A color guard of American Legion post 116 in Princeton presented the colors to Jones, who in turn presented them to Hellala.

Kentucky State Flag Authorized in 1918

By CHARLES F. HINDS
Secretary-Treasurer, Ky. State Historical Society.

Frankfort—Kentucky's State Flag was first authorized by an Act of the General Assembly in 1918, but it was not until Governor Sampson's administration approximately ten years later, then the Commonwealth's present flag was adopted.

There had been two other attempts of the Adjutant General's Department to designate an official flag. The first was in 1920, but the design was not acceptable. The rejected banner was then consigned to the safekeeping of the Kentucky Historical Society, where it is now displayed.

The second attempt was made in 1921. Several leading artists in Louisville were asked to meet in the studio belonging to Charles Sneed Williams. A composite of three drawings selected as the best submitted by the artists was to the Adjutant General, but there the matter rested for several years.

In Sampson's term as governor, Adj. Gen. W. H. Jones called on the Kentucky Historical Society for help. Mrs. Jouett Taylor Cannon, who was the secretary-treasurer at that time, responded by inviting her friend Miss Jessie Cox (later Mrs. Joseph Burgess), an art teacher, to give technical aid. Miss Cox's drawing, now in the Archives of the Kentucky Historical Society, was accepted and is now the basis of the flag which has become identified with the Commonwealth.

Three flags were made in Philadelphia from Miss Cox's sketch. These were the first of the official Kentucky flags. One was kept by the office of the Adjutant General, for some occasion, and was never used.

The third was the historical Society's flag, which hangs over the House of Representatives in the Old Capitol Building in Fort.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sesser, Ill., visited his brother, Benton.

Workshop June 10 At Mayfield For County Officials

A one-day joint personnel workshop and public information meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 10, at Mayfield, according to an announcement by Economic Security Commissioner Vego E. Barnes. Barnes said the Mayfield workshop for departmental personnel and the public information meeting would embrace an area of nine counties.

Departmental personnel working in the counties of Graves, Livingston, Marshall, Calloway, Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle, Ballard and McCracken will assemble at 9 a. m. on June 10, in the Mayfield DES District Office building for the morning session of the workshop. There will be a noon luncheon from 12 to 1:30, with a second session of the workshop following from 1:30 to 3:30.

Barnes also said that there will be a session beginning at 4 o'clock for county officials, at which time the retirement law covering all county officials enacted at the 1958 session of the General Assembly would be explained. He said invitations to attend the session will be sent to all county officials in the above mentioned counties.

Charles Hensley visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morgan in Benton last week. He completed his studies this year at the Louisville branch of the U. of K.

Now—An All-Steel 'Do-It-Yourself' Pole-Barn Type Farm Building

Now—a "do-it-yourself" pole-barn has been placed on the market. The new fire-safe building is so low in price that it can be purchased with a lower down payment than required on a tractor. It can be erected by an unskilled farm or ranch crew in a few days.

Called the Stran-Master, manufactured by the Stran-Steel Corporation, it comes in a wide range of sizes and can be used for stock-feeding shelter, dairy loose-housing barn, machinery storage, general utility or even as a small all-purpose shed.

The "do-it-yourself" feature of the all-steel Stran-Master is simple and fool-proof. It has only 13 basic parts. No cranes or heavy equipment are needed for erection. All connections are made through factory-drilled holes by bolting.

Getting true plumb and square

ing of the building is also fool-proof. An exclusive telescoping arrangement of the steel columns together with an adjustable-length girder permits easy, accurate erection with farm or ranch labor. Concrete is poured into the hole around the base of the column. This unique pre-engineered foundation detail insures against rack or sag as in other pole barns.

It's an attractive low-profile building with a pitch of 2 in 12. Stran-Master steel wall and roof sheets are of modern ribbed design. It can be ordered with any or all walls open.

ASC News & Facts

By ROBERT L. RUDOLPH

Reminder for Tobacco Growers: Farmers in Marshall County who are considering leaving strips of idle or fallow land in an alternate row arrangement with tobacco rows are reminded by Everett Treas, chairman of the county ASC committee, that strips of idle or fallow land must be as wide as, or wider than, four normal rows to be deducted from the tobacco acreage. A "normal row" width is described by Mr. Treas as being at least 36 inches wide or the actual distance between the rows of tobacco on the farm, whichever is wider. Mr. Treas said that anyone planning to leave such strips in the tobacco field should contact the ASC office before planting.

Harvested Acreage to Determine Tobacco Price Support. Eligibility for price support on 1958 tobacco will be based on the harvested acreage of tobacco, according to Everett Treas, chairman of the ASC committee.

This means that a tobacco grower who harvests more than his farm acreage allotment will be unable to place any of his tobacco under price support.

Under current regulations, county ASC Committee representatives will measure the tobacco fields and determine the acreage on each farm. When a farm is found to have tobacco in excess of the farm allotment, the farmer will be given notice of the excess acreage. If he wishes his tobacco to be eligible for price support he has 10 days to file a request for a certification to the disposition of the excess acreage, or remeasurement with the ASC office.

Excess tobacco disposed of must be destroyed in such manner that no part of the excess can be harvested or salvaged. Mr. Treas emphasized that the harvesting of any tobacco in excess of the farm allotment will make all the tobacco from the farm ineligible for price support.

New Grower Wheat Allotments for 1959: Wheat growers are reminded again that if they expect to harvest wheat in 1959 and will expect an allotment in this acreage MUST file an application in the ASC office not later than July 1.

1958 Agricultural Conservation Program: Farmers are reminded again that if they will not be able to carry out their cost-share program, that they should report to the office, so that money allocated may be released for the summer season, otherwise, this money may be lost and no one will benefit.

1957 ACP: Everett Treas has announced that the 1957 agricultural program is now complete, with a gross assistance of $57,833 going to the 381 farms participating. The practice most widely used was that of establishing permanent vegetative cover, and 156 farmers received $27,971 for liming, fertilizing and seeding 1796 acres. Other practices according to their use and cost-share dollars earned were (1) farm ponds, 59, with cost-share earned of $8,421. (2) improving permanent cover, 487 acres, earning $4134 (3) liming materials, 1360 tons, earning $3943 (4) livestock wells, 15, earning $2,222 (5) winter cover, 229 acres, earning $1991 (6) tree planting, 83 acres earning $989 (7) sod waterways, 157,300 square feet earning $626 (8) stockwater pipelines, 4409 feet earning $442. Other practices earning cost-share were water storage tanks at dams and pipelines, diversion ditches, open drainage, summer cover crop. One hundred thirty acres were seeded to permanent cover under an emergency program, earning $2879. Total assistance earned was $54,502, with a small down payment increase of $3,331 or a gross of $57,833. Of this amount, a total of $10,600 was earned using lime, and $15,538 for fertilizer.

Mr. Treas also pointed out that only 32 percent of the farmers in Marshall County participated in this program, and suggests that if more farmers will participate that more cost-share funds might be obtained for the ACP Program.

LAWN CARE

The Care of New Lawns

A new lawn requires a lot of babying for a while. Watering is as important to the young lawn as formula feeding is to an infant. . . and there's more to watering than turning on the hose every now and then. The experts at Scovill Manufacturing Co., who make Green Spot lawn watering equipment, pass on the following information to help make new lawns more beautiful.

First of all, before seeding, soak the soil to a depth of five or six inches. This preliminary soaking is essential, and should be done with a fine spray. After seeding, the ground surface must be kept moist at all times. But remember to use only a fine spray or you're liable to find your dirt and grass seed over in your neighbor's yard. When the new grass begins to come up, in about two weeks, the time between waterings should become longer. You want to be sure, however, that you water long enough to moisten the soil down deep so that the roots will grow deep.

Invest in a good adjustable lawn sprinkler. The professional lawn man thumbs down on hand-held nozzles for general watering because you're apt to get bored holding them in one place and you can never get an even coverage as you can with automatic sprinklers. With an adjustable sprinkler you can set the spray for the kind you want—fine, medium or coarse. The ideal spray is one where the drops are small enough for the earth to absorb immediately, yet not so small that they drift away.

Another piece of advice concerns the time for watering. You can never go wrong by watering in the morning before the sun gets very hot. Daytime watering is not likely to be harmful even when the temperature is in the very high 90's. It can, however, be wasteful since water is lost through evaporation. Never let puddles collect on lawns during very hot sunshine. The water may become so hot that the grass is literally cooked. Watering in the early evening is also all right provided the foliage dries within an hour or so. Watering late in the evening or at night during hot weather may cause serious harm by encouraging the rapid spread of fungus diseases. In any event, water is of such importance that it is better to water at any time regardless of conditions rather than to deprive plants and lawns of it. For additional information on watering write Green Spot Division, Scovill Manufacturing Company, Waterbury, Connecticut. For information on other phases of lawn care, check with your local county agent, with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and with State Experiment Stations.

20 YEARS AGO

From The Courier
Files of 1938-39

Marshall County had legal liquor 20 years ago, but the county was about to go "dry".

A local option election had been held and the Kentucky Court of Appeals said that results of the election placed Marshall county among dry areas.

The court's ruling had been wired to County Attorney Ben Thomas Cooper, and the county was preparing to get rid of its liquor places within 30 days.

The Crawford-Ferguson Co. of Benton had welcomed John W. Phillips of Paris, Tenn., as the new manager of its dry good department.

Mr. Phillips had been with the W. E. Sparks Co. and the National Stores at Paris. He and his wife and son had moved into the Z. Burnham residence in Benton.

A countywide scholastic contest had been held at the Benton High school for students from all parts of the county.

Virgil Fields of Palma had won first place, Harry R. Wallace of Bald Knob second place, and Edna Lindsey, of the Bailey school third place.

Morgan's Dept. Store of Benton had installed a new neon sign. It was said to be one of the largest in Benton.

The Standard Oil Co. had purchased a part of the Methodist Church property on Benton's Court Square. The strip of land was 25 by 100 feet and the price was reported to have been $2,500.

The land was to become a part of the company's filling station at 11th and Main Streets. The station was being operated by John Ed Long.

The price, $100 per front foot, had created quite a lot of conversation in Benton.

The Olive 4-H Club had elected new officers. Joe Damon Harrison was president; Helen Lovett vicepresident; Mary Brooks Harrison, secretary-treasurer; Billy Watkins, song leader; Mary Alice Washburn, cheer leader; and Brooks Walker, club reporter.

(We can visualize Billy Watkins leading those youngsters in song.)

A new cafe was to be opened in Benton by George and Bert Wyatt. The cafe was to be next door to the Lovett Building. It was to be a cafeteria-style restaurant and there was to be NO BEER OR LIQUOR served.

A spelling bee had been held at the courthouse.

Thirty-three schools in the county had participated in the contest.

The winner was Virgil Fields, a student at the Palma school and son of Leroy Fields of Route 6. He won by spelling the word "occurrence". His teacher was

WHY PAY 50% MORE?

We defy anyone to buy this quality at 50% more. The reason is this: Country Boy takes the entire output of a paint factory in the dull winter months, thereby getting a much better price. Then, too, freight rates are high on paint; Country Boy uses his own trucks and saves transportation costs. All this savings is reflected in the consumer cost.
