Floridians are short-changed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Mrs. Athalie Range, secretary of the Florida Dept. of Community Affairs, said that black Floridians are being shortchanged all the way from the level of city government to state government because "we have not been interested enough to become involved."

Speaking at a professional meeting of the College of Arts and Sciences at Florida A&M university, Mrs. Range said, "We've got to get black youth interested in government work."

The black Askew appointee told the audience of teachers and administrators that they have to impress upon young people, as they move out of school, just how much service they can render to make this a better place.

Hurling a challenge at the audience, she said, "You as instructors must attempt to give your students the kind of knowledge needed for them to step out and attempt to lift standards as they go along."

The dearth of black elected and appointed government officials was pointed out by Mrs. Range in several examples.

She said that a State department is currently looking for a young lawyer. There was also the case, she said, when officials were looking for a black person to serve on the Electrical Contract Licensing board.

Persons have been contacted for both jobs, she said. But in both cases the persons could not "sacrifice" either time or money to accept the positions.

If you know one number you know them all.

Here's the number: 555-1212.

That's long distance directory assistance, and it gets you any phone number in any phone book in the country.

Here's how.

Just dial "1," then the area code (if different from your own), then 555-1212. That connects you with the Directory Assistance Operator for the city you're calling. Just tell her whose number you want.

Then write it down (so you'll have it next time), and dial it direct. Just dial "1," the area code (if different from your own), and the number.

Next time you need an out-of-town telephone number, remember, 555-1212.

It's one little number that's worth a thousand phone books.

A mother says... FBI's Hoover is evading suit

WASHINGTON, D. C. — J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, has invoked executive immunity in defending himself against a lawsuit filed by a black woman leader, according to SCEF.

Robert A. Sedler and William H. Allison, Jr., attorneys for Mrs. Virginia Collins of New Orleans, say that Hoover refuses to answer more than half of the questions they have asked him.

Mrs. Collins charges in U. S. District Court here that Hoover and his agents are trying to stop her from campaigning for the release of her son, Walter Collins, a draft resister, from prison.

Hoover denies this charge, but two of his agents admit that they caused surveillance of a Collins rally in Clarksville, Tenn. Mrs. Collins said "Hoover has thus been forced into giving up part of his claim of executive immunity by answering the question about harassment."

"If a private citizen tries to invoke immunity before a government body, he is accused of trying to hide something," Mrs. Collins declared. "But it seems to be all right for the head of the FBI and his agents to invoke immunity. This is further proof that there is one set of laws for the governed and another set for those who govern."

"We are going to find out if Hoover has immunity. This case may decide whether public officials can throw a cloak of immunity around themselves and avoid being accountable for their actions."

Walter Collins is serving five-year sentences concurrently in the prison at Texarkana, Texas, on charges of refusing to be drafted into the armed forces. Collins said there were no black people on his New Orleans draft board and the chairman didn't even live in the county.

Collins is an organizer for the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF) based in Louisville, Ky. SCEF charges that Collins was ordered inducted because he was helping to organize black and white people in Louisiana and Mississippi to work together for common goals. He was one of a team that laid the groundwork for a successful strike by black and white woodcutters in Mississippi. Mrs. Collins sued to stop what she called harassment by FBI agents during her coast-to-coast tour to free her son. She and Carl Braden, information director for SCEF, have traveled 23,000 miles by auto and spoken to groups in 42 states in the last eight months.

They charged that FBI agents in Clarksville, Tenn., tried to stop a young black student from appearing on the program with them at Austin Peay State University. The agents were quoted as telling him that Mrs. Collins and Braden have "shady backgrounds."

Since then, Mrs. Collins said, agents have harassed people arranging a meeting for her in Minot, N. Dak., and have sharply questioned a prison employee whose home she visited when she was in Texarkana to see her son.

More recently, she charged agents have followed her around New Orleans when she was home between tours in behalf of her son. She said the FBI has also attempted to question her associates in New Orleans.

Mrs. Collins has been active in the peace and freedom movements in the South and nationally for more than 30 years. She is a member of the SCEF board of directors; vice-president of the Republic of New Africa; a national coordinator of the International Committee for Black Registers, and was until recently a member of the national board of the Women's International League for Peace & Freedom, based in Philadelphia. She has 10 children and 23 grandchildren and is a leader in the P. T. A. in New Orleans.

Part II...

Memphis Blacks in Business

By W. SENGSTACKE, JR.

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with black entrepreneurship in Memphis. Following our next two articles, which will deal with the history of Black business in Memphis, we will spotlight a business a week. Last week we quoted extensively from the biography, "Lieutenant Lee of Beale Street" written by David M. Tucker associate Professor of history at Memphis State University. This interesting book carries significant points on Black business in Memphis.

Last week's article, left off with the economic boom Beale Street went through in the 20's.

Lt. Lee became a very successful business man on Beale Street, but his faith in black enterprise was shaken as one could see in this passage, "... as George Lee praised the merits of black capitalism, banking institutions on Beale Street were tottering under a ruinous shortage of $500,000, incurred by manipulation, criminal negligence and bad loans."

"Roddy's Citizens' Cooperative Stores for example, had received $100,000 from Solvent Savings and then failed in 1922 repaying none of its debts to the bank. Five years later, in a desperate attempt at survival, the rival banks, Solvent Savings and Fraternal Savings, merged, only to be ruined when customers made withdrawals for their Christmas shopping."

"It continues... On December 29, 1927, after rumors of the impending disaster and a run on the bank by its 28,000 depositors, Fraternal and Solvent Savings Bank the South's largest Negro bank, fell into the hands of the state bank examiners."

"Never had Negro Memphians suffered a failure of such proportions; six of the bank's personnel were jailed, from cashiers who had pilfered as little as $5,000 to President A. F. Ward who had fraudulently appropriated $170,000; and as former officials and directors of the ruined bank, a majority of Beale Street's most successful businessmen sustained great personal embarrassment."

The book tells the tragic ending of one Black Entrepreneur. "In the wake of the disaster, Wayman Wilkerson, chairman of the bank directors, president of the Tri-State Casket Company and husband of the local NAACP president committed suicide. Before firing the pistol, the businessman attached a note and a clipping his coat lapel."

"I am now 56 years old, spirit crushed, nerves shattered, ambition gone health failing the attached clipping tells the tale."

"Satisfaction in life hinges on one thing more than anything it is on the idea that today is better than yesterday and that tomorrow will be better than today."

"When that idea falls out of the picture, when people are on the downgrade and know it, when they have to live on memories and reminiscence, without any hope they can do as well, much less better than they have life loses its thrill."

Tucker reveals that Lt. Lee still had faith in the black entrepreneur. "If others were disillusioned with black capitalism, one thirty-four year old insurance executive was not: Lieutenant George Lee picked up his pen to urge the race to keep the faith."

"Only race business could provide honorable employment for the youth and liberate the black man from poverty and prejudice." Could Memphis Negroes, the most advance in the South, turn back? Never. "We must step forward and build upon the ashes of the ruins" Lee urged.

George Lee drew little satisfaction from patronizing with generosity. He simply grew more militant in his attacks on interracial "back door diplomats" and "pussyfoots" like Suttie E. Griggs, whom he clearly blamed for the weakness of the race's economic and social position. "We've got too many apostles of peace at any price," George Lee cried. "Too many preaching about the glories of the other world and too few pointing out the hell of the world in which we now live."

The professional race adjusters were "flying about the South crying patience and peace", while Negroes were ostracized like lepers, and segregated in back alleys of civilization to be brow beaten and spat upon.

"So long as this condition exists," George Lee said, "I for one shall love confusion and despise peace."

Only an aggressive, fighting leadership could establish the group consciousness in economics and politics necessary to win freedom for the race; yet the race was burdened with 20,000 accommodating ministers.

More than $90,000,000 was being spent to teach the Negro to depend on God while little if anything was being done to teach the Negro to depend on himself."

George Lee had great faith in the black man as shown in this statement. "... The progress of the race would come only through the black man's own efforts" George Lee believed. "Or certainly he could never count on the white man."

"In fact" it continues, "the ministers' interracial cooperation had met with active resistance from the white community. When they tried to build Howe-Roger Williams College for Negroes in Memphis. Half a million northern dollars had become available in 1928, for building this college on South Parkway, but white civic clubs quickly banded together and vigorously protested its construction."

Such a Negro College, their newspaper advertisement pointed out, "would bring in educated blacks and their belief in social equality from Nashville, Chicago and St. Louis."

He continues, "The city government capitulated to white racism driving the college from Memphis, and illustrating that interracial cooperation had failed just as completely as black business."

Professor Tucker states, "Negro businessmen have been accused of betraying and ruthlessly exploiting the black masses; but certainly the Negro capitalists of the 1920's did much more than seek personal gain; providing as they did, the real cutting edge of Negro protest."

He continued, "In Memphis, the businessman challenged the most accommodating attitudes of the ministers, contributed the most aggressive local leadership and provided a militant philosophy of black pride."

"The business community had produced Lieutenant Lee, who never permitted his interests to be consumed by the practical business of selling and promoting insurance, but devoted much of his energy to the self-imposed role of race leader," Tucker said.

In conclusion he stated, "had he been nothing more than a money-maker, the Negro community would never have felt they needed to have him in Memphis; but as it was when he was offered a position in Atlanta, the Memphis Triange speaker got his reader declared; 'Memphis Can't Lose Lieut. George W. Lee.'"

Black capitalism had not given Negro Memphians their freedom but it did give them an eloquent protest leader.

In next week's series we will look at the National Business League. The history and its role in many of the now existing Black businesses.

Sorority honors Dr. Lawrence

Phi Delta Kappa, Beta Eta Chapter, a teachers' sorority and the sociology department of LeMoine-Owen College presented an outstanding "man and wife" team of educators recently at the college.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Lawrence of New York were at ease in the college setting at LeMoine-Owen as they spoke informally to representatives at the college, and local high school students. Jack and Jill members were also in attendance.

Dr. Lawrence is head of the sociology department at Brooklyn College and Mrs. Lawrence works in the field of child psychology in Rockwood County, New York. Both Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence are quite personable and possess the expertise so vital in today's world in working with young people. According to remarks and reports, their presentation was excellent and relevant to the student of today.

Many questions were directed to the pair and answered to the complete satisfaction of everyone present.

Dr. Lawrence said, "A child needs love, understanding, care and attention. These are some of the requirements that are necessary in order to help the child communicate to the outside world and make the adjustment easily." He felt that developmental psychology was needed in dealing with today's children.

Mrs. Lawrence concurred with her husband in his statements and added, "When a balloon is given to a child, he may burst it after playing with it for awhile. This action tells us that the child is possibly taking out his anger on the balloon."

Their visit to our city was enjoyed by all those persons privileged to hear them in the fireside chat. The educators presented very good and succinct statements to the audience of concerned individuals and acquainted them with what it takes to be adequately prepared in all skills.

Dr. Lawrence is the brother of Mrs. Ann Lawrence Weathers, who teaches at Springdale Elementary school, and resides at 1243 East Parkway So.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (UPI) — John Jardine of Wisconsin was named Tuesday to head the three-man coaching staff for the north squad in the nationally televised 34th Blue-Gray football game Dec. 28.

Jardine will be assisted by Vince Gibson of Kansas State and Don Faurot, retired head coach and athletic director at Missouri.

Jardine and Gibson will be making their first appearance in the annual charity game. Faurot, who does the recruiting for the Blue squad and serves as an associate coach, will be making his 18th consecutive appearance in

Indians for sale

CLEVELAND — (UPI) — Cleveland Indians owner Vernon Stouffer said today he had rejected an offer by a group of local businessmen to purchase the team because they offered a "ridiculous price."

The local group was headed by former Indians third baseman Al Rosen who was surprised by the tone of Stouffer's rejection and said "I'm going to give it a no comment for the moment."

Evers committee head charges theft

By GILBERT JONAS

Nat. Com. to Elect Evers

It will no doubt come as a surprise to many members of the press to learn that most of the black candidates who sought elective office in Mississippi on Nov. 2, including Mayor Charles Evers—the candidate for Governor—are convinced of widespread fraud, outright vote stealing and extensive physical intimidation. Your surprise will stem, most likely, from the fact that the national press coverage failed—with the notable exception of the New York Times—to make, at most, a passing reference to these incidents.

There are many reasons for this journalistic failure, into which we hope to delve at a later date. Now we are faced with an even greater problem: how to reverse the verdict delivered by the press.

In the weeks ahead, federal court challenges will be initiated to require new elections in seven counties which have a black registered majority and in which the black turnout was very high on Nov. 2. In each of these counties, we believe, a sizable number of black candidates were defeated by a variety of illegal means. We shall document these charges at the appropriate time in court. In addition, we are seeking a Congressional inquiry into the numerous incidents of intimidation, fraud and physical harassment—both of local blacks and out-of-state poll watchers—across the state.

Both of these events will provide the opportunity to tell the American people what really happened on November 2. We do not maintain that a fair count would have altered the result for Governor, but we are convinced that between 50 and 80 local black candidates, in addition to the forty or so who were officially elected, would have also won. At present, our guess is that between 75,000 and 125,000 votes cast by blacks were not properly credited or were interfered with.

We earnestly hope that you will help to cover the developments that take place in the months ahead as we seek, once again, to make the electoral system work in Mississippi. Meanwhile, we have decided to keep the National Committee in being for the immediate future in order to further the following objectives:

- 1) Aid the forthcoming legal challenges in federal court designed to invalidate the elections in at least seven counties by obtaining affidavits from the lawyers and law students we transported to Mississippi to serve as poll watchers, as well as, to provide legal assistance;
- 2) Communicate what really happened in Mississippi on Election Day, in part through the media and in part by encouraging our volunteers to inform their own communities and campuses of their eye-witness experiences;
- 3) Generate Congressional hearings, both to present a truthful picture of the election travesties in Mississippi and to amend the Voting Rights Act to require Federal protection against the types of violations and harassment experienced on November 2; and
- 4) Retain the informal association of lawyers, law students and other Volunteers who helped during this campaign so that they may remain informed and ready to serve in future voting efforts in Mississippi, not only on Election Day but in the months prior to that day when the building of political organization can take place.

Part III...

Bishop J.O. Patterson's closing address

Below is part three of Bishop J. O. Patterson, presiding Bishop of the Church of God in Christ, full closing address to the 64th Annual Convocation, held at Mason Temple Memphis, Tenn.

It is those poor people who don't have an education, that are making it possible for the doors of the Mason Theological Seminary to swing ajar for the training of our ministers and missionaries. This world is not run by what we call the big shots. It is supported by the mediocres, the little people are the people that really keep the big people Big People.

Again I say be mindful of how you treat Lazarus. Finally Brethren, let there be peace among us. We are too close to the judgment now. Didn't you notice in this Convocation that though practically everybody spoke, we were admonished to get ready to meet God.

What do you think they were talking about when they said, 'Search me Lord'? Being so near to the judgment, why do we want to waste our time arguing and squabbling about jobs and positions???

You won't have them long enough to enjoy them anyway. Because of our behaviour, the Lord is so grieved. His heart is really broken. For here he is again out yonder on a hill called the place of a skull.

He wasn't too surprised being there the first time for he was arrested by enemies of the new church, the new dominion, the new kingdom. He was being crucified by those who had not experienced his saving grace. He is utterly startled now, to be led back to the same place of crucifixion by those for whom he died almost two thousands years ago.

For it is impossible for those who once were enlightened and have tasted of the Heavenly gift and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost and have tasted the good word of God and the powers of the world to come. If they should fall away to renew them again unto repentance, seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh and put Him to an open shame.

We are singing, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" and when we sing that, we think about nineteen hundred and some years ago. I am answering that for you, Yes, you were there, Yes you are there. Everyone of us who desecrate the house and service of God. Who fail to walk worthy of the vocation where in we are called, we are crucifying him. The world is seeing us do it.

I would like you to go with me quietly on a philosophical journey into the inners of time. Focus your eyes on the screen of history as the projector rolls back the film of suffering and shows us the 1971 rerun. Of the life and crucifixion of Jesus. Isn't Jesus outdoors now just like he was then, because there is no room in the inn? Have not we put Jesus out because of our material blessings? Our material blessings have so crowded our lives until we don't have room for Jesus.

I am sure that you have seen reruns on televisions. They have reruns in Theatres all we are trying to bring you.

Have we not gone more than a three days journey supposing Him to be in our midst. Going about our Grand old Church of God in Christ. Are not we trying to divide God's church and build three tabernacles?

While the dove of peace is flying over our heads and the heavenly voice is crying, "This is my beloved Son, Hear Him" Are not Pilate and Herod getting together to kill Jesus?

Your worst enemies will get together to fight the truth. People that haven't been speaking, when they want to get rid of you they suddenly become friends.

If you don't believe that this is a rerun, just look how the people are preferring Barabas, to Jesus.

Nineteen seventy-one Pilate could turn Jesus loose so he could heal the sick and raise the dead and give sight to the blind, and save sinners.

Pilate could loose him and let the Spirit of God work in the Church like it did in yesteryears.

He's still washing his hands claiming innocence while the Western Union boys are at the door with a telegram saying have nothing to do with this innocent man, you had better let him alone and let the Holy Ghost take over.

Judas of yesteryear is not the only Judas whose chief commodity is Jesus the bread of life. We have more vendor than the Judas of yesteryears who was selling Jesus And just as foolish.

Any time you are selling Jesus you are sick selling your master, a criminal selling your lawyer. And work secret but the details leaked out. A spokesman for Mrs. Onassis said she had asked that her work not be disclosed.

It was something she wanted to do very privately."

price of a slave, thirty-pieces of silver. Don't do it. Don't sell Jesus for an Anniversary.

He's worth more than that. Don't sell Jesus for popularity. You don't have to be popular to go to heaven. What people think about you, won't save you. And for God's sake don't sell Jesus for political expediency. You are gonna need more than a political position. Positions in the church, nothing wrong in wanting them. But if you've got to lose your soul to get it. You're making a foolish transaction. Don't sell Jesus to be a Superintendent or a State Mother or a Bishop. Don't do it. For God's sake don't sell him for a blessed cloth, or blessed apple or blessed tomato. Don't sell Him at any cost, keep him with you because you're going to need him.

(To be continued next week.)

Jackie works with deprived

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Once a week last spring the attractive brunette came to the Harlem Shelter for Deprived Children and spent several hours fingerprinting and building blocks with the three and four-year-olds.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis wanted to keep her volunteer work secret but the details leaked out. A spokesman for Mrs. Onassis said she had asked that her work not be disclosed.

It was something she wanted to do very privately."

Rev. asks, was Jesus a Black revolutionary?

"Jesus was a Black revolutionary messiah who was trying to lead the Black people in a revolt against the white gentile oppressors."

So says the Rev. Albert Cleage, pastor of the Shrine of the Black Madonna in Detroit, during Black Journal's "Black Paper on White Racism." This two-part investigation of institutional racism by six Black scholars and philosophers will be presented December 21 on Channel 10 — WKNO-TV at 8:30 p.m.

One investigative team includes Cleage; John H. Clarke, an associate professor of African and Afro-American history at Hunter College and author of 11 books including "Harlem USA"; and Preston Wilcox, head of the education workshop of the Congress of African People and president of the educational consultant firm AFRAM Associates. They discuss the roots of white racism in the fields of history, education, and Christianity.

Tracing racist patterns in Christianity, Rev. Cleage, an advocate of Black Christian Nationalism, takes issue with the church's concept of Jesus as a white man. According to him it is "historically false and theologically absurd," part of a "debasing institution that enslaves Black people."

He views Christianity as having its beginnings in "an African religion." A basis for his conclusion is the patriarch Israel's journey to Egypt with 70 people and his emergence with a nation of more than 2 million. The Reverend sees biblical Israel as a Black nation and, therefore, Jesus as a Black messiah. He feels that Apostle Paul was an "Uncle Tom Black Jew" who contributed to "destroying the basic African background of Christianity."

Professor Clarke points out that a root of white racism, which also served as a basis for the slave trade and colonialism, was the Papal Bull of 1455 authorizing the servitude of all infidel people, most of whom were non-white and non-European. He also notes that up until 16th and 17th centuries Black Madonnas were the images that prevailed in the European Churches and that one may still find them in some churches in Europe.

Preston Wilcox feels that the "clearest evidence of racism is the essential control over Black education" which he said deceives Blacks and whites about such historical "realities" as the religious interpretations by Rev. Cleage. He also notes that although whites keep Blacks out of their communities they still exercise influence over the education of Black communities.

The educational institution, according to Rev. Cleage, does not teach the "objective truth but what the white man wants to project as truth... (just as) sociology deals with the white man's pattern of living as the norm by which we judge how other people live..."

"We have to project, then, a Black psychology, a Black sociology, a Black music, a Black history that takes in the realities and that is essentially sound as opposed to the mythology that the white man has developed out of his own ignorance... out of his non-creativity because the white man never created anything. He's stolen things but never created anything."

Part II of the Black Journal study on white racism surveys the areas of culture, colonialism and imperialism, and personality development with Imamu Amiri Baraka (LeRoi Jones), Dan Watts, and Dr. Alvin Poussaint.

Black Journal is a production of NET Division, Educational Broadcasting Corporation, Executive Producer: Tony Brown. This program is transmitted nationally by PBS, the Public Broadcasting Service.

Buy quality fruits

Can you tell a good quality fresh grapefruit? Should it feel light or heavy for its size in your hand? And how can you tell quality fresh broccoli? It should have compact bud clusters which have not opened to show the yellow flowers. As for the grapefruit, it should feel heavy in the hand for its size to indicate finest quality.

You'll find invaluable facts like these for all the major fresh fruits and vegetables in our supermarkets in a newly-available booklet called "Selection and Care of Fresh Fruits and Vegetables - A Consumer's Guide." It is published by a recognized authority in the field, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

From anise to watercress, the guide provides information covering 86 different commodities, arranged alphabetically for easy reference. The booklet also includes notes on the marketing season of each commodity and provides some general principles of selection and care as an introduction. Subjects include freshness, color, shape, size, maturity, tops, grades, judgment, storage, temperature, humidity, prepackaging and price. Also included is a frank discussion of the so-called "organically grown" fruits and vegetables.

Knowing the proper care and storage of fresh fruits and vegetables when they are brought home from the market can save the consumer money. Copies of the booklet are available at $1.00 each by writing to United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, 777 14th St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20005. Ask for the Consumer's Guide.

Brenda Jones wins Geeter title

Recently Geeter High School held its coronation ceremony for Miss Geeter of 1971-72. Miss Brenda Jones, escorted by David Nelson, was beautifully outfitted as she made her entrance to be crowned by Michael Dixon, president of the Student Council.

The Queen, who resides at 5190 Jonetta with her guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Phelmon Williams, received many gift tributes from various school clubs, classes and the faculty.

Miss Geeter's court, preceding her in the procession, included first alternate, Miss Debra Dotson, escorted by Ricky Smith; and second alternate, Miss Anita Osborne, escorted by Joe Hailey.

Miss Stephanie Thornton, winner of the Best-Talent phase of the recent Memphis Junior Miss Contest, presented her dramatic skit for the Queen and Court. Other salutes were given by the R.O.T.C. sponsors and cadets, the cheerleaders, the band and majorettes, and the chorus.

Mr. Joseph K. Carr is the school's principal. The faculty committee responsible for the activity included Mrs. Mary Wakefield, chairman, Mrs. Alma Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Burton and Mrs. Linda Livaudais.

To honor Rev. Perry

The Most Reverend Harold J. Perry, S.V.D., D.D., the only black Roman Catholic bishop in the United States and the auxiliary bishop of New Orleans, will celebrate the 11:00 a.m. Eucharist at St. Thomas Catholic Church, Trigg and Lauderdale, Sunday, December 19th. Immediately following the Liturgy, Bishop Perry will be honored at a reception at Fr. Bertrand Gym.

Bishop Perry was born in 1916 in Lake Charles, Louisiana, ordained a priest in the Society of the Divine Word in 1944, and ordained bishop in 1966. His ministry has been noted by several "firsts": he was the first black priest to serve as rector of St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, the first black clergyman to act as guest chaplain and give the invocation for the opening of the United States Congress, the first black provincial superior of the Society of the Divine Word. Bishop Perry is a board member of the National Urban League and the National Catholic Conference of Interracial Justice (NCCIJ), and several other national organizations. He is the recipient of the NCCIJ James A. Hoey Award, and holds honorary doctorates from ten universities.

On the day of his ordination as bishop, a few pickets paraded outside historic St. Louis Basilica in New Orleans. One picket carried a sign saying: "Jesus did not choose any non-White apostles." Despite occasional events or letters such as these, Bishop Perry notes that his reception is very good and "a source of great happiness to me."

School Briefs

The entire Central Area staff is committed to the development of the total school concept through services to the students, teachers, and principals in the forty-five Central Area schools. The major emphasis of the total school concept are (1) the involvement of all facets of the school community in program development and (2) the availability of interrelated services for strengthening the continuous program of K-12.

In support of the first, the Central Area is extending its advisory council idea to include an advisory council for each pyramid of schools. In support of the second, consultation is provided in administration, community service, instruction and pupil services by the professional staff of the Central Area Office.

Dr. Joseph W. Westbrook, assistant superintendent of the Central Area, encourages educational thought and action among the varied school personnel and community interest groups. Prior to the opening of school in August, Dr. Westbrook and his staff met with individual principals in order to discover the unique concerns of each school community. Discussions centered around developing programs for the school year and utilizing the total school concept.

Mrs. Emily Jackson, Volunteer Coordinator, can be contacted at the Memphis Board of Education. Her telephone number is 323-8311, station 450.

CULTURAL EXCHANGES

A program sponsored by Cultural Exchange Division of the Memphis City Schools called Project "Get Together", cultivates better race relations between Douglass and White Station High School students. The two high schools are working together on projects to raise money for charitable organizations.

Already, the two schools have raised over one thousand dollars ($1,000) for SUN, as well as other worthwhile organizations.

In addition to their fund raising activities, students met to discuss student problems and to find solutions to these dilemmas.

SUN CONTRIBUTES

The Memphis Board of Education and the Memphis Education Association collected over one hundred seventy thousand dollars in the recent Shelby United Neighbors Campaign. The largest amount of contributions were through the monthly payroll deduction plan but over fifteen thousand dollars was collected in cash payments. This large contribution by the employees of the Memphis City Schools helped in a large measure to push the SUN drive over the goal of four million, three hundred ninety thousand dollars.

"My husband, Donald, is a Sergeant 1st Class in the Army. He's been a prisoner in Vietnam for 4 years. They're bargaining to get the prisoners released. But what I want to know... is he still alive? Is he well? I can't find out. Hanoi won't tell our government. Hanoi won't tell me."

There need be no "bargaining table" when the plea is for humane treatment of prisoners of war.

THE prisoner-of-war issue is complex and confusing. It is loaded with political overtones and emotional tension.

But one side of the prisoner-of-war issue is simple. That's the part which deals with the condition of prisoners.

Who are they? Where are they? How are they?

Those are the questions the families of American prisoners want answered. Those are the questions the conscience of the world wants answered... now.

Of course, they want the war to end and the prisoners of war to be released as soon as possible.

But meanwhile there is no need for Hanoi and its allies to delay even a day in answering this plea:

Admit official neutral observers into the prison camps in North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, where Americans are being held in secret captivity.

Assure the world, through these neutral observers, that American prisoners are being decently and humanely treated, according to the standards of civilized nations.

Hanoi can do this without bargaining, even without consultation.

By opening the prisons now to official neutral observers, Hanoi would earn the gratitude of millions of Americans and find new stature in the eyes of the world.

We ask and pray they will.

SUPPORT OUR PLEA TO HANOI AND ITS ALLIES:

Clear away the doubts — Open your prison camps to neutral observers... now!

We ask no more than we give. All American and South Vietnamese prison camps are inspected regularly by official neutral observers — The International Committee of the Red Cross.

SPORTS HORIZON

BY BILL LITTLE

Marquette proved that the Warriors will have another NCAA contender come tournament time next March by storming back in the last 21 seconds of the game to send Memphis State down to an unbelievable 74-73 setback before 11,210 last week in the Mid-South Coliseum. A hush enveloped the capacity crowd after a last second desperation shot by the visitors' George Frazier wiped out a one point margin held by Memphis State and gave the high ranked Warriors of fiery Al McGuire a heart stopping decision. The Warriors, 28-0 last season before losing their only contest in the NCAA tourney to Ohio State last season, racked up victory number three. Memphis State is now 2-1 after victories over Missouri at Rolla and Oklahoma State.

It was such a super effort on MSU's part but Marquette had poise and experience to call on in the clutch — the ingredients which proved decisive. With All-American 6-11 center Jim Chones on the bench late in the struggle with five fouls, the Tigers blew several chances to put the game out of reach. An outlet pass which went astray and two unfortunate occurrences to sophomore Bob Foxworth were fatal blows as they kept Marquette within striking distance of Tigers with the crunching blow being that perfect shot by Frazier.

UNUSUAL CALL

Memphis State appeared to have it when Don Holcomb went to the free throw line with the one and one and only 41 seconds to play. Holcomb, a good charity tosser for a big man, could have given the Tigers a 75-70 margin. Foxworth was instructed from the bench to take a position along the lane across from where he had stationed himself, but he was caught in the lane after the official had awarded the ball for Holcomb to shoot. The violation deprived MSU of the possible two points. The officials made the right call according to the rules but Coach Gene Bartow claimed that you'd seldom see the call in such a big game.

Admittedly, the call was unusual, but I think perhaps the basic complaint should have been over two line-ups requested by the shrewd McGuire during the timeout which might have helped to create confusion at the free throw line. Marquette sent in one substitute and requested a line-up to see who its players would be matched up against on defense. Such a request is not normally granted unless a team sends in three or more players. While a team is getting set for a free throw, most officials will hesitate long enough to see that the players are in their proper positions. Each team is entitled to an alternate position along the free throw lanes with the opponents of the shooting team having the inside spaces adjacent to the end lines. For MSU these spots are occupied by Ronnie Robinson and Holcomb when they are not shooting.

Foxworth would have been the logical person to take the two number two spaces with Robinson since Holcomb was at the line. Instead, Foxworth was on the same side with Robinson before someone from the MSU bench instructed him to cross over to the other side.

Foxworth had a chance to redeem himself seconds later when he was fouled with MSU leading 73-71. The St. Louis forward missed and the rest is history. Fate is funny and spreads its mystique in strange ways. For this week's Vanderbilt Classic Foxworth has earned a starting role in the Tigers' opener against Ole Miss. Foxworth replaced Fred Horton who quite the team after the Marquette defeat because he and Coach Bartow had an angry exchange of words over his returning to the game. Horton was injured away from the ball and put on one of his temper tantrums when he wasn't allowed to remain in the game. Horton missed practice before the Tigers took off for the two day tourney in Nashville. Bartow is expected to make a decision on Horton's future with the team upon returning off the current road trip. A good guess is that the 6-7 senior will be given one more chance to control himself after an apology to his MSU teammates.

FINCH BESTS CHONES

Larry Finch, who outscored Chones 23-18 and caused McGuire to concoct a special defense in an effort to slow the All Missouri Valley star down, drew praise from the great Marquette star and his coach. Finch was up to the challenge and is the main reason that the word is fast spreading that MSU can play with the best of them. Robinson had 19 rebounds and 13 points, and along with Holcomb who scored 17, also was praised by battle weary Warriors after the fantastic 40 minutes of action.

RUST FACES LEMOYNE

After ripping off two victories on the road against Dillard and Southern in New Orleans LeMoyné-Owen returned home last week to absorb the Magicians' first curtain raiser before home crowd in quite a spell. Mississippi Valley of the tough Southwestern Athletic conference plastered the Purple Wave with a 84-78 defeat last Wednesday. The Magicians were expected to get back on the winning track against Rust.

Charles Edge continues to carry the biggest load for LeMoyné on offense with 23 points against the Mississippians from Itta Béa. Dover Jackson of MVSC got 23 also to lead the victors. The game with Rust was the last of the year at Bruce Hall. The Mad Lads will see action later in the month in the Chicago Classic.

PROS LIKE WINNING

The Pros started at the top by beating Utah and apparently is willing to sacrifice personal accomplishments for victory. The ABA entrant has put together a string of three consecutive victories, looking better with each outing. The Pros outdueled Virginia recently despite nearly 80 points between the Squires' fearsome twosome of Charley Scott and Julius Erving. Last Wednesday night before another good crowd the Pros controlled the game with Denver from the opening whistle as Babe McCarthy's men rode the sharp passing of Gerald Govan to a 109-91 win over the Rockets.

Miss Peggy Smith, Pros' recently crowned queen, was on hand to pick the lucky number which Carl Ramsey, the ticket holder, won a new Pinto. Johnny Neumann gave another good performance in relief. His 18 led the Pros with 24 being high for the game by Denver's Ralph Simpson.
