The Tri-Weekly Kentucky New Era.

VOLUME III.

HOPKINSVILLE, CHRISTIAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1888.

NUMBER 137

CONDENSED NEWS.

Judge Thurman goes to Port Huron, Mich., to speak August 22d.

The wife of Capt. Bates, a plant of dime museum fame, died at Wadsworth, O., yesterday. She was 7 feet 9 inches tall.

Another attempt to save murderer Maxwell will be made. This time they intend to prove that one of the jurors was prejudiced.

The west is having an epidemic of storms. One in Springfield, Mo., destroyed thousands of dollars worth of property Tuesday last.

Two men were killed and three wounded near Altoona, Pa., Tuesday. They were at work on a high bridge and were knocked off by a runaway car.

Charles Albritton, Primis Davis and Jeff. Jones, three negroes attending a big camp meeting in Montgomery county, Ala., were killed by lightning while sitting in a buggy.

Wallace Grimes, well known in Kentucky as a cattle raiser, died at the time of his death, he was editing the Labor Signal, of Indianapolis, and was doing valiant work for the Democracy.

Capt. Delary and his crew of the sloop Mary Lane of New London says they saw the sea serpent off Port Judith on Saturday. It was as big around as a barrel, 70 feet long, eyes as big as a hat, and about five studded with 6 inch teeth.

Hon. John S. Wines, of Virginia, will remove to New York this fall to accept a business office. This is believed to be an indication that the Wise-Houston Republican electoral ticket will not be in existence at the November election to antagonize Gen. Mahone.

Matthew Carleton, of Montgomery, Ala., met with a peculiar death yesterday. His horse had fallen into an old well about 100 feet deep. Carleton was looking down at it when he lost his balance and fell in. The horse in his struggles kicked Carleton to death.

Two physicians of Palm, Ky., named B. F. Frank and Bell Griffith, got into a dispute over an old question which had long been unsettled between them. Frank pulled a pistol and Griffith a knife. Frank fired and missed and before he could shoot again Griffith had cut him fatally.

The Alabama State election for Governor, Treasurer, Auditor, Attorney General, Superintendent of Education and county officers passed off quietly. Col. Tompkins, the chairman of the Democratic State Committee, estimates the Democratic majority in the state at seventy-five thousand.

The news of Gen. Sheridan's death was received with profound regret throughout the country. Both branches of congress adjourned through respect for his memory, and flags on public buildings were lowered to half-mast. Gen. Sheridan has been ordered to take charge of the funeral arrangements. The body will be taken to Washington and buried with military honors on Saturday.

Should the bill providing for government buildings for postoffices whose receipts range from $3,000 to $25,000, become a law, twenty-three Kentucky cities will get the buildings. Covington will get a building costing $25,000; Newport $20,000; Ashland, Bowling Green, Cadizburg, Cynthiana, Danville, Frankfort, Georgetown, Harrodsburg, Henderson, Hopkinsville, Lebanon, Mayfield, Mt. Sterling, Owensboro, Paducah, Paris, Richmond, Shelbyville, Versailles and Winchester buildings costing $15,000.

Monday Gov. Morehouse, of Missouri, gave a hearing to Messrs. Martin and Fauntleroy, attorneys for Brooks, alias Maxwell, on the request that a further request be granted for a new trial. The governor announced his readiness to pass upon the application asked for by the British minister and said further that he would not interfere with the sentence in any way if no other reason than that contained in the papers received from Secretary Bayard could be produced. The attorneys replied that they had papers bearing upon the subject which they had been unable to prepare and bring, with them, and therefore they desired a postponement of the hearing. The hearing was had yesterday (Wednesday), the result of which has not been announced.

Did You ever. W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges, Sarasparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

A Snake Charmer Falls a Victim.

India has just lost a snake charmer, one Kondaje Mubojee, who fell a martyr to his belief in his own power. A lad 6 years old, named Vitto Hoorree, was bitten by a cobra at Mazagon, Bombay, and, as usual, a snake charmer was at once sent for. Kondaje arrived at the spot in half an hour, but the boy was already dead. The snake charmer inquired where the cobra had taken refuge, and, on a woodpile being pointed out, he removed the wood, found and seized the snake, and endeavored to make it bite the dead boy, declaring that if it did so the child would at once be restored to life. For two hours he persevered, but the snake refused to strike the boy, and at last, irritated beyond endurance, turned and bit Kondaje in the hand. The snake charmer calmly placed the snake in a copper vessel and then sat down. A vehicle was sent for and the man placed inside, but by the time he reached home he was dead.

The story testifies strongly to the belief of the snake charmers of India in the existence of a superstition that the second bite of a snake will restore the life that the first has taken away. The apathy of the Hindoo is evident by the fact that the snake charmer used no effort whatever to save his own life. Whether he thought that he was proof against its ill effects was not stated in the evidence given at the inquest held on the body of the child, but it is clear that he had no belief in the virtues of any antidote or mode of treatment. It is most probable that he was confident in the power of the drugs, ointments, or charms he had previously used to protect him, or the evidence of the spectator showed that upon finding the snake in the woodpile he had seized it without the slightest hesitation. It is certainly singular that a man accustomed to handle snakes should have been so convinced that his life had power to restore life, well as to cause death.—Foreign Letter.

The Arabs in Central Africa.

The havoc of Arab traders in Central Africa is vividly illustrated by the fact that one of the tribes Bishop Taylor intended to reach when he started his missions three or four years ago was wiped out of existence some time before the bishop's missionaries finally arrived at the borders of the desired country. The bishop was attracted to this region by Lieut. Wissmann's description of the big city of the Benue, where Dr. Pogge and he traveled for miles along one street. Camping at the further end of the town, they were visited by about five thousand of the inhabitants, whom the travelers described as a gentle, cheerful and industrious people. About the time Dr. Summers of the Taylor missions, reached the adjoining country, Lieut. Wissmann again visited the Benue region, where all was silent in the big town, the huts in ruins and the street overgrown with tall grass. The Arabs from Nyangwe had swept down upon the peaceful spot and had killed, captured or dispersed the inhabitants.

Some Hints Concerning Exercise.

It is a positive advantage in the amount of work accomplished if we turn aside to rest after meals. But by rest I do not mean doing nothing, except digest, but digestion is advanced by light exercise. Exercise for this purpose should be of a sort that gives pleasure, and is not a task. Exercise that gives a thrill of delight, at least defective, if not radically wrong. To walk a mile as a duty is nearly valueless. To ramble in pleasant woods for an hour, as a botanist, exercises the nerves rather than the muscles, and is of vast value. What, then, is our physiological study in relation to digestion? (1) Do not touch any sort of heavy work, a book, pen, or even newspaper, for two hours after eating. For the same reason you should not lecture, sing, or preach under the same conditions. (2) Work your brain with light tasks for several hours after such rest. (3) Such rest should not be absolute inactivity, but light exercise and pleasure. (4) Do not go to study to the table directly. There should be a brief reaction before dining.—M. Maurice, M. D., in Globe-Democrat.

Emperor Nero's Canal.

Among the most important public works in Greece is the canal through the Isthmus of Corinth, of which Nero, the De Lesseps, began in 1826, and was to be completed this year, 1888, but it will not be finished for several years yet. It has the same breadth and depth as the Suez canal, and is about four miles long. The deepest cut is 250 feet. It passes through solid rock, and its sides are as yet left almost vertical. It is to be lighted by electricity. The cost was estimated at $7,000,000. This canal will save vessels from Trieste or Brindisi to Athens or Constantinople about 200 miles; it will save ships from Gibraltar about seventy-five miles. It has been dug largely by Italians, Turks and Montenegrins. Few Greeks have been employed. They do not take kindly to such work. The canal carries out a plan that was cherished by many of the ancients; it actually follows the course which was surveyed by order of the Emperor Nero.—Thomas D. Seymour in Scribner's.

The Salon's Prize Picture.

The grand prize has been carried off by M. Detaille, who painted for this salon a big picture which he named "The Dream." It is a clever painting, but not a masterpiece, and it mixes up realism and dreamland. We are shown a group of soldiers, rather soldiers, crumpled up in their rugs and asleep on a moor, or, at any rate, what seems to be the moonlight of a wide plain. The arms are stacked and flags are stretched from stack to stack. Sentinels pace up and down. Far off the military incursion has been at work, and the moonbeams struggle through a lowering sky. One must stand at some distance to see the dream, which appears in clouds that take the form of a triumphant army of the great Napoleon. The standards which waved at Fleurus, Marano and Austerlitz are borne by the spectral host—so spectral that at any moment it may be dispersed by a moonbeam.—Paris Cor. Argonaut.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50 cts. and $1.00 at Harry B. Garner's City Pharmacy."

A Creature of Cleanly Habits.

It is interesting to note in many places in this city a small machine, scarcely larger than a handbox, in which electricity is at work for the purpose of keeping an adjacent room cooled by means of revolving fans. The electric motor is the most gentle, as well as the most business like of machines, a sort of steam engine in a dress suit. It is neat enough for the parlor, it savors of neither oil nor steam, and is as steady in its movements as my lady's Geneva watch. Its revolutions are of special interest to those who remember that these are but another form of light. The same energy that turns the motor will, if passed into a bit of carbon, create electric radiance. The motor and the light are brothers, children of the same mother, yet possessed of diverse traits. The one is brilliant, the other busy; the one expends its energy in labor, the other in dazzling darkness. As a conveyor of power the motor is destined to find a welcome in the homes of the people. It is a creature of cleanly habits, pleasing appearance and correct principles. It will wave fans, run the sewing machine, turn the cream freezer, and perform other duties as yet not clearly defined. The electric motor will find its way to the home ere long.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

The City of Siberia.

If I were asked to characterize Omsk in a few words, I should describe it as a city of 30,000 inhabitants, in which the largest building is a military academy and the most picturesque building a police station; in which there is neither a newspaper nor a library, and in which one-half the population wears the Tsar's uniform and makes a business of governing the other half. The nature of the relations between the latter half and the former may be inferred from the fact that an intelligent and reputable citizen of this chinovnik dominated city, who had been kind and useful to me, said to me when he bade us good-by, "Mr. Kennan, if you find it necessary to speak of me by name in your book, please don't speak of me favorably."

Care of Our Bodies.

Few owners of fine horses do not spend from half an hour to an hour every day in grooming them with comb and brush. And they know this care helps to keep them in fine condition. Would not the same, or even a quarter of an hour spent daily in grooming, bathing and rubbing the body, the limbs, joints and skin be of equal benefit? There are men who spend from one to three hours every day doing this, and they find it prevents cold, rheumatism, sleeplessness and other physical maladies, promotes health and prolongs life. One man writes: "A few minutes given every morning, evening, morning and evening, and grooming the body is not a great sacrifice of valuable time. Twice so much is given graciously by many a thoughtful owner to the care of a horse, whose value may be only a few hundred dollars, yet many persons exclaim that they have not time to spare for these hygienic attentions to themselves and their children."—Herald of Health.

The Economy of Cremation.

To the poorer classes cremation especially appeals, because it is more economical than burial. But, for the most part, it would be well for each state to try the experiment of cremating its dead paupers instead of continuing to enlarge its pauper houses. Certainly cremation practiced under governmental auspices in this way would demonstrate its practical superiority. The more the subject is pondered the deeper must grow the conviction that cremation is the most rational and efficient means of modifying the grim and ghastly victory of death. Graveyards, and the manner in which the dead are buried, are as much responsible for most of the superstitions of mankind regarding spirits, goblins and the whole retinue of supernatural abstractions. The rising skeleton, exhumed after years of repose in the grave, sets aside the dreadful fancies of the least susceptible witness.—The Epoch.

Classes for the Near Sighted.

The near sighted child should wear spectacles, because they are the best preventive against increase of near sightedness, and also because he loses a great part of his education in not being able to see more than a few feet away. When a person grows old the power of accommodation is lost, and even if he be not near sighted, the hardening of the crystalline lens prevents sight at short distances. Hence he is obliged to wear glasses. The vast majority of persons who wear glasses can see as well without them. They use them to avoid a constant strain on the eyes. The act of focalization is a muscular one, and uses up nervous energy. The overworked eye, in which the focus comes behind the retina, has to perform this muscular act continually. The results are headache, irritability and nausea. The only remedy in such cases is to wear glasses.—Dr. David Webster.

Benefits of Lung Exercise.

But the greatest benefits to be derived from lung exercise are not in the cases of healthy individuals, but rather in those whose vital capacity is below the normal—who are hollow chested, stooping and feeble in their breathing. The imperfect development of the respiratory functions invites disease; their lungs are vulnerable. Proper exercise will throw off this debility and render them less liable to disease. We may go even a step further and say that in many cases where lung diseases actually exist breathing exercise is one of the most valuable elements in treatment. I have often been gratified with the way in which a consolidated lung in chronic pneumonia of long standing and slow progress would improve under proper lung exercise. Indeed, in some of these cases it has seemed that properly regulated exercises have rendered greater service than could be derived from ordinary drugs.—John L. Davis, A. B., M. D.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. For sale at H. B. Garner's City Pharmacy.

Woolfolk-Wheeler.
On Wednesday, August 8th, at 7 p. m., a quiet but notable event occurred in the marriage of Mr. Robert Lee Woolfolk, of Louisville, to Miss Emma R. Wheeler, of this county. The ceremony was performed at "Richland," the beautiful country residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. S. Wheeler, the Rev.
Chas. Morris, of Evansville, Ind., and the Rev. J. W. Venable, of Hopkinsville, officiating. Only the relatives of the bride and groom and a very few intimate friends were present.
As Miss Emma Wheeler, Mrs. Woolfolk will be long remembered as one of the most brilliant and charming members of society and her absence will create a void deeply felt and difficult to fill.
The groom, Mr. R. L. Woolfolk, is a son of Mr. R. H. Woolfolk, deceased, the well known steamboat owner, who was a prominent and honored citizen of Louisville, Ky.
Mr. and Mrs. Woolfolk took the evening train for Chicago and other northern cities immediately after the marriage.

Judge McPherson Serenaded.
A crowd of enthusiastic friends and admirers of Judge McPherson, accompanied by a band of musicians, marched to the suburban residence of the gentleman on Tuesday evening, for the purpose of honoring him with a serenade.
The joyous crowd entered the front yard of the McPherson residence, and shortly after the strains of the musicians had begun, the judge appeared at his front door, when he was greeted with a round of applause. In answer to the call of friends, the judge spoke, briefly addressing the throng about him on the issues of the past campaign, which, while one of the most hotly contested ever fought in the county, was conducted on high principles and has left no wounds unhealed. In response to John O. Rust, Hon. Jas. Breathitt, and Isaiah Jones, the colored orator, all made brief but eloquent speeches. The crowd was then invited by Judge McPherson to accompany him to Wilson's and Galbreath's confectionaries, where ice cream, melons and other delicacies of the season were served. Altogether it was a most enjoyable and happy impromptu affair.

County Mail Went Wrong.
By an accident or through the carelessness of some one, the sack containing the county mail of the New Era was carried south on the accommodation train last Tuesday morning. The sack of mail was left as usual at the postoffice, but was carried to the train by the mail carriers under the impression that it was the one going south. We regret this very much, as we particularly wished our subscribers to read the election returns. The sack was returned at 10 o'clock, but of course too late to catch the early mail out over the county.

To Select an Elector.

of the congressional district, of Kentucky will meet at the Barrett House, Henderson, on Tuesday, August 14th, at Democratic candidate for presidential elector for said district, vice Hon. R. W.

Henry, deceased. E. P. MILLET,

The New Era for is indebted to Messrs. Matthew Charlton and R. H.
Harrison for a fine melon.

MUSIC.—Mrs. J. M. Dennis will give lessons in vocal and instrumental music at her residence on Sixth street.

Mr. Geo. O. Thompson is having a sky-light put in the building next door to the Bank of Hopkinsville, recently occupied by A. G. Bush.

There was a remarkable scarcity of fights in this county last Monday, when it is considered that one of the most exciting elections ever held in the county came off that day.

Pig Green and Enos Washington, both colored, were arrested Tuesday afternoon charged with breach of the peace. They each contributed $2.50 and costs to the city treasury.

The defeated candidates, Breathitt, Wiley and Bradley, seem to be taking things coolly. They were noticed at Hopper's drug store Tuesday afternoon pleading each other's health in milk shakes.

FOR SALE.—My residence on Campbell street—one and one-half story brick—six rooms and kitchen and two servant's rooms—good closets—large garden, stable and stable lot. One-third cash, balance long time. E. G. SWEENEY, JR.

Polk Cassler said at the court house, the household furniture of Joe Colliard, who is going to tackle the West. One of these days he'll wish he'd taken the New Era's advice to all such—"stay here in Christian; there's no better place in the world."

We are dandies, we are! Tuesday was a dull day, but we managed to get up three fights in front of the office in less than ten minutes. Nobody killed, but the cops nabbed all the crowd but one, who got away. We wanted to furnish work for the new policeman, you know.

While under the influence of drink Tuesday afternoon, Walter Elliott, a young man of this city, drew a knife upon some parties on Seventh street, where he purchased the fall stock.
Miss Manie Sullivan, of Clarksville, is visiting the family of Jno. Dineen.

Mrs. W. T. Hone and daughter, Miss Clara, returned Wednesday night from a protracted visit to friends and relatives in Cincinnati.

County: Hopkinsville, Ky.,

The old ball on box was revived by some mischievous boys at the depot Monday evening. Several crossed the railroad and appeared to be going intently at some object in the air, pointing, ges-tulating and exclaiming "see it," "there she goes." Pretty soon the imaginary balloon had a large crowd seeking in vain to destroy it in the heavens.

Peter Anderson, a bridge carpenter living near Pembroke and in the imploy of the railroad, came near losing his eye last week through a mistake. He had purchased from a drug store a prescription for sore eyes. A companion of Anderson's had bought from the same drug store a bottle of carbolic acid. The two men occupied the same apartment and Anderson poured the acid into his eye almost burning it out.

Caldwell & Randall are courting a suit for damages, it seems. Their workmen, who are putting the new cornice pieces on the court house, are very careless about throwing pieces of the old cornice to the streets. On Tuesday afternoon it was dangerous for one to enter or leave the building, so thick and fast were the pieces falling, any one of which would have killed, or seriously hurt a man. On several occasions persons narrowly missed being struck.
As there is always a crowd about there, some protection ought to be afforded.

All boys will enjoy the frontispiece of the August Wide Awake, "The Crisis," a wild Canadian river-scene, and the accompanying story of peril and pluck, "Saved on the Brink," by Macdonald Oxley; and both boys and girls will have great fun over James Otis' complete serial, "A Neck-tie Party," for it is a jolly story. One of the most beautiful things in the number is by My Kendall, an English writer, the author of the novel "That Very Mab; it is a "parable" entitled "The Temple of Music," and teaches one of the most precious of life's lessons—that "he who loses his life shall find it"; all who have ever given up an ideal for the sake of duty will be the happier for reading this exquisite story.

About seventy-five prominent Democrats and Republicans who had labored for the defeat of the ring candidates met in Mr. Jas. W. Yancy's office Tuesday morning to shake hands and congratulate each other upon the triumph of truth and the victory of principle. The gentlemen were all in the best humor and several made excellent speeches.
There were loud calls for Isaiah Jones.
He responded in a speech full of eloquence although it was an impromptu effort. He told in strong and forcible words the motive which actuated him in uniting with the Democrats to put down ring rule in Christian county.
He had convictions and he had the courage during the campaign to proclaim those convictions throughout the county.
The prejudices which his fearless policy had brought upon him he said would never die, but he was proudly conscious that he had done his duty.
He was loudly cheered during his remarks.—The meeting adjourned with mutual good will.

Quick Work.
(Nashville Democrat.)
The Hopkinsville New Era yesterday morning surprised its readers by appearing with full returns from Monday's election from every precinct in the county in its columns. With true journalistic enterprise it received by telegraph and through courier from precincts not reached by wire, correct returns of the election all over the county within three hours of when the polls closed.

Mr. Hiram Sibley gave a delightful party to the young people at his residence on the Clarksville pike Tuesday.

Mattie, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Collins, died Tuesday night at 10 o'clock. The burial took place at the cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

The court-house clock stopped short on Monday night, the night the clique died. It will run all right, though, when the new order of things is inaugurated.

Mr. J. C. Hall, of Sharon Grove, and Miss Mary Jane Cook, of Antioch neighborhood, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. E. J.
Hord, on the 2nd.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has recovered the handsome watch which he lost while bunting several weeks since. It was found on the Morrow farm near the city by a laborer, and returned to him.

Newt Dasset and Wm. Tucker were arraigned before Judge Winfree Wednesday morning charged with disturbing public worship. The court fined them each $20 and cost. In default of payment they were placed in jail to work it out in the service of the county.

The council will please accept the thanks of the whole city, and of the New Era thrown in for good measure. They at last concluded that our police force was not large enough and have added another man. Shipp Witty is his name and he has already entered upon his duties. The New Era has worked for an increase a good while, and it feels better already.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

At the new mines about one and a half miles south of Earlinton, at a picnic held there Saturday, a quarrel arose between Mr. Gabe Stokes and Mr. Eli Dorris over who should dance with a young lady, the result was that both of the men fought with clubs and were badly used up. Sunday morning both again met at Morton's Gap and Dorris, so report says, opened up the trouble by making an attack on Stokes with a club, when Stokes drew a revolver and fired two shots at Dorris, only one taking effect, inflicting only a slight flesh wound.
Dorris, it is said, made a hasty retreat or perhaps he would have been killed.

(Clarksville Tobacco Leaf.)
The following named gentlemen were before Recorder Bailey yesterday morning to stand trial for alleged violation of the Sunday law prohibiting the sale and delivery of ice, ice cream, etc.: W. A.
Settle, Bowling Bros. & Cunningham, E. B. Ely, W. R. Quin, and Frank Fidlerling, each of whom had been served with a warrant by the police, at the instance of the city marshal. These arrests grew out of an action of the city council in declining at its meeting to repeal an ordinance in reference to Sunday shaving especially, and the delivery of ice, ice cream, etc., incidentally.

The recorder submitted their case. The recorder asserted no fine, giving as a reason that the law had been on the statute for eleven years and until now had never been enforced. The defendants, he said, were all law abiding citizens and intended no violation thereof.
He thought perhaps they had not had the matter properly brought to their attention. He warned them that he would enforce the law hereafter. And thus the matter stands.

(Henderson News.)
Our gas works yield a net income of $6,000 a year to the city. The water works yield a profit of nearly $7,000 a year.

Our readers are aware that a bridge company was recently formed here, through the instrumentality of the principal owners of the Ohio Valley railway and capitalists of Evansville, for the construction of a bridge over the Ohio, at or near Evansville. As the natural obstacles to the erection of such a structure at that city, were deemed too great, it was decided by the company (of which P. G. Kealey is president) to locate the costly water passway about four miles above Evansville, and experienced engineers are now prospecting at the point designated, to ascertain as to the underlying strata for a solid pier foundation.
It is supposed that an iron draw bridge can be thrown over the stream here high enough to meet the government's requirements, for about $1,500,000, and that, with proper energy and ready money, the work can be effected within two or three to four years. Of course this bridge would serve to divert trade to Evansville, which otherwise might be directed to Henderson. The fine iron structure here can only charge a reasonable toll to all other roads who may desire to use it in transferring their cars of passengers or freight.
If this toll is deemed so high as to justify another bridge, of course interested capitalists will invest their means. No doubt the money men of Evansville will be ready to plank down liberally in a venture which gives promise of advancing the material prosperity of their city. As Owensboro is, also, prospecting for a bridge, and there is one now under construction at Cairo, and Paducah has, likewise, a charter, it is fair to assume that the lower Ohio bids fair to offer strong inducements for railway facilities hereafter.
