SAFTEYGRAMS

So many times people say, "I had the right of way."

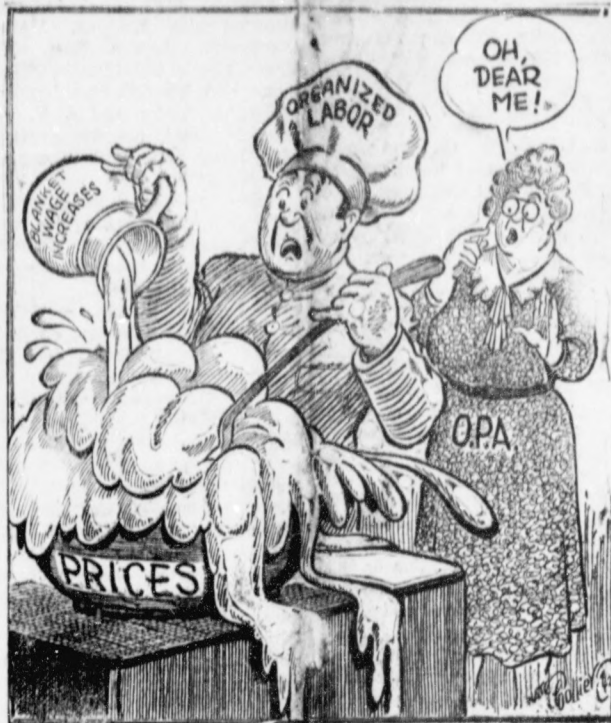

What difference does it make if you had the right of way if you are laid up in a hospital all broken up? There should be no right of way decisions nor anything in our laws regulating the right way. If you and I and everyone else used extreme caution at all intersections and at bad crossings and applied the rule of good common sense and courtesy at these locations, there would be no necessity for having discussions or legal reference about the right of way.

There is no right of way—there is only the right way.

TWO YEARS SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION AVAILABLE FOR HUNTERS

All hunters should buy their ammunition for shotguns for the coming hunting season as soon as conveniently possible. S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, pointed out today, relative to a statement received from Federal officials in which they stated that there would be no point in hunters and shooters dropping their sport because of the war.

Ammunition factories have ceased manufacturing rifle, pistol, and shotgun ammunition for the duration of the war but enough of this type is on hand in wholesale and retail stores to last through this season and possible next. For that reason federal officials in replies to queries from skeet and trap organizations, urged the continuance of these sports and also of hunting as a wholesome recreation.

Wakefield urged all Kentucky hunters to lay in their supply of ammunition for the 1942 hunting season and the 1943 season also.

AMERICAN INGENUITY TO THE FRONT

The old saying, "necessity is the mother of invention," is proving itself over and over in American industry during these war times.

In the laboratories of large companies important strides have been made in chemical, mechanical and other fields by constant research. Many of these new things and new things and new methods cannot be revealed at present, but in nearly all instances they will be available to the public after the war.

An electrical manufacturing company, determined not to let shortages slow down its war production, reports that twenty thousand pounds of nickel—enough to make armor-plate for 55 medium tanks—will be conserved this year by the company through substitution of a newly developed steel for a nickel alloy in war-needed electronic equipment.

"In former years we made one part of the Ignitron equipment—a doughnut-shaped device known as a reactor—out of an alloy containing about 50 per cent nickel," an official of the company explains. "But when it became apparent that more and more nickel would be needed to make steel alloy used in armor-plating, tanks and battleships, we started searching for a substitute material." They found it and as a result valuable materials are being saved for arms.

And then there is another type of research going on within the framework of the great industrial plants now turned wholly to war. It is the application of the "know how" developed in shop and at bench and lathe for better, more efficient and more economical methods of manufacture. Thus, one corporation discloses that more than 15,000 "produce more for victory" suggestions have been submitted in the first two months the plan was in operation.

Far from putting a check on the ingenuity of American industries, scientists, and workmen, the pressure of war supplied a new edge and keenness.

THE COST OF WAR

The rate of war expenditures has risen to nearly forty-six billion dollars a year, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

In his review of the fiscal year ended June 30, Secretary Morgenthau points out that war spending in June totaled $3,823,000,000, nearly five times the figure for June, 1941, and about 40 per cent of the estimated national income for the month.

During the entire fiscal year the Government spent $32,397,000,000, of which $25,954,000,000, or 80 per cent, was for war activities. The Survey continues. Revenue receipts attained the record figure of $12,799,000,000 but left a deficit of $19,598,000,000. About 25 per cent of the estimated national income during the fiscal year was expended for the war effort, and the figure for the current fiscal year is expected to rise to 55 per cent.

With regard to the outlook for the 1942-43 fiscal period, Mr. Morgenthau says that the pending tax bill "should be the start, and not the conclusion, of the wartime revenue program." If only the receipts from taxes now on the statute books are taken into account, he points out, the deficit for the fiscal year that has just begun will be about $56,223,000,000, according to present estimates. This figure must be added to a total national debt of approximately $72,000,000,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Another aspect of the financial outlook was discussed recently by John L. Sullivan, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who stressed the importance of the campaign to borrow at least $12,000,000,000 annually from the current earnings of the people through the sale of War Savings Bonds. "The amount of money we are required to raise is so great," said Mr. Sullivan, "that taxes and the ordinary type of Treasury financing cannot satisfy our requirements. If, through a voluntary savings plan, we cannot borrow the amount we need, we shall be forced to resort to compulsory saving—a prospect not pleasant to contemplate."

The tax bill that was passed by the House of Representatives on July 20 provides for increases in tax yields estimated at $6,271,000,000 annually, bringing the prospective Federal tax burden to a total figure of nearly $23,000,000,000. Even at this level, however, the indicated yield is more than $2,000,000,000 below the "minimum requirements outlined by the Treasury. The greatest single source of new revenue in the bill is individual incomes taxes, for which exemptions are lowered and both normal and surtax rate are increased.

There is a provision for a 5 per cent withholding of individual income at the source beginning on January 1, 1943, and a 10 per cent deduction beginning a year later. Income and excess profits taxes on corporations are sharply increased, the latter being placed at a flat rate of 90 per cent. There is a long list of increases in excise taxes, together with a few new levies. It is recognized that the bill may undergo extensive changes prior to final enactment, and there is considerable doubt that action can be completed before September.

With the passage of several large appropriation measures, the magnitude of the war program has mounted rapidly in recent weeks. An official report made public about the middle of last month placed the total at $233,000,000,000, which includes some appropriations still pending at that time. Among the amounts made available by recent legislation is the largest appropriation in history, totaling $42,800,000,000 for the War Department, including $12,700,000,000 set aside for lend-lease operations and $11,316,000,000 allocated to the aviation program. Another item is the $8,500,000,000 appropriation for Naval construction, which is designed to add 1,900,000 tons of combat ships to the fleet, including 500,000 tons of aircraft carriers and 900,000 tons of destroyers. A bill providing for $1,859,000,000 in supplemental appropriations for war agencies awaits the President's signature.

Towers of Truth

Chinese, Finnish, Tagalog, Dutch, Spanish—programs in more than a dozen tongues go out from the towers of General Electric stations, WGEA and WGEQ, Schenectady, and KGEL, San Francisco.

1. They provide authentic war information for news-starved peoples around the globe, entertainment for U.S. forces abroad. These G.E. short-wave stations...

2. ...have special antennas "pointed" at Australia, South America, China, Europe—making reception there almost as strong as from local stations.

3. They provided the only U.S. programs that reached Bataan. People in conquered lands risk their lives to listen. Smuggled letters say they bring hope of release.

4. Some announcers are regular G.E. production employees, working on war work. They tell people in their native lands that America is determined on victory.

PRUNES AND PRISMS

Every neighborhood, in other years, had a few model children whom many fond mothers held up as ideals for their own to follow. It need hardly be said that these models were the worst hated mortals of that time. Children, trying to be normal, though surrounded by influences that denied any rights to the child, had to face these models of excellence and try to be evil. That child murders were not common speaks much for human forbearance.

The English language as it is spoken is basically all right. (Remember that I am an English teacher, one who always has one class or more in grammar.) The old idea was that "Whatever is, is wrong," at least in language. There were plenty of crudenesses, I will admit, crudenesses that I dislike as much as any of you who read this. But some fond teacher or parent took a fancy to some expression and forthwith tried by example or force to get it into the language of the child. Rebellion followed, accompanied by lectures, paddling, and other forms of punishment. Far too many of these expressions stuck, though, and nearly everybody has them, sticking out like a sore thumb. Few people knew or know how to determine the relative standing of words that prunes-and-prisms experts quibble over; hence any such queer things driven into one's head are likely to stay there and to be transmitted to one's children.

One of the funny bits of teaching that many of us older ones suffered from had to do with pronouncing dictionary. To some the British pronunciation seems all that a word should be; hence obstreperous children are forced to do violence to a good American pronunciation that is good for anybody. Secretary is another such word, seeming to convey to some of its users ideas of vast importance. The funniest feature of this sort usage is that the people who insist on these things do not realize that there are hundreds of other words in British English that use the same lack of a secondary accent. Fluids, however, rarely are consistent; a few test things are sufficient to establish for them a usage that sounds classy.

Worse by far than models of language were and are the children who are recognized as models of behavior. Some Mamma's darling was forever being praised for his good manners, manners that seemed then, as now, about as wooden as anything could be. Fear of parental interference protected these brats, but I wish sometimes that I had braved anything to slap the faces of some of the worst offenders. Plain, genuine manners were regarded as crude; in an effort to cultivate manners that sounded more like those of the heroes and heroines of Mary Jane Holmes's novels parents went too far and soured their children on manners of any sort. Boorishness in my experience is not a quality of children who have been educated in poor or average homes; it crops up in children who have been taught that they are superior because of better clothes and language.

The most hated girl I ever knew lived in a seedy little town, where social-climbing mothers wanted their children to reflect the superior homes in which they had grown up. This girl had a soft voice that made people want to swear, no because of its softness but because of its insincere ring. She dressed somewhat above the average in that section, even though it must have strained the purse of the widowed mother. The teachers liked her or pretended to, but the children, boys and girls alike, said ugly words under their breath every time they saw her and very nearly swore when their parents praised her. In spite of her exquisite articulation and her drawing-room manners, she grew up, married a boor, and is today just a commonplace middle-aged woman, like most of her ex-school-mates.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste-matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to ensue.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, painful or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

To make a Better World for YOUR CHILDREN

WHAT are we fighting for? Ours is supplying electricity to light and operate America's war production plants, and to make your homes more convenient and pleasant. We shall not fail to give our best.

Your obligation is serving and saving, so as to preserve the democratic way of life. It is to fight those both within and without our nation who foster socialism and dictatorship, so that your sons and daughters can have a United States with the same freedoms, privileges, rights and living standards you have enjoyed.

Abraham Lincoln told us many years ago . . . Government of the people, by the people, for the people. We are fighting to preserve the American Way of Life, so that our sons and daughters may worship as they please, work where they will, choose their own vocations. We are fighting to protect a land where free enterprise has made us the greatest nation on earth, with undreamed-of opportunities for the masses.

In this war we all have obligations.

TRAPPING OUTLAW RADIO
TRANSMITTERS IN THE U. S.

Eight spies and saboteurs who were on trial in Washington, D. C., represent but a small fraction of the enemy sympathizers within our borders who would like to transmit military and production secrets to our enemies. Radio offers instant communication overseas, and the operation of outlaw transmitters is a danger to which our government is always alert.

After an outlaw station broadcasting in any language is heard
by government listeners who comb
the airwaves 24 hours a day, radio
locators, using electronic tubes,
take up the trail of the offender.
Mile by mile, block by block and house by house, they track down
the outlaw radio signals until, like pointing fingers, they indicate the exact spot from which the spies are broadcasting. Though outlaw antennas may be hidden in trees,
or between the walls or floors of houses, they are detected as easily
by these electronic devices as stations in the open.

In time of war, electronic tubes
based on early developments of Dr.
Irving Langmuir of General Electric serve in many ways to protect our nation's safety. Dr. Langmuir is the scientist who designed a high-vacuum tube which would handle watts and kilowatts, instead of merely fractions of a watt,
and which could amplify the impulse of a microphone to tremendous power for radiation from an antenna.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"The law was given by Moses,
but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." These words from John comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, August 30, 1942,
in all Churches of Christ, Scientist,
branches of The Mother Church,
The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson, Sermon will be "Christ Jesus." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people." (Matthew 9:35).

NOTICE

Due to the fact that so many of the doctors are being called to the Army, on September 1, 1942 I will begin charging two dollars extra for night calls and one dollar extra for office calls after office hours. I am not making this extra for charge in order to take advantage of the people whom I serve, but with the hope that the extra charge will give me more time for sleep and rest.

After the above date I will charge
$2.00 extra for calls between 10
P. M. and 7 A. M. and $1.00 extra for office calls after office hours.

It is an impossibility for me to do the work that is required of me
unless those whom I serve are considerate of night calls and office calls after office hours. I realize that my health will give way if I continue at the long hours with as little time for sleep as I have had the past few months.

Miss Fairra Barnes, who has been connected with Haws Clinic will begin working with me in my office on August 31 and we hope to give more prompt and better service in the future.
