One-Way Street Plan Advances

The State Highway Department has asked the City of Benton to obtain rights-of-way for conversion of Main and Poplar into one-way streets.

The Highway Department is rebuilding the bridge across the creek in City Park. The new bridge is necessary to handle the north-bound traffic from U. S. 64 through the park and on to Poplar.

The city must acquire rights-of-way on the north end of Poplar, where the traffic will move back on to U. S. 64.

The Highway Department has prepared plans showing how Main and Poplar will be converted into one-way streets.

South-bound traffic will use only Main Street, and north-bound traffic will use only Poplar.

Help Asked On County Fair Bills

Benton's City Council was asked Monday night at its regular meeting in the City Hall to sign a note to pay off about $800 worth of bills for the Marshall County Fair Association.

The request was made by John Clay Lovett, chairman of the City Park Board, Myron Mohler, treasurer of the fair association, brought the unpaid bills to the Council meeting.

Mr. Lovett pointed out to the Council that this year's fair failed to make payments for the first time in the history of the organization, and that he felt sure next year's fair will make enough money to pay this year's debts.

He said the fair had paid off $9,000 of a $10,000 indebtedness during the past several years in addition to paying its usual expenses and that this was a good record.

In order to borrow money, he said, the remaining $1,000 note would have to be paid by the fair association. He suggested that $1,000 be borrowed to pay the note and the unpaid bills.

The Council agreed to the proposal. The City Park Board and the old fair board also will have to okay the proposal.

City Council also heard a request for street work by several residents of the old Synagogue road. The residents complained of excessive dust from the road and asked that it be oiled. After some discussion, they agreed to wait until spring and get a good blacktop surface placed on the road.

Residents who appeared at the Council meeting were J. P. Smith, Fred Willie and Joe Lee Smith.

Sally Lewis
says...

There's a lot in how we handle our clothes that determines how long they will last. Even the way you hang them up affects appearance and life. For example, do not button a suit jacket when you put it on a hanger. It returns to its original shape better unbuttoned. Wrinkles come out of trousers faster if belts are removed before they are hung up. Even though you can slip shoes on without a shoehorn, it's better to use one. Otherwise, you may break down the counter (back) and shorten the life of the shoe.

Woolens often seem to lose their softness and resilience once they've been washed. If you add a tiny bit of gentle soap to the final rinse water, you'll find that they retain more of their original qualities.

Few of us are blessed with really soft water. And we all know that soft water makes soap go twice as far. It's also gentler on hands. A half teaspoon of lye in a bucket of water does an excellent water softening job. Use this proportion for more soft water and better laundering.

Three don'ts that seem very obvious, but which can help Dad and the boys get longer mileage out of their clothes: (1) Don't overstuff pockets, (2) Don't pull trousers over shoes, and (3) Don't hang a jacket on a hook.

Why You Are Sent To A Specialist

Human medicine is one of the most complex and demanding of all sciences. Constant research for new drugs and forms of treatment, changing disease patterns, increasing population, increasing numbers of older people—all add immeasurably to the problems and burden of medical science. The family physician, on the front line of defense against disease, probably feels this burden the most.

Hundreds of years ago the practice of medicine was relatively uncomplicated because knowledge was less extensive. But as the profession learned more, there developed a trend toward specialization. The vast amount of accumulated knowledge made it impossible for one man to work in all areas.

Today we have many divisions and sub-divisions of medicine, each a major field in itself. There are heart specialists, nerve specialists, eye, ear, nose and throat specialists, bone specialists and brain specialists. There are doctors who specialize in certain diseases, such as cancer or mental illness. There are doctors who work with certain age groups such as Pediatrics (children) and Geriatrics (old people).

While you may sometimes wonder why your family physician refers you to a specialist, we can all be thankful that there are specialists to detect, diagnose and treat specific ills. Your doctor, the general practitioner, is the foundation of the medical profession. But it is impossible for him to know everything about every disease problem. Therefore, the specialist serves as a valuable and vital member of the health team.

Your dentist is also a specialist. It is not uncommon for your doctor, while examining you for some ailment, to discover that it is caused by an infected tooth. He then sends you to the dentist, for treatment. Not only does the dentist have specialized knowledge about the teeth and mouth, but he also possesses specialized equipment.

Many family physicians also study surgery and do perform operations as part of their regular practice. But many will turn their patients over to another specialist, a surgeon, when an operation is required.

Certainly many family physicians will treat minor ailments of the eye, ear, nose and throat. But in those instances, when more serious and complicated conditions develop, or where there is some type of obstruction or deformity in these areas, the patient is sent to a doctor who specializes in the treatment of these parts of the body.

The person who benefits most from such specialization is you, the patient. It is a comforting thing to know that when illness strikes you and your family that you have readily available the best medical training the world has ever known.

Ancestor and Descendent

One of the most intriguing descendents to come from the Louis XV period is the record cabinet above. Reduced in size and clean of carving, the present simplified form gives us the essence of the French era. The details of the two doors with overlaid lattice work, tie the design to a type of kitchen commode, popular in Provence, France, in the mid-18th Century. Then the lattice work was open for the circulation of air in the cabinet to preserve perishable foods. Narrow shelves hung above or stood on the base. The state top of this modern descendent made by Brandt Cabinet Co., is as practical today as it was 200 years ago.

Bright Ideas

LOOKING FOR A JOB? Big opportunities are ahead for women workers, says Rachel Woodman, manager of Edison Voicewriter's office-analysis department. Today, women can build a career in all 466 occupations listed by the U.S. Census and they're getting better breaks in business than ever. In choosing your field, use a job as secretary, says Mrs. Woodman. Then you can learn the business at first-hand while looking over its opportunities. To get ahead, learn your job well, look for ways to increase your usefulness; eliminate detail and paperwork whenever possible. Get automation—the electronic calculator and control equipment—as a key to more time for creative work.

From my front porch
By CARL HELM

To see grass growing in cracks of sidewalks probably pains tidier souls. But I walked so many miles on so many hard, unyielding pavements of so many great cities! A sidewalk with a scraggle of grass in an occasional crack, then, delights my heart: it is Nature, triumphant.

Once, in New York, my window in a skyscraper looked out on a lone little tree, bravely battling for existence in the stony, gaseous heart of Manhattan. It withered and died in a year. So now, in the deeply shaded streets of my hometown, I like it somehow when a determined old elm or maple pushes up the sidewalk with its roots. Nature ain't licked yet, I say to myself, by man's "civilized" contrivances!

A friend sent me this verse:
"The happiest heart that ever beat,
"Was in some tranquil breast,
"That found the common day-light sweet,
"And left to God the rest!"

Then he said: "Have you read the 103rd Psalm lately?"

I hadn't, but I did — and I recommend it to you!

Sally Lewis says...

The refrigerator is one of the wonders of our American level of living. It's even more wonderful when you realize that less than a hundred years ago the most powerful monarch couldn't enjoy fresh fruits and vegetables all year round. Now we regard this household appliance as a necessity.

The refrigerator has many uses. For example, the dampness which you haven't time to finish ironing can be kept in ideal ironing condition by rolling it up and keeping it in the refrigerator.

Proper coverings and preparation of things for storage will give you the best service from your refrigerator. Milk, cream and table fats should be kept away from foods with strong odors and should be covered tightly.

Store wrappings should be removed from raw meat and it should be wrapped in wax paper before going into the refrigerator. Ground meat should be wrapped in wax paper and put into the freezing compartment or used within 24 to 48 hours.

Opened cans of fruit and vegetables can be kept in the original containers, but cover them.

Fresh fruits and vegetables without protective covering should be stored in the hydrator or a vegetable bag. Wash and trim them before storage. Berries and cherries should not be washed until you are ready to use them.

Apples, oranges and grapefruit which have been cut will keep moist a while if placed cut side down in a saucer.

Friday mold formation on bread during summer months, wrap well and store in the refrigerator.

And to keep your refrigerator clean and fresh, wash it regularly with a solution of a half teaspoon of soda in a gallon of hot water. This will remove grease and remove

Spiders—Ticks—Chiggers—Scorpions

FIRST AID WHEN THEY BITE OR STING

By Dr. Paul F. MacLeod

1. Spiders are not dangerous except for the notorious Black Widow found mostly in the southern and eastern areas of the United States. Contrary to popular belief, the bites of the tarantula and Brown Widow are not fatal, though they can cause considerable discomfort. The Black Widow's poison, which acts on the nervous system, causes immediate pain.

What you can do. Call the doctor at once. Enforce rest, keep the patient warm and apply cold packs on the bite while awaiting the doctor's visit. Don't worry the patient with your anxieties. Teach children that the common spider may be a nuisance, but it is not a menace.

2. Wood ticks are flat, brown, one-fourth inch long, with eight legs. They are mostly harmless, but should be removed. The bite transmits germs, sometimes the germ causing Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

What you can do. Cover the tick with kerosene or an ointment such as Unguentine. This will stiffen the tick. Let the ointment stay on for 30 minutes. Then remove the tick with tweezers. Scrub the area with soap and water to remove germs left on the skin.

3. Chiggers are tiny (barely visible), red mites which inject an irritating fluid. They congregate under the arms and around the waist line.

What you can do. Wash with yellow soap and sponge with alcohol or a baking soda solution.

4. Scorpions are three inches long, have eight legs, an elongated body and a tail which contains a stinger. Authorities say their bites are usually not fatal, except for one particular species. These are yellow scorpions originating in Mexico and found in the southwest. Their bites are not necessarily fatal either. As with Black Widow bites, the smaller the person bitten, the more severe are the results.

What you can do. Apply ice packs. Apply a tourniquet for five minutes above the sting. A rubber band may be used if it is in the finger or toe. Avoid cuts and suction (the method used for snake bites). Call your doctor if a child is stung, if the swelling does not recede, or any unusual reaction develops.

Hats in Tune With Young Ideas

The new fall hat fashions are practically irresistible to the younger set. In addition to making a schoolgirl look prettier, with their curving, face-framing brims, the new hats are soft and easy to wear. Feather-light but oh-so-warm, fluffy mohair wool—one of the ultra, ultra luxuries of the season—makes a particularly appealing young cloche in warm azaale pink. Priced to please a junior's budget.
