J. W. JONES DIES IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Former Murray Educator and U.S. Marketing Specialist Dies of Heart Attack

The sudden death of J. W. "Jim" Jones Saturday afternoon at Washington, D. C., was quite a shock to some who others knew of his physical weakness and were prepared for the death message whenever it might reach them. Mr. Jones had been in very serious condition for the past two years due to a nervous breakdown and heart trouble. He quietly passed away at his hotel apartment Saturday afternoon, October 17, at 3 p. m. after a light heart attack.

Funeral services were held in Lexington, Ky., Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the Mahoney Chapel, Dr. E. C. Mitchell and Dr. T. C. Eton conducted the short impressive services. Burial was in Lexington Cemetery.

Surviving are: his widow, Mrs. Winona Stevens Jones, and daughter, Miss Ann Elizabeth Jones, of Lexington, Ky.; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Murray, Ky.; two brothers, Robert S. Jones, Richmond, Va., and John L. Jones, Murray, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Shelton, Murray, and a number of near relatives and kinpeople.

Born and reared in and near Murray, "Jim" had a host of friends. Completing his education in the Murray schools he attended Georgetown College and was graduated in 1910. Returning to Murray he was connected with the Murray schools and was principal of the High School for 11 years. It was here that numbers of students loved and admired him in his teaching and through life. Following his teaching at Murray he attended school for further education, afterwards acting as county agent of Lure county for three years, then connecting with the University of Kentucky in Agriculture Extension work.

Soon afterwards he received appointment with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Marketing and was principal of this department until his recent death. In Washington, Mr. Jones was well known and respected as one of authority in his field. He had numerous contacts throughout the United States in his work and they shared the sympathy of his sudden death with the family.

Mr. Jones was 51 years of age. And until the physical breakdown of some two years back was one of stamina, endurance and will power. After his sickness he was more conservative at his work. He is one that will be long remembered and sadly missed by all that knew him.

Attending the funeral from Murray were: Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Church, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hughes.

Barkley to Speak Here November 2nd

Senator Alben W. Barkley will speak in Murray on November 2, the eve of the election, according to an announcement by Attorney Hall Hod, chairman of the speaker's bureau. Mr. Barkley will speak at 8 o'clock and be accompanied next day as he is scheduled to address the voters in Mayfield and Benton that same day.

Fourth Monday in October before the general election has always been "Barkley Day" in Murray, a position in which he succeeded that stalwart Democrat, Senator Ollie M. James. However, due to the great demand for Mr. Barkley as a speaker in other states, the committee was able to obtain him in Kentucky only the last few days of the campaign.

Mrs. Eph Miller's Sister Badly Hurt in Wreck

Mrs. Eph Miller received word Monday that a sister, Mrs. A. Viron Sumner, San Francisco, Calif., was unconscious in a serious condition, with a fractured skull, a broken leg and other injuries resulting from an automobile accident Sunday. Mrs. Sumner was killed instantly.

After cremation there, the remains of Mr. Sumner will arrive in Cadiz Friday.

Mrs. Sumner will be remembered here by her many friends as Miss Rosa Sumner for many years a popular Calloway teacher.

PHONE RATES RESCINDED

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 20.—The State Public Service Commission rescinded its telephone rate order late today, leaving the entire question of rates to be reconsidered.

New Congressman

A late likeness of Noble J. Gregory, Mayfield, who will succeed his late brother, Judge W. V. Gregory, in Congress from "The Gibraltar" district of Kentucky, the first Mr. Gregory's selection as the nominee by the county chairman at Mayfield last week virtually assures his election.

Mrs. Gregory was Miss Marion Hale, Mayfield, who was a frequent and popular visitor in Murray before her marriage. She was the daughter of the late Major H. S. Hale, one time Kentucky State Treasurer and founder of the First National Bank, of Mayfield, and is prominently related here.

'GET OUT THE VOTE' PRIZES OFFERED

Rewards Offered Schools in Magisterial Districts Making Best Showing

The "Get out the vote" contest between the county's magisterial districts has been announced for this year. Party lines are ignored in the contest, which is sponsored as a citizenship move.

Schools in the magisterial district getting out the greatest percentage of its registered voters on November 3 will be rewarded as follows: $50 to each 4-year-high school; $25 to each 2-year-high school and $10 to each other school in the district.

Sums half the above will be given schools in the district finishing second.

YBMC Provisionally Joins J. C. C. Group

The Young Business Men's Club of Murray conditionally accepted membership in the state organization of Junior Chambers of Commerce at its regular meeting last Monday evening at Collegiate Inn.

The Murray organization, which was formed four years ago and has been active and effective in community affairs during this time, has many achievements to its credit, voted to affiliate with the state organization with the condition that it be permitted to retain its present name, age requirements and constitution and by-laws.

Ages for membership in the Young Business Men's Club are 18 to 40 while the Junior Chamber of Commerce's age limit is 35.

Pine Bluff Tops Hazel Nine, 5-4

In a closely fought tilt on the Crossland diamond, Pine Bluff topped the Hazel nine 5-4, Sunday, October 18. This tilt made it four out of seven wins for the East Siders over Hazel.

Each team hit safely five times at bunched blows by Coach Otis Eldridge's Bluffers made the difference.

Weeks tossing for Pine Bluff, struck out 13 men while Wilson and Patterson whiffed four.

O. Eldridge led in hitting for the Bluff with two singles. U. Lamb was out in front for Hazel with a single and a triple.

The game concluded the playing season for Pine Bluff.

Boone Cleaners Add New Hat Blocks

Boone Cleaners have added a supply of new modern styles of hat blocks and flanges for children's hats as small as 4 years old. Adult sizes range now from 6 1/2 to 7 1/2. This addition of hat blocking equipment makes their shop as complete as any shop in the nation, giving them a complete run of hat sizes.

'37 FARM PROGRAM IS BEING PLANNED

Directors of Soil Conservation Work in Meeting Here Saturday

The directors of the Soil Conservation program were called together Saturday, October 17, to discuss with the County Agent changes in the soils program, to make it more effective for the 1937 season. The directors, after this discussion, were to see the other members of their committee and report back to the County Agent's office not later than Tuesday, October 20, any changes or recommendations that the other members of the committee or farmer friends think would be applicable to this county.

The control committee took these recommendations to a meeting of the control committee of the Purchase District at Mayfield, October 21, when a representative of the state committee was present and spoke for the control committee in the state meeting. Likewise a member of the state meeting will be in the Washington meeting which will give the farmers of this area a right to express their opinion as to the procedure in administering the soil conservation act.

W. E. Lewis Hauls 392 Tons of Lime to County in a Month

W. E. Lewis, trucker from Dover, Tenn., has hauled from Dover and vicinity 392 tons of lime and delivered it to farmers of Calloway county from the 15th of September to the 15th of October. Farmers of Calloway are fortunate to get this lime because other sources of lime had failed.

The entire screenings from the rock used on the road at the National Park at Dover has hauled to this county. Mr. Lewis' trucks are still on the job and even though this source is gone he is hauling from the other side of Cumberland River, with two toll bridges, to our farmers for $2.50 per ton.

428 Veterans in County Got Adjusted Pay Bonds

There were 428 veterans residing in Calloway county who got adjusted compensation certificates, according to data compiled by the Kentucky Legionnaires.

This is believed to be somewhat off the mark since the certificates were forwarded to the home address of each veteran and many natives of this county who received them are now making their homes elsewhere.

The nearest estimates made by Murray Post No. 73 of the American Legion is that there are approximately 350 veterans of the war now residing in Calloway county. More than three-fourths of these are members of Murray Post.

It Pays to Read the ClassifiedsLate Fall Is Big Help for Farmers

Calloway county farmers are being immeasurably aided by the splendid fall weather and later than usual frost. It is in marked contrast to last year when a killing frost fell on the night of October 6 and seriously cut many crops.

A large acreage of wheat is being sown and the fine late fall weather has been of big assistance in the maturing of corn and clover crops for seed. Much fall plowing is also being done. Temperatures have been very moderate for the season.

Havens to Preach to the Worried

"The Healing Gospel to the Worried" will be the Sunday night sermon of A. V. Havens, minister of the First Christian Church. This will be the fourth in a series of sermons, based on "The Healing Gospel," setting forth how present-day religion, equipped with modern psychology and psychotherapy is able to further the healing ministry of Jesus.

In reference to the sermon, Mr. Havens said, "Worry is the disease of the age. The mind that is filled with anxiety can never be happy. Worry is the grit and sand that hinders the working of our human machinery. It fills our days with pursuing horror and our nights with terrifying nightmares. Many people are miserable because they worry about everything. It is possible to be cured of worrying and to live a life absolutely free of anxiety," he said, "will show how the Healing Gospel can cure the anxious heart." The service will begin at 7:30, Sunday night.

"Prophetic Thinker" will be Mr. Havens' sermon, at the Sunday morning service. This is the second in a series of sermons entitled, "Modern Problems and the Prophets."

"We rarely include the prophets among the great thinkers of the world," Mr. Havens said. "Indeed," he continued, "there are many who feel that thinking is not necessary in religion. Some even contend that it is against God's will to try to reason out things. However," Mr. Havens stated, "if religion is ever to free itself of the charge of being an opiate for weak individuals, it will be necessary to present and to hold a reasonable and intelligible conception of it. This sermon," Mr. Havens said, "will set forth one of the great prophets as a thinker comparable to Bergson, James and Dewey of modern times."

The service will begin at 10:45, Sunday morning. Special music will be presented by the trained chorus choir, directed by Everett Crane.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 8:30, Sunday evening. Sunday School will begin at 9:30, Sunday morning.

The Mid-Week Meeting, at 7:30, Wednesday night will be led by the ministry. Tomorrow will be the second of a series of seven, special Mid-Week Meetings dealing with "Man's Relationship to God."

Opal May Dunn Dies of Skull Injury

Funeral services were held for Opal May Dunn, age 6, Friday, October 16, at the home of her parents near Kirksby. She died of fractured skull, received from a fall, following a five day illness.

Surviving are: her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dunn, two sisters, Cora May and Mary Sue Dunn, and two brothers, George Lewis and Iza Heldon Dunn. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Davis Friday afternoon. Burial was in the Kirksby cemetery.

Robert Carney's Father Dies at Mayfield Home

MAYFIELD, Ky., Oct. 21.—Charles L. Carney, 74, died suddenly early this afternoon at his home at 329 South Ninth street from a heart attack. Mr. Carney suffered a heart attack last night, but had seemingly recovered today. A native of Graves county, he was one of the most prominent men here and was a member of an old family.

Mr. Carney was the father of Robert Carney, manager of the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power Co. in Calloway county. Funeral services will be held in Mayfield Friday.

Pennsylvania to Hear Dr. James H. Richmond

Dr. James H. Richmond, president of the 1937 State College, will speak all the week, beginning October 26, for the Democratic National ticket, in the state of Pennsylvania. The urge to make this series of address was made by national headquarters in New York City.

Dr. Richmond was recently invited to a conference with the President at Hyde Park, which he attended. He was the state chairman for Roosevelt in 1932, when the state was Democratic by a record-breaking majority, and his counsel is highly valued in national Democratic circles.

Parker Bros. Garage Is Showing New Lafayette

Parker Bros. Garage is showing the new Nash Lafayette dealers in Park here and it is attracting considerable attention with its new lines and beauty.

The Lafayette now has the Nash motor and many have complimented the remarkable improvement in the car's lines as well as in interior finish.

Mr. Parker attended a meeting of Nash-Lafayette dealers in Paducah last Friday evening at which a factory representative was present, explaining all the new features of the 1937 Nash and Lafayette cars.

MURRAY HIGH SCHOOL

By Clara Waldrop

Monday morning the biology class met with an accident while making and proving several principles of natural science. The hydrogen exploded and cut Mr. Moser's wrist. It was found that a vein and artery both were cut. Mr. Moser was back at school Tuesday morning.

Thursday night at 8:20 the students of M. H. S. had a pep rally. The band led the parade and there were many students marching behind them.

Thursday night at 7:30 the Dramatic Club initiated ten new members.

Friday morning chapel was turned over into a pep meeting and the student body enjoyed speeches from the team and faculty.

The Glee Club under the direction of Everett Crane is making fine progress. It is composed of 30 girls.

The seniors had their annual play, "Orphan Annie," in the high school auditorium Tuesday night. It was a very good program.

The "dignified seniors" selected their class rings last week from Harcourt.

The Murray State College invited us to their homecoming game with Mississippi College last Saturday. Murray High students met at the auditorium immediately before the game and marched into the stadium together.

Dedication and Revival at First Baptist Church Sunday, October 25

The revival begins at the morning hour with Dr. J. W. Porter of Lexington, Ky., as preacher. Dedication service at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Dr. J. W. Porter, assisted by former pastors and the present pastor. Both the revival and dedication services are for all the members, friends, neighbors, and visitors in our city and communities far and wide as well as here at home.

It is the earnest desire of church and pastor that the revival meeting shall be a great blessing to every person whether member of any congregation here or elsewhere or if not a member or attendant of any church at any time anywhere.

The congregation of the First Baptist Church is very anxious that their friends religious and otherwise shall rejoice with them in these days of tender memories and heart challenges that comes both with the dedication and revival.

For long years many of the members have looked for the hour when they should have the great joy of turning over to their Lord this building representing so much of prayer, denial and even suffering that it might be completed without debt and dedicated to the worship of the Lord and to gospel preaching. That hour will be observed next Sunday afternoon, October 25, at 2:30, when the building will be dedicated without a cent of debt against it. To our friends one and all far and near we feel like saying, and do say, COME THOU WITH-US, AND WE WILL DO THE GOOD: for the LORD HATH SPOKEN GOOD CONCERNING ISRAEL.

4,500 AT ANNUAL HOMECOMING DAY AT MURRAY STATE

Declared to be Best in History of Institution; Morning Rally Feature

DINNER, DANCE ADD TO THE FESTIVITIES

About 4,500 students, alumni, and visitors took part in Homecoming festivities at Murray State College on Saturday, October 17. A bonfire, a snake dance, special assemblies, pep sessions, and a dance, climaxed by the football game between Murray and Mississippi College were the features of the 1936 Homecoming celebration, which was declared by officials to be the best in the college's history.

A freshmen-built bonfire and pep meeting were held Friday night with the college cheerleaders in charge of various stunts, after which students took part in a snake dance.

Saturday's all-day celebrations were begun with the Vivace Club breakfast for music students; and an assembly at 10 o'clock, when members of the different grouting classes, "M" Club members, and the varsity and freshmen football squads were introduced. Dr. J. H. Richmond presided at the assembly and welcomed the alumni "home." Responses were made by Mrs. Martha S. Carter of the class of 1926 and Mr. Matt Sparkman, class of '28. After singing of Alma Mater and the Fight Song and a pep talk by Mr. Max Hurt, the chapel was dismissed and a reception was held from 11 to 12 on the stage of the auditorium.

At 2 p. m., the Mississippi Choctaws started on their way to a 20-14 victory over the Murray Thoroughbreds. The "M" Club had a dinner in Wells Hall at 6 p. m. with former varsity men as guests.

After the dinner, a Homecoming Dance was staged in the college auditorium by the Student Organization of the college, especially honoring alumni and football players.

Helen Housden, 14, Is Called by Death

Miss Helen Geneva Housden, 14 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Housden, died last Friday at the home of her parents, near New Concord.

Besides her parents, she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Eula Swartzell, Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Ruth Housden, and a brother, Rudolph. Miss Housden was a member of the Sulphur Springs Methodist church and had on many friends who join the family in mourning her untimely death.

A large crowd attended the funeral services which were conducted from the New Concord auditorium Saturday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. L. T. Hurley. Burial was in the New Concord cemetery.

The pallbearers were Elmo Boyd, Ivan Henderson, Winston and Robert Coleman, Robert Fielder and I. B. Albritten.

Black Top Resurfacing in Calloway Completed

Blacktopping of three highways from Murray, on all of which the surface has been entirely recovered, was finished this morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. L. T. Hurley, the Marshall county line and Egner's Ferry Bridge motorists may now travel without fear of getting their cars covered with the ruinous tar.

Contract is expected to be let Friday for the quarter mile of concrete surfacing running from the end of the asphalt at Creekmore's store, west of the Murray college campus, to Five Points and a few feet beyond on the Coldwater road.

N. E. Stone & Co. has the contract for graveling the highway from Hardin to connect up with the Egner's Ferry road from Benton and is expected to start in just a few days.

W. P. A. workers are about ready to put the black top surfacing on the Olive street boulevard extension, west of 12th street. Rock asphalt surfacing on Walnut street, between 2nd and 3rd and on 3rd street between Main and Walnut has been laid and will be open for traffic shortly.

Regarding Our Early Indians, Etc.

BY ELMER T. HIXON

In the realm of nature there is many phases of which affords vast fields of interest; to the appeal of the writer one of the most inclining being the early American Indians. Much interest may be derived by those so inclined to glimpse backward in a retrospective way and endeavor to live belatedly if but for only a momentary lapse of time with this vanished people of our commonwealth, and generally rating our nation of modern times.

In our native state as in others formerly inhabited by these early Indian tribes, their marks and evidences indicative of their existence has, and are becoming still the more obliterated, and when we consider the expanse, territorially speaking which was their natural habitat comparatively little identity may be found. Making particular reference to our home state and much of the adjacent territory closely resembling as to their modes and practices of living, etc. it seems the most favorable locality for his settlement was along the water courses. These streams, or many of them contained an abundance of fish, and with a plenitude of wild game in such localities in which his wisdom apparently deemed best, it would appear as though his Springtime even though notwithstanding the brevity of his human existence was virtually perpetual.

It may seem little short of unfortunate, and we may go so far in our mental frailties to think it deplorable that many of the thrilling and pioneer situations are unwritten history. There have existed some confusion as to the Indian and Mound Builders as to their being a differentiated race, and I choose to quote in part from a writing of more than a decade ago:

"The Hasket Mound was opened by Curator W. C. Mills and his assistants of the Ohio State University, which institution has been conducting an archaeological and historical investigation concerning these ancient people and their civilization. This mound yielded up the burial place and crumbling bones of a great chief with his priceless decorations about him, among them a copper trinket which the scientists claim has established the identity of the Mound Builders of that particular section as being the same as all others in the surrounding parts of Ohio, namely, the Hopewell Culture."

Stubblefield Was Genius of 1890

The following article is copied from The Murray Ledger, October 3, 1890.

THE OBSERVER

We notice that, as we take an occasional glance at the stream of humanity, some persons are capable of doing something and some are not. Now, there is one person we know who is a perfect genius at handling the lines over a mule team. Another of our acquaintances possesses the happy privilege of knowing how to handle the pasteboards, and still another is an adept at calling hogs.

But again we run across another man whose tastes lead him off into altogether a different direction. For example, there is Mr. Nathan Stubblefield, Murray's telephone man. He is an inventive genius, and his inclinations are to experiment with electric appliances, etc. Mr. Stubblefield's latest invention is a telephone without a box or phone at either end. In fact, this telephone is conspicuous for its absence of phone or machinery, boxes, tubes or electric "trigger work." All in the world that is attached to the plain simple copper wire is a small button at each end, excepting there is Mr. Nathan Stubblefield, a small leaden bullet hanging to a wire that you place to your ear and it is wonderful with what clearness and intelligibility it transmits the human voice, music, etc. It would probably be a good idea to have one of these phones run from here away off to one of the cannibal islands to inform the citizens of that country that there are persons here who pour cold water upon Mr. S's telephone schemes, and look with disfavor upon any other enterprise unless they themselves have a finger in the pie. Mr. Stubblefield has about reached perfection in the manufacture of telephones and has his lines introduced throughout a large scope of territory. He says he intends building up a "telephone reputation" over the name of Nathan Stubblefield, and this he will doubtless do, without calling in the aid of any Thos. Edison electricians.

YES MAN

By THOMAS J. KEENE
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, 1936

"I'm through, Dick!" Jane Grant's eyes blazed as she faced her fiancé in the library of her father's home. Her voice was no longer soft, there was a vibrating harshness, so much like her father's at times. Jane held it so. It was the only thing that kept her from bursting into tears. When you have loved as fine a boy as Dick Sheridan, have laughed and played with him and made plans for the future, it's no easy task to figuratively speaking, show him the door.

"You're joking, Jane."

"No, Dick. I'm not joking. I mean it. Do you remember the night we quarreled because you were afraid to stand up for your own opinions in a discussion with father and U. A. Russell?"

"Dick said he remembered, and Jane continued:

"Then you will remember I told you I could not stand that sort of thing, especially in the man I loved. Tonight you did the same thing again. You knew you were right, yet you let another man talk you into agreeing with him, merely because you consider him an important person."

"But darling," Tom protested, "I couldn't contradict Lyman Spencer. He is—"

"I know who he is, just as well as you do," Jane interrupted. "President of a railroad, a director of four or five banks, and probably one of the wealthiest men we know. But none of those things makes him infallible in an argument about football. 'Night after night you've let him and a lot of other men walk all over you when you were right and they were wrong. Cause they have a lot of money and prestige, you seem afraid to voice your own opinions if your ideas differ from theirs. You always end up by agreeing with them. That's why I'm through with you. Dick, I can't marry a yes man."

That was all. Jane turned and fled up the stairs before Dick could speak.

Although Dick Sheridan was not yet thirty, he held an excellent position with the G. B. Grant corporation, president, general manager, chairman of the board, and virtually the corporation. He held his job, not because he was a yes man, but because he possessed a keen intellect and an enormous capacity for hard work. He knew what was good for the business, and he fought for his points. He had argued, time and again, with every executive at the plant. That the executive except Grant himself.

Dick still felt the sting of Jane's contemptuous "Yes man" two weeks later. And her cool nods when she passed his desk on her way to Mr. Grant's office did not make for comfort. So he applied himself more diligently to his new project—one which he had suggested and which, under his plan, meant a radical departure from the established policy of the Grant corporation. The more he worked over his idea the more convinced he became as to its practicability. His arguments with the executives to whom Mr. Grant refused to lend ear on the subject became quite vitriolic. He was in the midst of one when Jane passed by, and this time she smiled even to nod in his direction.

To say this was adding coals of fire upon Dick's already overheated brain was putting it mildly. Jane had no sooner left the office than Dick demanded an interview with Mr. Grant. Ten minutes later he was in that person's office—and fifteen minutes later out on the street—dread!

When G. B. Grant reached home that evening he found Jane in the library.

"What happened?" she queried.

"Nothing," Dick replied.

Her father laughed. "He told me our corporation would not more if fewer old fossils stood between enterprising young men and the head of the concern. That no organization could forge ahead unless there was complete freedom of thought and speech."

Jane gasped.

"And," continued Mr. Grant blandly, "when I told him he was acting like a high school boy with his first chemistry test he nearly jumped down my throat."

"Did you fire him?"

"I sure did," G. B. replied. "He'll be back, though. I'm going to put him in charge of an experimental department to work out that idea of his. I think it's good."

"You darling," Jane kissed her father before running to the telephone. A moment later she was speaking into the transmitter.

"What are you doing tonight, Dick?"

"I haven't decided," Dick answered, making a bad attempt to conceal his delight at hearing Jane's voice. "But why should you care, anyway?"

"I don't, particularly," said Jane. "But I thought I'd like to get married tomorrow and—and" there was a soft quiver in her voice—"I thought you might need a little practice tonight on how to say 'yes.'"

COLE AVERS CARR BUILDING WILL BE UNDER ROOF SOON

Home Economics House May Be Completed Before January 1

PROGRESS MADE ON NEW HEALTH UNIT

Jack Cole, contractor for the health and home economics buildings which are being constructed on the campus of Murray State College, stated that he expects to have the health building all under roof by November 1. The roof is now being put on the home economics practice house and Mr. Cole predicted it would be completed possibly before January 1. The health building has been named the John Wesley Carr Health Building in honor of Dr. J. W. Carr, dean of the college, who has been connected with this institution since the first year of its existence. When completed the health building will contain classrooms for health education, gymnasium for men and women, and a swimming pool.

The home economics practice house is modern in every respect and is to be an air conditioned, brick colonial house. The first floor will contain the entrance hall with stairway, sun porch, living room, kitchen, dining room and dinette. On the second floor are 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, and a sleeping porch. The laundry room and recreation room are in the basement.

Letter to Editor

In Washington, Pa. some time ago Henry Ford and Mrs. Ford, who were honor guests at Washington and Jefferson College's annual revival of the quadrille (the dance of other days so admired by the motor manufacturer) Mr. Ford told the students who gathered about him at every pause:

"There is no field overworked with ability. There are greater things to be done than ever."

The millionaire manufacturer severely criticized the relief system, declaring that a dole was bad—thing and work relief better, both. "Encouraging laziness," he added:

"You have been relief workers standing around on the job doing nothing. Such work should be let to private contractors for the sake of efficiency. There's too much waste in the way it is done now. They will have to work hard for the loafing they are doing now. They will have to pay the bill sooner or later."

He also asserted that the New Deal has neither harmed nor helped business. I do not care who is elected President. It makes no difference. If business men would get to work and think they're ahead. They don't have to worry about who's President.

On the latter statement concerning the New Deal I do not agree with him for in the past four years if it had not been for the team work as some people would put it farmers working together under the New Deal. Where would the farmers be? They would be, according to my estimation, in a very close place as for financial success. It concerns the farmers in every way as to who is President for if the same one is elected things will be carried on as they are in a similar manner. If Presidents are changed it will be a serious situation.

To think about it Mr. Farmer you have had a very nice thing under Mr. Roosevelt's administration. He has been a gallant leader. You would ask what has he led? He has led the farmers as well as all other business men out near destruction. If Mr. London is elected we sincerely hope he will be and do as much in his administration as our present President has been and is.

To get the question settled you must first register before October 10 and vote on November 6 for your man.

I agree with Mr. Ford on the subject about relief. But in place of the ones who have been supporting the relief having a burden lifted from their hands they are greater burdens piling up on them.

These are taxes, which go mostly to support relief. I suppose you will say bragging on the President in one way and yet talking about relief but as I understand it, Mr. Roosevelt has nothing to do with relief as it is merely state relief.

I must run along before I take up too much space, but here is hoping no one will have their feelings hurt too badly for what I have said.

I will try to manage to get back in my usual pen by sending in news for and about the people in a few more weeks. Scatter Brains.

Beginning at the Southwest corner of Lot 38 as shown on the plat of "The Town of Murray, Kentucky," said plat being of record in Deed Book "H" page 496, Calloway County Court Clerk's Office; thence East following the South line of said lot eighty (80) feet to an iron post; thence North one hundred (100) feet to an iron post; thence West eighty (80) feet to the West line of said lot; thence South following said West line one hundred (100) feet to the point of beginning. Being the same property conveyed to Nat Ryan, Sr. and Lula Ryan, his wife, by deed dated August 6th, 1923, from Sam E. Bynum, Jr. and Viola Bynum, and of record in Deed Book 48, page 394, Calloway County Court Clerk's Office, and being the same property conveyed to National Hotel System, Inc. by deed of Nat Ryan, Sr. and Lula Ryan dated the 31st day of July, 1927, and recorded in Deed Book 53, page 343, Clerk's Office aforesaid.

And the hotel building and all other buildings and improvements situated thereon and all furnishings appertaining to the same.

Also all personal property now located upon or within the above described real estate and/or any improvements thereon, including all machinery, fixtures, furniture, fans, ventilators, screens, draperies, carpets, shades, pictures, paintings, linens, mattresses, bed springs, and each and every device, equipment, object or machine which is now used in the operation of said hotel and which is the property of any of the above named defendants.

The purchase price being payable one-fourth in six months, one-fourth in twelve months, one-fourth in eighteen months and one-fourth in twenty-four months from the date of sale, with interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of sale until paid, for which deferred payments the purchaser shall execute bond payable to the Commissioner with approved surety, and to further secure the payment of which a lien shall be retained on the property sold. Unless the purchaser shall execute said bonds immediately and before the crowd assembled to bid shall have dispersed, he shall deposit with the Commissioner a check in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) payable to the Commissioner, and duly certified by some good and solvent bank, in which event he shall then have reasonable time, to-wit, one week, in which to execute said bonds. Should the successful bidder fail or refuse to execute said bonds immediately or deposit said certified check, the Commissioner shall thereupon reject said bid and proceed forthwith to again offer said property for sale, and shall so continue until a successful bidder shall execute the bonds or make the necessary deposit.

The purchaser may pay cash, or he may, on any due date of any installment, pay all of said sale bonds then outstanding (including all bonds not then matured) by paying the principal with interest to the date payment is made; but he shall not be permitted to so pay any unmatured bonds unless he shall elect to pay all. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.—George S. Hart, Master Commissioner.

Quiet Ceremony Sunday

Afternoon, October 18

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coleman announce the marriage of their daughter, Frances McLean, and Robert Harold Johnson, Sunday, October 18, which was quietly and beautifully solemnized in their home.

Loren Putnam, accompanied by his father, Prof. L. R. Putnam, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me". The petite bride lovely in her wedding ensemble of fox trimmed henna wool, entered on the arm of the groom to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Mrs. E. J. Beale and stood before the candle lighted altar of massed palms and ferns accented by baskets of apricot gladioli. The Rev. A. V. Havens of the First Christian Church read the impressive double ring ceremony in the presence of the families and a few intimate friends.

The beautiful wedding cake was cut by the bride after the ceremony. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Vernon Hale, Mrs. Tom Rowlett, Mrs. Marvin Fulton, and Miss Eleanor Oving Galtin.

Mrs. Johnson attended Christian College of Columbia, Mo., the Chicago Musical College and received her A. B. music degree from Murray State College. She is one of Murray's most charming and beloved young women.

Mr. Johnson is a splendid young man of Chicago and since the war has been in the office of the Rock Island R. R.

They left immediately for Chicago where they will make their home.

Tom Morris Is Honor

Lady Took Cardui

When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

CONQUERED

By R. H. WILKINSON
© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

GUESTS at the Alpine House were lulled when Neal Leonard and his party arrived for the climbing season. Leonard was rated among the most accomplished climbers of the day, and every one knew that the veteran's heart was set on conquering Mount Glacier.

No living man had ever reached Glacier's lofty summit. It was one of the few remaining ascents that still held out an insuperable defense to the strength and endurance of man.

One after another of the world's greatest pinacles had succumbed to the skill and perseverance of the great Leonard. Lesser peaks, they were, but testing his skill and that of others to the utmost. And now Mount Glacier! Hundreds of others had failed. It had been said that no living man would ever reach its summit. And yet to accomplish that very end had become an obsession with Neal Leonard. It meant the crowning achievement of his career.

There were three in Leonard's party—Turner Cameron, who had scaled the most precipitous trail to the Matterhorn in record time; Oris Markham, whose name was a byword of achievement among mountain climbers of the Alps; and Leonard himself. Both Cameron and Markham were comparatively young. They were not as sober and concerned about the success of the attempt as was their leader. To them it was a glorious adventure; to Leonard the accomplishment of a burning ambition.

The trio set out early one morning in late spring, following a fare-well party sponsored by guests at the Alpine House as tribute to the three daring men. It took the party a week to reach Glacier's base; a week of climbing that would have taxed the skill of unladen men, let alone these three who were forced to struggle over lesser ridges, each bearing on his back a minimum of 40 pounds of food and equipment.

Leonard had chosen his companions with foresight. When the base camp was established, both Markham and Cameron were as eager to ascend as when they started. The discomfiture of the week's "preparatory" work had not discouraged them in the slightest.

Following a day's rest, the party awoke before daylight and prepared to make their first ascent—the south wall. At the first flash of dawn they set out. Roped together, with Leonard in the lead, they made quick time over the comparatively easy southern defense. Once atop the wall they rested, ate and began climbing again by two in the afternoon. High above them towered the cone-shaped summit.

Their present encumbrance was a knob known as the Camel's Hump. At first the slope was easy. The snow well packed for climbing purposes. But by late afternoon, with the hump's top still a good hour away, the trail became more treacherous. The slope shot upward at a dangerous angle.

Leonard kept in the lead, digging out footholds with his ax with studious care. He surmounted one ledge after another, gave his companions the advantage of a tight rope whenever possible, and finally, just as daylight began to fade, reached the top of the final ledge, and halted.

They made camp on the wind-blown summit of the Camel's Hump and went immediately to bed.

At dawn they were up and ready to begin again. Caching a quantity of their food supply, they began at once the ascent of the dangerous Pulpit Rock. The rock presented the first real difficulties of the climb. It was accomplished by hitching the body up through a series of chimney-narrow crevices with an almost perpendicular climb. Leonard, as usual in the lead, reached the last chimney's top at 7:30 in the afternoon. Below him crevices and ledges were assured from view by an angle of rock.

Alone, with a hundred miles an hour wind threatening at any moment to unseat him from his precarious perch, the veteran climber, heedless of one of the most edgy and overgrown one of the most hazardous of all ascents.

At the chimney's top a flat slab of rock, smooth as glass, sloped upward at a nearly perpendicular angle for a distance of 15 feet. A large, flat, smooth rock, not large enough for a man to rest on, it lay flat as a board. Leonard, however, knew it had to be done.

Inserting the point of his climbing ax in the crack and making it secure by twisting the handle outward, he hoisted up his body, clung to the sheer face of the slab for a breathless instant while he loosened the point and repeated the maneuver, and again pulled himself up. In this manner, miraculously, he reached the ledge above. When his two companions arrived at the chimney's top, they ascended the slab easily with the help of Leonard's right rope.

That night the party camped on a ledge scarcely wide enough for all three of them to lay down side by side. Directly beneath them was a drop of some thousands of feet. Above, the summit was scarcely 200 feet away, a good half mile of climbing. The temperature was far below freezing. The air had become light and was difficult to breathe. Every step during the past three or four hours of climbing had been torture, lung-racking. A rest was required every few feet.

Leonard's eyes began to burn with a strange light. No man had yet reached the height to which the three had ascended. The summit, realization of a lifetime of dreaming, was in their grasp.

As usual they were up before dawn, and at the faintest hint of daylight had begun the climb. Progress was small-like, every foot gained meant a tremendous struggle.

A slip now would mean destruction to all three, so precautions were foolhardy. By noon they had accomplished but a scant 300 feet. An hour later a heavy mist enshrouded them. Leonard knew the signs, and great as was his eagerness, he was not a fool. He led his companions back to the upper camp, and for two days they remained inside the shroud of a tent that was their camp, while a fierce storm raged without.

On the third day it cleared, and again they attempted to gain the summit. But again a storm overtook them and they were forced to retreat.

That night they held a conference. It was, they agreed, an impossibility for all three to gain the summit. Some one must be left behind. Another camp would have to be established further up, and it would be out of the question to transport enough food and equipment for three men. Cameron and Markham were younger. They realized that if the thing could be done, it would fall to them. And yet they hesitated, knowing the obsession that fairly haunted the mind of Neal Leonard.

Leonard was silent for a long time. But at last he looked into the eyes of his two youthful companions and nodded. The two youths carried a memory of that look for many a year afterward. Early the next morning Cameron and Markham started out. All day long Leonard waited in the camp below with his thoughts. It was impossible, they said, to gain the summit. An insurmountable overhanging ledge barred out and prevented progress from all angles.

Leonard listened to the pair and said nothing. The next morning he announced he was going to attempt the ascent alone. Markham and Cameron tried to dissuade him, but the old veteran was obstinate. He departed with his companion's pleas still ringing in his ears.

At night their companion had not returned, and Markham and Cameron fell into a doze. By noon of the next day they began to lose hope. By mid-afternoon they knew that no living thing would have been able to withstand the ravages of exposure for so long a period. They held on for another day, however, and then descended to the next camp. Here they waited three days more and then sorrowfully began fighting their way downward.

That was the last time Neal Leonard has ever been seen. The following spring two aviators announced their intention of flying over Glacier's summit, no small feat in itself. And in May of the same year the act was accomplished.

Among other things the aviators reported seeing something that looked like a torn piece of jacket plastered against a tiny mount on the summit. Markham and Cameron, both of whom heard the announcement, exchanged startled glances. Then, then, joyfully, they knew. Old Neal Leonard had realized his ambition. Mount Glacier had been conquered!

Road Builders in Italy
Find Triumph Arch Ruin

Many of the numerous triumphal arches have disappeared long ago. Among them was that of Diocletian. It was erected on the Via Flaminia, one of the main streets of the present-day city, writes a Rome United Press correspondent.

The arch of Diocletian was standing in the early Middle ages and some of its ruins survived until the Renaissance, when they were destroyed to make room for the Church of Santa Maria in Via Lata, which then was rebuilt. Some of the marble fragments belonging to the arch then were removed to the Villa Medici, now the French Academy, where they still are preserved.

In the course of road improvement work now undertaken on the site, at a depth five meters below the level of the modern street, further marble fragments of the arch were discovered. The recovery of remaining ones still needed before the foundations of modern buildings is being attempted.

The fragments so far unearthed consist of portions of the cornice, vaulting and bas-reliefs decorating the arch of Diocletian. The bas-reliefs represent the incomplete figure of a winged victory and historical scene with a male head crowned with a laurel wreath.

Enoch Arden of Skulpin Cove

By TRUMAN ORDORNE
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

FIRST week in April I was busy in the clubhouse kitchen heads. The big doors were open letting in the spring sunshine, the smell of the fish and the shrill chirp of the early ring-necked that were dignified for said worms in the mud.

As I worked away with the twine I came into my head all at once. I wonder who'll get the winner later on? Sid Bascom had been lost off on the Kettle a year before in a nor'west squall. His boat was picked up miles off shore, but the body was never found.

Judith Bascom mourned for a good husband, like the good woman who was. But she was a fisherman's daughter and had known many sea-razedies in the 40 years she had lived at Skulpin Cove. Judith Bascom was a handsome woman, sun-tanned face, good form in spite of the years. Brown eyes that twinkled, and like most of the daughters of fishermen, had a quick wit and a ready answer.

Sid Bascom had left his wife fairly well off—a small farm bordering a fair party business, on the beach, a fair party business, and some money. There had been no children and I often wondered if Judith didn't get lonesome. She was at the landin' one day buyin' fish as the boats came ashore, and I says, jokin': "Jude, you look tired."

"Yes," she comes back. "I am tired, Trueman, and lonesome. Can't you find me a man?"

"Plenty of 'em fussin' round, Jude," I says. "Can't you sort out one?" There's Deacon Goodwin and Skipper Sol Becker, both 'bout yore age and well fixed.

"A saint and a sinner," says Jude. "One thinks he is and the other knows he is," and she went on buyin' cod.

As I sat there workin' on the twine that day I heard somebody clumpin' up the path round the point with rubber boots on, hummin' a hymn tune: "On the other side of Jordan in the sweet fields of Eden," but when he sees the fish-house door open he slacks up his singin' and hushes to. "Good afternoon, Trueman. Hope you are feelin' well today."

"Tolerable, Deacon Goodwin. Hope you're the same. Come in and rest yourself. I see you been jumpin'." He had a two-time fork on his shoulder and a big lump of fish on each side.

In the spring the tide leaves the lumps in the little ponds among the ledges, and the natives get them with forks.

The Deacon sets down on a fawl tub, fidgets some, and says: "Trueman, what do you think of the wider Basscom?"

"No smarter woman round the Cove," I says, "and it don't hurt much to look at her. Are you thinkin' some in that quarter, Deacon?"

"I have given some thought and prayer to the matter and I need a companion and helper up to my house, but Judith is not a church-goin' woman," he says.

"Don't let that worry you any, Deacon. You never heard a word agin' Judith Bascom," I says, "and your church door is wide."

The Deacon shouldered his lump fish and went off up across to his house.

I am about ready to get and call it a day when I hear another songster comin' down the Cove road:

"I'll be d' de, Skipper the de! How I love to sing to thee. I sing with joy and I sing with glee. For I'm just as young as I used to be."

Skipper Sol Becker shoots up in front of the door and comes in. Good nature sticks out all over Skipper Sol, and a mighty good-lookin', big, wholesome man he is. He had been to town and was feelin' some chipper. "Hello there, Trueman," hails Skipper Sol. "Got anything in the cupboard?"

"Always a drop for you, Cap'n Sol," I says. "Set down while I get it."

"Trueman," says the skipper, "I got 'bout three beer an' old beer an' I'm thinkin' 'bout askin' Jude Bascom to spile up with me. We've always been good friends. Do you think she'll have me?"

"You old fool!" I says, "do you think you can get a wife, 'bout 'bout some courtin'?" Go see Jude and take her round some. You've got a good nose and buggy. Another thing, Deacon Goodwin is settin' his cap in that quarter."

"Deacon Goodwin courtin' Jude Bascom?" barks the skipper. "If I catches that old Bible-back skinflint cruisin' round here I'll carry away his tin."

"Soon after that the Cove gossip were busy. Deacon Goodwin was callin' on Jude Bascom Wednesday nights, and she was goin' ridin' with Cap'n Sol Becker Sunday afternoons. Of course the Deacon finds it out and he reproves Jude for consortin' with such a ungodly person as Sol Becker."

"Mrs. Bascom," says the Deacon, "you well know my reason for settin' on you of late. I need a wife to care for my house, and if you should see fit to unite your lot with mine I shouldn't want it said that you had been too friendly with such a person as Solomon Becker, a man given to profanity and to strong drink at times."

The Deacon reaches for Jude's warm hand and holds it. (She said this was cold as a fish.) "Judith, I shall call for your answer next Wednesday evening, and in the meantime I shall pray that you see the light." He lets go of her hand and goes home. Judith goes to bed and thinks it over. Deacon Goodwin is a good manager, stands way up in the church, and then she laughs right out to herself. "Oh, Lord, what a lover!"

Sunday afternoon is sunny and warm. Cap'n Sol drives up to her door, his rig all shined up, and Jude comes out and gets in. They take a long ride and coming home in the dusk Skipper Sol does some huggin' and Jude snuggles up some. Skipper Sol winds the reins around the whip and lets Bay Jess walk. Some more, she thinks from the way Deacon Goodwin sparks a woman. Skipper Sol tightens the hitch he's got round Jude Bascom's waist. "Jude," he says, "I'm tired of living an old back up there in my house. Mother was a good housekeeper but she is gettin' old. I've got enough to take care of you without touchin' your property and I'll help run your place. Let's you and I get spliced. I know you are lonesome well as I be. What do you say?" and he reached over and kissed her.

Jude Bascom liked Sol Becker and the Deacon was out of it from that minute. She couldn't bear to think of him. Then a scheme of half spite and half mischief comes into her head. "Sol," she says, "come to my house Wednesday evening at eight o'clock and I'll give you an answer."

Now for Sid Bascom—that nor'west squall that blew off the land the day he was lost lasted three days and then, as fishermen say, turned the corner and blew some more. Sid kept his boat fore and aft and long as he could. Weak from hunger and thirst he gave it up. The next he knew he was in a dirty bunk with a Portuguese sailor standing over him with a cut-throat razor. His head ached bad. He looks around that fo'castle with its row of bunks and asked the Portuguese what ship he was on and where they were.

"Dis whale barque de Ellen Briggs. She picks you up off a wreck. Looks like you lost your mind. You're dead," the Portuguese tells him.

Sid tries to get out of the bunk but is too weak and tells the sailor to tell the Cap'n he wants to see him. Cap'n Studly, a short, stout, red-faced man, comes to the fore-cabin and asks Sid what he wants. "I want to be set ashore at the nearest port," says Sid. "My wife must think I am lost. How long have I been aboard your ship?"

"Most two weeks," says the Cap'n, "and all that time you've been out of your head. You can thank Mandy here that you are alive. I can't set you ashore. We are bound on a two years' whalin' cruise to the Southern Grounds. You'll have to stay aboard."

Whaling hands were hard to get at that time and Sid, a cunning captain, kept out of port of call, account of men deserting, only when obliged to put in for fresh water and supplies. Sid Bascom gradually gained strength and one day meeting Cap'n Studly on deck, he demanded to be landed at the nearest harbor; his right as a citizen of the United States. The captain swore at him, turned him over to the first mate and gave orders to put the man in one of the watches.

The Briggs kept away from harbors where there were cable offices. It was months before he got a letter ashore to a small island where passing ships called a few times a year. At the first possible chance he jumped ship at a South American port. All he had in the world was the greasy clothes he had on. No need telling how, in time, he worked his passage to Boston and there was men enough to get home to Skulpin Cove.

That Wednesday night that Judith Bascom set came Deacon Goodwin 10 minutes early. Sharp at eight came Cap'n Sol Becker. When he entered the little parlor and saw the Deacon settin' there, his grin changed to an ugly scowl. "What in h—y you doin' here, you old dog robber?"

"I don't mind your ungodly shure, Cap'n Becker. I have a right to call on my neighbors. Mrs. Bascom asked me to come. We have private matters to discuss."

"I'll give you one minute to get out of this house," says Skipper Sol, and he takes out his watch. "If you ain't gone I'll leave you out body, guts and stomach."

Just that minute Jude Bascom, who had been out of the room, turns from the hallway to go into the parlor. She was going to tell the Deacon he was out, it was Cap'n Becker's turn. Just that minute the door flew open and in rushed a rough-looking, unshaven man. Judith Bascom gives one look. Under that dirt and growth of whiskers she recognizes her lost husband. She gives one scream, and as Skipper Sol told me afterwards, in one holy second they were lashed together in a rollin' fight.

The Deacon and Skipper Sol went out of the front door so close together that they jammed. When they got clear the Skipper helped the Deacon on his way with a hearty kick.

Miller Books Austin-Peay For Strong Frosh Squad

Middle Tennessees Also Listed for Clash

With probably the best freshman squad ever to report for trials, Coach John Miller has arranged an "attractive" schedule for his charges, who will open their season against the strong Austin Peay Normal team in Nashville, Tenn., October 24. November 7 will find the Calts opposing Middle Tennessee here for a contest, and 3-4 weeks later, the one year-olds will get their first baptism of fire against Murray's rival, Western, when they play in Bowling Green, November 14.

The team has been looking promising in practice, as the 36 candidates have been running, jumping, playing against the variety, Markham, Centry, has been showing a lot of promise. Wilson, Mayfield, boy, has also been giving all corners competition for the pivot post. As for the backs, there is more talk of a championship team in the future. If the boys continue to show the stuff that they have shown in practice, Spalding and Van Housen have looked plenty nice at punting, having consistently booted the ball for 55 and 65 yards on the fly.

Three candidates, Heinzelman, Saunders and Faughn, seem ready to make it a tri-cornered race for the quarterback post. Saunders, whose deceptive running is mixed with a smart change of pace seems to have the inside track; however, Hooper and Faughn are staking a battle royal. Allbritten and Ward seem to be able to take care of the blocking post. Ward is also an adept passer. Gene Ryan, Murray High product, and "Red" Glauz can drive for the No. 4 post in the backfield. The ends, led by Lawson, West Virginia star, and Smith, New Jersey luminary, are progressing in fine style. They still lack the finished blocking that comes with practice, but that will come in time. Coughlin, Decatur end, probably has shown more promise as a pass snagger than any of the other ends. The line is a problem, since Coach John Miller must choose his line from about a dozen huskies, all of about the same caliber. Lacey Downey, Freddie Sorg, Pete Gudauskas, and Herman Morris seem to have a pretty fair chance to wind up in the line, although Lumsford, 240 tackle from Danville, will have to see some action on the basis of his hard work and form in practice performances.

DUCK FOR DINNER

By DORIS BAID
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

"MOM!" The young voice was sure and clear. "I've got everything done. Cut the grass, hose the front porch, put a new washer on the hot water faucet 'n' washed the pup. Can I have my allowance?"

Alice smiled at her eager, big fourteen-year-old son.

"Of course," she said quickly. "Here it is." She reached into a drawer of the desk at which she sat, pulled forth her hand bag, opened it and took out fifty cents.

"Thanks a lot, Mom." He pocketed the money with a grin. "Now may I go to the movies?"

"Now?" Alice's question sounded flat the moment she had put it.

"Well—does that seem foolish?" the boy asked seriously.

"No," Alice answered, slowly. "No, it doesn't seem foolish. It seems natural that you should go to the movies at this time. You've done so much, it must be late. Have a good time. Alice thanks a lot."

The boy smiled as he turned away. "Well, thank you a lot, too. He hesitated a moment in the doorway, looking at his mother, then went on. And Alice could hear him whistling to the dog as he went running through the garden to the shortest to town.

For a moment Alice thought she was going to cry. But instead she smiled. She had forgotten her promise to Bobby that he might have his allowance today. She turned the contents of the money section of her purse out on the table—fifty-four cents. It was big Bob's birthday. There was a sale on duckling at the butcher's today. And Alice had been planning on one for big Bob's celebration. Well, it would have to be beef balls or meat loaf. She couldn't have gone back on Bobby. Meat loaf—not beef balls. Big Bob got paid today, but Alice, of course, couldn't have that money to spend till tomorrow. Oh, well, both her Bobs, big and little—though the smaller Bob was already larger than she—liked her meat loaf.

A rap at the door interrupted her rather futile mental wanderings. Alice found a woman standing outside the screen with a box under her arm.

"How do, Mrs. Danforth," she said. "I s'pose you remember me, don't you? Sue Schwartz? You know, I used to do day's work ten, twelve years ago, before I married Mike Sullivan. We've been having an awful hard time. Six children—and Mike out of work most of the time."

"So now I'm going to see what I can do to earn a penny. I've got some real nice aprons here—fifty cents. Well, I'm glad you came. Come around again in a couple of weeks and I'll get another. Good luck."

And it wasn't till Alice had turned her back on the retreating form of the apron vendor that she remembered her state of finances, and that her purse now held exactly four cents. All right. They would have bacon and eggs—the only thing in the house—delicious treat for a birthday dinner. But Alice looked at the apron in her hands, and was glad she had bought it.

Then the telephone. It was Bob. And he was bringing the head of his department home for dinner. "I knew you wouldn't care. And this wife's away for the summer—glad mine isn't. And I knew you always have a hang-up dinner on birthdays, so it wouldn't put you to much extra work. Your dinners are good enough, anyway—even if it's meat loaf—or bacon and eggs, you cook them so well. But tonight—"

The back door slammed as Alice put the telephone receiver back in place. "Why, Bobby," she said, as she saw her son through the kitchen door. "What happened? You just about had time to go to town—"

"Mom, don't laugh at me. You see, I had fifty cents more in my pocket—saved up. I didn't mention it. I was going to buy meat loaf. I was going to buy meat loaf. But going down the road I met a man walking along—Mike Sullivan. Used to be school janitor, but he got laid off 'cause he drank, and he says he's been out of work forever—and he's got a wife and six children. Guess she's sort of lazy, maybe. Well, he had a basket on his arm, and he had a duck in it. See, I bought it! Is it all right? What you going to have for dinner? Could we have that? It cost just a dollar."

Alice gave her son a strangling hug.

"Bobby," she said, "you're as bad as I am—but you've saved the day. Here, tie that apron around me, and come help me get this duck stuffed and in the oven. And tomorrow I'll give you four—allowance—per cent interest. And I'll take you to the movies myself!"

"Hot chat!" said Bobby.

Campaign Against the Hated Farm Thief

The Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal, 71 year old farm publication, has launched a state-wide drive against farm thievery throughout the State. This war against thieves has been waged in 13 countries, and it is the hope of this paper, to extend the campaign to cover every county in the State by the first of next year. Thousands of Kentucky farmers have joined in the efforts of Mr. Spencer to stamp out farm thievery every week.

This campaign is the first of its kind in Kentucky. Statistics reveal that farm thievery has been growing within the last few years. The annual loss through the theft of farm property runs into billions of dollars and organized farm thievery has become a serious menace to the countryside. Mr. Spencer was born and reared on a Kentucky farm, and realizes what it means to a farmer to cultivate a crop of tobacco and have it stolen and to raise chickens and have them taken from their roosts by the dozens; and to have fattened hogs and cattle driven from their pastures and butchered by the unscrupulous thief who preys upon the farmer. That is why the Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal is dedicating itself to this cause—because it realizes the need of drastic and immediate measures against the farm thief, and because it wishes to see the farmers' property protected.

Because farm thievery is so widespread in Kentucky, the Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal is offering a $25 reward for the arrest and conviction of thieves stealing from the premises of all farmers who join this great campaign. A metal thief warning sign to display on his front gate is furnished to each member. Money for payment of rewards is in the bank.

Mr. Spencer personally delivered three reward checks on September 3. Two rewards were paid in Breckinridge county, and the other in Butler. These rewards were paid for the apprehension of chickens thieves who stole from members of this campaign. Several more thieves are in jail awaiting trial.

The Stop The Farm Thief Campaign, sponsored by Mr. Vaughan Spencer, editor and publisher of the Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal is adding about 500 members a week. This great drive is one of the most worthwhile campaigns ever sponsored to improve farm living conditions in Kentucky and it is the duty of every Kentucky farmer to rally behind the Farmers' Home Journal in this fight against the farm thief.

Coldwater Junior Hi School News

By Robert Carlton
About two weeks ago, Coldwater Junior High School put all the available mirrors into use then we posed with our faces wreathed in smiles as the camera clicked. Last week we received our pictures and we are well pleased with them.

Basketball practice started Monday, October 12, and from all indications we are going to have a top notch basketball team. The boys seem to be in fine condition and are eager to get going.

Our fiddlers' contest Saturday night went off in fine style. The contestants were in earnest and there was real competition. We greatly appreciate the kindness and cooperation of the business firms that so generously donated prizes for our contest. We will use the proceeds to purchase a library.

REVENGE SWEET
TO TIGER ELEVENDefeat Bowling Green 6-0 Here
Friday Night. Allbritton's
Run Is Stand-out

After threshing vainly about for two and half quarters with neither side getting much of an advantage, B. C. Allbritton turned in the difference in the Tigers' game with Bowling Green last Friday night and returned a punt 50 yards to the 3-yard line to make possible the only score of the game.

The Purples, who had beaten Holland's boys 33-0 at Bowling Green last year, the home team's worst licking in 5 years, had a stubborn defensive eleven, led by Mahoney and Bessinger, and they worried the Bengals some with their frequent passes but they found the Murray line tough as whit-leather and couldn't capitalize three good scoring opportunities.

The visitors got themselves in dutch in the middle of the third quarter when they made two bad fumbles. They recovered both but lost about twenty yards in so doing and when they took the field to mid-field, little B. C. took the leather and sailed down the left side of the field to the 3 before he was trapped. On the second play George Humphreys smashed over right guard for the only score. Little Phil Cutchin's attempted placement was low.

The Tigers got in their hottest water shortly afterward. A short Bowling Green punt struck Cutch-

Currier Pays $458.00
for 9,000 Lbs. Cotton

W. B. Patterson and a group of neighbors received $458.22 for a load of cotton at the Murray Gin Co. last week. The cotton was hauled in one load on Mr. Patterson's truck and was grown by him and a few surrounding him on their Tennessee Bottom land. The price was 5c and Mr. Currier said it was top grade.

Close to 600 bales of Calloway county cotton are expected to be harvested this year. Last year the crop fell under 300 bales due to the heavy frost on October 6.

in the back as he was on his way up the field to protect the receiver and it was recovered by the visitors' 16-yard line. They smashed through to the 6 as the quarter ended. First down on Murray's six did them no good as the Tigers' valiant line rose to the heights and thrust back the last Bowling Green bid on the 1-yard mark. A shower of passes late in the game and even the loss of Lynn Lassiter, who was rabbit punched and suffering from an injured side, 4 minutes before the final whistle, availed the Purples exactly nothing at all.

Van Huie played a valuable if unspectacular game at guard. Lassiter and Milburn Province were towers of strength. McNutt, still not up to full strength from his summer illness was a wheelhorse in the backfield as usual. Humphreys turned in a good defense as well as aiding nobly in the ball-toting duties.

Next Friday the Tigers go to Marion and will not play at home again until November 13 when they meet the strong Princeton Tigers here. After Marion, they go to Fulton and Morganfield on successive week-ends.

J. D. Hamilton, Jr.
Wins Tennis Tourney

The following clipping from the Carlsbad, New Mexico, paper, will be of interest here to the many friends of John Hamilton and family. Mr. Hamilton and son, J. D. Hamilton, were spending the winter in Carlsbad while Mr. Hamilton travels in Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas for the J. D. Rowlett Co.

"J. D. Hamilton won the Carlsbad high school tennis championship. He defeated Morris Porter 3-6, 8-6, 8-2, in the final match of the high school tennis tournament.

"Hamilton won the championship by virtue of steady nerves and stamina, coming from behind in the second set with well-timed placement shots and smashing volleys to wear down the more spectacular Porter and take an easy victory in the third set.

"It was the most exciting match of the tournament, evenly matched and the outcome was in doubt until the last game.

"Hamilton will receive the 12 1/2 inch tennis trophy as reward for his winning the championship."

Vicibus Provision in a Good Law

No small factor in the repeal of Prohibition was the extremely to which drys often went in their zealous efforts to prevent anyone taking the slightest nip of the forbidden fluid. Now, it is discovered, the Local Option Law enacted by the Kentucky General Assembly at its 1908 session has an extreme provision which makes it as extreme as the famous Michigan "life-for-a-pint" law which makes a person caught with even a pint of liquor liable to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

The Ledger & Times does not approve of the liquor traffic which is universally to be condemned as such. It backs up its stand by refusing to carry advertising copy of "hard" liquors. But it is against extreme and ridiculous penalties in prohibition laws of any kind which lay the way wide open for racketeering and viciousness of the very lowest and meanest type.

We approve of the principle of Local Option for it is Democratic for each community or county to determine for itself whether or not it will have liquor. But it does strongly condemn the provisions of the 1936 Kentucky Local Option law which makes possession of liquor in dry territory regarded as prima facie evidence of guilt.

The law is even more stringent than the famed Volstead act, whose extremists made many sane-thinking people disgusted with prohibition and did much to bring about its national repeal.

Here's the catch in the law: All of the lands, stock and holdings of a person found guilty of violating the local option law may be confiscated by the state and the proceeds of its sale turned over to the jury fund. And now, IF THE CONVICTION IS THE RESULT OF INFORMATION FURNISHED TO THE AUTHORITIES BY A NEIGHBOR OR OTHER CITIZEN, THE INFORMER GETS 10 PER CENT OF THE PROCEEDS AS REWARD.

The result is easily apparent. The law is calculated to encourage "rackets" of a most vicious character. It would be quite possible for unscrupulous persons or "racketeers" to "plant" a small quantity of liquor in the business house, store, automobile or home of an innocent person in a local option county, and then furnish information to the authorities which would result in arrest and conviction, subjecting the victim's property to forfeiture and sale. And a public official, even when aware of the vicious trick being played, is subject to indictment for malfeasance if he fails to act on the information from such an informer. One reason we have so much trouble with liquor regulations is that both sides often have workers who act so unreasonably. Prohibition came about because of the selfishness and greed of the organized liquor interest. It was repealed because of the extremism of the drys, some of whom demanded crucifixion for a poor devil with a half pint or a poverty-stricken individual trying to eke out an existence with a small still. Reason and education only will bring temperance—a not ridiculous and extreme "life for a pint" and property confiscation laws.

JUST JOTS
By Joe

Mr. Landon says the farmer and workman will have to pay the bill for the New Deal. Looks like the farmer's going to be in a lot better shape to do it. Your years ago, baby beets that are now selling for $2.50 to $3 were bringing $4.50 to $6; top calves worth $10.45 today were $3.75 in October, 1932; steers and heifers are $4.50 to $7.50 today against $3 to $4.75 in the drying days of Mr. Hoover's regime; sheep and lambs are now worth $3.75 to $5.25 now and little above $2 when Mr. Roosevelt was running for election; hogs and packers will now bring you almost $10 but you couldn't get but $3.50 to $3.75 for them four years ago; sows are worth $3.50 today and they went at $2.75 when Mr. Hoover, 1922, rolled around. Any other answer to Mr. Landon's charge would be superfluous.

And remember what you offered to take for your bank deposit four years ago today! Try to buy one now for less than 100 cents on the dollar.

That golf champion who is tired of being an honored guest might try buying a newspaper.

Governor Landon recently criticized the relief program but Kansas didn't have to be begged to take $440,000,000 of it.

This writer and some other sports writers are being antagonized on the Murray College campus because they keep picking the thoroughbreds to lose. We don't care for them cussing us as long as the Racehorses keep stirred up enough to win.

Dirty football! Lynn Lassiter, the Murray Tigers' sterling center and incidentally this lad shouldn't be overlooked by any means when the all-state high school team is selected, was so brutally and consistently rabbit-punched in the Bowling Green game here last Friday night that he had to leave the contest before it was over. The dirty culprit was pretty sneaking about it. He didn't work on Lynn while the umpire was up close watching line plays but did his work when the official had considerably behind the scrimmage line. The lad was playing a brilliant game despite a badly injured side and it was a shame that he had to take the punishment he had. Courageous boy that he is, he made no complaint but just toughed it out.

At the campaign nears a close we can now see why Governor Landon prepared for the result on November 3 by tossing snow balls in Colorado. Nothing like getting accustomed to the cold!

Not a national bank has failed in 1936. Who wants to go back to 1932?

The DuPonts have contributed $282,000.00 to the G. O. P. campaign and there were some genuine political explosives in that.

Democrats are leading by 150,000 in state registration figures but that isn't worth a copper cent unless they go to the polls on November 3.

"TIS A FIGHT TO A FINISH," SAYS GALEN

Quoting our old palsy wally and iron bending master, the "Modern Galath of here-a-bouts" the Ledger & Times must be able and let him speak. In fact we are willing to let him holler—yes even yell! Any time a fellow comes into the Ledger & Times' offices and says "He's good for a retraction," this paper is taking the matter into consideration—but when a young Samson (and we ain't saying he isn't) comes into ya editor's work shop and asks "What is it all about?" we're going to try to accommodate the gentleman. However, the fact is, that Galen Hobson Gough is one of our best customers and we're taking no chances. Therefore to keep Galen's expostulations in his vocal cords and without display of muscular exertion, we copy Galen's letter as follows:

Mr. Joe T. Lovett
Editor Ledger & Times
Murray, Ky.

Dear Joe:—My pal! And 'tis you who tried to break up my happy home! I'm surprised that you didn't say I'd found the K-E-Y to my happiness, cause the lady's name is Key, or again that I found the little lamb of a wealthy farmer's herd, or something like that . . . besides what's this business of me going hungry if the depression causes the wolf to come pounding at my door? Isn't it enough that a fellow has to go without his cake in order to supply the beans for two? In all fairness, Joe, have a heart! Honestly, I've tried to do by best and show my appreciation for the kindness of everyone in Calloway, haven't I shown the true spirit of relieving the distress of the people by making it one less out of the county, so there won't be so many to feed? Anyway, as long as it is good clean fun and you are slinging some hash, hand out some a guy can eat! Regardless it's still willing to meet you half way and knowing you from the old days when we were kids, I know you would meet me half way, even tho' you used to chase me home from your house, cause I tore up your trains . . . didn't you give me the old train? And didn't I use to tear them up so I would get them? You've got a mighty nice newspaper Joe and I always did have a hankering that I'd like to retire from the Herculean task of wrapping iron around my neck, or any one else's, but still maybe it wouldn't be a bad idea to start all over again. I'll bet I would make a good newspaper man at that! Or do I get another offer? Anyhow, thanks for the buggy ride . . . I'll be seeing you.

Yours for health and happiness,
Galen Gough

Across the River

Haven't received last week's Ledger & Times yet but must send this letter in on Monday if it gets in print this week.

Linus Spiceland's Fiddlers' Contest was quite a success, thanks to the many musicians from both Stewart and Calloway counties and the great crowd which attended.

Raymond B. Kirks spent the week end at home.

Lloyd Spiceland underwent a nose operation at the Clinic Friday.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of Miss Housden of Concord also sorry that "Uncle Pete" Brandon lost the sight of one eye after a falling off an axe went into it.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thomas and daughters Bernice and Martha and Leonard Cathey spent last week end with relatives and friends in Murray and Mayfield.

Another great crowd met at the home of Mr. Evans McCuiston again Sunday, this time to celebrate the 51st birthday of Mrs. Cora Lee McCuiston. Of course there were dear faces missing, but the many who did attend proved how highly they regarded Mr. McCuiston's family. A beautiful dinner was spread beneath the oaks on the lawn, after which the McCuiston and Bonner boys furnished lively music with their violins and guitars. Then a crowd gathered around the organ and joined in singing.

Among those present during the day were: Bro. Ed Outland and wife, Uncle George Daniel, Mrs. Oak Grogan, Mrs. Mary Mohundro, Mrs. Exile Blalock, and James, Mrs. Lois Patterson and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Vence Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Grogan, and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Garner, and Mildred, Mr. and Mrs. Will Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Smith and Faye, Mr. and Mrs. Will Witty, Hubert, Plomer and Hubert's baby, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fowell and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Christian and child, Miss Julia McCuiston, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCord and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Grubbs and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Burman Parper and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Josh Ellison, Annie B. and Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Will Lovins and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. McNutt, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lovins, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Alton and Ruthie, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Thurman and five children, Mrs. Selma McCuiston, Luther, Robbie and Hilda, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch Coleman and Audrey, Mr. and Mrs. Chris McCuiston, Ruthie and Emma, Mr. and Mrs. Von Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. Clayburn McCuiston, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Lovins and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Young, Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lovins, Mr. and Mrs. Toy McCuiston.

Dick Walter and Johnnie Walker, Math Wrye and child, Mrs. Lois Thurman and children, Cleatus Laycox, Lee Lovins, R. D. McCuiston, Walter Hamlin, Clint Dick, Mrs. and Mrs. A. P. Laycox, Mrs. Melie Smotherman, and Marjorie, Miss Pearl Boyd, Misses Opal and Lorene McClure, Miss Estelle Elkins, Misses Bobbie and Voline McCuiston, Miss Ruth Garland, Mrs. Clifton Roberts and son, Will Pittman, Bruce and John Pat Lovins, Jim Bell, Gray Roberts, Buel Hargis, O. B. Cook, Hoyt Phillips, Orval Boyd, John H. Outland, Wade Roberts, Mutt Phillips, Earl Byerly, Cody Bray, Jim Key, Rainey and Oury Lovins, Elmo, J. T. George and Max Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. Wisheart, Prentice McCuiston, Ralph Bauman, L. D. Flora and perhaps others besides the Chatterbox.

All reported a very pleasant day and departed hoping that all might meet at Mrs. McCuiston's again on a similar occasion sometime.

Dr. Scott woman doctor, from State Board of Health, spoke to the teachers, some of the mothers and high school girls last Thursday. Mrs. Doherty, our home economist teacher, is unable to be with us due to illness. We are very grateful to the county board for our 23 new chairs. This will eliminate carrying chairs from room to room after class.

Our free program Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. Another program of this type will be given in the near future. Don't forget the Freshman play that will be given Saturday night, October 24. This is comedy-drama in three acts. The cast follows: Samuel Crawford, grandpa, James Dan Caldwell, Robert Past, the visitor, Harold Hart, Walter, Conrad, Ruth's brother, Newton Howard, Dr. Jimmie Reed, with ambition, Hilson Myers, Salamander Alexander John Henry Jones, Zuzu choice, Junior Boyd, Mrs. Davis, grandpa, Edith, Mrs. Ruth, Conrad, nicknamed "Bobbie", Jessie Dee Tressie, Flo Gray, Ruth's cousin, Josephine Crawford, Little, a neighbor, Margaret Key, Zuzu the cook, Carolyn Rogers. The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of Ruth Conrad's home in an Eastern village. Ruth is engaged to Dr. Reed, but delays the wedding because she fears it will leave Grandpa alone. But Grandpa and Grandma find romance even in the autumn years of life. Two strangers appear on the scene, one is Ruth's city cousin, the other is Robert Past, who knows Grandpa and knows that Grandpa has ruined his mother and father's early life he means to take his revenge. Grandpa begs to be given his freedom just a few weeks longer for Ruth's sake. The deed and the city cousin fall in love. Post tries to stifle his love for Ruth, because he hates her grandfather, but the old couple show them that love is stronger than hate. The lively, tom-boy neighbor, the negro cook and husband furnish plenty of fun.

S. Pleasant Grove

Prayer meeting next Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Cooper's and the last Saturday evening in October. These services will be with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Guthrie. The services will begin at 7 p. m.

Last Sunday afternoon several of members of the Pleasant Grove Missionary Society, our pastor, the Rev. K. G. Dunn, and Mrs. Dunn, and others visited the County Farm and held services. Bro. Dunn took for his text John 14:13, from which he made an appropriate talk. The songs were also inspiring. Special services were conducted for the two who were bedfast. The sister, bedfast, shouted praises to the Lord as they stood around her bed singing and eyes of the visitors were moist with tears. Not knowing the society was to visit, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Burbeck, keepers of the home were away, but their parents, who assist in caring for the institution received us very cordially.

Mr. and Mrs. Hafford Cooper are the parents of a son, born Saturday, October 17.

Misses Viola and Ethel May Paschall visited with their sister, Mrs. Hoyt Craig, and family last Saturday night and heard the Abbey quartet at Mr. Paschall's church.

Mrs. Ivan Guthrie will entertain the Pleasant Grove Missionary Society in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Boyd and son, Hazel Lee, visited the former's father and family last Sunday near Beech Grove.

Mrs. Nellie Pique, Fulton, and Mrs. Dick Rose and son of Detroit, were recent visitors with their brothers, Lucian and Prince Hart, and families.

Miss Theo Gunter, after a two week's visit with her aunt, Miss Judy Gunter and Mrs. Tom Erwin and other relatives, returned to her home in Paducah Saturday night.

"Grandmothers" Willacorn of Tennessee is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. Bert Deering and family. Miss Paschall and Galen Stone and little sons of Henry county are also guests with relatives in this home.

Sunday School teachers and superintendents have great opportunities of presenting avails of the liquor problems as all the lessons of October are related to temperance. One of the teachers (a college girl) of the Pleasant Grove Sunday School, has drawn a map of the 120 counties in Kentucky and on the 15 counties recently voted dry she placed a gold star and on the two counties where old Satan won the victory for the wets she placed black lines. What will be the record of our sister counties, McCracken and Marshall, in December. "Ye are your brother's keeper."

Approximately 300 Bullitt county farmers are asking that electricity be made available to them for farm and home use.

When You Use Our Unequaled West Kentucky and East Tennessee Coals

COAL HEAT COSTS LESS!

We Have a Coal for Every Heating Plant!

Cut down on winter fuel costs by using coal exclusively for your heating. A binful now will save you money while prices are still low. Later, winter costs of fuel will be much higher, so save by buying early!

For safety, comfort and economy buy the best coals free from slag, dust and foreign substances which burn out grates, stops up flues and heating systems and endanger your home.

We handle only the best grades of West Kentucky and East Tennessee Coals . . . high in fuel value. Every lump burns, leaving only a small amount of ashes. It gives an even burning fire, high in heat units.

If you have been a user of just "any coal," try one load of our best coals and you will see they are more satisfactory and more economical.

CHEAPER COAL
Yes, sir, we have it if you want it. As cheap as anyone.

Then try pure, natural ice refrigeration in a Modern Ice Refrigerator, which affords circulation of fresh air. It's far cheaper and much better. All we ask is a chance to PROVE IT!

Almo High School

We enjoyed visiting Faxon, Friday, during their fair. Several stayed Friday evening for the play although they had seen it here about three years before.

Our basketball team will begin practice soon. They are hoping to excel what they did last year. Every boy is eager to begin. Our first game will be with Hazel here on November 6.

Our football team won its game with Faxon there Friday by a score of 2-1. This game looked like a world series baseball game from beginning to end as both teams played a splendid game. This was the second defeat the Almo boys have given the Faxon Cardinals this year; the first was by a score of 9-3 two weeks ago, during our fair.

The entire high school was divided into two groups last week. The name chosen for the one was Ace society. The other club hasn't selected a name as yet. Officers for the Ace society were, president, Kathleen Brown; vice-president, James Roberts; secretary-treasurer, Frances Suiter; reporters, Phelony Bedwell and Jerome Lassiter; program committee, Margaret Roberts, Vernon Curd, and Halline Lassiter; cheer leaders, Helen Hargis, Olene Caldwell and Halline Lassiter; colors are blue and gold; sponsors, Mr. Billington and Mr. Story.

A softball tournament is being run-off. Both sides have an excellent team. After the boys' tournament a girls' tournament will be played. The losing society will give the other one some kind of entertainment.

The other society hasn't been named but our officers are president, Junior Beale; vice-president, Stephenson; secretary - treasurer, Clarence Grogan; sponsors, John Wells, Hazel Jones, reporter, Charles Johnson; program committee, Pearlene Rowland, Trucille Reeves, Inez Cleaver.

F. F. A. Forecast
The F. F. A. boys of agriculture III and IV have been making excellent progress on the beautification of our school campus. Trees are being planted. We are also making bulletin files. The tables of the agriculture room are also being varnished. With our new window shades and improved library our room looks quite different.

There will be a Pie Supper at

Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in a scene from their latest picture "SWING TIME." It will be shown at the Capitol Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Almo Saturday night, October 24. Every one is cordially invited to be present.

Sinking Spring News

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tibbs and little daughter, Marie of Paducah, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lon Arnett and family Sunday, October 11. Miss Annie Nell Clark accompanied them.

The Rev. and Mrs. Charlie Arnett of Lynn Grove, Mrs. Mary Kirkland and children, Evelyn Lou and Frances Imogene of Coldwater, and Miss Jennie Arnett of Mayfield visited Mr. and Mrs. Lon Arnett October 13, it being their grandmother's (Mrs. Arnett) birthday.

The special B. Y. P. U. program at Sinking Spring was greatly enjoyed by all present and many good things were well discussed. The program was given by the young people of the Murray Baptist Church. It shows what the people of this community could do if all efforts are put forth. The program was as follows:

Subject—"Saving Faith".
Scripture Reading, John 3:14-21.
"Faith and Grace", Miss Della Frances Bell.

"Faith and the Will of Man", J. C. Hatcher.
"Faith and Repentance", Miss Wilma Lemons.

"Faith and Reconciliation", Miss Mary Nell Rayburn.
"Faith and Adoption", William Denning.

"Faith and Life", Alton Thacker.
"Faith and Assurance", Miss Rosemary Miller.

Troy and Otis Geering are in Avon Park, Fla., seeking employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Arnett and Miss Larue Brandon spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newport and family. The attended the fiddlers' contest at Hazel also.

In a soil improvement campaign Carter county farmers have used 500 tons of burnt lime and ground limestone.

Kirksey School News

Saturday a large number of the students attended the football game at Murray State. Everyone appreciated the opportunity of going and enjoyed the game. We had a short vacation last week because of F.D.E.A. which the teachers attended. They reported a fine meeting with several enjoyable and beneficial lectures. Stella Ray and Agnes Kemp were visitors last week. We are always glad to welcome any visitors.

It seems we intend to get down to work this week. We began Monday morning by cleaning up the grounds and building. The windows were washed and leaves, papers and etc., cleaned from the campus. The students are co-operating with the teachers in trying to keep the yard and building clean and attractive. Papers are burned at noon and scraps from lunches are all put in boxes to be kept off the yard. The school was terribly shocked over the death of one of her little folks, Opal Mae Dunn. Her death was caused by a fall that she received at home while playing. She was in the first grade. Opal Mae will be missed by the larger students as well as her classmates and playmates.

The girls' game Friday with Concord was postponed because of the death of one of Concord's students and one of Kirksey's students.

Basketball practice was started Monday with the following boys from last year's squad reporting: Copeland, Adams, Washer, Pierce, Pool, Dixon, Billington, Ezell, Wilson, and Rogers. A number of new men are also trying out. The seventh and eighth grades defeated the Heath softball team Wednesday afternoon. There were no scores made the first inning. At the last of the second Heath was leading 1-0. In the third inning Kirksey took a 3-1 lead. In the fifth inning Kirksey made two more runs which made the score 5-1 in favor of Kirksey.

F. F. E. News
Our regular meeting night is on second Tuesday night of each month, but this month it was postponed until Thursday night. We have planned to have a party soon, but the date has not yet been set. We are going to make out our program for this coming year at the next meeting. We have made and varnished several new bulletin boxes. We have taken a general cleaning in the agricultural room, and it is looking much better.

equipment is available through the facilities of the Farm Bureau and may be obtained through this office.

Gaylen White, Hazel, Ky., is still appearing in the upper 10 high flocks in the state in egg production. His White-Leghorns laid an average of 14.5 eggs per hen in the month of August.

Protemus Palaver
This is the most beautiful season of the year, but the knowledge that "Ole Man Winter" is just around the corner, dampens our enjoyment somewhat.

We're still hoping for enough rain to fill up the dry cisterns and ponds around here. It sure takes a summer like this for us to make any one appreciate a good well.

Mr. Jim Bridge of near Taylor's Store visited Mr. and Mrs. Moore Waldrop Sunday.

A problem which we mothers of this community, have confronting us, is how to get up, prepare breakfast and school lunches, and get our youngsters started to school by 8:30 in order to catch the 7 o'clock bus one-half mile away. We are proud of our progressive schools, and of our new buses, but we wish we had more of them. Perhaps though that will come later.

Mr. and Mrs. Lunie Waldrop of Paducah visited Mr. and Mrs. Olus Waldrop Sunday.

I always enjoy the "Joys by Joe," but thought they were especially good last week. And Chatterbox's poem was fine.

Mrs. Maud Todd is ill at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seay of Lynnville visited Mr. and Mrs. Will Murdock Sunday. Mrs. Seay was formerly Miss May Dell Murdock. Virgil Lassiter is breaking ground for the five acre peach orchard, he is planning to set later in the fall.

Brs. Masseson, presiding elder of Paducah district, will preach at Story's Chapel next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Roy Postwright and Mrs. Wilson, visited their sister, Mrs. Robert Morton Sunday.
