THE LISTENING POST

● In building an army a nation runs into a lot of odd obstacles, and motion picture actors furnish an interesting illustration of this. It appears that the actors are damned if they do and damned if they don't, and in making a fourth-rate soldier the army at any rate, so say some people who hold that in England and in Russia this mistake of taking motion picture stars for the army has been remedied. In those countries they soon discovered that few actors made good soldiers, whereas, on the other hand, in doing the work they could do they helped the armed forces a lot.

● Not long ago Gregory Ratoff, who, I presume, must be Russian, called on Ambassador Litvinoff in connection with a film on Russia he was directing. Ratoff wanted Robert Taylor for the picture, but the handsome star was already in the Navy and Ratoff hesitated to take any steps himself about getting him released for the picture. The Russian ambassador at once asked Elmer Davis about the matter and the head of the War Information office called Secretary Knox regarding the matter. Knox at once released Taylor from his duties in order that he might appear in the picture. Litvinoff, in commenting on the matter, remarked that it was a difficult matter to understand this country, saying that in Russia they had found long ago that moving picture stars were of vastly more help as morale builders than they could possibly be as soldiers. It is said that the same steps have been taken in England, after first calling up many of the stars for military service.

● As a matter of fact, it is likely that the actors feel keenly a certain amount of public resentment as long as they remain in Hollywood and appear in pictures. As a nation, we seem inclined to do a lot of worrying about why certain men do not get into the army, and many of our people are quick to utter criticism about some person they suspect of being a slacker. Personally I run across many of these people, and at times have tried to set them straight regarding certain persons concerning whom I knew the facts. This does little good, however, for a critic of this sort is difficult to satisfy even when given the real facts. There are many men and young men in the country today who are outside the army for valid and logical reasons, but they are the target of much criticism from people who do not know the facts, and who have no desire to know them.

● Naturally, when a great motion star, or any figure who looms large in the public eye, stays out of the military services, there are many people who rise up and want to know why. Jack Dempsey was such a figure in the other war, for Dempsey worked in a shipyard during that period. Several years after the war he was still popularly supposed to have a broad yellow streak and it was not until many years later that he outlived this.

● Funny things come up. Mickey Rooney is not wanted by the Army particularly because he is too short, and because also, if he happens to be in a camp, he will attract attention which should be given the commanding officer. Then there is Clark Gable. It is said that the President asked Gable not to en-

Welles Says Martinique Trade Halted

U. S. Puts Pressure On Island Held By French

Washington.—The United States has put a padlock on trade with Martinique. No ships carrying food have left this country for the strategic French possession in the Caribbean since November 8, date of the American occupation of French North Africa.

Making this disclosure at a press conference today Acting Secretary of States Welles did not explain why the pantry door had been closed against Martinique. He invited questions to draw their own conclusions.

The conclusion generally drawn, in the light of long previous efforts to clarify the status of French ships in the Caribbean, was that Admiral Georges Robert, French high commissioner on Martinique, had become reluctant to co-operate with the United States and therefore had been told to get his groceries elsewhere, if he could.

This conclusion, however, leaves the status of Martinique as obscure as it has been in many years. Whether Robert, after four months without food shipments from the United States, is now disposed to bring Martinique and its ships into the Allied camp remains a subject for speculation. Welles made it clear he had nothing further to say for the moment.

CORRECTION

In yesterday's issue, it was stated that South Fulton's game tonight against Trenton would be played on the Greenfield floor. This was an error, as the game will be played at Dyer, Tenn.

There will be a double header, beginning at 8 o'clock with a girl's game between Union City and Humboldt, followed by the South Fulton-Trenton game.

NOTICE

We are asking the citizens of South Fulton to keep up their dogs and chickens as there is an ordinance to do so. Especially this summer as it is necessary for everyone to try to make a garden. Please comply with these ordinances and greatly relieve the City Marshal of so many calls about chickens and dogs running at large.

Respectfully,
D. A. ROGERS, Mayor
South Fulton

GEORGIA PAYS $1,300.00 DEBT OWED SINCE 1907

Atlanta.—The Georgia legislature finally has approved a measure to pay a debt the State has owed since 1907.

The measure will pay $1,300 principal and $1,300 interest to the heirs of the late Joseph Crankshaw, Atlanta jeweler who sold the State a silver service for a gift to the battleship Georgia.

When the battleship was scrapped, the silver was sent to the Governor's mansion. Successive legislatures have failed to provide for payment.

Army Plans To Discharge 546,000 Men

Those Released Will Aid Farms And Industry

Washington.—The Army plans to release 546,000 men this year for service in industry and agriculture, the United Press learned today.

The plan will not materially alleviate manpower pressures because it is the Army's intention to draw on the civilian population for better fitted men to take their places. The men to be released will be discharged outright because of age, physical unfitness or on other grounds of unsuitability.

Meanwhile Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.), to meet Administration objections to his bill deferring all farm labor from the draft, offered substitute legislation requiring deferment only if the worker is producing crops essential to war needs.

Closer to O'Mahoney Bill Despite the War Manpower Commission's recent draft reclassification designed to encourage a shift of men over 38 to the farms and the order to draft boards that deferred farm workers must not be called, Bankhead declared his measure retention of needed agricultural labor.

Other Fulton People Rally To Red Cross War Fund

Below will be found another list of 75 men and women who are interested in seeing that Fulton meets its quota of $5,300 for the Red Cross War Fund. Remember this is not a complete list; other names are to follow from day to day. If you have paid and your name has not appeared do not grow impatient—the name will appear before publication is ended.

And if you have not made a contribution, you certainly do want your name to appear in this roll of honor. Surely no citizen of Fulton will allow this opportunity to pass by. The Red Cross is our one agency of mercy for American fighting men on every fighting front of the world, and it may be your son who is being helped by this great organization of mercy. See to it today that your name goes on this Fulton roll of honor. The quota is still far away and the help of every person is needed. Here is the list today:

REPORTS GOVT. TAKING TOO MUCH CANNED PRODUCE

Has Taken Nearly 40 Per Cent Of Canned Output

New York.—A report of the American Institute of Food Distribution, Inc., says that "excessive" purchases of processed foods and that this together with hoarding by millions of private families is responsible for the high ration point value of canned and dried foods.

Contained in the institute's weekly digest, the report was signed by Gordon C. Corbaley, the organization's president, and was mailed yesterday to its 3,000 members.

Declaring that the government has purchased nearly 40 per cent of the canned vegetables and fruits packed in 1942, the report also asserts that the government bought larger quantities of canned tomatoes and probably of canned corn

FLEET OF U-BOAT KILLERS NOW IN MASS PRODUCTION

Several Score Of Fleet Boats Now In Service

Washington.—Fresh hope that Allied sea forces will be able to crush Germany's reinforced U-boat fleet this summer was expressed by naval authorities today after Secretary Knox disclosed that a new fleet of submarine killer ships is at last coming down the ways on a mass production schedule.

Several score of the sleek little vessels, known in the Navy as destroyer escorts, already have been launched, the secretary told a press conference, and hundreds of others are being or will be built. Each ship requires about four months for construction, less than half the time necessary to build a regular destroyer.

Crews are being trained at a pace to match the speed of construction

Cleveland Man Collects 2,000 Small Liquor Bottles

Cleveland.—Most of us have been fascinated by those miniature liquor bottles put out by distilling companies. Some of us have even collected a few. But Hymen Blaushild of this city is willing to bet that none can rival the 2,000 bottles he has on display.

Blaushild started his enviable hobby six years ago, when he purchased cordials, contained in bottles shaped like remarkably true-to-life walrus, roosters, reindeer and penguins. This small-scale menagerie, hand-blown, comes from Holland.

Since that time Blaushild has added miniature bottles from every country in the world which distill liquors. Wines from France, Greece, Spain and Italy, beer from Germany, whisky from Ireland, England and Scotland, as well as from the now nonexistent countries of Poland, Danzig, Free State, Latvia and once-gay Budapest, enhance his collection.

The most valuable item, Blaushild says, is one which contains vodka, bottled during the reign of Russia's last czar.

Besides those bottles shaped like animals, he has Grecian urns, a windmill—and a dancing lady from France rub shoulders with a desperate looking character in black cloak, who was killed for the late George V. of England.

Then there are bottles shaped like fruits—a tangerine, for instance, with two stoppers, holds two different kinds of wine.

Blaushild hesitates about putting an exact value on his collection, but he estimates them to be worth from $15,000 to $20,000.

DAKAR KNOWS HOW TO DRIVE WITHOUT GASOLINE

Dakar, French West Africa.—Present filling stations in French West Africa soon will be going out of business—the French hope. They consist of bags of fuel piled up by the roadside, ready for use by wood or charcoal-burning trucks and passenger cars.

Because of the oil shortage, private operation of gasoline-burning automobiles has been banned for two years. With resumption of trade between French West Africa and the United Nations, however, the French anticipate some gasoline will be sent here for private use.

Order Grants Key U. S. Men Draft Respite

Request Must Be Made By Agency Committee

Washington.—President Roosevelt has set up a system under which Government agencies can request deferment for key employees, and at the same time has cleared the way for voluntary induction of non-essential federal workers into the armed services.

In an executive order, announced today, the President placed jurisdiction in the War Manpower Commission and provided that each Government agency have a committee to consider the deferment question.

The order is designed to carry out recommendations of a committee headed by Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which studied the problem.

Mississippi Man "Writes" To 500 Soldiers Every Week

Indianola, Miss.—Until someone comes forth with a better claim, W. R. French, president of the Chamber of Commerce here, says he will continue to lay claim to the title of chief morale booster for servicemen, on the basis of the 500 four-page letters he mails out every week.

French, whose two sons are in the Army, compiles a weekly account of happenings in this delta city of 3,600 and mails out four duplicated pages, legal size, to every local serviceman he can locate.

"The fifty-six inches of happiness," as the boys call it, goes to thirty-eight states, Africa, Trinidad, Bermuda, Alaska, New Guinea, Fiji Islands, England, Panama, Guadalcanal, Hawaii, twenty boys at sea, and fifty three to A.P.O. postoffices in San Francisco and New York.

During the eighty-four consecutive weeks the bulletin has been issued, only one copy has been returned by the censors.

French, who admits he's over 60, has received numerous and odd gifts from the boys in service—even a grass skirt from the Fiji Islands. Some of the recipients have "paid" him in money from countries in which they are stationed,

U. S. Fliers Strike France; Down 25 Planes

Four Bombers Are Lost In Tremendous Raid

London.—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, renewing the crushing Allied aerial offensive against German-held Europe, smashed at Rouen and Rennes, France, in daylight today and with their escort destroyed more than twenty-five enemy fighters that rose to combat the raid.

The big bombers, escorted by an umbrella of R.A.F., American, Dominion and other Allied fighters, struck at railway yards at Rouen and Rennes and battered the U-boat supply center at Rennes.

A joint communique of the Air Ministry and the United States Army Air Forces said the bombers shot down "more than a score" of Axis fighters while their escort planes accounted for five more.

4 Bombers Lost

Four American bombers were lost and two Allied fighters failed to return from the operations.

The German version of the raids as broadcast by the Berlin radio was that the American planes were over France for an hour and a half and that six of them, including "four-engined bombers," were shot down.

Danish and German radio stations went off the air tonight, suggesting that R.A.F. night bombers had taken up the offensive where the U. S. daylight raiders left off.

REGULAR BOARD MEETING LAST NIGHT

At the March meeting of the Fulton Board of Education held last night at the high school, Supt. J. O. Lewis, and Principals W. L. Holland, Yewell Harrison, Jessie Lee Fleming and Hugh Jackson, colored, were all reelected for the coming year. The teachers will be elected at the April meeting.

The Board decided to postpone the dedication of the new building until the grounds had been graded and the walks laid, and the date will be announced later.

It was voted to use the Fair-ground property for victory gardens, letting people have the use of the land for the gardens for a small return in produce for the school cafeteria.

Supt. Lewis was instructed to order the janitor's supplies for next year immediately, and he was also ordered to inventory the steel that is left from the new building, as this will be for sale soon.

and the 1,000 or more letters he has received fill three scrapbooks.

American Legion posts, civic clubs of other cities, and persons scattered from Texas to New York have written for details of editing the issues. Financed by contributions from local residents, an average issue costs about $15, mostly for postage.

Frequently, strangers have seen copies by chance, and written letters of appreciation, asking to be put on the mailing list. One such letter came from Pearl Harbor and another from England.

News Varied

The bulletins report local happenings such as ball game scores, deaths, births, weddings, operations, the names of boys enlisting or being transferred excerpts from their letters and, occasionally, jokes.

French is president of the County Board of Road Supervisors, head of the county Civilian Defense Council, War Bonds chairman, clerk of the School Board and ex-president of the Mississippi Road Supervisors.

The publication comes out on Tuesday and all that day local citizens call at his office for free copies.

SHIFT OF SUBMARINES
Evacuation of the Brest-Lorient areas of the northwestern French coast by the Nazis signifies a removal to other points of those important submarine bases which have been bombed virtually out of existence. It has been suggested that at least one big base may be established on the south coast of France at Marseilles. Perhaps another will be at Tarento in southern Italy or somewhere in Greek waters.

This shifting of Nazi submarine bases from the Atlantic coast to the Mediterranean indicates a conviction in Berlin that a grand scale movement of the Allies into southern Europe impends. Hitler may be preparing to throw into its pathway the only offensive sea force at his command, the U-boats.

Prime Minister Churchill's statement that the Allies are gaining rapidly on the U-boats reveals the hopelessness of Hitler's efforts in the Mediterranean. He may delay and damage a large Allied expedition across that sea to Europe, but he can not prevent it. Time is running against Hitler.

What the landing point or points of the Allies will be when they get into motion cannot be predicted authoritatively, but the Churchill visit to Turkey suggests strong possibility of something happening in that quarter. In World War I Churchill initiated a large scale campaign against Turkey, then on Germany's side. He felt then that the strategic position of Turkey warranted large risks. The campaign a quarter of a century ago failed.

It is conceivable that Churchill is still impressed with Turkey as the short route to Germany's defeat and that he will do what he can to advance victoriously through the Dardanelles, a feat that he could not accomplish in the last war.

DEGLAMORIZED MEALS
From now on, under the point system of food rationing, a flood of new recipes for the feeding of the family may be expected. These recipes will be especially concocted to make the most of inadequate supplies of meats and vegetables.
They will exemplify the spirit of Benjamin Franklin's boast that he could live on "sawdust" pudding.
He referred to a concoction made of corn meal.

The fancy luncheon salad may pass out except for those who have their own gardens. Secretary Wickard hasn't ordered production of what he calls unessential vegetables stopped but warns commercial growers they will get no government help in harvesting such crops.

These "unessentials" include cantaloupes, cucumbers, eggplant, watermelons, bleached celery, head lettuce, green peppers, asparagus and artichokes. Readers will

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

GAINS AND LOSSES

Income is frequently affected by transactions in property held for profit or investment, or used in the taxpayer's business, but not a part of the stock in trade. Such transactions may occur in real estate, or other tangible property, such as store fixtures or plant machinery and equipment, or such personal possessions as car or household goods. Such transactions are reportable either in Schedule F or Schedule G of the return Form 1040, are taken partly or wholly into the income account on the face of the return (item 8.)

The law requires gains or losses to be reported according to the nature of the transaction, and two separate entries are provided in item 8 for this purpose: (a) net gain (or loss) from sale or exchange of capital assets, (b) net gain (or loss) from sale or exchange of property other than capital assets.

A distinction is made between capital assets and "other than capital assets." The latter includes primarily property subject to the allowance for depreciation and land used in the trade or business and held for more than six months where losses from sale or involuntary conversion of such property exceeds the gain. If gains from the sale or involuntary conversion of property subject to the allowance for depreciation and land used in the trade or business, and held for more than six months, exceed the losses, the transactions are treated in the same manner as a sale of capital assets.

On property classified as "other than capital assets" the full amount of the gain (or loss) from sale or exchange is taken into the income account in item 8(b) of the return Form 1040, and an explanation of the transaction is shown in Schedule G.

In transactions in capital assets, such as nondepreciable property, and securities, the amount of gain or loss taken into the income account, in item 8(a), is subject to certain limitations. For such property held for not more than six months, the entire amount of the net gain or loss is considered in arriving at the net amount to be shown, while for property held more than six months, one-half of the net gain or loss is considered.
The combined net gain is entered in item 8(a) of the return. If, however, the result is a net loss, then the amount which may be entered is limited to $1,000 or to the amount of the taxpayer's net income from other sources, whichever is the smaller. In arriving at the net figure, also, losses of this character for a preceding year may be used as an offset, within certain limitations, and the net results of such transactions on partnership or common trust fund account must be included.

It should be noted that in the case of sale or exchange of property, such as the taxpayer's residence, automobile, house furnishings, or jewelry, gains must be taken into income but losses are not allowed to be so taken. Such property, not being depreciable, would classify as capital assets, and the treatment of gains would be governed as stated above.

how, and is now a bombardier on a bomber. He is 43 years of age, and this is too old for a member of a bombing crew. It is entirely possible that his age, with its slower reflexes, might endanger the lives of the entire crew, but Gable felt that it was his duty to enlist. The chances are good that he would be worth more as an actor than as a bombardier, but he had no desire to become the target of criticism which might ruin his entire career in future years.

tinues:

"Not to exceed 15 per cent of these packs, possibly 12 per cent was actually needed to supply men in our fighting forces until the autumn of 1943."

Taking into account the fact that consumption of the 7,000,000 men in our armed forces had increased about one-fifth and that there were heavier purchases by families with more money to spend, the report contends that the "record production in 1942" was sufficiently large adequately to supply civilian consumers and furnish the dried fruits needed by our Allies "who are taking practically no canned vegetables or fruits and no frozen

Richard Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, who has been on the fighting front in New Guinea for sometime, has now been sent back to Australia with his outfit for rest. In a recent letter to his parents, he relates some interesting facts regarding his experiences. Excerpts from his letter are: "Well, thank goodness we are back in Australia and out of that Hell Hole. I was going to send a cablegram, but we are quarantined and confined to camp, so I may not be able to arrange it. "We are situated at a very nice place—a resort town, right on the coast. We will probably be allowed to go swimming, but no one is allowed out after dark. The whole regiment is being treated for malaria. The treatment will last for 17 days and then, if the result is satisfactory, it is reported that we will be granted seven day leaves. That will be wonderful, but we certainly deserve it. "It was right nice coming back here. A band met us at the dock and followed us around all day. The Red Cross met the boat, and passed out ice cream, apples, bananas, pears and chewing gum. It was very nice. We then came out to this rest camp and had the first good meal we had had in about five months. I never knew bread could taste so wonderful. I ate

ARMY Q. M. C. CUTS RUBBER USE 73 PCT.

Finds Raincoats Better If Made Of Resin

Washington.—By changing specifications and substitution of materials, the Army Quartermaster Corps is saving vast quantities of highly critical rubber and in many cases is getting better articles, according to Col. George F. Doriot, in charge of the research and development branch.

A 73 per cent reduction in the use of rubber has been made in the amount of rubber which would have been used under specifications in effect Dec. 7, 1941—a saving of some 10,000 long tons of rubber by the Quartermaster Corps alone, Doriot said. And the Quartermaster Corps is not the largest user of rubber in the Army.

No Rubber In Raincoats Army raincoats and rain suits now are made without any rubber.

R. C. OMAR IS INVITED TO VISIT LAWYER WARREN

War McClellan and R. C. Omar, next door Eddings street neighbors, count that day lost when one or the other fails to catch the other in some embarrassing position. They work long hours at the task, and the latest is one of Ward's manufacture.

Ward happened to know that R. C. had some legal matters in charge of Attorney James Warren Last Sunday morning he called his neighbor from his home next door. "This is Jimmie," said Ward in his best imitation "Can you come over to my house to sign some papers?"

"Be right over," said R. C. and started out on foot. Ward followed in his car and saw R. C. rap on the lawyer's door. R. C. tells the story from here on. "I knocked on the door and it seemed that Jimmie would never come. Seemed funny that he was so slow when he had just called me. Finally he came and I walked right on in. Jimmie looked at me in a funny sort of way and asked me what was on my mind. I thought then of Ward and asked Jimmie if he had not called me. "Nope," said Jimmie. "I didn't call anybody." That was when I knew Ward had been back of it.

R. C. is now devoting thirty-six hours a day to getting even. He can't forgive Ward for that horse laugh which greeted him when he left Jimmie's home.

Synthetic resin—the same product used for the inner layer of safety glass—is used instead, replacing about a pound of rubber in the raincoat. The raincoat is a better product and weighs two pounds, eight ounces—about a pound less than the old rubber raincoat.

In some instances synthetic rubber is substituted satisfactorily for natural rubber. An example is in the new delousing bay. Infected clothing can be put inside with a capsule of chemical. The capsule is broken, and the resultant gas kills all lice and eggs. The synthetic rubber is better than natural rubber, being less permeable by gas.

TAX ABATING ISSUE RISES

Drop All Or Part Is Puzzle Left To Group

Washington.—The issue of whether America's individual income tax-payers will have all of one year's income taxes abated today shaped up for another vote in the House Ways and Means Committee.

A subcommittee set up to draft a "pay-as-you-go" compromise after the full committee rejected the skip-a-year phase of the Beardsley Rum plan two weeks ago, approved yesterday a system to put all 44,000,000 income taxpayers on current collection basis July 1. But it dropped back into the full committee the controversy over how much of a year's taxes should be canceled.

Representative Carlson (R-Kan.), author of a bill on the Rum plan, said he would ask the committee to vote again on a modified proposal to skip a full tax year.

Can't Decide How Much Although opposing outright cancellation of 1942 taxes, majority of the twenty-five committeemen have indicated a willingness to abate part of these obligations to ease the transition to the pay-as-you-go system. But they have failed to agree on how much.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) called the full committee to meet Monday to tackle the problem again.

CANADIAN FINANCE MINISTER PRESENTS PAY-GO TAX PLAN

Ottawa.—Finance Minister J. L. Hilsley in the House tonight announced in his budget address a "pay-as-you-go" personal income tax plan.

The minister said 50 per cent of tax on 1942 earned individual income would be forgiven. Tax deductions at the source will be increased April 1 to achieve the new pay-as-you-go scheme.

Fifty per cent of tax on 1942 personal investment income up to $3,000 will be forgiven.

Fifty per cent of tax on 1942 personal investment income in excess of $3,000 will be deferred until death.

No major changes in income tax rate structure were announced.

"The Best of Everything"

There's no military secret in the statements that Uncle Sam's boys are the best equipped in the world. Food, Tanks, Guns, Ships, Planes . . . all are the best available. Just how those boys can "dish it out" . . . well, that's no secret to Hitler and the Axis.

Yes, those boys must have the best of everything. That's why we must tighten our belts under the new point rationing plan. And in these days of restrictions, bread remains the "staff of Life." You may serve a "short" meal yet one with plenty of bread and we assure you that you won't go hungry. So take this suggestion and serve more hot biscuits baked with Browder Flour. There's no restrictions in buying flour you know!
