THE LISTENING POST

I have often looked at dial telephones and wondered how any person learns to use them. I suppose the trick can be learned, but thus far I have avoided them industriously and on the few occa-sions when I simply had to use one I used a strategem I heard of years ago. If one must be used I keep jiggling at the thing until an operator gets curlous and makes some inquiry. Then I tell her I am just about blind and can't see well enough to dial. She feels sorry for me and gives me the number want. Recently in another paper I read of other people who have trouble with dial telephones, so I know I am not alone in my ignor-ance. The story of a few of these people is told in the following article, written by Helen Henly, and published in the Christian

When we ordered the telephone for our new apartment, we were thinking of it in terms of necessity and convenience. If the Government knew how much trouble that phone has given us, and at the same time how much entertainment, it would immediately clap on double taxes—a nulsance tax and an entertainment tax.

We decided the unpacking could wait, and we sat down for a nice peaceful persual of the paper be

"Why, I don't know," was the answer, without considering that this reply might surprise the inquirer even more than her quesfion had surprised us. "What num-ber are you calling?"

"Isn't this the Greyhound Bus line?" she asked impatiently. We convinced her it was not, and that no, we did not know the bus schedules, and returned to our news-

Similar calls followed, at the rate of several per hour, until we went to bed. At half an hour past mid-night, the telephone shrilled its loudest. Why does it always seem so much louder and more offensive when it is waking you up? When does the 1 o'clock bus leave for New York?" a faraway voice asked fuzzily.

Sleepily we answered, "We don't know. We're not the Greyhound

"Well, isn't this 1366?" he insisted belligerently.

"It is not! It's 1663. And, if you anyway and not go traveling around at such an hour."

London, July 25-The R. A. F. pounded Hamburg with more than 2,300 tons of bombs last night in history's greatestt aerial assault on a single target, and American heavy bombers followed through in daylight by pouring their ex plosives on the still smoking port and submarine center.

The American daylight precision raiders also hammered the northwestern German naval base of Kiel, a U. S. Army headquarters bulletin said, while medium bombers escorted by R. A. F. Spitfires blasted industrial targets near Ghent, Belgium, during the day.

No details of the new American blows at Hamburg and were forthcoming immediately.

"Preliminary reports indicate great damage was done at Hamburg," said an Air Ministry communique in signalizing the resumption with clearing weather of the Allies' round-the-clock onslaught on Germany's industrial heart. LANCASTERS BLAST INSTALLATIONS AT LEGHORN

SOMERVILLE WARNS PRODUCTION LAG HURTS WAR PLANS

Chicago, -Serious military failures face the American armed forces unless this country's war production is brought up to schedule, Lieut. Gen Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army Service Forces, sald today.

Somervell and Charles E. Wilson, vice chairman of the War Production Board, told 1,-500 war plant executives in dual speeches that manufacturers' inability to meet requirements already is hampering military plans.

"It is easy to say that fifty trucks or 200 engines which were not produced this month can be made up next month,' Somervell said, "but a battlefield lost on Tuesday is difficult to regain on Wednesday."

we must rety on the force of individual initiative that springs from ambition.

But the heroes of "Boung to Rise" and "Struggling Upward" were more than lucky dreamers. The books were written during the time when America's great industries were being built, when every-body knew personally men who had risen "from rags to riches." The Horatio Alger lads, like the living men from whom they were drawn, made good because they were able to selze opportunity when it came. We live today in a mechanized, scientific world where ambition without technical training is no more than wishful thinking. No, man loday can hope for a better job or a more responsible position until he has developed the specialized ability needed to handle it. To make our greatest contribution to the war effort—either in production or in combat service—and to give reality to the possibilities that lie before us in peace, we must have knowledge and skill that come only from study and training. With that equipment, however, men and women of our traditional American ambition will create a better world for all people through the power of their own initiative

Leaving America

Let's open our eyes to the facts! It is true that our planes, tanks, ships and guns are landing in large numbers on every battlefront of the world. It is true that our boys are taking their places against a bitter foe, and they're giving account of themselves in every battle. But we at home need to open our eyes. We are a changeable sort of people you know; we go from the heights of optimism to the depths of despair in only a few short weeks.

Right now, while our boys are winning in every battle, we are giving evidence of a "let-down" at home. We have not won the war because we are winning in Sicily. Those boys must have the tools of war for greater battles to come. So there should be no "let-down" in the sale of WAR BONDS . . . . which has been the case in Fulton County this month

There's only a few days left to meet our quota, so let's buy War Bonds NOW!

T US FACE THE FACTS

Henry Ward is the only candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the Democratic Primary who has received the endorsement and approval of state-wide nonpolitical groups and organizations...

He has been endorsed by the Kentucky Federation of Labor, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, by farmer groups, business groups and teacher organizations.

Such a man is deserving of the highest honor Kentucky voters can bestow upon him.

He has one of the longest records of continuous service ever rolled up in the Kentucky Legislature. He could probably stay there indefinitely if he so desired for he was elected to his last two terms in the House without
