gave eighteen hours a day to the work at Frankfort and never left except when I was fit to be in the hospital. I have been with Keen for three years and though the work is not as tough as it was, the supervision is tougher. Affairs in Frankfort are in good shape."

"If I take part in selecting the next Governor, I will be tied to another four years and, to a certain extent, will be responsible for it. Every brain cell that I have tells me to quit. Unless something that I cannot foresee stops me, I will resign my position as commissioner of finance the 15th of January. Naturally, I will be interested in seeing Kentucky's affairs carried on well."

"Last March, a year ago, I became determined to quit Kentucky politics. I went to Washington to see Happy and I saw he didn't want me to quit at that time. So I agreed to stay until after his election. Now my mind is made up and Kentucky politics will see no more of me unless something I cannot foresee stops me."

HORNET'S NEST

Wendell Willkie stirred up a hornet's nest when he took a crack recently at Winston Churchill's remarks that what the British Commonwealth of Nations has it will hold.

The whole thing probably was a series of misunderstanding. Either Mr. Willkie or the British misunderstood what Churchill meant, and the British apparently misunderstood what Mr. Willkie had in mind.

The episode has served a useful purpose. Nobody could read the bitterly indignant editorials in the Canadian press without dismissing any idea that Canada was wearied
of its ties with the British Empire.

Most Americans knew that, but of late a few have been muddying
the waters with talk about a join-der of the two great North American nations. They can not forget their pipe dream and get back to the business of good neighborliness.

The general Canadian reaction to Mr. Willkie's speech is fairly indicated by the heading of an editorial in the Ottawa Journal—"The Iron Cross for Willkie."

The Canadian attitude toward the British Empire is well summarized by the Toronto Globe and Mail "On Stopping the Empire." The prominent Dominion journal concedes that Britain can and does make mistakes; but then goes on to refute Mr. Willkie's epithets with some facts.

The United States had almost four times as much of Malaya's exports in 1940 as went to the United Kingdom. "That is to say," remarks the Globe and Mail, "the 'colonial imperialism' which is supposed to be exploiting the country received only one-seventh of the rubber, tin, copra, palm oil and timber shipped abroad."

No colony is taxed for the benefit of Great Britain, says the Globe and Mail, but only to defray local costs of government and public improvements.

"Colonial imperialism" has been,
in fact, a benevolently constructive process by which savage jungles have been made into thriving production areas whose output has been available to whoever cared to buy it in an open market, the Globe and Mail argues.

This may be over-simplification of the situation. It does ignore certain intriguing aspects of British colonial history. And yet the Canadian newspaper's even-tempered analysis goes far to support its conclusion that the so-called "empire" really is more nearly a "union" or "federation."

In any event Canada—and apparently the other dominions—
does not feel that the people of the United States need waste any sympathy on the British provincials.
They're quite well satisfied with their present status.—Exchange.

be shipped to the Far East. After that our increasing production enabled us to resume these shipments, and as the year comes to a close we are told that our production in all lines of war material now exceeds the combined production of all Axis nations.

● But the end is not in sight.
Hard year still are ahead. We have made an army and that Army is now beginning the fight which will roll back the enemy in all parts of the world. Thus we are getting ready to pay the price which must always be paid by a Nation which sends an Army out to fight. Already our casualties have been high, and the coming year will see this tremendously increased. In North Africa we have a large army which is battling against a strong and ruthless foe. In the relatively light fighting of the landing we lost almost two thousand men. Since the actual fighting against the Axis armies started it is likely that we have suffered more casualties than in the first operations. We will take and hold North Africa, of that I am certain. But we will pay for it, and the price may be high. Likewise we will push Japan back in the Pacific; in fact, we are already pushing the Japs back and have inflicted smashing defeats on their sea power. But all this will have its price, and the price has already been high. It will grow higher the deeper we go.

● On this anniversary of our entrance into World War II we have no grounds for discouragement. It is plain that we have made progress. We have not made the progress that the professional optimists believed we would make, but we have not suffered as many defeats as some seem to expect. Our fighting men on the ground, on the sea, under the sea and in the air
have written brilliant records around the world, and they will continue until victory is won. The sobering thought is that the price of victory is high. Freedom is worth any price, however, and that is what we are fighting to preserve.

PUBLIC ASKED NOT TO RIDE TRAINS IN HOLIDAY PERIOD

Chicago. —Pleasure trips on the nation's railroads, in the opinion of Army and railroad officials, should be held to a minimum by the general public during the holiday period—extending from Dec.
12 to Jan. 12.

In a radio forum last night, the officials urged civilians not to plan
any unnecessary railroad trips during the month period because of the increasing strain on existing railroad equipment in the war effort. They emphasized that there would be no rationing of railroad travel.

Rebecca Boaz Weds Arthur Adams, Jr., In Lovely Home Ceremony Saturday

Before a candle-light altar of massed greenery, Miss Rebecca Susanna Boaz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winston, and Arthur Linwood Adams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Adams of Ensenada, Puerto Rico, pledged their vows in a lovely ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Third street, at four o'clock in the afternoon, Saturday, Elder Charles L. Houser, pastor of the Church of Christ, read the single ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives.

The ceremony was performed before a beautiful improvised altar, the windows above the altar being outlined with mountain laurel and boxwood and ferns also being used in the decorations. On either side were floor baskets of white chrysanthemums and standards of lighted white tapers.

A program of nuptial music preceded the service. Mrs. Steve Wiley, pianist played "Fragment from the Unfinished Symphony" (Schubert) and "The Serenade" (Schubert). Mrs. Carol Jones of Hickman, vocalist, sang "I Love Thee" (Greig) and "Calm As the Night" (Bohm). Mrs. Wiley played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the entrance of the wedding party and "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell) was softly played during the ceremony.

The only attendants were Miss Mary Nell Winston, sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miles Allgood, Jr., of Milan, Tenn., best man. Bob Rollins and Stanley Dahl, both of Milan, Tenn., lighted the candles preceding the ceremony.

The maid of honor wore a gown of poudre blue with a tight fitting bodice of faille and a full gathered skirt of net with circular bands of faille. She wore pink rosebuds in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. Her wedding gown was of ivory satin with a sweetheart neckline, outlined in lace, long fitted sleeves, puffed at the top, and ending in points over the wrists. The full skirt was gathered to the moulded bodice. Her finger tip veil of silk net fell from a coronet of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, centered with a pure white orchid and showered with bouvardia.

Mrs. Winston, mother of the bride, wore a model of blue crepe and wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

The bride attended Southern Illinois State Teachers college at Carbondale, where she was a member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority. For the past few months she has been employed at the Proctor and Gamble plant at Milan, Tenn.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston and is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. At the present time he is connected with the Proctor and Gamble Plant at Milan.

Reception Held

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The dining table held the three-tiered wedding cake as a centerpiece and lighted candles in crystal holders were arranged on each end of the table. Assisting in serving were Misses Lillian Cook, Peggy Williams, Jane Alley, Martha Melton and Mrs. Al Gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams left after the reception for a short wedding trip in the South and upon their return will make their home at 201 College street, Milan, Tennessee. For traveling, Mrs. Adams wore a model of rose wool with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Out of town guests at the wedding included, Miss Lillian Cook, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Miss Virginia Meacham, Miss Jane Alley, Miss Martha Melton of Milan, Tenn., Mrs. H. V. Parrish of Nashville, Mrs. W. H. Atkins and son, Joe Hobart, of Paducah, Mrs. Floyd Peeler of Paducah and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boaz of Memphis.

'43 TO BE BIG COUPON YEAR

Henderson Says More Rationing Will Come Soon

New York — The American people today had it straight from Leon Henderson, price administration boss, that they can expect in 1943 rationing of more items—including clothing and food—and punishment of flagrant rationing violators.

Henderson made the forecast to 4,000 industrialists of the National Association of Manufacturers, who wind up tonight their three-day convention marked by pleas for less regimentation and at the same time promises of more.

Henderson told the industrialists last night that the American public has not yet reached the "bottom of the barrel" and 1943 will bring "more czars, more red tape and rationing."

"Big Mistake"

Nevertheless, he said, despite all the talk of the people's impatience, "I know the American public still has a barrel of patience overflowing."

Henderson said one of the biggest mistakes the Government made was in underestimating industry's productive capacity and congratulated the manufacturers for their record, "the greatest of all time."

He said 1943, additionally, will bring more decentralization of the Office of Price Administration from Washington; raising of substandard wages and maintenance of present corporate practices.

But Walter D. Fuller, chairman of the N. A. M. board of directors and president of the Curtis Publishing Company, told a radio audience in an address in connection with the convention that curtailment is being carried to extremes; industries are being concentrated and plants shut down to an extent unnecessary for prosecution of the war.

Lest We Forget . .

"PEARL HARBOR"

When you glance at the calendar and notice the date, doesn't it bring to mind some horrible memories of a year ago? For it was on a peaceful Sunday last December that a new battle cry was born . . . And we Americans still remember Pearl Harbor and the sneaking, treacherous stab-in-the-back we received from those Yellow Devils on that fateful day.

So the month of December brings a note of sadness . . . Lest we forget those innocent people who lost their lives that day, and the brave American boys who have paid with their lives since that time. Yet, we find a source of encouragement in the realization that we are twelve months nearer the Victory and the Peace toward which America has set its course.

Rationing Supply Urged At Missouri Meeting

Kansas City — Pupils won't need coupons — but educators are attempting to devise a teacher-rationing program.

And for the benefit of the oncoming generation, the services of competent teachers had better be rationed, two speakers told the Missouri State Teachers Association convention.

"We have no time to lose," declared Dr. John Milton Potter, president of Hobart and William Smith Colleges, Geneva, N. Y. He urged an immediate wartime policy to distribute teaching manpower.

Otherwise, "we may easily raise up a new generation with only a superficial knowledge of the very values for which we are fighting; a generation unprepared to meet the shocks and strains of the post-war era."

Call For Action

The convention earlier yesterday approved a resolution offered by President Uel W. Lamking of Northwest Missouri Teachers College, calling for a program to assure a qualified teacher for every school.

Unlisted in the resolution, but advocated in his address was a system of outright teacher rationing, to be handled by a central defense agency.

Missouri's 25,000 teachers are moving into the armed forces or war plants at an increasing rate, he told the convention, and "the panic method of hastening poorly prepared, immature or incompetent teachers into schools merely to fill gaps will retard the effectiveness of education for years to come."

1 To 40 Pupils

He suggested assignment of competent teachers on a basis of one to every forty pupils (the State's elementary average is now thirty) with higher salaries, and with State funds offered to cooperating school districts.

And how would pupils reach more distant classrooms?

Pay parents a subsidy for providing transportation — probably the horse-and-buggy kind, he said.

CABLES BAN BLOW TO AXIS

Argentina Cuts Lifeline Of Espionage

Buenos Aires, — Argentina took a long step toward shutting off a reputed Axis espionage lifeline in the Western Hemisphere through institution of sweeping regulations controlling the use of telephone, telegraph and radio communications.

In a measure designed to protect national interests and "the security of the other American State," the Government reduced the quota of code messages allowed to be sent by radio by each diplomatic mission to 700 words weekly.

Blow To Enemies

The Government's action was interpreted as a painful blow to the German, Italian and Japanese embassies which no longer have access to cables controlled by the United Nations.

Cabled messages are not subject to any word limit nor does the restriction diplomatic radio messages apply to those sent in clear language.

Inspectors On Guard

New regulations designed "to guarantee permanent, active control of the communications service" call for the placement of Federal inspectors in all communications company offices and establishments throughout the country of ten control stations to discover and eliminate clandestine radio transmitters.

The regulations were issued following the indictment of thirty-eight persons on charges of committing hostile acts affecting the friendly relations of Argentina and other nations.

The arrests were made in a Federal roundup based on United States charges of the existence of espionage.
