ARMY APPLAUDS A HICKMAN NATIVE — Awards for Army library work in Washington were presented to Josephine Sullivan by Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr, Jr. At right is her mother, Mrs. Terrell T. Sullivan, Hickman.

Stahr's Pacific Tour First Announced In Fulton During Visit Here Last July

When Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr, Jr. visited in Fulton last July to be principal speaker for the State Board meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce he told a News reporter that he would make an extended tour of the Pacific area in the Fall of that year. Recent reports that he was sent on the mission as a prelude to his departure from his Cabinet post were denied by the former Hickman native on his return from his Pacific tour. The trip was postponed twice before it was finally made. When Secretary Stahr made his speech to the state group in meeting here he opened his talk by saying: "The first announcement that I will make an extensive tour of the Pacific is being made here tonight, and although the trip will be announced officially at a later date, I learned tonight that you can't talk to reporters without being quoted."

The statement about the trip to military installations in the Pacific was made to Mrs. Paul Westpheling, editor of the Fulton News. All the rumors indicate that who introduced the Secretary at the banquet meeting held at the Park Terrace. Stahr arrived in the capital last weekend expressing amazement about, and denying, all the rumors that spread in Washington during his 15-day, 25,000-mile trip.

McDade Firm Is Low Bidder On Graves Project

A bituminous concrete surfacing project on the Pilot Oak-Stubblefield Road (Ky. 129) in Graves County was awarded by the Highway Department on April 19, Commissioner of Highway Henry Ward announced today.

The project will begin at Ky. 94 at Pilot Oak and extend 6.67 miles to Ky. 324 near Stubblefield. McDade & McDade submitted the low bid of $128,112.10.

This highway improvement is being financed with Federal and state road funds.

New Postoffice For Fulton; Old Usona Is Site

Time marches on! One of West Kentucky's famous landmarks of the past will be torn down and a new postoffice built on the site, the Post office Department in Washington advised the News on Wednesday. The Earle Hotel, formerly the Usona Hotel, more than a half century old, has been optioned to the Postoffice Department for the construction of a modern, one-story, brick and masonry building with 6820 square feet of floor space. A parking area of 19,000 feet will also be built.

Date of the construction has not been set. Postmaster Joe Treas said that bids from private contractors will be asked to erect the building as a private enterprise and then leased to the Postoffice Department.

The fact that Fulton was in line for a new postoffice building has been known locally for more than two years. What disposition may be made of the old building is not known. However, it was learned that some thought has been given to investigating the possibility of converting the building to a Fulton City Hall.

Cottrell, Jr., South Fulton, Tennessee; Vice-president, Joe McWarren, Kenton, Tennessee; Secretary, Mrs. Ralph Smith, South Fulton; Treasurer, Mrs. Virginia Alexander, Hornbeak.

This group has campaigned the past year to bring to the attention of the public the many needs of Obion County schools.

Fulton Takes Over KU System Monday; Lawrence Yates To Head Line Crew

Fulton will begin operating its own electric distribution system next Monday April 30 at midnight, the Fulton Electric Plant Board announced today through its chairman, Clyde Williams, Jr.

As far as the citizens of Fulton are concerned, however, there will be no difference to be noticed in service: electricity will be provided to Fulton over transmission lines of the Kentucky Utilities Company same as before, with a 2-way feed available over adjacent TVA lines, in emergencies, same as before. The purchase agreement calls for the local Plant Board to take over the KU substation in East Fulton and all lines, transformers, meters and stationary equipment used in the local distribution system, including two service trucks.

A line crew to service and maintain good lines in Fulton was named this week. The crew will be headed by Lawrence Yates, Gaylon Varden, son of Mr. and long-time KU employee who has worked many years in the Fulton system; and crewmen Charles and Ray, Gene Howard Hutchens and Billy Moss. The service department will utilize vehicles with 2-way radio here, as same as KU has maintained in recent years.

Charlie Huddleston Named Alternate For GE's College Bowl TV Program

When twin city television viewers see General Electric's College Bowl program on Sunday, May 6, their eyes will be on the TV picture, but their hearts will be in New York with brilliant Charlie Huddleston. Charlie was selected as an alternate on the University of Tennessee College Bowl team. He was among the 12 finalists selected from a large group of students who took strenuous tests to become eligible for the high honor of "varsity scholar," and will be with the team in New York when the show goes on the air.

Charlie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Huddleston and his selection for the team of scholars came as no surprise to his many friends and teachers at Fulton High School where he was valedictorian in the graduating class of 1959. A versatile student, as adept in his extra-curricular activities as he was in his studies, Charlie was president of his freshman and senior classes while at Fulton High. He was a football letterman in his sophomore, junior and senior years and a National Merit Scholarship finalist. He was a member of the Kenna staff and Quill and Scroll, national honorary (Continued on page four)

Hal Warren Selected For Screening In Air Force's Sabre Air Command

Hal Warren, whose scholastic and leadership ability as a student at Fulton High School was the inspiration for his fellow students and the faculty, is one of the twenty finalists selected for screening in the Sabre Air Command. Hal, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren of Fulton, is a freshman at Memphis State College as a pre-law student majoring in political science.

Thirty students were selected to be screened out of 1200 freshmen and sophomores and Hal was among the top thirty. From that number 20 were named finalists. Quiet, soft-spoken, popular Hal Warren was one of those unusual high school students who excelled in every endeavor he undertook. That same ability is being shown as a college student.

The letter from the headquarters of the 785th Air Force ROTC Wing commends Hal for his selection and we publish it so that you can share the pride all of us feel in his selection.

SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENTS—Doctors Ward and Glynn Bushart and Stewart Poston, medical technician at the Fulton Hospital "supervised" the outside construction now going on at the hospital. An asphalt parking area for ten cars, a ramp for ambulatory patients and a new side entrance are among the many improvements being made on the exterior of the building. Extensive remodeling of the offices, corridors and other hospital rooms is underway and the doctors reported that a complete story on the remodeling project will be made at a later date.

CAN I HELP YOU OUT . . . Yes, but didn't you come in a little unexpected? That's what Franklin Pruitt and Clyde Wood seem to be asking as they view the damage to the front of their building Tuesday when a giant truck came in without an invitation.

TV'S FALLING DOWN or "no show tonight" may be the title of this photo as the neon signs in front of Wood and Pruitt's TV Shop hang in the balance after a huge truck backed into the front of the building and the front came tumbling down.

Twin Cities Go All Out In Observing Clean Up Week; Big Parade Wednesday

Mayors Gilbert DeMyer, Fulton, and Milton Counce, South Fulton, have proclaimed April 25 through May 2 as Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up Week in the Twin Cities.

City officials, from the mayors right down the line, are cooperating fully in the effort to place Fulton and South Fulton in the front with the nation's most progressive communities.

All civic organizations have put their membership behind the Clean Up campaign; however, the cooperation of the individual residents is just as important as the work of these groups. Among projects that individuals can do are the following:

1. Clean all rubbish from back and front yards.
2. Plant new grass on bare spots.
3. Trim Hedges.
4. Paint exterior of homes.
5. Mend fences.
6. Clear vacant lots of rubbish and plant with flowers.
7. Plant trees.
8. Clean out all rubbish, old papers, etc., from basements, attics and garages.
9. Repair sidewalks.

Fulton and South Fulton can be made healthier places in which to live if everyone pitches in and makes the Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up campaign a success, according to Harry Barry, Registered Sanitarian of Fulton County, and John Caraway, of the Health and Sanitation Department of Obion County. They stated that health hazards can be removed easily as part of the regular (Continued on page ten)

Dear Friends:
Ozie is on vacation. Need I say more. I just had to run all these nice letters in my column, because with what I've been through cleaning house and keeping house without her, I'd know these flowers were for the dead, instead of for the living as they were intended.

Thank you for your letter of April 18 concerning news that is created by the South Fulton Baptist Church.

We will be happy to have the opportunity to release our news to you. I will begin by planning to turn in what I have on this Tuesday morning, April 24.

I want to express my personal appreciation to you and Mr. Westpheling for your interest in the community and your public service.

May God's richest blessings continue to abide with you and yours.

Mayor DeMyer To Recommend Aid For Library Fund

Mayor Gilbert DeMyer will recommend to the Fulton City Commission at its next regular meeting that a grant of $150 be made to the Fulton Woman's Club for its library fund.

Mayor DeMyer told the News that he had discussed the matter of the grant with a financial expert of the Economic Development Commission and was advised that other cities were making such donations to similar public institutions.

Attorney Rodney Miller advised the Commission that such a donation was ruled illegal by the Court of Appeals. Mr. Miller's opinion was rendered at the request of the Commission.

Mr. Robey substantiated Mr. Miller's findings, but added that many cities were making such grants in the interest of public welfare.

Arts And Crafts Train Due Here Tuesday, May 1st

With the arrival of the two-car Kentucky Guild Train next Tuesday, Fulton will see one phase of a program the Department of Economic Development has launched to create an arts-and-craft industry in Kentucky. The train will be located at Browder's Crossing at the end of Valley Street. Doors will open at nine a. m. and remain open until eight at night. Special group tours are invited.

The program was begun by the Department of Economic Development in the Fall of 1960. The goal of the department at that time was to stimulate the development of the arts-and-craft industry in the State.

To spearhead this effort, Paul R. Hadley, vice president and general manager of nationally known Churchill Weavers, Inc., Berea, was appointed by Economic Development Commissioner E. B. Kennedy. (The Division of Arts and Crafts was created with Hadley at its head in August, 1961.)

Hadley outlined a program that soon had the approval of both Governor Bert Combs and Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt who saw in the expansion of the handicraft industry a method of boosting the economy of Kentucky, particularly where other opportunities for new income did not exist.

ALL STATE!

Kenneth Allen and Don Burnette, members of the Fulton City Bulldogs team, which won the 1962 First Regional championship, were chosen for honorable mention on the 1962 All-State Basketball team announced by the Courier-Journal. They received their certificates this week.

Congress Passes Law Enabling Public School Employees To Supplement Retirement Income

A major benefit for teachers and other employees of public school systems has been achieved by the passage by Congress of Public Law 87-370. This law extends the privilege of purchasing tax-free or tax-sheltered annuities to all public school employees.

Because of the difficulty of accumulating sufficient income for comfortable retirement, Congress has now provided attractive tax incentives so that it will be possible for school board employees to purchase personal supplementary retirement programs through a voluntary payroll deduction method. Specially, these advantages are available:

To the extent that savings are put into retirement annuities the base for figuring income tax (and, consequently, the tax itself) is reduced.

During the saving period the savings grow tax free, because the earning of the money saved are tax free.

There are only two specific requirements under the law for eligible persons to obtain these tax advantages:

1. Savings must be in the form of individual annuities and

2. Savings must be accomplished through the payroll deduction method.

Other than these requirements, the matter of how much to save is a purely personal and individual decision to be made by each teacher or employee. Here is how the new law works:

By employing Public Law 87-370, you, as a teacher, can actually reduce your current income taxes by saving money.

As an example, assuming a monthly income of $400 (9¼ months), a teacher claiming one exemption pays a federal withholding tax of $63.80 per month. If he uses the conventional savings or retirement plan, the teacher will still have to pay $63.80 per month federal withholding tax. However, for example, by using this new law, your employer deposits $50 per month, the teacher will reduce his monthly deferred withholding tax to $52.60. Simply by using this method he will enjoy a reduction in his withholding tax of $11.20 per month or an annual savings of $100.80.

Looking at it another way, the teacher need only be out of pocket $39 per month in order to gain the full effect of a $50 per month plan.

This permits an employee in the 20% tax bracket to save $1.25 for each $1.00 that can now be saved and if in the 22% tax bracket to save $1.28 for each $1.00 or $1.43 for each $1.00 if the person is in the 30% bracket.

If the employee lives, at retirement he would have additional income or cash.

If he dies, accumulated value will be paid to his family.

If he quits, he may withdraw his terminal cash value or leave the money on deposit for future use.

In the event of an emergency his accumulation will be available immediately.

This allows a unique and special method of providing for retirement. Collateral benefits are money for emergencies, College education or business opportunities.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY. Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago; original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance. . . . ED.

BY WILLIAM R. McHENRY

Fourth Week In April, 1862

The great Battle of Shiloh took over most of the interest of the Civil War during the early part of April, 1862, but other events were happening elsewhere in the nation. In fact, something was going on everywhere.

April 11, 1862: Capt. James J. Andrews and 21 Union volunteers slipped down into Georgia and stole a train from the Confederates. The Yankees seized the engine while the train crew was eating. They set out to the north toward Chattanooga. Their objective was to tear up the railroad tracks between Atlanta and Chattanooga so that arms and ammunition could not be delivered by the Confederates after the fighting would start in East Tennessee.

The Confederate train crew managed to grab another engine, and chase the stolen train. Andrews and his men had to stop frequently for firewood for the engine. He managed to set fire to several bridges, but the following Confederates put out the fire, and continued the chase. Finally the Yankees had to abandon the captured engine and take to the hills. Andrews and most of the men were captured and hanged as spies. (Today the engine, called the "General" is stationed in the Union Station in Chattanooga.)

April 17: Washington: The President of the United States signed a bill putting an end to slavery in the District of Columbia.

April 15, 1862, Yorktown, Va.: McClellan's army was taking position before this city with a view of laying siege. McClellan had just been notified that McDowell's Corps would not be with him, but would be held as a defense force 60,000 Federal soldiers busy, and then would slip away from them and join the Confederates forces around Richmond to defeat McClellan's huge force!

April 29, Harrisonburg, Va.: "The Regimental band of the Union forces gave a concert to the rebel population of this town. The band played in the Court House square "Hail, Columbia." Soldiers cheered. People did not. Then the band played "Red, White and Blue," "Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie." (The people cheered.) Band then marched through streets playing "Yankee Doodle" much to the disgust of the inhabitants."

April 29: New Orleans occupied by the North! The wooden and iron ships under Farragut passed Forts St. Philip and Jackson (a fort was on either side of the Mississippi River) and destroyed the weaker Confederate fleet in the river. New Orleans was the site of the new rolling mill to make steel ships for the Confederacy. The River was open to Northern shipping up past New Orleans, and south from Cairo to Memphis.

And before Richmond the huge Union army was getting into place for battle.

About Town With Ouida Jewell

The old saying that "Life begins at forty", had meant very little to me, until recently. Now, mind you, I'm not that age yet—but its not far off, and after devoting many years to the newspaper profession, I find myself embarked on an entirely new career. And, I love it very much! I find it very exciting and rewarding.

As you all know, about a month ago I went to work for my former boss, Harry Lee Waterfield, as Fulton County representative for his company, National Investors.

While in school at Lexington, the first three days I was the most confused person you could have found anywhere. To make matters worse, I was the only girl (maybe I should say woman) in the class, and those men had all the confidence in the world.

Me—when I don't understand, I don't mind saying so. Therefore, that poor instructor had his doubts about his lone woman pupil.

But, as the week of day and night classes went on, my mind began to clear, and I have you know that on my final exam I made "ninety-seven"—and was I proud!

Upon my return home, I began studying for my state license—and was that exam tough! But, I passed that too!

My next problem was to get up the nerve to go out and make my first presentation. Jo Westpheling consented for me to practice on her—and I have you know that before I was half-way through, she amazed me by saying, "What would you say if I took two contracts That's the best investment contract I ever heard of!"

Everyone has been so nice to me, some let me practice my talk on them, while others assisted me in making appointments. My parents, my friends and everyone else around me have done more than their share to get me embarked on this entirely new career. Hugh Fly, publicity agent for National Investors, Stockholder Eugene Hootenpytle, Mr. Norman Terry and many others have lent me a helping hand.

This work will be good for me. Some of you won't believe it, but around some people I am rather shy, while others just simply scare me to death.

I made a call on one man this past week, whom I have always considered a very good friend, but I had to talk to myself for a week before I got up the courage to visit him. I just knew that he would pop all kinds of tough questions at me, that I wouldn't be able to answer. (I had felt this same way about making my presentation to Jo.) But, you know, they were two of the easiest calls I have made.

For the past several years, I have more or less lived in a little world all my own, and now that I am getting out meeting new people, I find it very interesting.

If you are nearing forty and feel that you are too old to start on a new career, get it out of your mind! I heartily agree with William Henry Edwards, who said on his fortieth birthday, "Why, I'm just beginning to live!"

I'm filling in for Jo this morning, so will try to write a column. I've had my mind on other things besides news lately, so I'm sorta blank.

I had surprise visits from several friends over the Easter holidays.

Marion Vance Is Favored Candidate of Midget Party; Platform Is More Jam On Lower Shelves

Marion Vance, an attorney from Glasgow, for reasons known only to himself and his guardian angel, (who must be off duty) is seeking the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in the May primary. His opponent is Wilson W. Wyatt, lieutenant governor of Kentucky, former Mayor of Louisville, Federal Housing Expediter, head of the Kentucky Economic Development Commission and a good many prestigious connections that would take us until next press day to enumerate.

Mr. Vance's chances of getting elected are so infinitesimal that a lot of newspaper editors and reporters are getting put out with him. Most of us hate to dignify his race by saying he is Mr. Wyatt's opponent, along with an another perennial "plug" racer, Jones Delk. Yet professional ethics compel us to put his name in the paper as a candidate, because that's what he calls himself and it looks like that's all he wants to be. Surely Mr. Vance must know that the nearest he'll ever get to being the Democratic nominee is getting his name on the ballot. But maybe that's all he wants, because it's for sure, that's about all he'll get.

Perhaps of greater irritation to reporters and publishers is the slogan that Mr. Vance has chosen for his campaign: "put the jam on the lower shelf so the little man can reach it."

We can't imagine what phase of federal government Mr. Vance refers to as "jam." Is it traffic jam, log-jam, crowd-jam, or just plain old sweet-jam?

If it's the latter we'd say that a man is a mighty wee midget if he can't reach the sweet-jam on the shelves of the super-markets and smaller grocery stores in Kentucky. We also think that if Mr. Vance is serious about getting the jam on the lower shelf so the little man can reach it he ought to be a grocery salesman and make this suggestion to the food emporiums.

We think he'd be performing a much greater service to the sawed-off grocery buyer in that way than to be cluttering up the ballot with his hopeless campaign for United States Senator.

Farm Owners Urged To Beautify Premises

Rural beautification is one of the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up projects. This will take in many farms and farm families. This will mean you Mr. and Mrs. Farmer.

Just what could be done on each farm to make it more beautiful, livable, enjoyable and more pleasing to the eye of the passerby?

Almost every farm could be a different situation, but here are a few, we could check upon.

1. Control rodents.
2. Inspect home for termites.
3. Put away unused or useless machinery.
4. Burn unattractive debris.
5. Be handy with the paint brush.

Maybe it is hard to see just what needs to be done at your own place. You know when you are out driving what a critical eye you have toward other places. When you are coming home don't pull in the drive, just go on by very slow and see if the same critical eye can't work at your own home.

Around and About Our Town

By Ruby Neisler

A cheery good morning to everyone. Easter was such a beautiful day! Hope everyone could or did enjoy it. The roadside is indeed beautiful now with the red buds and other flowers and shrubs in bloom. Truly, Easter brings new life.

I had dinner with my daughter, Mrs. Martha Boulton and Glenda yesterday. We had a wonderful time together.

Congratulations to Ronnie Homra and Guy Williamson on receiving the Eagle Scout Awards at the regular meeting of the Lions Club last week. The mothers of the boys pinned the awards on them, then they in turn pinned miniature awards on their mothers.

It is with great regret that we learn that Mr. Robert Burrow is moving to Clinton. We wish you much success in your work there, Mr. Burrow.

Mrs. Connie Lynch was a very happy person last Wednesday when her daughter, Alien Lynch arrived at her home. I know they enjoyed being together for a few days. On Saturday, Mrs. Lynch had as dinner guests, Mrs. Pearl Davidson and daughter, Mrs. C. Holdner and Mr. Holdner and son, all of St. Louis. The Lynch house is still and lonely this morning, as cocoa and bananas which of course are not directly competitive with our American Agriculture.

There is another reason for supporting the easing of tariffs on foreign trade. Some lawmakers believe lower tariffs on manufactured goods are just about the last hope for eliminating the cost-price-squeeze that has plagued farmers.

The future prosperity of the farmer may be assured, provided he does not have to continue to pay more for purchases and get fewer dollars for his farm products.

Proper Calf Care Important

I have heard much conversation lately about raising calves and since we do have many cows that will drop calves within the next few weeks I thought it best to discuss calf care today. It goes without saying that the first few hours are most important to the new born calf. Proper sanitation and early nursing is a must. After three days dairy calves should be gradually converted to the nipple bucket and milk replacer. The nipple bucket should be kept as clean as your milking machine. Now as to the milk replacer, if you follow the directions to the letter, keep the calves a little hungry and free of drafts, there will be very little trouble with feeding problems. It is also wise to separate calves in age groups and only 3 to 4 to the pen.

The baby calf should not have any hay for the first two to three weeks and during this time block salt should be available. THIS IS THE ONLY TIME IN THE LIFE OF THE CALF THAT BLOCK SALT SHOULD BE USED. Keep a well balanced ration of at least 17 percent protein before the calf after 2 weeks. Most calves will not eat much at first, but between feedings they will eat up to 1-4 pound daily after a few days. They should be dehorned before three months of age with an electric dehorner. The electric dehorner is clean, fast and has NO AFTER EFFECT OR OPEN WOUNDS.

I have used several grain mixtures on heifers and here is one that has given me very good results. 200 pounds crushed ear corn, 200 pounds crimped oats, 40 pounds soybean meal, 12 pounds trace mineral and 40 pounds molasses. At current prices this mix will cost you about $13.82 for the 484 pound batch. This ration should be used on older calves and as I stated before a 17 percent protein feed is preferred for starting rations. This price includes all ingredients and anything you could furnish would naturally cheapen the cost. Always use the highest quality hay available for the young heifers.

With the present price situation, a heifer can be grown out for $165.00 to $175.00. This type heifer, if purchased on the open market would cost from $250 to $300. Don't you think it would pay you to grow your heifers rather than buy? It is a little trouble, yes but where else can you make a return on money like that and still know the source of your heifers.

With the use of artificial breeding, a few years of selective culling and growing out the best heifers, dairying can be made more profitable.

Remember, the neglect or proper management you give that baby calf today will surely be reflected in the milk pails of tomorrow.

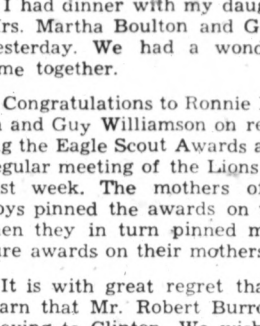

GOING ON!

The requirement regarding the maintenance of a farm's average acreage of conserving any idle land will continue in effect under the 1962 soybean price-support program, R. O. Wilson, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, said today. The national average support for 1962-grop soybeans has been announced at $2.25 per bushel.

This requirement was also in the 1961 soybean support program. It is designed to insure that any increases in soybean production will come from acreage used for crops that are in abundant supply rather than from land now in conserving uses or idle.

To be eligible for 1962 support, soybeans must grade No. 4 or better and contain not more than 14 percent moisture, and they must be in adequate storage.

Loans and purchase agreements on soybeans will be available from harvest-time through January 31, 1963. The maturity date for loans will be May 31, 1963. County support rates, with premium and discounts for grade and quality differences, will be announced later.

Food For Thought On Free Trade

A more important decision faced by Congress in the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act which expires June 30, 1962. The Administration has indicated that it will seek authority to lower tariffs and negotiate conditions of trade to increase exports.

Where should we in agriculture stand on this issue? If we should align ourselves squarely on the side of increased trade, this would mean of course that two way trade would have to be encouraged. Everyone knows that we cannot have our cake and eat it too.

Agricultural exports in recent years have been heavily subsidized, yet sales for cash have also been substantial. For many years we have had a foreign market for the products for approximately one acre in seven. This past year we exported roughly the products from one acre in 5.

It is quite easy to see that without this foreign trade our surplus situation would have been almost intolerable. Farm prices could have been under much greater pressure than they were. The foreign market, which approaches $5 billion, yields hard cash for the United States of America and much needed income for the farmer.

We are irritated and sometimes hurt by imports of competitive products such as live cattle, cheese, foreign hams, lamb and wool, however, these are but a drop in the bucket compared to our export returns. Imports of foodstuff run considerably less than exports. To make the picture even more favorable, a large proportion of agricultural imports consist of products such as coffee,

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

Well, the Easter parade is over and it's a good thing. If it hadn't passed by when it did, there would be many mothers trampled by growing, little feet. Used to be, Easter meant a new hat, maybe a new dress, maybe a new pair of shoes. If you went all out perhaps you could get the small fry a combination of two items, maybe three, and an entire new outfit was the exception, rather than the rule. That's what used to be, and perhaps we're looking too far back into the past, because today's modern youth would be appalled to think that an Easter outfit meant "something new" instead of "everything new." We got in on that modern concept of Easter and if you don't think that dressing a young lady from head to toe for the Easter parade isn't a job for a strong back and the same kind of pocket-back, just try it for size sometime.

You'd think that going into a store where ready-to-wear is the peccate resistance is enough for dressing out for the bunny regiment. You'd think that the people who operate those stores have good taste and buy with the idea of matching a costume for the most discriminating dandy. You'd think you were mighty lucky if you came out of that store with the whole kit and caboodle, and you would be if these new magazines and such would mind their own business and let the parents decide what's nice and pretty.

Perhaps a lot of us made the mistake when we started saying: "Do you like this, honey?" That does it! It sets a young lady's fancy wild-like, and instead of agreeing she brings out a picture of something she saw in "Teen" or "Seventeen" or "Mademoiselle" with color combinations that create optical illusions. So to make the lassie happy you start on the trek to find the exact color, to match the thin line of decoration on the hat, the bow on the shoe, the button on the dress. If you don't think that's for the birds, or the clod-hoppers, we'll tell you that it is. Funny thing about it all is that you generally end up in the same store where you started, but not before you've taken a box full of tranquilizers, aspirin and pep pills.

Our crocheted bath-tub goes to the mother who has three or four girls, and a persnickety boy or two and brings them out on Sunday all matched up and pretty... and even corsages to match.

AN EXHIBIT of paintings by Anne Cooper Dobbins will open next Sunday at the Village Art Center in New York City. Miss Dobbins was awarded the show as best of work exhibited recently at the Village Art Center's Prize Winners Exhibition.

Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Innes Dobbins. The Dobbins family lived in Fulton when Anne's father was a young man. And success seems to be the going thing in the Dobbins household, for Innes is a top ranking official in one of Louisville's largest banks. Good wishes and congratulations to all of them from all of us.

Miss Dobbins, now living at 105 St. Marks Place in New York City, is a native of Louisville. She attended both Louisville Collegiate School and Eastern High School before taking a degree at Washington University in St. Louis.

In her oil paintings, the main subjects are figures, portraits and self-portraits. Her wood-cuts also are an important part of her career, and have been exhibited in shows at the Library of Congress, Oklahoma Printmakers Society, twice at the National Print Exhibition of Silvermine, New Canaan, Conn. (where she won a purchase prize this year); the St. Louis Art Museum, and in this year's Louisville Art Center Annual, where she won another purchase prize.

Miss Dobbins says that, as a matter of conviction, she paints recognizable, identifiable images. She never has felt interest in non-objective work, and her only approach to abstract art happened as a by-product of her interest in machinery. Executing a cover design for Fortune, she synthesized many studies of cranes and dock-loading equipment into a result that approaches abstraction, and sometimes in her woodcuts will repeat similar experiments.

After a trip to Europe during her junior year at college, Miss Dobbins was injured in an automobile accident and forced to spend several months away from school. The period of enforced contemplation greatly strengthened her resolution to make painting her career. Her whole attitude toward painting, she says, was changed at that time.

Miss Dobbins has had one woman shows at the Hadley Gallery and the Louisville Art Center, which will give her another exhibit next summer. After holding jobs in New York at the Metropolitan Museum and with a greeting-card company, she now devotes her full time to her career as a painter.

Nell Hardy W. M. U. of Crutchfield Baptist Church met Thursday night April 19, at the church for their regular meeting.

Hostesses for the program, "Commit Thy Way" were Miss Marie Moore and Mrs. Macon Shelton. Those on the program were Mesdames Floyd Robertson, Walter Nichols, Dolin Myatt, C. A. Sadler, Ira Sadler, Macon Shelton, Miss Marie Moore, and Mrs. Lewis Patrick. President Mrs. Cloyce Johnston presided over the brief business session. Minutes were read and approved. The group was dismissed by prayer.

Refreshments of cake and drinks were served to ten members and three visitors.

Hellon Burcham asked your diarist a question this week. Said she: "You remember the Cub Scout days?" Indeed we do, but Hellon is right in the middle of the activity right now. She came into the News office looking for large sheets of corrugated cardboard. We don't sell it and tried to steer her to some places where she might find a supply. Know what Hellon wants the paper for? She's going to make some life-size cacti (is that the spelling) plants and have Cub Scouts in them for the big Scout-a-rama in Paducah. Anybody who attempts that monumental task ought to have some help... so if you know where she can get some large pieces of corrugated cardboard, call the poor gal, won't you?

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Williams, who are the parents of a little girl. The policeman and his wife adopted the child recently and whenever she is mentioned Hassell's face just beams. He's probably the proudest dad in town these days.

South Fulton Revival Brings People To Christ

William F. Evans, pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Albany, Mississippi, challenged his hearers to personal dedication to Christ in his opening sermon at the South Fulton Baptist Church.

His message was taken from the second chapter of the Book of Acts. He pointed out the highlights of the Bible requirements for a New Testament Church. He said the members of a New Testament church are with one accord in telling all people about the saving power of Christ. "They are filled with the Holy Spirit. They call upon the name of the Lord. A New Testament church is a church with repenting members. It is a baptizing church. It is engaged in teaching doctrine and fellowship and it is a praising church," he said.

At the close of the message most of the people present responded to an invitation to personal commitment of self to Christ.

Richard Ams led the congregation in singing and did a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee".

Brother Evans will be heard each morning at 8:45 on morning devotions on Radio Station WFUL. The services will be broadcast from the church on Sunday morning.

There will be services each night at 7:30 continuing through Sunday night. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Jones Will Be Remembered For Efforts To Make Life Worth Living

Mrs. J. L. Jones, Sr. will always live in the memory of Fultonians because she was a gracious lady, a thoughtful citizen, and a person whose friendship it was a privilege to share. Mrs. Jones died Sunday morning after a long illness and those who comforted her during her confinement knew that she bore that suffering with Christian fortitude. Mrs. Jones was the widow of the late Dr. Jones, a well known and prominent dentist who preceded her in death several years ago.

A member of a prominent and pioneer family of this area she contributed much to the progress and development of many cultural interests in the twin city area. She was generous in her efforts to do the work of her church, to make the home happy and wholesome and many were the hours she spent to make life more meaningful and beautiful. It was in keeping with her character that her family requested that any tributes paid to her in death be sent as contributions to the library fund of the Woman's Club. The pleasant hours of more reading that these contributions will make available are a monument to the devotion with which she viewed her association with the Fulton Woman's Club.

Survivors include a son, Dr. J. L. Jones of Fulton; two daughters, Mrs. A. C. Polk of Monroe, La., and Mrs. Harold McRea of Memphis; a sister, Mrs. W. L. Carter of Fulton; 11 grandchildren, Steve, Dick, David and Chris Jones of Fulton; Mary Eleanor, Aaron, Jane and Lillian Polk of Monroe, La., and Ann, Lloyd and Amy McRea of Memphis; four nieces, Mrs. Joe Monitz of St. Louis, Mrs. Henry Keisker of Memphis, Miss Thelma Duke of Memphis, Mrs. William S. Murphy of Tallahassee, Fla., and a nephew, Tom Duke Oak Ridge, Tenn.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church, the Garden Department of the Woman's Club and the Victory Homemakers Club.

Funeral services were held April 24, at 10 a. m. at the First Methodist Church. Rev. W. T. Barnes, pastor, officiated. Interment under the direction of W. W. Jones & Son of Martin was in Sunset Cemetery at Dresden.

Pallbearers were W. T. Brown, Charles Bennett, Arch Huddleston, Scott DeMyer, Aaron Butts, and Allen Jones.

DEATHS

Mrs. Charlene Shaw

Mrs. Charlene Shaw, wife of Howard Shaw, president of the Liberty Savings Bank, Mayfield, died at 11 a. m. April 20 at the Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis after a long illness. She was 43 years old.

Mrs. Shaw, a native of Obion County, Tenn., lived in Fulton for a number of years. She was a resident of Paducah for several years when her husband was cashier of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company.

She moved to Mayfield with her husband in 1956 when the Liberty Savings Bank was organized. He was made executive vice president and cashier of the bank when it was organized. He became president recently.

Survivors, besides her husband, are a son, Donald Shaw of Mayfield; three daughters, Miss Patricia Shaw of Mayfield, Mrs. Pat Hicks of Memphis and Mrs. Charles Davidson of Carbondale, Ill.; her mother, Mrs. C. J. Black of Union City; four sisters, Mrs. Lucille McCoy, Mrs. Leslie Lewis and Mrs. Tommy Bynum of Union City and Mrs. Homer Reeder of Plymouth, Mich., and two brothers, Drurie Black of Rives, Tenn., and Billie Black of Union City.

Services were held April 23 at 3 p. m. at the Byrn Funeral Home in Mayfield. Rev. John Huffman officiated. Burial was in Mayfield Memory Garden.

Byrn Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Annie Crockett wish to express our sincere appreciation for sympathy shown to us at the death of our loved one. We kindly thank those who sent flowers and food, Rev. Moore and everyone for their comforting words.

ately received TVA service, is not an independent distribution system, but has been incorporated in the County-wide distribution facilities of the Weakley County Municipal Electric System with headquarters at Martin, Tenn.

Next Monday at midnight will see the culmination of an intensive effort to acquire the local electrical distribution system, began in earnest in 1959 with the creation of the Fulton Electric Plant Board by the Mayor and Council of Fulton in accordance with State and Federal statute as an agency for that purpose.

The original board included Clyde Williams, Jr. as chairman, Paul Westpheling as secretary, Ward Johnson as Council member, Rodney Miller and Bill Adams. It twice went to Washington in the interest of getting Fulton excluded from the "TVA Freeze" Area, appearing the second time before the Senate Subcommittee dealing with the then-pending legislation. When its fight was successful, it then began the long-drawn-out negotiations with KU to purchase the system here. Membership on the Board has changed each year.

Commission Reports School Faculties Integration 'Working Well'

Is Kentucky accepting the integration of facilities in public schools?

Faculty integration has worked extremely well in Kentucky, according to a report by the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights. The report was made by Dr. A. Lee Coleman, head of the Department of Sociology and Rural Sociology of the University of Kentucky; and Dr. Sidney J. Kaplan, U. K. professor of sociology. Their report was prepared under contract with the Commission on Human Rights.

In January 1962, 17 school districts in Kentucky had integrated faculties, the report said. The 17 districts included 41 schools with integrated faculties—31 elementary schools and 10 junior and senior high schools.

In January—nearly six years after the start of pupil integration in Kentucky public schools—119 Negro teachers were in integrated faculties. The number of white teachers in integrated faculties came to 763.

Besides Negroes on integrated faculties, there are about 275 Negro teachers on all-Negro faculties of schools having some white students. Thus, nearly 400 Negro teachers are in integrated situations, the report pointed out. "There is unanimous and practically unqualified testimony from superintendents, principals and the Negro teachers that faculty integration is working out well," the Coleman-Kaplan report stated. All officials indicated that faculty integration had worked out as well as or better than they had expected.

"Among superintendents," the report continued, "the majority said they thought the change to integrated faculties has worked out fine and results were excellent. The remainder indicated general satisfaction but mentioned some minor problems and questions."

The few reservations or qualifications mentioned by superintendents concerned the attitudes of some other teachers and of a few parents:

"Where teacher integration has taken place in Kentucky it has clearly been successful," the report stated. "There is every reason to expect that a nondiscriminatory policy of teacher employment and assignment would be successful elsewhere in the state, assuming reasonably adequate handling of the matter by school officials, and 'normal' personality and competence on the part of the Negro teacher to be placed on integrated faculties. The school districts now having some Negro-white faculties could no doubt place additional qualified Negro teachers on such faculties with no difficulty."

Compared with many other states, Kentucky's record in teacher integration is good, the report said, pointing out, however, that a number of the larger school districts have made no move toward teacher integration despite successful pupil desegregation. Jefferson County, Lexington, Covington and Paducah were pointed out as large districts with no faculty integration.

The study found that there are more problems connected with the assignment of Negro teachers to non-teaching duties than to regular classroom teaching. The report advised against such special assignments: "Special treatment or assignment based on race is a form of segregation and seems to invite jealousies and racial comparisons even when there is no overt or intended discrimination."

Of the Negro teachers serving on integrated faculties, well over half—82 out of 119—were in the Louisville School District. Among county school districts, Woodford had the highest number of Negro teachers in integrated faculties—seven—and the highest number of white teachers in integrated faculties—85.

Since the end of the 1960-61 school year, the number of Kentucky public schools with integrated faculties rose from 28 to 41. The number of Negro teachers on integrated faculties nearly doubled during the six months—from 58 to 119. About one-sixth of the Negro teachers serving on integrated faculties are on non-classroom assignment such as library work, the report stated.

"In view of Kentucky's reputation for progressive race relations," the report concludes, "its commitment to nondiscrimination, its need for the best teachers obtainable, and its urgent need to improve education in all its aspects, it would seem that local school authorities and the State Government should move at once toward a policy and practice of employing, retaining and promoting teachers on the basis of qualifications, without regard to race.

Copies of the report are available on request to Galen Martin, executive director, Kentucky Commission of Human Rights, Capitol Annex, Frankfort.

Bride Changes Church; Gown Too Big For Aisle

Dundee, Scotland. — The wedding-day dilemma of 20-year-old Fiona Campbell was: change her church or change her wedding dress with its crinoline skirt. She changed churches.

"You'll never get down the aisle of Auchterhouse Kirk in that dress," her recently married girl friend told her.

Fiona did some measuring. The skirt was 6 inches wider than the aisle. So Fiona decided on Muirhead Church for Saturday's ceremony — after she measured the aisle.

Tense Depressed Bored? Have You Tried Whistling To Relax

Just before the alarm went off one morning, I heard someone whistle "Yankee Doodle" as he walked past our house.

I had been lying awake with an impacted wisdom tooth, and I dreaded getting up to keep an appointment to have it extracted. Leaning back on my elbows, I listened to the whistling man till he turned the corner and the sound died away.

There was something contagious about this piping sound, and I found myself whistling the same tune as I went down stairs for breakfast. My son Jay had finished his oatmeal but was still nervously cramming for a final history exam he had to take that morning.

"I wish I felt like whistling," he told me. "I'm scared stiff of this exam."

But as he left on his bike, he was whistling "Yankee Doodle" loud enough to be heard all the way to school. A few minutes later, I cheerfully waved good-bye on my way to the dentist, and my wife looked at me with approbation.

"You ought to whistle more often," she said.

During the year that has passed since then, whistling has become second nature with me. I've found it offers a lot more than meets the ear. It's fun. It can change your mood from black to sunny; it helps you concentrate. In tight spots, it screws up your courage. Even if you can't carry a tune vocally, you can whistle in pitch—or near enough. And, of course, you don't have to know the words.

Considering what whistling does for the spirit, I wonder why I let it drop for so long—and why more people don't use it to make life a little more effervescent.

In the Illinois town where I grew up, you could hear whistling almost any time of day. Age had nothing to do with it. My grandfather whistled while he hitched his favorite mare, White Spot, for a buggy ride to the farm. My father whistled over his accounts. Art Velie, the grocery boy, whistled while he patted a pound of tub butter into a paper platter or drew a jug of sorghum molasses from a barrel.

My older brother Fred could whistle two notes at once, like Fritz Kreisler playing "Caprice Viennois" on a Red Seal record.

Caroline, my kid sister, could whistle only while inhaling. All her melodies sounded like the finale to an ice-cream soda.

To us children, "whistling in the dark" wasn't just an expression. Walking home from Grandpa's after dark, we always whistled when we crossed the unlighted alleyways that divided every block. We also whistled while passing cemeteries and haunted houses.

Our whistling was not very fierce and could hardly have deterred a really determined ghost or boogeyman. But it worked just the same, and it demonstrated a profound and reassuring truth which I didn't fully grasp till much later in life—that most of the ghosts and boogeymen who terrify us are not present in the world around us but reside only within ourselves.

Whistling isn't just a front, though. When you face a real challenge, whistling actually does steel you to face it.

Each time I drove my wife to the hospital to have a baby, she whistled the whole way. Whenever she sounded off pitch, I stepped a little harder on the accelerator.

Whenever our sons, as children, had to have a hypodermic injection, my wife always told them to whistle. That way they didn't have a chance to build up fears of the needle jab and felt it much less when it happened. Our pediatrician, who adopted the device as a regular procedure, says it has helped his other patients enormously.

Any performance requiring steady nerves and delicate manipulation seems to promote whistling. Perhaps that's why it's so characteristic of tightrope walkers, fighter pilots, surgeons, and most skilled technicians to whistle while they work.

Once you start whistling, one melody leads to another—without any conscious thought of where you're going. You find yourself borne on a winding river of reminiscence.

You will discover that whistling has the power to evoke many moods which can be recaptured in no other way. If you want to set off on a sentimental journey sometime, begin with an old favorite like "Three O'Clock in the Morning" or "Danny Boy."

SECONDARY ROAD FORMULA BILL SIGNED—Gov. Bert Combs signs into law Senate Bill 156 which, for the first time in Kentucky's history, establishes by law a formula for equitable distribution of Rural Secondary Road Fund money to counties. Under the new formula one-fifth of the Fund is divided equally among all counties; one-fifth is allocated among the counties on the basis of their rural population; one-fifth is allocated on the basis of rural road mileage; and the remaining two-fifths is allocated on the basis of the rural area of each county. Revenue for the fund is derived from two cents of the State's seven cents per gallon gasoline tax. Present for the signing were (from left) T. R. Marcum, rural highway commissioner who administers the Rural Secondary Road Program; Sen. Hazel Cobb, Sen. Frederick E. Nichols, Sen. John R. Turner, and Sen. Wilson Palmer, all sponsors of the bill; E. W. Kesler, Kentucky Farm Bureau Legislative director; and Henry Ward, highway commissioner.

The official record for the height is 6 minutes, 42.3 seconds, set last October by the Air Force.

Brazil Buying Pigeons To Live In New Capitol

Brazil's new capital is being populated with pigeons as part of the campaign to make the modernistic city a nicer place to live.

Governor Combs Proclaims May 1-7 Immunization Week In Kentucky

In proclaiming May 1-7 as Immunization Week in Kentucky Governor Bert T. Combs joined with the Kentucky State Medical Association and other state organizations in urging all Kentuckians to check their own families immunization needs.

"This year is a more important year, we feel, in that the first compulsory Immunization Bill in Kentucky in this century was passed," Dr. Delmas M. Clardy, Hopkinsville, chairman of the KSMA-Public Health Committee said. The mandatory smallpox vaccination law has been in effect over 60 years, he added.

The new law, which will become effective in June 1962, requires that all parents, guardians, and other persons having care, custody or control of any child under eighteen years of age, shall have the child immunized against diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis and pertussis within twelve months after birth.

Unless his religion forbids it the law states, no child under eighteen years of age will be eligible to enroll as a student in any public or private elementary or secondary school without first presenting a certificate from a duly licensed medical or osteopathic physician stating that the child has been immunized against diphtheria, tetanus and poliomyelitis or that such immunization would be injurious to his health.

Doctor Clardy stressed, however, that not only school-age children but adults and pre-school age children as well, should avail themselves of the vaccines which afford protection against these death-dealing diseases.

In 1958 in the enthusiasm of seeking office Mr. Stubblefield proposed to appear and revolutionize Congress and singled out as beneficiaries of his service the following groups:

FARMERS

LABOR
BUSINESSMEN

(and no doubt the voters in general)

NOBLE J. GREGORY

He also took a firm and fearless position for less unemployment, MORE Federal aid and LESS TAXES.

My record of accomplishment is known. Now let's hear about his record and compare them.

After four years, NOW would be a fine time for him to let all in on just exactly what he and his Administrative Aide (Frank Ellis) have done in these fields of endeavor.

A story in the Paducah Sun-Democrat of December 6, 1959, states that Stubblefield says that Frank Ellis is the key to whatever he has done. A direct quote in the same story from Mr. Stubblefield states: "I could not get along without him". Now that Mr. Ellis is no longer with him, how could Mr. Stubblefield be of proper service in the absence of "I couldn't get along without him"?

When I am again elected, I will be your Congressman and not through secretaries or Administrative Assistants. (I never did need an Assistant) I handled your problems individually. You elect a Congressman to handle the business himself. Thousands of people can testify to the fact that in my period of service they dealt directly with me.

This campaign should be decided on the merits of the two candidates as to which one can better serve the District in Congress. It should not be decided on the merits of any candidate for any office past, present or future other than the Congressional race.

If you want a Congressman with a proven record of achievement and who will himself be the Congressman, VOTE FOR...

ARMY SECRETARY IN SAIGON — Elvis J. Stahr, center, after Stahr's arrival in Saigon, Jr., U. S. Secretary of the Army, right, talks with for a two-day visit to South Viet Nam. U. S. ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr., and Vietnamese deputy Defense Minister Secretary Ngu-

a day ought to turn it over to someone who could.
Stahr said, it was McNamara who last week instructed Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester to tell the press no such conversation took place between the two men.
"In the first place," said Stahr, "Bob McNamara doesn't talk that way to people. In the second place, I wouldn't have answered in any such fashion if he had. In the third place, McNamara has no desire to have the rest of us around when he arrives at 7 a. m. That period from 7 a. m. to 8 or 8:30 is his 'quiet hour.' It's a time when he can get things organized without people bothering him."

As for the report that he was sent on the Pacific trip as a farewell gesture because he was to be dumped, Stahr said it was a trip that was planned months ago before any of these rumors arose, and that the reason it was made at this time was that it twice had to be postponed.

It's not the kind of trip to save the lacerated feelings of an outgoing officeholder, Stahr said. It consisted of flying most nights, snatching some sleep on the plane, and spending the daylight hours in conferences and inspections at military installations from Okinawa to Vietnam, from Tokyo to Taiwan.

If he goes to more official social functions than does McNamara, it's only in the line of duty, Stahr said. He tries to make every embassy reception to which he is invited, he said, but seldom stays 20 minutes.

His attendance gives him an opportunity to talk casually with military men from other countries as well as with members of Congress who deal with foreign affairs and military matters, the secretary said.

Rumors about Stahr's possible departure from the Army job first arose when it was learned a few months ago that Indiana University officials had talked to him about the possibility of succeeding Herman B. Wells as president.

I. U. is not the only institution whose trustees recently had felt out Stahr on taking over the president chair. He was head of West Virginia University when appointed to the secretaryship.

"I certainly have no expectation of spending my life in office here," Stahr said. "My career is with educational institutions and I assume that when I leave here that is where I will go."

"I feel I've done a good job as secretary of the Army and I feel Secretary McNamara believes I have. Certainly a lot of things have been done for our ground forces in the last 15 months that needed to be done to bolster our conventional defenses."

"I didn't do those things alone, of course, but I was an active member of the team. Whatever else they say about me, I feel no one is justified in saying I slighted my job."

OUIDA JEWELL—

On Saturday afternoon I got a phone call from Virginia Furlong. She had flown in for the holidays from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, where she is a member of the university staff. Virginia had been attending a convention in Chicago and decided to come on to Fulton for a couple of days to visit with her father, John Blehinger.

Virginia said that it was really good to be back home. She's not too fond of Alberta, and hopes to return to Southern Illinois University when this school term is out to study for her Doctor's Degree.

While we were out to dinner Saturday evening, I got another surprise phone call. This one was from Wayne Cole of Los Angeles, Calif. He was at Dresden, Tenn., and wanted me to come after him. He was trying to get to his in-laws' home in Clinton. When we arrived in Dresden, Wayne told us that his father had been killed earlier in the week, when a train hit his father's car. His young nephew was badly injured.

Wayne said that Martha, Pam and he were returning to Fulton on their vacation in August.

He said that he had talked with Ivan Jones on the phone and he had invited the Coles to visit him at Warner Brothers Studio, where he is an executive.

I was also delighted to see Mrs. Lera Weatherspoon, who was returning to Lexington from Los Angeles, where she had been visiting her son, Glenn and his family. She said just before she left they had dinner with Hal Riddle and he sent his regards. He is also coming home in August. Another friend I enjoyed seeing over the weekend was Elaine Vaughan Maulch of Memphis. She reported that she was still employed by the City Water Department in Memphis.

Everyone was delighted with the musical program presented at the Derby Monday evening by a young group of students of Mrs. Nelson Tripp. They are a very talented group!

A former Fulton girl received quite an honor about a week ago. The lovely teenage daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Looney of Denver, Colo., was chosen first attendant for "Miss Memphis." The Memphis State beauty placed first in the bathing beauty part of the contest, and also won another honor, which I have forgotten.

The young lady got a big surprise that evening, when it was announced that her Dad had flown in from Denver to witness the contest. Also, in the audience were other relatives, including her aunt, Mrs. Pete Green of Fulton.

Mrs. Green has had as her guests her two daughters, Betty Nichols and young Teresa from Lansing, Mich., and Jackie from Mass. Jackie is still here, but Betty and Teresa returned home over the weekend.

We always have fun when the girls come home, but this time I was so busy on my new job, I didn't get to be with them much.

Saw James Windsor the other day and he said that they (Jack Stalcup's Orchestra, with which he plays) is havng a new album of records out soon.

I understand that the new nursing home will be built in front of Hillview Hospital instead of out the Mayfield highway. From what I hear it will be something very nice and construction will get underway soon.

I understand that a group of the KU employees will be moving to Clinton, now that the city is taking out the electrical facilities.

The father of a talkative teen-ager was heard to pick up the phone and say: "Who shall I say wants to listen to her?" Page 9

Shrub Planting, Rubbish Pick-up Urged For Cities

Thursday is planting and landscaping day in the Twin Cities. All home owners are urged to plant shrubs, small trees, flowers and grass to beautify their grounds. Merchants having flower boxes are asked to have them planted for the coming season.

The Beautification Committee wishes to announce that beginning in May and continuing through the summer a YARD OF THE MONTH will be chosen each month and given suitable recognition. It is hoped that this will stimulate home owners to even greater efforts to make their yards attractive.

Meanwhile South Fulton Mayor Milton Counce and Fulton City Manager, B. R. Baxter, have designated Tuesday, May 1, as Pick-up and Beautification Day. April the first began Paint-up, Pix-up, Clean-up month.

On Tuesday, May 1, the rubbish trucks from the Twin Cities will canvas all neighborhoods picking up trash, tree limbs, and other rubbish. You may call your City Hall for special pick up.

CLEAN-UP—

Clean Up effort. For example, make sure that garbage and trash cans are covered so that flies cannot feast and breed and dogs can't knock the cans over as they hunt for food. Don't let trash and rubbish accumulate, as this provides a fine breeding place for rats and mice, which spread disease. Examine all screens before putting them up and repair any holes and tears so as to keep insects out. Be sure there are no stagnant ponds or pools, or swampy areas in which mosquitoes can breed. Cut down weeds for the same reason. "By following these suggestions and giving your home a thorough cleaning, you will be taking a major step toward insuring your own health and that of your neighbors," these Health Department officials said.

Another incentive for doing well in this campaign is to attract new business to the Twin Cities. New industry is attracted to a community which has a reputation of being progressive, clean and healthy. When corporations consider expanding into new localities, a specially trained staff is sent to examine various possible locations. A clean, attractive city or town rates high because it is apparent that its citizens are interested in better living. The Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up campaign is one way of attaining this goal.

Below is schedule for the week: and Poster Contest Day.

Thursday, April 26 - Landscaping and Planting Day.
Friday, April 27 - Industrial and Sanitation Day.
Saturday, April 28 - Paint Up and Clean Up Day.
Sunday, April 29 - Church Cooperation Day.
Monday, April 30 - Safety and Fire Prevention Day.
Tuesday, May 1 - Pick Up and Beautification Day.
Wednesday, May 2 - Check Up Day.
