I. C. SUPPORTS SCRAP DRIVE

As the first representatives of a major railroad to embrace the national War Production Drive by setting up labor-management control of suggestions for improvement, members of the Illinois Central Employees' War Production Drive General Suggestion Committee were congratulated by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, at their first weekly meeting.

"You are giving your support to an effort that now embraces more than three million war workers in some 1,300 corporations and plants in all forms of production," telegraphed Mr. Nelson "wartime transportation such as your railroad can and must service is an absolute essential to victory."

To the 38,000 members of the Illinois Central family, J. L. Beven, president, described the new move as an effort to increase the general effectiveness of the railroad and explained that it was the outgrowth to the successful operation of the road's suggestion system and the recent War Bond campaign.

NEWSPAPERS SPONSOR SCRAP DRIVE

Responding to an urgent appeal by the Government, Kentucky's newspapers have taken over the job of mobilizing a "people's army" to conduct an intensive State-wide campaign October 12-31 to collect 285,000,000 pounds of scrap metal in the State.

Prizes totaling $5,000 have been posted by the newspapers to add incentive to the drive. Grand prize is $1,500 which will go to the county that turns in the largest amount of scrap metal per capita. A goal of 100 pounds for every man, woman and child in Kentucky has been set by the Government.

The campaign was announced last Thursday in Louisville at a meeting attended by representatives from virtually every newspaper in Kentucky's 120 counties. Gov. Keen Johnson, who attended the organization meeting, designated Henry M. McClaskey, Louisville advertising executive, general director of the campaign.

Newspaper chairmen have been appointed in twenty districts to coordinate the drive with each county's scrap salvage chairman of chairwoman. Governor Johnson has obtained the full support of these county salvage leaders to the campaign.

The Kentucky drive resulted from appeals by Donald Nelson, chief of the War Production Board, and leaders of the Army and Navy who summoned newspaper publishers to Washington several weeks ago and asked for their co-operation. Mr. Nelson said that unless the people go out and gather up their scrap metal and turn it in to the Government in great quantities the steel mills which are turning out materials for tanks, guns and ships and other war weapons, will have to suspend a large part of their operations during the winter.

Each county's campaign will be carried on through the efforts of the county judge, county clerk agent, head of the Parent-Teacher Organization, and other leaders, all working with the Governor's salvage chairman under the direction of Judge E. C. O'Rear, Frankfort, State salvage chairman, and Mrs. T. C. Carroll, Shepherdsville, State salvage chairwoman.

Kentuckians are being asked to make a survey of their homes, farms, factories and mines to round up every available pound of scrap. The scrap metal may be sold, but in most States it is being donated to the Government scrap stock pile. Although the drive actually doesn't get under way until October 12, salvage leaders have asked Kentuckians to round up their scrap and have it available for collection. Army trucks from Fort Knox and the State Highway Department will be made available for collecting the scrap. Each person turning in scrap will be given a receipt crediting his contribution toward the individual prize of $200, the county prizes, and toward the organization he represents.

SALVAGE SCRAP DRIVE

The government of the United States has announced a salvage scrap drive beginning in two weeks. The newspapers of Kentucky are sponsoring this drive and are offering cash prizes.

War Production can not continue unless this scrap is brought in. All of us have an obligation to our families and to our homes to see that every pound of old scrap is turned over to the government. A price of 50 cents per hundred pound is being paid for this.

There are tons upon tons of old machinery and unworkable scrap metal lying about the country. Let's all get together and pick up every piece no matter how small or how large and bring it in.

We must not let production of vital war material lag because we do not get behind this cause.

ALL OUT FOR WAR SAVINGS

When you shop, take all or part of your change in War Stamps. Every pay day, buy a War Bond. That, in essence, is the idea that American retailers, through the nation-wide "Retailers for Victory" campaign, are successfully "selling" to the American people.

The stores participating in this campaign represent retailing in all its branches. The chain systems have been promoting the idea, as well as thousands of independent stores in both the food and the non-food fields. So long as this war lasts, stores will push War Savings precisely as they push any other item of merchandise they stock. And they'll do that without a penny of profit—and in addition they will absorb the substantial promotional expense themselves.

Early reports indicate that the "Retailers for Victory" campaign is fully living up to expectations. Every legitimate form of promotion—advertising, store displays, posters, etc.—is being used to bring War Savings to the constant attention of the shopper. One of the goals set by many of the chains is to have War Savings account for 4 per cent of their total sales.

Retailing's all-out cooperation in this vital matter isn't surprising. American retailing, chain and independent, has always been at the forefront in any worth while civic or national endeavor. Now it's doing its full part in the biggest job the nation has ever faced. So, when you go shopping take a War Stamp book with you—and fill it as fast as possible.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD E. LINDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago. (Revised by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 27

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JOSEPH: AN EXAMPLE OF FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 45:1-15; 47:11, 12. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32.

Forgiveness, opening the way for the restoration of fellowship and the showing of kindness, brought the story of Joseph and his brethren to a happy ending. Under the good hand of God the story which began with tragedy is brought to a conclusion of blessing.

Following the earnest plea of Judah, the heart of Joseph could no longer withhold itself from the full expression of affection and devotion to his family.

I. Love Overcomes Fear (vv. 1-4).

Joseph tenderly shielded the family troubles from the eyes and ears of strangers by sending out the Egyptians. It was the first step of consideration which paved the way for reconciliation. How often just the opposite is done—airing family affairs before the world, and humiliating those who may be in the wrong, thus making it difficult for them to admit their guilt.

Then, too, this was a moment too tender and delicate to be seen by outsiders. The tears of a strong man like Joseph mean a deep movement of spirit—a solemn and often a sacred moment.

It should also be noted that the brothers were afraid, and well they might be, because of their sin against Joseph. After almost 50 years these unrepentant men found themselves face to face with the one whom they had supposed they had disposed of, and they knew their sin had found them out. It always does, sooner or later, but inevitably.

How great and noble was the forgiving love of Joseph; an example to us, especially appropriate and needed in a world of hate and bitterness.

II. Grace Overrules Sin (vv. 5-8).

The guilt of these men was none the less and Joseph could not remove it, but he encouraged them by showing how God had used their evil devices to work out His own good pleasure. He can make the wrath of man to praise Him (Ps. 76:10).

It is worth stressing again that in the very hour when the prospects for Joseph's future usefulness seemed ruined, God was opening the door to the greatest experiences of his life and was preparing him to serve the thousands whose lives were saved by his wisdom and ability in the years of famine.

Nothing is more important in the life of a child of God than to be yielded to His will, unmoved by circumstances, abiding His time, responding to His guidance whether it be by the opening or closing of doors, prosperity or adversity. And herein is the marvel of it all—even sin may be overruled by God's grace for His own glory. That does not invite anyone to sin that grace may abound (Rom. 6:1, 2), but it does offer encouragement to the one who has fallen, that God can redeem the years that the locust have eaten (Joel 2:25).

Our lesson also sets us an example of how true forgiveness acts, something we need. So often when forgiveness is asked or granted there is an "I can forgive but I can't forget" attitude, which means that while hostilities have ceased, at least temporarily, there is no real friendship or the disposition to show kindness. Is there any real forgiveness at all in such an attitude of heart and mind? We fear not.

III. Kindness Provides the Best (vv. 9-15; 47:11, 12).

It might have been enough to send food and a kind greeting with the brothers to their own land, but love does not seek the minimum expression of its feeling. It asks not how little, but how much can I give or do.

Bringing his aged father and brothers into the land of plenty was not enough, Joseph also gave to them the "best of the land" (47:11). His thoughtful consideration in sending for his father (Gen. 46:5-7) was part of the same piece of kindness.

Joseph puts to shame the modern "hard-boiled" attitude toward needy and aged members of the family. In their eager and relentless pursuit of fame or riches, many ignore or trample upon the members of their own families. Often they are ashamed of the broken bodies, the humble apparel, the broken or uneducated speech of their parents. They fear lest their new-found friends in the circles of wealth and supposed "position" will think them strange or ridiculous. God pity the man or woman who is ashamed of a humble or aged father and mother!

Joseph, who really had an exalted position gained by merit and by the blessing of God, never forgot his place before God as a son in the family and as a brother. Let us consider him and do likewise.

TWELVE TENSE SECONDS THAT STARTED A WORLD REVOLUTION

—and opened a vast new field of opportunity for your boy

FOR twelve tense seconds a sputtering cratelike contraption flew through the air at Kittyhawk, North Carolina, on December 17, 1903. It started then and there the most far-reaching transportation revolution in all history.

Orville Wright piloted the queer machine which he and his brother, Wilbur, had built together. They were poor young men, sons of a preacher who hoped they, too, would become ministers. But the age-old idea that man could fly gripped them. To earn a living and finance their experiments, they operated a small bicycle repair shop in Dayton, Ohio.

The airplane has come a long way in forty years. It has a long way to go. The possibilities of aviation are but faintly seen today. But the American Way of Life which enabled the Wright brothers to choose their own calling and blaze a bright trail into the future, offers all our boys, rich and poor alike, just as much opportunity for success.

So we must destroy our enemies, the national socialist dictators, who aim to wipe out our free enterprise system and everything we hold precious. To that task we must now bend all our energies.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

Released by Western Newspaper Union. IN "WAKE ISLAND" Paramount has shown what a war picture ought to be; the truth was so dramatic that there was no need to dress it up with a fancy plot—and praise goes to the writers, W. R. Burnett and Frank Butler, and to Director John Farrow for letting that plot be as slight as possible. Farrow directed it superbly, the members of the cast did a memorable job. Pretty good cast, incidentally, including Brian Donlevy, Walter Abel, Robert Preston, Macdonald Carey and Albert Dekker. Don't miss it!

A word more about "Wake Island." It was first shown at the Quantico Marine base with an audience of 2,000 marines, who cheered it wholeheartedly. That's the surest guarantee that there's nothing gaudy about this very swell picture.

When you see "Seven Days' Leave," keep an eye on Marcy McGuire, if you're interested in stellar material. She plays a brat sister of Lucille Ball's, with a crush on Victor Mature. During filming, her part was "fattened" three times, so that she finally had two musical numbers of her own, and a comedy romance that wasn't in the original script.

Iona Reed, who's a stunt woman as well as Claire Trevor's stand-in in "The Desperadoes," has ridden horses that cowpunchers wouldn't mount, leaped from high cliffs, risked her neck in dozens of ways—but she balked at an assignment the other day. The script called for Claire to smoke a cigar; Iona was told to do so and said "No." She can't even smoke a cigarette!

Porter Hall, who plays the thieving, double-crossing heavy in "The Desperadoes," has just been made a deacon in the First Presbyterian church of Hollywood. He's usually cast as a villain, but he's never owned a gun, since he served in the last war, he doesn't drink or gamble, he practically never smokes. Yet on the screen he stops at nothing.

Paramount has a file of what do you suppose? Cobwebs! Due to priorities, it's impossible now to get the liquid rubber of which movie cobwebs used to be made. The studio has quite a few murder mysteries, like "Street of Chance," coming along. So the prop department got busy, wove cobwebs out of the material on hand, and filed them away for reference.

Charles W. Koerner, head of RKO Radio production, has announced that "artistic and prestige films of dubious box-office merit" are out. Well, some of those "prestige" films were pretty dull. But a lot of really fine and profitable pictures would never have been made if that ruling had gone through years ago. We'd not have had "The Grapes of Wrath" or "Gone With the Wind" or "Pastor" or a good many others that didn't look like money-makers before they were released.

Life masks taken directly from the faces of a group of stars, along with fashion sketches, original charcoal sketches of sets and other material used in preparing a film, will comprise a Traveling Educational exhibit soon to be sent on tour by MCM. Frances Parker, lecturer, will accompany it, and it will be displayed at universities, schools, civic and educational societies.

September 30 marks a special anniversary in the National Barn Dance show—the completion of ten consecutive years on the air, broadcasting 52 weeks a year. Other radio programs have come and gone, but the Barn Dance goes on forever.

ODDS AND ENDS—Greer Garson has signed a long-term contract with Metro; her first picture under the new arrangement will be "Madame Curie"; James Cagney bought a $25,000 Far Road, which entitled him to two tickets for the Hollywood opening of his picture, "Yankee Doodle Dandy"; Freddie Bartholomew has bought himself a motorcycle, which he rides back and forth to Columbia for work in "Junior Army"—but so far hasn't persuaded his Aunt Cassie to ride it with him; Larry Elliott, announcer on Bob Hawks' "How Am I Doing?" air show, has landed the narrating assignment on Universal's new short entitled "How Canada Tracks Down Nazis."

RAILWAY WORKER SALVAGES WAR-TIME MATERIALS

For railway workers who have occasion to be on the tracks nowadays, William L. Ratliff, Jr., of McComb, Miss., a flagman for the Illinois Central Railroad, has offered an example in the salvage of war-usable materials by "mining" the tracks for lead. While Mr. Ratliff performs his duties as a member of a train crew he searches for particles of lead which are left on the rails after preceding trains have exploded safety torpedoes. He gathered nearly twenty-five pounds of this metal within six weeks on an 80-mile district.

"If every worker who has occasion to be on the right-of-way of a railroad would follow the example of Mr. Ratliff," said Mr. Morehead, chairman of the "Scrap Committee" of the Illinois Central System, "much similar scrap can be collected all over the United States. Every time a train stops long enough for a flagman to perform his duties, two or more torpedoes are used. At night and during inclement weather fuses are freely used, and a small piece of metal is left when each burns out."

Mr. Ratliff has had twenty-nine years of continuous service on the Louisiana Division of the Illinois Central.
