Note Book

Somewhere I heard recently that New Year's resolutions were made to be broken and I took the conversation seriously. I promised myself last year that regardless of what happened I was going to find the time to write a column every week. A dozen times last week I told myself I had to write a column, jotted down things to write about, and then promptly put another matter on the priority list and you know what happened. I didn't get to write the column at all, but even at press time I was thinking about jotting down a few lines to tell you I didn't have time to write a column and then didn't even have time to sit down and tell you I didn't have time. Brother, if you don't think that's a rat-run to be in, just ask me. I told you, didn't I, without your asking me... it's a rat-run to be in.

Among my other resolutions made last year was to attend the meetings of the Fulton City Council and when I could to attend the meetings of the South Fulton City Council, if there was no conflict. Well, so far I haven't broken that resolution, but don't take any odds that it won't be broken, for several reasons. Chief reason is that I have cut down going out of evenings to a minimum since I have sixth grade and freshman high school home work to do and another reason is that I'm not so sure I know all about what I'm hearing at the new commission meetings.

At the outset let me say that, by and large, we have a very fine group of public officials in both cities and since I have attended the Fulton City meetings I can say that, by and large, the commissioners and the Mayor are sincere and dedicated men interested in doing a good job for the city. Mayor Gilbert DeMyer is doing an exemplary job of presiding and keeping the meeting moving along and of course L. M. McBride has always been one of our favorite people and it's a real pleasure to see him discuss with the financial and other matters of the city in a business-like and extremely fair attitude to all persons involved.

Commissioners McCain and Moline I do not know so well, but it is obvious that they are men of integrity, sound and level-headed and with the courage of their convictions. To quiet-spoken Clarence Moline has fallen the extremely difficult assignment of police and fire commissioner and that's a job for a man with a strong back and an extremely strong mind. Since there are more employees in these two departments than in the others that means that there are more problems and certainly more complaints from the public. If Clarence is even slightly perturbed at the problems he faces, he surely doesn't show it, and I imagine he never will.

As far as Commissioner Bill Rice is concerned I can only say that wherever he is there is never a dull moment, or a quiet one for that matter. During the last campaign I described the former Louisville as being volatile and Bill went straightway to the dictionary to see what I meant. I used the word in the manner of being "explosive" and that's the understatement of the year. Bill says what he thinks and it is for the historians to decide whether that's a good or a bad trait in a public official. For instance at the commission meeting Monday Bill accused the officials involved in the sewage disposal plant of "bluffing" the City of Fulton into taking part in the joint project. Bill also said "we (the City of Fulton) may be hooked into the project and taken down the road." He may be right, who knows, but aren't they interesting statements to record?

Reminds me of what an interested spectator said at the commission meeting Monday night. Said she: "You're taking more notes about Bill's quotations than you are about the business transacted." Figured, because Bill's quotes were far more noteworthy than the routine business transacted. For instance when Commissioner Moline and Chief Smith were discussing the sale of some used police uniforms Rice chirps up and wants to know how many pairs of pants the policemen had since he thought they ought to be cleaned about once a year. Now I think that's a right public spirited view for an elected official to take.

Nutter To Speak At Development Association Meet

JAMES NUTTER

James H. Nutter, deputy commissioner in the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, is to speak in Fulton on January 17 at a 7 p. m. meeting of The Twin Cities Development Association.

Nutter, in his present post since January, 1960, was a member of a Frankfort residential and commercial construction firm for 14 years prior to entering State service. Active in business and civic affairs, Nutter was twice president of the Frankfort-Juniata Chamber of Commerce and served on the Frankfort Recreation Board. He is a native of Louisville.

Brooks Oliver And Son, Jerry, Seriously Injured In Accident

Brooks Oliver, 39, of Fulton, Route 5, an employee of Radio Station WCMT at Martin, and his son, Jerry, 8, were seriously injured in an automobile accident Monday night at 9 on Highway 45-E between McConnell and Martin.

Mr. Oliver and his son had been to Martin bowling and were enroute home when the accident occurred.

According to another son, Johnny Oliver, 19, his father's car left the highway near a bridge and dropped down a 30 foot embankment. The 1960 Opel was demolished. Jerry was thrown through the windshield.

Mr. Oliver walked, carrying his injured son back to the Martin radio station, where a doctor was called and the two injured persons were taken to hospital. Later, they were transferred to Memphis. Mr. Oliver is a patient at the Veteran Hospital and his son is at the Baptist Hospital.

Jerry is suffering from severe lacerations of the face, both eyes were injured and his right leg was broken in two places between the knee and ankle. He was in surgery from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Tuesday shortly after 4 and reported that the doctors believed he would be alright, but that the boy would be partially blind. Monday night it was believed that the child would lose one eye. Mr. Oliver has an injured shoulder and severe lacerations of the face.

Young Boy Injured Here Thursday Night

Larry Pruett, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Pruett of East State Line, was injured Thursday night at 8:30, when he pulled a metal cabinet over on top of him, cutting his face and head.

The child received a severe laceration of the right jaw and left upper lip. He also had a smaller cut on top of his head. He was admitted to Hillview Hospital for treatment.

His father is Night Fire Chief at South Fulton. He was taken to the hospital by Night Policeman James Adams.

Hickman To Launch Bid For KU System

Action towards purchasing Kentucky Utilities Co. holdings in the electric system serving Hickman will be taken shortly at a special city council meeting.

Mayor C. F. Davis informed Hoy Barnett, chairman of Citizens for TVA West of the Cumberland, of the proposed council meeting following a low cost power meeting at the courthouse at Hickman Friday night.

Members of the low cost power organization from all parts of Western Kentucky attended the Hickman meeting. Some 80 persons paid the $1 membership fee to join the organization Friday night.

10-Year-Old Toughy Gives Juvenile Judge Rough Way

By Ouida Jewell

A small 10-year-old boy of West Hickman has Juvenile Judge John Bondurant puzzled.

The child, according to his parents, has been a toughy since he was two-years-old.

The lad has stolen considerable sums of money on more than one occasion, has run away from home, and done numerous other bad things, according to a county official.

After his latest escapade of stealing money from his mother's purse, his parents had him arrested. Just prior to that he had stolen more money—about $45 each time—from his parents, hired a cab to Union City, and rented himself a room at a hotel. He was apprehended when he went to the bus station to purchase a ticket to Fort Knox, Ky.

Being in jail at Hickman seemed to please the 10-year-old, no end. At the same time there were six or seven other juveniles, all older than him, in the Fulton County jail. They paid him a lot of attention and this made him feel important.

When the boy was arrested, he told officers to "Send me up for life," and before County Judge Bondurant he asked to be sent to a State Home for Boys.

The lad's case was continued from last week until this past Monday. Then, the juvenile judge continued the case until on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

A county official said that the judge didn't want to send the child to a home—that it might do him more harm than good, as that is what the boy wants. He seems to think that it would make him important.

After realizing how much the child was enjoying being in jail, with attention from the older boys and visits and gifts from his family, the judge ordered that the 10-year-old be put in a cell by himself, and the older boys were told not to talk with him. Also, he was not allowed visitors and gifts.

This seemed to break the boy down, for after the second night, he began to cry and wanted his Daddy. He was allowed to go home.

The boy lives in West Hickman with his Dad and step-mother. His mother and step-father live across the street.

Asked by a reporter the reason for so many juvenile delinquents in West Hickman, the county official said, "The lack of love and attention from the parents."

South Fulton Ready To Start Sewage Plant

The City of South Fulton is ready to let a contract for a $440,000 sewage treatment plant as soon as an agreement for treatment of Fulton sewage can be reached, according to South Fulton Mayor Milton Council.

Members of the newly elected Fulton City Commission met Thursday night with South Fulton council and mayor to discuss the project.

On hand to discuss plans and fees with the officials of the twin cities were representatives of the Kentucky Stream Pollution Commission, the Tennessee Health Department, Fulton and Obion County Health Departments and engineers representing both cities.

In 1958 the South Fulton city council agreed to build the plant and to charge Fulton a monthly fee for services.

The meeting Thursday night was for the purpose of explaining the proposed plan.

The business meeting followed a dinner at the Park Terrace.

"Whose Siren Now?" Commission Asks Miller To Sing

"Whose Siren Now?" is the song being sung around City Hall these days. The title sounds a little like the real song "Whose Sorry Now?" and that could well be the second verse of the new title.

Here's the story according to Fire Chief Nemo Williams who was called before the commission meeting on Monday to throw some light on the matter as to why former Police Chief Roy Nethery refuses to turn in the siren he used on his car while he was on the local force.

It goes like this: Fire Chief Williams reported to former Mayor Nelson Tripp that the siren on his (Williams) car was just wheezing instead of wailing and needed some major repairs. Williams told the Commissioners that Tripp told him it would cost more to repair the ailing siren than it would to buy another one, so Tripp told Williams to go ahead and get a new one for the fire chief's car. "And," Williams told the Commissioners, "Mayor Tripp said while I was ordering one for my car to go ahead and order one for the patrol car and one for Roy Nethery." Williams complied and three new sirens came 'ablowing into town.

Tripp bought the sirens without official authority from the Council, City Legal Consultant Rodney Miller told the Commission Monday, but since they were paid for by public funds they should be the property of the City of Fulton, he further advised.

The Commission instructed Mr. Miller to write Mr. Nethery the status of the siren's ownership, but some spectators at the meeting Monday night are wondering if the City can reclaim the siren since the purchases were not legally authorized by the Council and therefore not a bona fide city purchase.

Commission Ups Bethel's Salary Over Rice's Protest; Crack Down Seen On Bills

The Fulton City Commission overrode the protest of Commissioner Bill Rice and made an adjustment in the salary of night fire chief E. W. Bethel after a petition signed by more than 300 citizens was presented to the Commission in an adjourned meeting Monday night. Bethel, a 20-year veteran of the local force was cut from $258.50 to $176 at the first meeting of the newly elected officials. Police and Fire Commissioner Clarence Moline, in answering the petition said that Bethel was demoted after a careful study of his qualifications as a police officer. Moline took credit for Bethel's demotion and said that he (Moline) and Police Chief Duck Smith thought it in the best interests of the police department that Bethel be relegated to the night fireman's post.

It was Finance Commissioner L. M. McBride who reviewed the salary status of two other night employees, each making $100 a month for two, 48-hour weeks. McBride recommended that Bethel be paid the same salary, in comparison to hours worked, as the other employees and Bethel's salary was raised to $200 per month. At the same time Chief Smith told the commission that he would make extra time available to Bethel to have the salary come as near as possible to the $258.50 he was making as patrolman.

In the vote, Mayor Gilbert DeMyer and Commissioners Moline and McBride voted for the salary increase. Commissioner Rice voted "No" to the increase, and even removed the ever present cigar from his mouth to make the protest loud and clear. Mayor and Commissioners that Commissioner Bob McCain was absent from the meeting because of illness.

(The News was unable to learn the reason for Rice's protest to Bethel's salary increase, however told the officials, "and a salary decrease of nearly $80 a month is a serious blow," she added. She asked that Mr. Bethel's increase be considered not only as a patrolman, but in any capacity to perform any duties that would enable him to make a wage sufficient to meet his financial obligations.

In the public works department Commissioner Rice signified his intention to crack down on gas and water consumers who become delinquent in the payment of their accounts. Rice asked that the gas and water ordinances be amended to stipulate that all gas and water bills be paid by the twentieth of the month and if not paid by that date service to be discontinued. The Commissioner also asked that a $5.00 re-connect charge be made to resume either of the services and that service be resumed only after the charge and the delinquent account is paid. The city attorney was instructed to make the amendments.

Rice asked earlier that the accounts be designated delinquent after the fifteenth of the month, but when City Clerk Martha Smith reminded the commission that many old people on pensions and social security payments receive their checks about the twenty-seventh of the month and that the earlier payment would create a hardship on them, Commissioner Rice boomed: "Are we running a charitable institution of a city government?"

The long standing matter of a joint sewage disposal plant with the City of South Fulton was discussed among the Mayor and Commissioners. The Fulton official body met last week with

Jaycees To Erect New Scoreboard For Football Field At South Fulton This Year

It's time for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce's Boss and Awards night and deep mystery surrounds the voting that will recognize the Key Man of the Jaycees, the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, the outstanding Young Man Award and the award to the boss of the year who has persevered with the employee who spends more time with Jaycee activities than with his gainful employment. James Young, immediate past president of the local club is chairman of the most colorful Jaycee event of the year that will be held at the Fulton Country Club on Thursday, January 18 as an "all male affair."

At the time that Mr. Young announced next week's event he also reported that a major project for next year is the erection of a new $1800 scoreboard at South Fulton's football field.

Edward L. "Ned" Breathitt, a member of Kentucky's Public Service Commission will be the principal speaker for the event. Mr. Breathitt, mentioned prominently as a candidate for Governor of Kentucky in 1963 is a dynamic speaker, an able lawyer and a former Jaycee who has contributed an untold amount of effort to the growth of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Kentucky.

The Key Man award is presented to the Jaycee who has contributed the greatest amount of effort to the local organization; the distinguished service award is presented to the Jaycee who has contributed much to the local club but has also participated in outside Jaycee activities; the Outstanding Young Man award is presented to the Jaycee who has distinguished himself in every phase of endeavor and the Outstanding Boss award is presented to the employer who often says to the Jaycee in his employ: "If this

Fulton, South Fulton Police Victims Of Mistaken Identity

Fulton police, on a trail of a man wanted in Missouri, came upon an automobile containing several weapons Friday afternoon and touched off a search that led to a refinisher of antique guns.

It was some time before the incident was straightened out and Fulton Chief of Police Jean (Duck) Smith in conversation with a man. The man had gone into the store and when he went out his car was gone. He explained to Chief Smith that he was a restorer in antique weapons. He asked that his guns remain at the police department over night while he visited relatives here. A relative took him after his car, after the Fulton police chief was convinced that his patrolmen's identification of the automobile had been a case of mistaken identity.

A tipoff came from a sheriff in Missouri who said he wrecked his automobile while chasing a desperado, and asked that Fulton police be on the lookout for a green and white automobile.

Fulton Patrolmen Horace Stephens and Guy Perry spotted such a car about 4 p. m. parked on the Tennessee side and investigated. Inside they could see two rifles, a pistol and a cross-bow, an ancient weapon given more to the days of Robin Hood than to present times.

They ordered the automobile towed away to Pete's Garage and telephoned James Adams, South Fulton policeman, to help with a

Court Breakdown (But not in Fulton County!)

Ed's note—The following editorial which appeared in an issue of the Paducah Sun-Democrat last week echoes our sentiments so well that we reprint it herewith in case you missed it. While it does not mention the City of Fulton, we believe that the records of Judge Perce's court will also stand with those of Judge Bondurant's. We will long remember Judge Perce's firm penalty for all convicted drunken drivers—regardless of who they were—and we hope that his successor will maintain the same positive attitude against this menace to public streets and highways.

(From the Sun-Democrat):

Law enforcement, to be effective, must operate efficiently and fairly at two levels—the police, and the courts.

The analysis of Kentucky state police records carried in yesterday's Sun-Democrat indicates that traffic law enforcement, at least in the eight western-most counties, has broken down at the County Court level.

The figures covered the six months from April to October of 1961. They showed that 3,029 traffic cases were brought into County Courts by the state police. Only 56 per cent of these resulted in convictions. But the percentage would have been even worse if another 481 "undisposed" cases were counted. These were non-residents brought into County Courts by the police, who were released by the judges without requiring bonds, and who simply refused to return for

Of the 185 persons charged with drunken driving, less than half were convicted. McCracken County's record was worst in this category. Only five of its 53 drunken driving charges resulted in convictions, or nine per cent.

The analysis pointed out the coincidence that traffic deaths—outside populous McCracken—were highest in Carlisle, which had the next-to-lowest percentage of convictions on charges brought by the state police. By contrast in Fulton County, Judge John L. Bondurant found guilty 77 per cent of traffic violators charged in his court. And Fulton County had no traffic deaths at all for the period.

It is no wonder that morale of state patrolmen is suffering from this situation. Where it is a case of their word or that of the person they have charged, the police are believed less than half the time.

This matter involves the possibility of life or death for every citizen—for who knows when he or his wife or child might be run down by a "repeater" reckless or drunken driver who has repeatedly been released by easy-going courts?

Judge Bondurant is proving that enforcement saves lives. Perhaps the answer might be a system of special state traffic courts, removed from the possibility of local politics or influence by having the judges appointed by the Court of Appeals, and placed under the state merit system.

Cheese-Making: A Growing Kentucky Industry

(This is the thirty-seventh in a series of articles on Kentucky's economic progress written by Lieutenant Governor Wilson W. Wyatt, chairman of the State's Economic Development Commission.)

The importance of the cheese producing industry to Kentucky's economy was pointed up just recently when I participated in the groundbreaking ceremony for the expansion of the Stanford Creamery Company in Stanford.

Kentucky produced a record high of over 51 million pounds of cheese in 1960—more than double the cheese production figure of ten years ago.

A total of 445 million pounds of whole milk was used in this production. This is 18 per cent of the total Kentucky milk production in 1960. In addition, a total of over 216 million pounds of unsweetened evaporated whole milk was produced in Kentucky during 1960, an increase of five per cent—more than 10 million pounds—over the 1959 figure.

These figures place Kentucky third in the nation in the production of cheese and fourth among the states in the production of evaporated milk. The 14 cheese producing plants in Kentucky manufacture products with a value in excess of $10 million.

To relate these statistics to the economy of an individual area, let's consider the influence of this one cheese producing plant in Stanford.

In the eight county area in which it is located, this plant purchases approximately 60 million pounds of milk a year. This provides an annual income in excess of $2 million for farmers in this one area alone.

In addition, the plant employs between 45 and 50 people with the receiving station at Liberty providing ten additional jobs. This does not include the number of indirect and supportive jobs created.

The new plant, planned to be ready for operation by April, will afford approximately 15 additional jobs and will double the man hours performed by the existing employees. The company management contemplates that twice the existing volume of milk purchases will be required since plans call for doubling the level of output of processed items.

This will mean annual purchases of 120 million pounds of milk and an annual income to farmers in that area of $4 million.

New and expanding plants such as this one are especially important to Kentucky's economy. It means that Kentucky's increasingly diversified farm products are finding a growing market here at home.

In just a decade Kentucky has moved up from ninth in the nation in cheese production to third among the states. Under our new program of economic development for Kentucky, this progress is being speeded up. New agriculture-based processing plants are being brought to Kentucky and existing plans are being expanded.

This means more dollars for every farm family and more jobs for all Kentuckians.

FROM THE FILES:—

Turning Back The Clock--

January 16, 1942

Reviewing the periodic audit, made by the records of the City of Fulton, The News found considerable improvement in the financial affairs of the city during the past four-year period, ending just recently with the inauguration of a new city administration. The retiring mayor and board were Paul DeMyer, T. T. Boaz, Clarence Pickering, H. H. Bugg, Bert Newhouse, Kellie Lowe and J. N. McNeilly.

The Young Men's Business Club met Tuesday night, Jan. 13, in regular dinner session at the Rainbow Room, in its first meeting after the holidays. Foad Homra, as president, presided over the meeting with a fine attendance of the membership.

W. E. Clark, I. C. chef, died Tuesday afternoon in the Haws clinic, his death resulting from injuries sustained when he leaped from the window of a burning hotel recently.

Lt. E. E. Mount, reserve officer, who will leave Saturday for Fort Lee, Va. and Harold Holiday who was recently drafted and left Tuesday for Fort Oglethorpe, were honored with a dinner Monday night, given by their fellow workers in the local post office. The dinner was served at the South Fulton school.

T. T. Boaz, mayor, Vernon Owen, W. H. Atkins and F. A. Homra attended a meeting Tuesday at the Hall Hotel in Mayfield, which was called by the Kentucky Power League. This league was organized a year ago to advance the section's opportunities to obtain low-cost TVA power.

The Fulton Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting Monday night at the high school.

Following several weeks of negotiation a deal has just recently been closed by which Cletus H. Shell becomes co-publisher of The Fulton County News. Mr. Shell comes to Fulton from Sikeston, Mo., where he was employed with the Sikeston Standard for eight years.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago; original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance. . . . ED.)

BY WILLIAM H. MCNEELY

Second week in January, 1862

The Civil War was entering its second year. Optimists in the North were saying that it would take only the warm months, and the huge Union forces being trained in the North would settle the "rebellion" in a hurry. It was close to battle time in the nation. Mill Springs in Kentucky, Romney in Virginia, Pea Ridge in Arkansas, Ft. Henry and Donaldson on the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers, Roanoke Island in North Carolina . . . and in a few more months would come Shiloh and the campaign up the Peninsula towards (and then back from) Richmond.

In Washington the officials of the British and the U. S. Government settled the Trent Affair with honor to both sides. On New Year's Day both Seward and Lincoln received visits from foreign diplomatic corps.

In Richmond, the newly formed (ten month's old) Confederate government anxiously shuffled troops to meet the threatened many-pronged Federal invasion of the Southland. For once it seemed that the struggle to supply the soldiers had met with success.

In Arkansas and western Missouri, the Confederate Army under Price was at last well-fed, well-shod, well-armed, well-bedded, and they had always been well-led. Gen. Price sent a message to friends in and around St. Louis saying he had 2,500 new tents, fifty-three cannon (some were the new rifled English cannon brought in by blockade runners). Said Price: "You will soon hear of groups of Confederate deserters in your midst. Those men are not deserters, but recruits. Within a few days we will have our army on the banks of the Missouri River."

The St. Louis DEMOCRAT warned: "Unless checked, these recruiting parties will begin a rare work of devilry in bridge-burning and in persecuting of Unionist citizens."

Bridge-burning was a problem everywhere, north and south. Any bit of roadway that could be easily destroyed must be guarded by a detail of men. Down in Rome, Ga., the SOUTHERNER announced that late in December of 1861, an arsonist had tried to burn the bridge over Petis Creek. Said the paper: "The criminal was caught, tried and will be hanged."

It was not a time for anyone in the land to rest easy, but some sanity had been restored to the land by the tales of returned and exchanged prisoners. Col. Mulligan, Union hero of the Battle of Lexington in Missouri, was released by the Confederates and returned to a hero's welcome in Trenton.

In Washington Congressman Ely returned to duty. He had gone out from Washington to watch the battle at Bull Run the last July, and angry Confederates who caught him sent him on to Richmond where he was held for six months. Ely had a tale to tell. He said that the men in the Confederate army treated him with the utmost courtesy but said they could not understand why a Congressman from New York would seek to invade a sovereign state such as Virginia.

Ely had been exchanged for the Hon. Charles J. Faulkner, former Minister to France. Faulkner lived in Martinsburg, Va. When Virginia seceded from the Union, Faulkner resigned his post and came home. He made the mistake of stopping in Washington to get his affairs in order when he was arrested and imprisoned. Faulkner himself arranged the exchange of himself for Ely.

Army men in the North were asking for directions as to how to handle the great masses of Negroes who attached themselves to the Union columns anytime there was a movement in the South. Gen. Lane, asked for permission to put the Negroes to work. (A few more months and some generals would even be asked if they couldn't arm the Negroes and enlist them in special regiments so they could fight!)

Papers reported that Gen. Ferromont, whom Lincoln had removed from command in Missouri, had attended an abolitionist meeting by Wendell Phillips in New York.

In Virginia, a small river steamer, the George Page, fired a shell into a Union battery on the banks of the Potomac. The shell was recovered and proved to be of English make, and weighed 124 pounds. Shells from the Page also showed that the South had invented a new type of incendiary shell . . . some of the shell-casing would be stuffed with turpentine-soaked cotton which would be set afire by the explosion of the powder. Such a shell could set a wooden ship afire. (The wooden ships of the U. S. Navy had furnaces for heating solid-shot red-hot for the same purpose.)

About Town With Ouida Jewell

Attention members of the 1941 graduating class at Fulton High! Don't you think that it would be a good idea to have a class reunion—like many other classes—sometime in the Spring?

I thought about the idea last fall, but got too busy to do anything about it.

I have mentioned this to Charles Browder and Joe Treas and they also think a reunion would be a good idea. If you would be interested in attending, along with your wife or husband (if you are married), write either Joe or Charles—I know they would like to arrange such an affair—maybe a dinner, dance, etc. Of course, I would do my share.

Members of the large class are scattered over the United States, but maybe they will read by my column and let us know what they think.

Members still living here include Joe Treas, Charles Browder, Delbert Thompson, David Homra, Mrs. Carolyn Atkins Reams, Mrs. Virginia Ann Hill Cannon, Mrs. Catherine Brittain Moore, Mrs. Mollie Morgan Beadles, Mrs. Margaret Puckett Jones, Miss Betty Jo Baucum, Miss Sarah Collins, and myself.

We would like to welcome to Fulton Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Cole of 301 Carr Street, Fulton.

They are the parents of Mrs. Joe Sanders. They came here for a visit and have decided to make this their home.

Mr. Cole is retired. They have moved into one of the Paul Hornbeak Apartments. Their religion is Mormon. They are a lovely couple.

Harry Bolser, chief of the West Kentucky Bureau of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was in Fulton Monday morning for the purpose of writing features on Perry-Morse Seed Company and Jiffy Steamer.

Two blondes on the City of New Orleans created quite a sensation at the local depot recently.

As the story was told to us, the two light blondes with fancy hairdos and wearing long black stockings and short, short skirts (little pleated skirts several inches above the knees) got off the train during the stop-over here.

As one of the women (they appeared to be in their twenties) got off the train she, did the "Twist".

The women were accompanied by several small children. One man in town who had gone to the depot on an errand got so excited, he forgot what he had come to the station for, according to a Express Agency employee.

Sorry an article of mine in the Sun-Democrat on the Fulton council meeting last week got mixed up. We'll blame it on my bad cold. It was either a misunderstanding or typographical errors. Anyway, the salary of the Fulton Fire Chief "Nemo" Williams is $300 a month, instead of $200, as was stated. Sorry.

Congratulations of Miss Sara Lee Cathey, 17, senior at South Fulton High, who was named 1962 Basketball Queen last week by members of the Red Devil and Devillette squads. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cathey.

First attendant was Miss Lee Cantrell, 16, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Cantrell. She is a junior. Miss Joan Fuller was the second alternate. She is 16, a junior, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fuller.

Miss Cathey and her attendants were crowned at ceremonies preceding the South Fulton-Martin games on Friday night.

A good friend of The News has made a fine suggestion, that we interview all newcomers to Fulton and South Fulton, regardless of their position, and publish such facts as to family, background, and any other information that will be news.

Said our friend, "I think it would be of interest to everyone and assure new residents that ours is a friendly community, interested in its new citizens."

The News staff thinks this a wonderful idea, and if you are a newcomer to the twin-cities, drop by the News Office on Commercial Avenue. We would be glad to meet you, and through our column tell other folks about you:

When any of you folks, especially the Welcome Wagon hostess, Mrs. Clyde Fields, know of a newcomer to town, bring them by the News, preferably on Mondays and Tuesdays, for an interview.

There was an interesting article on page one of the Sun-Democrat one day last week entitled: "Study of State Police Records Shows Courts 'Weak Link' in Enforcement of Traffic Laws."

A portion of the article follows: If you are arrested for a traffic offense on a Western Kentucky highway, you probably won't suffer greatly.

It's almost an even bet that you won't be punished at all.

If you are punished, it's almost certain to be the minimum for the offense.

And if you're charged with drunken driving, you have a better than even chance to keep your license, even though the law says that a driver convicted of this offense must surrender his license for six months.

In some of the eight western-most counties of the state your chances of escaping a severe penalty are even better.

In short, the weak link in the traffic law enforcement chain in Western Kentucky seems to be the county courts.

These conclusions stand out in a study by the Sun-Democrat of arrests and convictions on traffic offenses during the six months from April to October of last year as compiled by the Kentucky state police.

During that period the judges of the eight courts dismissed 920 of the 3,029 cases brought before them. Another 413 were "filed away."

Only 1,696 of the charges resulted in convictions. That's 56 per cent of the total.

By counties the percentage of convictions runs from Calloway County's 45.5 per cent to Fulton County's 77.0 per cent.

Perhaps it's more than coincidence that traffic deaths, outside heavily populated McCracken County, were highest in Carlisle County, which had the next-to-lowest percentage of convictions, 45.6.

And Fulton County, where County Judge John L. Bondurant cracked down on traffic offenders with a 77 per cent conviction record, was the only county in the district which didn't have a single traffic fatality during the six-months period.

Only four of the eight county courts in the district, State Police Post 1, convicted more drivers than they set free.

Here are the figures on state police arrests, convictions in the Fulton Court, a separate compilation on drunken driving arrests, and the automobile accident fatalities during the six months studied:

Arrests	222
Guilty	171
Dismissed	22
Filed Away	29
Per Cent Guilty	77.0

Bill Powell, editor of the Sun-Democrat, writes again of Dr. Forrest C. Pogue, husband of the former Christine Brown of Fulton.

For the News' readers who are not subscribers of the Sun-Democrat, we reprint Bill's latest article about Dr. Pogue and his lovely wife.

I wish I could have been with Dr. Forrest C. Pogue last spring. I would have enjoyed sitting with him and listening to the people he interviewed.

Dr. Pogue is the former Murray College professor who now is director of the research center of the George C. Marshall Research Foundation. He is writing official histories of Gen. George Catlett Marshall.

The interviews were wonderful experiences. Few such interviews ever come to newspaper people, who are in the interviewing business every day.

Pogue, interviewed Prime Minister Anthony Eden of England, former prime minister Clement Atlee, Field Marshal Montgomery, Field Marshal Slim, Admiral Mountbatten, Field Marshal Alanbrooke and about 25 other World War II leaders.

Pogue had talked with several of the leaders in 1946-47 but this time he got most of them to put their stories on tape so he could

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

THIS TIME of year you're probably busy with all sorts of new projects, for this is the time we start living up to all our New Year's resolutions! One resolution that's a pleasure to keep is one that I made this year — to keep in touch with old friends! There's really nothing like a Long Distance telephone call to make you "feel good all over" ... and spread happiness at both ends of the line.

MAKE SOMEONE HAPPY...
CALL LONG DISTANCE

SHOPPING TO BE DONE? And you can't leave home? Just pick up your phone! Today, more and more busy homemakers are shopping by phone. In fact, latest Bell System studies show that four out of five women purchase goods or services by phone at one time or another! So next time bad weather ... housework ... whatever keeps you at home ... just pick up your phone and go shopping!

DID-YOU-KNOW-DEPARTMENT: About 40 per cent of overseas telephone calls are with Pan-American countries; about 30 per cent with Pacific, and 25 per cent with European countries.

MR. BUSINESSMAN: Are you forgetting one of your most important Public Relations tools? It's your telephone! For example, the entire sales staff of a Midwestern tire distributor periodically calls customers to see if they have any complaints or suggestions on how service may be improved.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE is a Southern nurseryman who phones his customers after every delivery to make sure they are completely satisfied with their purchases.

DUKEDOM RT. 2

Mrs. Harry Yates is ill with a deep cold.

Mesdames Pearl Carr and Daisy Cathey have come home from the hospital, where they spend most of the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Fuqua and baby were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Coltharp Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Yates of Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Yates and Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Lowery were supper guests of the Harry Yates' New Year's night.

WERE HOLIDAY GUESTS

More than half of the 200 foreign students now enrolled at the University of Kentucky spent some part of the Christmas and New Year holidays in American homes. Several families sent travel money for use by the students, according to Dr. Kenneth Harper, adviser to foreign students at the University. "While the students do not want charity," said Harper, "they are interested in exchanging ideas, in learning about American culture, and in introducing Americans to their way of life."

Fulton People Asked To Help Buy TV For Mother Of 3 Injured Near Here

A fund to buy a television set for a Mississippi girl who was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Cayce on September 9 has been started in Clarksdale, Miss.

A fund to purchase or rent a television set for the Clarksdale girl who has had 12 operations since being seriously injured is now in progress.

Contributions are solicited on behalf of Mrs. Shirley Simmons, 22, whose injuries in the accident required the amputation of one of her legs.

She has already spent many weeks in the hospital and faces more months of hospitalization, according to Mrs. Mae Ivy of 415 Anderson Blvd., secretary at Rogers Cotton Co., and sponsor of the fund.

Mrs. Simmons is under treatment at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis where she this week underwent her 12th operation since the accident.

About six of the operations were undertaken to correct fracture of bones in her chin and the remainder on the leg, Mrs. Ivy said.

Mrs. Simmons, a divorcee, has had few visitors during her stay in the hospital, Mrs. Ivy said. The accident victim has a sister in Nashville who is not able to visit her frequently. Mrs. Simmons' parents were killed in an automobile accident when she was a child. Her three small children are now in the care of their father.

"Although one may have many friends, as time goes on people forget," Mrs. Ivy said.

Those who wish to contribute are asked to send their donations to the Shirley Simmons Fund, P. O. Box 907, Clarksdale, or directly to Mrs. Simmons at Room 528, Baptist Hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

Before being transferred to Memphis Mrs. Simmons was a patient in the Fulton Hospital.

Fulton Teachers Average $1,100 More Than South Fulton Group

A proposed resolution, calling for a 10 percent increase in Obion county tax assessments with all proceeds to be earmarked for teachers salaries and teaching supplies for the '62-'63 school year, was ruled out of order Monday morning by Judge Dan McKinnis before a packed January term of the Obion County Quarterly court.

In ruling the resolution out of order, Judge McKinnis told the magistrates that the court has no authority to direct the tax assessor to increase assessments and that such action must come from the tax assessor himself.

The tax assessor, Harry Hudson, took the floor shortly after the ruling and declared that the court was making a "terrible mistake," but presented no resolution from his office which would have raised the assessments by the requested 10 percent.

Thus, with the judge declaring the motion out of order and the tax assessor taking no action on the matter, the teachers' salary situation within the county remains once again, unchanged.

Obion County Teachers Assn. president, William L. Cottrell, along with about 150 teachers and interested persons jammed the court room despite the fact it was New Year's day, a holiday.

The action all started following a budget and finance committee report on the educational situation in Obion county. The committee, appointed only last July, reported that it had not had time to complete its lengthy survey and informed the court that a detailed report would be made at the April term of court.

This committee had been appointed after teachers of the county had pressed for, among other things, higher teacher pay and more educational supplies.

Mr. Cottrell speaking for the teachers' association told the court that the teachers had not expected any increase in salary this school year but that the request was for the 1962-'63 school year. He said "the needs that exist are real and they grow worse day by day and month by month."

He went on to say that teachers in Fulton, Ky. average $1,100 more a year than the teachers in the sister city of South Fulton.

JAYCEES

(Continued from page one) work doesn't interfere with your Jaycee work, could I impose upon you to do it for me and I'll pay you well for the effort."

In connection with the specific awards to Jaycee members the club again will honor one or two individuals in the community whose firm has expended unusual effort to promote the welfare of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Fulton.

All the awards will be made on the basis of secret voting by the individual Jaycee members and the recipients of the various awards will be known for the first time on the night of the banquet.

While the Jaycees prepare for the big event on the eighteenth they are also making plans for the local observance of National Junior of Commerce Week to be celebrated nationally for the forty-second year during the week of January 21-January 26. Several of the local members will attend the mid-winter board meeting and other appropriate activities will be observed locally. James Butts is president of the local club.

NOTEBOOK

(Continued from page one) One of Bill Rice's campaign statements was to the effect that he did not earn his living in Fulton and was not obligated to any faction or group of people for business reasons. Again the commissioner is as right as might. He is a paint salesman and has been for many years. And again it is possible that historians may decide whether an elected official has any obligation to the people who elected him.

When Bill was told about the fact that all employees in public works were hired on a temporary basis until Monday night and no mention was made of the employees in the official meeting Bill said that the situation of the employees was "status quo." Now we're trying to figure out what status quo means in regard to the employees in the public works department. . . does it mean they're hired permanently, temporarily, day by day, or until Commissioner Rice makes up his mind.

See, what I mean! I don't know all I'm hearing at the commission meetings.

BROTHERS INJURED

Two brothers, John B. Allen, 23, and Wright Allen, 40, both of Hickman, were injured in an accident on Highway 94 about one mile west of Hickman at 2 a. m. Tuesday. Watson, who is employed at the Singer Sewing Machine Co. in Fulton was southbound and the bus northbound near the Fulton city limits at the time of the accident.

State Police said Watson's car skidded on the icy pavement and skidded into the front of the bus. Watson's station wagon was badly damaged, while the bus was only slightly damaged.

Police listed Winford Bishop, Memphis as driver of the bus.

District Elks Meeting To Be Held In Fulton

The Elks District Deputy's Clinic, one of three annual meetings of officers and members of the state Elks organization, will be held at the Fulton-Elks Lodge on Jan. 22-23. This is the first time this group has met here.

The two-day session will be presided over by W. Thomas Nave, Jr., of Paducah, who is the district deputy grand exalted ruler. Also, attending will be Val Smith of Henderson, president of the State Elks organization.

The host lodge expects visiting officers and members of Elks Lodges and their ladies from all over the state to attend.

COMMISSION

South Fulton officials to discuss the matter of an early settlement of the joint project that has been before the Fulton Council for nearly four years. Asked if Fulton had any legal obligation to join in the costly project Attorney Miller replied that the City of Fulton has a moral, if not a legal obligation to join the South Fulton officials in taking advantage of Federal funds with which to erect the disposal system. The commissioners voted to have Hemco Engineers of Memphis make a survey of the costs, etc. and present it for study.

In other action the commission: —Read two applications for the post of City Manager. They were filed for further study. —Delayed action on the purchase of a new police car, and filed the bids for further study. —Voted to change parking on Main Street between Washington and Mulberry from angle to parallel.

—Heard Roy Rudolph representing Cecil Pierce regarding a water main to the proposed 36-unit nursing home to be built on the Mayfield Highway. Mr. Pierce will install his own six-inch line and pay at $25 tap-on fee.

—Voted to continue the rat eradication program sponsored jointly by the twin cities and the health departments. —Authorized Commissioner Rice to install meters on schools and other public buildings to determine the amount of water used. Also to buy another meter.

—Voted to tear down the old barn behind the pumping station; to buy a new gas mask; execute a new lease with the Illinois Central Railroad for right of way parking between Walnut and Commercial and move the restaurant from in front of the Charles Seates Store and to repair the eight year old street sweeper.

—Voted to buy treasury bonds with monies on deposit in both local banks.

An old rock-walled trench used in the Civil War is still preserved on the campus at Western State College, Bowling Green.

Complicated Case Of 10-Year-Old Boy Is Continued For Second Time

The complicated case of a 10-year-old boy was again Monday morning continued until Wednesday afternoon at 1 of this week. County Judge John Bondurant said Monday afternoon he hoped to get it worked out by then. Asked what the case involved he said, "The case is so complicated, I don't know where to begin."

Three Hickman teenagers faced Judge Bondurant Friday morning on charges of armed robbery. Two of the youths, Robert Hagan, 14, and Curtis Williams, 15, were turned over to the Department of Welfare, while the third, Jimmy Cole, 17, was bound over to the grand jury.

Hogan and Williams have been taken by Sheriff Joe Campbell to a Juvenile home in Louisville.

According to Judge Bondurant, the three were arrested by Obion County officials on Wednesday night of last week, after they had stolen a car, forced a filling station attendant at gun-point to fill the car with gas, then wrecked the car, fleeing on foot before they were caught.

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

The Fulton Woman's Club met in the first general meeting of the year Friday, January 5, at 2 p. m. with the president, Mrs. Harry Allison presiding. Mrs. Grace Thacker led in the pledge to the flag, then Mrs. Allison welcomed the members, one new member, Mrs. Frank Moore and one guest, Mrs. W. C. Loney.

In the regular business session, several recommendations of the Board of Directors were read, some of which were to ask each club member to donate one dish towel for use in the club kitchen; also, that each one who has a key to the building please notify the secretary, Mrs. W. C. Jacob, so that a proper record can be made.

Announcement was made of the winter board meeting to be held at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Ky., Jan. 24, 25 and 26th. Reservations must be made by Jan. 19th.

It was also announced that the Ways and Means Committee will sponsor a bake sale March 16.

Mrs. Hendon Wright, program chairman, presented Sgt. Robert Holloway from the Division of Kentucky State Police, who showed a color film entitled "Explore Kentucky, Safely." It was very interesting and informative on hazards of the highways.

Sgt. Holloway spoke briefly on the use of Safety Seat Belts and said the Kentucky Safety Council strongly recommends them and that experimental tests show that 60 to 65 percent of the deaths caused in traffic accidents could have been saved by their use.

The interest of the club members was evident by their participation in the question and answer period, following the Sergeant's talk.

The Hospitality Committee, consisting of Mrs. Virginia Stokes, Mrs. R. O. Brown, Mrs. William Stokes and Mrs. C. W. Frances served delicious hot spiced tea and hot ginger cake. The lovely table arrangements were by Mrs. Virginia Stokes.

"Christmas in Hawaii" was the theme for the annual holiday party of the Hickman Homemakers.

Hostesses, Mrs. T. H. Streeter, Mrs. Mary Lee Cagle, Mrs. Carl Speight and Mrs. Claude Middleton, greeted the guests wearing Hawaiian muu-muus. The club rooms were decorated with flowers flown in especially for the occasion from Hawaii.

A delicious pot-luck luncheon was served featuring goose and rice dressing as the main course.

Mrs. J. M. Lamb read "The Christmas Story," after which members sang Christmas Carols and exchanged gifts.

Later in the afternoon Hawaiian punch was served.

The following is the Fulton County Homemakers meeting schedule for the month of January.

Jan. 10, Western, Mrs. Bert Yarbrow, Jr., 1:30 P. M.; Jan. 11, Fulton, Mrs. H. G. Butler, 10:30 A. M.; Jan. 11, Bennett, Mrs. Bill Holland, 10:30 A. M.; Jan. 17, Hickman, Club Room, 10:30 A. Open Letter To Former Fulton Band Members

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL FORMER FULTON BAND MEMBERS:

Once, long ago, Fulton High School had a big, beautiful band that was the pride of the school and the pride of the community - and you were a part of it. Once, long ago, this big, beautiful band had bright, shiny instruments and they were yours. Where are they now?

If you are still using these instruments to give you the golden hours that only music can give - wonderful. If you have given these instruments away so someone else could have the pleasure of music - fine! But, if they are merely gathering dust in your closet, in your basement, or in your attic, wouldn't you like to see them put into use again?

We, as Band Parents who have come to know the needs of the present band, are frankly appealing to your pride, to your memories and to your generosity. The present band needs instruments and needs them badly to encourage youngsters to join the band and realize what a world of satisfaction music will bring into their lives.

If you are willing to part with your instruments by donation, loan, or sale, (For a reasonable price, of course) please get in touch with Mr. Mandel Brown, Band Director; Mrs. J. C. Hancock, Tel. 189; or Mrs. C. J. Pawlukiewicz Tel. 2330. You will have our deepest gratitude for any help which you may give the band.

Arthritis Strikes at Every Age

Rheumatoid arthritis is no respecter of ages as shown by this study of crippled hands photographed at March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Clinical Study Center, University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas. Note the different forms of crippling—savagely swollen knuckles, hands bent both inward and outward, enlarged wrists. At three other such university-affiliated study centers across the nation, The National Foundation, parent body of the March of Dimes, is seeking answers to the riddle of rheumatic disease, including arthritis, which today afflicts at least 11 millions of all ages in the U. S. The health organization also continues its fight against crippling birth defects and polio through research, patient aid and professional education.

take his time with them and also have them 100 per cent accurate. Also in Europe he lectured on World War II strategy at All Souls College Oxford; at the London School of Economics, and for the Military Commentators Circle, which is made up of writers on history, some retired officers, newspaper men and a few foreign service people.

Dr. Pogue and his wife, who accompanied him on all of the tour, also visited some of the World War I battlefields—several in the St. Mihiel and Argonne area. This was so Pogue could collect material for his first volume on Marshall, who was chief of operations for the First Army in the first World War.

Pogue's wife Christine took pictures of the chateau where Gen. Pershing lived near Chaumont. They even let her take pictures of the inside of the house.

She also photographed the place where Marshall lived at Gondrecourt when he was chief of operations of the First Division. The Pogues also visited Paris, Frankfurt, Munich, Lucerne and Madrid.

They flew over New York on the same plane with Sr. Winston Churchill.

"He was not well," said Pogue, "and I didn't get a chance to talk with him."

Pogue said he hoped to get down here in the spring, when his manuscript is complete. This is the manuscript of Volume I of the Marshall biography. Pogue said he hoped the book would appear before the end of 1962.

The work of the foundation includes plans for a building to house the project. Pogue said they were getting in some nice donations for the building but that it will be "some time" before it is built.

"I have been so busy during the year," said Pogue, "that I have seen very little of our two good friends, Fats Everett (congressman from Tennessee) and Frank Albert Stubblefield (congressman from Murray)."

Pogue and his wife live in an apartment near the Pentagon. From the front window they can see the Capitol. And from his office window Pogue can look across, less than a quarter of a mile, to Arlington Cemetery.

Their address is the River House, 1111 Army-Navy Drive, Arlington (2), Va.

"I am enjoying my work but I miss my friends in Western Kentucky. I am looking forward to a chance to get down there for a visit soon," said Dr. Pogue, a Crittenden County country boy who has become one of this nation's top research historians.

Pogue has quite a bit of material for his first volume.

Gen. Marshall recorded on tape, for Pogue, more than 100,000 words covering his career before 1939. He talked a great deal about his childhood, his schooldays and his service in the Philippines and in World War I.

Many men who were with Marshall in the Philippines went into

Slow, Steady Gains Are Made In War On Crippling Arthritis

By DR. EPHRAIM ENGLEMAN
Medical Director, National Foundation Arthritis Clinical Study Center, San Francisco, Calif.

Across the nation today, countless thousands of Americans have steeled themselves to live with the pain and suffering of crippling arthritis, simply because they have found no alternative but to accept it.

Millions of dollars are spent by arthritis each year on quick remedies and spurious cures in their frustrating search for some means of improving their condition. Their need is intense, for arthritis is much more than a mere stiffness of the joints that accompanies the aging process. It is a whole complex of diseases and conditions whose causes are largely unknown and for which medical science has yet to find a cure.

Because of rheumatic disease, 320,000 persons in this country are totally unable to do any productive work. The condition hits children, too, often with pain so intense that even the weight of a bed sheet is unbearable.

Preventive Unknown

In the face of this huge problem, there is a general lack of knowledge on how best to care for the arthritic. With no way to prevent the condition, physicians have great need for more and better resources for dealing with the arthritis problem. New tools and new methods must be developed through research, and the new knowledge thus attained must be quickly disseminated to physicians for immediate translation into terms of high quality treatment for their patients.

To meet the critical needs resulting from a medical problem of such overwhelming proportions, The National Foundation-March of Dimes has turned the full force of its dynamic organization to meet the challenge of crippling arthritis. By directing an organized attack on the three major fronts of research, patient aid and professional education, it is confident that arthritis, birth defects and other crippling diseases can be fought with the same success that marked its historic fight against polio.

Here at the University of California Medical Center a whole new concept for dealing with chronic disease is being formulated. Supported with funds raised through the March of Dimes, an Arthritis Clinical Study Center is in full operation, one of a growing number of such centers being established across the country with National Foundation grants.

Under the ideal conditions afforded by a full-scale university medical center, with its splendid research facilities, an ever-increasing number of patients and a large group of medical students who will carry the experience and knowledge acquired here to all parts of the nation, the Arthritis Center is constantly stepping up the pace in the new assault upon rheumatic diseases.

Under the direction of staff members who are experts in their fields, and with the close cooperation of specialized departments in biochemistry, orthopedics, physical medicine, pediatrics, radiology, ophthalmology and social service, a total team approach to the complex problems of the arthritic patient has been introduced.

Work Pays Dividends

Our work already has begun to pay dividends. Improvements in care have been effected. The range and amount of service have been increased. The ever-widening circle of knowledge is reaching more and more professional workers in medicine, thus affecting the lives of a constantly growing number of people who need help.

The mammoth task of fighting arthritis as a total problem has just begun. But the vigor and scope of The National Foundation's newest effort should bring renewed hope to the 11,000,000 victims of rheumatic diseases who have waited too long for the advance of medical science to reach their doorstep.

World War I in the first force that landed in France. The campaign, in a way, set the stage for what the world considered the war to end wars.

Gen. Pershing's son has allowed Pogue to make use of a great number of Marshall letters in the Pershing files. Gen. Marshall, of course, had a great number of papers and Pogue has access to all of them.

Pogue also has visited several posts where the general was located. They include the Presidio (San Francisco), Fort Moultrie, Fort Vancouver and Fort Leavenworth.

Dr. Pogue has talked to more than 100 friends of Marshall for the first volume alone.

People everywhere have responded to his work too. For example, Pogue has received photographs of the general taken as early as 1890. He has one rare picture of the general scoring the winning run in a crucial football game in 1900. He also has received many pictures of the general in France in the first World War.

You can be sure of one thing: They couldn't have picked a better man to do the writing about Marshall, one of our great men. Pogue is unusual.

Chiropractic Foundation Plans Presented

Plans for the new multi-million dollar Chiropractic Education and Research Foundation will be presented at a District I meeting of the Kentucky Association of Chiropractors at Mayfield on January 13.

CERF, the first of its kind in the country, is seeking to expand and augment the existing programs and facilities of the Kentucky Children's Chiropractic Center, Louisville. In the past five years, the Center has given corrective care - free of charge - to 365 handicapped children in the Kentuckiana area whose families were financially unable to provide private care for them.

CERF's "Vanguard" team will outline the new research and education facilities to be provided by the Foundation and will give a summary of existing programs which will be expanded.

Thirty Doctors of Chiropractic and their wives are expected to attend the meeting.

District I counties are: Ballard, Carlisle, Calloway, Fulton, Hickman, Graves, Livingston, Lyon, Marshall, McCracken, and Trigg.

GIVES BOOKS TO UK

The University of Kentucky Department of Architecture has received as a gift 100 books which collectively tell the story of changes in architectural taste and progress during the past half century. The volumes are the gift of Oslan P. Ward, a recently retired Louisville architect. They were collected by Ward during his 40 years of active practice.

Joe Powell To Open Fertilizer Blending Plant This Coming Spring

A business which began its operations 18 years ago with a couple of worn-out trucks and now serves customers in parts of six or more counties is preparing to offer a service which could mean much to farmers in this area.

The company is the Joe C. Powell Lime & Fertilizer Co. of Fulton and Union City and the latest venture comes in the form of an almost completed fertilizer blending plant.

The new blending plant is set to begin its operation headed by Roger Lonctaux, Mr. Powell's son-in-law, this spring.

At that time another mixing plant will also go into operation in this area. Construction of this plant, being built by the Sadler Fertilizer Co. and operated by Dink Dietzel, has just gotten under way north of Waverfield Grain Co. The Sadler plant is also scheduled to open in the spring and the demand is such that both Mr. Powell and Mr. Dietzel feel they will have their hands full filling their orders.

Custom Made Fertilizers

Thus, for the first time, Obion county farmers, and farmers in neighboring counties as well, will have the opportunity of obtaining fertilizers blended to their specifications. In the past farmers have had to be satisfied buying bagged fertilizer that comes close to what they wanted.

In soil test recommendations the exact fertilizer analysis is given. These analyses are almost impossible to obtain unless the fertilizer is blended to order and therefore soil test recommendations also list commercial fertilizers that are close to the exact analysis and the latter varieties

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Never Look A Gift Horse ...

One morning in 1942 two men leaned on the rail at a track called Polo Park, watching a set of 2-year-olds gallop. One was the late R. James Speers, Canadian breeder and owner of Polo Park and other race track interests who had been urging his friend, A. G. "Scotty" Kennedy, a pro-football executive, to get into the racing business. By way of encouragement he pointed to the group of horses and said: "Tell you what, take your pick for whatever you have in your pocket." Scotty Kennedy agreed and chose a filly named Omar's Gift. Turning out his pockets he produced 37 cents.

A good laugh was had all around and Kennedy dismissed the incident as a joke. The joke, however, was on him. In the mail the next day were the filly's registration papers and forms for transfer of ownership. Later that season Omar's Gift won the Winnipeg Futurity at Polo Park with one of Mr. Speers' horses running unplaced. Shortly thereafter Kennedy went overseas with the South Saskatchewan Regiment. When he returned it was to horse racing instead of football although he did continue to manage the Winnipeg Bombers while working for the Speers Corporation. He also obtained another horse which he aptly named Victory Gift and which won the Canadian, British Columbia and Longacres Derbies for him.

When, after the death of Mr. Speers, Polo Park shut down and Jack C. Hardy of Winnipeg decided to build Assiniboia Downs, he obtained Scotty Kennedy as General Manager. Each year more and more students from other institutions use the University of Kentucky Library during the Christmas holidays. This season students from colleges from the Gulf of Mexico to New England have poured into Lexington to prepare papers which could not readily be researched at the institutions which they attend. Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, head of UK libraries, says the group which finds the University library most helpful are students from small colleges which place little emphasis on research.
