BREEDING OF PUREBRED CATTLE IMPORTANT WAR JOB

Breeding purebred cattle and other livestock during the war period should not be neglected because of its importance to the future of the industry and to the meat supply of the nation, says L. A. Richardson, U-T Extension animal husbandman.

"The breeding of purebred cattle is a long time program," he states. "To set up objectives and inaugurate a system requires a period of years, frequently a life time. Too fresh in the memory of some is that period following the first World War. We come then to the early thirties when the constructive breeding work of many of the Nation's best breeders was wiped out a distinct loss to the beef cattle industry of seed stock so badly needed in beef cattle improvement."

A wider distribution of purebred cattle of superior merit both in breeding and individuality is needed now, Mr. Richardson points out. While money is available, farmers of the state should by all means build up and maintain their herds. To meet growing industrial requirements and to build for a sound economic agricultural future, more herds of beef cattle of improved breeding are needed.

A series of six cooperative purebred cattle sales have been arranged for late March and early April to afford farmers an opportunity to secure breeding stock for herd improvement, Mr. Richardson states. For further information as to dates and places see your county agent.

FARMERS TO REPORT ACP PERFORMANCE

In step with wartime's demand for greater personal responsibility, farmers throughout Kentucky this year will report their performance under the Agricultural Conservation Program, said M. D. Roysse, State Chairman of Kentucky Agricultural Adjustment Agency. Last year, reporters employed by local Agricultural Conservation Associations determined performance on the farm.

"Through this new system we expect to save man hours, tires and gasoline, since it will not be necessary for an AAA representative to visit all farms," stated Mr. Roysse. "Farmers will report the acreages of war crops and special crops and the extent of production practices carried out on their farms. They will be expected to make measurements where acreage have not been ascertained. Careful estimates of corn, wheat and most production practices."

Mr. Roysse pointed out that farmers should determine their crop acreages before the crops are planted.

"In making their measurements, farmers should exchange services with their neighbors," he said.

Community committeemen of the AAA will assist farmers in preparing their performance reports. If the farmers have their acreage records available, the reports can be prepared in a short time. The report forms will be simple, yet inclusive.

Farmers who carry out soil-building practices later in the year will make an additional report toward the end of the program year which closes in the East Central States on December 31, 1943.

In order to obtain an over-all summary of the general success of the new farmer-reporting system, committeemen will review all reports and will check several farms in their communities. In cases where errors are plainly evident, the committeemen will also make special check-ups.

DECEPTIVE EARNINGS

A writer for a leading financial paper recently reported on a few of the equipment improvisations the railroads are resorting to in their efforts to "keep 'em rolling." He cites how "railroad locomotives are running today with piston rods which once were axles. Coal and ore carrying cars have more patches than a hobo's pants. Many a small freight car has been fitted with new sides, designed for one of its bigger brothers, but trimmed down to fit. . . . Long pieces of structural steel are made by welding short ones. Steam pipe castings are reclaimed by patching; large bolts are cut down and used for smaller bolts. Rollers for freight car side doors are reclaimed by reaming and applying oversize pins; tie rods are re-treated for use as shorter pieces; hose for air, steam, water and acetylene purposes is reclaimed by splicing good sections of worn-out lengths. Sheet steel for sides and roofs of cars and locomotives, track frogs, couplers, buffers, castings and castings are rebuilt or repaired by welding."

These are some of the reasons why railroad earnings are deceptive. Equipment that should be replaced is being driven harder than ever. Money that should be spent for material appears as "earnings" solely because the needed materials are not available. But sooner or later vast sums will have to be spent to renew the nation's rail system. Unless the railroads are permitted to retain money while traffic volume is large, they will not be able to meet the problem of postwar rehabilitation.

The question is now before the Interstate Commerce Commission as to whether railroad rates should be reduced in the face of increased expenses at every turn. The facts presented during the hearing indicate that rates are reasonable. In the interest of maintaining a sound transportation system, this is a poor time to start starving the railroads.

"Judge, there's been quite a bit of talk going around about prohibiting liquor in various spots around the country... around the Army camps for one thing. What do you make of it?"

"Well, Henry, I size it up about like this. It looks to me like the folks who are doing the talking are shooting a little bit higher than most people seem to realize. Sort of like the salesman who gets his foot in the door and before you know it he's sold you a bill of goods. Wouldn't surprise me a bit if what they're really aiming for is to take in the whole country again. We all know it didn't work the last time. All we got was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus racketeers, gangsters and the worst crime wave the country ever saw.

WHAT MAY WE HATE

by RUTH TAYLOR

There are some people today that are saying that what is lacking in this war is a good hate—that until we begin to hate, we won't begin to fight. They are our propaganda keyed to a horror theme, so that our people will be mad with rage. They forget that mass hatred is just a step from mob hatred—and that no one can predict on whom the mob will turn next.

But if we cannot hate a people—what may we hate?

We may hate war. We can hate war so much that we will fight with every ounce of our ability to wipe it from the earth forever—not in a servile pacifist withdrawal from the fight, but in a supreme battle against those criminals who bring desolation and destruction upon the peaceful peoples of the world. We can hate war so much that we will gladly put aside our way of life for a while so that we may speedily put an end to war.

We may hate intolerance. We may hate intolerance so intensely that we will try to stamp it out wherever it exists, in any place in the world, toward any group, whether that group be majority or minority. We may hate intolerance so much that we will set a seal upon our own lips and see to it that no intolerant act or speech of ours add flame to this funeral pyre of unity.

We may hate discrimination. We can hate it so vehemently that we will demand equal rights for all people. We may have discrimination so intensely that we will insist that all people be judged upon their individual merits and not as a group.

We may hate discrimination so sincerely that we will never demand special privileges for ourselves as part of any group.

We may hate cruelty. We may fight to the bitter end to wipe out organized cruelty to any people anywhere. We may hate treachery, deceit, dishonor. We may hate it so that we ostracize from our lives all those who live by these practices. We may hate injustice. We may hate it enough to give our lives for "Ye that love the Lord, hate evil" the cause of freedom and fair play, spake the Psalmist. These things may we hate and against these things do we fight.

MAKING STAINLESS STEEL

If we didn't have electricity, we wouldn't have stainless steel, one of the most important elements of our war machine. To make stainless steel, extremely close control of temperatures is required, and only electric furnaces can provide such control.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered
Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter toxins and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permits rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

"OF ALL THE DYNAMIC INDUSTRIES,
THE NATION PERHAPS OWES ITS GREATEST DEBT OF GRATITUDE TO THE RAILROADS"

—ERIC A. JOHNSTON, President
United States Chamber of Commerce

THE epic story of war production now being written by American industry has no parallel. Equipment of every conceivable kind is rolling off the assembly lines—tanks, guns, planes, jeeps, shells. The flow is ceaseless. The army alone demands half a million separate items that must be manufactured. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Mexican border to Canada, factories are producing as never before.

It is a tremendous job, and industry has proved itself equal to the task. The railroads are an active, dominant part of it all. As an extension of the assembly lines of industry, they move raw materials into manufacturing plants, then carry the finished products to military or naval bases, or to wherever the need for them exists.

People everywhere are becoming more conscious of the railroads in connection with war production. Without them the huge volume of war goods now rolling from assembly lines would be reduced to a trickle. "Of all the dynamic industries of America," says the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, "the nation perhaps owes its greatest debt of gratitude to the railroads."

As one of the nation's great railroads, the Illinois Central is conscious of its war obligations and is fulfilling them.

LIFTING is hard work. Charley Allen is puffing, perspiring—and feeling foolish. But he gladly follows the doc's directions.

Charley's buying another life insurance policy—and, at the same time, another stake in his electric light and power company.

Probably, like most folks, he doesn't look past the policy. But it's a fact that his insurance company will take his premium dollars and put them to work for him—partly in utility securities.

Here are interesting figures furnished by the Institute of Life Insurance:

1. As of December 31, 1942, some 67 million people owned 134 million life insurance policies in 300 different companies.

2. These companies, in turn, owned $5,060,000,000 of utility securities.

3. Through the life insurance companies alone, therefore, 90% of the adult population of the United States has a big stake in the utility industry.

The electric companies under business management—which provide the great bulk of the power for America's war production—are literally built by the savings of the same people they serve.

Clearly, almost every American, has a real interest in preserving the American system of business management under public regulation—the system that has produced more goods and more services for more people at lower cost than any other in the world!

You can help knock out the Nazis, barbarians and restore peace and decency to the world by putting every cent you can possibly spare into War Bonds and Stamps. And lending to Uncle Sam is the safest place for your money. Don't wait. Buy now!

Well Known Business Man Endorses Retonga

Indigestion So Bad Was Afraid To Eat Solid Food. Felt Achy From Toxic Clogging. States Mr. Langham. Tells of Happy Relief Through Retonga.

Mr. W. S. Langham, well known retired business man, residing at 333 9th St. Nashville, Tenn.

known what it was to enjoy a meal for fear of indigestion. I finally got so I was afraid to eat solid foods. Still, I suffered with bloating, the pressure so strong it seemed it would cut off my breath. I to the corner store and back. I lost weight until I was down to 115 pounds. My bowels were so sluggish I had to take strong laxative medicines most every night. It just seemed nothing would give me any relief and I felt doomed to suffer on and on.

"So many people were recommending Retonga I decided to try it. That was a happy, fortunate day for me. I am relieved of indigestion and resultant gas, bloating and stubborn constipation. I feel stronger and have gained back several pounds of my lost weight. I wish every man and woman suffering as I did could try Retonga."

Retonga is a purely herbal stomachic medicine combined with Vitamin B-1 for the relief of distress as described by Mr. Langham, when due to insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, constipation, and Vitamin B-1 deficiency. Thousands praise it. Accept
