NEW GRADE SCHOOL BUILDING COMPLETED

The new grade school building of the Fulton school has been completed and all classes began to meet Thursday, March 18.

This building was started March 1, 1942 and cost approximately $135,000. This building is an asset to Fulton and the Fulton County School Board should be complimented on the magnificent building. There are twenty seven rooms and a gymnasium; fifteen classrooms, a kitchen and dining room, health clinic, four laboratories, two stock rooms, library, gym and two dressing rooms.

The gym will seat 1200 people with a 42 foot stage with a seating capacity of 300.

The kitchen will feed 125 at one time, the pupils eating in two shifts.

There are two first grade rooms with individual laboratories and each room of the new building is complete with lockers for the students.

The library will be used as a study hall for the grade school students. There also an art room and music room.

J. O. Lewis, superintendent of the school states that the old gym will be converted into a band room consisting of seven small rooms for individual practice and the large room to be used for the physical education classes.

The P. T. A. project is to pay for the new curtain for the stage.

Supt. Lewis is justly proud of this new school building and he should be complimented for the work that has been done.

Kentucky 4-H Girls To Build Up Records

Rural girls throughout Kentucky are on the alert to achieve "all-round" records in a twofold project that doubtless will be one of the most important undertakings of their careers—to help win the war, and to fit themselves for peace. Terseely, they seek to become highly efficient homemakers.

To achieve that ambition, many of these future managers of their own household are enrolled in the National 4-H Girls' Record activity and take part in the major phases of homemaking, and thereby contribute to the nation's 1943 wartime program by helping to relieve the farm labor shortage.

Outstanding records of achievements in this activity will receive honor awards provided by Montgomery Ward, which include medals to county winners, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago to each State's champion, and a $200 college scholarship to one national winner from each of the four extension sections, and two at large.

This is the twenty-first consecutive year of 4-H Club work supported by the donor of the current activity, which will be conducted, along with other 4-H Victory projects, under the direction of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, State Agricultural Colleges, and County Extension Agents.

GETS $35 A WORD FOR SUGGESTION

Franklin Myers, 26-year-old employee of General Electric, doesn't belong to the Author's League, but has received $35 a word as a writer, a word rate that puts him in a class with the late Calvin Coolidge and Will Rogers. What Myers wrote was a suggestion for improving radio transmitter production and for the 14 essential words the Company, thru the Suggestion System, awarded him a $500 check. Specifically, Mr. Myers suggested a change in screw machine operation which eliminates a grinding operation in production of a small worm gear for transmitters being made at the Schenectady, N. Y. plant, for the armed services. This will save approximately 6000 man-hours a year. Before entering the employ of General Electric last year, Mr. Myers was a stockroom clerk for wholesale drug and meat packing firms.

TO SPONSOR SOIL CONSERVATION IN FULTON COUNTY

The Board of Directors of the Fulton County Farm Bureau, at their last regular monthly meeting, discussed organization and operation of a soil conservation district with representatives of the Soil Conservation Service. The Directors decided to sponsor the organization of a soil conservation district in Fulton County.

The first step in organizing a soil conservation district is to petition the State Soil Conservation Committee to hold a public hearing. Copies of these petitions are in the hands of the Farm Bureau Directors and will be submitted to the State Committee April 3, 1943.

The S. C. S. representative pointed out that twenty-two soil conservation districts have been organized in Kentucky similar to the one in Hickman County, which has been in operation since October, 1941. The Hickman County District has the other soil conservation districts, has the services of a full-time soil conservationist working in the county with farmers who desire to establish conservation practices on the land. The most popular conservation practice adopted in Hickman County has been farm reservoirs for stock water. There has been approximately 20 farm reservoirs constructed with equipment furnished by the soil conservation district in Hickman County during the past summer. There are 30 more farmers who have made application to the district for assistance to construct farm reservoirs this summer. The Soil Conservation District furnished 23,000 trees and shrubs to farmers in Hickman County for planting on gullied land this spring.

Each of the soil conservation districts in Kentucky are now engaged in cooperation with the other agricultural agencies in a campaign to encourage farmers to adopt conservation farming as a means of increasing yields now for war-time food production. Conservation cultivation or row crops, by conserving moisture, on sloping land increases yields from 10 to 20 percent. Other conservation measures such as pasture improvement, terracing, wise land selection, adequate stock ponds, and drainage also increase yields of food and fiber for war-time needs.

Assistance in establishing conservation practices can be brought to farmers in Fulton County who desire this type of assistance through the organization of a Soil Conservation District. Soil Conservation Districts are now operating in the surrounding Kentucky counties of Carlisle, Hickman, Meigs, Cracker, and Graves; and the Tennessee counties of Obion, Weakley, Dyer and Gibson.

Miss Dorothy Dean Rose spent Tuesday night with her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Rose of Duketown.

Revival Meeting At First Baptist Church

The Revival Meeting which began at the First Baptist Church last Sunday are progressing in a most encouraging manner. The attendance is reported to be excellent, the interest genuine. The Pastor, Rev. R. D. Martin, is doing the preaching. Some of the subjects Bro. Martin will speak on in days to follow are: "The Gospel According to you," "Our Need to be on God's Side," "There is a Lad here," "The Three Crosses," "Three Rounds with the Devil," "Why Did Christ Die on the Cross?", "The Devil's Masterpiece," "If Jesus Came to Fulton," "Running from God." The evening service is at 7:30. The morning service, which is from 7:15 to 7:55, has been attended by large crowds, and the pastor is speaking each morning on a series of studies in the 5th, 6th and 7th chapters of Matthew.

The pastor is being assisted in the meetings by Mr. Stanley Armstrong, Gospel Singer, from Memphis, Tenn. Mr. Armstrong has had years of experience in evangelistic singing, and has found his way into the hearts of the people very quickly. The response of the congregation to his leadership in song has been very fine. His solos have carried a great message as well as revealing great ability. Lovers of gospel music will miss a great treat if they fail to hear Mr. Armstrong.

The services will continue through April 4th, and the public is cordially invited to attend them all.

DONALDSON FOR GOV. ERNOR CLUB LAUNCHED

First of its kind in the present gubernatorial campaign, announcement was made here this week of the organization of the Bourbon County Donaldson-For-Governor Club, which is pledged to work for the nomination and election of J. Lyter Donaldson, of Carrollton, as Kentucky's next governor.

Mr. Donaldson, present State Commissioner of Highways, while not at this time an official candidate for the office, is said to be giving intent consideration toward making the race for the Democratic nomination.

The movement here in favor of the Carroll countian embodies an endorsement of the administration of Governor Keen Johnson and urges the entry of the highway commissioner into the current race as the "best insurance that Kentucky will continue its manifest progress along courses which have already brought the people of Kentucky great benefit and will allow for expansion in the right direction."

The announcement stated that Mr. Donaldson as a lawyer, banker, business man, humanitarian and statesman, is eminently qualified by a long record of accomplishment in business and public affairs to occupy the governor's seat and that under his direction Kentucky would be assured of further improvement.

It was pointed out that, under Mr. Donaldson, the achievements of the Kentucky Department of Highways, even though sharply curbed by the war, were the greatest ever attained in the State; and that resumption of the planned program of that agency, and other State programs known to be advocated by the present highway commissioner, will lead Kentucky into its most progressive era following the signing of peace and the return to normal conditions.

A large number of citizens here have joined the movement in favor of Mr. Donaldson, of whom it was said that Bourbon County has a prior interest because of the fact that the family of Mr. Donaldson's mother many years ago were prominent Bourbon Countians.—The Paris Daily Enterprise.

CHAOS MUST BE AVERTED

Government officials have yet to perfect a definite food production and distribution program. In the meantime, farmers and merchants are struggling desperately in a maze of red tape with a steadily deteriorating labor force to feed and clothe the nation, to say nothing of the armed forces. They are asked to fight a total war against the Axis, and at the same time are obliged to fight for survival in the insane Washington war of bureaucrats. It is an appalling situation.

The National Association of Food Chains has warned that America consumers will go hungry this year unless the government moves promptly to solve the pressing manpower and supply problems confronting the food industry. It says: "The situation already has reached the stage where it is creating a serious problem of getting an adequate supply of food distributed to communities and to individual consumers."

Unless corrective measures are taken without delay, there is danger in the not distant future of hunger and food riots. Representatives of chains, independent retailers, wholesalers and food processors have reported that following the "work of fight" order of the War Manpower commission, experienced employees left in droves for "essential" war jobs. Labor turnover in these industries is now at the rate of 10 per cent a week. The government's price control and rationing programs, together with efficient distribution, are directly threatened by removal of experienced men from behind the nation's retail counters.

A determined Congress must bring order out of the chaos.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES CO. TO CUT RATES DRASTICLY

Electric rate reductions directed by the Public Service Commission, to become effective with meter reading on and after April 1, will save Kentucky Utilities Company customers approximately $500,000 a year on the basis of previous usage, Robert M. Watt, president of the company, announced in Lexington on Tuesday.

The total rate reductions made in the last eight years now saves the company customers about $2,250,000 in the cost of service on the basis of previous usage, Mr. Watt said.

"Since January, 1940, the company's average domestic customer has increased his use of electricity 45 kilowatt hours a year, but his expenditure for electric service now is $3.46 less per year," Mr. Watt explained.

"Electric service is the only necessity I know of that costs less today than before the war, and that has not been restricted in use since the war began," Mr. Watt said.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—its itself—a constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

NEIGHBORHOOD LEADERS CONTACTING RURAL FAMILIES

The Fulton County Neighborhood Leaders are busy contacting all rural families in the county with information on a war time live-at-home program.

With the amount of canned foods limited by rationing families in position to produce some of their own food are indeed fortunate. From reports sent in to the county and home agents office by the neighborhood leaders, gardens in the county will be larger than ever before.

Each neighborhood leader in the county has volunteered to contact the families in their neighborhood and urge them to have gardens, chickens, and cows as a means of producing more of their own food. All families who possibly can are being asked to try to produce three-fourths of their total food supply. Families who render the distinguished service of producing 3-4 of their food will receive a certificate of merit signed by the Governor and the dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The College of Agriculture at Lexington says that on every farm here should be a tenth of an acre of garden for each member of the family, the garden to include 15 kinds of vegetables. The farm should also have two of the following: A dozen of fruit trees, 200 strawberry plants, 10 grape vines or 1000 berry bushes. A large amount of potatoes, stored root crops, squashes and pumpkins, dried beans, corn and other foods will provide variety in the winter meals.

Families who can, also should put up two gallons of sorghum or honey per person. Home-produced corn and wheat can be made into meal and flour. Good living calls for a quart of milk daily per child, a pint for each adult, and a half of a pound of butter for each person a week.

To have at least five laying hens for each member of the family, 15 chicks should be started this spring. Those who butcher should plan to put up at least 130 pounds of meat per adult and about that much per child.

DEEP HUMMING NOISE

Did you know that powerful electric transformers must be given an "audition" if they are to be installed outdoors. It's called the "radio voice test," and is given in a soundproof laboratory. There is no such thing as a noiseless transformer, but some make more noise—a deep humming sound—than others, and the real object of the test is to make certain that a transformer destined for a certain location won't make more noise than the normal sounds of the neighborhood where it's to be installed.

FOR YOUR PROTECTION

If you have to work with a screwdriver around wall plugs or anywhere that you might touch "hot" wires, try slipping a length of rubber tubing over the screwdriver's metal parts for protection—if you can get the rubber tubing.

A MAN OF ALL WORK

"Yesterday I spoke in a small village to a group of farmer people. In order to find out where the meeting was to be held, I stopped at a small shop to inquire. I got so interested in the shop as a left-over that I almost failed to report for my speech. It was a genuine passing institution, the sort that inhabitants of small villages all over our part of the world would easily recognize. The outside window had 'Barber Shop' painted in big letters told the truth. Unlike the witness in court, though, they did not tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. In fact, it is not easy for me to convey adequately what that shop contained. To begin with, it was a barber shop, with a chair and all the appurtenances. There were several ancient shaving mugs on a rather ratty shelf, the kind of mug that had the name of the owner on it in fancy script. Some of the names were of men long ago dead, just as the custom of keeping such mugs is dead and almost forgotten. There was the typical strap, pretty badly worn with long official use. The chair had seen better days and plenty of them, but so had the barber. On a table in one corner of the fairly large room were clocks that were in various stages of repair. Some of them seemed to have walked out of a story-book, for they were ancient and odd-looking. One clock, the proud possession of the barber, was inside a glass case, where all of its innards could be seen plainly, like having a glass window into one's internal arrangements. Instead of weights of the old fashion or springs of the newer, there was a quaintly balanced contraption that swung in one direction, paused an instant, and then swung back. I got so fascinated with this elaborate mechanism that I almost failed to listen to the yarns spun by the barber. All sorts of things were on that table: watches, varying from the big ones that looked like turnips to the tiny little wrist watches that seemed too small to keep any sort of time. Like people in hospitals, these time-keepers were sick and in need of the professional attention of the barber. I looked for a while for a gunlock, but it suddenly occurred to me that muzzle-loading guns were a bit out of date, even in such a shop as this.

But even these were not all that greeted me. The barber is a sort of collector of oddities: grease lamps, and irons, coal tongs, old pistols. A second-class museum could have been started with his. Given Mr. Henry Ford's money and the collections of these articles alone, this man's enthusiasm, every town could have its own show place, where we could see what our ancestors used and treasured. There were so many things that you could hardly walk from the chair to the door without disturbing some of the objects and certainly some of the dust that had settled on them.

The whole thing reminded me of the dry-goods store that was still running in my town when I first came here. Ostensibly the merchant was selling dress goods and such like, but the whole rear third of the building was a veritable museum. The owner, already old when I first saw him, had a fondness for acquiring small objects suggestive of life in other parts of the world. He kept in touch with missionaries in many strange lands and bought from them small idols, dolls, toilet articles, dresses, and table ware. Once a traveling show went broke in our town and sold out its museum specimens to this merchant; one of the items was a very large diamond-backed rattlesnake skin, which henceforth occupied a prominent position in the display of the store. I am sure that every village and town has had and some still have a place like these two I have described, but I fear that most of the them are fast disappearing or else growing ratty.

"Retonga Seems to Have Been Made Just For Me"

Distress of Indigestion Made Him Afraid To Eat; Felt Achy, Sluggish, Miserable, States Mr. Pinson. Tells of His Case.

Prominent and widely known, Mr. Lilburn N. Pinson, for more than thirty years a valued employee of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. and owner of a fine 250 acre Pike Co farm, residing at Zebulon, Ky., said of Retonga:

"For four years, I haven't known what it was to enjoy a meal. Gas seemed to boil up in my stomach until I felt my breath would be cut off. I felt undernourished, weakened and my muscles ached so I hardly had strength or energy to walk to my neighbors and back. I was down to 170 pounds. I spent nervous, sleepless nights and felt so miserable when morning came I didn't feel like dragging myself out of bed. I was forced to take strong laxatives and I have spent so much money without getting relief I felt I was doomed to suffer this distress the rest of my days.

"Retonga seems to have been made just for my troubles. I am happily relieved of all my distress. I have regained fifteen pounds. Food seems to give me strength and energy. I am relieved of the harassing gas, smothery feeling, constipation, and my achy, sluggish sleepless nervousness. I regret I can't tell everyone suffering as I did about Retonga."

Retonga is a purely herbal stomachic medicine combined with Vitamin B-1 for the relief of distress as described by Mr. Pinson when due to insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, constipation, and Vitamin B-1 deficiency. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyers Drug Store.

SAFTEYGRAMS

Sportsmanship in driving an automobile is as important as it is in sporting events. A good judge about whether you are on the track will be your sense of good sportsmanship. Have you ever been in a car, bus, or truck and been embarrassed by the sportsmanship of the driver—the way he kept his temper, his good humor at other people's faults, his patience, and his sense of fair play?

These are the things that make for courtesy and make for safety on our highways.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientists, throughout the world, on Sunday, March 23, 1943.

The Golden Text is "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." (1 Corinthians 2:9.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God." (John 1:1.)

COOLED CREAM HAS HIGHEST MARKET VALUE

There is no getting away from this fact: Farmers continue to lose millions of dollars annually through simple failure to promptly and properly cool their cream. The loss is sustained in two ways—from outright rejection of the cream as legally unfit for human consumption, and in lower returns from cream of secondary quality which cannot be manufactured into the best grade of butter.

Only reason for cooling cream is to hinder the growth of bacteria that may be in it. Bacteria multiply rapidly in warm surroundings and in doing so damage the cream through excessive souring, undesirable fermentation, etc. The chart gives an idea of the multiplication of bacteria in cream held for delivery under different temperatures. In a temperature of 50 degrees the micro-organisms in cream will number one million per cubic centimeter at the end of 24 hours, 47 million at the end of 3 days, and 65 million at the close of the fourth day. (An ordinary thimble has a capacity of about 3½ cubic centimeters.) But see what happens when the cream is kept in a 70 degree temperature. At the close of the first day, the micro-organisms number 6 million, at the end of the third day 96 million, and at the end of the fourth day 417 million. In other words, about seven times as many are present in a 70 degree temperature as when the cream is kept at the 50 degree temperature.

For highest quality, cream should be cooled immediately after separating and then kept cool until marketed. This is not as hard as it sounds, since one of the best cooling agents—water—is to be found on practically every farm. Water has many times the cooling power of air of the same temperature. For best results with a cooling tank the water should be flowing, frequently changed or positively stirred from time to time.

THE MEANING OF DEMOCRACY

by
The Rt. Reverend Edward L. Parsons, D. D. Bishop, Episcopal Diocese of California (Retired)

Christianity and Democracy! What have they to do with one another? The answer is "Every-thing!" Here is the way it goes. If you turn to the Bible you discover that from end to end it is concerned with freedom. In the old Testament the story turns on it — out from Egypt, defense against oppressors, out from Babylon, and interpreting all this history, the words of the great prophets, which may be summed up as the mission to "preach good tidings to the poor, to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." It was with those words that Jesus opened his ministry in his small home-town of Nazareth.
The Gospels breathe this spirit.
St. Paul's letters are full of it;
"The glorious liberty of the children of God," "the freedom for which Christ made us free!"

The point is of course that men must be free because they are children of God. They have worth.
They can be trusted. This is clear in Jesus' teaching. He never laid down a law. He told men great truths often in the form of stories.
He let them do their own thinking.
Life must grow from within, not be imposed from without. The early Church carried this spirit into all its development. It is a picture of group life, of conference, of mutual trust. Real Christianity is not a code of laws but the free life of the children of God.

And this obviously is the meaning of democracy: the same spirit, the same trust in the dignity of man, the same confidence that the way of life is found in mutual respect, in conference, in cooperation. Democracy, like religion, often fails because men fail; but the goal
it sets is the goal which religion has given it. Democracy roots in religion.

And is this important now? A faith in democracy because it is socially opportune, safer, kinder, pleasanter, a Hitler can shatter that in a moment. We need a faith that goes back and down to the roots of things, is bound up with the universe, is knit to the eternal things of God, in a word is religion. That was the faith of the Founding Fathers. They believed that the freedom for which they had fought and to which in the Constitution they gave political expression had something very definite to do with God. It belonged to man because of God's ordering. When they fought for it they fought believing that it was God's will that men should be free and live in what we in modern phrase call a democratic order.

It is such a faith that our fighting men need today. One of them writing in the Saturday Review recently cries: Give us "a literature that sings of faith." Men who are summoned to give their lives want a cause which has an "eternal" meaning. They want a faith deep-rooted in the very nature of things.
They want to fight with God. That is why Christianity has everything to do with democracy. That is why we need it for the war and for the peace which is to follow.

SPRING BURNING OF PASTURE LANDS DESTROYS FERTILITY

Burning off pasture lands in early spring, a practice still followed in some parts of Kentucky, not only fails to improve the grazing, but may cut grass production in half in a single year, while doing considerable damage to the forests, according to a statement issued today by K. G. McConnell, Director of the Division of Forestry.

Experiments with blue grass pasture in Kentucky by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, showed that burning in winter or spring reduced yields the following year from 50 to 75 per cent. These results were believed due to the damage by fire to the roots and crowns of the grass plants, some of which were killed entirely.

McConnell pointed out that observations have revealed that on land consistently burned, the perennial grasses and other more valuable forage plants are rapidly replaced by annual weeds that are nearly worthless for pasture.

A still greater loss caused by fire, although not so apparent in a single year, is the destruction of soil fertility. Burning off grass or woodland litter increases water run-off from 5 to 30 times, and speeds up soil erosion 4 to 11 times.

CONTROL CAN DO WHAT PROHIBITION CAN'T!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here
what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally... whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys...

CREMULSION For Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Phibbe's house got struck by lightning a couple of nights ago. The fire was soon out though, thanks to the prompt work of the local fire department.

And when Thad goes to thank 'em, Chief Ed Carey simply says, "That's all right, Mr. Phibbe—that's what you pay taxes for."

From where I sit, that's a pert example of how taxes come back to the people.

Take taxes on beer, for instance—more than 2½ billion dollars in the last nine years.

Time was when a lot of that went into the pockets of bootleggers; but today it's going for public benefits—to buy things Uncle Sam needs for Victory.

To moderate folks, who like a friendly glass of beer occasionally, there's a heap of satisfaction in knowing that this beverage of moderation is furnishing Uncle Sam with some of the money that he badly needs.

ELECTRIC
REDUCTION

IT WILL SAVE YOU CUSTOMERS ABOUT
$500,000 A YEAR, BEGINNING APRIL 1

BY DIRECTION of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky, our Company is putting into effect with meter readings on and after April 1st, new lower electric service rates that will save our customers approximately $500,000 a year in the cost of electricity on the basis of previous use.

For example, since January, 1940, our average domestic customer has increased his use of electricity 45 kilowatt hours a year (5.6%). Yet he pays us $3.46 (9.2%) a year less for service. This rate reduction, together with the other reductions during the last eight years, is now saving our customer $2,250,000 per year.

tions during the last eight years, is now saving our customer $2,250,000 per year.

Do you know of any other necessary service or commodity (such as food, rent, fuel, etc.) that is not restricted in use and that costs you less than it cost before the war?

REDDY KILOWATT,
Your Electrical Servant

YOU'LL LIKE THIS, TOO

As a convenience to you customers, and to help you save time, tires and gas, we have done away with the delayed payment charge on electric service bills for the duration of the war.

A Victory Garden can be your bright spot in a dark food picture. Our fighting men must be "armed to the teeth" with wholesome, nutritious food.

The farmer is the captain and every pig, calf, cow and chicken a soldier in the battle of food production.

In uniform or in "civvies" their goal is the same and Greyhound speeds the war job of both

It takes a whole nation working at top-speed to keep all our vast military force fed, clothed, equipped, financially supported.

This giant effort requires the transportation of manpower by motor bus, to the tune of three-quarters of a billion passengers in a single year!

Greyhound is proud to carry millions like these—determined to keep its fleet of buses fully in service for America, in spite of severe wartime restrictions.

All of you have taken occasional discomfort like good soldiers—responding willingly to suggestions for making the best use of wartime travel. Thank you—please keep it up! And when Victory is won, look to Greyhound for brand-new standards of highway travel comfort, convenience, scenic enjoyment.
