COMMUNITY MUST AID WOOD PULP DRIVE FOR WAR

More than 700 American towns, many of them of rural communities, have enlisted in the U. S. Victory Pulpwood Campaign and pledged their all-out efforts to overcome a threatened 2,500,000-cord shortage of pulpwood, now recognized as a vital material of war.

A survey just completed by the Newspaper Pulpwood Committee of the A. N. P. A. revealed that newspaper editors have organized these 700-odd communities. Local pulpwood committees have been formed in each. They comprise county agricultural agents, state foresters, pulp and paper mill representatives, clergymen, school superintendents, and other county and town leaders.

In many of these towns pulpwood production is the only war industry, according to Walter M. Dear, Chairman of the national committee.

"And they are responding like every other red blooded American community," Mr. Dear said. "They're giving it all they've got."

Manpower scarcity is the biggest hurdle the communities have to clear, the editors reported. Many wood cutters have entered the armed services or gone to shipyards and other war plants in the cities.

Yet, in many towns business and professional men, as well as farmers, have enlisted in the drive and turned to wood cutting for the first time in their lives.

BENJAMIN H. WHITSON RESCUES SHIPMATE

Cincinnati, Ohio — (Special) — Benjamin H. Whitson, baker third class, USNR, former Fulton County resident, has been awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Medal by President Roosevelt for heroic conduct in assisting in the rescue of a shipmate from drowning off the Aleutian Islands. The citation states:

Realizing that a comrade who was swimming had suddenly become exhausted, Whitson, at great risk of his life, jumped overboard into the extremely cold water and swam to the drowning man. Despite his comrade's panicky resistance and the swiftly running tide, Whitson succeeded in reaching a life preserver which had been thrown to them, and in holding up his companion, who had become unconscious, until help arrived. By his great courage, Whitson undoubtedly saved the life of his shipmate who otherwise might otherwise have perished."

The 25-year-old Naval hero was born in Kentucky, but enlisted in Navy at San Francisco, California where he later established his residence. His sister, Miss Laverne Whitson, resides in Payton, Ky. Whitson has been in the Navy since January 26, 1942.

LABOR SHORTAGE MORE ACUTE; NEED HELP IN MANY CANNING PLANTS

Urge Volunteer Groups To Assist
In Processing Of Food Crops
To Prevent Waste

A plea for "flying squadrons" of small town businessmen, housewives and other part-time workers who will volunteer for emergency jobs in food processing plants, where the need for extra workers is now acute, was voiced today by an official of the country's largest food distributor.

Volunteer groups are needed immediately by a majority of the nation's 2,792 food processing plants, to make up the full complement of 506,000 workers who are now required to preserve the nation's bumper crop of fresh fruits and vegetables, according to Robert G. Ernst, vice-president of the Quaker Maid Company, Inc., a manufacturing affiliate of A & P Food Stores.

"The farmers have done their job in exceeding last year's record food production by nearly five per cent," Ernst said, "and it is imperative that not a pound of this produce goes to waste. To accomplish this, there must be a community mobilization of labor in numerous sections of the country where peak crops are now moving to canning plants."

The need is particularly acute in the East in upper New York State, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia; in the Middle West in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin, and in the West in California, Oregon and Washington, Ernst said.

"The situation has grown critical in the past few days as many thousands of youngsters have left summer jobs to return to school," he continued. "This fact, coupled with an increasingly serious farm labor shortage, where 750,000 more workers are needed before October 1, has made the problem so urgent that every local resource must be used if severe food spoilage is to be avoided."

It is thus apparent, the food chain executive asserted, that volunteers who offer to assist the canneries are now performing one of the most constructive of war jobs.

Ernst pointed out that last year nearly 12 billion pounds of perishable fruits and vegetables were processed, with government requirements for the armed forces and lend-lease taking only one-third of this quantity. This year the government has requisitioned about seven billion pounds of processed perishables, out of a total pack which it is hoped will exceed last year's by over 30 per cent.

SANDWICH SHOP AT I. C. STATION

A sandwich shop to furnish sandwiches for the passengers on the trains passing through Fulton has been established by the dining car department here. The shop is located on the station platform north of the station and next door to the Commissary.

Mrs. Edith Lowe is in charge of the shop, which began operation Wednesday of last week. She has a staff of seven colored girls who assist in preparing the food and then act as salesmen on the platform.

This shop is not entering competition for local restaurants as it is only for passenger trade.

Sandwiches, coffee, milk and cold drinks will be sold daily to the passengers. Mrs. Lowe and her helpers will also make the sandwiches which are sold on the trains.

FLIER IN CRASH NEAR HERE WRITES BACK TO FRIEND

On Sunday, September 5th, in the plane crash east of Fulton in the river bottom, Carey Fields of near Dukedom was the first to find Lieut. Leonard J. Morence, co-pilot of South Bend, Ind., who parachuted to the ground. Mr. Fields and his father carried the aviator to the Fulton hospital where he received treatment for injuries. After treatment he reported to his base. To clear up rumors that he did not survive, the following is a letter received by Mr. Fields, Sept. 17.

"So sorry that I have caused you any anxiety and I appreciate your consideration of my well being. You can rest assured that I am well and on my way to recovery. There was nothing seriously wrong with me."

"I don't know how the news got out that I was dead, but stories like that get around. The three of us that you people picked up are alright."

"I intended to write you sooner but I didn't have your address, you placed it in my jacket pocket but they misplaced my jacket, that is the army for you."

"Let me thank you again for your prompt action in finding me, you sure were a great sight coming through those bushes and I never was happier to see any one."

Your friend,
LIEUT. L. J. MORENCE"

PROCEEDS TO SHOW FOR ARMY RELIEF

"This Is The Army," a Warner Bros. production, and one of the biggest pictures of the entire year, will be presented at the newly decorated Fulton Theatre, October 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12th.

There will be a special premier of the picture on October 8th, with 85 per cent of the proceeds to go to the Army Emergency Relief Fund. The minimum price for the premier is $1.00, $3.00 and $5.00, including tax. The patron is not really spending $1, $3 or $5 for a ticket to the movie premier, but is contributing to one of the most worthy causes of the entire war. This Army Emergency Relief Fund goes to the widows and orphans of those brave men who have laid down their lives that we may preserve our precious liberty. It goes to help those families who are left destitute because the head of the family was drafted away from a good job into a $50 a month one.

By attending the premier you can see an outstanding motion picture, while contributing to a cause which will make a lot of folks happy.

From every dollar taken in at this premier 85 per cent will go to the A. E. R. F. Only 15 per cent will be deducted to defray operating expenses.

FULTON COUNTY BOND SALES REACH TOTAL OF $246,458.75

Fulton county has $40,541.25 to go in order to reach its quota in War Bond sales during the Third War Loan drive. Up to Thursday morning of this week, a total of $246,458.75 had been subscribed by the people of Fulton county toward the quota of $287,000.

"Back the Attack—with War Bonds" has become a familiar slogan among the people. But there is yet a long way to go, and the last part of the campaign is going to take constant effort on the part of everybody. Every effort should be made to not only reach the quota, but to top it by a good margin. So if you have not done your best, now is the time to swing into action.

Farmers of this vicinity, and the railroad employees, have come through with a splendid showing in the purchase of War Bonds. Fulton county being a rich, agricultural county, has some very substantial farmers, who have rallied to the call of their country on both the food and bond fronts. But in proportion to the wealth they represent, and the quota for the rural areas, our farmers need to put a little more drive behind their War Bond buying to really go over the top.

Remember, it is vitally important that we Back the Attack with War Bonds. Every individual has a part to play in the final victory.

FULTON-UNION CITY CLASH TONIGHT

Coach Jimmy Baker's Bulldogs are lifting their sights to bigger and tougher game tonight (Friday) after feasting on Panther meat for the first game of the season. Following the victory over Martin last Friday the Bulldogs are fighting at Union City Tornado tonight. The Fulton-Union City rivalry is an old one and the Tornado holds the edge on games won over past years. Fulton won the first of two games played last year with a score of 12 to 6 with Union City winning the second game with a score of 20 to 0. The teams usually played the annual Thanksgiving game several years ago but in recent years the games have been played early in the season. Two games are scheduled for this year; the first one to be played at Union City tonight and the other here in October.

Coach Wallace has been turning out better than average teams in Union City for several years, taking the material which had come year after year. He has been working with his squad for almost a month and reports say that he had a larger squad than the Bulldogs boast.

Coach Baker, in talking of his team, said that as yet he had not had time to start teaching any new plays, and the old plays are being used.

With husky Don Sensing at the center spot, flanked by 225 pound Loyal Hartman and the explosive Bobby Farham, the Bulldogs are likely to tear many lines apart around the center and also able to dig in for steady goal stands. If Coach Baker can keep these three heavy lads in service it seems certain that the Bulldogs should finally show a pretty stout line, offensively and defensively.

The Union City game will be a tough one, but the Bulldogs are not convinced they are the underdogs for the contest. The Martin victory gave them a lot of confidence.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 29

The rally, to be held at the Montgomery-county courthouse, will open at 2:30 o'clock, and beginning at 3 o'clock and continuing until 4, a state-wide radio hookup will carry Judge Willis' address.

Further details of the meeting will be announced as they are perfected, Mr. Whittle said.

POSTWAR BUYING BACKLOG

A sign of the times is the new, unadvertised shortage which the U. S. public will soon find in safety deposit boxes. White-collar workers and wage earners clutching War Bonds in their hands have swarmed into banks and trust companies in recent months and rented safety deposit boxes for the first time in their lives.

Safety deposit box occupancy is at an all time high; rentals since January 1, are up 31 per cent over the same period a year ago. Yet there is no tendency to hoard currency. The total of money in circulation is rising steadily.

This is most significant. People's valuables today consist largely of war bonds and other long range savings. That means, in terms of postwar planning, an accumulated buying power to back up the great demand which will exist when the war ends. It means that people will be able to pay for the things industry will produce. It means greater employment if industry, unhampered by unnecessary governmental restrictions, is given a chance to satisfy the demand.

DON'T WASTE ELECTRICITY

When a man or a company goes into business, the aim is to do as much business as possible. That's only human. But when a company asks its customers to use less of its product when it isn't out of the product, that's news. And in the case of the Kentucky Utilities Company, which is asking its customers to prevent waste and non-essential use of electricity in order to help the war effort, it calls for hearty congratulations.

After all, it isn't as if there were now a shortage of electricity. The utilities industry was one of the few in this country foresighted enough to plan ahead and provide ample power for both peace and war.

The war has put a terrific strain upon the country's transportation facilities. There is danger that these facilities will not be able to move enough coal and other fuels to our war plants, shops, homes, stores and offices—unless everything possible is done to ease the strain.

That is why Kentucky Utilities Company is asking its customers to use electricity economically even though it may mean less income for the company. If all of us cooperate with this program, more fuel, manpower, transportation facilities, critical materials, etc., can be turned into the war effort and speed our armed forces toward victory.

The Company, along with the electrical power industry throughout the nation, is cooperating with the U. S. Office of War Utilities in the conservation campaign. Every one of us owes it to his country to live up to the conservation campaign slogan, "Use what you need, but need what you use."

REMEMBER?—THEN ACT!

Remember when the Japs and Nazis laughed at us, called us soft and decadent, and bragged how they'd buff the daylight out of the democracies?

Remember how they tried to deliver a sneak knock-out punch and had peace terms all figured out for us? They were to be the Lords; we the slaves.

You do remember, don't you? Of course you do. Made you mad, didn't it? It made the whole country mad.

Well, the Japs and Nazis have been feeling the sting of our might. Every American contributed to that sting. And every American will contribute still more to bigger and deadlier wallops already in the making.

Our individual contributions to the war effort are beginning to count. Our work in war plants, airplane spotting in our spare time, air-raid warden duty, over-subscribing two war loans, giving our scrap metal, waste fats—all these things are beginning to show. But more is needed, much more.

Right now we are asked to put our money into War Bonds to keep our war machine rolling in high-to speed victory.

While the Third War Loan drive is on, we have a fine chance to take another wham at the Axis-by cutting pulpwood, and putting the money we make into War Bonds. The country needs pulpwood—badly! And we need money to run the war.

So get out that ax and grind it sharp. Then get going. Every cord of pulpwood you cut will hasten the day of victory. It will accelerate that speed if you put your pulpwood money into War Bonds—Do it NOW!

Can it be done?—The answer is your ax.

DOWN OUR ALLEY

The intelligence of the smartest of the brainiest people of America is tested by problems that are being raised about the war and the way in which we are to treat Italy, Germany, Japan and other Axis Nations. There are other big issues in past-war questions facing the United Nations. The more light the politicians can throw on different international and home problems the better it will be for all concerned.

Along with recent additions to the victory column on the battlefronts, there is good news at home in the announcement of General Motors that the company has now received more than 116,000 "deas of victory" from its employees. Suggestions that help to speed war materials to our fighting men are splendid examples of the kind of home front activity that helps to make victories possible.

Our Army Air Forces have outstripped all the rest of the world with an achievement that has been gained since the United States decided it would be impossible to stay out of the present war. There has been more "pioneering" in aviation in the past three or four years than there has ever been in other forms of transportation. The world has been amazed at the progress of aviation, and the world of tomorrow will be brought much closer together by this vital link of transportation. No longer will there be a place for isolationism.

The surrender of Italy is of the greatest importance. Within a short time north Africa, the Mediterranean, Italy and a large part of Russia and important sections of the Pacific have been seized by the Allies. Remember that within 434 days after the fall of Bulgaria in 1918 Germany surrendered. This makes it possible to hope that there is a possibility of the Nazi machine cracking at most any time. The fact is that the pincers are tightening very fast around Germany.

There has been a good deal of talk about feeding the people of war-famished Europe. Governor Lehman of New York resigned his position to become the President's Food Administrator, and very little has been heard concerning any results he may have attained. Whatever may have been accomplished by the Hot Springs, Virginia Conference has never been very clearly explained to the public. Among the proposals that met with general support in our country related to sending seed to the stricken countries in order that they might grow more of their own food supplies. From the beginning of the invasion of the Italian territory until the time of unconditional surrender our military forces did pretty well in the matter of giving away food to our enemies. Now Italy is in a different classification and perhaps even hungrier than before.

In the last war, we fed the youngsters who are now trying to destroy the very things the United Nations are fighting to save. Are we going to repeat that nonsensical performance in view of the fact that the Germans have plundered and stolen food from every occupied country they have invaded? All of which sums up to the total fact that while we have been rationing food at home we have not even scratched the surface in creating a program for supplying food to France, the Scandinavian countries and other friendly people.

MANPOWER REQUIREMENTS

Revised estimates of manpower requirements, made public recently, are believed to indicate that geographical transfers of workers may become necessary on a larger scale than has been generally expected, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by The Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

It is anticipated that 3.6 million additional persons will have to be recruited, 2.0 million for the armed forces and 1.6 million for war industries. The Survey continues. These additions will bring the total strength of the armed services to 11.3 million by July, 1944, and will raise the number employed in war industry to 11.6 million. The estimated increase in the strength of the armed forces takes no account of the number that may have to be withdrawn from the civilian population for replacements in order to maintain the number of men in uniform at the maximum figure.

In industries serving civilian needs, the increases in requirements for workers in some divisions are expected to be more than offset by declines in others. As a result, a net decline of 2,250,000 persons employed in these industries during the next twelve months is anticipated. In agriculture, the food industries, textiles, clothing and leather products, labor requirements are expected to remain virtually unchanged. Decreases in employment will, it is believed, be concentrated largely in trade, service industries, construction and building materials, and to some extent in miscellaneous manufacturing industries and governmental agencies not directly related to the war effort.

Although the manpower resources of the nation as a whole appear more than adequate for all essential needs until the middle of next year, there are serious local problems of labor supply. The expanding requirements of war industries are largely concentrated in critically stringent local labor markets. Last month, for example, more than half of the employment in the final assembly of aircraft, engines and propellers, and more than two-thirds of the employment in shipyards, was in areas of acute labor shortage or areas in which shortage is anticipated within the next several months. During the remainder of this year the aircraft plants in these areas will require 130,000 and the shipyards 50,000 additional workers.

Steps to Meet Manpower Needs

It is reported that the War Manpower Commission will soon withdraw its list of essential occupations in war industries from the Selective Service Bureau and replace them with much shorter lists of "critical" occupations. The plan is based on the fact that the list of essential occupations has lost some of its significance because most workers listed as eligible for deferment have been and are being replaced by those not subject to conscription and because many of the occupations designated as essential have been broken down into several parts, so that unskilled or partly trained workers can handle much of the work formerly done by skilled operatives.

It has been announced also that manpower regulations will be changed to permit workers to transfer to jobs with higher pay in essential war industries in cases where the employee's pay is less than the minimum going rates established by the National War Labor Board. This step toward partial wage standardization is designed to prevent dissatisfaction leading to labor turnover and agitation for wage increases.

Recent reports indicate that the manpower problem has been aggravated by further marked increases in absenteeism. Preliminary studies are said to show rises of from 40 to 60 per cent in excuses for illness. Investigations have revealed that in most cases these excuses are valid, although it is believed that a part of the loss must be ascribed to lower morale due either to excessive optimism as to the outlook for the war or to belief on the part of workers that they cannot be discharged or disciplined. Fatigue is held responsible for a large share of the increase in actual illness, with hot weather, inadequate restaurant facilities and improper eating habits mentioned as other important factors.

NOISES IN THE NIGHT

Lately, while my wife has been away on a visit and my son has gone out of evening, I have often been alone in the house. Night, since electric lights, seems as natural a thing as day, and I have felt only once for an instant a thrill that has linked me with my childhood. Insects, attracted to the screen just beyond my reading light, must have been sighted by a bat, for suddenly one flew against the screen with a noise like something decidedly spooky. Deep in a sensational romance of old Virginia, I found myself start like the scary child I used to be. The fright lasted only an instant, but that was long enough for me to recreate a whole childhood of fear of noises in the night.

I am sure that noises are as plentiful now as they used to be, for nature apparently does not change very rapidly. But for some reason they do not make an impression as they once did. Sitting in my room when I was a boy, I could hear every change in the silence of a winter night. By their voices I could recognize the voices of half a dozen of our neighbors. Roosters with queer tricks of crowing registered on my mind as plainly as a musician listens to individual instruments of an orchestra. In summer and fall the individual insects marked themselves out in and around my little house in the corner of the yard. Clicking beetles, called locally "devil's watches," gave their metallic click in my walls. In winter the deep hoots of owls sounded on the night air, especially when there was a snow and the moon was shining. And in spring and summer when birds sing at night, I heard many a strange song or call that added mystery to the night.

Probably some of the mystery of night has vanished because of electric lights. Certainly some of it has passed away because I have long been familiar with the names of the night birds and have rejoiced to hear them. And then it is certainly true that my growing up has been a part of a whole cycle of growth by my contemporaries, so that night no longer holds many of the terrors and thrills it once did. Wild stories of strange animals I had lived, and others, too, for years without seeing anything very terrifying. Walking in the woods at night, camping out in even the wildest places, often without even a flashlight, and application of knowledge to even the terrors of darkness have made me and many others hardly the nervous children we once were.

For all of this I am thankful, for it would be pitiful if people were as scary as they once were. We felt in broad daylight that scary things were largely matters of childish superstitions, but when night came on, we began to question our superior intelligence. Now we probably carry over into night the same boldness that we once had only by daylight.

It often makes me wonder when I think of the continuous round of scary tales that we heard and believe, even though we would have sworn we did not. I have no way of knowing how many grown-ups told the tales more or less as a habitual thing and put no credence in them. Doubtless many of the wildest yarns were laughed at by the same teens of tales, after we had our shiver. And yet I have had several people since I was middle-aged to express an honest-to-goodness fear of night in some of the places where I have camped. The cliffs of northern Todd County are among the beautiful places in the state, but I have seen grown people who confessed that they would rather be shot than enter them alone after nightfall. Sometimes they give rattlesnakes and wildcats as reasons, but sometimes they are honest enough to admit their fear of the dark and of wild scenery. One does not have to go back a lifetime to find childish fear of noises in the night.

HUNTING BAGS

Hunters who harvested the wild game crop during the 1942-43 hunting season took 225,404,000 pounds of usable meat, according to a report made to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and received today by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish.

Based on data taken from state game departments and other sources, the tabulation reveals that deer alone yielded more than 59,000,000 pounds, with elk 9,000,000 and antelope, moose, bear, mountain sheep and goats totaling 1,650,000 pounds.

Among upland game, wild rabbits amounted to 68,735,000 pounds, squirrels more than 22,000,000, raccoon, opossum and woodchuck totaled 14,222,000 pounds.

Ducks accounted for 32,500,000 pound and geese 3,000,000.

Upland game birds, including quail, pheasants, grouse, partridge and wild turkeys totaled 42,243,000 pounds, with pheasants (15,000,000 of them) accounting for 30,377,000 of the total.

Doves, bandtails, pigeons and woodcock added 2,405,000 pounds.

"With the present severe shortage of domestic meats due to the necessity of shipping such large quantities to our armed forces and to our allies, these wild species provide a food resource that is becoming increasingly important," said Albert M. Day, assistant director of the Fish and Wildlife Service. "A deer or an elk or a pheasant or a creel of fresh water fishes taken by a sportsman and used in the home or given to his friends releases an equivalent amount of beef, pork, lamb or poultry that can be consumed by the public or made available for military needs."

Wakefield pointed out that a goal of 43,876,317 pounds of wild game and fish was taken from Kentucky fields, woods and streams by hunters and fishermen during the year 1942.

The hunters killed, in the form of quail, rabbits, squirrels, doves, ducks, geese, opossum, and coon, a total of 5,305,433 pounds of dressed meat for food. The fishermen caught a total of 38,570,884 pounds of fish of all eatable species.

ERNEST GRAHAM HOME
AFTER MANY ADVENTURES

Ernest B. Graham, 19, who is a fireman first class in Uncle Sam's Navy, is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Graham, after two years of service in the War Theatre. Young Graham has already seen more of the world than most people see in a lifetime. His service in the navy hasn't been on the dull side either, for he's gone through a lot of action since he volunteered in 1941.

He attended Fulton High School in 1939 and 1940, and the next year he enlisted in the Navy, shortly after the Japs visited Pearl Harbor. He went through his boot training at Norfolk and on November 3, 1942 was sent aboard a destroyer. Everything was alright until an enemy torpedo sent his destroyer to the bottom of the sea, near Casablanca. This all happened shortly after the African campaign began.

Graham and eight other members of the crew, caught a life raft, and drifted for eight days, before being picked up by another destroyer.

Kentucky Boy Battles Japs In South Pacific; Never Has Seen His Son

Ollie J. Edwards, M. M. 2c, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Edwards of near Crutchfield, is with the See-Bees somewhere in the South Pacific. The See-Bees have a tough job of construction work under most trying conditions—a two-fold task of fighting and building so that our armed forces may carry the battle to the enemy.

Young Edwards was married to Miss Sue Holly at Benton, Ky., June 29, 1942. He enlisted in the See-Bees November, 1942, and started training at Camp Endicott in January, 1943. Then in July he went across, and is now in the front line fighting the wily Japs.

In May, 1943, a new son, Ollie James, Jr., was born to Mrs. Edwards to keep her company until the youngsters father returns. The fighting See-Bee has never seen his young son.

Mrs. Edwards has another son, William, who is in the Army, and when last heard from was somewhere in Africa. It is very likely now that he has moved forward with the invasion of Sicily and Italy.

Besides Ollie and William, Mrs. Edwards has three grandsons in service: Jesse Harper, 24, who is in Australia; Edward Eberhardt, 29, Camp Gordon, Ga.; and James Lee Childers, 18, Camp Shelby, Miss.

BEING INCREASED

The Week in WPB—Civilian Goods, That Vacuum, Bed Springs, Private Building, News on Shoes, Farm Bullets, Tire Talk, Machine Tools.

While accent on more production of essential civilian goods has been stepped up constantly in the last few months, the War Production Board warned consumers last week that they still won't be able to get all the durable goods they would like.

Two items specifically mentioned were vacuum cleaners and washing machines—both desirable, but not absolutely essential. On the other hand, the way has been cleared for increased production of genuinely essential goods requiring only relatively small amounts of critical material, such as pins and needles, pots and pans, baby carriages.

A spokesman for WPB in a radio address made it clear that there would be no resumption of large scale manufacture of vacuum cleaners now. WPB officials told members of the industry that there was no hope of resuming manufacture of washing machines in 1943, and prospects for production in 1944 are still indefinite.

Other developments on the home front were brighter from the consumer point of view. For example—steps were taken to improve timing of privately financed building operations. Way was opened for increased production of steel bed springs. There was discussion of an unrationed shoe with synthetic soles.

On the production line, a report showed shipments of machine tools had fallen off 10 per cent in July, reflecting declining need for tools now that America's war plant is almost fully geared. On the other hand, certain cutting tools, such as die-heads, are still critical. Tire manufacturers are being called together by W. M. Jeffers, rubber director, to work out plans to get increased production with a minimum of facilities expansion. The beverage alcohol industry was called on to produce, during the next year, half of the needed industrial alcohol. Steps to save railroad boxcar space were taken by restricting movement of Portland cement by rail.

Farmers were allotted more ammunition (both rifle and shotgun) where needed to kill off crop pests. 22 bullets, extra 20 rounds of Allotments—extra 100 rounds of center-fire bullets, extra 25 rounds of shotgun shells. Producers of farm machinery were aided by an order amendment allowing them to plan production in advance and start initial fabrication before the beginning of a quota period.

In the field of pulp and paper, WPB hammered away in an effort to step up production. Harold Boeschstein was named pulp and paper "czar." A committee was formed to make an international study of the problem, headed by Charles E. Adams, once Defense Commissioner for raw materials. Newspaper publishers were advised they could replace damaged or destroyed inventory paper without violating news print orders. Machinery was set up to control manufacture of egg and wood products equipment and machinery. Commercial printers were warned to stay out of the magazine and book publishing business.

A paper sack containing flour hung inside of flour bin is quick way to flour chicken or steak for frying.

Of the hundreds of remarkable statements telling of relief through Retonga, one of the most grateful is that of Mrs. Nancy J. Hall, widely known and highly respected resident of Harlan County, who resides at Cawood, Ky. Discussing her case, Mrs. Hall gratefully states:

"For many years I suffered untold agonies from sour indigestion that filled my stomach with so much gas after meals that often I simply had to gasp for breath. My nerves were so upset I never seemed to get restful sleep. I had to take strong laxatives almost every day. I felt nervous and exhausted. I had no appetite, and I began to believe I would never feel better. Retonga relieved me so remarkably that I now have a wonderful appetite, and eat everything I want without discomfort. I sleep fine, and nothing seems to upset my nerves now. The constipation is relieved too. My friends tell me I look years younger, and I certainly feel that way. Retonga was a godsend to me."

Retonga is intended to relieve such distress when due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of gastric juices, the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store, adv.

Efforts to keep essential civilian economy rolling ahead, at a time when a crucial stage of the war made added demands upon conversion of critical raw materials to direct military use, occupied the attention of the War production Board last week.

ONE—issuance of a directive designed to protect the supply of many essential items in the civilian economy once the amount to be allocated to that particular field has been programmed. Among the items affected: Razor blades and razors, clocks and watches, glass cooking utensils, other household articles, medical, surgical and dental instruments, boilers and furnaces and hot water equipment. The directive does not set up machinery for immediate release of these items, but does provide a path down which they can speedily flow when materials are available.

by Joe Marsh

One of the best-liked farmers in these parts is Bert Childers! And he has the best way of beatin' the man shortage, too.

Come husking time, Bert invites all of his farmer neighbors over to have a glass of beer. When they ask politely "Where's the beer?" Bert points to a bucket-full of frosty bottles in the middle of the field.

"All you got to do," he says, "is work your way out to it."

Well, Bert's idea has caught on all over the countryside.

Folks are pitching in to help their neighbors harvest grain, and fruit, and vegetables—and are taking their reward in sociability when the job's done.

And from where I sit, that's a mighty healthy picture of American life—people working together to get in the food this country needs—and afterwards, sittin' around like good friends, over a moderate glass of whole-some beer. I'm for it!

gram through which about a billion dollars worth of used or idle machinery and equipment, ranging from sewing machines and laundry equipment, to boilers and machinery, is expected to be released for essential use. Purchasers must be able to show their needs is based on their contributions to the war effort or national economy. Redistribution of the approximately 10 million pieces of equipment will be handled through the WPB regional offices.

Of major significance on the War Production front: Announcement of an "all-out" iron and steel scrap drive and establishment of "Victory Scrap Banks" over the nation to insure a continued and steady flow to the consuming mills.

Need for the drive—The fact that scrap inventory now adds up to less than 8 million tons—only a two months' supply. Dates of campaign—October 1 to November 15. In announcing the drive, Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, pointed out: Munitions production in 1943 must double 1942, despite the fact that Great Lakes ore shipments fell off because of the severe winter necessitating use of a higher percentage of scrap. The goal—15,000,000 more tons at the mills, and establishment of community stockpiles which can be drawn on as needed.

Motorists who have saved their anti-freeze, were cautioned to add "inhibitors" to prevent motor corrosion. In the field of commercial transportation, WPB approved a program permitting production of at least 22,859 medium and 10,683 heavy trucks and 14,067 trailers for 1944.

Sales of most imported watches now must be specifically authorized by WPB, and certain types of second-hand railroad watches were brought under distribution control, destined mostly for the military.

On the farm front, WPB noted improving burlap bag supply prospects and removed quotas on farmers' purchases for packaging of certain agricultural products. Shipping quotas on certain types of table grapes were expanded.

Pipe smokers are going to get pip-cleaners, made of scrap wire—but on a limited scale. Campaign to obtain typewriters from the public will end September 30, with 325,000 in the hands of armed services. Limited production soon will be started on special varieties for war uses.

A report showed gross lumber stocks had dropped 21.7 per cent since the first of the year.

Felix Gossum, Jr., has been transferred to University of Kentucky at Lexington. Lieut. and Mrs. W. M. Whitnell, Jr., returned to Avon Park, Fla., Thursday where he is an instructor on a B-26.

IN FIRST GAME

Jimmie Baker's Bulldogs of Fulton High trounced the Martin Panthers 13-7 in an action-packed football classic at Fairfield Park here last Friday night. Despite only a brief 7-day practice session, the local team showed surprising form, and when this machine really gets clicking, it will certainly grow in power and performance.

The Bulldog backfield, composed of Barron, Rhodes, Whitesell and Meacham, by successive power plays drove through the Martin line for steady gains. But after taking the ball within two yards of the goal in the first quarter, the Fulton eleven had to give it up to the visitors after failing to score in four downs.

Martin then kicked the ball upfield, when Curly Rhodes received it to bring it back to the 10-yard stripe. Then after Meacham had picked up a couple of yards, Rhodes carried the ball over for the first score of the game. The Bulldogs failed to make the extra point.

Near the end of the first half, Brooks, Panther end, caught a pass from the Martin right-half, Holman, then tossed a lateral to Workman, speediest man on the visitors' team, who ran forty yards to tie the score 6-6. Martin made the extra try to bring the score up to 7-6.

The third quarter went scoreless, with both teams battling to gain the edge. Then in the fourth, Robert Whitesell, who had made some ground-covering runs, brought the ball to the one-foot stripe, and Rhodes plunged over for another touchdown. Hartman went through the center of the line for the extra point. Score 13-7 in favor Bulldogs.

The Martin Panthers pulled another exciting play late in the last quarter, when Cunningham received a pass from White and carried the ball to the ten-yard line, where he was tackled by Meacham. The Bulldog line was a stone wall, and the visitors lost the ball when they failed after four downs.

The splendid and zealous work of the linemen saved the day on several occasions for the Bulldogs, who displayed real fighting spirit throughout the game. The local team was just too powerful for the Martin aggregation.

The Common Defense

POLITICAL OPIATE
A bill has been introduced in Congress which proposes to have the government extend medical and hospital benefits to approximately 110,000,000 persons in the United States. If made into law, it would cost the people, roughly, $3,000,000 annually in taxes, to support what the advocates of the bill like to call "free" medical care. This is nearly as much as the total cost of maintaining the Federal government each year on the average from 1924-33. In addition the entire fund would be at the disposal of one man, the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, who, by law, would become a medical dictator.

We are indeed a sick nation if we are willing to swallow such a pill. After swallowing it, we would find that, instead of taking a progressive stimulant we had taken a political opiate intended to dull our senses to an uncompromising truth soundly expressed by the Lake County, Indiana, Medical News: "It is only in an atmosphere of freedom that the lamp of science and learning can be kept alight."

In all the history of the race, progress has never flowered in a subject people. It is only the free men who dare to think, and it is only through free thought that the soul of a people can be kept alive."

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE

Joseph was a dreamer. There is nothing wrong with dreaming. There is nothing wrong with dreaming if dreams do not become the whole end of life. Of course, Joseph's dreams were prophetic. They were sent to him by God as a promise of what he should become. He dreamed that the sun and the moon, representing his father and mother, and eleven stars, representing his brothers, bowed down to his star. He dreamed he and his family were gathering grain in the field together and that the sheaves of his mother and father and brethren bowed down to his sheaf. It is interesting and significant that these prophetic indications of the glory that lay ahead of Joseph should have shaped themselves into dreams about such simple things—stars and sheaves of grain. These were the things with which Joseph was familiar and with which he lived. Through the clear Eastern night, as he sat outside his father's tent or kept watch with his brothers over his father's flock, he became familiar with the moon and stars. Up before day he had often watched the sun-

What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul? St. Matthew 16:26.

The devil takes many up on the high mountain and shows them the world, and they sell themselves for the delusion of it. Most of us sell ourselves cheaper. For thirty pieces Judas sold himself.

What doth it profit a nation to win the world, as we did in 1918, and then to almost lose its own soul in selfishness, isolation, vice, drunkenness, crime, greed, lack of democracy, lack of Christianity?

We will win this war in a few years. We are winning now. But what will we win if we lose our own souls? There are those now who want to retreat into selfishness and isolation. There are those who are encouraging vice, drunkenness, crime. There are those who are using the war as an excuse for greed—one man not far from us is reported to have said he hoped the war lasts for years as he is making more money than he ever did. There are those who are trying to destroy democracy at home. There is a tragic lack of Christian faith and action among us now. What will it profit if we win the war, and lose our own souls?

The FIFTH FREEDOM

—And Why We Must Have It

THE four freedoms announced as America's war goals need a fifth freedom to tie them together and make them work. How can we have freedom of speech and religion, from want and from fear, unless we also have freedom of enterprise—unless men and women can stand on their own feet and plan their own lives?

When a farmer or a businessman breathes free air, he can do better work. Free enterprise built America and encouraged America's many production records.

Hearty, broad-shouldered Paul Wessbecker (pictured above) is a good example. He won a potato-growing honor years ago in his native Germany and served a term in the Kaiser's cavalry. But he didn't like regimentation and brought his family to America in 1912. Last year he harvested the biggest yield of soybeans in the greatest soybean state—Illinois—and he hopes his soybean oil will help grease the skids for the Axis!

Paul Wessbecker earned his fine 80-acre farm and his production record by skill, experience and hard work. He's the self-supporting, tax-paying kind of citizen of which America is proud.

And America's business-managed electric companies are the same sort of citizens. They produce over 80% of America's vast power supply—and do it without tax or other concessions. They're pushing production up and up, keeping rates down, and meeting every war demand.

Food is manpower. Electricity is machine power. Both are vital to Victory. Facing the same shortages of equipment and help, farmers and electric companies are both doing tremendous jobs—because enterprise in America is still free.

Forward March— America!

THE 3rd WAR LOAN DRIVE STARTS —TO BACK THE INVASION!

What you will be asked to do—

MARK WELL the date—Thursday, September 9th. For on that day, you must answer to your country's call.

On that day, the 3rd War Loan Drive opens. To you—and to every other true American—a clarion call goes forth to rally to the support of our flag.

You will be asked to back our fighting forces to the very limit of your resources. You will be asked to go ALL-OUT FOR INVASION by investing in EXTRA War Bonds—more War Bonds than you perhaps think you can possibly afford.

To meet the national quota, every individual in the country who earns a wage or draws an income or has accumulated funds must invest, if he possibly can, in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond. Those who can, must invest more—thousands of dollars' worth more. Each and every one must do his full part.

Scrape up the money from every source you can... turn in all the loose cash you carry with you... dig out what you had tucked away "just in case." Go without pleasures, luxuries, even necessities this September. And give our fighting men the things they need to fight with—and win.

These men are throwing everything they have into this fierce invasion push. They are giving their blood, their lives. No one can put a price on such courage, self-sacrifice, devotion. But you can show you're with them to the limit! You can say it with Bonds... EXTRA Bonds this month.

World's Safest Investments

Does railroad trespassing pay? The short cuts taken by people on the way home from work have proved to some to be the longest trips they have ever taken.

It may be a temptation to cross the railroad track if there is one between your home and your job. But it is a gamble you should not take, especially if you are working to produce materials for our boys in the war.

Slipping on gravel or slippery tracks can lead to serious consequences if you are caught by a train before you have a chance to get out of the way. Children love to walk the ties on trestles and narrow railroad bridges. An adult often does this, even though he knows better, and this must be stopped. Every person is needed at his job every working day to produce the work and the materials our fighting boys are always in need of.

Be safe—don't do it.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its rate of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

"It's great to know you're helping!"

"Sure, I know I'm too young to carry a gun and be a Ranger like brother Bill, but I'm helping all the same in every way I know how. Dad told me the other night about the need for cutting down my local 'phone calls. He said that every telephone line was needed so badly by Uncle Sam that every call I didn't make would help win the war."

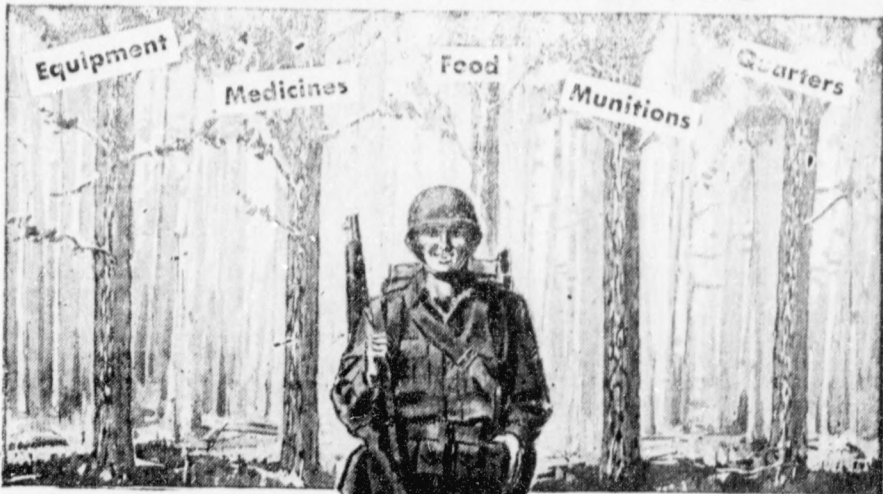

"Gee, I didn't know my calls would make any difference, but they sure do. Dad says telephone lines and switchboards are so crowded now that every call I make, to be dead sure it's important."

"Mom and Dad, and Sister and the maid, and the whole gang of kids in my neighborhood are now doing a lot less telephoning. Believe me, I want brother Bill back home, and if cutting down on my 'phone calls will help bring him back—it's sure okay with me."

"How about you? Will you help, too? I bet you will."

Five Trees Will Save a Soldier's Life

It takes only five trees to back up and protect one soldier. Only five trees to keep him safe and bring him back home. One tree is needed to supply him with living quarters, a mess hall, chapel and recreational facilities. Another provides the casings necessary in shipping him food, clothing, guns, munitions and medical supplies. Wood from the three remaining trees is used for making equipment for waging modern warfare such as nitro-cellulose in high explosives, plastics for training planes, parachutes, gas-mask canisters, gun covers, food emergency rations, fibre containers for blood plasma. Only five trees to back up and protect one soldier—your son, your brother, your sweetheart! Is he worth that much to you? Put your trees to work for victory.

Our Merchant Marine

The Cotton Trade

In the early 1900's American ocean packets bringing immigrants to New York, carried thousands of bales of cotton on their return trips to England.

Coastal packets brought the cotton from Mobile, New Orleans, Savannah and Charleston to unload at New York harbor.

Thus, New York became a center of the cotton trade although completely off the most direct shipping route.

Cotton still remains one of our major exports and should keep much of our tonnage occupied during the post-war period, supplying an impoverished world with the materials it will need so badly.

SPEAKING OF HEALTH

By DR. VICTOR G. HEISER
Medical Consultant, National Association of Manufacturers

YOUR CHILD'S HEART

In considering the health of your children, emphasis must be placed on child care during the first few years of their lives. At this time, the so-called children's diseases attack youngsters to a great extent. As they grow older, a certain measure of immunity is developed against some conditions.

Rheumatic fever must be especially guarded against since it is a disease that attacks children, usually about the age of six or seven. Unfortunately, this ailment has a tendency to recur, though at less frequent intervals, as the children grow older.

Rheumatic fever is one of the disabling diseases which is essentially a disease of childhood. It has its beginning about 6 or 7 years of age in most instances. Rheumatic fever tends to recur, though at less frequent intervals, as the child approaches puberty.

We know now that common "growing pains," so lightly passed off by our grandmothers, may be the real signs of rheumatic fever. All complaints of "growing pains," however, are not in the same serious class.

Factor In Heart Disease

Rheumatism is a direct factor in heart disease, and for children whose illness is properly diagnosed, as rheumatic fever, prompt treatment is most essential. Complete bed rest is necessary, at least during the time of the acute attack, as is a long period of convalescence thereafter. The reason for this can be made clear by arithmetic. The heart beats a number of times every minute of every hour throughout life. There are 1440 minutes in a day. The young adult averages about 72 heart beats a minute—a total of 103,680 beats in 24 hours.

In children the heart beats even faster, those who suffer from rheumatism averaging over 100 beats a minute. If adequate bed rest will reduce this by even 10 beats a minute, the total reduction will be about 15,000 beats every 24-hour period. And since the heart affected by rheumatic fever needs rest above all, it is easy to see why physicians insist on this treatment.

MALCO FULTON OCTOBER 8, 9, 10, 11, 12

Irving Berlin's all soldier show "THIS IS THE ARMY" opens at the Malco Fulton for a five day engagement October 8 through 12th.

how many youngsters are afflicted with rheumatic fever, there seems to be a geographic factor in determining its spread. Apparently it is most common in the Middle Atlantic states, in the Rocky Mountain states, and, less frequently, in the Southern states.

It is important to put all youngsters affected with rheumatism under adequate medical care. Also, parents should remember that the growing child, well or ill, needs a well organized educational program to permit normal growth and interest. The prospect of recovery and a useful life is fairly certain with proper care and supervision.

But if untreated, rheumatic heart in childhood may cause lifelong physical handicaps, resulting in poor digestion and inability to indulge in sports. Often a general physical debility may be traced to a neglected heart condition of childhood.

Charles Robert Bowen, S 2c arrived here Thursday from Great Lakes, Ill., for a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bowen. He has completed his boot training.
