CALLOWAY MAN IS APPROVED ON OLD AGE PENSION LIST

Grant Is for $6.00 Per Month; 238 Now On List

WALKER, CENTER RIDGE, IS FIRST IN COUNTY

Charles E. Walker, 66, of Center Ridge community, was the first person in Calloway county to be approved for an old age pension under the state's new $5,000,000 social security program, according to a news dispatch this morning. The grant was for $6 per month and was one of 129 approved yesterday. A total of 238 persons are now receiving such aid.

J. E. Houston of Murray, old age assistance worker, said he had no official confirmation of the news dispatch, but presumed it was correct. Yesterday's grants ranged from $5 to $15 monthly, and averaged $7.47.

Dr. Arthur Y. Lloyd, director of public assistance, said he hoped to have 1,000 cases approved by the last of this month.

Jefferson county received the largest number, 23, for an average of $10.56.

Dr. Lloyd pointed out that persons having children able to support them are not eligible for public assistance, since the Kentucky laws hold these children legally liable for their parents' support.

Schools Will Open in City Sept. 14-15

Murray High School and Douglas High School will open Monday, September 14. The Training School will start Tuesday, September 15.

All parents are urged to get their children enrolled the very first day of school. We want this year's enrollment and attendance records to surpass any in the history of our schools, and in order to do this we need the cooperation of every citizen in the community.

If you have children of school age you are interested in seeing them get the best advantage of our public schools and if you have any children you are interested in someone else's child, Section 434-2 of Kentucky statutes states that it is the duty of each parent or guardian or any other person residing in the state of Kentucky and having in custody any child between the ages of 7 and 16 shall be required to send such child to a regular public school and send him regularly, and provides further that any parent or guardian who elects to send to school a child 6 years of age shall abide by the same law. I am expecting your child to enroll the first day of school. Let everybody help to make your child the best school.

ONLY TWO CASES OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES LISTED

Dunn and Nesbitt Girls Have Infantile Paralysis

PARENTS ADVISED ON SPOX VACCINATION

Only two cases of communicable diseases were reported in Calloway county during the month of August. Dr. J. A. Outland, county health officer, said today. These two were infantile paralysis cases: Betty Lou Dunn, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clatus Dunn, near Penny, and Myrtle May Nesbitt, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nesbitt, near Midway.

Dr. Outland explained that Calloway was remarkably free from communicable diseases, adding that there were no cases reported of measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, etc.

Little Miss Dunn, he said, was reported to be improving, while the Nesbitt child, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. Ruby Nesbitt, seemed to be not so well Wednesday.

The county health department advises Murray parents whose children have not been vaccinated against smallpox to have the vaccination made before school opens, as it is a requirement for the schools.

Dr. Outland further recommends that children between the age of three months and six years take the vaccine for diphtheria at once, inasmuch as a period of 3 to 4 months is required for immunization. November and December are regarded as the months in which the disease is most prevalent.

State Lime Crusher, Tractor Promised County; CCC Camp Plans To Open Quarry Soon

To be Only Project of Its Kind In Purchase

With the explicit promise that a state crusher and tractor would be available soon, the Murray CCC camp was instructed by state officials, Tuesday, to proceed at once with the quarrying of rock for the limestone project in Calloway County. If plans were successful, this will be the only lime crushing project west of the Tennessee River.

Under the proposed project, CCC labor will be available for quarrying the rock and preparing it for the crusher. Through the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and the Calloway Farm Bureau, officials hope to secure the loan of one of the state lime crushing outfits. The rock will be obtained through lease or purchase from landowners in the southeast part of the county near the Tennessee River.

Farmers will be able to secure the crushed limestone by payment of a sum necessary to defray the expense of operating the machinery and of purchasing the natural rock. CCC officials planned to leave today (Thursday) for Madisonville to inspect a similar project. Those scheduled to make the trip were: Conrad Givens, foreman; Enos Ashbrook, Paducah; Chief Engineer Ricker; and Wallace G. Smith of the local CCC camp.

Arrangements are being made, Mr. Smith told the Chamber of Commerce today, to prepare for drilling, blasting, and quarrying the rock.

Mr. Garth Ferguson and Eugene Flowers said Tuesday they could assure Calloway County of the loan of the state crushers shortly and that the CCC camp could proceed immediately quarrying the rock.

County Agent Cochran and Assistant County Agent Cromwell are assisting in making arrangements for the project.

The Cubs added another to a string of victories Sunday afternoon when they put it on Crossland 4-2 on the latter's diamond. Murray's battery, Brown and Williams, was unusually active holding Crossland to four hits and holding their base runners to few steals. Farley, Davis and Downey put Murray in an early lead when each scored in the first inning. Downey added his first run in the fifth and displayed his fielding skill at its best in stopping flies and hot line drives alike.

Chaplain Jones was with us again Tuesday evening and was in charge of the Camp's weekly worship service.

Bridge Tolls: Murray To Cadiz: Round Trip, $2.70, Highest in U. S.

Of all retarding influences in Western Kentucky, none is more detrimental to the advancement of this community than is the excessive toll rate charged at the Eggers Ferry Bridge.

The toll at this bridge is $0.80, highest in the state of Kentucky, and possibly the highest in the entire United States.

It is probably true that $2.70, the cost of making a round trip from Murray to Cadiz, is the highest toll rate that exists between adjoining county seats in United States.

These excessive tolls not only divert traffic, but they in many instances prohibit commerce. They impair the efficiency of Murray State College, the only standard 4-year state institution in the Purchase.

People of the Purchase are hindered in their communication with their state capital at Frankfort and with their metropolis, the city of Louisville.

Tourists who would like to visit Mammoth Cave, Columbus Park, and the BIRTHPLACE OF RADIO are forced to pay more for tolls than they would to visit any other national shrine.

Many students in Trigg county would drive to and from Murray College each day if these tolls were reduced or abolished. Salesmen and truck drivers daily complain against the prices charged.

Civilization is largely a process of establishing rapid and efficient modes of communication and transportation. "Onward Kentucky"

Jots for Joe

By Joe (Hart)

This Jotter last week listed Rain as one of the things most needed in Calloway. Well, it came. And was it a beauty! A steady all night shower, soft, and root-soaking. Perhaps too late to be of much help to early corn or tobacco, but for late pastures, late tobacco, and forage crops, it was "worth a million."

Why do all baseball pilots predict a successful season, when all football coaches usually prophesy they'll have a hard time winning a single game?

Lieutenant Lovett will be jolting next time. And 3000 readers add: "Thank Goodness."

Two jobs everybody feels he could hold more successfully than the incumbent: President of the United States and Newspaper Editor.

Two requirements for making money: Ability to sell and ability to collect.

One of the best "mixers" in town is Waylon Rayburn—affable, industrious, and alert.

"Judge" Wells Overbey seems destined to go far in the legal profession. He is studious, conscientious, and a good seppaker.

Viewing the Saturday night crowd in Murray, one can't help wondering if a drought or depression ever existed. The buoyancy of human nature is one of the remarkable evidences of an all-wise providence.

One of the biggest mistakes ever made in advertising colleges: Telling prospective students how much more money they'll make with degrees. Perhaps they will make more money; perhaps not. The real advantage of a college education should be a finer perception of values and an increased ability to think logically.

Overheard at a popular drugstore: "You take sentiment and tradition out of this old world and you won't have much left."

Those headstrong Americans who obstinately refuse to leave Spain despite repeated warnings from Uncle Sam will be the same ones who'll yell for help if they happen to get hit by a "rebel" or "loyalist" bomb. Frankly, this Jotter doubts if such persons deserve the courtesy of a note to the warning nations, even if they get hit by a bomb.

"Funny nobody claims that plane that dropped those bombs near that U. S. ship."

The start on the Lower Tennessee Valley dam is like the end of the depression: it will be here about a year before we know it.

Murray likes a winner. When the Thoroughbreds are winning championships, this is the most enthusiastic community on earth. When the "Breds" lose, they need a new coach, a new captain, a new president, a new squad, new uniforms, new stadium, new student body, new referees, new band. . . . Sooner or later this fact must be appreciated: When you play teams in your class you'll lose as many as you win. . . . If you play your inferiors, you'll usually walk away

Faxon School News

School opened Monday, August 24, with R. E. Broach, business manager of M. S. C., as the principal speaker. A large crowd of patrons, estimated at over 100, as well as the students heard the inspiring speech brought to them by Mr. Broach. His very appropriate address was centered around the three chief factors which make up a successful school; parents, students and teachers.

The devotional and song service were led by Holman Jones, principal. Much was added to the program by the presence of the Sugar Creek quartet, composed of Willard Gordon, Kathleen Gordon, Robert Owens and Ralph Moss.

Several of the teachers, as well as a number of the patrons, made short talks. Mr. Jones outlined much of the year's work before the audience and before the student body.

There was a noticeable increase in the number of students in the high school proper, with an increase of 4 per cent over the first day last year. The enrollment by rooms was as follows: first and second, 41; third and fourth, 30; fifth and sixth, 32; seventh and eighth, 31; high school, 61, bringing the total enrollment to 204.

Except for a few minor difficulties, the students know their courses of study and are ready to do some hard work.

Mr. Wraether was down Friday to inspect the organization of the school, and he commented on the way the school was getting started.

The different classes met one day last week and elected the necessary officers. They were: Eight grade: Alfred Houston, president; Rhoda Bell-Caraway, vice-president; Daniel Parker, secretary-treasurer; Elvin Thompson, editor; Miss Keel, sponsor.

Freshman officers: Dorothy Nell McDaniel, president; Roger Jones, vice-president; Keith Ross, secretary; Sadie Nell Dyer, treasurer; Relma Ross, editor; Mr. Walston, sponsor.

LETTERS to the Editor

Dear Joe Lovett:

It was only a few days ago. Just this past July. Fear the first time in nearly forty years I had slept in the old home town. Thilled by the perfect, new day, I had come down early. It was not yet six o'clock.

There, in the restaurant, in his shirt sleeves, sat a man I had never seen before. Yet, with that peculiar intuition of fellow craftsmen, we recognized each other.

He was young. Literally bubbling over with life. He had kicked about the world of newspaperdom a great deal for one of his age. He had worked on this paper and that paper, in the North and East. Many editors and advertising men we knew in common.

He had been "in the money" here, had lost out there—the same story most newspaper men could tell.

But at last he had "arrived." Only five months, but he was finally "home." There was no place just like Murray. No people just like Murray people. After breakfast, which he insisted on paying for, since I was the "visitor," I just had to visit the little plant of "The West Kentuckian," only "a few steps around the corner," he said.

We talked a long time. He showed me back issues. But you know. Shop talk. Then I asked a question:

"What kind of competition is Joe Lovett?"

"Joe Lovett's not competition!" he exclaimed, and meant it. "Joe Lovett has been a friend from the start. Only a week or so ago he took care of me when my paper stock was late. They don't make many fellows like Joe Lovett. With country newspaper experience only a sacred memory—most of my business life having been spent on so-called big-time papers, and even now living in a city described by one of its own editors as having a heart of iron and guts of steel, requiring a great flood of even partially uncurled milk of human kindness—I feel my blood warm when I read your front-page tribute to the late E. L. McFarland, the stranger in Murray who had found home. It is so different from—well, so different. Different, because you meant every word on it."

I, too, could have been a friend to E. L. McFarland. He had something, I strongly suspect, he "caught" there in Murray, from Murray—and you.

God bless the "country" town. And whatever it is that makes a country town a country town!

Doubts Validity of Realty Tax Repeal

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Doubt as to validity of repeal of the real estate tax for State purposes was expressed today by A. E. Funk, Assistant Attorney General in an opinion to Morgan Yewell, County Judge of Nelson County.

"I doubt very seriously whether this act is constitutional, insofar as it effects the absolute release of real estate from taxation for State purposes," said Mr. Funk. "However, I can see no reason why that the remainder of the act would not be constitutional in the event it should be held that the Legislature had no right to exempt real estate from taxation."

The remainder of the act dealt with the method of assessment and shifted the cost of paying County Tax Commissioners from the State to the counties.

SHOWER FALLS IN COUNTY SATURDAY

Rainfall Measures .28 Inch; County Gets Temporary Relief

A light shower, accompanied by a cool north wind visited Calloway County Saturday morning, August 29, affording temporary relief to parched cornfields, burning tobacco, and dwindling pastures. The rainfall as measured by H. B. Arnold, government weather recorder here, totaled .28 inch.

Until hot dry winds of August struck Calloway, crops here were in exceptionally good condition. However since the rain of July 2, there has been little precipitation of consequence in this county. Local showers, accompanied in some instances by hail, wind, and lightning, visited scattered sections of the community at intervals of from one to two weeks.

A folk play presented by the Petroleum 4-H club in Allen county brought in a profit of $31.

Havens to Preach On Use of Prayer

"What Good Is Prayer?" will be the sermon subject of A. V. Havens, minister of the First Christian Church, at the morning worship service next Sunday beginning at 10:45.

"This is a question frequently raised," said Mr. Havens, "and not often answered. The popular conception varies all the way from a mystical conception of magical power to a cold content of mere auto-suggestion.

"Some pray," stated Mr. Havens, "simply from force of habit and perhaps even pray the same prayer memorized from childhood. While others cannot see that prayer would make any difference and so fail to pray. Some of these latter," Mr. Havens continued, "in times of crisis may be found blindly praying in the extreme hope that in some way their prayer will do some good.

"Anything that is so common in religion as prayer, needs to be clearly understood," he said. "This sermon will attempt to present an intellectual appreciation of the value of prayer and the manner in

Many Small Stores Need Modernization

An analysis of the physical condition and appearance of approximately 8,000 small and medium-sized stores and service establishments in 23 selected cities of the United States has revealed that over half are in need of modernization in varying degrees, according to a study made by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, and just received by its Louisville District Office.

The analysis revealed a generally unsatisfactory appearance of store fronts. The most frequent recommendations call for the painting and refinishing of store exteriors and the installing of new or the replacing of existing outside signs. Painting or repainting of walls and ceilings and the improvement of store lighting are recorded as the greatest interior needs.

ROTARY HEARS DR. R. T. WELLS

State Officials Are Guests of Dr. Carr at Meeting Thursday

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, general counsel of the Woodmen of the World, Omaha, Neb., spoke briefly at the weekly meeting of the Murray Rotary Club last Thursday at the National Hotel.

Others on the program were John St. John and Mr. Combs of the state department, division of Personnel Efficiency. Dr. J. W. Carr had charge of the program in the absence of Joe T. Lovett, who was at Indianapolis.

Commenting on the splendid growth of the college and community, Dr. Wells expressed his pleasure at being present in his home community. He prophesied continued advancement for the college with the cooperation of state officials.

Mr. St. John explained that he and his assistant were checking up on the personnel records and the efficiency of state employees.

ORCHARD-GRASS SEED BRISK IN MISSOURI AND KENTUCKY
Movement of orchard-grass seed this year has been faster than last year and than the 2-year (1929-33) average in Kentucky and Missouri but slower than two years ago in Kentucky and Virginia. In Missouri about 90 per cent of the crop had been sold by growers up to August 18, compared with about 75 per cent in Kentucky, and less than 25 per cent in Virginia, according to the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

BONUS HELPED IN Payment of Bills

Payments on open-credit accounts receivable of department stores were made at a higher rate during June this year than for any month since January 1934, the first month covered by this series, according to an announcement just received by the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce.

When the June collection ratio is compared with May this year, an increase is noted which is contra-seasonal in character inasmuch as a decrease has been registered over the same period in previous years. This improvement in collections may be attributed in part, to the payment of the soldiers' bonus which occurred during June.

Five Points Right of Way Secured
The Five Points right of way, on the Coldwater road, has been secured, the deeds for it having been sent to Frankfort Friday, August 28. This being done the contract will be advertised, and let at an early date.

The amount allotted for this concrete project is $25,000.00, the concrete road beginning at the end of the asphalt pavement at Creekmur's and continuing as far as the money will allow it to run. This of course depends upon the amount of grade and drain work that has to be done on the project preparing it for the concrete. This will be the second concrete project of Calloway county.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

Consider Rye the Best Cover Crop. Soil experts connected with the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station give rye first place among cover crops for Kentucky. It will grow on almost any soil, may be sown early or late, grows through most of the winter, and makes good winter pasture. It also is a fairly satisfactory nurse crop for young grass and clover.

Wheat and winter barley and winter oats are other small grains that make satisfactory cover crops, but generally are not considered as good as rye.

Dr. Fergus points out that small grains intended for cover crop purposes only should be sown about a third heavier than when sown for a combined grain and nurse crop. Late seedings should be heavier than early seedings. Other crops sometimes used for cover purposes and in addition for pasture include crimson clover, hairy vetch, and the mixed grasses and legumes.

The soils and crops men at the Experiment Station are insistent on the value of cover crops under Kentucky conditions, to protect the soil from losses of plant nutrients by helping to control erosion and leaching.

Sees Value in Home Demonstration Work.

"A new view of life" was recently declared by Mrs. B. Bruner of Garrard county to be the most valuable contribution of home demonstration work to the women of that county.

Mrs. Bruner, who is one of Kentucky's Master Homemakers, reviewed the work of the county home demonstration agent and homemakers clubs. She told what is being done in the county in teaching food values and diet, improved methods of canning and storing foods, facts about fabrics and clothing, the improvement of the home, and the social and cultural values of the work.

"Garrard county women agree that through the influence of the home demonstration agent they have become better housekeepers, better homemakers, better neighbors and better citizens," she said. "But perhaps the outstanding value that home demonstration work has given us is a new view of life. We see things from a different angle than that of our parents or even of our earlier experiences. We have seen a vision which will enable us to improve ourselves, our families, and our homes. Our work is no longer drudgery but has become a profession—the profession of homemaking."

Farm Poultry Should Pay. Poultrymen in the central west are moving their poultry to market because of the shortage of feed. This would suggest that our flock owners keep all that will lay good. Here are some of the things to look for in culling the old flock. Cull all hens that have gone out of production during August. Such hens have dried combs, yellow beaks and shanks and some new feathers. They will also be close between the pelvic and breast bones. It will not pay to feed and care for poor layers. Keep plenty of mash and grain for the flock and give them access to it at all times. A hen can't hunt for her living, and have time to do a good job of laying. Feed her and give her a chance to prove herself. If she can't do it send her to market and any flock will make money for its owner.

Advices Culling And Better Care. Scarcity of feed brings a statement from J. E. Humphrey, College of Agriculture field agent in poultry, urging the culling of the pullets, so that better care can be given to the birds that will lay eggs next fall and winter when prices are good.

In the flock are pullets that developed rapidly, are the first out in the morning and the last to go to roost, have vigor and vitality, possess broad, deep and short heads that blend into long bodies with good spring of ribs. Their bodies are deep and slab-sided rather than shallow and round. They stand well, and have width between the shanks.

Then there is a class of pullets not quite so good, a little less mature, with bodies and heads not so good. Some of this class probably should be culled. A third class consists of the put and out culms, most of which should be sold. They have bare backs, and long, slim crow heads. They often are knock-kneed.

Grain and mash must be kept before the birds if they are to develop to where they will lay well when egg prices are good in the fall and winter. It is a good plan to move the hopper and watering utensils frequently.

4-H Club Member Has Grand Project.

Bill Ed Hendon, who is a 4-H club member even though he is too far from a club to attend, has an excellent project. Bill Ed is a son of Rupert Hendon, Hazel, Ky., Route 3, and is producing a ton litter in 180 days for his project.

Bill Ed's eight pigs are five months old and weigh 1024 pounds. They are gaining around 150 pounds per week. Bill Ed is feeding pig chow, wheat bran, and corn. He has a feeder and lets the pigs eat the amount of the different feeds they want. He thinks this is a fine system of feeding.

The results of this project will be reported later. Why can't more pigs be brought to tops at six months instead of carrying them along for a year before they are fattened. The six months method is lots the cheapest. Bill Ed's report shows he is making money every day. The better he feed the more the pigs gain and the more they gain the more profit Bill Ed can see.

Faxon Facts

Will you country correspondents please move over and give a new-comer room? No, I'm not any longer afraid of the contagion, for I too have the "writers' itch." So that I do not feel an entire stranger, I shall sit down among Eagles, who is my good friend, Chatterbox, who was a pupil in whom I delighted, and Mud Splitter, who long ago often split Faxon mud when he went courting and afterwards when he was a householder.

Four events of great importance to Faxon community occurred last week. First, Monday morning saw an unusually good opening of the school—the fourteenth opening of the consolidated high school at Faxon. More than 200 students and more than 100 friends and patrons attended opening exercises.

R. E. Broach, business manager at the College, county superintendent for 12 years, and greatest friend of poor but aspiring youth of the county, made an old-fashioned inspiring talk, the kind one rarely hears in this hard-boiled, disillusioned age. Devotional exercises were beautifully conducted by Principal Holman Jones. Mr. Willard Gordon led community singing, and a local church quartet sang several songs. Not the least important part of the program was the brief encouraging talks of a number of patrons. Mrs. Laura Brandon Travis, Detroit, a former teacher of Faxon, was present, and one of the Boatwright sisters, all five of whom were teachers, attended. We have come to expect one or more of these friends of education to attend the opening of school, although they are now widely scattered.

The ending of the quiet but useful and full lives of two older citizens, although the death of neither was unexpected, meant great loss and deep sorrow to the community.

F. P. Holland, 81 years of age, cared for tenderly by his devoted family, received only his just recompense, for as a daughter-in-law said recently, he twice a widower, had been both mother and father to his two families of children. He reared them to be Christian men and women. Several of his grandchildren and great grandchildren attend Faxon High School. A granddaughter was graduated with high honors last May.

A son, Ernest, has for five years been a faculty member of the nationally famed model Baltimore County system.

Mrs. Della Phelps, also a quiet retiring person, has added much to the community through her children and her influence. Her two sons and their wives, her two daughters and their husbands, all the grandchildren of the years of accountability and the one grand son-in-law are members of the church. Ten of the 12 grand children are now enrolled in Faxon High School. Her landlady said about her, "Mrs. Phelps is the most harmless and peaceable woman I have ever known. There is something wrong with a person who could not get along with her."

Although she had moved to Murray to be near her husband's work, she was brought home to rest where she and her husband had built 20 years ago, and was buried by the church she so faithfully attended.

The little shower Saturday was not enough to help much to break the drought, but it did help for a day or two to settle the inches of dust on our dirt roads and to bring a refreshing coolness after the hot, humid weather of the week. Not only are the crops irreparably injured but the shortage of water is crucial. Our uplands have few good wells. Most people have to depend on cisterns and ponds, both of which are generally dry now.

Some wells are dry that have never been before and most of them are kept very low by the neighboring lending water to those who have to haul for stock and household. Our cisterns act as ice box too. At home recently a cooler leaked a half-gallon of sweet milk into the 10 barrels of water remaining. Just as the water was souring and before we had gotten around to removing it, city relatives came visiting. Of course we were embarrassed! And I doubt that city cousins would enjoy skimping bath water, as we must when the busy farmer has to stop his work to haul water.

Farmers' attitude toward the drought and crop failure goes to show why country people are more spiritually minded than those people in industry and commerce. Farmers realize that they work in partnership with nature and God. Some few may grow and curse, but most farmers soon realize there is no boot in kicking against the pricks, and they go patiently to work to retrieve what they may, and to plan for another year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Walston entertained the Walston family in something of a family reunion on fifth Sunday. About 22 attended the festivities. Mr. and Mrs. Walston are charming hosts and always serve bountifully.

Thomas Terry drove from Detroit to be with his family during his mother-in-law's last illness and death. He plans to remain in the county a week.

Mrs. Rovine (Phelps) Walker has been ill, but she is better.

Prof. W. O. Folwell, Chattanooga, Tenn., is to fill the pulpit at Friendship Church of Christ Sunday, September 7, at 11 a. m.—All.

Bulletin Discusses Losses from Poor Curing of Tobacco

Poor curing of the tobacco crop is the cause of immense losses to tobacco growers, year after year, declares Drs. W. D. Valleau and E. M. Johnson, in Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin 362, "Tobacco Diseases." "The injury to tobacco known as houseburn is probably the greatest single factor in this loss," they continue. "Houseburn is the result of the growth of fungi and bacteria on and in the dead leaves when they become moist during periods of high relative humidity. It does not occur during the yellowing period except in parts of the leaf which have been killed. The organisms are not active at low temperatures hence houseburn does not occur in cold weather. The ideal conditions for houseburn are a temperature between 60 and 100 degrees, and relative humidity above 90 per cent which checks the evaporation from the leaf and causes it to become soggy. Suckers left on the plant tend to induce houseburn in the leaves in contact with them."

"In order to prevent houseburn several essential points in the curing of tobacco should be understood. These are as follows:

"1. Tobacco should be cut when it is properly ripened; that is, when there is an accumulation of food material in the leaves principally in the form of starch. The leaf is then a lighter green, and

Helps Babies Rest Ends Colic Pains Aids Digestion

"When your baby tosses about, cries in pain and cannot sleep, why not get at the cause with McCre's Baby Elixir. It neutralizes indigestion acid, ends gas cramps and colic pains and then helps them become cheerful again. They sleep better. McCre's Baby Elixir is made of the purest medicinal extracts and never. It cannot harm. Years of use has proven that. Simple directions tell exactly how to use it. Tastes good. Gives relief promptly. Two sizes: 35c, 60c. (adv.) Dale & Stubblefield has a flecked appearance. Ripe tobacco leaves are brittle because of the accumulation of starch, and snap when folded between the fingers.

"2. Curing is a life process during which the green coloring matter breaks down and the leaf becomes lemon yellow. The starch is used in the process and other contents of the leaf are changed. Curing and yellowing are accelerated by rather rapid wilting and retarded when the leaf is turgid or full of water. Besides the loss of water in drying, the leaf loses about 12 to 20 per cent of its weight from the use of starch during the yellowing process. A further loss is caused by the passage of materials from the leaf into the stalk. The presence of suckers on the stalk during the curing increases the loss of leaf weight in the attempt of the plant to keep the suckers alive. Drying and death of the plant are accelerated by splitting the stalk. It is therefore likely that splitting the stalk in harvesting tends to increase the weight of the leaf, as compared with spearing. The reath of portions of the leaf from bruising, frost, too rapid drying, or other cause prevents them from curing, and produces green patches in the cured leaves.

"3. Following yellowing the leaf quickly dies, although the stalk remains alive for a longer time. Death of the lower leaves naturally occurs first and death of the edges of the leaves precedes that of the remainder. When yellowing is completed and the tissues are dying the remainder of the curing process is primarily one of slowly drying the leaf.

"4. Browning or reddening which follows the death of the leaf is caused by oxidation of substances in the leaf. It proceeds best at a relatively high humidity and more rapidly at higher temperature. Each time the tobacco becomes damp or comes in high case, the depth of color increases. The chief danger in air curing is that this process will go too far because of excess moisture, causing the leaf to cure too dark.

"5. Leaf activity ceases at 40 degrees, but becomes more active as the temperature is raised. At 125 degrees the cells of the leaf are rapidly killed, while at 145 degrees longer exposures kill the leaf. The best temperatures for the first stage of curing or the yellowing process are between 60 and 100 degrees. A barn to which artificial heat is not applied rarely becomes too hot but it may readily become too cold for proper curing.

"6. Relative humidity or the percentage of saturation of the air at a given temperature is an important factor in curing. During yellowing a relative humidity of 85 per cent is desirable. If it goes to 90 per cent or above, microorganisms may develop, on dead portions of the leaves, and houseburn may occur. If it goes much lower than 80 per cent the tobacco may dry too rapidly. At ordinary temperatures, a rise of 20 degrees changes the relative humidity of a saturated atmosphere to about 50 per cent. In other words, the water-holding capacity of the air is doubled by a rise of 20 degrees. A barn full of tobacco at a moderate temperature may become wet if a rainy period sets in with rising temperature. This is because vapor from the saturated atmosphere condenses on the cooler leaves.

"7. Heated air rises and passes out of the ventilators at the top of the house, carrying off the excess moisture. Air of high humidity is lighter than drier air and passes out of the top ventilators. In cold weather the curing processes stop and if drying continues the leaf simply dries out.

"With these facts in mind the principles involved in preventing houseburn and too dark a color in the cured leaf are more readily understood. The tobacco should be wilted as much as is practicable before being put into the house. It should then be kept at a temperature between 60 degrees and 100 degrees, and at a relative humidity of about 85 per cent. The relative humidity may be determined by the use of a wet and dry bulb thermometer together with the necessary tables. Such a pair of thermometers, properly mounted, is called an hygrometer. In dry weather the humidity may be maintained by keeping the barn tightly closed during the day and open at night. The barn of course should be capable of being closed tight. In wet weather when the air is saturated, humidity can be regulated only by heat and proper ventilation. In Burley and air-cured dark tobacco barns this may be done with coke-fires, either on the floor (with gas pipe) or in specially constructed burners. In the fire-cured dark tobacco barns it is commonly done with wood fires. When fires are used the upper ventilators should be opened sufficiently to carry off the moisture-laden air and the lower ventilators opened sufficiently to allow the cooler air to enter. It should be remembered that heating the air increases its water-holding capacity. When yellowing has been completed and the leaves are dead the relative humidity should be decreased first to about 80 per cent and later to 65 to 70 per cent and maintained at that point until the stalks are dry. At this point curing is complete. After the tobacco is cured it should be bulked down, as soon as it can be brought sufficiently into case for handling and stripped and graded as soon as possible. It should be remembered that each time tobacco becomes damp, either during the second period of curing or after curing, the color is darkened and there is danger of houseburn.

"In curing fire-cured tobacco the same principles apply. The tobacco should hang in the barn for three or four days to bring about yellowing. This may be hastened about the fourth day by slow fires which raise the temperature to about 85 to 95 degrees.

"If a temperature of about 85 degrees with a relative humidity of about 85 per cent is maintained during the remainder of the curing period, the cure will be more satisfactory than if the temperature is gradually raised to 125 degrees or higher. Slow, very smoky fires maintain the necessary temperature and impart the desired smoky aroma to the tobacco. When the cure is completed, slow fires should be built during periods of high humidity.

Attend Big Reunion Near McKenzie, Tenn.

(McKenzie Banner)

The beautiful country church yard at Shiloh, located a few miles east of McKenzie, was the scene of one of the largest home coming audiences ever to gather in Carroll county last Sunday. The Jones, the Wrights, and the Thompsons came from all over western Kentucky and Tennessee to attend this annual event, which is held every other year in Tennessee and Kentucky since many of the relatives live in both states.

Nearly two hundred attended last Sunday's home coming from nearly all the counties in west Kentucky and Tennessee. However the attendance was largely from Weakley and Carroll counties in Tennessee and Kentucky and Calloway counties in Kentucky.

The Wrights, Jones and Thompsons were pioneers of Carroll county. The Wrights came to the county about 1822 from Franklin, Ky., to take residence on a large tract of land located near McKenzie which the government had granted them for their services in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Lizzie Wright Kilgore of Columbus, Ky., attended this reunion. The relatives had not seen her since about 1900. She is the granddaughter of the late Henry and Sarah Wright. Her great-grandfather, David Wright, was a soldier in the war against the crown.

The Jones were related to the Wrights through intermarriage, while the Thompsons are related to the Jones in the same manner. However the Wrights and Thompsons are not related. The Thompsons are descendants of John and Emma Jones Thompson. And the late Carroll Jones married Amanda Wright, bringing about the connecting link between the three families. Carroll and Amanda moved to Hickman county, Kentucky, in 1840.

More than 20,000 families have lived illustrious pioneer lives and have been influential in the progress of this and other counties.

A beautiful welcome address was delivered by Miss Mable Jean Penson to one of the largest gatherings of relatives of these attending families in the history of their existence.

Those who attended this wholesome affair from Calloway county were: J. H. Jones, W. R. Jones, Mrs. W. R. Jones, Jr., Miss Ara Nell Beasley, all of Murray, Miss Louise Roland, Hazel.

Stella Gossip

Within the last 45 days 1000 folks from the big cities have been here, and elsewhere, to visit home folks, too numerous to mention. These visitors in the cities occupy two rooms 10x12 feet.

Had a letter from Roy Billington, now of Lowell, Fla., the land of perpetual flowers, fruit orchards and fishing lakes. I am awfully absent minded, but I try to remember friends who have "helped me out."

Billie Perry, who is afflicted with appendicitis, is somewhat improved in condition. He has been sick two weeks.

"Stan" Kirkland is very feeble—kidney and bladder trouble.

Hallett Stevens is carrying our mail now on Route One in place of Will H. Whitnell who has slow fever. Hallett is a fine "sub".

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pullen, Birmingham, Ala., were at Coldwater last week to visit his invalid brother, Toy Pullen.

Elder Byron Henry, Christian minister, up to August 24, 1933, had baptized 4,662 persons who had responded to the Gospel call. If the influence of school teachers and preachers of all classes were to cease, this country would be a heathen nation.

I read your Bible verses, Lazy Ned. "Where there is no vision the people perish." And say, Lazy Ned, the reason you do not write "Kirksey Kinklets" more often is, I reckon, "the Rip Vanwinkle in you." Went up into the "Katakill" mountains and slept 20 years.

Richard Wilcox went to Sulphur, Okla., beyond the Ozark mountains and saw the "hide-out" place of Carpus and Dillinger bandits—high bluffs, caves and dens, but the G-men done 'em up. "Hallelujah" to Uncle Sam.

I saw Ralph Wear setting type of "Chatterbox" letter in the new Ledger & Times' magnificent house. His automatic machine and his fingers were going in "great haste" that down and then again! Saw Lake Puckett of Dexter, at the courthouse. He is deaf they say, otherwise he is a "live wire" witty.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvie Hale and son and Miss Louise Cleaver visited at Jess' Hale recently. They live at Newburg, on the river side, where Bodine Henslee gets his breath—where there's no more stormy clouds arising!

Talk of John Ezzell and Tobe Turner, aged 70 odd, running a foot race through Coldwater. John will run on his walking stick and Ed Marine will have to lead Tobe. —Eagle

Cool Interlude For Stars Of Hot Weather Program

Hot weather has no terror for Clara, Lu 'n' Em and Ted Fio Rito, stars of the "Frigidaire Prolle" who are telling housewives of the desirabilities of safe food protection. A cold gauge, an instrument registering the safe and danger zones of home refrigeration, told the quartet the Frigidaire was "PLENTY COLD" and the deserts okay for consumption so they pitched in. Nearly 20,000 Frigidaire dealers and salesmen here and in other communities throughout the nation are distributing free cold gauges to users of all types of refrigeration in order to determine the degree of safety each provides.

GRAVEL HAULERS

In order that there may be uniformity in the loads of gravel, which make it more easily spread, please observe the following:

Have the frames 9 feet long in the clear; the depth depends upon the width of the frame.

To illustrate:—A frame 9 feet long, 40 inches wide and 11 inches deep holds a fraction over one yard. To be exact, multiply the length, breadth and depth together in inches, divide, first by 1728, then by 27, which is one cubic yard, all inside measurements.

The Fiscal Court is cooperating with me very nicely, and on our first project, Dexter to Jonathon Creek, the citizens are enthusiastic and cheerfully rendering faithful and efficient projects. Catch and exemplify the same progressive and aggressive spirit of cooperation.

Let's make Calloway the banner county, and turn back to the State more roads for the amount of money expended than any other county in the state.

As your foreman of Rural Highways, I have set this as our goal, and by the grace of God, and unstinted help of our worthy and unsurpassed citizenship, we, you and I, must succeed.

I am asking that the people on each project make ready the right of way, and even if you are not on the payroll, it would be nice to contribute a day's time hauling or pitching gravel for the benefit of your community.

Only a few can be employed at a time, and because one is not employed this year, does not mean you won't get on next year.

Too, I think that those who receive pay for their work can well afford to give one day of free labor.

Robert L. Hart.
