YOUNG MEN'S BUSINESS CLUB MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT

CLUB TO POSTPONE
SCRAP DRIVE

At the regular meeting of the Young Men's Business Club, Tuesday night in the Rainbow Room it was decided that the scrap drive would be discontinued, for the present, after Saturday, Nov. 31, which is the official closing at length, in the meeting it was voted that the club would wait until early spring and at that time, stage another county-wide drive. Due to the gigantic outpouring of scrap in the present drive, the mills have plenty of scrap for the present.

However, if anyone has any scrap that is already piled up and is waiting to be hauled away, either drop a penny post card to Lynn Askew or call 269 and a truck will be sent, at once, and pick this scrap up.

The club should be congratulated for the magnificent job done.

It was also stated, at this meeting that the USO center in the American Legion Cabin, will have its formal opening Sunday, Nov. 1. Everyone is invited to attend.

If you have an old reading lamp, chairs, or magazines that you wish to donate to this center it would be appreciated, if you would bring or send it to the cabin Sunday. This center is to be used by the boys in the service that stops here enroute to other points in the United States.

The Editor's Notebook

GUADALCANAL

Another daring and thrilling chapter in American History is being written on Guadalcanal Island. The defense of Bataan, Wake Island and all of those other heroic stands the United States boys have made in those far Pacific islands will all go down in history as a glowing page, written in blood and bravery.

All of our eyes and hearts and hopes are centered on that distant, unknown Isle, Guadalcanal. Upon this tiny Isle may well rest the destiny of this Pacific war. This might well be the answer to the direction of the war will take for months, even years to come.

The Japanese Navy is putting all of its strength against these tiny islands of the South Pacific. They know that here lies either victory or defeat. To some of us who still think that the battles being fought for these tiny unknown islands are but minor issues in the war, we might say to consider that it is not a little thing, but, perhaps, the main issue.

So wait with impatient for news that is delayed by time and space and censorship. But we must realize that we must depend on more than battles and men and guns in this hour of trial. We can always appeal to a greater being whose strength and might is aligned with the cause of right and truth.

THE NEWS ON TV

In last week's issue of the News we printed an article announcing the engagement of Miss Christine Johnson to W. W. Batts. This is a good, new, up-to-date story—a year or so ago. Someone has suggested that we story "It Happened a Year Ago" again. If this keeps up we think that perhaps it is a good idea. Any way, we will keep it in mind. And one more mistake like that and we will "dood" it.

But in all seriousness, we are sorry and wish to express our appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Batts for being such good sports about it all. We will try our best not to get you engaged again.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

One day last week, Roy Prince, of the Roy Prince Real Estate Company of Martin, Tenn., came into the "News" office and asked us if we thought and placed in our paper might help him to sell some real estate. Naturally, we told him it would.

To make a long story short, Mr. Prince placed an ad with us and it was published in the last issue of the "News". And before noon of the day the News was issued a party had read his advertisement and as a result a deal was made. A farm of 440 acres was sold for the price of $49,000.00.

Mr. Prince has informed us that he has had numerous other calls from parties seeing his ad in the "News".

Which all just goes to prove the old adage that "advertising Pays."

V-MAIL

The Fulton County News received its first V-mail letter Monday from one of our local boys, Pfc. Alfred Browder. He requested us to send him our paper as he enjoyed reading it so much. He is not in the United States now and didn't give the place where he is located.

REMINDERS AND REMITTANCE

Here's to America.
Land of the free;
I wish I were a dog
And Hitler was a tree.

When families without telephones in one community want something in town, they hang a red flag on the gatepost or mail.

THIS WEEK ON THE HOME FRONT

First off, let's take a minute in this Office of War Information column to thank the editor. He does a lot of things for people that go way beyond the requirements of his subscription price, but the latest mass demonstration of editorial co-operation in the nation's interest—that of promoting the recent scrap drive—is amazing.

All of us ought to be grateful because the failure of that drive was of concern to every one of us. It depended on all of us, too, but somehow we, who make up the American public, seem to need some prodding before we bestir ourselves—and the editors surely gave us the prodding.

The drive isn't over—it will last as long as the war—but it brought in enough scrap to help the reserve pile upon which the mills must depend for continued operation.

Knowing what defeat in this war would mean to us, let's thank the editors for prodding us into a realization that the scrap was necessary NOW.

Now let's turn to that well-worn but always interesting matter of food prices. The OPA and the Department of Agriculture have acted to prevent increases in the prices of bread and flour. Both prices have been pegged, but the new program provides for making wheat available to millers at prices, which will allow maintenance of the present ceiling levels.

Then, also, in the food line, the OPA gave assurance that the retail price of pork would be effectively controlled.

The WPB has released 20 to 40 per cent of various varieties of dried prunes and 40 to 100 per cent of raisins for civilian consumption.

The OPA estimates that the motoring public has between five and ten million automobile tires stowed away against the Big Blow-out.

Gift kits containing shaving cream or toothpaste tubes can be purchased for members of the armed forces without turning in old tubes.

New types of canned soups are higher in food value than the old-style soups—one reason why most of them cost a few cents more, the OPA says. The words 'new and improved style' or 'new recipe' on the labels are the key to the differences in price. One kind of bouillon now has 130 per cent more dry food solids, one kind of chicken soup has 60 per cent more.

Owners of more than five tires may not give away the extra one or leave them with or trade them in to tire dealers or service stations. Only the Railway Express Co. has been designated as the government's collecting agent.

The nation's trucking system faces a disastrous breakdown Nov. 15, if applications for certificates of war necessity are not promptly returned by operators of trucks, buses and taxis. Two hundred and fifty thousand a day were mailed out, but only 6,000 to 8,000 a day were returned last week. This indicates the jam, which will come near the deadline—after which day, gasoline tires and repair parts may be sold only to certificate holders.

Authority to control the disposal of livestock has been conferred upon the Secretary of Agriculture by the WPB.

An order controlling the size of inventories of finished consumer goods of wholesalers, retailers and manufacturers will be issued soon, the WPB says. Over-buying of consumer goods is responsible. The order will require the achievement of normal (as indicated by sales-to-stock ratio) inventories by early next year.

Women are requested to save their discarded silk and nylon hosiery until a collection campaign can be staged. Hosiery containing any silk or nylon fibers also should be saved.

The service flag customarily flown to indicate that members of a household are serving in the armed forces may also be used by families of merchant seamen. These seamen face tremendous danger to supply the troops.

Getting back to nylon hose, the government reduced retail prices from a high of $2.95 to $2.50 to not more than $1.65 a pair for the most commonly-sold full-fashioned stockings.

WPB orders controlling the delivery and acceptance of scarce materials apply to liquidation sales of all kinds, says a warning. Auctioneers, receivers and trustees in bankruptcy are warned about the disposal of restricted items.

Governmental agencies exercising regulatory power over prices subject to OPA control have been authorized to file petitions for amendment of OPA regulations.

The War Manpower Commission has reported 97 areas in which there is still much unemployment and has urged the placing of war contracts in these districts. Several Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky areas are included.

War housing completed since July 1, 1940, totals some 500,000 living units.

Rigid control of the evictions of tenants resulting from the sale of houses is contained in an amendment to the maximum rent regulations. Purchasers may not occupy property until one-third of the purchase price has been paid, and three months must pass after issuance of a certificate of eviction before the tenant can be forced to vacate. Special cases may be recognized as exceptions.

Four hundred major cities have been ordered to enlist their trash collection machinery in a systematic and continuing collection of tin cans. It hopes to get 10,000 pounds of pure tin.

RECORD HOG PRODUCTION NEEDED IN 1943

The production of the largest number of hogs on record is needed in 1943, states J. S. Robinson, U-T Agricultural Extension swine specialist.

With meat rationing in the picture, it becomes absolutely essential that every farm family produce its own pork. The military and lend-lease needs for food will be much greater in 1943 than in 1942 when approximately 40 per cent of our pork and 66 per cent of lard went into these channels. With record industrial employment at high wages, domestic consumption will be as large as permitted under rationing.

With an increasing shortage of farm labor and equipment, it becomes more important to use labor-saving practices and to improvise home-made equipment, as hogging down crops and providing self-feeders, temporary fences and special grazing crops, Robinson says. Farm boys and girls through their 4-H Club projects have an increasingly important role in pork production.

Feed-grain prices are expected to average higher next year than this, but the large supplies of feed available and the feed-wheat program will limit the increase. Available supplies of high protein feeds as the oil meals and tankage are the largest on record and can be utilized with grains and forage in the best balanced and most efficient feeding program farmers have ever conducted.

TREES-GULLIES-PERSIMMON BUSHES

When I was a little boy, we used to go some miles up country to pick black berries in a large area that had formerly been farmed but had been resigned to gullies, blackberry briars, and persimmon bushes. There were many of these same things in our immediate neighborhood, too many, but somehow they did not impress me as this large area that had been deserted. I think I first became conscious of man's cruelty to nature on these trips, for there was no reason why those same areas should not have been farmed sensibly for years and years, with no diminution of fertility.

A very large part of the Fidelity country was still in timber when I was a child. The sawmill was one of the commonest institutions. To it came only the best logs, for we till, in our short-sightedness, rolled ordinary logs together in the newground and set fire to them. But even in my childhood I sometimes saw the tragedy of the sawmill in destroying all sorts of timber, increasing the fire hazards, and taking right out from under our noses sources of future wealth and maintenance.

After the worth-while timber had been hauled to the mill, the culled timber was disposed of in the quickest possible way to clear the land for cultivation. Many trees were girdled and left to die, every spring bringing a time when we had to clean up such trees as had fallen during the winter. Brush was burned, the coulters did its work, bumper crops were raised for a few years, and then the inevitable happened: the soil was depleted or washed away; after a few years of poor crops, the farmer abandoned the field for another newground. The soil, too poor "to sprout peas," as we said, tried to cover itself with vegetation. Only persimmon and sassafras bushes seemed to be able to grow in such thin places. The long, slow process of building back what man had so ruthlessly destroyed seemed endless to us. Often the gullies widened year by year and left the fields a menace to those further down the slope, because the soil was gone, and only infertile dirt drifted down, often to make useless other acres and to fill up ponds and streams. Many an old swimming-hole is now a bank of sand or clay, with, maybe, a slow trickle of the former bass stream.

There is a prettier side to this rather depressing picture, though it is much less common. A few farmers learned early that soil could be conserved by rotating crops. Some of the best farms I know of in Fidelity neighborhood have been built up by careful planting and plowing, so that the fertility that I knew as a child is unimpaired and even increased. The cutting down the acreage of tobacco has helped, too, for the intense cultivation of tobacco, in addition to the requirements for the growth of the plant, made erosion much more likely and destructive. Cover crops are now much commoner, too. It is possible that the retirement of hundreds of acres to promote forest growing for the future will cause individual farmers to increase their help to nature in staging a comeback, so that we may, even in my lifetime, reverse the process and have a return to trees as another starting point.

WHAT HELPS

KENTUCKY

HELPS YOU!

Every legitimate industry that contributes to the economic and social welfare of Kentucky is vitally important to you.

The legal beer industry gives honest jobs to 15,000 Kentuckians—pays them more than $10,000,000 in salaries and wages, every year. Its taxes—$1,364,658 last year, $7,904,876 since 1935—help to build schools and educate your children, contribute to old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, health service, confederate pensions and other public services.

The loss of beer's taxes would mean that you would have to dig still deeper into your own pocket to maintain these services.

To protect these contributions to Kentucky's welfare, the brewing industry carries on a self-regulation program to maintain wholesome conditions wherever beer is sold.

To date, through this Committee's cooperation with State and local law-enforcement officials, 39 retail beer licenses have been revoked because of law violations; 12 suspended; 4 places padlocked; 4 license renewals refused. . . .

YOU can help in two ways: (1) Don't buy beer in any place that disregards the law; (2) report any law violation to the authorities or to this Committee.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

BOB JONES COLLEGE

All too often our perspective is wrong, our sense of values is distorted. We are so occupied with perishable things. We spend precious time on houses and clothes and food and physical comforts. Clothes wear out, and houses fall down, and food is consumed and forgotten. The body which we care for and dress up and make comfortable dies and goes back to dust. We neglect our souls. They go unfed and unloved for. We are not concerned about them. Yet, they are the only part of us which lives forever.

The Lord Jesus Christ condemned such an attitude when He said: "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" (Mark 8:36). There are men who think themselves too smart to sell any piece of property without realizing a profit on their investment, but who set a very poor price on their souls. One night of pleasure, one word of approval from godless men, is the pittance for which they sell the immortal part of themselves. There are women who spend hours every week and more money than they can afford on clothes and beauty treatments who never have a moment for study of God's Word and the contemplation of His love with which to increase the soul's beauty. While they hang in their closets more dresses than they need, they neglect to provide for themselves a robe of righteousness.

The body goes to dust but the soul lives forever. The residences which men build for themselves on the earth grow old and deteriorate in value. Fire consumes them, age destroys them. Death comes and takes away the one who dwell in them. Infinitely more important is a "building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (II Corinthians 5:1).

How much happier we would be, if, viewing our lives in the light of eternity, we would obey the Word of the Lord, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal" (Matthew 6:19, 20).

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating, and drinking—a risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become overtaxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Dr. Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have sold more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by careful doctors everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

COURSE OF NATION'S HISTORY HINGES ON HOW PEOPLE MEET ISSUE

Neo-Liberal Illusion: That Collectivism Is Liberty

Ever since human beings lived in caves, hunted in packs and divided up kill, the progress of civilization has been measured by the people able to leave the pack and care for themselves without the leader doing their thinking for them.

But as matters now stand, the United States is considering the abandonment of individual responsibility and going back to earning its living in packs under what is modernly called the total state. This reactionary trend is only partly due to World War II. It is more due to World War I, the first major foreign war ever undertaken by the United States. That war set up round-the-world ground swells of economic disturbance which, after sweeping through Europe, finally caught up with the United States in 1929, throwing its business machine out of gear, bringing on economic cure-alls, each one of which marked a step backward toward the old, old situation of the strong state and the weak citizen. Instead of natural forces being allowed to cure the economic body, the patient was loaded with stimulants and sedatives in the form of debt and subsidy, each dose of paternal pap making the people more and more dependent upon Federal handouts. While still in this condition the United States entered World War II, and, of necessity, the private citizens promptly handed over to the state all the economic powers it had not already assumed.

These wartime powers should not, in themselves, alarm the citizens. What should alarm the citizens is the blithe assumption on the part of many academic and bureaucratic reformers that economic control over the individual is now a permanent governmental power.

It may be that the "frontier thinkers" are right and that economic freedom will not be restored to the American citizens. It all depends upon what the majority of voters want—the responsibilities of freedom or the misery-loves-company type of security afforded by the total state.

Changes in national characteristics take place slowly and often imperceptibly. America may have changed. Too many of the nineteen million immigrants who have come to our shores since 1890 did not come seeking freedom. They came to share a ready-made prosperity. Ignorant of basic American ideals, they are easy prey for demagogues, and no one knows exactly what changes this new blood has made in America.

We do know this much—that the general idea of the collective state has made tremendous strides in America. In July, 1942, one of the leading public opinion polls asked the people whether some form of Socialism would be good or bad for the United States. Only 41 per cent of the people thought it would be bad. Twenty five per cent thought it would be good and 34 percent had no opinion. In other words, 35 per cent of all who had an opinion favored collectivism. Ten years ago this would have been incredible. But it is not incredible today.

The war has speeded up this process by automatically setting up the military controls which are identical with those needed to socialize industry. It would be entirely possible to utilize these controls to effect a bloodless revolution. But if the voters can be made to understand the simple mechanics of economic progress and individual advancement, this revolution will not take place.

SAFETYGRAMS

Automobiles have many accessories, some of which are very useful, and some we could just as well do without.

I honestly feel that automobile horns are not needed. The noise made by them is not disturbing to people not driving, but is a factor in the accident rate. Some people use horns instead of using common sense.

If you did not have a horn on your automobile, you would approach intersections, pedestrians, schools, and other possible hazards much slower.

To prove this point by yourself, drive the next fifty miles without using your horn. Disconnect it so you will not be tempted to use it. Keep your mind on your driving. It works—it's safe.

IT'S ALL YOURS—AND NO JAP OR NAZI HAS ANYTHING LIKE IT!

This is a road map of electric power. It shows how high-voltage electric lines crisscross the country—carrying power to busy war plants and to 27 million homes.

HERE is the greatest electric transmission system in the world. No other nation has anything like it. The famous British "grid system" could be dropped into one small section of it. It carries more power than all the Axis countries combined.

This nation-wide network was put together in peacetime to serve you and other Americans. Almost all of it was built on the savings of the same people it serves—by the business managements of America's 400 electric companies.

Did you ever wonder why American industries—like the electric industry—lead the world? There's a good reason—because it's one of the things we're fighting for.

The reason is the freedom of the individual—the right of every American to work when and where he wants, with-in reason—to enter any business or profession—to create and produce and to benefit by his own success. That's a powerful incentive.

Under the Jap and German systems of political management and state slavery, the individual counts for nothing. Only bureaucrats and political favorites have anything to hope for. In the long run, that won't win wars.

Here in America, 133 million people have a personal stake in Victory—and in preserving the system of American business management under public regulation that has helped so much to make us the strongest nation on earth.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

The American flag is a symbol of 132 million free people... the hope of the world. Now more than ever, does that flag send a tingle down your spine, makes your heart beat a little faster and your eyes snap to proudful attention as the colors go by. For our flag symbolizes a people and the history of a nation.

Observe the stars in your flag. Don't they make you feel as free as the stars of God's great heaven? And those crimson stripes... the blood of heroes past and present who have dedicated their lives to the nation we love. That flag means just about everything in the world to you. It's really wrapped around your whole life, your home, your wife and the kiddies... their hopes and ambitions, and yours, too... your friends, just about everybody and everything you hold dear, all wrapped up in that grand old flag. Is it any wonder we love it, and the things it stands for.

It stands for much more, too. Not only for ourselves but for all of the people of the world who stand for law and order, for justice and fair dealing, for people who want to live, be happy and be free. To them, that flag of ours, spells hope and help. It spells rescue from oblivion. We can't let them down and we can't let ourselves down.

So we've got to strike and strike hard so that our boys in the front lines can strike hard, too. That means they must have an unbroken supply line of planes and ships and guns and tanks in abundance... tools for victory that speak the kind of language that makes dictators listen and tremble in their boots. And that's OUR job... to see that there's no shortage there. Our dollars will plug the gap and will keep it plugged. The 10 per cent of our income that Uncle Sam is asking that we invest in War Bonds and Stamps is insurance that our boys will have the war weapons they need.

We are not asked to give anything, merely to loan this 10 per cent to our government to help them meet the enormous bills the war is costing. When it's over, this money comes back with interest. But, far more important, this cooperation NOW will make it possible for our boys to come back with VICTORY.

HELP THE DOCTOR

Preliminary reports indicate a definite rise in the tuberculosis death rate. The grim portent of this cannot be over-emphasized.

Tuberculosis strikes people during the most productive years of their lives. It is prevalent in industrial areas where there is crowding, poor nutrition, over-work and fatigue. Early infection often escapes notice because tuberculosis usually comes with few symptoms. Cure is a slow process involving months and years of rest and restrictive activity. And, too, during the convalescent period the patient is a dead weight burden requiring continuous medical care and the best of hospital or sanatorium facilities.

In peacetime, tuberculosis was a scourge that was slowly being removed from the national health records by the tireless work of American medical men. It was under control. But war threatens to change the progress made. We are faced with a steadily rising living standards, unprecedented industrial crowding and lengthening working hours. Physical exhaustion will be the rule rather than the exception.

This country has the best medical system in the world. In the present emergency, it has been thousands of skilled physicians and surgeons to the armed services, so naturally the civilian burden on the doctors remaining, will be staggering. They are working night and day in the knowledge that the nation's health could easily be undermined if the incidence of disease is not held down. The tuberculosis death rate increase should warn us that the doctor cannot be expected to do the job alone. We must help the doctors to help us by guarding our health as much as possible through our own initiative.

FUEL FOR WAR

Many an American industry is doing a job which doesn't make the headlines and which is understood by few people—but which plays a mighty role in our economy and our war effort.

Coal is one of those industries. That industry has long been bedeviled by tax and labor problems. For years it suffered heavy operating deficits. But it has risen superbly to the needs of the time.

Coal is the foundation of the all-important steel industry. More than half of the country's electric power is produced from coal. Coal is the principal fuel used by the country's railroads. Over 140,000,000 tons of coal are used annually for heating, and that load is increasing. And in addition, the war effort has required vast amounts of coal for other purposes. This, as "Coal Age" recently said, "speaks volumes for the time and money spent over recent years in improving producing and preparation methods, promoting safety, conducting research and otherwise better preparing the industry to serve the needs of the country."

The coal industry, in short, is one of the many examples of private enterprise at work. It speaks volumes for the soundness of the free enterprise system.

DON'T BE A SABOTEUR

Early in October, Fire Prevention Week was observed for the twentieth time in as many years. And this year the observance was the greatest in the Week's history. The National Board of Fire Underwriters issued colorful posters to every civilian defense unit in the country. In addition, it distributed hundreds of thousands of copies of textbooks on fire prevention, self-inspection blanks for homes, mercantile and industrial properties, leaflets and pamphlets, speeches and other material. Other organizations—public and private, national, state and local—joined in to make the Week a success.

During the Week, the vast majority of the people of this country saw a fire prevention poster, heard a fire prevention talk, or saw some phase of fire prevention actively stressed. They had the opportunity to obtain the simple, interesting and accurate information that underlies practical fire prevention. And now it is up to the people to put that information to work—to make every week, in effect, a Fire Prevention Week.

The National Board's posters carried this message: "Every fire is sabotage today!" And that is the literal truth. Fire is the friend of the Axis. Fire destroys materials, resources and labor that must be devoted to the prosecution of the war. A small fire may not seem important—but the total damage done by thousands of small fires far exceeds the havoc caused by some conflagration which makes the headlines.

Remember: "Every fire is sabotage today!" Don't be a saboteur!

A scout car is a horseless motor car armored with heavy steel plate, used to transport troops from one point to another. It is of low silhouette and gives protection against machine gun and other ground fire. A scout car costs $5,000.

You and your neighbors joining together can buy one of these vehicles for the Ordnance Department of our army with your purchase of War Bonds. We need hundreds of them and need them quickly. Put at least ten percent of your wages or income into War Bonds every pay day and help your fellow Americans win the War Bond quota in your county.

THE CHRISTIAN VIEW OF MARRIAGE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 2:18-24; Matthew 19:3-6; John 2:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Marriage is honorable in all—Hebrews 13:4.

The home is not just one of the institutions of our social order, it is a part of God's plan for man. It thus holds a position of greater importance than institutions of society, and should take first place in our thinking.

Home and the life which centers in it has lost much of its meaning and value in recent decades. It is appropriate and timely to study for four weeks in our Sunday schools the foundation principles of the home and to learn how we may hinder or help it in its influence. Teachers will wish to make much of this vital series.

We begin right when we inquire what the Bible teaches about marriage, and we find the instruction plentiful and to the point. Concerning marriage we learn of

I. Its Origin—Ordained by God (Gen. 2:18-24).

Nations and states have marriage laws, and certain civil requirements must be met. But true marriage from the Christian viewpoint is far more than a civil contract. It is an ordinance which God Himself ordained from the beginning for the welfare of man.

As Adam gave names to the animals (which, incidentally, tells of his intelligence and ability) they passed before him. It became evident to him that there was no true fellowship between man and beast, that there must be a "help meet" for man, one of his own kind, with his capacities of personal being.

God quickly and adequately meets every real need of man, so He created out of Adam's own flesh one who was to be his true companion. "If man is the head, she is the crown," said Matthew Henry. "The man was dust refined, but the woman was dust doubly refined, one move further from the earth. She was not taken out of his head to top him, not out of his feet to be trampled upon by him, but out of his side to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected, and near his heart to be beloved."

So God ordained marriage, but down through the ages man has seen fit to tamper with God's holy arrangements, adjusting them to suit himself, so we need to be reminded of the truth.

II. Its Control—Not Subject to Man (Matt. 19:3-6).

Because of the hardness of man's heart Moses permitted divorce (Mark 10:4, 5), but God did not intend it from the beginning. The Jewish rabbis had so stretched the interpretation of that act of Moses that a wife could be divorced for almost any reason. The same was true among heathen nations.

Our Lord makes it very clear that man has no authority to determine such matters at all, that the union of life in true marriage is by the act of God, and that no man has power to sunder such a relationship.

The whole trend of thought on marriage has been away from its sacredness as a divine institution, and we need to return to a proper appreciation of it as such. All too often, marriages are mere civil agreements, hastily made before a justice of peace. We need to encourage our young people to recognize

III. Its Dignity—Sanctioned by Christ (John 2:1-5).

The wedding ceremony tells us that marriage "is an honorable estate, instituted by God in the time of man's innocency, confirmed by the teaching and hallowed by the presence of our blessed Lord, and likened by St. Paul to the holy union that exists between Christ and the Church; and therefore is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly, but reverently, discreetly and in the fear of God."

At the very beginning of His public ministry Jesus performed His first miracle as His share of a wedding feast. It is true that He does share every occasion of joy and sorrow of His people, but it seems to be significant that this first occasion for His miraculous power was a wedding.

He was there to rejoice with and to bless those who had exchanged their vows in marriage. Should He not be the unseen guest at every wedding? Whether in the home or in the church; whether the occasion be a simple or an elaborate one; whether a host of friends attend or only the witnesses—always and everywhere Jesus Christ should be recognized as the One who stands by to bless, and to unite the two lives for His own glory.

This means that the ceremony should be a Christian one, with prayer a vital part of it, and the will of God paramount. Then indeed, God may and will join together that which no man can put asunder.

THE FINAL VICTORY

"There can be no real freedom without free enterprise," said the Monmouth American, Long Branch, New Jersey, in a recent editorial. The American people must keep that thought ever in mind during the war if we are to have freedom after the war.

The people, the American observed, "realize that war necessities justify priorities and rationing and other government restrictions needed to promote the war effort. They are not kicking at that. But they are disgusted at the great bloated bureaucracy that has come into being to waste their money and order them around. They have noted the confusion and blundering at the national capital and the interference with the war effort due to this bureaucracy and red tape. They don't want to be sovietized or socialized or bossed around after the war by a lot of politicians."

The greatest achievements in this war are being made by free enterprise. Free enterprise builds the ship, planes and guns. Free enterprise provides the vast bulk of the electric power war industry needs.

Free enterprise produces the coal and the oil and the copper and the other essential materials. Free enterprise hauls the freight. Free enterprise is swiftly turning this country into the greatest war machine the world has ever known.

As Herbert Hoover has said, a certain amount of fascism at home is necessary to wage total war on our fascist enemies. But the vast economic controls that government has imposed, and the people have accepted as a war of necessity, must end when the war ends. They must be regarded as purely temporary—as an unpleasant but unavoidable medicine we must take in a period of world sickness. If we begin to accept those controls as the nation's normal way of being, freedom—every kind of freedom—will be finished.

In this, as in all issues, the answer must finally be made by the people. If they remember that the government belongs to them, instead of them belonging to their government, the American dream will endure. All those great freedoms for which this war is being fought, will be preserved. And then, and only then, an eternal victory be won.

THE WAY OF DEATH

By RUTH TAYLOR

The Nazi way of life is a lie! The Nazi way of life is the way of death for all those who believe in the sanctity of the individual, in the rights of man and in the Christian doctrine of equality of all men before God.

The Nazi way of death is more than the policy of the man Hitler. Remove Hitler and you would still have the Nazi way. It is not just a conception of the militarists. It is not just an offshoot of Fascism, as that was an aftermath of Communism.

The Nazi way of death is the spread of any ideology which promotes the domination of any one group—be it a group of class, race, religion or nationality—over all other groups.

The Nazi way of death is the stirring up of hatreds between peoples, the creation of barriers between them by appeals to fear and prejudice, the playing upon complacency, indifference, laziness, self-interest.

The Nazi way of death is not a crusade. We have among us those who bend over backwards and call the totalitarian ideologies "religions." This is false. The Nazi way of death cannot be dignified with the check of principle or even of the ideal of National Socialism.

The Nazi way of death is the practical application of gang rule, the domination by terror of a small group of murderers and thieves. We have had experience with that. We have seen what has happened in our own cities when we become careless and indifferent—and we have learned that the only way to combat the gangster is by drastic action—by rooting out the gangs, lock, stock and barrel—and by an extirpation of the law by a strict allegiance to law and order.

True Americans do not need to be warned of the evils of Nazism and its "Divide and Conquer" policy. They will fight to the finish on the battle-field and in the factories. They will stand as they have in the past for freedom for all because they know that once the country passes to a nation of regulated or unregulated minorities, freedom will have vanished for all and all that will be left will be the Nazi reign of death.

SAFETYGRAMS

Have you given a thought to the condition of your car now that winter weather is arriving? In some sections of the country there has been heavy frost, and with colder weather, there will be additional driving hazards.

Frosted windows in an automobile are a definite hazard to highway safety; all glass should be kept clear for unobstructed vision. Check on car heaters, defrosters, windshield wipers, brakes, tires, and lights and be sure they are in good condition.

Co-operate—drive thirty-five miles per hour! It's safer, and your car will last longer.

U. S. PRESIDENT'S CONVOCATION ADDRESS PUBLISHED IN BOOKLET

The University of Kentucky's opening convocation address for the fall quarter, delivered in October by Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, University president, has been published in a small booklet by the department of University Extension.

The address, entitled, "When A University Goes to War," outlines the many contributions of the University of Kentucky to the war effort and in a foreword from Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, it is explained that it has been published so that the many friends of the University may have an opportunity to read the speech, and to find assurance in the fact that the University of Kentucky is going forward with confidence, fully prepared to lend its every effort and facility to the war effort in those ways in which institutions of higher learning are peculiarly fitted to served.

"We are being asked to limit our meat consumption to 2 1/2 pounds a week per person. This is six ounces less than the combined meat ration of England, Germany, Belgium and Italy."

Beginning January 1, each person who earns $12.00 a week or more will have to pay the "Victory tax" of five per cent. This, you know, is in addition to income taxes, Social Security taxes, and to the multitudinous other taxes we have to pay.

The scarcity of domestic help is getting so serious that housewives are compelled to slice their own bread.

Personally, we doubt the wisdom of a Federal law to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors in areas adjacent to cantonments, airfields and defense industries. Some of us can still remember when local law enforcement officials took a back seat and left enforcement of the liquor laws entirely to Federal agents. They would probably do the same thing again. As a matter of fact it is the duty of city and county officials to create and maintain wholesome environment for the young men who are serving the nation in this crisis—and we must not shirk our obligations.

Chambers of Commerce in many of the leading cities have wisely decided to dispense with Christmas street decorations this year. Home owners are likewise urged to forego the usual decorations, and merchants are urged to display only useful things in their gift departments. Nobody wants to discourage the spirit of giving, or to minimize the importance of this, the most sacred of all religious holidays. But we must avoid waste and use our money wisely.

A banker friend of ours tells us that it is easy to acquire a reputation of being smart. All we have to do is to look wise and say nothing.

This country is paying only 25 per cent of war costs; is borrowing 75 per cent. Britain, Canada, Germany are financing war on a 50-50 basis. The result is that U. S. finances are getting into an alarming position. They're to leave a debt approaching $200,000,000,000 by the end of 1943. That can become dangerously inflationary. It's a situation that, during war, will be controlled by government restrictions, by price controls, by rationing. But vast stores of money in the hands of individuals could lead to a post-war blowoff. That's why tax bills now on are going to jar your back teeth loose.

The outstanding sentence in President's Roosevelt's recent address was this: "The problem is to have the right numbers of the right people in the right places at the right time."

SAYS LEAF STALKS ARE WORTH MILLION

Stalks from the present tobacco crop, properly preserved and spread on the land, would be worth $1,000,000 to Kentucky farmers, declares S. C. Jones of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

A ton of stalks which have not been exposed to the rain contain as much fertilizer nutrients as five to six tons of manure, according to Jones. Tobacco stalks are rich in nitrogen and potassium and also contain phosphorus and lime. A ton of stalks contain 60 to 65 pounds each of nitrogen and potassium and about six pounds of phosphorus and 30 to 35 pounds of calcium, or the equivalent of about 100 pounds of ground limestone. These nutrients, if purchased in commercial fertilizers, would cost some $12 or $15; hence all farmers should carefully conserve and utilize their tobacco stalks, which might return twice this amount or more in crop increases, with present prices of farm crops.

A large part of these constituents are soluble and are readily leached out of tobacco stalks and lost, when the stalks are piled in the open during the fall and winter rains. They should either be piled in the barn over winter or spread thinly at once on winter cover crops or on pasture and meadow lands. Tobacco is being stripped early this fall and, with the splendid growth of cover crops and pastures prevailing, they might well be spread as stripping proceeds. If they cannot be spread now, they should be kept in the dry and spread when these crops begin growth in the spring.

"The right time." There must be an adequate supply for war industries and farms, as well as for the armed forces. The battle fronts are dependent on the workers back home. The key to the problem is the principle of selective service, applied to essential workers as well as to fighters. Each of us must serve where he is needed and, as far as possible, in the job for which he is best fitted.

There is some bitter complaining by some folks about hardships and inconveniences incident to war, when in reality they are not having any hardships and very few inconveniences. Certainly no patriot will wish to do less, within the limits of his capacity, than the boys who are drafted for the front of danger.

Uncle Sam has decided on "an all-out" for air war. The green light has been given all the way down the line to the aircraft industry, especially big bombers. Hereafter, aviation has been keeping pace only with the building of ships, guns and tanks.

Even if the German army finally takes what is left of Stalingrad, Hitler's forces cannot go more than a short distance beyond that point. He has failed to win the major victory this year that was needed to keep him on top. Stalingrad has already cost Germany far more than its military worth.

That threatened chewing gum shortage will be a reality by Christmas, according to a Washington report.

There is no excuse for rayon hosiery being higher, says the OPA administrator—meaning, of course, higher on the counter, and not as worn on neither extremities.

City dwellers and school children in some sections are setting a good war example by going into farming areas and helping to harvest crops. Those going to be the first group or organization in this territory to roll up their sleeves and pitch in in earnest?

This war has done a great deal for the study of geography. In the First World War we learned a great deal about Europe. But, in this conflict, few if any parts of the world are untouched by its ravages.

Twenty minutes is sufficient for the first sun bath, says a health writer. And try to put one over on Old Sol and he'll skin your hide.

No one has yet figured what makes the wheels go around, but we know now what makes them stop—shortage of rubber.

Agitation for a "second front" in Europe should not cause us to lose sight of a "fifth front" here at home.

STARVATION ALLOWANCES

The allowances given the dependents of America's fighting men amount to a national disgrace. At a time when we are spending hundreds of billions to fight the war, and when waste is rampant, the government gives the dependent mothers, children and wives of soldiers and sailors ranging from $15 to $50 per month each. And $20 of a $50 allowance comes out of the $50 a month paid a private soldier.

Contrast this with the generous treatment accorded labor. Its wages are at all-time highs. It has been promptly given almost every wage increase it has demanded. The War Labor Board has allowed major labor groups recent wage increases on the grounds that they were necessary to compensate "for increases in the cost of living." And while that goes on, the dependents of men who are drafted into service receive pensions which are not enough to keep body and soul together. A considerable percentage of those dependents, because of health and age, are unable to work.

The cost of adequate pensions to those dependents would never be noticed in the over-all cost of the war. Adequate pensions would do more to create real morale among the fighting men than all the flag-waving speeches ever made. What is a soldier to think when he hears of workers receiving $50 to $150 a week in war industry—at a time when government aid to his dependents virtually condemns them to slow starvation or public charity.

FARM AND HOME WEEK JAN. 25-29

That there may be a clearing house for the discussion of pressing farm and home problems contributing to an all-out war effort, Dean Thomas P. Cooper announces that the annual Farm and Home Week will be held as usual at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky at Lexington. The dates have been set as January 26-29, inclusive.

The contribution which farmers and farm women are making in the war effort makes it more important than ever that the Farm and Home Week be continued this coming winter, Dean Cooper declared.

Farmers are facing increasing difficulties in their job of providing the food that will win the war and write the peace," said Dean Cooper. "Labor is only one of their many problems. There are the problems of transportation of farm products, of farm equipment, of the shifts in crop production and in livestock raising, and of the demand for such new crops as hemp, castor beans and soybeans. Also there is the part that the farm home plays in war, including food production and preservation, feeding the family, clothing making and the like. All these subjects may be discussed during the Week. It will take a lot of cooperative effort to produce all the food and fiber demanded of the farms of this country next year."

Farm and Home Week has been attracting increasingly large numbers of men and women every year. All counties of the State were represented in the attendance last year. This will be the 31st annual Farm and Home Week.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Winter flying jackets for both the Army and Navy Air Corps are regular equipment for our aviators. They cost from $12 to $18 and are made of horsehide leather lined with sheep shearing.

Purchase of one $18.75 War Bond, for which you receive $25 in 10 years, will pay for one of these jackets so necessary for our aviators flying at high altitudes and in northern climates. So you and your neighbors can do your bit by investing at least 10 percent of your salary every pay day in War Bonds to help pay the cost of this equipment for intrepid American flyers. Join the parade, and help top the War Bond Quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department

TRAVEL in WARTIME

THE fact that the United States is a nation of travelers is largely due to the efforts of the railroads to increase passenger business by cultivating the desire to go places and providing attractive transportation to get there. It is therefore surprising to find the railroads withdrawing accustomed passenger services and urging the American people to refrain from unnecessary travel. This, however, is being done and will be done increasingly.

The reasons for this move need to be recognized and understood.

The passenger transportation required by our armed forces is enormous and is increasing every day. This must be met in full and will be, come what may.

Civilian travel essential to winning the war has also grown tremendously and will continue to grow. For this the railroads must provide transportation to the limit of their ability to do so.

After these comes the movement of civilians whose travel, however important to themselves, is not an indispensable part of the war effort. So far the railroads have done about all they have been called upon to do for these travelers. However, the time is at hand when there will have to be an increasing curtailment of this kind of travel to make way for war transportation.

Changes are being made in railroad passenger services. Seasonal trains to Florida have been ruled out. There will be no chartered cars or special trains except for military business. Second sections of established trains will not be operated except where they have been operated regularly in the past. Passenger schedules are being lengthened to accommodate longer trains and more stops. Such changes are being made to insure that the railroads continue to provide all the passenger transportation that is needed to win the war.

This will call for some sacrifice by all of us. It will mean giving up, possibly for the duration of the war, the cherished privilege of going whenever and wherever we please. Knowing it is for our national war effort, we all should and will respond willingly, cheerfully. In so doing we shall be contributing to the ultimate victory wherein lies our hope for preservation of the American way of life.

BUD ABBOTT figures that the three-year-old son, Bud Abbott Jr., whom he and his wife have just adopted, is a direct present from Uncle Sam. It was through an official who accompanied Abbott and Costello on their recent head-basting tour that the comic entertainer first heard of the availability of the youngster and subsequently arranged for the adoption. Universal recently announced the purchase of the force, "See My Lawyer," as a vehicle for the two comedians; Milton Berle and Paddy Hart starred in it on Broadway.

Pat O'Brien, who recently filmed "The Navy Comes Through" at RKO, believes that he and Spencer Tracy can boast the longest enduring friendship in Hollywood. It's lasted more than 35 years; they were childhood playmates, went to school together, served together in the navy during World War I, and launched their professional careers together.
