RADIO BROADCAST FROM PUERTO RICO

AATF HQ, Puerto Rico, May 20.—Kentucky colonels, corporals, caverns and corn were lauded in song and tory on the Antilles Air Task Force's "48-Gun Salute" radio program broadcast from Puerto Rico.

The program was one in a weekly series which draws its name from the military custom of firing one salute for each state in the union on Independence Day.

With Air Corps soldiers presenting skits about historical facts, scenic spots and colorful events, men from the Bluegrass state were given a panoramic picture of their home state.

An imaginary excursion took the radio audience to the famous Wilderness Trail and Pilot Knob of Daniel Boone fame; into the Cumberland mountains and through the Harlan coal mines and into Pineville and Barboursville.

Skits were presented on the Derby, the conversion of a large part of Kentucky's forty-two million gallon liquor production to a nitro glycerine base for the war effort as well as the fact that the state subscribes to more war bonds and has more volunteers in the armed forces than any other state.

Also featured on the program were the famous homes of Henry Clay at Ashland; Fairview, where Jefferson Davis spent his boyhood; the log cabin at Hodgenville, where Lincoln was born; and the Old Kentucky Home at Bardonia where Stephen Foster received inspiration for his undying song. The Mammoth cave near Morgantown and Echo river were also cited as well as the fact that the Lexington Herald has never had to print a free edition to maintain a race that a Kentucky-bred horse wins a boat every day.

Read during the broadcast was an Irvin S. Cobb narrative about his town of Paducah and other towns mentioned included Bowling Green, Ellettsville, Fort Knox and Louisville. Tribute was paid to the colleges, including the state university, Centre and Union.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICES HELD SUNDAY NIGHT

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday night in the First Baptist church for the graduating class of Fulton High School, with the church filled to capacity. The graduating class this year is made up of approximately 50 boys and girls and it is the 39th class from the local school.

Rev. L. P. Turnbow, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, delivered the sermon for the graduates under the subject "A Mind Like Christ's," and in a brief message gave the young people some sound advice as to the future. Showing that right thinking will provide the solution for all problems which may arise in the future, even in these troubled days, the speaker urged that every young person try to cultivate the right thought and the proper way of thinking at all times. If this is done the future will be brighter and happier and the world a far better place.

Elder C. L. Houser pronounced the invocation and the benediction, with Rev. Loyal O. Hartman giving the scripture lesson.

MAY 30 NAMED AS RURAL LIFE SUNDAY

The Kentucky Rural Church Council announces that May 30 will be observed as Rural Life Sunday. Both rural and city churches have been asked to place special emphasis upon the meaning of Christianity for rural life, on that Sunday. Some churches make it a day for dinner on the grounds. In other instances country and city pastors exchange pulpits that day. Local farm organizations, such as 4-H clubs, the Farm Bureau and Future Farmers, sometimes take prominent parts in services. Rural Life Sunday is the fifth Sunday after Easter.

GEORGE T. BEADLES

George Thomas Beadles, 78 years of age, died suddenly at his home on Carr street at eight o'clock Saturday night. While he had been ill for several days, his condition was not regarded as alarming and he had been up and about during the day. Mr. Beadles was the oldest merchant in the city in point of continuous business operation, having come here in 1880 and thus spending 63 years in active business in Fulton.

Funeral services were conducted from the First Christian Church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with Rev. Kelsie Martin, the pastor in charge. Burial directed by the Hornbeak Funeral Home, was in Fairview cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Charles Gregory, Joe Hall, L. O. Carter, Dr. Robert Bard, John Bowers and Harry Murphy. Honorary pallbearers were John Huddleston, R. H. Wade, Bernie Estes, Joe Browder, Joe Bennett, Sr., B. B. Alexander, D. A. Rogers, N. G. Cooke, A. Huddleston, H. B. Murphy, T. M. Franklin, W. Little, R. A. Francis, R. M. Beadles and Maxwell McDade.

Mr. Beadles was born in Paducah on July 14, 1864, but spent his childhood in Mayfield, coming to Fulton in 1880 at the age of sixteen. He came here to become a salesman for his uncle, the late R. M. Bolling, who operated a hardware store here. That was the beginning of a long and honorable career as a businessman which was to span 63 years, and in all these years he was active in his business. Even during the last week of his life he was at his store several times.

Fifty years ago, in 1893, Mr. Beadles formed a partnership with Arch Huddleston, this business being called A. Huddleston and Company. In 1915 the two partners bought the Fulton Hardware Company and operated both stores for a number of years. After 28 years as business partners the dissolved of partnership in 1921, Mr. Huddleston retaining the original store and Mr. Beadles becoming the owner of the Fulton Hardware Company. Later his son, Frank, became a partner in the business and the present name of the firm was adopted, the Fulton Hardware and Furniture Company.

Mr. Beadles was united in marriage to Lena Stubblefield in 1888. Mrs. Beadles died in 1928. Two sons came to bless this marriage, Larry and Frank, who survive. A grand daughter, Marilee Beadles, also survives, with two brothers, R. B. Beadles of Lakeland, Fla., and Joe Beadles of this city. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Mr. Beadles, in addition to his hardware and furniture business was also interested in banking at one time and served as cashier of the old First National Bank here.

He was a member of the First Christian Church and served as an elder for many years. He devoted a great deal of time to his church and his services there will be missed.

Mr. Beadles was also a member of the local lodge of Elks and served as treasurer of the organization for many years.

T. C. Nelms, traveling engineer was in Memphis Tuesday.

Bill Browning Named Chairman

Bill Browning, Fulton Merchant, has been selected as East Fulton road, campaign chairman for Ben Kilgore, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, it was announced today by Harry L. Waterfield, state chairman.

Mr. Browning is well known in Fulton County and throughout this section of the state. He has been prominently identified with the Democratic party and is one of the leading citizens of Fulton County. "We will promote a vigorous campaign in the interest of Mr. Kilgore, a free people's candidate," Mr. Browning said when accepting the appointment. "Conditions at Frankfort in our state government have become intolerable to citizens of Kentucky who believe in government of, by and for the people. Ben Kilgore is a free candidate, sponsored and financed by free citizens of Kentucky whose purposes have always been and are now in the interest of good government for all and special privileges for none," Mr. Browning continued.

His primary purpose is "To build Kentucky and not a political machine," the chairman said. "People are thinking today as never before about the blessings of genuine free Democracy and if our boys must fight for free government all over the world, surely we must live and work and vote to safeguard and strengthen Democracy here at home. Victory for Mr. Kilgore this year means destruction of a powerful and corrupt political machine and selfish, self-perpetuating political bosses at Frankfort. I call on all friends of good government to join me in this crusading campaign," Mr. Browning concluded.

C. K. Davis, Mayor of Hickman has been named chairman in West Fulton County, west of the M. and O. Railroad.

NATIONAL MARITIME DAY

The observance of today of National Maritime Day brings into sharp relief the heroic efforts of seaman of the United States Merchant Marine to deliver the goods of war to our fighting men everywhere. It is fitting that on this day Americans should pay tribute to these heroes of the high sea; unsung though they may be.

Officials of the Navy and the War Shipping Administration have disclosed that so far in this conflict the Merchant Marine has suffered the greatest number of casualties of any branch of our armed forces on the percentage of the total number of personnel involved. Despite the U-boats and dive bombers; despite the fact that these volunteers leave port with the full knowledge that they may very well never return—they are delivering the goods to the fighting fronts, and in sufficient quantity to assure an early invasion of the European continent.

It is all very well for America's "Miracle of Production" to turn out endless streams of planes, tanks and guns; but unless the Merchant Marine can transport them across thousands of miles of sub-infested waters, they can do no more than rust on our shores.

Many heroic chapters on the history of the present war have already been devoted to the deeds of merchant seamen, and there are many more to come. They have remained steadfast to their posts of duty on the long, cold run to northern Russian ports; through "Bomb Alley" in the Mediterranean, and on the dangerous routes across the broad expanse of the Pacific.

Our fighting soldiers, Marines and airmen are depending upon them. They will not fail.

THE ARMY BUYS FIGHTING FOODS

The Quartermaster Corps has definite standards for Army menus according to Mary I. Barber, Food Consultant to the Secretary of War. The food provided is called the Army Ration. To aid in making up this Ration, lists of foods are set up as guides for the purchasing agent to follow. These include foods necessary for complete daily meals.

Milk and its products, butter, cheese and ice cream, are found on every list, along with meat and fish, cereals, eggs, fruits and vegetables. Master menus are made up for months in advance from the available products.

These master menus are put out each month and in every case at least a half pint of fluid together with additional milk in concentrated forms are included for each day. Butter is specified for each meal at the rate of 7 pounds per day for each hundred men, or more than double the average rate of butter consumption by civilians. In addition, dairy products are being served frequently during the month in the form of ice cream, cheese, cocoa made with milk, and in other ways.

"The superior food values of milk including the calcium, riboflavin and proteins are important factors in maintaining our armed forces in better condition than any previous war," states Mrs. Ethel Austin Martin, Director, Nutrition Service of the National Dairy Council. "Intelligent use and distribution of the best available food supplies to the Army is proving an important factor in keeping our fighting forces in top form."

Thirteen billion dollars—the sum the Treasury must raise in the Second War Loan drive, is only one sixth of the estimated cost of the war for the fiscal year of 1943.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The tradition of American cavalry threads back to Indian warfare days and although modern armies are largely motorized today, the cavalry still plays an important role. Sturdy, well trained horses and excellent equipment and trappings are necessary.

When men are in the saddle for hours, their saddles, saddle rolls and other equipment must be made to stand the wear. Complete with carbine and helmets, the equipment for the cavalryman runs into hundreds of dollars. You can help provide this with your War Bond purchases. DON'T BE A LAND PILOT

By RUTH TAYLOR

One thing we know—the calls for more arms, more food, more bandages, more bonds—are the signs of pending offensive action on the part of the Allies. Such action will be costly, we know—costly in men, munitions and money—but wars are never won by defensive measures. We have to take the offensive and strike hard, fast and ruthlessly.

The fighting is up to the armed forces and to those who direct them, but there is one thing we can all do to help—Stop harrying those in authority who have the responsibility and burden of making decisions and determining strategy! The enemy should be the only opponent about whom they should have to worry. Whether we agree or not with their decisions is unimportant. In a democracy and under a republican form of government it is up to both minority and majority to give loyal service both of lip and arm to those whom the people themselves have selected to lead them.

The success of the North African venture was largely due to the fact that it came as a surprise to the enemy. Its advantages or disadvantages were not hashed out in the press or over the air by self-styled experts. That is not the way wars can be fought and won. Now is not the occasion for either land pilots or swivel-chair generals. We have commanders trained and equipped to make the necessary decisions—so let's leave the job to them.

Two thousand, one hundred and seven years ago, Lucius Aemilius Paulus, a Roman general, stated the case in words which are just as applicable today:

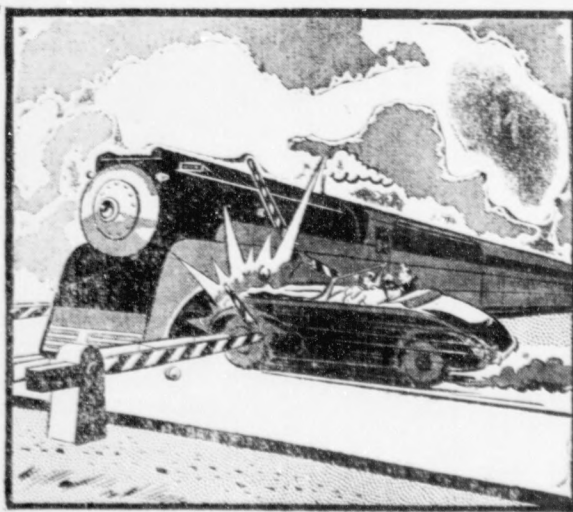

"In every circle, and truly at every table, there are people who lead armies into Macedonia; who know where the camp ought to be placed; what posts ought to be occupied by troops; when and through what pass that territory should be entered; where magazines should be formed; how provisions should be conveyed by land and sea; and when it is proper to engage the enemy, when to lie quiet."

"What is my opinion? That commanders should be counselled, chiefly, by persons of known talent; by those who have made the art of war their particular study, and whose knowledge is derived from experience; from those who are present at the scene of action, who see the country, who see the enemy; who see the advantages that occasions offer, and who, like people embarked in the same ship, are sharers of the danger."

"If, therefore anyone thinks himself qualified to give advice respecting the war which I am to conduct, which may prove advantageous to the public, let him not refuse his assistance to the state, but let him come with me into Macedonia. He shall be furnished with a ship, a horse, a tent, even his travelling charges shall be defrayed."

"But if he thinks this too much trouble, and prefers the repose of a city life to the toils of war, let him not, on land, assume the office of a pilot. The city, in itself, furnishes abundance of topics for conversation; let it confine its passion for talking within its own precincts, and rest assured that we shall pay no attention to any counsils but such as shall be framed within our camp."

Look! Listen! Live!

It's impossible to know whether the grade crossing accident illustrated here resulted because "there's a crowd" or because the driver had only one hand on the wheel.

The official description of the accident says "a roadster, driven by a young man with two lady passengers, disregarded lowered crossing gates and drove through them into the side of a locomotive. Fortunately they were not injured, but the automobile was damaged."

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these accidents, which every day delay 35 trains a total of 22 hours—a heavy drain on the nation's war transportation effort. Driver-carelessness is the cause of almost all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council.

To help win the war—to save yourself and others needless suffering—the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

What Is Inflation?
Do you have excess cash? You will answer, "No." But the fact remains that you do. For almost every wage earner these days has an income, in checkbook or pocketbook, well above the cost of his living, taxes, insurance and debt repayments. You never actually "bid" against anybody for a porterhouse steak, but when you take the spending of all average Americans as a group, it's a different story. So it is important that excess money be saved rather than used collectively to bid up prices. If it is spent, instead of saved, prices soar. . . That's inflation. Ideally, it should be invested in Government securities during the Second War Loan. "They give their lives . . . You lend your money."

The goal of the Second War Loan drive is 13 billion dollars. That is just about one fifth of the estimated increase of the Public Debt for the fiscal year of 1943.

Non-Essential Calls Helps Clear Lines for Vital War Calls

You bet it's pleasant to talk with friends over the telephone, just as it was pleasant to take those long Sunday afternoon rides when we had plenty of tires and gasoline.

But social calls must be handled over the same local telephone facilities as war calls. There is a definite limit to the number of calls these facilities can handle at the same time, and when more calls are made, some must wait.

With telephone equipment already burdened with war calls, non-essential calls may delay necessary calls, so we are requesting your voluntary cooperation to reduce unnecessary calling.

Under normal conditions we would expand our facilities to care for the increased volume of calls, but we cannot do that now because the needed materials are going into war weapons.

So won't you help by making fewer local calls? And when you must make a call, won't you please try to make it as short as possible?

"Lo, the winter is past"

THERE comes a time in the changing seasons when there is a new warmth in the breeze, and a touch of new color along the wayside. In the steppes of Asia the snow begins to melt, in the English hedgerows the children look for the first primrose, and on the western prairies faint shoots of green appear. Everywhere there is a stirring of new hope in the hearts of men, and we may be reminded of the words from a familiar song of spring written thousands of years ago (Solomon's Song 2:11, 12), "Lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

Today the perennial promise of spring comes to a troubled world, a world which is facing the difficulties of strife, confusion, and seeming loss, with their increasing demands for sacrifice. There is need for strength and courage to face the problems of present-day conditions, but the greatest need is for a clear understanding of the omnipotence of God, of His ever-presence and availability here and now. . . . The joyous days of spring, with their warmth and sunshine, bird calls, and budding trees, illustrate the renewed hope with which men turn expectantly to the Scriptural promises of healing and restoration. . . .

In an article, "Voices of Spring," in "Miscellaneous Writings," Mary Baker Eddy says (p. 330): "Human hope and faith should join in nature's grand harmony, and, if on minor keys, make music in the heart. And man, more friendly, should call his race as gently to the springtime of Christ's dear love." There are few of us indifferent to "nature's grand harmony" when, after cold wintry days, we hear the song of birds again and watch the unfolding of budding tree and blossom. However long and difficult the winter may have seemed to be, we were always sure of its breaking up in due season. We had no doubt about it, any more than we had about day following night. . . .

The springtime of Christ's dear love, a perpetual springtime, ever present, unchanging, and unending.

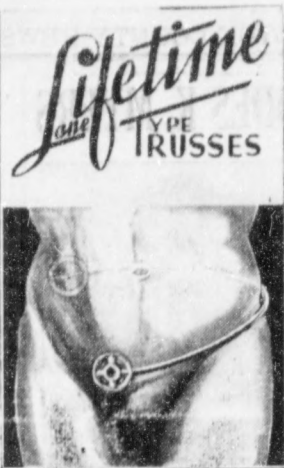

The ever-present truth about God and man is to us a law of perpetual renewal.

The prophet Hosea exhorted the people (Hosea 10:12), "Break up your fallow ground; for it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and rain righteousness upon you." The land that has lain fallow all winter must be broken up and made ready for the sowing. So does the appearing of the Christ, Truth, to human consciousness begin at once to break up the stubborn beliefs of apathy, inertia, and sluggishness, and to replace them with a joyous activity that is hungering and thirsting after righteousness.

Sometimes even in the midst of sunny days we may seem to be mentally experiencing a winter of depression and discontent until some clarion call of Truth awakens us to our need of more spiritual activity. The Psalmist cried (Psalms 42:11), "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God." We cannot remain long disquieted when we turn away from the evidences of the material senses and accept the facts of being which spiritual sense perceives. The glorious fact that God is the health of our countenance can be demonstrated here and now through the knowledge that God is the only creator, and that man, His image and likeness, is endowed with health, happiness, and immortality. . . .

We do not gain any good simply by desiring it. We need to add to our desire the giving up of that which would hinder our realization of "the springtime of Christ's dear love." The false beliefs of personal sense, worry, doubt, fear, resentment, pride, and stubborn self-will must be given up and replaced by the spiritual qualities which constitute man's real being. In proportion as we are honestly trying to do this, our trials and afflictions will become less, our "joys and triumphs" will increase, and, looking back at some landmark in our experience, we shall be able triumphantly to say, "Lo, the winter is past."

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-crowded and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How soon do you leave for camp, Bob?"

"Next Tuesday, Judge. Bill and George are leaving the same time. We're hoping to wind up in a tank outfit."

"Well, the way I've seen you handle a tractor, Bob, you ought to be right at home in one of those tanks. You're going to like the service—they're a great bunch of fellows. Just last week I went down to camp to see a young nephew of mine and he introduced me to some of his buddies. Fine fellows—real he-men just like you and Bill and George—from good American homes. Handle themselves well, too."

"You know, I've been checking up on it, Bob, and I've found out that the American army today is healthier, better disciplined, better trained, better taken care of than it has ever been in its history. And you can take my word for it, Mary, he'll come back to you a fine man in great shape. Best of luck to you, Bob."

Distress From Nervous Indigestion, Sluggish Elimination and Muscular Pains Promptly Relieved, States M. Young.

"I don't believe I could have put in a crop this spring but for Retonga."

MR. ROBERT VANCE YOUNG

Young, one of the best known farmers in Wake County, who resides on Route 1, New Hill, N. C. Discussing his case, Mr. Young continued.

"I was so uncomfortable from indigestion and pains in my muscles that I couldn't half sleep. I didn't want to eat, and so much gas formed in my stomach that I often felt like I would choke from the pressure up against my chest. Stubborn constipation made me feel like I was full of toxic poisons, and I got to be almost a slave to strong laxatives. I felt so achy, weak, and undernourished I couldn't plow a row."

Retonga is intended for the relief of such distress when due to loss of appetite, insufficient flow of gastric juices, and I no longer have to take harsh laxatives. I can plow a two horse team all day. Retonga was a godsend to me."

The nation's highways, too, are doing their part for victory. In addition to the large volume of military traffic, the bus lines carried more than 650 million passengers in 1942—nearly six times the population of the U. S. And still more are riding this year. These millions are not traveling for scenery or pleasure. Most of them are selectees, military personnel, and war workers. Others are farmers; nurses; teachers—people in nearly every walk of life whose trips in some way or other are essential to the national welfare.
