THE LISTENING POST

● There was a new whine in the wind which whistled against the window, and a faint scratching, whispering sound against the glass. I looked out, and saw the earth beginning to turn white as sleet and snow drove down and piled against the window pane. It was just in the hour when twilight is beginning to fade into darkness and an eerie light seemed to hover the familiar fields around me. Driving to the show a few minutes later the fine particles of snow smote against the glass with that same whispering sound I had heard at home. After the show the streets were covered with the strange, white blanket and the tires seemed to roll over the snow in new and unbelievable smoothness.

● Reading late, I continued to hear that whispering, scratching sound, and the creak of bare branches in the trees outside. Looking through the window I saw that the fields still had that luminous appearance I had noticed at twilight. Perhaps it was the moon trying to break through the snow clouds, perhaps it was the reflection of the blanket of whiteness—in any event, it was the eternal mystery of snow. Morning came with low lying clouds and the fields and lanes were completely covered, with only the delicate tracery of rabbit tracks marring the unbroken surface of whiteness.

● Strange how snow always brings its flood of memories! When I first look in the early morning at the snow-covered earth, these memories come back in a flood tide; memories of days, long gone and of faces I shall see no more on this earth. I think of other fires and other rooms as heat begins to creep through my own home and I remember scenes in other fields and other woods. I hear the thump of other feet as they stamp off the snow after going outside to bring wood for the roaring fireplace and I remember a small boy who used to snuggle down in warm covers as this roaring fire began to get underway. I see the flicker of warming flames on dingy walls, and curiously I seem to see and hear a clock that stood for so many years in the various homes I lived in. I have no idea what become of that clock, but on snowy mornings I always think of it, with its scrooped face, and I can almost hear the noisy ticking I used to hear long ago.

● I remember, too, certain wooded areas where there were hills on which to coast, and I remember the frozen brooks that ran through wooded sections. I seem to hear again the faint, musical sounds that those frozen brooks made as the water flowed along beneath the covering of ice and snow, and I remember one time when my sled plunged down the hill out of control and landed in the brook. The ice smashed and I went all the way down in that frozen water. In a few minutes my trousers were frozen solid at the rear, and I felt as though I wore a stiff board. But I did not go home. I had gone there to coast and coast I did. I kept right on coasting until my bodily exertion generated enough heat to thaw out my clothing. I really never thought of going home, and thought nothing of having my clothing frozen for an hour or more.

● I remember school days, too; I can see again the school yard filled with boys and girls and the flying snowballs, and the occasional broken window from a badly thrown snowball, or one that had been packed with a rock. I remember the red-hot stoves in the school rooms and the several times the building caught on fire during such times.

● Yes, all these memories and more come to me in the early dawn when I gaze on freshly fallen snow. Then I suddenly remember that I am a mile from the office, that the streets and sidewalks are

SHERIFF HELPS BOOTLEGGERS LAND IN JAIL

Knoxville, Tenn. — Ben Osborne was thawing himself before a restaurant store. A stranger came in, explained he had been in an automobile accident and needed help to tow his car into town.

"You know," confided the stranger, "I've got a lot of whisky in my machine. Bootleg stuff, but it's bonded whisky." Not counting the bottle broken in the mishap there were 369 pints, seventy-one half pints and fourteen quarts in the wrecked car.

OUR SINCERE APPRECIATION

It is only in hours and days of deepest trouble and sorrow that we really feel and appreciate fully the strength of friendship. We who have recently experienced these emotions in the fullest degree, desire to express our deepest appreciation to the hundreds who were so kind to us during these dark hours and days.

In the loss of our beloved mother, wife and daughter we have experienced the most tragic period of our lives; this burden would have been heavier than we could have borne had it not been for the steadfast friendship given us by so many, both in Blytheville and Fulton. There was so much consideration, so much understanding, so much sympathy, and such a wealth of beautiful flowers that our burden was made lighter to bear, and out of this experience comes strength for the future, and many warm memories that we will never forget.

Our sincere wish for all is that when sorrow comes at any time in the future, they may feel the same warm friendships that we have experienced at this time. May the blessings of the Great Creator be with all, is our earnest prayer.

Washington. — A measure to extend the life of the Lend-Lease Act another year—until June 30, 1944—was introduced today by Chairman Bloom (D. N. Y.), of the House.

In a move to assure an uninterrupted flow of war materials between this nation and its allies.

Two years ago the special grant of administrative powers provoked one of the greatest battles in congressional history. This time it appeared headed for close scrutiny by the House and Senate, but almost certain approval.

Republicans to Support Bill House Minority Leader Martin told reporters he believed there would be little opposition.

"The Congress will want an accounting as to what has been done under the Lend-Lease authority," the Massachusetts representative said. "But this is a war measure, and I don't think that there is any general disposition to oppose it now."

Bloom declared: "The tools of war are needed by the United Nations just as much to achieve victory as to avert defeat."

"The principles of Lend-Lease were sound in 1941 and 1942 when we were fighting a defensive struggle on which the fate of the world depended. They are even sounder at a time when the United Nations are on the march to victory."

Bloom said he was initiating his move now, five months before the present authority expires, because "in our war planning, we cannot wait until the last moment."

Bloom said he would begin hearings on his measure Friday, with Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as the first witness.

And In His Odd Moments He Plows, Reaps And Mows

Richmond, Ky. — Madison County Selective Service officials today laid claim to what they deem the most valuable farmer in Kentucky. A 19-year-old registrant, whose name was withheld, described his duties on his occupational questionnaire as follows:

"I feed, suckle and raise baby beavers, maintain farm equipment necessary to produce summer and winter feeds for care of animals above named ten hogs, fifteen cows, ten baby beavers and fifteen veal calves."

"I see to cream from the overflow milk and take it to market. I plant and cultivate four acres of tobacco, eight acres of wheat, fifteen acres of alfalfa and ten acres of corn with limited help from my physically disabled father."

"I operate and repair mowing machinery, cultivators and plows necessary for production of above crops. I also care for 200 hens and take poultry products to market."

"I also run in my spare time a mowing machine, binder, thrasher, hay binder and plow."

The youth still is unclassified.

INTRUDER BURNS AND WATERS WRONG HOUSE

Berkeley, Calif. — Disturbing the peace was the charge Patrolman William Cheatham recommended for his prisoner who had:

(1) Climbed through a window, thinking it was his own house. (2) built a smoky fire in an unvented fireplace; (3) turned in a false alarm; (4) slopped water from kitchen to parlor with a one-man bucket brigade performance.

Then Cheatham reasoned, he must have become tired. The Arld K. Jensens, whose home it was, found him asleep in an upstairs bedroom.

Yardbird Discovers Many Uses For Diapers In Army Life

Fort Belvoir, Va. — A battalion supply sergeant who prefers to remain anonymous was checking over the laundry lists when he found an entry for half a dozen diapers.

He sought out the corporal. "First the Waacs and then the Waves," he grumbled, "and now this. Diapers! Whatta job."

The corporal promptly called a soldier assigned to the laundry detail.

"List 'em as face towels and send 'em on through," said the soldier, a family man, "then check the guy who owns 'em when he comes to pick up his bundle."

The yardbird who owned the diapers was glad to explain.

"Handiest thing in the world," he said.

Used to Clean Rifles

"Use one of 'em to clean my rifle. An undershirt is too fuzzy. A bath towel is too rough. Diaper's just what I need. Carry another inside my mess kit. Keeps the knife and fork from digging holes in the aluminum. Quick polish job right after chow, and the old mess kit is ready for inspection."

Casablanca, French Morocco. — President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, in the most unprecedented and momentous meeting of the century, have reached "complete agreement" on war plans for 1943 designed to bring about the "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy and Japan, it was disclosed today.

Defying every tradition, the President of the United States flew across 5,000 miles of the Atlantic Ocean for a ten-day meeting with Winston Churchill which saw the leaders of the two nations bring Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Honore Giarud together for the first time in a little villa just outside this city.

Virtually the entire war staffs of both nations participated in day and night discussions which ended Sunday afternoon with a press conference before a group of war correspondents flown secretly from Allied headquarters halfway across North Africa.

May Decide Fate for Generations To Come

These are the high spots of the conference, which Roosevelt and Churchill agreed was unprecedented in history and may decide the fate of the world for generations to come.

1—The leaders of America and Britain, both military and civil, have agreed on a war plan for 1943 designed to maintain the initiative in every theater of the war.

2—Churchill and Roosevelt agreed that peace can come only through "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy and Japan.

3—General Giraud and de Gaulle, meeting for the first time under sponsorship of the President and Prime Minister, are negotiating for a united French movement designed to put French armies, a Navy and an Air Force again into the field against the Axis.

4—Premier Stalin of Russia was kept informed of the results of the conference. In fact, Churchill and Roosevelt offered to meet Stalin "very much farther to the east," but the Russian chief was unable to leave the U. S. S. R., because of the need of his direction in the present Red Army offensives.

The President and the Prime Minister also have been in communication with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and "have apprised him of the measure which

TEN FOR ONE

Americans in the Solomons have been killing ten Japanese for every one of their own comrades slain in the bitter fighting which has been raging there since last August, according to Maj. Gen. Vandergift, who commanded our Marines there. Something like that ratio has been levied by the Americans and Australians on the Japs in New Guinea, according to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. And in the air fighting over China and Burma, Gen. Stilwell says U. S. pilots have been knocking out five to seven Japs for every single loss of their own.

While the general Allied offensive to win back what Japan won so swiftly after Pearl Harbor has not materialized, the war in the Southwest Pacific is now well into its second phase. The stage of swift and cheap Jap expansion ended long ago. While we have not yet seen any impressive reconquest of territory by the Allies, the margin of relative losses shows our attrition warfare is softening up the Jap position for the decisive blows that will initiate the third phase.

All indications are the decisive all-out attack on Japan's empire and home islands will not come until Nazi Germany is taken care of. But the manner the Allies are winning the supply battle in the Pacific bodes ill for Japan when we are in position really to turn on the heat.

The heavy Jap losses there relative to our side's is proof of the manner in which we are winning the battle of supply. The Japs could afford to pay a high cost in blood as long as they were gaining valuable new territories with each new campaign, but to lose disproportionately in defensive warfare is a hint of disaster to come. The Americans, scornful to spend men where machines can do the job, are pouring equipment designed to take an ever-growing toll of Jap lives, and to keep down the blood cost to our own forces. This is being called a typically American design for war, and on results to date, it appears to be the right answer to Hitler's and Hirohito's style of fighting which so often rates human life as cheap compared with material.—Sun-Democrat.

with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependents individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Example of head of family status would be a widower or widow who maintained a home for a dependent child, or a son who supported and maintained a household for a dependent father or mother. In order to meet the test of actual support and maintenance as head of a family, the benefactor must furnish more than one-half of the support and maintenance.

The term "in one household" ordinarily means under one roof, but if a father is absent on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, or on a visit, the common home being still maintained, the head of family exemption would still apply. Where a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house while he lives elsewhere, the additional exemption may still apply. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, to his brothers or sisters, whether by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide for these individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same consideration apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, and sister-in-law. First cousins by blood, and cousins of lesser degree, are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship" as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of

BOY SCOUTS MEAN BUSINESS.

"Toughen up, Buckle down, and Carry on to Victory." is the Boy Scout major task this year. Their 1,576,000 members are in the conflict to the hilt on the home front, doing everything boys of Scout age can do to help win the war speedily and a just peace permanently.

"GHOST TOWN" FEAR VOICED

Senator Urges Steps To Aid Small Business

Baltimore. —Asserting that small business had been ignored by war agencies Senator James E. Murray (D. Mont.), today suggested to the Council of State Governments the formation of an independent civilian supply administration and of a special State and Federal liaison committee to consider small business problems.

Murray said the war had changed the Nation's production picture so that, instead of small plants producing 70 per cent of the country's manufactured goods and 100 big plants producing 30 per cent, as in peace time, the figures were just the other way around.

Bankruptcy Feared

"If this spectacle of concentration of business is permitted to continue," he said, "... tens of thousands of small concerns will vanish, never to return. Bankruptcy will surely invade the once prosperous small communities; ghost towns will rise all over America."

He said the majority of small business extinctions he claimed now impending "would have been avoided by properly planning the utilization of small business in the war effort and in civilian production and distribution."

Secrecy Deplored
Secrecy on the military front was justified, he contended, but "if applied at home, secrecy and failure to trust the public is as stupid as it is unfair and injurious to all concerned."

PROBE OPENS
ON BIG ARMY

Senators Talk Crippling On U. S.
War Effort

Washington. — The Senate Military Affairs Committee set out today to find the answer to this question:

How large an Army can the United States raise and still build the ships and weapons and produce the food necessary to supply its own and Allied fighters?

Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.), said the query would be propounded first to Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Deputy Chief of the War Department's General Staff, the initial witness at hearings starting today and scheduled to last for weeks.

Wants Exact Figures
"After an executive session, the committee will get right to work," Reynolds said. "We want the Army to supply us with their estimate of how large an Army we'll need to win this war," Reynolds said. "We later will get figures from the Navy and the Maritime Commissions."

"In order to complete the picture we want to get labor needs from Chairman Paul V. McNulty of the War Manpower Commission and farm worker requirements from the Agriculture Department."

"If we find the nation can't meet all the requests, we'll have to find means of paring down some of them."

other persons were placed on probation for three years for using the mails to defraud.

Dr. H. Dwight Osborne, who after Brinkley moved to Del Rio, Texas, operated the hospital established here by the gland specialist, pleaded guilty to the mail fraud charge. Mrs. Brinkley, Dr. J. H. Davis, Dr. O. B. Chandler, Dr. A. Lewis Kilne and Chief Nurse Vera Wederbrook pleaded no defense.

District Judge T. G. Trimble said Dr. Brinkley, who died last year, shortly before he was to go on trial here, was "the principal offender in this matter," but added that "the doctors who were working for him were violating the law and Mrs. Brinkley was a partner with her husband."

ANIMAL TRAINER SAYS ARMY
LIFE IS TAKE ONE

Camp Atterbury, Ind. — War may be what Sherman said it was, but to Pvt. Carl Neuffer of the 7th General Hospital it's a relief after his hazardous civilian pursuits.

Neuffer gave up the profession of wild animal taming to enter the Army, and remarked, "I think there is more of a chance of getting out of this war alive than of getting out of one of the cages."

Neuffer ran away from home at the age of 15, joined a circus and was on hand one night when several animals went wild during their act and killed the trainer. Neuffer grabbed a club, went into the cage and drove the beasts off, but it was too late to save the trainer. "From then on," he said, "I became an animal trainer."

POLICE COURT

S. R. Beech was tried this morning in City court on public drunkenness charge and was fined $10 and costs.

Allen Blackwood and Virgil Kimbell were each fined $10 and costs yesterday on public drunkenness charges. Jack Mills was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

Robert Ladd, who was tried on January 6 for being drunk in a public place and who was given a suspended sentence with orders to leave town or go to work; was arrested Monday by local officers and charged with vagrancy. He was fined $10 and costs.

The Police department has issued six other warrants for vagrants and unless the persons so charged go to work or leave town immediately they will be arrested.

RATION BANKING IS TERMED SUCCESSFUL

Washington. — The Office of Price Administration reported complete satisfaction today with its New York state test of ration banking which will be instituted on a nation-wide basis Wednesday.

The test demonstrated that merchants, wholesalers and banks "quickly master the mechanics of banking ration stamps, coupons and certificates much as they handle cash and currency in ordinary checking accounts," OPA said.

HALSEY TELLS MEN TO RE-
MOVE TIES, FITCH INTO JAPS

An Advanced South Pacific Base. — This story is making the rounds in the South Pacific, and there are many who will vouch for its accuracy.

Admiral William F. Halsey, Commander-in-Chief of United Nations Forces in the South Pacific, ordered his men to discard neckties, forget formality and pitch in against the enemy.

Two junior officers from a newly-arrived warship came ashore wearing neckties. The Admiral spied them.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I don't like neckties. Are you hinting that I should wear one?"

Red-faced, the men removed their ties.

Fighting Bulldogs Smash Cards On Mayfield Floor Last Night

Coach Gili's Bulldogs turned themselves into a rollicking, happy-go-lucky band of buccaneers last night on the Mayfield floor, and systematically and completely carved the taller Cardinals into small pieces by whipping them 34 to 29. So completely did the Bulldogs overwhelm the Cards that at one time late in the game they held a ten-point lead, and while the Cardinals rallied strongly in the final quarter, the Bulldogs continued to press the attack relentlessly and kept a safe margin. Twice the Cards held a bare one-point lead in the first half, but at the half the Bulldogs held a 16 to 12 lead. In the third quarter the Bulldogs opened with a fast break that seemed to demoralize the Red Birds, and only in the final period did the Cards outscore the Bulldogs. Period endings were 11-8, 16-12, 27-19.

The Bulldogs played with dash and abandon last night to maintain their three-year victory march over the Cardinals. They took chances and cashed in on them. They shot and recovered and shot again; they intercepted Cardinal passes and turned them into Fulton baskets; they rushed and harried the Cardinals so mercilessly that the taller Cardinals seemed to wonder what was happening. The Cardinals have two players who stand six feet, three inches, but Meacham and Moore, along with Jimmy Lowe, managed to get more rebounds than did Kaler and Blalock. Time after time the two Bulldog stars drove in after a shot had missed and came out with the ball. Time after time every Bulldog player intercepted Mayfield passes and time after time Bulldog performers literally stole the ball from their opponents. Both Meacham and Lowe took a ball away from a Mayfield player and tossed in goals when all players had already gone down the floor. It was really a band of buccaneers that took the floor last night against the Cardinals.

The boys played team basketball right up to the hilt, yet all managed to star quite a bit in various departments. The passing was unusually good and Leon Barron gave one of the best exhibitions of guarding ever seen anywhere. He also got his eye on the basket for six points. Jimmy Lowe scrambled around under the basket many times to come out with the ball and also kicked in with five points. Dick Meacham burned the floor with his speed, guarded his man well, and tossed in five goals for ten points. "Curley" Paul Rhodes gave a dazzling exhibition of ball handling and passing and drove straight in for a perfect cr'p shot. Jack Moore, turning in eleven points to lead Bulldog scoring, played his usual daring floor game, passing in to his mates right through the Cardinal guarding, and driving in many times to recover rebounds. Every starter last night scored at least one field goal.

Mark Kaler was high point man, scoring fourteen points for the game, but the tall Blalock, usually a high scorer, was held to four points.

5—Maximum material aid to Russia and China will be one of the prime aims of the U. S. and Britain.

6—Roosevelt visited American troops in the field in North Africa the first American President to visit an active war theater since Abraham Lincoln.

Hotel Surrounded By Barbed-Wire

The meetings were held in a closely guarded, barbed-wire-surrounded inclosure at a hotel in Casablanca under the greatest secrecy.

Prime Minister Churchill arrived for the meeting first. When President Roosevelt arrived by plane a few hours later, he dispatched Harry Hopkins to the Churchill villa and the Prime Minister immediately went to start the meetings.

The first began at 7 o'clock in the evening of January 14 and lasted until 3 o'clock the next morning.

Protecting American fighters and Spitfires roared overhead as the conference was held. The only woman present was W. A. A. C. Capt. Louise Anderson of Denver, Col., a stenographer from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

Hopkins was among the first to arrive, along with the President's son, Lieut. Col. Elliott Roosevelt, who was wearing the Distinguished Flying Cross recently awarded him.

BIDDLE LIMITS RAIL SQUABBLE TO PAY ISSUE

Says Labor Act Bans Closed Shop Clause

Washington.—The Railway Labor Act forbids maintenance of membership as well as the closed shop in a railway labor contract, Attorney General Biddle has formally ruled.

Biddle's opinion, requested by the National (Railway) Mediation Board, eliminates the union security issue from a dispute between the fifteen non-operating unions and the carriers, leaving only the wage question to be settled.

Part of Act Is Cited
Biddle quoted this prohibition in the act: "It shall be unlawful for any carrier to interfere in any way with the organization of its employees, or to influence or coerce employees in an effort to induce them to join or remain or not to join or remain members of any labor organization."

"My opinion," Biddle added, "that the union maintenance rule cannot legally be included in a collective bargaining agreement is based upon the conclusion that it would obligate the carrier to violate this provision of the act."

"Action by a carrier to induce its employees to remain members of a union would not fall outside the act's prohibition merely because it was taken pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement entered into by the carrier with the union duly designated by its employees as their representative."

SAYS HEALTH OF U. S. TROOPS IN AFRICA IS EXCELLENT

Washington.—Health of American troops in North Africa is excellent, Major General James C. Magee said today, despite the prevalence of almost every disease you can think of among the native population there.

The Army surgeon general, just back from a flying inspection trip to North Africa, England, West Africa and South America, said the sick rate is little more than one per cent, though the troops have been through the worst rainy season North Africa has had in years.

And when you're thirsty, at a terminal or on a Clipper, another surprise awaits you in ice-cold Coca-Cola. Here's the drink that more than quenches thirst. It adds refreshment. Contentment comes in your travels when you connect with a Coke.

That refreshing difference in Coca-Cola is assured by choicest ingredients put together with a finished art from a lifetime of practice. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Both mean the same thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

Trained, courteous and efficient hostesses of Pan American Airways know how the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola keeps things running smoothly.

3 RULES TO HELP YOU

Long Mileage
FROM YOUR CLOTHES

1. Buy the best clothes you can. In the long run, you get more wear per dollar from good clothes than from cheaper ones.

2. Brush garments thoroughly after each wearing. Gentle brushing removes much surface dust that would otherwise work down into the fabric.

3. Send clothes regularly to O. K. LAUNDRY for Sanitone cleaning.

Our superior Sanitone method cleans fabrics clear through, removes soil, perspiration, and embedded dirt particles. This prolongs the life of the garment in addition to restoring its color and softness. Sanitone gives you "long mileage" from clothes.
