FULTON BULLDOGS BEAT UNION CITY TORNADOS 18-4

Local Team Shows Surprising Early Season Power As They Wallop Tennesseans

Seldom has a Fulton High School football team displayed more power and fighting spirit than was shown last Friday night by the Bulldogs as they romped over the Union City Tornados team to the tune of 18 to 0. The local boys ganged up on the Tennesseans and had no trouble gaining first downs all the way through the game, aggregating a total of sixteen to Union City's three.

The Bulldogs grasped the initiative from the start. After the kick off to Union City, they held the Tennesseans in midfield and forced them to kick the ball into Fulton territory. Gaining possession of the ball, the Bulldogs marched down field for nearly 80 yards, with all backs and the line hammering hard against the Tornado. Rhodes plunged over for the first touchdown. Hartman was pulled out of the line for a try for the extra point, which failed.

The second quarter started off with Fulton leading 6 to 0. Penetrating deep into the Tornado territory early in this stanza, the Bulldogs took a punt near midfield. Meacham made an exciting 35-yard run around right end, but the play was recalled, and the Fulton team drew a penalty for holding. After several punishing line attacks, Leon Barron carried the ball 30 yards for the Bulldogs, to make a second touchdown. A pass was attempted for conversion but it failed. Score as the half ended, 12 to 0.

In the third quarter the Tornado put up a stiffer defense, and gained possession of the ball, took to the air with a passing attack. The aggressive Bulldogs were alert and broke this up.

Then came the final quarter. The Bulldogs marshalled an extra spark of fighting spirit, and were successful in scoring another touchdown, when Rhodes scored again after a hard-hitting, powerful drive downfield.

The Bulldog backfield is to be praised for its splendid coordination, and every member of the team turned in an outstanding game. The fine blocking and interference provided for the ball carriers, and the powerful, determined efforts of the line, were essential to unbeatable strength of the team. Coach Baker's squad has turned in two outstanding performances, and if they are able to maintain such vigor and spirit of fighting ability, the Bulldogs are going to be mighty hard to stop, and should make an outstanding record this season.

Charles Robert Bowen has returned to Great Lakes, Ill., after spending a nine day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bowen on Central avenue.

Miss Gene Faucett left Sunday to re-enter school at Murray, Ky.

Mrs. Calvin Hutchens and son Charles Robert spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weeks.

EDITORIAL

MARCH ON BERLIN-TOKYO

"The long, hard march to Berlin and Tokyo has just begun. If you think it will be easy, if you think we can win this fight with one hand . . . then you are wrong, dangerously wrong."

These words from Secretary Morgenthau of the Treasury Department we believe, are timely and are true. The Italian victory is only the beginning. We can make of that victory the occasion of a celebration in buying more War Bonds, or we can take the dangerous position of complacency, a position so dangerous it can easily lose this war for us.

Our men on the battle lines in Italy and the South Pacific are not resting—they are not complacent—they are fare-to-face with the grim killers of our cruel, implacable enemies. And we cannot have that fighting front without a supporting front here at home. The people of this community are in the service of their country as much as though they were called into battle. That service consists of doing the jobs we must do in production and to support with every cent of our surplus earnings the Third War Loan drive which is now underway.

What sacrifice have we made comparable to those boys who have lost their legs, their arms—their lives in the living hell of the battle fields? As farmers we are enjoying our highest income peak. As workers in the plants and factories, we have reached our highest wage level. We are thousands of miles from the danger zone, yet these dollars will be as deadly to the enemy as bullets fired on the front lines. These dollars of ours must be fighting dollars in the form of War Bonds if we do our patriotic duty in this Third War Loan.

If you could see the long rows of maimed, broken young men in our army and naval hospitals . . . if you could but see the rows of crosses on foreign soil . . . if you could but feel for one moment the living hell of the foxholes in the jungle, the rain of lead on an Italian battle field . . . the lurching, slippery, heaving deck of a war ship during a fight-to-the-death . . . if you could but watch the advance of one of our divisions under deadly machine-gun fire . . . American boys—maybe your boy—sacrificing all for your safety and for the preservation of everything we hold dear in this community. Then perhaps, you would sacrifice everything in the way of material comforts and lend your money to your government for these War Bonds.

We are not asked to do that. We continue our lives here in comfort and safety. We continue to go to ball games . . . to the theatres . . . to the favorite tavern or cocktail bar. We sit on our front porches and read the war news or discuss and cuss the Congress. We gather our rich harvests. We go about our daily tasks in the midst of our friends and fellows. We collect our fat paychecks and we come home to our families and perhaps there is a vacant place at the table . . . Our boy maybe out there somewhere and he's not complaining.

We grumble some about gas rationing. We can't get thick juicy steaks anymore. Service is not what it formerly was, prices are up . . . but is there any comparison with your trifling inconveniences and the sacrifices these American sons are making.

If you have a conscience, you'll go to the nearest place and buy that extra $100 War Bond this day.

THE COST IS FRIGHTFUL

Everybody agrees that the cost—in both lives and money—of this terrible global war is frightful to think about. We all are anxious for it to come to a victorious end, and as quickly as possible, for the United Nations.

But only hard work, sacrifice and bloody fighting by our Armed Forces can win through to final Victory.

Only grim, determined effort on the part of all of us will bring success, and liberate ourselves and our allies from the shadow of oppression as practiced by the Japanese.

Sure, we'll experience more desperate times than we are now facing. The harsher realities of war are reaching into our homes more and more as the days roll by, and before an armistice is declared we may expect even more grim and shocking aspects from the conflict.

So prepare yourself now. Devote all your efforts and every spare dollar toward winning this war, and protecting the lives of the boys who go to fight. We're all in this together—and together we stand, or together we fall. Many brave young Americans are giving their lives as a sacrifice for the cause of liberty.

Surely we can give everything necessary to win—if we can escape with our lives and our freedom!

KENTUCKY WAR FUND

The Kentucky War Fund announced this week a goal of $1,419,300 to be reached October 15 to 30. The money will go for services to men and women in the armed forces and merchant marine, recreational, spiritual and educational aid to prisoners of war, medical supplies, clothing and food for the peoples of the United Nations and to refugees.

Dr. Frank L. McVoy, campaign chairman for Kentucky, stated that the drive will give every Kentuckian an opportunity to share his material goods with those risking their lives on the military and United Nations' front.

"A thousand services—a million kindnesses—are wrapped up in a single gift to the United War Fund," Dr. McVoy said. "It will cover a federation of agencies stretching around the world and will reach into the lives of our fighting men, our fighting allies and their families."

More than half of the money to be raised in the National Campaign for $125,000,000 will go for services to the armed forces merchant marine and war prisoner aid. Dr. DeVoy pointed out. The drive will clear the way for the United States Treasury bonds sales and reduce the philanthropic appeal of the country generally to two principal campaigns: the American Red Cross in the spring and the combined National War Fund and Community Chest appeal in the fall.

Americans at home must help its fighters and its allies to maintain a will to win, Dr. McVoy said.

LEARNING TO PLOW

Last night I dreamed with all the vividness of actual sight that I was looking at one of Williams' cartoons on the subject of this article. Williams, you know, is the creator of the popular cartoon "Out Our Way." The only thing wrong with the dream-picture was that the boy used a left-handed plow, a kind I had never seen when I did my first plowing.

Though every little farm boy loved to follow his father or the hired hand to the field and hold on to the plow handles as if he were actually doing a man's work, the day he really plowed first was a different thing. Learning to plow, all by one's self, was to be classed with having one's first date or making the first effort to shave with Father's old heavy Wade and Butcher razor. Never after that first experience as a plowman could a boy be called a baby; it just grew him up as if by magic.

Since I was the least boy of the family, it did not become my burden duty to start plowing before I could walk very well, as many an older brother pretends about himself. I must have been all of twelve when it all happened. My father, like many another person, knew, Mizzel by garden and his orchard pretty thoroughly. Consequently, we had some of our earliest garden-patches, onions, beets, radishes, and lettuce—right among the apple trees. Part of this area had not been plowed up in years, as if waiting for me. One afternoon I was instructed to hitch the old family nag to a one-horse plow and start plowing he orchard. Father worked at my usual job, cleaning up the heavy weeds,

DOWN OUR ALLEY

Why is it that representative government is withering before our eyes? Our whole political system is based on the principle of local self government, but the people themselves are destroying that system by their continual demands for Federal intervention in the problems of every community and class, and by the ever-growing practices of passing these problems on to Washington. Congress, not being able to handle such an impossible burden, creates bureaus and bureaucrats.

The bureaucrats issue what are called "directives" which actually have the force of law. Congress Sumners of Texas has said:

"By making the units of state government financially dependent on the Federal government, that government is acquiring the power to control the units of state government. When this is fully consummated, the sovereignty of state governments will be liquidated. The men who are trying to drive us toward government by bureaucracy understand this."

Congress is surrendering to the Administration the power to tax. Congress is appropriating huge sums of money, it is surrendering its power to directing when and how the money will be spent. Other extraordinary powers, such as to the effect great social reforms, are being delegated to the Administration, which will retain most, if not all, of its wartime powers.

The remedy—and only remedy—is to send all these non-Federal functions back where they belong: to the state and local communities, where they can be handled upon a scale within the comprehension of the limited mind of man." Congress Sumners points out.

"National socialism may be described as government by bureaucracy. If we think Hitler's system is better than ours, we should have the honesty to say so instead of copying while we denounce it."

Few persons not connected with a railroad, ever had an opportunity to see the fine employee-management publications that are issued regularly by the principal railroads if the country. They uphold the highest patriotic ideals and are alive with the spirit of the railroad and the individuals who run them, from president to section hand. The war has given American railroads the biggest job they have ever been called upon to perform. One big reason why they are able to do the job well, is that their employees have understood the vital importance of transportation in waging and winning of the war.

Post-war opinions are being expressed and discussed in every community of the United States. That constitutes a real challenge of Government policies. The meaning of this situation is that no high officials or powerful political leaders can escape the great questions pertaining to "winning the peace" and saving our own soldiers and sailors from want and a chance to earn a living after the war.

It is no news to most people that the pay-as-you-go tax plan means more taxes than they expected to pay when they made out their 1942 income tax returns. Agents of the income tax division of the Government in Washington very frankly told income taxpayers that "expectancy" returns for the current year calculated on the basis of their returns for the past year would mean more and heavier taxes.

It is already understood that May and I had achieved a lasting Social Security levy to take effect on January 1, will be automatically doubled under the authorized provision of the present law.

The general revenue question is already in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and the White House wants 12 billion dollars of new revenue. Even if that amount is cut there must be a heavy boost that taxpayers will have to pay. The cost of the war has been a million dollars since you read the headline on this article. When this war is over the soldiers and sailors are not going to be turned loose to fight their way through chaos and confusion at home, or march with bonus armies into Washington. The United States is not going to walk out on these veterans and leave them high and dry, regardless of what it may cost.

While the President and Congress are not agreed upon post-war policies, there seems every reason to believe that public opinion will have a lot to do with mapping the future. Congressmen are very deeply impressed with the demands of their constituents who favor a plan resembling the League of Nations, but different inasmuch as it would have military and police powers to prevent the outbreak of future wars. Members of the Legislative branch of the Government have a good understanding of the way people are thinking in their states and districts.

SIGNS OF WAR

On every hand we see signs of war. But the surest proof that Kentuckians and Kentuckians, in keeping with the rest of the nation, have recognized a state of national emergency, is found on the highway and byways where all but a few non-conformists are driving automobiles at the moderate rate of 35 miles an hour.

Folks are driving sensibly and like it. They have made the discovery that a few minutes doesn't make much difference. Above all they are making those priceless tires last longer, and derive real satisfaction from the fact that the death lists from accidents is growing smaller.

True enough there is a small group that will learn only the hard way. It recognizes no war, it chooses to ignore a public obligation. But most of us are taking the war more seriously—and doing our part.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

At Jeb Crowell's the other day, we were havin' a glass of beer or two and talkin' about the kind of world there'd be when Peace came.

"Hear they'll have trans-Atlantic airplanes flyin' regular as taxi service," says Ed Carey.

"Yep," says Will Frost, "and television and plastic cars and air-conditioned homes and super-duper highways."

Finally, Doc Mitchell chimes in. "You know," he says, "we're talkin' about the future in terms of luxuries—like air-conditioned houses and television.

"But what really will shape tomorrow's world is what goes on in men's own hearts... like tolerance and understanding."

And from where I sit, Doc's right. Whether it's tolerance of another's politics or respect for a neighbor's right to enjoy a glass of beer occasionally, tolerance is a mighty good foundation for a peacetime world.

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH

The need for first aid is increasing at an appalling rate. Approximately 75 thousand were accidentally killed in the United States in 1919 while last year it had increased to approximately 100 thousand with no signs of any decline. In addition to those fatalities there has been a tremendous increase in the number of non-fatal accidents. It is estimated that there are approximately 365 thousand total disabilities resulting each year from accidents; that is one thousand per day. Intelligent first aid would have undoubtedly prevented many of these disabilities. This and the subsequent years will see the number of accidents greatly augmented due to newcomers in industry.

Accidents in the home are costing yearly about 32 thousand fatalities and three and one-half million injuries that are not fatal but may involve some disability. Falls are the most common, followed by burns and cuts and scratches.

Accidents will, however, occur in spite of all precaution and it is always important to know the proper thing to do when first aid is needed. Frequently persons are so situated that considerable time may elapse before medical aid can be given in case of an accident, therefore, it is for every individual's good that we all understand a few primary principles of first aid.

The purposes of first aid training are few but all important. In addition to equipping the individual with sufficient knowledge to determine the nature and extent of an injury it must also teach him what to do at the proper time. Those understanding these primary facts will also help to prevent accidents, which needless to say, is of the utmost importance. The first-aidler who possesses the ability to render aid must also tactfully take charge of the situation until a more competent person can be called.

In most cases the following procedures should be followed:

1. Keep the patient lying down as comfortable as possible with the head level.

2. Examine the injured for bleeding, stoppage of breathing, fractures, dislocations, poisonings, burns, etc. All of these have signs and symptoms which must be mastered by anyone attempting to give first aid. If several are present the bleeding and stoppage of breath must be looked after first as the patient's life depends on both of these.

3. Patient must be kept warm and quiet.

4. Physician or ambulance should be called by someone immediately upon determination of the injury. This person must be one who is not excited and will give the proper address, extent of injury, etc.

5. Do not hurry decisions or actions as excitement and moving of the patient may aggravate the injury. The crowd gathering around should be disbursed as much as possible.

6. Do not give an unconscious patient any liquid as it may strangle him. Above all, do nothing that will cause further injury to the patient, and never allow a person to be pronounced dead in the absence of a physician. Numerous cases are on record where perseverance in the administration of first aid has resulted in the eventual recovery of an apparently hopelessly injured person.

TEN POINTS TO REMEMBER

They cost so little—they are worth so much!

1. You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.

2. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.

3. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men.

4. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.

5. You cannot lift the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.

6. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income.

7. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.

8. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.

9. You cannot build character and courage by taking away a man's initiative and independence.

10. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

SPEAKING of HEALTH

Diabetes is a disease that most commonly affects people of middle years. It is the condition which results when the pancreas does not function properly. The essential trouble is that the body loses its power to transform the carbohydrates of food into heat and energy. It loses its power to burn the sugar.

One of the first signs of the disease is the appearance of sugar in the urine. The pancreas is the organ of the body that manufactures insulin, which in turn converts the carbohydrates. When there is a lack of insulin, glucose, more commonly called sugar, accumulates in the blood, and when a certain amount is reached the excess of glucose overflows through the kidneys.

Why Diet Is Essential

When the deficiency of insulin is not great it may be offset by proper diet. In other words, if a person suffering with diabetes eats only the amount of carbohydrates he can assimilate, the sugar excretion generally stops. Diabetes have a lowered capacity for the assimilation of proteins also, since this food may yield a large amount of starch. The body normally burns its food and so gets heat out of it or transforms it into useful tissue.

Diabetics who take care of their diet have a good chance of living a long and reasonably normal life. The importance of a proper diet in cases of diabetes cannot be over-emphasized. The pancreas in a weakened state may be able to provide for the assimilation of a certain amount of food, but if given more than it can handle, it becomes weaker and weaker, and death results.

It is well to remember that the diabetic who constantly indulges in more food than his body can assimilate becomes progressively worse.

Insulin Plus Diet

One of the results of a too greatly restricted diet is to produce malnutrition. In this condition the cure is as bad as the disease. The patient loses a great deal of weight and with it his strength. This brings about a weakened condition which exposes the victim to infection and other complications.

The discovery of insulin has brought about wonders for the treatment of diabetes. By using insulin obtained from animals, it is now possible to feed the patient adequately and thus avoid acidosis, and other conditions caused by diabetes.

Industry has made it possible to produce insulin in large quantities. Because of this, many a diabetic, saved from an early death, has been enabled to lead a normal life.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The Hickman Coca Cola Bottling Plant under the management of Mr. Truman Bondurant has corrected all defects that existed last month at the time Roy McGee from the State Department of Health and Harry A. Barry with the Fulton County Health Department made a survey of all restaurants, canning factories and bottling plants in Fulton County.

We want to congratulate Mr. Bondurant and his boys who made it possible for the Coca Cola Bottling Plant to rate 100 per cent with the Food Sanitation Laws. The people who are being served by this Grade A Bottling Plant should be proud to have a plant with this rating in their community to furnish them with Grade A products.

The public can be a big help by keeping bottles free of cigarette stubs, paper, soda straws, kerosene, etc., which have been found at the time inspections were made of the places serving bottled drinks.

I think the people who eat out would like to have a Grade A restaurant in their town that serves meals from china glasses and silverware which have been sanitized.

The building should be free of roaches to prevent them from crawling about the tables, walls and fixtures while you are being served. Food should be prepared in a clean kitchen and protected from dust, roaches, flies, hands and droplet infections. The United States Public Health Service lists 25 diseases spread by droplet infections. Droplets from coughing, sneezing and spitting float 12 feet and all food on shelves and counters such as pies, candy, sugar, meats, doughnuts, crackers, cakes, salad dressing, etc., are exposed. A number of restaurants have the necessary equipment required for a Grade A but fail to keep their places clean.

The Health Department would be proud to list a number of restaurants as Grade A before the end of 1943. If you are in any need of assistance from this Department in correcting your defects please call and we shall be glad to spend as much time as needed with you.

Can You Picture
without Newspapers?

All of us should feel proud of the fine job newspapers are doing to keep Kentucky in touch with the times. It's a strong and free press, serving free people. It would be hard to over-estimate the part played by Kentucky's 29 daily and 153 weekly newspapers in furthering the war effort. The whole state relies on them for information and inspiration!

For that reason Greyhound depends upon such newspapers as this one to carry its information on bus service. And—Greyhound, in turn, carries many newspapers to rural areas not served by any other transportation system.

As fellow citizens of this State, the Greyhound Lines take much pleasure in helping to make near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve in Kentucky—linking them to each other and to the rest of the country, as newspapers do.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become overtaxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Don't help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

When the rationing program was inaugurated more than a year ago, certain specific rules were laid down by our government to be applied to that new system of purchasing scarce articles. Since that time, the American people have applied their knowledge of rationing in various ways and some have paid no attention to those first rules set forth by our government. Many transgressions take place every day, some of which are innocent of any wrong intent, while others are deliberately done. In this latter group, we find people who think, "I know I shouldn't do this but just this once won't ruin the country."

This leads straight to the proverbial straw on the camel's back. Dig or little—deliberate or innocent—price violations repeated by you and your near neighbors and your far away relatives will break the camel's back.

We have an individual responsibility in this business of price control and rationing. We, as consumers, have it in our power to eliminate all violations at the retail level.

Check these questions to see just where you stand with the rationing program.

Do you attempt to make purchases with loose stamps? Loose stamps cannot be identified as belonging indisputably to any one person. They may have been found, stolen, or traded, as well as just carelessly torn from a ration book. The storekeeper has no way of telling from whose book they come, therefore, the law requires him to refuse loose stamps. Do not ask your storekeeper to violate the law for you.

Do not lend your ration book to a friend? When you "eat out" you are already drawing your share of scarce commodities. If you lend your book to friends, they will be getting double their fair share. This kind of neighborliness must be foregone for the duration.

Do you trade ration coupons? If you do not have a real need for all the ration coupons assigned to you for any kind of goods, including gas, feel proud that you are saving that much to go into the general supply. When people trade coupons or stamps with each other it means the scarce supply is more heavily drawn upon, there are no savings of goods, and perhaps even more stringent rationing may become necessary.

Do you give up your unused stamps to your dealer? Some dealers have asked their customers to turn in to them their unused or expired ration stamps. This practice enables the dealer to purchase merchandise which he can then sell during the following ration period without demanding stamps. This puts both him and you in the Black Market.

Do you purchase rationed commodities without coupons? In order to replenish his stock from legitimate sources, your dealer must have your stamps to turn in. Otherwise, you know he is purchasing from a Black Market. If you purchase direct from a farmer, insist that he take your stamps and turn them in to his War Price and Ration Board. Otherwise you are helping to make him a Black Market operator.

Do you attempt to use ration stamps after they have expired? Your dealer is not allowed to accept stamps or coupons which have expired, and if he does, it means shelves (or gas stamps) extra goods will be leaving his shelves (or gas pumps) during that period, and therefore there may not be enough to satisfy the current valid stamps. Buy only what rationed goods you actually need and buy them during the period when the stamps are valid; otherwise destroy the stamps and add to the nation's supply of scarce goods.

From all sections of the country come reports that mothers and wives are busy preparing lunch boxes. Some are for school and others are for adult workers but in either case problems arise. Those problems must be met and coped with in such a way as to prevent the undernourishment of the person who eats the lunch.

Here are some suggestions to help the busy mother or wife who must plan lunches.

1. Remember that the lunch should be one third of the meals for the day and should not simply be something thrown together to "tide one over" from breakfast to supper.

2. Have a special time and place for planning lunches. Write the menus on paper and look them squarely in the face.

3. Use imagination in planning and preparing lunches so they will have variety, texture and flavor.

1. Include fruits and vegetables in the lunch. These may be raw or cooked. Cooked foods may be carried in small glasses with tight fitting lids or in paper dixie cups that have been saved and washed thoroughly. Salads might be wrapped in a cabbage leaf and then in waxed paper and carried in the lunch.

5. Many lunches are not enjoyed because they lack an appetizing drink. This might be carried in a thermos bottle and be either hot or cold. Cold milk or hot chocolate for children, while adults might want tea or coffee.

6. When making sandwiches, do be careful to have the sandwich filling spread thick enough to give a good taste and have it extend all the way to the edge of the bread so the very first bite will be a good sample of the rest of the sandwich.

7. Use some spread on every piece of bread that is to be made into a sandwich so the pieces will stick together. This spread can be butter, mayonnaise or cheese spread.

8. Cut sandwiches so they can be easily handled. For an adult or older child they may be cut in halves while a younger child can handle a sandwich better after it is cut in fourths.

9. Include two napkins in every lunch box.

10. Wrap each sandwich separately in a wax paper to prevent them from drying out.

11. Avoid rich desserts such as pie and iced cake in lunches.

12. Include a surprise in every lunch box.

13. Children can be of great help in preparing lunches but the mother must be the chief planner, else the child might neglect some important foods in the lunch.

14. When opening packages of gelatin, dessert, save wax paper containers for pickles, raisins, nuts, or salads in a lunch box.

15. Roll biscuit dough into circles as for making a pie crust. On half of this place some left over vegetable, diced meat, hash, etc. Fold eggs together and crimp as you would do when making a fried apple pie. Bake in a hot oven. These potluck pies should be a favorite with school children.

16. This chicken loaf is proving to be a popular one.

- 1-4 c. ground cooked chicken
- 1-2 c. chicken stock
- 1-4 c. cornmeal
- 1-4 c. crushed dried celery leaves.

- 1-4 c. mayonnaise
- 3 T. chopped parsley
- 2 T. chopped pimento or pepper
- 2 T. gelatin
- 1-4 c. cold water
- 1-2 t. salt

Add cornmeal, celery leaves and parsley to boiled chicken stock and cook in a double boiler for 30 minutes. Soften gelatin in cold water. Add cornmeal mixture, stirring until dissolved. Add other ingredients, pour into greased mold until firm. Cut in thin slices.

17. With the growing popularity of soy beans why not try this sandwich?

- 2 c. cooked soy beans
- 2 hard boiled eggs, chopped
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1-4 c. tomato catsup
- 2 T. mayonnaise.

THIS WEEK IN WPB

"Last Ounce"
Heavy Undies
More Leather
Photo Equipment
Schedule Plans
Safety Articles
Scrap Shlumps
Munitions Up

Interesting streamlining of the War Production Board to meet the challenge of getting out that "last ounce" of production needed now by fast moving events on the battle-fronts dominated WPB news last week along with another encouraging production report. But first here's what happened on the civilian front:

More heavyweight knit underwear for men and boys in prospect through extension of priority assistance in enabling manufacturers to get necessary cotton knitting wares. . . . More leather to be available for repair of civilian shoes to meet prevalent shortage. . . . Scarce materials forced new restrictions on civilian purchase of photographic equipment.

Leather gloves were placed under WPB "Declaration of Policy for Retailers" which means advertising restrictions on the gloves. . . . New restrictions were placed on production of women's short coats and jackets. . . . Used water fowl feathers were restricted to military use.

machinery there was considerable activity. A new program designed to co-ordinate component part shipping schedules with end-product manufacturing schedules was worked out. . . . Restrictions on use of copper in certain automotive parts were eased. . . . Restrictions on use of magnesium for safety equipment (such as respirators, gas masks and oxygen breathing apparatus) were removed. . . . Similar restrictions on use of copper and nickel plating for goggles were eased. Use of chromium and nickel in automotive intake and exhaust valves were further restricted.

Scrap shipments from auto "graveyards" slumped sharply to 87,000 tons, lowest in recent months. . . . Overseas military and lend-lease demands will require a jump of better than 20 per cent in production of construction machinery year despite heavy production in home front construction, the construction machinery division reported. . . . Production of fountain pens and mechanical pencils for military use will be stepped up through easing of restrictions.

Encouraging note—The drug shortage that hit at the beginning of the war has been licked. Most drugs now are available in adequate quantity for military and civilian use but conservation is still required. Many still can be distributed only under restrictions.

Index of munitions production for August jumped another 25 points over July, the largest increase since April. Aircraft production alone, by weight, was up 7 per cent—a total of 59 million pounds of airplane weight as U. S. planes get bigger and bigger, more and more powerful. But employment shortages continued to hamper production at a time when military success cause demand for more bombers and fighters to rise sharply. . . . Even more sharply than increased production could meet.

In summing up the picture to visitors to the "Army War Show" last week, Mr. Nelson pointed out that "whatever the cost of our civilian habits and comforts we must meet the full demands of the tremendous fighting that lies ahead in Italy in the Pacific, in China, in Russia and wherever else the United Nations may attack. An extra plane now may be worth five planes a few months from now."

Within WPB a plan was announced to place greater authority in the hands of regional directors who now become regional chairmen. They are empowered to function in the operational field with no active assistance from Washington except in basic policy matters.

DANCE BAND SOLOIST LIKES CHURCH SINGING

Ruth Armstrong, pretty and petite, just "wows 'em" when she sings for the jitterbugs with Clyde Trask and His Orchestra aboard the palatial, all-steel steamer Island Queen, on its Moonlight dance excursions; but she still has a warm spot in her heart for the church choir singing that first brought her voice to the attention of Clyde Trask. Miss Armstrong is a native of Latonia, Ky., famous for generations for its horse racing. Besides her delightful style of singing, Miss Armstrong is an accomplished dancer—her original ambition was to be a ballet dancer. Her ambition now is to be a movie star. Her hobbies are tennis, writing poetry, and collecting beautiful poems.

Mr. Gregory Regains 19 Lbs. On Retonga

Was Unable To Do Any Work Last Year, Says Prominent Citizen, Gives Retonga Strong Public Endorsement.

Among the thousands of farmers gratefully praising Retonga is Mr. O. L. Gregory, of Route 4, Gallatin, Tenn. For miles around people speak of him as a man of sterling character and a splendid neighbor. Discussing his happy experience with Retonga, Mr. Gregory stated:

"Last year I was not able to look after my farm. I had to be very careful about my diet, but even then I suffered severe gas pains in my stomach after eating. I felt loaded with toxic poisons and I had to take powerful laxatives all the time. I lost weight and I felt so nervous that I never seemed to get more than an hour or two of sound sleep at night.

"I think Retonga had a hard test in my case, but I am so wonderfully relieved I eat anything I want. I have regained eighteen pounds, and I feel better than in three years. Even that troublesome constipation is relieved. My wife also has taken Retonga and obtained the same wonderful relief. Retonga deserves all the credit we can give it."

Retonga is intended to relieve such distress when due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute, Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store. —adv.

DOVE SEASON ENDS

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15

The hunters were reminded today that the dove season closes on Friday, October 15, by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish.

Reports of hunters indicate that the hunting of doves thus far has been very good but cooler weather is driving them south and prospects for continued good shooting through the 15th of October are becoming less bright.

Wakefield also calls attention to the fact that Doves, Ducks, Geese and all other migratory birds may be hunted from ONE-HALF HOUR BEFORE SUNRISE UNTIL SUNSET.
