CANNED FOODS TO BE RATIONED MARCH 1st

M. D. Bryan Chairman of the AAA and OPA War Foods Branch announced this week a plan for the exchange of a number of canned foods. The plan will take effect Monday, March 1st, and will be in effect for a period of six months.

The plan is designed to conserve scarce resources and to provide for the equitable distribution of canned foods. It will be administered by the Department of Agriculture and the Office of Price Administration.

The following canned foods will be involved in the exchange:

- Pickles
- Relish
- Jellies
- Jams
- Preserves
- Spaghetti
- Macaroni
- Noodles
- Canned meat
- Canned olives
- Canned tomatoes
- Canned fish
- Canned vegetables
- Canned fruits

The exact list of canned foods to be involved in the exchange will be announced by the Department of Agriculture and the Office of Price Administration. Housewives will be notified by mail of the specific canned foods that will be involved in the exchange.

ADVANCED TRAINING ANNOUNCED

Leopolda General W. Cross, Director of United States Marine Service, announced this week a new advanced training program for officers in the Marine Service. The program will be conducted at the United States Marine Service School in Quantico, Virginia.

The program will consist of a two-year course in advanced training. The course will be divided into two semesters, with the first semester to be conducted during the fall semester and the second semester to be conducted during the spring semester.

The program will be open to all officers in the Marine Service who have completed the basic training program and who have been selected for advanced training. The program will be conducted on a competitive basis, with the officers selected for advanced training based on their performance in the basic training program.

The program will cover a wide range of topics, including military strategy, management, and leadership. The program will also include a practical component, with the officers participating in field exercises and simulations.

The program will be conducted on a full-time basis, with the officers living on campus and attending classes and training sessions during the day and evening.

The program will be conducted in the United States Marine Service School in Quantico, Virginia. The school is located near the Quantico Marine Base and is well-equipped for the advanced training program.

The program will be conducted by the United States Marine Service School staff, with the assistance of guest lecturers and experts in the field of military strategy, management, and leadership.

The Fulton County News
The door opened and in walked Miss Catherine Thompson who was the oldest member of the club. Miss Thompson is well known in Fulton as a member of the first high school class. She is also known for her activities as a member of the first church organization in town. Miss Thompson has been a member of the club for over 50 years and has always been active in its affairs.

The program for the meeting was announced by Mrs. L. H. Taylor, the secretary. It was decided that the meeting would be held at the Fulton Church. The agenda included reports on the activities of the various committees and the treasurer's report. The meeting adjourned after the business was transacted.

The next meeting will be held at the same place on the first Wednesday of each month.
