The South Fulton Basketball News

South Fulton boys have won six straight ball games to start the basketball season off with a bang. They went to Rives Friday night, December 11, and beat Rives by the tune of 45 to 33. Davidson played a great ball game for the losers.

In the first game of the City Series the Red Devils beat the Bulldogs 26 to 20. In a hard fought ball game, from start to finish, Fulton High jumped off to an early lead. But the hard fighting Red Devils finally overcame it, and went on to win. The team play as a whole was usually good.

Union City and South Fulton hooked up in a battle on the Union City floor Friday, December 18. The lead changed hands several times. But at the end the Red Devils were on top with a score of 23 to 22, as Melvin Yates dropped one in from out on the court to go ahead in the last 3 minutes of the game to win the ball game for the Red Devils.

The Alumni game which is played every year turned out to be a thriller which saw the Alumni take the lead in early stage of the game and hold it through the game until the last quarter when the Red Devils forged ahead to win 27 to 26. The Alumni was composed of such players as Junior House, James McKinney, Wendell Coffman, of the team which went to the semi-finals of the Regional Tournament in 1941. And of lanky George Finch, center of last years Red Devils team.

The Martin Panthers met the South Fulton Red Devils December 9, in the South Fulton gym. The Martin team showed exceptional team work in defense and offense. They were leading the Red Devils at the end of the first quarter. But at the half the Martin team used a fast break which was worked to success for the first half. Then the Red Devils went on to win their sixth straight ball game. The Red Devils showed considerable improvement since the first game of the season.

The brilliant playing of James Yates has been a great factor in the winning of all the Red Devils games. He has showed the fighting spirit, which it takes to win. He has got rebound after rebound for the South Fulton team, and I think the success of the team largely depends upon this boy.

James Allen one of the South Fulton regulars is ineligible for the last half. But we have capable replacements in William Earl Long and James Robert Browder, who are now eligible.

Rev. E. A. Autrey Writes From Ft. Dix, N. J.

The following letter from Rev. E. A. Autrey, former pastor of the First Baptist church, here was received by the editor this week.

My dear friend,

I am writing you so that you, through the columns of your paper, may extend my best wishes to my many friends in our dear old Fulton. I'm being in the old town but I am trying to do the will of God and through many miles separate us I may still visit with them through this paper.

I left Fulton, Sunday, July 12, 1942. I preached that day and caught the 8:15 train for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. where I attended and graduated from the Army Chaplain's school there. We were trained for combat and all other conditions under which we might have to serve. I finished every subject offered in the prescribed time, after which I was assigned to the 62nd Troop Carrier Group, Florence Field, S. C. after I was sent to Ft. Dix, where I have been ever since. This is a very important post. I have talked with men who were wounded in the Philippines, England and others returning from about all the battle fields of the world. I have had a wide experience. I have led to Christ, they all are easy to deal with, all the while I have thought of my church, men's place and many friends in Kentucky and Tennessee. I felt you all have had a part in all that I have done and I want to thank you for it. It has been impossible to have any family, which has made it lonely but duty to God and country is important just now for if we lose all (church, family, jobs, liberty, etc.) I am proud to be a soldier for the greatest country in all the world. My friends there share in what ever I might accomplish. Our friends can help by being confident, praying, winning the lost, buying bonds and stamps, writing their loved ones who are in the service.

Continue to remember me in your prayers and one day we will be together again in the service of our dear Lord.

Always yours,

E. A. AUTREY

A MESSAGE FROM MAJOR EDWARD BOWES

MAJOR EDWARD BOWES
NEW YORK

The purchase of war Bonds and Stamps is the all-important link between us at home and our heroes overseas.

Captain Colin Kelly's plane and Lieutenant Pickel's P-40, were manufactured and bought by Americans.

The arms and tanks with which we will conquer is our responsibility. We must buy them! Heroes will win them!

I am proud to have bought war Bonds to the full quota permitted by the Government.

The Heart's Desire

By RUTH TAYLOR

"Freedom is the right to seek for one's heart's desire—and to let the other man hunt for his."

Doesn't this thought express the ideals and dreams of all of us? We are all seekers after our heart's desire, that vision is our guiding star, leading us through discouragement, heartache and despair toward a shining goal at the rainbow's end.

"The right to seek"—freedom to move about, to be no man's slave and no man's master, but free to search for those things which we want, a home, economic security, a job in which we can serve others because we wish to serve. That is a right forever laid down to us in the Constitution. That is a right we will never obrogate, though we may voluntarily lay it aside in times of common danger.

"Our heart's desire"—the goal of happiness which is common to all of us—no matter how we may express it. Our heart's desire is for the betterment of ourselves and of those we hold dear. It may be sacrifice that is our heart's desire, the priests who went to minister unto the lepers were so motivated; it may be the building of a home that is our heart's desire—the conquering of the wilderness was the fruit of this wish; it may be greater benefits for our children—our free schools, our great universities, our high spirited teachers are the fulfillment of that dream. Our heart's desire is at the same for any of us—but it is ours, created out of our needs, our hope and our faith—not by the will of another man.

"To let the other man hunt for his—we cannot keep freedom to ourselves. Freedom is never a lonely thing, a right of one man or himself alone. Special privilege is license not liberty. Freedom is by its very nature is universal. We must never forget that the master is gave as well as the man; the jailer as well as the captive. Our homes are safe as we respect our neighbor's home. Our children grow in strength and learn wisdom as we make these opportunities free to all children. We go freely to worship as we allow our neighbors the same privilege. No church, regardless of denomination, is safer than its neighboring cathedral, church, or synagogue. Freedom is based on the self-respect of man, and on his corresponding respect for his neighbor as a man.

Freedom is the right to seek for one's heart's desire—and to let the other man hunt for his."

Urge Vaccination To Check Cholera

During the past few weeks the Department of Animal Pathology of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, through its diagnostic service, has encountered a number of cases of hog cholera. In conversation with swine owners this department has learned of several herds of swine that are undoubtedly sick with hog cholera.

There are many swine owners who do not follow a regular systematic plan of immunization. The price of hogs and the need for pork should be sufficient to warrant exercising every possible means of preventing hog cholera. There will undoubtedly develop a shortage of anti-hog-cholera serum. There is already a shortage of virus for use in the serum-virus method of vaccination. Reports indicate a shortage of the tissue vaccine known as B. T. V. The so-called crystal violet vaccine is not generally on the market.

The best time to immunize swine against hog cholera is 10 days to 15 days after the pigs are weaned. It then takes a smaller quantity of serum; thus it is much more economical. Pigs weighing 80 to 100 pounds require 50 percent more of serum than the average pig 10 days after weaning. A more lasting immunity develops from early vaccination. There is less danger of losses following vaccination, and the pigs are easier to handle.

Every pig farrowed in Kentucky this spring should be vaccinated against hog cholera following weaning. All fall shots, if not already vaccinated, should be at once. All non-immune sows would be vaccinated before they are rebred for summer or fall farrowing.

All hogs, of whatever size or age, going through the sale yards should be vaccinated before they leave the yards. The exception would be finished hogs going to market for slaughter. If hogs offered for sale are reported to have been vaccinated, the seller should be required to furnish a written statement; as to when they were vaccinated, by whom, at what age, what method (serum alone, serum-virus or B. T. V.) etc. Do not accept a verbal statement.

L. A. Warren, President of Safety Stores, and a nationally known figure in the food supply field, has presented some interesting figure for public consideration. Following the government's announced plan for rationing of canned goods, Mr. Warren said:

"Somewhere along the line a lot of canned goods have disappeared. I don't believe that food has been consumed. It is around, either in packed pantries or in warehouses of speculators, or still in the canneries.

appearance of the pea pack. The appearance of the pea pack. The pack in the past has been between 22,000,000 and 23,000,000 cases. This year the government said it wanted 12,000,000 cases. So the pack was upped to 35,000,000 cases. Yet the supply of canned peas has disappeared in sixty days."

All people must join in plans to save or distribute needed food supplies. Grocery stores are doing their best to apportion food fairly to make supplies go around, before compulsory rationing is inaugurated. All of us can cooperate and help in this necessary task.

We all know what a run on a bank will do. A run on a food supply will accomplish the same result—misery for all the people.

Mrs. C. A. Wright fell a her home and injured her back Sunday and was brought to Dr. Jones Clinic in the Hornbeak ambulance.

HISTORY

When you were young and went to school, Could you ever figure out, How to remember dates in history, And what those wars were all about?

I know Columbus crossed the ocean In the year fourteen ninety-two But I hardly get that date straight Now, what shall I do.

I know there was a Revolution And a Civil War as well, But the war we're having now Is even worse than hell.

I've tried, so very hard to learn But it really seems in vain I guess the best thing I can do Is study it all over again.

—Sarah Jane Jolley.

BACK HIM UP

Back him up that soldier, brave and true,

Who fights out there on the war-rung fronts.

Fight with your dollars, buy war bonds today and every day

Until our ships come home and launch.

He's the greatest guy in the world today,

From the Atlantic to the Pacific he's famed.

Not only by his sweetheart, mother and dad,

But by every one whether strong or lamed.

We must furnish him with planes and ships,

To carry him over the rolling seas.

Then to bring him safely home again,

When he has conquered our enemies.

Don't forget to praise his power

And don't forget his symbols of red, white and blue.

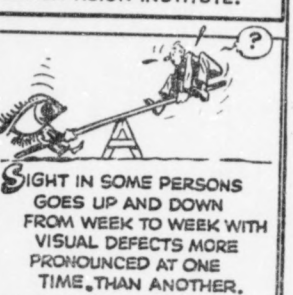

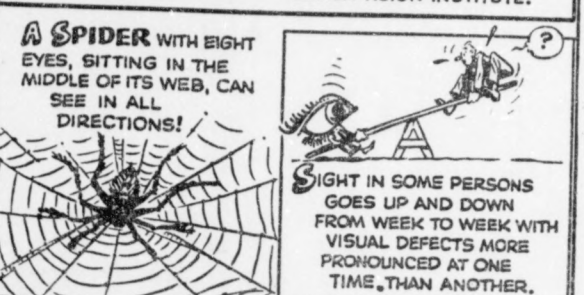

But most of all don't forget his honored possession.

The "Star Spangled Banner" that makes his heart beat true.

—Montez Britton.

Edmond Rucker son of Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Rucker will leave Paris for induction into the Army January 22.

Seeing is Believing

The little girl tugged gently at her mother's sleeve "Now, Mother?" she asked. "Now can't we write my letter?" "Why, of course, Betsy," Mrs. Carson grinned. "Are you going to write it or am I?" "Well," Betsy said, "Maybe you'd better kind of say it to me. Only I'd love to write it."

"All right, then, Miss Carson, take a letter," her mother said, walking slowly up and down the room. "Ready?" "Dear Mr. Morgenthau: The way I save money for War Stamp buying is to steer all the jobs toward my daughter, who is eight years old. She is so keen about buying War Stamps that I know all the money I might have paid to someone else for doing the jobs will go toward Victory when paid to her."

"Now make a list, Betsy. 'Windows washed, 60 cents. Apples picked from under the tree, 25 cents. Emptied trash cans, 4 cents. Sold string beans from the garden, 15 cents. Sold strips of spoiled film to children for sun-gazing, at one cent a yard, 20 cents. Total, $1.24. Yours helpfully, I hope,—and then I'll sign it at the bottom.'"

Betsy was pulling like a grampus from her labors. The tall, painstaking letters tottered bravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely Mrs. Carson took the pen to sign.

"Mother, would it be the proper etiquette if I signed it too?" "Perfectly proper, I think," Mrs. Carson said without a smile, and handed the pen back to Betsy.

Retonga A Blessing Says Rev. Witt Baker

Had Lived On Soft Foods And Felt So Weak He Feared He Would Have To Retire. Feels Fine Now.

One of the outstanding features about Retonga is the extraordinary number of ministers who strongly endorse this noted medicine after trying it in their own cases. For instance, Rev. Witt Baker, prominent Methodist minister residing at Burkesville, Ky., declares:

"I was afraid to eat a bite of solid food, for the little I did eat seemed to turn as sour as vinegar and come back up so strong it seemed to burn my throat. At times I bloated so tight with gas I would get weak all over. For a year or more I lived on soft foods, eggs, and milk. I had to take a strong purgative regularly, and at times my joints felt so achy and stiff I could hardly get up and down. I was too nervous to sleep much. I felt too weak to do the chores about my home, and it looked like I would have to give up my church work."

"Retonga relieved all this distress after everything else I tried had failed. I was soon eating heartily, the nervousness, soreness in my muscles, and sluggish elimination were relieved and I feel so much better there's no comparison. This grand medicine was a god send in my case."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal amounts of Vitamin B-1. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug store. Adv.

GIVES UP LAW CAREER TO RUN C & O RAILWAY

Election of C. E. Newton, 44, As President of Road Accuses Widespread Int.

NEW RAIL PRESIDENT

Carl Elbridge Newton, President of the C. & O. He is one of three relatively young men chosen to succeed G. D. Brooke, who is retiring, in his sixty-fifth year, from the presidencies of the three roads that constitute the C. & O. Lines. Mr. Brooke will continue with these lines in a consulting capacity.

C. E. Newton, newly elected President of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, who succeeds G. D. Brooke, retired, is one of the youngest men ever picked to run an important railroad system.

Because of his age, which is forty-four, and the fact that he comes from outside the industry, relinquishing a distinguished career in law to administer his new post, his election is occasioning a lively interest throughout the national field of railway transportation.

Mr. Newton's election was announced simultaneously with the election of two other relatively young men who succeed Mr. Brooke as President of the Nickel Plate Road and as President of the Pere Marquette Railway—two other component roads of Chesapeake & Ohio Lines.

They are, respectively, John W. Davin, 50, formerly Vice President in charge of coal development for the C. & O., and Robert J. Bowman, 51, formerly Operating Vice President of the Pere Marquette.

Mr. Brooke, in his sixty-fifth year, retired at his own request from the presidencies of the three roads to serve the managements in a consulting capacity. He had been President of the three properties since 1937, and has been active in the railroad industry since 1902.

Cite Major Rail Problems In selecting Mr. Newton as the new C. & O. President, the Board of Directors announced they had in mind "the excellent operating personnel of the road and the fact that the major problems affecting the interests of railroads and their security holders today arise in the fields of law and legislation, governmental relations, war requirements, labor relations, public relations, railway consolidation and many others in addition to operations."

"Problems in these fields," the Board added, "are of increasing complexity and scope, and call for special abilities which, in large measure, are outside the experience of specialists in railroad operations."

Mr. Newton's background embraces a wide practice relating to business, industrial, and railroad fields, and their problems. He was, up until his election as President of the C. & O., a member of the widely-known, New York and Washington law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard. Prior to his membership in this firm he was associated with Reesick, Dorr, Travis & Marshall, of New York, counsel for various railroads, and with the law firm of White & Case, New York. He was Assistant U. S. Attorney, Southern District of New York, and Special Assistant Attorney General of the State of New York.

Born at Somerville, Mass., Aug. 23, 1898, he was graduated from

United States Coast Artillery School, Fortress Monroe, Va., commissioned second lieutenant U. S. Army in 1918. He was awarded Bachelor of Science degree in 1920 by Dartmouth College. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity at Dartmouth where he majored in economics and political science. He was active on various student publications and was president of the senior class.

A Rhodes Scholar

Mr. Newton was awarded a Rhodes scholarship from the State of New Hampshire, in 1920, and studied at Oxford. He was given Honours B. A. degree, in 1922, and a year later, Bachelor of Civil Law degree, Oxford University. After completing special graduate studies at Harvard Law School, he started practice of law in 1924.

In the course of this practice he has organized and handled legal, business, tax, anti-trust, administrative and reorganization matters affecting a wide variety of industries. He has been closely identified with important railroad matters since 1938.

Since April, 1942, Mr. Newton has been a Director of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company. He is a member of the bars of New York and Washington, D. C., and of the Supreme Court of the United States and of the Inner-Temple, Barrister at Law, London, England. He is a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants (Washington, D. C. Chapter) and Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, stinging or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

The BOX-SCORE OF SELF REGULATION

Results in The Beer Industry's Crusade of Decency

THESE figures may amaze you. For never before has an entire industry fearlessly acted as judge and jury in keeping its own business clean. But wherever beer is being sold in unwholesome surroundings, without regard for the simple common-sense rules laid down—we act! Here are the results:

	1940 (6 mos.)	1941	1942	TOTAL
Places investigated	239	446	533	1218
Places found O. K.	148	303	326	779
Licenses Revoked or Suspended	13	26	76	115
Other Actions	78	115	161	324

The record speaks for itself. Decent law-abiding beer retailers are entitled to do business without illegal competition that brings discredit on them all.

This Committee, pledged to the Clean-Up or Close-Up Campaign, investigates constantly, reports those places that do not heed the warning to clean up. Alert state enforcement officials promptly revoke or suspend licenses on the evidence we submit.

Beer's reputation as a beverage of moderation is jealously guarded against those who would use it to cloak unsavory activities.

KEEPING THE SABBATH

It is customary for old-timers to rail against the way modern people break the Sabbath by doing all sorts of worldly things and to remind us of the times when the Sabbath was properly regarded. We who were reared by Calvinistic parents do not need to be told about the rigidity with which we were forced to refrain from ordinary pursuits all day on Sunday. I sometimes wonder whether our parents really knew how often we violated the spirit if not the letter of the law.

Certain pursuits seemed perfectly appropriate, even to the most strict-laced Calvinist. I never heard of any one's objecting to the housewife's bending over the fire or the hot stove for untold hours to prepare the well-rounded Sunday dinner. "Six days shalt thou labor" applied to working in the new-ground or the harvest field but not to the kitchen. Though it was wrong to plow on Sunday, it was all right to walk out to inspect the crops and, incidentally, plan the next week's work. The commandment did not say anything about using your head on the Sabbath. If neighbors came, going to see the crops became a part of the entertainment that all well-bred people prided themselves on. It was not wrong to go over so far to meet them, but a similar trip for bent-faced neighbors would have been wicked. In that way, we youngsters got many furlough. We would make up a party of boys and girls, prepare a big dinner to be spread on the ground, and drives miles to a church to which none of us belonged and which we frequented solely to have somewhere to go and to have something to laugh about. It would usually consume the whole day from early morning to sundown to make the trip, but because it was to church, the rigid parents could not utter a word, except to remind us not to laugh or otherwise misbehave.

Very naughty boys or those who had soft parents actually went to the creek in the summer and soaked off a few layers of dirt, laughing and carrying on like happy, care-free lads, while the rest of us stayed around the house and longed for the wide-open spaces. Mark Twain often tells how he thought that each accident or tragedy that happened in Hannibal, Mo., seemed designed especially to remind him of his sins. We all felt that same way. A brother of mine, who was always fat and came to three hundred and fifty after he grew up, knew that swimming in the creek was sternly forbidden on Sunday. Temptation took him by the swimming (washing) hole where the bad boys were having the time of their lives. The wicked ones begged him to come in, but he knew how close to the ground the limbs grew on the white oak tree in our back yard. But he tried to cross the creek on a drift to get on the side next to home. The drift could not stand his great weight. When he walked into the yard some half hour later, with his new suit, the first long pants he had ever had, and with the bright lining of the coat faded all over his white shirt, our father was a model of restraint. Not one word did he utter when Moher got out some dry clothes, and my brother sleepily crawled into them. No amount of tongue-lashing could have leaked the boy so effectively.

By degrees we developed another harmless Sunday afternoon way of evading the hard-and-fast law. Very near my home stood a country church, now soon to be dismantled because of the Gilbertsville Dam and its attendant lake. No one ever dreamed of locking up the church after the Sunday morning services. We would gather there, drink from the fine spring the chalice water, and sing around the wheezy organ for hours at a stretch, getting in many a good lick at courting meanwhile. "There are many ways," the Negroes taught us, "to choke a dog to death besides feeding him, not but er."

4-Nation General

Lieut. General Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the victorious British Eighth Army in the Egyptian-Libyan campaign, is a "four-nation" general. In peace, civil-strife and war—General Montgomery reached the height of his career and glory when his picked troops, "the flower of the British Empire," routed the forces of Marshal Rommel.

The men of the Eighth are proud of "Old Bernie" because he is a soldier's soldier and knows all the answers. That he is proud of them is attested by his hat—made famous by the Australian Diggers. Note the badges on the—four of them—Australian, British, South African and New Zealand. These were the men who wrote history in the desert sands.
