THE LISTENING POST

● A lot of times I have thought that operating a newspaper and a printing office can be a lot of trouble. It is true that there is more trouble now than was the case a few years ago, because of a shortage of help, but reading an old, battered book a few nights ago I learned that I really know nothing of trouble whatever, as compared to some pioneer publishers.

● Some time ago I happened to come into possession of several old books. Among these I found an autobiography of Benjamin Franklin, and while I have read some of this book, it seemed that some of it was more or less new to me. Perhaps I had read it before and then forgotten it; in any event, the story of his first printing experience seemed new to me.

● Franklin was first apprenticed to his brother in Boston to learn the printing business, and for various reasons he and his brother did not get along very well. The upshot of the matter was that the youngster finally left home after a quarrel with his brother and went to New York to seek employment as a printer. He did not find work there, but found that he might secure work in Philadelphia, where there was also a printing office. So he went there and finally did manage to get a job there. He was then less than sixteen years of age, but was a pretty fair printer, and there he began the career which was to leave its rich impression on American life.

● In some manner, it appears that Franklin was always attracting the attention of men in high places, and in Philadelphia, despite his youth, he attracted the attention of the Governor. The latter conceived the plan of setting him up in business, for he did not believe that the man Franklin was working for was a good printer. He told the youngster that if his father would help a little he would see that he was set up in business. Young Franklin made the journey back to Boston—a long sea journey in those days—but his father held the belief he was too young for such responsibility and refused to help.

● Franklin went back to Philadelphia, with his ship striking a rock on the voyage and forcing all hands and passengers to pump almost constantly, and reported to the Governor that his father would not help. The Governor then said he would take over the whole responsibility and asked that Franklin make out an inventory of what was needed. All this had to be bought in London, and I believe the entire equipment cost about five hundred dollars. The Governor also told Franklin to make arrangements to go to London to do the buying and this the youngster did.

● To make a long story short, after Franklin arrived in London he found that the Governor had no credit to extend, and his letters were worthless. There was no possibility of buying the equipment, and indeed, no way of getting back to America until he could earn the money. He at once managed to get a job in a London shop and some of his experiences there were quite interesting to me. He worked there for almost two years before returning to America, and when he did return he had to go to work for the man he had worked for in

Japs Lose 61 Planes At Beaches

U. S. Marines In Swift Movement Make Additional Landings

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea.—Battlewise American marines, late of Guadalcanal, made twin landings on the western end of New Britain yesterday with almost negligible losses, quickly secured their beachheads and pushed into the jungles to establish firmly a second invasion front on Japan's key island in the Southwest Pacific.

The landings were made in co-ordinated land, sea and air operations east and west of Cape Gloucester, which had been pulverized by some 3,500 tons of bombs since December 1. Long Island, at the northwest entrance of Vitiaz Strait, also was occupied.

Jap Air Blows Crushed
Several enemy counterattacks in the air, directed at the beachheads and at shipping from which large forces were pouring ashore were crushed, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in a special communique. Flights of strongly escorted medium and dive bombers made the attacks and thirty-six enemy bombers and twenty-five fighters were shot down. Seven Allied planes were lost and others damaged.

(William J. Dunn, C. B. S. correspondent who witnessed the landings, said the first of the air attacks did not come until seven hours after the marines swept ashore.)

JIM WYNN DIES EARLY YESTERDAY IN FULTON HOSPITAL

Prominent Crutchfield Citizen Succumbs To Injuries Received In Fall

Jim Wynn, 70, farmer and well known and respected citizen of Fulton county, died early yesterday morning in the Fulton hospital following a brief illness. Mr. Wynn slipped on the ice and fell last Friday, suffering a fractured hip, and he contracted pneumonia as a result.

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church in Hickman, and interment will be in the Hickman cemetery, in charge of the Hornbeak Funeral Home. Time of the funeral will be announced later, pending the arrival of a son.

Mr. Wynn, a life-long resident of this county was a good, upstanding man, and in his passing the community loses a fine citizen.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Wynn, six daughters, Mrs. Sherman Smith of near Fulton, Miss Jettie Wynn of Chicago, Mrs. Louis Jones of Fulton, Route 4, Mrs. Ray Moss of Fulton, Route 1, Mrs. James Ledbetter of Obion, Tenn., and Mrs. Claude Gore of Detroit; four sons, Audie Wynn of Detroit, Vernie Wynn of St. Louis,

COAL PRODUCTION IS CURTAILED BY FLU EPIDEMIC

Washington.—Soft coal production fell back to 12,000,000 tons last week after exceeding 13,000,000 tons the previous week, Interior Secretary Ickes reported today.

He said the drop was due largely to the influenza epidemic and was unexpected and regrettable at a time when every ton of coal is needed.

Hard coal production also declined for the fourth straight week. Ickes called the hard coal situation "critical," and he, too, said the flu evidently had something to do with the hard coal decline, but that the crux of the hard coal problem is manpower.

Hard coal production last week (ending December 18) was estimated at 1,127,000 tons. It was 1,215,000 tons the week before.

Council Gets Willis' Fiscal Views Today

Governor And Budget Officials Discuss Requests

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Simeon S. Willis plans for State expenditures during the coming two years are expected to be laid before the Legislative Council tomorrow, it was stated at today's session.

The Chief Executive spent most of the afternoon discussing the requests of various departments and agencies for funds, with W. M. Van House, assistant State budget director. Other members of the council in executive session meanwhile began to scan the items entering into the budget.

Routine Items Studied
The council's study today, begun under a motion by Senator Ray B. Moss, Pineville Republican, who said Willis would be ready tomorrow, was confined by agreement to budget items fixed by statute, such as legislative and court costs, and other matters on which the members might agree easily.

The limitation was decided on for today's meeting after Senator J. Lee Moore, Franklin Democrat, questioned whether it would do any good to discuss budget requests before Governor Willis presented his views.

Estelle Wynn of Crutchfield, and Pvt. Russell Wynn of Camp Edwards, Mass. Two brothers, Will Wynn of Paducah and A. G. Wynn of Hickman, and five sisters, Mrs. Thursa Rocker of St. Louis, Mrs. Annie Smith of Charleston, Mrs. Roy Coleman of Charleston, Mrs. Alice Smith of Shreveport, and Mrs. Sid McDonald of Martin, Tenn., also survive.

Girdles And Bobbie Pins Promised In Plenty As Gift For Coming Year

Washington.—Aimed at silencing one of the loudest squawks from the home front, a program for expanded 1944 production of simple and easy-to-make civilian goods is about ready to be launched by the Office of Civilian Requirements.

The plan for action developed after a study disclosed that, while civilians accept the scarcity of refrigerators, washing machines and other major conveniences, they're really griping about shortages of the "little things in life," like bobbie pins, pots and pans, elastic tape and textile products.

Can Avoid Conflicts
In a majority of instances, the O. C. R. has found that the simple items on the "gripe list" could be manufactured without upsetting any manpower or raw materials schedules. Only a few conflict with war-vital production, and O. C. R. is making no recommendation for expended production of these items. Prospects for adequate production of all textile products are "fair to good." The recent directive of Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, which permits a complete revision of price structures to stimulate production, will be tried first on textiles.

The O. C. R. is recommending sharp increases in the production of textile products. Informed sources say that the expanded production will be noticeable by the second quarter of 1944.

Consumers should have plenty of elastic tape, girdles and bobbie pins in 1944. Orders already approved have doubled production of bobbie pins. Adequate supplies of synthetic rubber for tape and girdles have been allocated, and these items will be back in circulation soon after the first of the year under present plans.

Two Experts Say More Advance Lessons Would Ease Fear Of Tropic Disease

Chicago.—Two Navy surgeons have suggested that mental indoctrination or a greater advance knowledge of the possibilities facing them is the only way to prevent exaggerated fears of servicemen regarding the ravages of war and disease.

The method advised was termed "prophylactic psychiatry" by Lt. Howard P. Rome and Lt. Com. R. Howard Fogel, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Imagination Blamed
The physicians pointed out that white troops in the South Pacific often suffer greater fits of mental depression from disease than natives afflicted by the same disease. The authors explained this was largely due to the white soldier's more articulate imagination and related ignorance as far as the disease is concerned.

"The psychologic stability of soldiers is directly proportional to their factual knowledge of the situations in which they serve," the article stated. "... Latent and imaginary dangers are naturally shocking on initial recognition, and attendant anxiety can be dispelled only when men are given an understanding of the irrationality and emptiness of most of their fears."

"A patient, simple, reported presentation of facts will in most instances assuage doubts and 'debunk' groundless anticipations."

Education Is Urged
Fogel and Rome suggested that servicemen overseas, especially those in Africa, Asiatic and Pacific theaters, could well use fuller information on the peoples and lands they are serving in.

"Bugaboos and superstitions still distort the thinking of man," the physicians said, "exaggerating their fears and perverting their judgments. Particularly is this true of the beliefs concerning tropical disease and the responsibility of the native population for their dissemination."

'Baby' Seabees Show They Are Vital In War

Washington.—The Seabees, the Navy's fighting builders, will be only two years old Tuesday but their achievements already are known around the world.

The Navy said Saturday that the force, which started with an experimental nucleus of 99 men in October, 1941, has now achieved its full authorized strength of 262,000 men. The Seabees were first officially organized Dec. 28, 1941, and their initial authorized strength was set at 3300. They now number four times the previous strength of the Marine Corps.

The Seabees' job is to build advanced bases—a job in which they have contributed immeasurably, the Navy said, to American advances in the Pacific and the Mediterranean.

One Seabee battalion, fighting against torrential rains and Japanese bombings, made possible one of the springboards of attack in the New Guinea offensive last Summer by carving out an airfield from a dense tropical jungle in 13 days. During the first 11 days 16 inches of rain fell.

At Tarawa in the Gilberts, the fighting builders had the airfield in commission and fliers were taking off four days after the initial landing.

The Seabees not only build, but they are prepared at all times to defend what they have built. Any Seabee is as handy with a gun, a grenade or an antiaircraft weapon as he is with a saw, wrench or hammer.

JOHN RAMSEY DIES LATE YESTERDAY

Well-Known Citizen Succumbs After Brief Illness

John Ramsey, well known local citizen, died yesterday afternoon after a short illness of pneumonia at the home of his sister, Mrs. Enoch Browder, on Third street. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the Browder residence, conducted by Rev. T. J. Scott, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Burial in charge of the Hornbeak Funeral Home, will follow at Fairview Cemetery.

Active pall bearers will be M. L. Parker, Claude Williams, Smith Atkins, Ford Lansden, Robert Lamb and Sam Winston.

Mr. Ramsey is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Oma Schinnerer and Mrs. Enoch Browder of Fulton, and a brother, W. A. Ramsey of Joplin, Mo. Miss Maggie Tate, a niece, made her home also at the Browder home, and several other nieces and nephews survive.

An exceptionally large acreage of small grain has been sown in Trigg county.

Invasion Talk Brings Labor Draft Demand

Washington.—On the heels of President Roosevelt's invasion statement, Senator Austin (R., Va.), said Saturday Congress soon will be confronted with necessity of enacting a national labor draft law.

"The time for a national service act is imminent," he declared after disclosing that the Senate Military Affairs Committee had conducted a confidential study of home front manpower in relation to a stepped-up war tempo.

Austin declined to reveal details of the report, but said "it has increased our belief that we are confronted with the necessity of such direction of the labor resources of the country as will increase the efficiency of our war effort; it must be increased, and in my opinion legislation will be necessary to accomplish it."

The manpower study was conducted under direction of Col. Lewis Sanders, advisor to the Military Affairs Committee. It covered military and industrial manpower needs and prospects as of Dec. 6.

Austin indicated he would seek action by the committee soon after Congress reconvenes, Jan. 10, on the pending compulsory service legislation jointly sponsored by him and Representative Wadsworth (R., N. Y.).

Introduced early last year, the bill would make both men and women subject to assignment to essential war jobs as needed. In addition to men already registered under the Selective Service Act, it would require registration of women between the ages of 18 and 50 for possible conscription for jobs in industry. In hearings earlier this year the legislation was strongly opposed by organized labor and it never reached a vote in either House.

DEVERS EATS WITH WACS IN ENGLAND

London.—Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers commander of U. S. forces in the European theater, ate Christmas turkey with some Wacs in London, and the worried girl soldier-cooks knew the dinner was a success when the three-star guest asked, "Could I have a second helping?"

There was roast turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, peas, green salad, mince pie, cheese, and coffee or tea.

Devers told Mess Sgt. Constance Delahoyde of Rochester, N. Y., "I've never had a better dinner."

Eisenhower Says Germany To Lose In '44

Says That Every Man And Woman Must Do Full Part

Allied Headquarters, Algiers.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said flatly today that "we will win the European war in 1944" in a ringing valedictory before leaving Africa to take command of the second front from the West.

It is only necessary, said Eisenhower, speaking in the decisive manner which has helped him to weld the diverse Allied Mediterranean elements into one powerful striking force, that "every man and woman, all the way from the front line to the remotest hamlet of our two countries (Britain and the United States), do his or her full duty."

Cites First Job
The sparse-haired American commander, who shoulders the biggest task since Marshal Foch directed all Allied forces in Europe in the other war, indicated he would assume his new duties at once and said his first job would be "to weld the directing team together" for the great assault.

Reviewing the events of the last year, he said he was satisfied with progress made in the Mediterranean thus far and predicted there would be vigorous fighting in the theater for the remainder of the winter. He said Allied progress necessarily would be slow and difficult, and pointed out that Allied forces in the Mediterranean had to depend on military might in proportion to the needs of other theaters.

Stimson In Swift Action Takes Carriers

Action Taken To Prevent Threatened Rail Strike

President Roosevelt last night ordered Government seizure of the railroads, threatened with a strike by three unions starting December 30.

The Chief Executive directed the Secretary of War to take over the carriers at 6 p. m. Central War Time yesterday. He acted through an executive order signed an hour before.

Roosevelt's action came as a surprise because, while he had ordered preparations to take over the roads, this situation appeared to be easing when the fifteen non-operating brotherhoods agreed yesterday to call off their strike, accepting the President as arbiter of their wage claims.

Although two of five operating brotherhoods and the fifteen non-operating rail unions had agreed to call off the strike set for Thursday, three operating brotherhoods had not accepted the President's offer to arbitrate their differences.

COURT TO TRY HITLER TAKES FORM

35 Jurists Expected To Sit On International Bench

London.—The first detailed draft of a plan for establishment of an international court to try Adolf Hitler and other war criminals is likely to be submitted early next year to the United Nations Commission investigating war crimes, it was learned Saturday.

The plan, it was understood, foresees creation of a court of 35 international jurists in London with wide powers to try any war criminals, including heads of states.

Belgian Draws Up Plan
The draft plan of 62 articles was drawn up by a Belgian judge, Marcel de Baer, who is now in the United States. He is chairman of an unofficial body known as the "International Assembly" whose experts in the past two years have been studying the question of bringing war criminals to justice.

The draft defines war crimes as "any grave outrages violating the general principles of criminal law as recognized by civilized nations and committed in wartime or connected with the preparation, waging or prosecution of war or perpetrated with a view to preventing the restoration of peace."

It was learned that it states war crimes could be committed either by direct action or by aiding or ordering them.

Men In The Service

Graham Wilkins, son of Lucian Wilkins of this city, recently completed his training in the Signal Corps at New York City, and has been transferred to Camp Crowder, Mo. His wife and sister, Miss Frances Wilkins left Sunday to join him there. Miss Wilkins will go from there to Detroit to resume her duties after spending the holidays in Fulton.

Entire Kentucky Town Comes To Aid Of Thirty Soldiers Stranded By Storm

Versailles, Ky.—There's no limit, it appeared here today, to what old Santa Claus can do in an emergency.

Thirty soldiers from Kentucky, Kansas, Georgia, South Carolina and other states were left stranded here when bus travel was halted temporarily by icy highways. En route home for the Christmas holidays and in a hurry, the soldiers faced a miserable situation.

Churchgoers, attending a Christmas program, learned of the soldiers' predicament. They quickly notified other groups, organized the town and recruited help from other churches, the American Legion and Red Cross—to say nothing of Santa.

The previously unannounced guests were invited to a Christmas dinner, spread at the St. John's Llewellyn B. Catlin, rector of the church, said the project soon became a community affair. Everybody pitched in to make the young feel at home. Several of the guests volunteered to assist.

"It was Kentucky at its finest," said an unidentified warrant officer, whose service ribbons showed he had been in action on Guadalcanal. Bus travel was resumed later in the day and the thirty soldiers were on their happy way again.

RIVER OF THE FUTURE

The completed flood control projects of the Mississippi Valley represent an investment of more than a half-billion dollars, of which half, or $247,000,000, has been provided by purely local interests, thus destroying an illusion, often fostered by political interests elsewhere, that the Federal Government assumes most of the cost of the alluvial valley's flood protection from Cape Girardeau to the Passes.

The point has now been reached in flood control development where, as Gen. Max C. Tyler, River Commission president, declares, the people must cease retreating from the river, and through deep dredging and bank retreating which will hold the river's present alignment, protect the investment.

The retreat which he has in mind is represented by that policy of building setback levees every time the river cuts into the bank and threatens a section of main line levee. Not only is this an expensive policy, but it involves costly waste of lost agricultural lands. How costly is illustrated by records of the Lower Yazoo Levee District which, since 1880, has lost 305 miles of levees by setbacks until today none of the main line levees in that district stand on their original sites.

While that which General Tyler advocates is a complete departure from current flood control policies, it would, if carried out, provide a backlog of employment projects which would go a long way toward caring for the valley's needs in that respect over a long period of post-war years.

One of the features which others wish to see included in this changed policy is deepening of the channel from Cairo to Baton Rouge from 9 to 12 feet. That would be a phase of what General Tyler means by deep dredging, and it will be essential if the Mississippi River and the alluvial valley are to enjoy to the fullest the opportunities which will be presented after the war.

It will be only through bank retreating and deep dredging that the present river alignment can be held, and that, in General Tyler's opinion, along with its present flood-carrying capacity and navigation channel, is the best the river has ever had.

During his discussion of the traffic burden the river is now carrying, General Tyler revealed that some 800 war vessels have passed down the river to the Gulf from upper river shipyards and that the traffic in that respect is just starting. With an eventual 12-foot channel the movement of vessels of greater draft will be possible, and there is every reason to believe that the Mississippi will become a greater artery for trade than ever before.

The program advocated by General Tyler is the practical advocacy of one of the Nation's most experienced river engineers, and is therefore worthy of the most serious consideration from the Congress and others having control of the river's future, not only as to flood control, but to navigation possibilities as well.

It should challenge, too, the attention of all citizens of the alluvial valley, whose economy, of course, is still dependent on the manner in which the river is controlled. The Nation is already thinking seriously in terms of post-war construction projects and programs which will prevent any widespread unemployment during what will be the tremendous period of transition.

It is not too early, as General Tyler says, to be planning seriously for a practical down-to-earth program for the Mississippi River. — Commercial Appeal.

John and James Vansant, 4-H'ers in Elliott county, received an average of 90 eggs a day in November from their flock of 116 hens.

He spoke of the difficulties he had in some of the mechanical problems. He was short of "sorts," he said, these being extra letters of type, and ordering from London was a long-drawn out affair. He had seen type cast while in London, and while he did not observe closely, as he said, "he managed to rig up a mold and cast tolerable sorts." He had learned many things in London and he put them all to use in his job in Philadelphia. Later he managed to form a partnership and go into business, but reading of his experiences, I get the idea that nothing was ever very easy for him. The things which we take for granted today constituted problems for him, and the things we buy easily and cheaply he had to manufacture. As I start the New Year I am going to think of Benjamin and what problems he had when I begin to think of what I call problems.

FARM MEETING TO STRESS 1944 WAR FOOD PRODUCTION

Kentucky's food production in the war effort will be one of the main topics for discussion at the annual Farm and Home Convention to be held at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, January 25-28.

A leading part will be taken by members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Some of the speakers and their subjects are:

"The University Goes to War," President H. L. Donovan; "Some Things Farmers Ought to Know," Dean Thomas P. Cooper; "Uses for Farm By-Products," J. S. McHargue; "The Farm Labor Problem," Bruce Poundstone; "The Outlook for Farming," H. B. Price; "Grains that Yield Best," E. J. Kinney; "Controlling the Corn Borer," W. A. Price; "Better Varieties of Tobacco," W. D. Valleau; "The Kentucky Seed Improvement Association," B. W. Fortenberry; "Quality in Hay," W. P. Garrigus; "Poultry Raising," J. E. Humphreys; "What's Ahead for Fruit Growers," W. W. Magill; "Hybrid Corn," W. C. Johnston; "Dairy Herd Improvement," Lynn Copeland; "War-time Hog Production," R. W. Pifer, and "Fertilizer and Lime Needs," M. E. Weeks.

Farm organizations to meet during the convention are the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association; the Kentucky Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey and Brown Swiss cattle clubs; the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association; the Kentucky Rural Church Council; and the Kentucky Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Association.

In Hart county 1,005,224 quarts of food were canned, 26,886 bushels stored, and 4,503 pounds frozen in lockers.

LOW MILK PRICES CAUSE HERD SALES

That low whole-milk prices paid to farmers in McCracken county have resulted in the dispersal of 20 percent of the dairy herds since the war, is told by County Agent Joe Hurt. According to a recent survey, prices paid to farmers in that county are below those in other areas. The 90-cow herd of W. L. Hunt, veteran dairyman, is for sale at the present time, Hurt said.

Everett Preston of Lawrence county successfully cleaned his hemp seed by removing the fan from his car and attaching it to an electric motor.

ALLIED INVASION ARMY WILL BE 73 PCT. AMERICAN
Britain To Furnish Less Than One-Third, Johnson Says

Washington.—The United States will furnish 75 per cent and Great Britain 27 per cent of the troops to be used in the gigantic European attack on Germany, Senator Johnson (D., Colo.), said he has been informed.

Senator Johnson a member of the Military Affairs Committee who maintains close touch with Army developments, says he obtained this estimate from what he considers a thoroughly reliable source. He adds that the believes that stated proportions justify the selection of an American—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—as commander in chief of the Allied invasion forces.

"Since we are going to furnish most of the men and have to do most of the fighting," the Coloradoan observes, "I am glad that an American is to be at the head of the invasion forces."

While noting that it might shock some Americans to learn this country is being called upon to throw nearly three times as many men as the British into the fighting, Senator Johnson did not challenge in any way the overall strategic decision.

From other sources it was learned that the decision calling on the American forces to bear the major burden of the invasion rested on the fact that the British do not have reserves which would permit them to pour an unlimited number of men into the invasion force.

General Eisenhower's command the European assault troops, announced by President Roosevelt, will put him in the practical position of a field marshal, yet subordinate to Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff.

G. O. P. EYES NEW ROLE IN WAITING TAX LEGISLATION

Compromise Effort Indicated On Recognition Act

Washington.—Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee may reopen the $2,275,000,000 second wartime Revenue Bill after the Christmas recess in an effort to compromise war profit renegotiation amendments bitterly opposed by the Administration.

Some capital sources are speculating that the war profits law revisions might bring a presidential veto of the Tax Bill.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he and other members are making a survey of the renegotiation question and if they become convinced that the effect of amendments voted into the bill by a bi-partisan majority will be bad, they will ask the committee to re-examine them.

Bitter Controversy
Chairman George (D., Ga.), told a reporter when apprised of this development that while he regarded the committee's previous approval of the bill as final, he recognized the right of members to ask for reconsideration of amendments.

There has been bitter controversy between Administration officials and members of Congress about two committee-approved proposals. One of these would make mandatory, where the House had made optional, the exemption from operations of the renegotiation scaling-down machinery the profits made on standard commercial articles. Another would exempt retroactively the profits on such equipment as machine tools and incidentals purchased by war contractors for production of material bought by the Government.

VIOLENT DEATH

TOLL IS 339

Traffic accidents topped the somber parade of violent deaths for the Nation's Christmas week-end extending from 6 p. m. Friday until last midnight.

The total for all violent deaths stood at 339, nine above the 330 recorded for the same week-end last year. But traffic this year, with its toll of 218 lives, was sixteen above last year and almost exactly half of 1941's 436.

Fires accounted for thirty-eight deaths this week-end; miscellaneous accidents such as falls took eighty-five lives. A fleet and rain-storm in the East was a contributory cause, leading Washington to report 125 injuries but no fatalities Saturday or Sunday.

2 COLLEGE GIRLS, STRENGTH TESTED, PROVE 'HE-MEN'

Ithaca, N. Y.—Two members of the so-called "weaker sex," Violet Kissell of Staten Island, N. Y., and Kay Camerato of New York City, have strength indices as high as most football players.

Physical fitness tests given the two Ithaca College girls by Isadore Yavits, varsity soccer, basketball and track coach, show strength indices of 2,574 for Miss Kissell and 2,487 for Miss Camerato.

Yavits figures that any man with a score of 2,500 has the power to make a college football team. Only two players, he adds, on last year's varsity basketball team had strength indices as high as the two girls.

PADUCAH JURY IS NONCOMMITTAL IN SOLDIER'S DEATH

Paducah, Ky.—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Pfc. Raymond Blackburn, Burley, Ky., returned a noncommittal verdict late today. The jury found that the soldier, who was stationed at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., "died from a broken back from an unknown cause."

Private Blackburn died in a hospital here Saturday, a few hours after an unidentified man found him injured beneath a railroad trestle over Island Creek. He suffered a broken back and fractured ribs, and suffered from exposure.

Army intelligence officers from Camp Breckinridge assisted Paducah police in an investigation, no report on which has been made.

DETROIT F. B. I. CHIEF TO FORD

Detroit.—John S. Bugas, chief of the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is resigning to take a personnel post with Ford Motor Company.

Bugas said he will be chief assistant to Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director. He will leave the F. B. I. January 15. No announcement of a successor has been made.

Head of the Detroit F. B. I. for five and a half years, Bugas figured in prominent counter-espionage work by this Government and took part in cracking an alleged spy ring in the pay of agents for Nazi Germany.

JOSEPH E. OMAR HELPS WIN HONORS FOR HIS SQUADRON

Joseph E. Omar, Seaman, First Class, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Omar, of 401 Lexington Avenue, Jackson, Tenn., and formerly of Fulton, is a member of a squadron about which its commander recently stated in a citation: "No squadron in any navy has won more battle honors in less time. There are no ships which have delivered more devastating blows to the enemy than those of this squadron."

Your heroic conduct and magnificent ability will make your families and your country pretty proud of you. May God continue to bless you."

General Douglas MacArthur said of the same squadron: "Please express to the sincere congratulations of everyone here for the splendid accomplishments. Every officer and man deserves commendation."

Joseph E. Omar

Among the other commendations were the following: "You knocked them under the sea, out of the air, and into the ground. Our folks at home need have no anxiety as to the outcome of this or any other war as long as they continue to produce such fighting men to man our fine ships."

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Omar moved to Jackson from Fulton recently, after residing here for the past 25 years. Mr. Omar was engine foreman here for the I. C. Railroad. Seaman Omar was born and reared here and enlisted in the Navy August 7, 1940 in Jackson, Tenn. He is now in the South Pacific.

Mrs. Virgil Gaynor of Hancock county has a flock of 215 Rhode Island Reds which, in November, produced 20 eggs per bird, and made a profit of $105 above feed costs.

Fifty thousand pounds of vetch and 10,000 pounds of crimson clover seed were used with small grain and rye mixtures in Carter county this fall.

Half of the farmers in Mason county are reported to be hauling water for livestock, or moving stock to water.

In the Sinking Club Homemakers' Club in Christian county, there are seven members who have been in the club 25 years.

Luster Martin of Bell county harvested 100 bushels of 72-B hybrid corn from one acre.

4-H CLUB GIRLS CAN 3,000 QUARTS

Of 118 4-H club girls in Simpson county who enrolled to can food, all completed their projects. They put up 3,000 quarts of food for winter use. Approximately 1,000 hours of time were spent by the club members in doing their own canning or in assisting their mothers or neighbors.

HEMP SEED READY

More than 25,000 bushels of hemp seed have been cleaned, tagged and stored in Jesamine county. That yields were less than last year was due to upland planting and the drought, according to Farm G. C. Rount on 5,000 acres, returns varied from three to 20 bushels.

NUTS PAY TAXES

Hickory nuts paid the taxes on the Darrell Winkler farm in Estill county when Mrs. Winkler picked up and sold 10 bushels at $3 a bushel. Besides helping her husband with the tobacco, this homemaker practiced the live-at-home program by canning 500 quarts of vegetables and fruits.

CHICAGO PASSES 5,000,000 MARK

Chicago. —Mayor Edward J. Kelly, after studying ration-book registration figures, estimates that the population of Chicago's metropolitan area has passed the 5,000,000 mark.

He said, in a report, that the population in the metropolitan area totaled 5,067,995, an increase of 91,149 over the 1940 census. He estimated that the metropolitan area outside of Chicago has a total population of 1,350,170.

Chicago gained only 20,470 inhabitants between the 1930 and 1940 census. Kelly's figures indicated a gain of nearly 11 times as much in less than three years.

The metropolitan area includes Chicago, all of Cook county, six townships in Lake County, three in DuPage county and all of Lake County, Ind.

50-50 INVASION FORCE IS URGED BY WHEELER

Commenting on the statement of Senator Johnson (D-Col.) that 73 per cent of the invasion forces will be American, Wheeler said: If we are to furnish 70 per cent or more, we will be furnishing far too great a proportion. At least it should be a 50-50 proposition between us and Great Britain."

'GAS' DRUG FINDER HAD BETTER BEWARE

Rockford, Ill. — If anyone finds a black gasoline drum which recently disappeared from a refrigeration serving concern here, it should be handled with care—and not sniffed.

"That drum," warned William Welty, refrigeration service man, "carries thirty-five pounds of lethal gas which can snuff out a man's life in a twinkling."

The gas, added Welty, is highly inflammable and a powerful explosive and could cause heavy damage to a room as well as kill or seriously injure anyone near it.

EVEN BLIND MAN DOES PART IN WAR WINNING

Morwood, Mass. — Even the blind can put their shoulder to the wheels of war. Roger Walker of Norwood, a graduate of the Perkins Institute for the Blind in 1919, spends his week-days winding wire for pipe covers at the Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard, his Sundays playing a carillon.

SERVANTS GET PLUMBING IN BUCKINGHAM PALACE

London. — Modern plumbing is being installed for the first time in the servants' quarters of Buckingham Palace.

As in most British mansions, bathrooms have been few in the palace, central heating has been confined to a few rooms.

Now a wing damaged by German bombs is repaired and modernized.

TO TIGHTEN CENSORSHIP ON NEWS FROM LONDON

London. — More rigid censorship of war news flowing from Britain to the United States can be expected in the coming weeks as American and British forces mass their strength for the continental invasion under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This was foreshadowed today with the disclosure by Capt. Eugene F. Nute, who is taking over as the army's chief press censor, that the military censorship step is being expanded considerably.

He insisted, however, that the move was only normal under the circumstances. The army censorship staff for the European theater of operations now numbers 30, virtually doubled in recent weeks, and it is expected to be increased soon. "We are getting pretty cagey," Capt. Nute said, "since coming events may cast their shadows before them."

It is reasonable to assume that the principal future concern will be

DECLARES LABOR DRAFT NEEDED

Washington — On the heels of President Roosevelt's invasion statement, Senator Austin (R-Vt.) said Saturday Congress soon will be confronted with the necessity of enacting a national labor draft law.

"The time for a national service act is imminent," he told reporters upon disclosing that members of the Senate military affairs committee had conducted a confidential study of homefront manpower in relation to a stepped-up war tempo.

The Vermontor declined to make public details of the report, but said "it has increased our belief that we are confronted with the necessity of such direction of the labor resources of the country as will increase the efficiency of our war effort; it must be increased, and in my opinion legislation will be necessary to accomplish it."
