THE LISTENING POST

● Wanted—Two adult-sized electrons. Apply in person at Leader Office.

● Recently I have been reading a lot about electrons, and it seems to me that they fully open the way for the more abundant life which we have been stumbling towards for the past ten or twelve years. With the proper use of electrons, if all that I have read is correct, the people of the United States should be able to harness a few thousand of these mighty electrons and then sit back and watch them do the work. There will be no use of talking about wages and hours and working conditions, for the electrons, I am told, will take over and do the full job. All of us can devote our time to golf, running for office, talking about our neighbors, riding in our automobiles and all the other things which are so much more pleasant and profitable than mere labor. Yes, indeed, I want a couple of electrons. I'd like to get them right now, instead of waiting until the war is over and victory is won. I guess that such a dream is not possible, for these days everything a fellow wants must wait until the war is over. Sometimes I think if a few men could be detailed to giving people some of the things we want before the war is over we might win the conflict much quicker, but I know this is merely a personal quirk and is probably rank heresy.

● Now getting back to these electrons. For quite a while I have been reading about gremlins, and in fact I knew a lot about them years ago. I did not know what they were at the time, and I waited the coming of the war for them to be given a name. They are the invisible little devils which get into all sorts of machinery and play hob with it. They ride with all warplanes these days, and a few airmen have claimed they have seen them in the darkness over France and over the flare-lit cities of Germany. Sometimes they create so much trouble that a bomber never returns and all airmen then say the gremlins brought that bomber down. I have experienced them many times in presses and linotypes and even in typewriters, and I am glad to make their acquaintance by name. I called them names—but gremlin was not one of the names I used.

● Now I have an idea that the electron is a benevolent gremlin. I have no idea what an electron looks like, but somehow I have formed the opinion that one looks very much like the famous Reddy Kilowatt who is found in the Kentucky Utilities advertising. Reddy is quite a man. He looks a bit like a gremlin, but he goes about doing good, so I know he must be an electron. These electrons go about all the time doing good and rendering service to humanity. If there is anything that electrons cannot do the writers I have read on the subject failed to mention these weaknesses. An electron, or several electrons, can be placed in a room which shows a zero temperature. Yet people can live comfortably in that room, with light clothing, warmed and made well by those benevolent electrons. If a person has a cold, or some contagious disease, the kindly electrons can set up a solid wall through which the contagion may not pass. These are but one or two instances, and if interested any

Meyers Says He Will Call Body If Chance Comes

If Johnson Leaves State He Will Call Session

Bowling Green, Ky., —Lieut. Gov. Rodes K. Meyers tonight warned Gov. Keen Johnson that "if you leave the state x x x I will call the legislature in special session" to provide financial aid for Kentucky's school children and teachers.

"If you (Johnson) do not leave the state and if you do not call a special session to help the teachers and school children of Kentucky then your failure to do so is your responsibility," Meyers, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, said in a statewide radio broadcast.

Meyers, who is advocating repeal of the state income tax, said if Johnson feared an attempt to repeal the income tax would be made if a special session were called he (Meyers) would stay away from the session. The lieutenant governor pointed out, however, that the legislature at a special session can consider only matters listed in the Governor's call.

The lieutenant governor said he had "sufficient assurance" from members of the General Assembly to "know that the majority of them will agree, and, if required, in writing, to convene and adjourn within 15 days."

Meyers declared that Kentucky now has a surplus of $3,000,000 and that the money "required to give aid to the teachers for this coming school year does not exceed $1,500,000."

Thomas Jefferson Is Honored On 200th Anniversary Of His Birth

Washington, —The nation for whom he penned a Declaration of Independence honored Thomas Jefferson today on the 200th anniversary of his birthday, and Washington paid its tribute by dedicating to him a white marble memorial.

President Roosevelt arranged to deliver a brief address commemorating the bi-centennial, but the time and place were not announced. Members of the cabinet, Supreme Court, Congress and the diplomatic corps and most of the rest of official Washington were invited to attend the ceremonies at the Jefferson shrine at noon along with 150 descendants of the third President.

The honor of pulling a cord unfurling a flag from a 19-foot statue of Jefferson fell to his youngest living descendant, two and one-half year old Anthony Errad Fathman of Pike county, Missouri.

HEALTH VOUCHER BIGGER HIT THAN WEDDING LICENSE

Abilene, Texas, —An Abilene woman evidently thinks more of her prospective husband's health certificate than she does of the prospective husband.

When she applied at the county clerk's office for a marriage license, the deputy clerk told the woman she would have to leave the health certificate.

The clerk explained that under Texas law she had no choice. In applying for the marriage license, she would have to leave the health certificate. The woman thought it over, picked up the health certificate and walked out. The clerk was left holding the license.

New Farm Fight Breaks Over Abolishing FSA

Opponents Of Plan Score Major Victory In Fight

Washington, —A new farm fight broke out in the House today over the appropriations committee's recommendation for abolition of the Farm Security Administration and threatened to rattle the $707,040,844 supply bill for the Agriculture Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Opponents of the FSA abolition move scored a major strategic victory by persuading the rules committee to decree procedure under which many provisions in the controversial measure may be removed by a single objection.

At the request of the agriculture committee, which accused the appropriations committee of usurping its legislative prerogatives, the rules committee refused to safeguard the bill from parliamentary points of order. The effect of this action is that any member—and there were many waiting to do it—could raise a point of order against any legislative provision not directly dealing with appropriations and thereby remove it.

With The Second War Loan Campaign Day by Day

EDITORIAL

INNER SATISFACTION

To the man who does not have a great deal of money

Perhaps you work hard for a small salary.

Perhaps you find the going pretty tough in meeting the higher costs of food and clothing.

Perhaps you can say cheerily that these things leave you nothing to invest in bonds or at least very little.

Perhaps you read of other people who put five or ten thousand dollars into these War Bonds and think that your small twenty-five or hundred dollar bond amounts to nothing.

But remember there are thousands and millions just like you in the United States. If all of them thought and acted in this manner the Treasury would be short millions of dollars in its announced goal. Only by tapping all the reservoirs of money will be able to finance this war. The twenty-five dollar man, multiplied by his many counter-parts, looms large in the financing picture.

Above all, there is something more important. In this war we must feel that it is our war. Not some other man's war. Not your neighbor's war. Not somebody's war in Washington. No, your war, right here in Fulton.

There is no manner of getting this feeling without doing something for the war. When you make a real sacrifice, when you take money that is really needed for things you need or desire, and lend it to the Government, you are really becoming a part of the war.

You will be surprised at the deep inner satisfaction you get when you do this. Every time you see a plane or a soldier you will feel that you have a real and vital part in the war and are really doing your part.

Try it this week and help get the Second War Loan up to its quota.

COMPROMISE DUE ON PACTS

G. O. P. Support For Trade Program

Washington, —Congress called today for the dollars-and-cents data on U. S. world trade and as hearings into the Administration's tariff agreements program were resumed reports circulated of a compromise calculated to line up the support of the Republican minority.

Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones was summoned by the House Ways and Means Committee to supplement the testimony of Secretary of State Hull, whose tariff with Representative Gearhart (R., Calif.), not only enlivened the opening of the hearings yesterday but cast some doubt as to the smooth course of the pact which Hull described as vital to the future peace.

Will Go Slow

Gearhart's burst of opposition to the agreements with twenty-seven nations—which he said got this country the nickname of "Uncle Sap"—prompted some Republicans in the House to go into a huddle on what the "party" attitude should be. The informal conference decided nothing but to "go slow," it was said.

The compromise idea circulated in the Senate. Influential minority members were reported to have agreed tentatively to a three-year renewal of the President's authority to negotiate the agreements provided Congress has the right by majority vote to nullify any of the pacts it might find objectionable.

MANY JOBS KEEP FARMER JOHNNY FROM GETTING GUN

Oconomowoc, Wis., —Johnny Puchek, 24, who lives on a farm near Sussex, wanted his draft board to call him up for Army service. The board investigated, however, and decided Johnny would be more useful to the war effort in his present jobs.

Here's what he does:

Gets up about 5 a. m. and milks twenty-two cows on his father's farm. The father is in poor health.

Drives twenty miles to Milwaukee six days a week and puts in a full day's work as a molder in a foundry filling war contracts.

Returns home at night and milks the cows again. Then he takes his tractor into the fields and plows, plants or cultivates until 10 or 11 p. m. His tractor has headlights.

Jap Bombers Strike Hard At Milne Bay

Size Of Raiding Force Not Given, Nor Results

Melbourne, — Japanese planes struck heavily today at Milne Bay, Allied base on New Guinea, in a daylight raid punctuating a warning a few hours earlier by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia that the Japanese "apparently are contemplating further attacks against New Guinea and the Solomons."

The size of the raiding force was not disclosed by Allied headquarters in Australia, but it was believed to number between 50 and 100 planes, to equal the aerial fleets sent against Oro Bay and Port Moresby on New Guinea, and against Tulagi in the Solomons all within the last week.

This new blow, hitting at the Allied base on the southeast tip of the Papuan Peninsula on New Guinea, followed closely upon warnings by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and by Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey that the Japanese were apparently preparing new offensives. Details of the raid and of Allied defenses were not disclosed.

THE SHORT END OF GLORY

Although the Italians in Tunisia do not seem very sad at being captured by United Nations forces, and although they are being captured in much greater number than the Germans, this fact is not necessarily a reflection on their bravery. We should remember that there are many Italians who have long doubted the wisdom and the patriotism of Il Duce's policies. They are not sure they are fighting for Italy when they fight for Fascism; still less sure when they fight for Nazism.

But leaving the question of sentiment, there is another reason why Italians are being rounded up in disproportionate numbers as the United Nations forces chase the Axis to a last stand in Tunisia. Evidently it has been a practice of General Rommel to assign rear-guard fighting to the Italians. While he pulled his Nazi soldiers out of trap after trap, he left the Italians to cover these retreats. The Germans got away but the Italians fought, died and were exposed to capture. When counter-attacks seemed required, General Rommel, it is true, has thrown Nazis into the fray, as in the last few days. But to judge from dispatches from Tunisia rear-guard action has been more frequently an Italian assignment.

So—as in statecraft ever since Il Duce shared his country into silent and deadly partnership with the Third Reich, so in the warfare to which that compact has forced his fellow countrymen—the Italians even when they may do a lion's share of the work, and left in position to enjoy only a lamb's share of the glory—Exchange.

Perhaps, too, they might rear a family, and I would then be some electrons ahead I will place these electrons in the office, and at the proper time each morning they will open the doors, turn on the heat, whisk the dust out invisibly, go to the postoffice and get the mail, sort through the letters and throw away the three dozen which I must keep at every morning and place the three which I want to see on my typewriter. By the time I get here they will be busily engaged in operating the linotypes. I hope I can hear the sound of the machine, for it is a comforting sound when I know linos are really operating. Whether the electrons will do all the work I do not know, but I will be willing to help them to a certain degree. After all, one should have a little mercy on electrons. I do not understand they will ever wear out, but there is no use in

At Threat Told
In other words: Take a vacation, folks. You need it. You deserve it. It will be both an antidote and preventive medicine for war nerves. It'll boost your morale. By all means, take a vacation—but don't go anywhere.

If the country's 130,000,000 cleaves to the Government's policy, there will be more "wish-you-were-here" postcards sent from backyards and on-the-trolley-and-busline golf courses than ever before. If they don't cleave, look out for the ax on all vacation travel.

As a matter of fact, no matter what the Government's hopes and wishes are, due to car driving and rail travel restrictions, stay-at-home vacations are going to be a necessity almost everywhere.

Landon Says Roosevelt Will Not Quit His Office Willingly

New York. — President Roosevelt "seeks to perpetuate himself in office and will never leave the White House voluntarily," Alf M. Landon, his 1936 Republican opponent, charged last night.

Landon, former Governor of Kansas, said there was a parallel trend in Washington to the events in Europe which foreshadowed the rise of dictatorships under Hitler and Mussolini.

"In a nation such as ours where popular government obtains, ancient and modern history tells us that when its chief executive seeks to perpetuate himself in office and succeeds, the inevitable result is the man on horseback," Landon said.

Landon, who visited with the President in Washington last weekend, came here on a business trip.

DAIRYMEN TOLD MILK RATIONING IN '43 LIKELY

Sufficient Supply On Hand For Coming Summer

Chicago. — Milk rationing may be established in some parts of the country this year, Dr. T. G. Stitts, chief of the dairy and poultry division of the Food Distribution Administration, told the American Dairy Association today.

before returning to his home in Topeka, Kan.

He charged the Administration with "failure to foresee the need for production of food and oil" to supply the United Nations war needs.

"They didn't lift the restrictions on winter wheat acreage until February, when the time for planting passed last October," he said. "In the oil industry, we are producing 200,000 barrels less a day than we were before the bureaucracy put on restrictions and during that period we have taken 58,000,000 barrels out of above-ground storage."

"The result has been that there have been fewer new oil fields discovered than at any other time in the modern history of the petroleum industry."

"There is an adequate supply in stock for this summer," he said, "but there is a definite possibility of a shortage of fluid milk supplies in many areas in the fall or some time after July 1."

"That is going to mean some method of dividing up milk among consumers."

Dr. Stitts explained that rationing, if undertaken, would be planned with the purpose of insuring adequate supplies of milk to hospitals, children and those who need it most. He said he did not believe rationing would be necessary in areas like Chicago, which is surrounded by milk-producing country, but might be required in nonproducing districts or those in which transportation is a problem.

Regrouping Favored
Owen M. Richards, general manager of the association, reported members expressed the "definite opinion" that a regrouping of foods in the rationing system—separating butter and cheese from meat—probably would be necessary in the near future. He said they also favored changes in the current point values.

In a recent check in Green county, it was found that at least 200 farmers have changed from other varieties of tobacco to Ky. 16 this year.
