DISGUSTING — In spite of the memory of last winter's cold and snow, the current heat wave gripping the state seems disgusting. No other explanation is necessary of this 100-degree reading on the electric temperature sign at PCA on East Broadway about 3 p.m. Wednesday. Earlier in the day, the sign indicated 103 degrees, a spokesman said. Varying temperatures — all hot — were reported in the area Wednesday. The official high temperature at the weather station here yesterday was 98.5 degrees hot.

Remainder Of Week

Weather Forecast Is Hot, Dismal

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Those frigid blasts of air from the Arctic that made last winter so miserable might be welcome these days to many Kentuckians.

Hot, humid weather was forecast to engulf the state again today, pushing more cities toward pollution alert levels, and the outlook for the next week is dismal.

Weather officials said the warm, steamy air is likely to hover over the state at least until July 7, barring any unexpected general movement of air which could clear the stagnant mass.

"This is a bad time of year for photochemical oxidants," said Larry Wilson of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

And Bill Clements, another official, said Jefferson County has entered one full week under a pollution alert and that Lexington and Newport are approaching those levels.

"There is no relief in sight in the foreseeable future," he said.

The only crumb of comfort Clements could offer was the observation that the smog levels "are not exceedingly high."

However, they remain unhealthy for those with respiratory or heart conditions, who have been advised to stay inside, preferably in air conditioned rooms.

Healthier citizens will have to endure temporary irritation of the eyes and lungs in polluted areas.

The latest Kentucky crop weather advisory indicates favorable conditions for farmers, despite the temporary lack of rain.

The state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said that after an unusually cool spring and almost record delays in spring planting, there have been four weeks of good weather.

"There were enough showers to keep soil moisture mostly adequate, but at the same time (almost five) days were suitable for field work," it said.

Nearly all the acreage of tobacco, corn and soybeans have been planted and the crops reportedly are doing well.

The statewide average height of corn was up 20 inches from a week earlier and a few fields, mostly in Western Kentucky, have begun to tassle.

The service said controls are proving effective against a heavy infestation of corn borer.

Tobacco transplanting is nearly finished across Kentucky, though some resetting has been necessary because of weather and cutworm damage.

A similar favorable picture was drawn for barley, wheat and hay.

State air pollution officials said they are keeping an hourly watch on northern and central Kentucky pollution readings.

Northern Kentucky went over the line into an alert during one reading, but then the index dropped.

Weather observers said only isolated thunderstorms are expected in the next two days — not nearly enough to blow away the polluted air.

At Louisville Rally

Connally Hints At Presidency

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who said he would consider a bid for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, lashed out at what he called the inflationary policies of President Carter and the Democratic Party during a Republican fund-raising dinner here Wednesday.

"The most serious threat to our American system of government and the most pressing concern to Americans in every walk of life is inflation," said Connally. "Like an ugly cancer, it has infected the mainstream of our economic life ... it's getting to the point where by 1980, the dollar will be known as the J.C. Penny."

Connally said in an interview before the dinner that the Democrats had worsened inflation by refusing to decrease federal spending and the nation's balance of payments deficit.

Connally said Proposition 13, which rolled back California property taxes by 57 percent, merely echoed "what the Republican Party has been saying all along."

"They (Democrats) are all trying to alibi about it, but the taxpayers have said, 'We don't want no favors from the politicians,'" he said.

An estimated 300 Kentucky Republicans paid $20 apiece for the dinner, which was staged in a sweltering steel-walled horse sale arena at the Fasig-Tipton paddocks here. The function was designed to raise funds for Louis Guenther, a Republican Senate nominee, and state Sen. Larry Hopkins of Lexington, the GOP's 6th District Congressional nominee.

The crowd included former Gov. Louie Nunn and former state Auditor Mary Louise Faust, who ran unopposed in the Sixth District primary but vacated the nomination that was later awarded to Hopkins.

The star attraction, however, was Connally, who told The Associated Press that he was interested in no elective office than the presidency.

"I'm going to look at it (a possible candidacy) after the elections in November," he said.

"I firmly think President Carter has us in trouble. The only thing we can do is try to elect some Republican senators and congressmen to keep him at bay his last 2½ years in office."

Connally was the first major Republican figure to lend his support to the campaigns of Guenther and Hopkins.

Hopkins, a Lexington stockbroker who carried all 96 precincts last November in his state senate race, has raised Republican hopes for capturing the Congressional race that will be relinquished by Rep. John B. Breckinridge.

Breckinridge was defeated in the Democratic primary by state Sen. Tom Easterly, D-Frankfort.

Ed Cowling, executive assistance to GOP National Chairman William Brock, said last week that Hopkins could expect substantial financial and program support from the national committee. Cowling said the GOP was "excited" because the race does not involve an incumbent.

Guenther, however, is a decided underdog in his bid to unseat incumbent Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., who swept through token opposition in the Democratic primary.

Gartner Defies Presidential Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Gartner, continuing to defy President Carter, said emphatically Wednesday he will not quit as a member of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission despite a presidential call for his resignation.

Even if the president calls him personally with a request that he step down, Gartner told the Senate Agriculture Committee, "I would have to tell him I can't quit."

The panel called Gartner for questioning about $72,000 in gifts in grain company stock his children received, and about concerns that the gift presents a potential conflict of interest.

Gartner reminded the panel that he told the White House and Congress all about his family's financial holdings several months ago.

He said he has not violated any legal or moral standard, and has found no conflict of interest in his $50,000-a-year job.

Gartner repeated his intention to disqualify himself should any future conflict arise. He said the stock which has caused the controversy, and had been held in trust for his children's education, has been sold at his suggestion.

"If I resigned, it would look to the public as an admission of wrongdoing. I am not guilty of a wrongdoing," said Gartner, his wife and three of his four children seated behind him in the crowded committee room.

And when Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., asked him whether it is fair to refuse a request from Carter, who appointed him in the first place, Gartner said, "I think if there is any unfairness, it's directed towards me."

The gift has become an embarrassment to the Carter administration, since the stock was in Archer-Daniels-Midland Co., a $2 billion-a-year company whose activities are partially regulated by the commodities trading commission.

Carter, speaking at a nationally televised news conference on Monday, called for Gartner's resignation. "... the image of improperly resulting from the acceptance by his children of a substantial gift leads me to think it would be better if he did resign," Carter said, although he noted that Gartner has committed no crime.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, a longtime personal friend of Gartner, made a similar resignation request on Tuesday.

Drive Safely During Holidays, National Safety Council Urges

In an effort to reduce traffic fatalities over the approaching July 4th holiday weekend, the National Safety Council has reminded the public of some grisly facts.

More people have died on the nation's highways than in all this nation's wars, according to the council — far more people.

According to council statistics, 1.16 million Americans died in battle from the beginning of the Revolutionary War to the end of the Vietnam War.

It also is recorded that 1.9 million Americans died in traffic crashes from 1900 to 1972. Thousands of other Americans have perished in traffic mishaps since 1972, bringing the traffic toll far ahead of the number killed in wars.

In Kentucky, 958 persons died in traffic during 1977, an increase from the 874 persons who died from similar causes in 1976.

State police officials have publicly notified motorists of increased patrol action during the July 4th holiday in special efforts to reduce speeding and drunken and reckless driving.

The National Safety Council and G.R. Miller, local highway safety member, urges every motorist to drive carefully and observe the 55 mph speed limit.

Swimming Pool Chlorine Leak Hospitalizes Over 300

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — More than 300 persons — most of them children — were treated and 12 were hospitalized Wednesday when a swimming pool filter system failed, producing a choking cloud of chlorine gas.

The 12 admitted were reported in fair to good condition, according to hospital spokesmen. Most of the victims were treated and released, suffering from inhalation and gas burns.

The accident occurred about a mile from the site where 165 persons died last spring in the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire at Southgate, Ky.

Fire department officials said more than 300 persons, seeking relief from high humidity and 90-degree heat, were forced to flee from the Rosedale Pool when chlorine gas began escaping from a cylinder in the pool filter room.

"Everyone began choking and gagging," said 12-year-old Dave Bohn. "Everyone shot for the doors."

Even after they escaped, many persons succumbed to the effects of the chlorine gas and they were helped into ambulances by Covington fire and police departments.

The accident occurred in the Latonia neighborhood in southern Covington.

The Red Cross dispatched three disaster nurse teams to three hospitals to assist in treatment of the swimmers.

A fire official described chlorine gas as "extremely dangerous." A hospital spokesperson said the gas causes irritation of the lining of the nose and throat and can cause the formation of mucus in the throat passage.

"People were dropping sick up and down the street," said James Ruth, Covington fire chief.

"It was a real terrible smell and you couldn't breathe," added Pamela Lasita, 24. "Kids were getting sick all over."

Witnesses said one of those overcome was 20-year-old lifeguard Jody Salter, who warned those at the pool of the gas.

After announcing the danger over the pool public address system, she ran into the pool filter room thinking that a fellow guard was there.

"She got a double dose and collapsed," said Lauri Edgington, 16, who worked in the refreshment area.

Pool employees said it was one of the biggest crowds of the summer, and at the time, most of the youngsters were on deck and their parents were using the pool during an "adult swim" period.

"It was just fortunate that it was adult swim and all the kids were out of the pool," said Pam Huff, 26-year-old mother of two children. "I was just getting out of the pool and got two whiffs of it and it took your breath away."

All but about 50 of those at the pool at the time were youngsters, according to pool attendants.

"It was adult swim and the deck was full of kids sitting along the side and walking around. The place was jammed," said Jeff Beach, of Latonia, Ky.

"Suddenly, everyone started getting sick. People were pushing and shoving to get out of the pool area."

Firemen wearing gas masks turned off the chlorine tank valve and fans were used to disperse the fumes.

The two students are spending this week in Mayfield and Graves County visiting members of the local Red Cross Youth Council and their families. They are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Elder, of Fancy Farm. They are in Kentucky where they attended the Kentucky Red Cross Youth Leadership Training Center at Lebanon Junction, near Louisville last week. Four youth from Sweden and one from Denmark, along with an adult leader, are visiting in Kentucky. Mary Ann was an Exchange Student to Sweden during the summer of 1977. A party will be held Friday afternoon, June 30, at 2 p.m. at the Red Cross Chapter House in honor of the exchange students with a cook out to follow at Kiwanis Park at 4:00 p.m. All Red Cross Youth and the adult committee are urged to attend.

At Lexington Rally

Atkins Lashes Demo Chief

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — State Auditor George Atkins has called for the resignation of state Democratic Chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt, charging that Hunt has blatantly been supporting the administration ticket for governor in 1979.

Atkins, the most outspoken anti-administration candidate, also told a rally at a downtown hotel here Wednesday that he will formally announce for governor in early August.

The state Democratic party is supposed to be neutral in a primary, but Atkins told his followers that Hunt has made headquarters "little more than a brokerage house dealing in state contracts and deals."

He said Hunt is publically on record as saying he has selected state Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer for governor and William Cox for lieutenant governor.

McBrayer, the favorite of Gov. Julian Carroll, plans to resign soon to pursue his gubernatorial quest. Cox left his job as Federal Highway Administrator in Washington to announce for lieutenant governor last week.

Atkins said that Hunt is "totally preoccupied with feathering his own nest and building an organization for McBrayer." He alleged that McBrayer's staff in the state Department of Commerce has been coordinating his scheduling and organizing his campaign with state Democratic headquarters for many months.

"Every day deals are made for personal service contracts and blacktop and state jobs hinging on individuals' and groups' support of McBrayer," the auditor said. "He's handed out every check in the state government in the last two years."

"They have cut people off and dropped the projects just so Terry could come in and put them back again."

Atkins did not go into more detail and neither McBrayer nor Hunt could be reached for comment.

Atkins, referring to Carroll's 1975 campaign for governor said, "I believe it is offensive to spend $1.5 million to get elected to a $35,000 a year job."

The result of all these activities, he said, is to create the belief by the electorate that government is for sale.

Hence, he said, he is holding "on top of the table" dinners where money will be raised from independent voters.

He said similar meetings are scheduled in Bowling Green, Henderson, Louisville and other Kentucky cities throughout the summer.

Atkins estimated that at least $15,000 was raised by his first public fund-raising reception and dinner, which drew about 300 persons.

Atkins told the group that "this is your chance to help elect a governor who doesn't think he has to spend all the money in the state treasury just because it is there."

"We (don't want to cut vital state services)," he said. "We want limousines, airplanes and gazebos cut."

The references are to gubernatorial use of transportation and plans for renovations at the executive mansion, for which Carroll has drawn criticism.

In Monaco Ceremony

Princess Marries Commoner

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Princess Caroline of Monaco, who overcame the reluctance of her parents to see her wed a commoner 17 years her senior, married Paris playboy businessman Philippe Junot Wednesday in an intimate civil ceremony at the royal palace.

The nuptials will be completed Thursday morning with a Roman Catholic ceremony in the palace's small chapel.

Caroline said "Out" to the business consultant and financier in the same ornate palace throne room where father, Prince Rainier III, married American movie star Grace Kelly 22 years ago.

Rainier and Princess Grace looked on as Louis Roman, president of tiny Monaco's State Council, performed the 15-minute wedding. Also present were Junot's parents and about 35 other members of the two families.

"Princess Caroline's hands shook a little as she signed the register," Roman said afterward. He described the service as "nice, and in good spirits."

The chandeliers, the imposing ancestral portraits and the velvet-draped throne of laquered wood lent some majesty to the ceremony. But otherwise it was strictly private — the antithesis of the sumptuous Rainier-Kelly wedding of 1956. Caroline wore an ice-blue crepe georgette dress by Dior and her mother an apricot-colored chiffon.

The family had rehearsed the wedding Tuesday.

After the ceremony, the doors of the austere ochre-colored palace overlooking the Mediterranean were opened to all Monaco's citizens over 21 — roughly 1,500 — for a royal reception.

The confectioners of the Hotel de Paris, the stately old lodging house of Monte Carlo's casino clientele, sculpted a six-foot-tall multi-tiered wedding cake to be cut after Thursday's religious wedding.

Rainier barred newsmen from all the events because the family had decided on a quiet wedding reflecting its misgivings over Caroline's choice of a husband.

Though they have mellowed toward the 38-year-old Junot in recent weeks, Rainier and Grace were flatly against the match when Caroline announced it to them a year ago. They feared Junot was too old for her and too much a playboy.

Plea From The President

Senate Hears Water Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, already defeated in the House in his fight to trim federal spending on water projects, took his case to the Senate on Wednesday.

Both the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation urged a Senate appropriations subcommittee to reject water projects which the House funded over the president's objections.

The projects would cost $21 million in the budget year starting Oct. 1 and a total of $650 million if fully constructed.

"The House included funds for five construction projects which the president specifically recommended not be built for environmental or economic reasons," said Maj. Gen. Charles McGinnis, director of Civil Works for the Corps.

Castro Says He Wants Meeting With President Carter

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro said late Tuesday he wants to meet with President Carter to iron out differences between the two countries. But he added Carter must take the initiative.

Castro told 18 American mayors that Carter must issue the invitation because of domestic pressures on the U.S. president over Cuban-American relations.

"Yes, I would like to," Castro said when one visiting mayor asked if he would be willing to hold such a meeting with Carter.

"But, he would have to convince more people than I would have to convince," the Cuban president said. Castro apparently was referring to aroused American opinion over Cuban involvement in Africa and the traditional pressures from strong anti-Castro groups in the United States.

The Cuban president met with the mayors during a reception at Cuba's Protocol House in Havana. The U.S. officials are leading a delegation of 100 Americans who have been touring municipal facilities in Cuba for the last week.

Little Effect Of Bakke Decision Seen In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Preliminary indications are that the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in a case involving admissions policies at a California medical school will have little effect on Kentucky.

Harry Snyder, executive director of the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, said Wednesday that he plans to discuss the decision with attorneys for the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville to see what, if any, changes in admissions policy would be required as a result of the court order.

"We will compare what we did — our admissions practices and standards — with what (the University of California at) Davis did," Snyder said in a telephone interview. "It will take some time to do."

The high court ordered the Davis medical school to admit Allan Bakke, ruling that he had suffered discrimination because he is white. The high court also said race can be taken into account in future college admissions programs.

In a 5-4 decision, the court held that the university medical school had gone too far in considering race when it refused to admit Bakke. However, it held that affirmative action programs intended to benefit minority applicants can properly be a factor in decisions on admitting students.

Snyder said it appeared from news reports that the court "decided in favor of Bakke, but didn't upset the affirmative action apple cart."

Deputy Attorney General Thomas Jacobs said he was not aware of any cases under litigation by the state that would be affected by the decision.

D. Kay Clawson, dean of the University of Kentucky Medical School, and Merrill W. Packer, dean of the UK dental school, said UK's professional schools have never used a quota system like that at UC-Davis.

"The court decision reaffirms that race can be taken into consideration in the admissions process," Clawson said in a prepared statement.

"The ruling will not affect our admission policy in that we have never had quotas but have always taken factors other than the student's grade point average and Medical College Admission Test scores into consideration in our admission."

"This includes identifying under-represented groups by geography and background as well as by race and sex."

A spokesman for the UK Law School said the school has "nothing closely akin" to a quota system.

Bakke sued UC-Davis after his medical school applications were rejected in 1973 and 1974. He charged that the medical school's special admission program which reserved 16 of the 100 openings in each class for "disadvantaged" students was an impermissible racial quota.

The Supreme Court interpreted the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to say that while some race-conscious programs are valid, the program that kept Bakke out of medical school crossed the line into illegal racial discrimination.

Two Soviet Spacecrafts Are Docked

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 30 docked with the orbiting space laboratory Salyut 6 Wednesday at 1:08 EDT, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The Soyuz 30, manned by Soviet cosmonaut-flier Pyotr Klimuk and Polish cosmonaut-researcher Mirosław Hermaszewski, was sent up Tuesday to join the Soyuz 29 crew of Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov aboard the space lab.

Tass reported that after the spaceship docked with Salyut 6, Klimuk and Hermaszewski transferred to the space station.

Carter Is Said To Be Preparing Changes In Document Handling

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is preparing to announce sweeping changes in the way the government classifies documents, taking into account, administration sources say, a balance between the public's right to know and national security.

The sources said Carter, who pledged during his campaign to revise the government's classification procedures, has given final approval to the new policy and a formal announcement was expected today.

The government has classified thousands of documents as "confidential," "secret" or "top secret." Critics of the system say documents often are classified arbitrarily with no serious consideration of their relationship to security, leading many documents to be overclassified.

Carter's executive order will sharply reduce the number of agencies with classification authority, cut the number of years for which a document is automatically classified and establish an agency of 10 persons to 20 persons to review the bureaucracy's compliance with the new procedures.

A key part of the new order, said one source, is a provision requiring that under certain circumstances the government must balance the public's interest in a disclosure with the requirements of national security.

The source, who declined to be identified, said the agency involved will make the "balance test" if there is "some reason to believe that there is a significant public interest in disclosure" such as a request for the document under the Freedom of Information Act.

The new procedures also would require that documents be classified section-by-section instead of as a whole because, under current procedures, lengthy documents are sometimes classified because of one or two sensitive paragraphs.

The new classification guidelines were prepared by an administration task force, which included members of the president's domestic policy staff and the National Security Council.

A source said administration officials consulted with a variety of groups from outside the administration, including congressional committees, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Center for National Security Studies.

Other changes under the new order, according to the sources, would be:

—The removal of classification authority from 11 federal agencies, including a number of regulatory bodies and the departments of Agriculture, Labor, and Health, Education and Welfare. Five additional agencies would have their classification authority cut back.

—Reduce the time in which documents are automatically declassified from 30 years to 20 years for more sensitive documents; and from six-to-10 years to a flat six years for the rest. Now, more than half the classified documents are automatically declassified after 30 years.

—Restrict the government's ability to change classification on a document after a request is made for the document through the Freedom of Information Act.

—Require that damage to national security must be "identifiable" before a document can be classified so disclosure is restricted. Currently the government must show only that disclosure could reasonably be expected to damage national security.

Lebanon Religious Leader Blames Syria For Massacre Of 36 Catholics

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The leader of one of Lebanon's largest Christian factions implied Syria was responsible for the massacre of 36 Catholics in Eastern Lebanon while another Christian warlord warned of a "plot to exterminate Lebanese Christians."

Former President Camille Chamoun, whose National Liberal Party is the second largest Christian group in Lebanon, said "non-Lebanese and non-civilian plainclothesmen" raided four Christian villages in the Bekaa valley 60 miles east of Beirut Tuesday night, dragged 38 men from their homes and pulled out under tank cover.

"Shortly after midday, the bodies of 36 detainees were found in a nearby forest," Chamoun reported. "They were all machine-gunned and the corpses bore the scars of severe physical torture."

He said the two other men were missing.

Informed sources said all those rounded up were militiamen of the Phalange party, the largest Christian faction, suspected of taking part in the attack June 13 on supporters of a third Christian warlord, ex-President Suleiman Franjeh, who is Syria's staunchest Lebanese ally.

Franjeh's son Tony, Tony's wife and 2-year-old daughter and some 35 of Franjeh's Giants militia were killed in the attack. The ex-president vowed revenge.

Phalangist chief Pierre Gemayel said the massacre was "part of a plot exterminate Christians," and his party newspaper warned that no power can liquidate the Phalange.

Bomb In Market Kills Two In Jerusalem Today

JERUSALEM (AP) — A powerful bomb exploded today in a crowded open-air market in the Jewish sector of Jerusalem, killing two persons and wounding 28, police said.

Seven of the wounded were reported in serious condition.

A police spokesman said several suspects were detained for investigation.

Mayor Teddy Kolek said he thought the bombing was linked to the arrival of Vice President Walter F. Mondale Friday for a four-day visit.

The blast destroyed a vegetable stand in the Mahane Yehuda market, near the Jaffa Road in West Jerusalem about three-quarters of a mile from the walls of the Arab Old City. The market was crowded with persons shopping for the Sabbath.

Several peddlers' sidewalk carts were also destroyed, and two nearby shops were damaged. Fruit, vegetables and charred wooden crates were scattered about.

The police closed the market and sealed the area. They refused to give any information about the construction of the bomb or how it was planted in the market.

"I heard a boom and then I was thrown back," one shopper told Radio Israel. "Everything I was carrying was blown out of my hands. I heard screams and shouts, and I got up and ran away."

It was the 14th bomb blast in Jerusalem this year and raised the casualty total in the explosions to 11 dead and more than 100 wounded. The worst one occurred on June 2 when a bomb on a bus killed six persons and wounded 20.

can enter the game of toppling regimes."

President Elias Sarkis, a Christian with no militia who is dependent on the support of the 25,000 Syrian troops in Lebanon, met with his cabinet in Beirut to discuss the new crisis. A government spokesman said he spoke twice with Syrian President Hafez Assad Wednesday night.

Former Rosy State Revenue Picture Is Now 'Nip-And-Tuck'

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Revenue Commissioner Maurice Carpenter said Monday "it's going to be nip and tuck" whether the state will meet its projected revenue estimate for the fiscal year which ends Friday.

He said there still is a good chance the projection of $1,475,000,000 will be realized for the General Fund, which finances most state government operations.

"It is also possible that receipts will fall some $10 million short," he said.

Carpenter said that had it not been for the long coal strike the past winter, "we would have made it nicely with perhaps a little surplus."

Kentucky's coal severance tax accounts for an increasing share of revenue, and the walkout also affected various other taxes adversely.

In any event, Carpenter said, the state's earlier expectation of going into the new fiscal year with a $17 million surplus has faded.

Otherwise, the current receipts picture looked rosy.

Sales and use tax collections for the past 11 fiscal months totaled almost $480 million for an increase of 15.4 percent over the corresponding previous period. The state has relied heavily on this levy.

Coal severance tax receipts for the period reached $101.5 million, up 7 percent.

Individual income tax collections of $361 million were up 14.6 per cent and corporation income tax receipts of $101 million rose 4.8 percent over the previous period.

The only major tax in the General Fund which lags behind last year is the cigarette levy.

The state collected almost $16 million for the past 11 fiscal months, a decline of 2.9 percent.

Energy Growth Funds For Communities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is being asked to vote to provide $150 million a year over the next five years to help communities cope with sudden energy-related growth.

The Senate Environment and Public Works Committee approved the measure on a 10-4 vote Tuesday night, clearing the way for floor debate. Most of the money would go Appalachian and Rocky Mountain states, according to sponsors.

But the measure may face a spirited Senate fight from senators from areas who wouldn't benefit from the funds. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, called the measure "a boondoggle bill that will cost the American taxpayer $750 million. It seems Proposition 13 hasn't taught some people anything."

Both grants and loans would be available to states and communities under the legislation. The money could be used for things such as improved road and sewer systems or new schools — any projects made necessary by energy development boom.

HANDSOME INTEREST HAS A MINUS

Q. I'm attracted to two utility bonds with high yields because they will mature soon - Detroit Edison 12½s and Duke Power 13s, both due in 1979. How can they offer yields so high as 11.9 percent and 12.2 percent, respectively?

A. They don't.
On the day your letter arrived, the bonds were selling at around 105. When they mature - in a little more than a year - you will get $1,000 back for every $1,050 you pay to acquire them today. So before you allow yourself to drool over those luscious 12½ and 13 percent coupons, cut that $50 right out of each bond's payout to maturity. The yields you quote are current yields - which is all very good. But that $50 loss in a year's time per bond at redemption is also very, very real.

Q. I spent most of my life in a large Midwestern financial center where I had a helpful broker. When I moved to a small town further west I found it difficult to carry on business long distance. The new broker I found there evidently spent little time on my portfolio. He made some bad sales. Advice, please.

A. Go back to your original broker. I'm reluctant to believe that with long-distance dialing right at your finger tips, it makes much difference whether you are five miles across town from your broker or 1,200 miles away in a small town. I've never found a broker who ever turned off long-distance (collect) calls. In fact, many firms encourage long-distance accounts for their registered representatives. Go back to the broker you liked.

Q. I heard someone on the radio saying that you can get 12 to 14 percent on your money if you just write to some financial organization in some small town. Do you know who they are?

A. Please! Not in a family newspaper.

Q. I'm 74, comfortable - don't need more income. That's why I keep $40,000 in a safe deposit box. Friends say I'm wrong.

A. And so do I.
First of all, you should force yourself to spend more money. If you don't at 74, when will you? Besides, it's good for the economy.

Secondly, regardless of your tax bracket, the tax on $40,000 interest can't wipe it all out.

Thirdly - and here I'm getting into dangerous ground - I feel the money is safest in an insured bank or savings and loan account. (I know of no hard and fast rules which govern the protection of items kept in a bank vault.)

Q. I bought some stock on the day it sold "ex-dividend." My broker says I was not entitled to the dividend because I had not paid for the stock. Is he right?

A. He's right for the wrong reason and missed the easiest, most obvious explanation, to boot.

Ex-dividend means "without the dividend." If you buy a stock on the day it is "ex-dividend" it should be obvious that you are buying the stock without the dividend... period.

What's all this nonsense about payment date? You owned the stock the moment your broker executed your order on the floor of the exchange. But your ownership came a day late. I don't care when you paid for the stock.

Q. We are soon to retire - in our late 60s - and getting all sorts of differing opinions from friends on whether we should sell out our tax-exempt bonds or buy more.

A. Until you know - for sure - what your top tax bracket will be in retirement all this friendly advice is so much idle gossip.

If, in retirement your top level of income will be taxed at more than 30-35 percent, the investments bringing in that income should be in tax-exempts. If your highest tax bracket drops to 18 or 20 percent, then you don't have much need of tax exemptions. Sit loose and rest easy. After a year of retirement you'll have a far better idea of how much, if any, tax shelter you will require.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, June 29, the 180th day of 1978. There are 185 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1966, North Vietnam's capital, Hanoi, and principal seaport, Haiphong, were bombed by the United States for the first time in the Vietnam War.

On this date:

In 1577, Flemish painter Peter Paul Rubens was born.

In 1776, the Virginia state constitution was adopted, and Patrick Henry was made governor.

In 1880, France took control of the South Pacific island of Tahiti.

In 1941, former Polish Premier Ignace Paderewski died in New York at the age of 80.

In 1946, the British arrested more than 2,700 Jews accused of terrorism in Palestine.

Also in 1946, rioting broke out between Yugoslavs and Italians in the city of Trieste.

In 1970, the last of the American ground forces which had moved into Cambodia were withdrawn.

Ten years ago: A Southeast Airlines plane was hijacked over Florida and diverted to Cuba, and the pilot, a Cuban-born U.S. citizen, was held as a deserter.

One year ago: Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said the Carter administration was committed to seeking full diplomatic ties with China.

Today's birthdays: Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands is 67. Black activist Stokely Carmichael is 37. Composer and condutor Leroy Anderson is 70.

Thought for today: An American man without American cookery would gradually waste away and eventually die - Mark Twain, American writer, 1835-1910.

Jeffrey Hart Says

Nixon's Aborted Revolution

Much understandable excitement exists about the spreading tax revolt in America and the growing feeling that we may be entering a new era in American politics. There are some fascinating pages in former President Nixon's recently published memoirs which indicate that had it not been for Watergate, the present revolution would have begun under presidential auspices in 1973.

As the memoirs are frank to indicate, Nixon neither fully understood the constellation of forces that came into being in 1968 nor moved decisively in the domestic area during his first term as president.

During the 1972 campaign, however, as group after group deserted McGovern and an obsolescent liberalism, and as Nixon carried the nation by a 49-state landslide, he was ready to move.

"At the beginning of my second term," he writes, "Congress, the bureaucracy, and the media were still working in concert to maintain the ideas and ideology of the traditional Eastern liberal establishment that had come down to 1973 through the New Deal, the New Frontier, and the Great Society. Now I planned to give expression to the more conservative values and beliefs of the New Majority throughout the country and use my power to put some teeth into the New American Revolution. As I noted in my diary: 'This is probably going to be quite a shock to the establishment, but it is the only way, and probably the last time, that we can get government under control before it gets so big that it submerges the individual completely and destroys the dynamism which makes the American system what it is.'"

Nixon had a genuine vision of the New Majority American future, and as we listen to the following lines, we should reflect on the shock waves now rolling in from the West, from California, which are changing the face of American politics. "I felt that the Silent Majority of Americans," writes Nixon, "with its roots mainly in the Midwest, the West, and the South, had simply never been encouraged to give the Eastern liberal elite a run for its money for control of the nation's key institutions."

After completing a survey of government agencies, Nixon discovered enormous waste and inefficiency; subsidies we do not need, teacher-training programs moving forward when we have a surplus of teachers, government subsidy for hospital beds when we already had a surplus, costly and onerous regulations. "We finally moved," he writes, "to reorganize, reduce or abolish the remaining behemoths of the Great Society that had done little to aid the poor, and which were now primarily serving the interests of the federal bureaucrats who administered them. Of the $2.5 billion it took to run the Office of Economic Opportunity, 85 percent was filtered out in salaries and overhead before it ever reached the poor."

President Nixon, early in his second term, was declaring war on the bloated New Class of bureaucrats, social workers, education professionals and lobbyists, mediocrats, rehabilitationists, and so forth.

"By the time a new president was elected in the bicentennial year of 1976," writes Nixon, "I hoped to have given America the beginning of a new leadership class whose values and aspirations were more truly reflective of the rest of the country."

Even as the clouds of Watergate darkened into thunderheads, Nixon men were fanning out into the federal agencies, determined to make them responsive to the new direction the president was charting.

As we now see, President Carter has only delayed this process. He is really a caretaker president in domestic policy, giving the older liberalism a few more fitful years in power.

Other men are now urging that New American Revolution - Jack Kemp in New York, Jeff Bell in New Jersey, Gordon Humphrey in New Hampshire, and others across the country.

The wind is rising. But in 1973, Nixon knew which way it was going to blow.

Court Rules Newsmen Have No Special Access To Probe Prisons

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court narrowly ruled today that news organizations have no special right of access to investigate prisons and other government-run institutions other than what is granted to the general public.

In a 4-3 decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court denied news reporters from an educational radio-television station special access to investigate conditions at the Alameda County, Calif., jail.

Burger said the Constitution does not mandate "a right of access to government information or sources of information within the government's control. The media has no special right of access to the Alameda County jail different from or greater than that accorded the public generally."

In other decisions released today, the Supreme Court:

- Ruled 6-3 that trial judges may impose stiffer sentences on convicted criminal defendants when they believe those defendants lied during trial.

- Upheld unanimously a federal law that imposed a $560-million ceiling on damages that nuclear power-plant operators would have to pay after a major nuclear accident.

- Ruled 6-3 that New York City does not have to compensate the Penn Central railroad for the city's refusal to permit the railroad to build an office tower above its Grand Central Station.

The ruling in the Alameda prison case essentially affirmed a pair of 1974 decisions by the Supreme Court involving California state prisons and federal penitentiaries.

The TV station in the latest case, KQED, challenged those earlier decisions. The station contended the right of access to the Alameda jail was so limited that it hindered effective investigation by the news media at the jail.

The Elvehjem Art Center at the University of Wisconsin-Madison has been awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities grant of $149,512 to support an exhibition of Norwegian art. The exhibit is scheduled to open Nov. 3, 1978.

"Low Down" FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

By JOE CRUMP

TAXPAYER REVOLT? JOLTS CONGRESS

Senator Harry Byrd, Jr. (Va.) "...On Tuesday the voters of the State of California sent what I regard as a message to Congress.

"While the precise issue was a California one: namely to limit taxing and spending in the State of California, if I view the mood of the electorate correctly the approval of proposition 13 was influenced as much by spending and taxing in Washington as it was by the situation in the State of California.

"It is my belief that what the voters of California did this past Tuesday is a most healthy sign for our Nation..."

Rep. Thomas E. Coleman (Mo.) "...What happened in California is going to happen again and again unless, or until, the Congress of the United States takes heed and takes the lead in the monumental battle against inflation..."

"There is no doubt in my mind, and obviously in the minds of at least 50 of my colleagues that the Federal Government and its deficit spending is at the heart of our inflationary spiral. On May 17, 1978, I introduced House Joint Resolution 916, which calls for a constitutional amendment to balance the Federal budget except in times of national emergency. And yesterday, 50 colleagues asked to join me as cosponsors..."

Rep. Bob Livingston (La.) "...I have been holding a series of special meetings throughout my district, and I find an overwhelming interest among the people and constituents in my area about the burden of taxes that they must bear. I believe it has been quoted that 42 percent of all income of average American citizens, is taken by State, local and Federal taxes. People are worse off than the taxpayers back in the medieval ages when the serfs were forced to pay one-third of the bounty of their crops to their feudal lords..."

Rep. Carl D. Pursell (Mich.) "...The taxpayers are revolting across the Nation, and personally I believe that we as Members of Congress should not accept deficit budgets. We ought to fiscally manage the Federal budget in a responsible manner..."

"The people are taking it out on the local government, school boards, and State government, but the real problem is here in Washington...I hope we hear and then act on that message..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

To get the attention of those who impose taxes, it should not be necessary to "hit them over the head with a 2 by 4."

Kevin P. Phillips Says

Carter's Personal Qualities

One of the most intriguing assumptions in current day poll-taking is the White House belief, set forth again recently by presidential pollster Patrick Caddell, that Jimmy Carter is personally liked, trusted and respected by a large majority of Americans despite the fact that his job rating has gone to you-know-where in the proverbial handbasket. Caddell and a few colleagues feel that an important residue of personal strength will ultimately help Mr. Carter to make a comeback in job approval; others disagree, suggesting that the president's poor performance in office is already dragging down his personal credibility.

The survey evidence to date, while mixed, tends to support cynics who see at least some critical deterioration in Mr. Carter's personal ratings. Here's what the various pollsters have been finding:

Gallup: Polls released in early June included this analysis by George Gallup: Between December and May, "confidence in Carter the man also declined with the percentage saying they have 'a great deal' of trust and confidence in Carter down from 30 percent in December to 25 percent in the latest survey."

Harris: New surveys by Louis Harris, likewise taken in May and released in early June, struck the following keynote: "In the judgment of voters, the president is rated no better than 61-34 percent negative on 'inspiring confidence in the White House.' And Harris notes that until the winter the public continued to retain confidence in Mr. Carter personally even though his job rating was dropping. As late as December, for example, his personal confidence rating was 55-39 percent positive. But by April, it was 59-35 percent negative, and by May, 61-34 percent negative."

NBC News-Associated Press: Part of the verdict of their May sampling was harsh. "Public trust that Carter will do what is right has declined in the six weeks since our last survey...Presently, 40 percent of our respondents say they trust the president to do what is right most of the time or nearly all of the time. This is a seven-point decline in the 47 percent recorded in March and a 17-point drop from the January level of 57 percent. Carter's high point on the trust measurement was 70 percent, recorded in February 1977."

However, the NBC surveytakers did find a bright side for Mr. Carter: "Not everything is going against the president. His personal qualities are widely recognized. For example, fully 81 percent of the public believe Carter is an honest man. And 80 percent think he is a hard-working president."

Yankelovich: June Daniel Yankelovich polls for Time magazine are also somewhat reassuring for the president. The New York pollster indicates that "Carter has some residual strength that may cause him to rebound before the 1980 campaign season. For example, while increasingly doubtful of his leadership qualities, the respondents seem to like him better than ever. Sixty-nine percent find him attractive and appealing; 21 percent feel the opposite." On the other hand, though, Yankelovich charts approval of Carter's moral leadership dropping from 91 percent in March 1977 to 78 percent in November and just 68 percent this month.

Darden: Samplings by Atlanta-based surveytaker Claiborne Darden indicate that Mr. Carter is in real trouble below the Mason-Dixon Line. Analyzing his new data, Darden suggested to the New York Times that while many Southerners still like the president as a man, a growing number find him ineffectual, even bumbling, which raises serious questions about how long his substantial personal popularity can endure. A Georgia sampling completed on June 7 found only 38 percent of the respondents felt the president had "lived up to the expectation" they had of him, as against 53 percent who did not.

Caddell: The president's own pollster told the Associated Press the other day that the Carter poll results most Americans read "tend to be masking the amount of personal popularity he retains individually, in terms of personal qualities...I have rarely seen a politician who has reached the levels in overall (low) ratings that Carter has which has not been accompanied by an enormous amount of personal hostile reaction." It's easier to stage a ratings comeback, he suggests, "if people do not feel enormously hostile about you...and you have a little bit of something to work with. In his case, it's his personal popularity."

Perhaps so. But trying to weave these various findings together, it seems unlikely that Mr. Carter's supposed "personal popularity" can matter much if a multiple downward trend persists in his ability to inspire public confidence, command public trust or avoid a "bummer" tag. In these circumstances, lack of "enormously hostile" public attitudes may not offer much salvation.

These Days

An Energy-Starved World

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

If anything is obvious, it is the likelihood that, by the year 2000, the world will be scratching for every form of energy that the mind of man can discover. What remains of the accessible oil supply will be selling at a premium to provide the basis for plastics and fertilizer. The plutonium breeder reactor will be needed to extend the vanishing supplies of uranium. There will be electric cars on the roads making use of long-life batteries. Fuels derived from corn and garbage will be propelling other cars. Windmills will be pumping water; the sun will be heating houses.

Finally, there will be a run on coal - the South African experience in using coal derivatives as a substitute for oil will figure in the world's imagination as an export more valuable than South Africa's gold and diamonds.

So what is the reasons for the jealousy that is holding back all sorts of experiments in crossing traditional energy lines? Why doesn't Congress pass legislation favoring the mixture, at every gas station in the land, of a waste-derived 10 percent methanol fluid with ordinary gasoline? Why aren't publicizing the fact, established in Britain, that atomic residues can be safely sealed in glass and buried for eternity? And why aren't we pushing the use of methane gas, both natural and manufactured, through the superb transcontinental pipeline system that we already have in place?

The jealousy that afflicts practically every energy group is taking a most short-sighted form among the coal miners, or at least among their union leaders. Looking to the future, the United Mine Workers Journal's Ken Hunter says that such nuclear power as we already have has "zapped" a million man years of mining employment. Mr. Hunter arrives at his lugubrious conclusion by doing some most misleading arithmetic. The 70 nuclear energy plants now operating have a combined 50,000 megawatt capacity. If these plants were not nuclear, says Mr. Hunter, they could have been coal. And there would have been 32,000 more coal mining jobs today "if we had not started down the nuclear path."

Mr. Hunter is living in a dream world. Those 32,000 coal mining jobs would have disappeared even if atomic power had never been discovered. Oil, not the atom, was the villain. The power companies in the United States, faced with high cost coal in the Nineteen Forties, Fifties and Sixties, were converting all over the place to oil. Atomic energy was an afterthought. It did not displace coal; it merely offered a substitute for oil. Now that oil, in its turn, has become a high cost fuel, the need for more atomic plants is obvious. But so is the need for oil-burning utilities to convert back to coal. Even so we can build the 141 nuclear plants that are, as Mr. Hunter says, in various phases of construction and design, it will not materially affect the future demand for coal.

Coal in liquefied and gasified form has an illimitable future. To say that "a nuclear plant destroys over 19,000 man years of coal mining employment in exchange for little more than 2,000 man years of uranium mining" has little relevance in a dynamic world that is going to need all the available coal and all the available uranium that can be wrested at economic rates from the ground.

The point is that we need every form of energy that we can get. If Mr. Hunter is looking for a real culprit in the coal picture, he should forget the proponents of atomic energy, who have a most unenviable prospect in fighting the Clamshell Alliance zealots for the right to build one little nuclear power plant in New Hampshire. The real enemy of the coal miners is the environmentalist lobby that insists on impossible standards for controlling sulfur dioxide emissions from plants that burn high-sulfur coal. There is little reason to believe that doubling the amount of sulfur dioxide allowed in the air would hurt anyone's health. A sensible relaxation of the rules would enable us to make quick use of our great reserves of high sulfur coal.

What we need on the energy front is more common sense and less concern for jealousies that are unreal in an energy-starved world.

Miss Susan Elliott Fiancee Of Brian Carter House; August 20 Wedding Date Is Selected

Miss Susan Maria Elliott

Plans Completed For Wedding Of Miss Shelton, Russell A. Houston

Plans have been completed by Miss Lisa Shelton for her wedding to Russell Alan Houston.

Miss Shelton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Shelton, Mayfield, route 8, and Mr. Houston's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Houston, of Memphis.

Vows will be exchanged on Sunday afternoon, July 2, at three o'clock, at Trace Creek Baptist Church, with Bro. David Stephenson performing the double-ring ceremony. Bro. Don Farmer will assist.

Pianist will be Miss Brian Fite, and Miss

Sarah Wade will be organist for the wedding. Soloist for the occasion will be Sam Boyd, of Fort Worth, Texas.

Attending the bride as maid of honor will be Miss Emily Youngblood, and bridesmaids will be Miss Sherry Jaynes, Mrs. James West and Mrs. Ricky Ivy.

Miss Jana Carol Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Burgess, Bel-Aire Drive, will be the flower girl.

Rex Houston, father of the bridegroom, will serve as best man, and groomsmen will be Bobby McDonald, Walter Houston, and Dr. Phil Alston.

Serving as ushers will be Benny Shelton, Reggie Shelton and Kent Youngblood. Candlelighters will be Duwayne Courtney and Don Houston.

Mark Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benny Shelton, of Mayfield, route 4, will serve as ring bearer.

Keeping the bride's register will be Miss Sally McIntosh.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding, and the reception which will follow in the church's fellowship hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leo Elliott, 212 Fairlane Drive, Mayfield, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their youngest daughter, Susan Maria, to Brian Carter House, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. House, of London, Kentucky.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leo Elliott, Sr., of Mayfield, and the late Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Robert Higdon, Sr., of Fancy Farm.

The prospective bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Matt House and the late Mr. House, of London, Kentucky, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Porter, of London.

A 1976 graduate of Mayfield High School, the bride-elect is attending the University of Kentucky at Lexington, where she is a junior, majoring in early childhood education.

Mr. House is a 1975 graduate of Laurel County High School, London, and a 1978 graduate of the University of Kentucky at Lexington, with a B. A. degree in political science. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa, national liberal arts honorary. Mr. House is currently attending the University of Kentucky College of Law in Lexington.

Vows will be exchanged on August 20 in London, Kentucky.

Garden Club Of Kentucky Endorse Garden Park

Mrs. T.F. Wiperman, president of The Garden Club of Kentucky, Inc., announced today that the executive board of The Garden Club of Kentucky, Inc. in session June 21, supports the concept of a Garden Park at Eden Bay on Barkley Lake. A garden of high quality such as Bellingrath or Longwood would be an asset to our state.

A plan has been presented to Governor Carroll. The Garden Club Executive Board has reviewed the conceptual plans of this Garden Park and feels that since a garden of this kind does not exist in the midwest, such an attraction would be appealing to Kentuckians as well as tourists and visitors to the state.

Summertime seaside cooks may find it handy to know that about 18 clams in the shell will yield about a pint of shucked clams.

Miss Marvena Sanders, Annapolis Appointee, Traveling Light

When a pretty Mayfield miss, Marvena Sanders, Brand Street, leaves this weekend for Annapolis, Maryland, to enter the U. S. Naval Academy, she will be traveling light, very light.

Knowing that she would not be taking the usual wardrobe and "girl-things" which are normally assembled by college-bound coeds, we checked to see what she was allowed to take with her to the Academy.

We found that everything she is taking is fitted into the zipper bag with which she is pictured. Items she was requested to bring were a limited number of lingerie items, a month's supply of personal items such as toothpaste, soap, etc., a calculator, and she could take her Bible.

Uniforms to be issued her when she enters the Academy will include jackets and both skirts and slacks, in navy and white. She must be in uniform at all times, so there is no need for her to take "civilian" clothes, Marvena explained.

She will be one of 90 girls enrolling in the freshman class, which numbers between 1300 and 1400.

A 1978 graduate of Mayfield High School, Miss Sanders reports to Annapolis at 6:30 a.m. on July 6. However, she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanders, are leaving June 1, and will vacation along the way. The Sanders will attend orientation sessions at the Academy while their daughter is entering, and will attend swearing in ceremonies the afternoon of July 6.

Miss Sanders is the first girl from Graves County to be appointed to the Academy. Another Mayfieldian, Jim Fenton, who is entering his third year there, has had many helpful pointers for Marvena, who was appointed by Congressman Carroll Hubbard.

The family will look forward to Christmas which is the first time Marvena will be on leave to visit home.

But she's excited over her future as a student at the Naval Academy, and if her high school record is any indication, the Academy will have a treat in store for it as the talented and studious Mayfieldian joins its ranks.

Joseph Daniel Keith, Miss Whiteker Exchange
Wedding Vows At Lexington Church On June 17

Crestwood Christian Church at Lexington, Kentucky, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Sandra Mac Whiteker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Whiteker, of 317 Melbourne Way, Lexington, and Joseph Daniel Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keith, of Hickory, route 2.

The ceremony was read at seven-thirty o'clock the evening of June 17, with Dr. David Blondell officiating. Musical selections presented were from "The Sound of Music".

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Anna Swafford. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Misses Mitzi and Terri Whiteker.

Larry Dame served as best man for Mr. Keith, and groomsmen were Gary Parker, Jim Keith, brother of the bridegroom, Terry Prince and Walter Lynn, Jr.

A reception followed at the church, where Mrs. Bob Winn kept the guest register.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Pine Mountain State Park, and are now residing at Hickory.

Miss Lana E. Mullins, of Greenville, South Carolina, formerly of Mayfield, has recently completed the spring quarter at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lain Mullins, Mayfield, route 1, she completed 15 hours post graduate work in the area of vocational rehabilitation and deafness.

Miss Mullins obtained a bachelor of science degree in speech pathology and audiology at Murray State University in 1973, and a masters of education in guidance and counseling at Murray State in August, 1977. Presently, she is employed with the South Carolina Department of Vocational Rehabilitation as a counselor for the deaf and hearing impaired.

Green And Clean?

Elaine Knowland's poem about mutilated trees and the pictures which ran with it in this column last week have evoked a lot of comment. The practice of topping shade trees is so widespread in Mayfield that I went to the Division of Forestry to talk with Dave Sorenson about it.

According to Dave, this severe pruning-back, thought by so many people to be a beneficial act, is actually very destructive to the health of their trees.

"A tree should be trimmed only of its dead limbs, and cut back at the top only when it is interfering with telephone or power lines," says Forester Sorenson. "When a tree is topped or improperly pruned, it causes irreparable damage by creating an open door for heart rot fungus to enter and eventually destroy the tree."

Study this picture. The crown area of the tree, the mail factory for the production of food energy, is gone with the chain saw. In place of main branches and food-producing leaves, hundred of hungry, bushy twigs eat up the tree's reserve food supply. The tree, its energy reserve depleted, threatened by heart rot, stands open to insect attack and wind and ice damage.

When a major limb must be cut, the proper procedure can minimize damage. Experts advise us always to cut the branch even with the main trunk; to leave a stub delays healing and allows decay to begin. To prevent stripping bark from the tree, make your first cut underneath the branch, nuzzling upward before cutting from the top. Pruning paint should be applied to all wounds (branches over 2 inches in diameter).

The Kentucky Division of Forestry is available for free assistance to those of us who have questions or problems. Their office in Mayfield is at the corner of West Walnut and South Ninth streets. District Management Supervisor is Tony Luciano, and the number to call is 247-3913.

"At Wit's End"

By Erma Bombeck

One of the most often-asked questions in the world is, "What are friends for?"

People ask it and they don't even think about it. Usually, the question is asked when they've been stuck with some inconvenience. No one has addressed themselves to the answer of "What are friends for?" - until now.

Friends are for not going on a diet when you are fat, getting a tax refund when you had to pay or having a good time at a party to which you haven't been invited.

It's being pregnant at the exact same time as you are...not a month before.

A friend is for telling you about your old boyfriend who is now a tormented priest, but not mentioning the boyfriend who married a beautiful girl and is an executive with Texas Instrument with stock options.

Friends are for siding in with you when your husband buys you an electric clipper to shave the dog's rump for your birthday and not pointing out how your husband is a good provider, is not a chronic boozier, and doesn't fool around with other women.

Friends are for not pointing out that people who wear their blouses on the outside have something to hide.

Friends don't write you a letter and won't write again until you respond because it's "your turn."

Friends can't stand all the people you can't stand at the same time and for the same reasons.

Friends are for having children who do not speak metric like a native Met, sneak gum out of her purse and deny it and put catsup on everything she cooks to kill the taste.

Friends will not tell you what they really think even when you make them swear to tell you what they really think.

Friends are for talking you into a dress you would kill for... even when you can't afford it, you can't wear a slip or bra with, it doesn't fit and it makes you look like a bean bag chair from the rear.

A friend will hear you say on the phone, "I've got to go now; someone is at the door," and believe you.

What are friends really for? If you have to ask, you can't afford one.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Friday, June 30, 1978

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Good business year possible, but hard work required. Don't cut corners. Share profits, fame. Let both heart and head guide you in choosing romantic partner. New social connections fun, fulfilling. Travel within USA boosts business. Foreign countries continue to affect company affairs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Family spending needs firmer hand. Good luck possible. Real estate land deals likely to be lucrative. Revise budget to take care of sudden needs. Make it an early night.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid contacts with "users" who sap your energies, ideas. Preserve originality. Romance for singles proves happy, rewarding. Married folks in harmony. Family projects welcome. Cut calories.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Work behind-the-scenes beneficial. Gossip causes emotional tension. Be more discreet in behavior, particularly in public. Married folk come to new understanding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Steer clear of financial involvement with friends, neighbors. Cut down on social activities. Maintain low profile around jealous relatives, in laws. Self-improvement can upgrade image.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Promising may need definition. Postpone expensive entertaining. You won't lose face. Someone who seeks blues is jealous, seeks attention. Make effort to divide more wisely between career, family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't neglect health. Postpone travel if possible. Faraway folks can be helpful in money matters. Loved ones deserve more consideration. Divide up home chores. Make it an early night.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Family expenses need a firm hand. Perform more home services yourself. Utilize coin launderette. Do more professional reading to keep abreast of current affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Wear kid gloves in financial dealings. Superiors, influential people can be critical. Be more "upfront" with marital, business partner. Happily, romance will shine on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Health bears watching. Seek medical help. Bankers congenial; likely to grant loans. Avoid speculative deals, gambling. Spend evening with platonic friend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Creative projects favored. Seek advice of experts. Don't play games with emotions. Highlight independence of thought, action. Sense of timing paramount to "save the day."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Domestic differences possible. Influential people well-intentioned, but promises go unfulfilled. Family had hopes his culinary skills would improve but they never did.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Energy level high. Use time to full advantage. Obtain information from relatives. Keep good fortune to yourself. Others anxious to share your monetary rewards.

Homemaker's News

Pottsville Club

The Pottsville Homemakers Club met June 13 at the home of Mrs. Albert Oliver, with eight members present. Mrs. Russell Wilson presided over the meeting.

Roll call was answered by telling "my favorite summer activity." Mrs. Albert Oliver gave the devotional by reading John 6:35.

The following officers were elected: president-

Mrs. Russell Wilson; vice-president-Mrs. Calvin Gibbs; secretary-treasurer-Mrs. Forrest Perkins.

Landscape notes were given by Mrs. Robert Lowe.

The major lesson was given by Mrs. John B. Sanderson which was "How the Home Develops Personalities."

After recreation the group adjourned to meet with Mrs. Forrest Perkins in July.

Daddy's Marinated Roast
1 (3 to 5 pound) chuck roast
Meat tenderizer
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup strong coffee
½ cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon Wor-

cestershire sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 large onion, finely chopped
Sprinkle meat with tenderizer and set aside. Melt butter and brown slightly. Add coffee, soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, and onion. Pour over roast and let stand at room temperature for at least 12 hours. Turn meat often. Remove from marinade and grill, basting frequently with marinade. Cook to desired doneness.

The roast would be simply delicious and mama's potato salad with boiled dressing would make waiting worthwhile. We always had green beans, nothing fancy or gussied up with sauces or almonds just plain beans, cooked a long time with bacon grease and a dash of brown sugar like Rock cooks them.

After a freezer of homemade ice cream and a plain lemon cake mama always served with ice cream, the day would all too fast come to an end. Daddy's cooking was done for another year.

BOILED DRESSING FOR POTATO SALAD

3 eggs
¾ tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup sugar (don't skimp)
½ cup vinegar
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons butter
½ teaspoon salt (taste, may need a little more)

Beat eggs until light. Stir in everything except butter and salt. Keep stirring over low heat. Let bubble for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add butter and salt. This makes about a pint.

Evelyn slipped this to me Sunday in church and it is so good and what could be easier to make:

EVELYN'S PINEAPPLE CHEESE SALAD

1 package lemon jello
1 cup boiling water
dissolve together
1 large can crushed pineapple
½ cup sugar
Cook together until syrupy

Pour into jello mixture and cool until it starts to jell, then add:

1½ cup grated American cheese

THELMA LU'S FLOUR BARREL

½ cup nuts (if you want to)
1 medium package of cool whip (9 oz.)
Pour into mold and refrigerate

Doesn't that sound easy to make and delicious to eat?

Now Diamond Lil from down in the south part of the country makes this dessert and you talk about good!

DIAMOND LIL'S CHOCOLATE DELITE

1st layer
1 cup flour
1 stick melted oleo
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup nuts

Mix together and put in a 9x13 pan
Bake until barely brown 2nd layer

1-8 oz. pkg. cream cheese

1-4½ oz. carton cool whip

1 cup sugar

Mix cream cheese and sugar real good and add cool whip

3rd layer
1 package chocolate pudding

1 package vanilla pudding (not instant)

3 cups milk

Cook together in double boiler until thick and let cool

Pour over cream cheese mixture

4th layer
1-4½ oz. cool whip

Put on top and sprinkle with nuts

With all these layers you probably think it will take a long time to make but I'll bet you can get it together quicker than it takes to read this column.

Here's a good dessert to have made up for the fourth just in case company comes in:

DATE ICE CREAM DESSERT

Mix 2 beaten eggs, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped dates and ½ cup nuts. Bake at 350 for 30 minutes. Break up with a fork and crumble into ½ gallon ice cream which is slightly soft. Put 2 cups vanilla wafers crumbs on the bottom of a large pyrex dish. Put the date ice cream mixture on top. Sprinkle with more vanilla wafer crumbs. Freeze.

Have a good day and we'll be back next week.

David Crittendon Honored On Birthday

David Shannon Crittendon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollie Crittendon, of Mayfield, celebrated his thirteenth birthday with a party given in his honor on June 13 at the Lynn Grove Roller Rink.

The young guests enjoyed an evening of skating, playing the game machines and other games. They were served refreshments at the rink later in the evening.

Methodist Women Meet At Church

The Independent Methodist Women's Association held its regular monthly meeting recently in the fellowship hall of the church at Pryorsburg.

Mrs. Robert Joyner opened the meeting with prayer. The devotional was given by Mrs. John Byrn, on "Father, I Need a Healing", based on an article from Guidepost magazine.

The roll call was answered by each member quoting a verse of Scripture.

Mrs. Willie Potts,

president, presided at the business session.

Landscape of a flower bed for the church's front lawn was discussed.

There will be no July meeting of the group, it was announced, and the next meeting will be the first Monday in August.

Mrs. Larry Breedlove closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshment were served by Mrs. Billy Jamison to:

Mrs. Willie Potts, Mrs. Robert Joyner, Mrs. Mary Jackson, Mrs. Joe Lewis, Mrs. John Byrn, and Mrs. Larry Breedlove.

NOTICE!

The purpose of this letter is to inform you that "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc." has decided to dissolve this corporation.

Starting July 1, 1978 the eighteen doctors of the clinic will start functioning as individual private practitioners or as a member of a separate two or three man group practice.

Registration, cashing, filing of insurance, charging, billing, collecting and all other administrative functions will be performed at each individual doctor's office. Therefore, if it is necessary for you to see your doctor for health care of if it is necessary to discuss an administrative matter, you should contact your doctor's office directly.

Regarding "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc."

1) Laboratory - "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic" Laboratory will stop operating June 25, 1978. All laboratory work after this date will be done by the Hospital and the Hospital will bill you for this service. Service received prior to June 25, 1978 will appear on your Clinic bill.

2) Pharmacy - "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc." Pharmacy was sold and ceased operation on May 21, 1978. Items received from the pharmacy prior to May 21, 1978 will appear on your Clinic bill.

3) Billing - (a) The bill you receive for July 1978 from "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc." will contain the total amount owed to the Clinic for all services you received for which the Clinic has not received payment. This bill will be for items or services received from "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc." laboratory, pharmacy, x-ray department, glasses (Clinic's share) department, re-billing charges, medical supplies, etc. This bill will not include the individual fee of the Doctor you visited. Each individual doctor will bill you for services you have received from him, have charged, and have not paid for as yet.

(b) The July 1978 Clinic bill will be a computer type bill. The August 1978 bill and all subsequent Clinic bills will not be computer type bills.

(c) Since the Clinic is dissolving, you should have your bill paid in full within a reasonable length of time or make special payment arrangements with the Clinic Credit Office.

4) Insurance Filing - The Clinic Insurance and Medicare offices will continue functioning until approximately August 1, 1978. The Clinic will assist you in filing insurance claims for all services/items received prior to June 25, 1978.

Note: Insurance claims for all services/items received after June 25, 1978 will be filed by your doctor's office.

After June 30, 1978 the following addresses and telephone numbers will be effective for "The Houston-McDevitt Clinic, Inc."

Blast Wrecks Prison Construction

WINCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — One man died and 10 were injured Monday when an explosion tore through a former resort motel being remodeled for use as a prison, officials said.

"It blew the center section clean out of it," said Johnny Prewitt, assistant chief of the Clark County Fire Department.

Fire broke out, and several departments worked to control the blaze.

Gerald Wayne Byrd, 22, Frenchburg, a member of an inmate work crew, was killed, said Powell County Coroner Carl Wells.

Nine other inmate workers and a supervisor were injured, officials said.

Ironically, they had been renovating the building partly to meet fire-safety standards.

The explosion, which destroyed about half of the 64-unit concrete building, apparently occurred when a solvent used on the job ignited, said state Fire Marshal Bob Estep.

The blast occurred about 10 a.m. and the fire was brought under control within two hours, said John Sowers, associate superintendent of the development center.

A crew of 25 inmates was working in the building, formerly the Hidden Valley Resort, preparing it for occupancy this fall.

Sowers said the inmates had not been living in the building, but in temporary quarters approved by the fire marshal's office.

The Bureau of Corrections bought the 10-year-old resort — about 15 miles southeast of Winchester, in Powell County — for use as a minimum-security prison — the Eastern Kentucky Career Development Center — said corrections spokeswoman Gay Dwyer in Frankfort.

Prewitt said his department and firefighters from Mount Sterling, Clay City and Stanton fought the fire.

Byrd had been transferred to the renovation project from the State Reformatory at LaGrange, where he was imprisoned April 6 to serve a 5-year sentence for second-degree burglary.

The injured were taken by ambulance to Clark County Hospital at Winchester.

One inmate, Donald Lee Slattery of Louisville, was transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington for treatment.

Three other inmates — Michael Morris, Mount Vernon; Gregory Stewart, Louisville, and David J. White, Frenchburg — were admitted to Clark County Hospital with second-degree burns.

The other injured men, including Jack D. Johnson, a vocational instructor in the Corrections Department, were treated for minor burns and smoke inhalation and released.

They included John Welsh, Boone County; James K. Embry and Mike Huffins, Daviess County; Jerry East, Warren County, and Samuel Kenneth Cox, Fayette County.

Bolivan Tin Heir Continues To Pay Ransom Bill

LONDON (AP) — Bolivian tin heir George Ortiz packed a $2 million ransom in two suitcases last October to get his 5-year-old daughter Graziella back from her kidnappers.

The child was returned unharmed. But even after the terror has subsided, Ortiz must continue to deal with the matter — he has to pay the bill. So this Thursday at the London auction house, Sotheby Parke Bernet he will sell off a treasure chest of primitive African and Oceanic art he has collected over 30 years.

Ortiz, a 50-year-old member of the Bolivian Patino mining family, said the ransom payment "did not make me destitute, but raising all that cash suddenly was a great strain." In an interview, he would not disclose whom he must repay for the quickly raised funds.

The collection is said to include the finest group of Polynesian art in private hands in the world. A Sotheby spokesman said the house expects the sale to realize upwards of $1 million.

But the spokesman said the firm cannot give a precise estimate of what the sale will realize, since some of the 234 items are unique or so rare no one knows what they are worth.

Graziella was snatched by two men last Oct. 3 outside the family home in Geneva, Switzerland, as she was being driven to school.

Ortiz and his wife, Catherine, appealed to the gang on television not to harm the child, their only daughter. They have three sons.

Ortiz handed the ransom over on the Geneva-Lausanne highway and Graziella was dropped off in a hotel parking lot 11 days after the kidnap.

About $35,000 of the ransom was discovered in the room of a man in France who was found dead and was thought to have been involved in the kidnap. A second alleged kidnapper was arrested in Switzerland and awaits trial.

"I don't bear them a grudge for forcing me to sell, but I detest them for what they did to Graziella," Ortiz said in an interview during a visit to London to make final arrangements for the sale.

Nixon Book Sells Well In East Ky., At Least

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's memoirs are selling well in Nancy's Nook.

The Nook, the only bookstore here, sold its 12 copies and has approximately 100 more on order, hoping they will arrive before Nixon's visit this weekend.

He will dedicate a new recreational center that bears his name.

Nixon's schedule calls for his plane to touch down at the London Corbin Airport at 4 p.m., EDT, Saturday. He will spend the night somewhere in Leslie County but officials have declined to reveal the location.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 spectators are expected Sunday for the dedication, but not all of them will get to hear Nixon's speech.

County Judge C. Allen Muncy said only 4,000 persons will be permitted inside the center, and that all but 1,000 of them will be from Leslie County.

Fiscal Court magistrates will be spending most of the week going over the thousands of requests that have been received for the event.

Career Education Class Comments

The Mayfield Messenger newspaper was one of several local businesses who opened their doors to students in a Career Education Class at Murray State University.

These MSU students — mostly teachers who were taking advanced courses in education — toured local businesses last spring. In each case, businessmen and plant managers explained the operation of local businesses, then students were given a working tour of each business.

Purpose of the Career Education Class was to better inform teachers of the actual workings of private industry and business in order for those teachers to better instruct their students.

Since completion of the MSU class, various teacher-students who participated in the tour have offered comments.

Following are some comments from those who participated in the class:

"This has been a very enjoyable and informative course. Not only have I learned a great deal about careers, but I have also accumulated much practical information. This information, I think will be useful both in my teaching and in general."

"All the businesses and industries were interesting. In my opinion, none were boring. Some were more interesting than others, but all served to give us more knowledge and insight into job careers, education and training as well as people's attitudes and desires about their work."

"I think visiting several places is better than spending a great deal of time at only a few places. A wide range of places exposes many more career fields and opportunities. More detail would be learned by more visits to each place, but I think an overall view of more places better serves the purpose of this course."

"My favorite place was the newspaper office, although I enjoyed all the places. I think I learned more there because the work involved in the printing of a newspaper was completely unknown to me."

"I do not feel that we wasted our time at any place, but some of the people spoke more to the point than others. Probably these were the new places to be visited and they were not really sure of what we were especially interested in hearing. Background information is, however, very useful, and even sometimes necessary, in order to get a full picture of the career field."

"This class was an informative, rewarding experience and I enjoyed it very much. I plan to use much of what I learned in my teaching."

"I would like to say that I have been very impressed with the manner in which each of these companies have received us. They have been so open and warm to all of our questions. I have learned something from all of them; perhaps the most interesting to me was the visit to the hospital."

"The places we have visited have given me an insight to a variety of different types of work. This would, I feel, be of benefit in a classroom situation should a student ask about or show an interest in a certain occupation. It also has demonstrated the many options available to a student in trying to decide what type of work to pursue."

"This has been a good class and I don't see a whole lot of room for improvement. I think it would be nice to go to an electric company and perhaps the post office."

"This class was an interesting one. In not many classes will you find the different viewpoints presented by the speakers. They offered a well rounded look at the Mayfield employment community and the problems faced by the different members of that community."

"I feel this is one of the most practical graduate courses I have taken. As a counselor, I feel it was especially beneficial to me in gaining insights that I can give to students."

"Rather than a personal view, I tried to keep an open mind as to the many varied types of work available. The objective of the course, to me, is to absorb various occupations, working conditions, training needed and where to obtain it, and what industry feels is needed to be added to the education curriculum to produce a better employee for them."

"I have thoroughly enjoyed taking this course. It has been a pleasure, as well as educational. I have received a better understanding of the business world and how it works with our educational system. I hope that each business firm knows how much we as educators appreciate their time and effort in making this class a success."

"In the future years I believe it would be most beneficial to visit some places like the health department, Merit, an insurance company, the human resource department, radio station, or Mayfield Printing Company."

"Overall, I think Murray State University has achieved its goal of presenting differing elements of the economic, industrial, and humanitarian world. Two things to improve upon the class are: provide opposing labor input to the management of the two industrial sites; and, an opportunity of one-half hour after the tour, composed of only the class, to describe what has been experienced."

"I have enjoyed this class more than any other class offered by Murray State University. It has been very rewarding in that it has provided me with very much information about places of employment in our own community. The suggestions for things teachers need to concentrate on in their classrooms are certainly appreciated. I enjoyed meeting people that I might be able to contact in the future to help me teach different phases of business education. And, I think that the most important thing that I have gained is a better understanding of the Free Enterprise System in the United States. Berry Craig, Gene Hall, Mike Stevenson, Ray Edwards, and Doug Brown all mentioned the need for Free Enterprise education in our schools. Having received an enormous amount of information on this subject I see that there is little need for anyone to be uneducated about this system of government and that we certainly do need to include this in all areas of study. I am glad that we had to do a project that we could use."

"I really feel that this course is of great value to a teacher. I have enjoyed the meetings and feel that they will help me to relate job opportunities, benefits, salaries, working conditions, qualifications, and preparations needed for certain jobs in this area. I really feel that this course should be offered again. There are many things that a teacher might not be as well informed about as a person who has had some contact with company work."

"I do not feel that I would change the class. I feel that it is organized well and really enjoyed the visit. We, as teachers, need to have as much contact with community as possible and this is one good way to reach or make contact."

"I think the best advantage of this class was to let us (especially those who have never had any job other than school related) to know what is going on outside in the 'real' world. I think we visited a variety of places sufficient to represent a crossview of the work in the community. 'Maybe in the future, they might stress a little more what they expect or desire of us as educators to do in preparing our students for the job market.'"

"I took the class for a different reason from the others, probably. I wanted to learn more about the community and I wanted something interesting to do. I feel that I was successful in both. I enjoyed the classes immensely. I made at least six new friends that otherwise I might have missed. That alone was worth the time and expense for me."

"However, if I were teaching fulltime in the classroom, this course would also be a valuable asset in career counseling. It is a relevant course for anyone who is curious and interested whether one is a teacher or not."

"I would like to take the course again, visiting new places, of course. 'I liked almost everything, especially the industries and businesses which service people instead of things."

"This class was educational and enjoyable, which is too often a rare combination!"

"At the top of my course-rating, I enjoyed the 'realism', i.e., we heard representatives explain the operations of their business or industry and then were given a tour of the facility and shown how the work is produced. I gained much insight from this type of learning."

"Since I live in Mayfield and work with students (who are prospective employees in Mayfield) I feel it is helpful for me to know about the businesses and industries that are located here. This course has given me a well-rounded scope of what is offered here."

"I have enjoyed this class more than any other I have taken. What is more important, I have gained a great deal of knowledge, while enjoying the different tours we have taken."

"This class is one I would recommend to any teacher in this area."

"Evaluation of the Course - This course at a graduate level seems to excel in that it provides the teacher with a working knowledge of the community and the world of work. One would feel that a teacher would gain much more in this type of class rather than the three hour lecture, book reading course. The only comment one would make is that the businesses involved in these presentations be shown appreciation, and be encouraged to keep up the fine job they are doing in sharing their knowledge with the teachers."

Bike Recall Is Announced By Huffy Corporation

Huffy Corporation in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission announced a voluntary recall of certain 24-, 26-, and 27-inch, 10 speed bicycles that may have a defective pedal crank. The recall involves 54,000 bicycles sold between March 1977, and March 25, 1978, under the brand names Huffy, JC Penney, Omega, and Coast King.

The crank is part of a new front free wheeling system that permits the shifting of gears without pedalling. Once the gears are shifted and the rider begins pedalling, substantial pressure is absorbed at the shoulder of the crank. If the bicycle contains a defective crank, the crank shoulder may likely break with possible loss of bicycle control and injury to the rider. The defective pedal crank can be identified by the crank arm that has two flat sides and a rectangular appearance. The finish is smooth and polished.

Owners of these bicycles should contact the retailer, from which they purchased the bicycle, or the nearest Huffy dealer. If this is not feasible, they should write to Huffy Bike Customer Service Department, P.O. Box 1204, Dayton, Ohio 45401.

Don Stringer of the JC Penney store, advises that only JC Penney model numbers 2131, 2141, 2180, 2380, and 2381 may have the defective crank. The model number is found on the left metal toe plate outside the rear wheel. A bicycle with a defective crank should not be used until the defective crank is replaced. JC Penney will replace defective cranks without charge.

To Your Good Health By DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My problem is swelling of the joints of my fingers. They are so painful I can barely use them in my daily duties. I am 70 and feel in good health except for my fingers. I notice a hard swelling at the joints which seem to be getting larger. Can you tell me what this is and what I can do for it? — Mrs. G.S.

This sounds very much like degenerative joint disease. I prefer this term to "osteoarthritis," which although it is a more common term, isn't really accurate. It doesn't mean you are deteriorating, only your finger joints. It commonly affects "hinge" type joints. In fact, there is a jingle to describe the process: "When fringes on hinges impinge, it twinges."

The swellings are called "Heberden's nodes," which develop gradually and appear in the late stage of the disease. The constant wear and tear on the joints over the years gradually erodes the surrounding cartilage, exposing the bone itself. The swelling is a complex process, including bone and cartilage growth (to protect the joint).

The only optimistic note I can add is that the outlook is pretty good. The pain eventually subsides, although the swellings remain. My citing of the little jingle about "hinges" is not intended to dismiss the painfulness this can bring.

What can you do? Conservative treatment is usually effective. By this I mean such things as hot soaks (two to three times a day, especially in the morning). Pain-relieving drugs on the order of aspirin will help, although there are other effective non-narcotic drugs that can be prescribed. We have too many examples of addiction resulting from stronger pain-killers for these to be practical for long term chronic use.

I suggest you see a doctor, preferably a rheumatologist. The problem is well-known, and there are certain isometric exercises that can help keep your joints mobile during this period and prevent crippling.

We don't know what causes these joint disorders. In women there is a suspicious relationship to the timing of menopause. Degenerative joint disease is more common in men under 45 and in women over 45. My booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," discusses it. For a copy send 50 cents to me care of this newspaper along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll mail you one.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes ankle swelling, and is it something seriously wrong? For a week or more I can hardly tie my shoe laces. I am 69 and seem to be in good health otherwise. — T.Y.K.

This implies sluggish leg circulation. Varicose veins are a common cause, and heart failure or liver and kidney disease can contribute. The symptom warrants a visit to your doctor. Varicose veins can be treated effectively, as can the other causes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In recent years I have been bothered by a bursitis condition in my right shoulder due to playing baseball in my younger days. I am 47 and am wondering if an exercise schedule would help. — J.J.R.

If your problem is bursitis the Codman exercises might help. These consist of holding an object such as a flatiron and rotating the arm slowly and in gradually increasing arcs. Then you can creep up the wall with your fingers, going as high as stiffness and discomfort allow. Another is done with the arm outstretched sideways with a rotating motion. Hot wet compresses should relieve pain and pain-relieving medicines as aspirin can be used. As with any exercises pain should be a signal to stop or to modify them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a teenage girl with an overeating problem. So when I gorge myself I drink a mixture of Epsom salts and a cup of warm water. It flushes me out. I've done it for two years. I'm concerned about the effects of this. Are there any? — L.R.

This can cause loss of vital body minerals along with disturbance of your digestive machinery. Incidentally, if you think this is reducing your calorie intake, you're wrong. Most absorption takes place in the upper gut and the laxatives work primarily in the lower sections.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Your Problems By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I am sick and tired of reading letters from people calling you names and complaining about something you printed. For example: The Sex Test.

For openers: You did not devise the Sex Test, nor did you endorse it. You merely printed an updated version which was submitted by three Dayton teenagers who felt they had an obligation to your young readers to let America know where they are coming from.

No one was forced to read the test or take it. Apparently loads of teens wrote to you that you were some kind of creep because they scored badly. These same kids call you "Mother" or "My Best Friend" until you give them advice they don't want to take. Then all of a sudden you are a kook, a nut or a dumbbell. To all those sourballs who gripped, I'd like to say: If you don't like Ann's advice, keep quiet. Remember, you asked for it. — Tyler Texas Teen.

Dear Teen: Thanks for your loyalty, but actually I don't get upset when readers disagree with me. Sometimes they are right, and when they are, I don't mind admitting it. Please read the next letter. I have an interesting twist to it.

Dear Ann: I was sorry you let the cabal of dissenting mothers change your mind about bathing babies in the kitchen sink. You were right the first time and should have stuck to your guns.

In your first answer you cited the possibility of a baby accidentally turning on the hot water faucet. Well, that's exactly what happened to my child when I bathed him in the kitchen sink. He was severely scalded and I'll never forgive myself. Next time don't be so quick to back off, Ann. — San Antonio Mom.

Dear Mom: At least 30 mothers had the same experience and wrote to tell me about it. This is not a huge number, but enough so that I am printing your letter and repeating my original warning. Mothers! You wouldn't wash your dishes in the bathtub — so why bathe the baby in the kitchen sink?

Dear Ann Landers: A woman who works in this rather small office loves to gossip. I really don't trust her because she seems to have so much to say about everybody. I've often wondered what she says about me behind my back. I have tried to avoid getting chummy with her but she has way of getting people to like her whether they want to or not.

Yesterday I had a birthday. This woman came by my desk with a gift. I was so stunned, all I could say was "thank you." After I regained my composure I returned the gift unopened and told her I couldn't accept it. She asked, "Why?" I replied, "A gift should be given to a friend by a friend." She said, "Well, I'm your friend." I told her I didn't think of her that way.

Now I'm afraid I was a little rude. How can I patch this up? — Second Thoughts On The Third Floor.

Dear Second: To refuse to accept a gift merely because you aren't especially fond of a person is a slap in the face. Nothing in your letter indicates that this co-worker ever did you any damage.

I think you should go back to that woman and apologize. In fact, you should bring her a gift and tell her if she hasn't returned yours you'd like to have it. Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Dear Ann: Would you please settle something between my husband and me? He actually believes that his brother's wife is HIS sister-in-law only, not mine. According to him, she and I are only acquaintances.

He said he wouldn't take anyone's word but yours. — Waiting For A Reply.

Dear W.: Authorities are split down the middle on this, and they continue to argue about it. If it's my word he wants (and I'm no authority), I say she's your sister-in-law, too.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know that as a Christian I should go to church, but I get absolutely terrified in crowds. This is a psychological hang-up. Should I do anything about it? — Mrs. T.C.

DEAR MRS. C.: Apparently you have what psychologists would term a phobia, that is, a deep-seated dread of something (in your case, crowds of people). I am not a psychologist, but I do know that many such fears can be treated, and I encourage you to seek help.

You might want to talk with the pastor of your church (or, rather, the church you would be attending if it were not for this problem); he possibly will know of a Christian psychologist in your area who can help you. You should seek out a psychologist who is a Christian because part of the solution to your problem may be spiritual in nature. For example, you may need to discover in a fuller way the truth that God is with you in every situation. "For he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee. So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me" (Hebrews 13: 5-6).

This fear of yours is not just a great inconvenience to you, keeping you from many activities that would make your life more enjoyable. It also is keeping you from great blessing by cutting you off from Christian fellowship. God has given us other Christians to help us, and they also need us to help them grow in Christ.

Commit this matter to God and seek the practical steps necessary to overcome your problem. In the meantime, you might seek to become a part of a small fellowship of Christians, such as a Bible study group that your church might sponsor.

Chicago Woman Takes Matters Into Own Hands

CHICAGO (AP) — Two days after her apartment was ransacked and police still had no suspects, 53-year-old Florence Fisk took matters into her own hands.

She went out on the street in search of the invader who had broken a window in her first-floor apartment and taken her most valued possessions. She found information that led police to the arrest of a suspect, burglary investigators said.

"What's a poor, helpless woman who lives all by herself supposed to do these days?" asked Mrs. Fisk.

"I've lived here for 21 years. I know everyone. I think I've helped just about everyone. So I started talking to people. I had a hunch the burglar probably lived around here," said Mrs. Fisk, a city employee.

She located a woman who said she had seen some of Mrs. Fisk's belongings in a neighborhood apartment. Police said Mrs. Fisk then gave them enough information to arrest Alberto Mendez, 18, who lived there on June 17 and charge him with burglary.

A judge set bond at $3,500, but after a someone posted 10 percent of it, police said Mendez forfeited bond by failing to show up in court last week.

Mrs. Fisk went out hunting again, and found Mendez at a new address. She passed the word to police, who arrested him Thursday, investigators said. Bond was set higher this time, at $10,000.

Mrs. Fisk is still mad.

But by her own description, she knows "how to get things done" after seven years as aldermanic secretary and troubleshooter for former 46th Ward Alderman Chris Cohen, now the Midwest regional administrator for the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

With Cohen's help, Mrs. Fisk was invited to the White House, where she said she had breakfast with first lady Rosalynn Carter and was given a gold bracelet held together by two gold peanuts.

The bracelet, one of her "most prized possessions," along with her color television set, two radios and various jewelry, were stolen by the burglar.

Thus Mrs. Fisk took to detective work with the same zeal she brought to her work, and her possessions have been recovered by police.

But "I'm still so mad I could explode," she said.

State Parks Booked Solid For July Holiday

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Rooms for the Fourth of July weekend at Kentucky state parks have been booked solid for up to a year, and state officials said Tuesday there's little chance of cancellations.

"Chances are slim of cancellation this weekend," said Ronald Schureman, assistant to Parks Commissioner Bruce Montgomery.

"People have booked up to a year in advance, especially the cottages," he said. "It's usually a family get together, or people are taking their vacation."

Schureman said many people think the state has more rooms than it does because there are 15 state resort parks. But there are only 1,000 rooms in the whole system — the same number of rooms offered by one major Louisville hotel, he said.

Camping spaces are still available, and there are 266 more spaces this year with the opening this month of the Kentucky Horse Park campground, for a total of 2,759.

Campers are accepted at the parks on a first-come, first-served basis. Fees range from $4 to $4.50 at most of the parks to $6 at the Horse Park campground.

TVA Plans Its Largest Single Coal Purchase

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Valley Authority this week is making its largest single purchase of coal at prices ranging upwards to $50 per ton and at a total cost of $2.6 billion, officials said Tuesday.

TVA Chairman S. David Freeman will be asked Thursday to approve five long-term contracts calling for delivery of 65 million tons over the next 10 years.

Spokesman Lee Sheppard said 29 million tons is low-sulfur coal produced in West Virginia, southeast Virginia and eastern Kentucky that will be used to meet federal clean-air standards at TVA's Shawnee Power Plant near Paducah, Ky.

Prices for the low-sulfur coal are $17 to $20 per ton higher than the high-sulfur coal that TVA has been using to generate electricity from the Paducah plant.

Last month, William Jenkins resigned as a director of the government-owned utility, complaining that measures to meet the clean air standards would raise the rates of TVA's 2 1/2 million customers by 17 to 25 percent.

TVA is the nation's largest single user of coal, burning more than 40 million tons of year to provide electricity to Tennessee and parts of Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia.

The largest contract up for Freeman's approval is with the Pittston Coal Sales Corp. Under it, TVA would pay Pittston $50.89 per ton for 15 million tons, a total of more than $750 million.

The coal would be produced by Clinchfield Coal Co., a Pittston subsidiary, from 11 underground mines in southwest Virginia beginning next month.

The second largest contract is with Island Creek Coal Co. for 14.2 million tons at a delivered price of $44.42 per ton. It would be produced from Island Creek mines in Logan County, W. Va., and Martin County, Ky., beginning next month.

The highest previous price paid by TVA for long-term coal purchases was $38.50 per ton, Sheppard said.

The three other contracts are for 36 million tons of medium-sulfur coal produced from mines in western Kentucky, said Rex William, TVA's purchasing chief.

Freeman said he rejected an alternative to purchase less expensive coal mined in the Far West for several reasons, including its low energy content and a shortage of rail cars needed to transport it to Paducah.

"The added oil consumption in that transportation and the possible adverse effect on employment in eastern coal mining regions are factors that reinforce a TVA policy of purchasing Eastern coal," he said.

Freeman said the purchase of the low-sulfur coal is essential to comply with federal clean air standards at Shawnee whatever the outcome of a suit challenging TVA's non-compliance in the past.

Williams said the high prices reflect high production costs of underground mining and the demand in the East for coal to meet the stringent government standards.

Ken Reitz Runs Cards To Victory

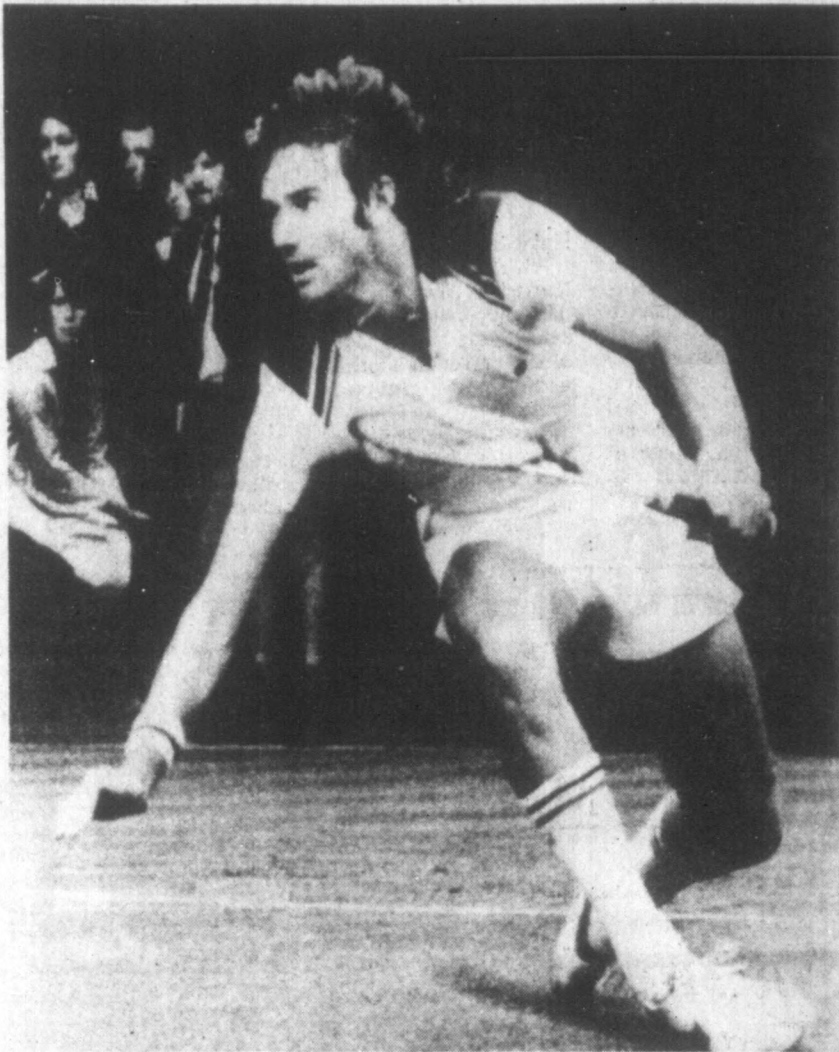

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ken Reitz's two-run double snapped an 11th inning tie and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

Reitz, hitless in five prior at bats, doubled into the left field corner with two outs off losing reliever Kent Tekulve, 4-5. Scoring were Ted Simmons, who had doubled, and Keith Hernandez, who was intentionally walked.

The victory went to Roy Thomas, 1-0. It was the first major league decision for the rookie reliever, acquired by the Cardinals last weekend on waivers from the Houston minor league system.

It was the third straight victory for St. Louis, matching the Cardinals' season-high, achieved twice before.

Pittsburgh tied the score 5-5 with two runs in the ninth on a sacrifice fly by Willie Stargell and an RBI single by Phil Garner. A perfect throw by Cards center fielder Jerry Murphy cut down John Milner at the plate and saved a potential winning run in the inning.

Hallihan To Guide East Tenn.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Hallihan was named to succeed Charles H. "Sonny" Smith as East Tennessee State University's new basketball coach Wednesday.

Hallihan, an assistant under Smith at ETSU the past two years, was appointed to the job by President Arthur DeRosier. Smith, 41, resigned Tuesday to take the coaching job at Auburn University.

DeRosier said he began looking for a successor for Smith last Thursday when it became apparent he was being considered for the Auburn job.

Hallihan, 33, and Smith were assistants at Virginia Tech under Don DeVoe, who was named the University of Tennessee's new basketball coach last March.

Born in Alton, Ill., Hallihan played basketball three years for Miami University in Ohio, graduating in 1969. He also coached one year at a junior college in Illinois.

Volpenhein Takes Three-Stroke Lead At State Amateur Battle

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Jim Volpenhein says that practice, practice and a little more practice is the reason he was the man to beat heading into today's third round of the Kentucky Amateur Golf Championship.

Volpenhein, an 18-year-old freshman-to-be at the University of Kentucky, fired a three-under par 69 Wednesday for a 36-hole score of 139 and a three-stroke lead at the midway point of the tournament.

"Volpenhein credits his success to some recent all-day practice sessions under the tutelage of pro Bob Hamilton.

"We got up at six in the morning and hit balls until eight at night," said Volpenhein. "I hit 1,000 balls a day, and 500 putts a day. It stands to reason that the more times you take the club back and pull it through, the better chance you have of repeating it."

Volpenhein, a Fort Mitchell native, was a stroke back of the lead after an opening round 70.

He had four birdies and one bogey in his tour around the 7,061 yard Lakeside Golf Course here.

Three shots back of the leader at 142 are Steve Rogers of Bowling Green, Russ Cochran of Paducah and Pat Stephens of Richmond. Rogers, a stroke back of the lead after an opening round of 70, settled for a 72 Wednesday. Cochran and Stephens each had 70s.

Stephens, incidentally, is scheduled to join Volpenhein at UK, where Cochran is already a member of the golf team.

Four other golfers were five shots back at even par 144. Rick Cain of Louisville and Kevin Carey of Harold each shot 72 for the second day in a row, while Dave Whitten of Louisville had a 71 to go with an opening 73.

Jodie Mudd had a 74 after being within in a shot of the lead after a 70 on Tuesday.

Within range of the lead was four-time champion Bill Musselman of Louisville, who had a 72 Wednesday for 145. Also at one-over par were Rick Barger and Bill Ogden of Louisville. Whitt Criswell of Mount Sterling, Mike Shelbourne of Paducah and Ralph Landrum of Lexington, a UK teammate of Cochran.

Tom Kalbfleisch of Louisville, the first-day leader with a 69, skied to a 77 Wednesday and was seven shots out of the lead. He was tied at 146 by Danny Biddle of Paris, Scott Beard of Louisville and Harcourt Kemp of Louisville. Biddle surged into contention with a 69 to tie Volpenhein and Bob Jeffers of Versailles for low round of the day.

Jeffers, who struggled to a 78 on Tuesday, was tied with nine others at 147, including defending champion Jimmy Brown of Paducah, who had a 74 Wednesday to go with an opening 73.

San Diego Gets A New Team

Brown Swaps Braves For Celtics

By DAN SEWELL
AP Sports Writer
Buffalo Braves managing partner John Y. Brown and Boston Celtics owner Irving Levin were to meet in Los Angeles today to begin drawing up papers for a deal to swap ownership of their basketball teams and move the Braves to San Diego, informed sources say.

Two well-placed National Basketball Association sources told The Associated Press that a "tentative agreement" was reached between the two owners Wednesday. Brown confirmed late Wednesday that the two had discussed a possible shift, but had no further comment. A member of Levin's family said Levin would be unavailable for comment until sometime today.

Celtics Assistant General Manager Jeffrey Cohen denied the reports.

"Levin has met with Brown to help him expedite a move of the Braves to the (West) Coast. Levin says people have put two and two together to make incorrect assumptions about things. I don't believe there's anything to it," Cohen said.

However, Braves' co-owner Harry Mangurian of Fort Lauderdale, who owns a chain of furniture stores, confirmed late Wednesday night that the shift seemed likely to take place.

"This is a very complicated, complex transaction. There are many number of things that could cause the deal to fall through. But right now things are going very well," Mangurian said.

He added, "The deal makes sense from both sides. Levin would like a team near his home, and John and I are excited about rebuilding at Boston. The Celtics are a legend, and it would be very exciting to be part of it."

If worked out, the transaction would be subject to approval from the NBA Board of Governors. The board is scheduled to meet in Chicago on July 7.

NBA sources say several governors have reacted favorably to the proposed shift.

Levin, a Los Angeles film magnate who took control of the Celtics in 1975, has been under pressure from Boston fans and media who are upset with his unsuccessful efforts to keep the once-dominant Celtics as NBA champs.

Brown, on the other hand, has said his major goal is to become the first owner to win championships in two leagues. He and his former wife, Ellie, ran the American Basketball Association champion Kentucky Colonels.

Brown is said to be "looking forward to the challenge of rebuilding the Celtics."

Jim Brown, a San Diego car dealer who has headed the city's 11th-hour bid for the Braves' franchise, said he had not been told of the reported agreement.

"Regardless, we're going to keep pushing and shoving until the franchise is approved by the Board of Governors," Jim Brown said. "We just put out our first ad in Sunday's papers and we've already received season ticket pledges from 4,069 people."

Although the NBA Houston Rockets were moved from San Diego in 1971, Jim Brown said the Rockets were averaging 6,700 fans, "above the NBA mean then," and that the club was moved because of a lease disagreement with officials of the 14,000-seat San Diego Sports Arena.

"The population has increased since then. This is NBA country," Jim Brown said.

Arena official Phil Quinn said he had not been told whether an agreement had been made.

"I hope it's true," he said.

John Brown, who amassed a fortune running the Kentucky Fried Chicken chain but now owns the Louisville-based Lum's International restaurant chain, bought the Braves from Buffalo businessman Paul Snyder in early 1977. Snyder had owned the club since the NBA expanded to Buffalo in 1970 and had attempted to move the club to Hollywood, Fla., two years ago. The move was blocked by the City of Buffalo in court.

Brown retained control of the club when he sold half-interest to Mangurian last winter.

The Braves exercised an escape clause in their

Buffalo lease at the end of the 1977-78 season. The clause allowed the club to break the lease if season ticket sales fell under 4,500; only 2,300 were sold last season.

Rumors that began almost the day Brown bought the Braves have had the club going to either Louisville or Fort Lauderdale, Brown's winter home. Dallas put in a strong bid for the club after the season's end, but Brown decided against moving the club there because only a 10,000-seat arena was available until 1980, when a new arena is scheduled for completion.

Toronto businessman Ruby Richman's offer to buy the Braves and move them to Canada also was rejected by Brown.

One of many questions raised by the proposed Braves-Celtics shift would be the fate of Red Auerbach, fabled general manager and former coach of the Celtics. Both Brown and Auerbach have reputations for being strong-willed.

However, when Braves' forward Marvin Barnes called Brown "the Red Auerbach of the ABA" earlier this year, Brown replied, "That is the highest compliment anyone in basketball can receive."

Former Boston star Tom Sanders took over the team when Celtics' Coach Tom Heinsohn was fired last year. The Celtics finished third, out of the playoffs, in the NBA Atlantic Division.

The Braves, who finished a distant fourth in the Atlantic Division, were left without a coach when Cotton Fitzsimmons signed as coach of the Kansas City Kings for next season.

Sources said several trades involving front-line players will be made between the Celtics and Braves after the franchise shift is completed.

Today's Wimbledon Belongs 'To The Girls'...

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden swings back into action at the All England Lawn Tennis Club today, but the day really belongs to the girls.

Second-seeded Martina Navratilova, former champion Billie Jean King and Virginia Wade, the defending champion, all play at Wimbledon today.

Navratilova takes on Pam Whytcross of Australia. King plays Marie Pinterova of Czechoslovakia and Wade meets Lesley Bowrey of Australia.

Borg, who had his difficult match in the first round Monday when the 6-foot-7 American Vic Amaya took him to five sets, was to have played Peter McNamara of Australia in his second round match Wednesday. But the match was scheduled last and never got on court.

While Borg had to wait a day, Jimmy Connors, the one-time "bad boy" of the world's tennis courts, is relaxed, happy and at ease with himself. He has under his belt what every aspiring Wimbledon winner craves — a really hard match in the early rounds.

Kim Warwick, a big Australian with a telescopic reach, took Connors to four sets in the second round of the men's singles here Wednesday before Connors won in four sets 6-3, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4. The match took just under 2½ hours, and not until the very last game could Connors relax.

"If I can play like that, I'll be more than satisfied," said Connors. "Everything was going good and I feel relaxed — the little ones are the toughest; the big ones I can handle."

Connors has a free day Thursday, and he'll be spending it away from Wimbledon.

"It's tiring to hang about when you're not playing," is his philosophy. "After practice I'll have some tea, then go home."

Connors is seeded second here this year, just behind Bjorn Borg, the Swede who is trying to emulate Fred Perry in the middle 1930's and win three Wimbledon in a row.

Connors was one of 10 men's seeds who played and won Wednesday. The others were Wojtek Fibak of Poland, Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, Ilie Nastase of Romania, Roscoe Tanner, Brian Gottfried and Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States, Raul Ramirez of Mexico and the Australian pair John Newcombe and John Alexander.

Alexander's match was a first-rounder.

The only seed to lose Wednesday was Buster Mottram of Britain. He was beaten in three sets by Frew McMillan of South Africa and joins the U.S. trio of Dick Stockton, Arthur Ashe and John McEnroe — all of whom lost in the first round — on the sidelines.

In the women's singles, both top-seeded Chris Evert and third-seeded Evonne Goolagong had drawn first-round byes and played their opening matches in the second round Wednesday. And both won easily.

Evert beat Helena Anliot of Sweden 6-1, 6-0 — a score that didn't do full justice to the Swedish girl's efforts. She scarcely played a bad shot throughout the match, but Evert was always that much better.

U.S. Open Win A Problem For North?

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — If you think Andy North is feeling ready to tear apart the professional golf tour now that he's won the U.S. Open, think again.

Despite the wealth of prestige and publicity attached to the event, North realizes that it is simply one tournament and that the winner is not in very good shape to excel in the immediate future.

"I haven't had a chance to practice at all," said North, meaning since his Open victory June 18 before today's first round of the $225,000 Western Open.

"I've just been running around with my head cut off, basically."

On the three days after his Open triumph he had a golf outing in Montreal, another in Detroit and a clinic in Florida, all separated by plane flights.

The next day he began play in the Canadian

Open. He earned all of $556.16 for finishing in a tie for 53rd place.

"Needless to say, I wasn't prepared for Canada," he said. And, after shooting a three-over par 75 Wednesday in the pro-am event on the 7,063-yard Butler National course, North said he's not ready for the Western Open either.

"Physically, I'm not swinging very well right now," North said Wednesday after having spent the two previous days at a news conference and a golf outing. "And mentally, I'm a little down because of all the excitement of the last few days."

North, the seventh leading money-winner on the 1978 tour, feels "the guys in the Top 10" on the earnings list are the favorites in the Western, won for the second time last year by Tom Watson, this year's top money-winner.

DIDN'T GET AWAY — This time "the big one" didn't get away when Bill Joe Reed, North 13th Street, Mayfield, sank his hook. Reed's catch weighed 39 and a-half pounds and was caught below Kentucky Dam on Tuesday. The Mayfield angler said he's been fishing a long time and this is the largest fish he's ever landed. At first he thought the hook was hung on the bottom but "all of a sudden" the "big boy" started moving. Reed pulled the catfish into the boat with minimal effort. (MESSENGER PHOTO)

Young Houston Star Shuts Out Reds, 3-0

HOUSTON (AP) — On an emotional roller coaster since being called up from the minor leagues last July 24, Houston Astros pitcher Tom Dixon reached a peak in his latest outing.

Dixon, used as a reliever by Houston Manager Bill Virdon for the first six weeks of the 1978 season, held Cincinnati to four hits and picked up his first major league shutout in Houston's 3-0 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night.

"It's a super feeling to shut out a great team like Cincinnati," Dixon said. "I changed speeds well and tried to challenge the hitters."

Bob Watson slammed a three-run home run into the leftfield seats with two out in the seventh inning to account for Houston's runs off losing pitcher Red Norman, 8-5.

Watson's blast followed singles by Dixon and Jesus Alou and Terry Puhl's fielder's choice as the Astros took only their second victory in seven games.

Dixon, 4-3, was the last pitcher named to the Astros staff at the end of spring training after asking not to be sent down to Charleston of the International League for personal reasons.

In 1933, Tex Carleton pitched 16 scoreless innings for the Cardinals against the New York Giants and did not figure in the decision. The Giants won, 1-0, in the 18th.

$4.3 Million U.K. Athletic Budget

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The University of Kentucky Athletics Association has adopted a $4.3 million budget for the fiscal year that begins Saturday, an increase of more than $1 million over the current year's budget.

"It is up considerably for several reasons," UK President Otis Singletary said Wednesday. "You have an additional home football game, increased ticket prices and the addition of the women's athletic program. It is up a little over a million dollars from last year because of those three things."

In other business, the board accepted a $66,684 bid from WKYT-TV in Lexington for delayed telecasts of Kentucky's six football games this fall on a one-season trial basis.

Nearly half of the athletic budget — $2.02 million — was allocated to the football program, which generated more than $2.4 million in just five home games last year.

Men's basketball, which earned $862,000 last season, was budgeted for $660,650, and women's basketball, which earned $55,000 last year, was budgeted for $159,000.

Singletary said no real effort had been made last season to sell tickets or generate other revenues from the women's basketball program.

He said an effort must be made to see how much money could be realized from women's basketball.

The rest of the budget was allocated to minor sports, administrative expenses, sports camps, and general equipment expenses.

The women's athletic program, incorporated into the athletic association to meet federal guidelines, was allocated $314,850 above the amount earmarked for women's basketball.

That included $185,000 from the University's general fund.

Singletary said that amount "is money that goes to the absorption of the women's athletics program. That is not all the money in women's athletics. Let me make that quite clear."

The budget included a $100,000 reserve for women's athletics, which "could go in a number of directions," he said. "We could decide to increase women's scholarships or expand into women's swimming, for instance."

The total budget for women's athletics was $502,050, compared to $178,933 in the current fiscal year.

Singletary asked and was given authority "to allocate some funds from the athletic reserve and put them in two accounts. I don't have a specific amount."

He said he was looking toward next year, when Kentucky again would play just five home football games.

"There is no doubt that will cause a tremendous deficit," he said. "This is not an authorization to spend it. I'll be back to you" for that authority.

The undetermined reserve would be placed in a physical plant account and a general reserve account to cushion the impact of next year's expected deficit.

WKYT-TV's bid for television coverage was the only one received, said Bernie Vonderheide, of the university's press, radio and television committee.

It guarantees $8,614 per game for the university and more money would be realized with formation of a regional network.

The games would be televised after 10:30 p.m.

Vonderheide said television rights possibly would be obtained for delayed telecasts of four of UK's five road games. The University of Tennessee "steadfastly refused" a proposal to televise Kentucky's game in Knoxville, he said.

The Lexington station already has obtained WHAS-TV in Louisville for its network arrangements with WHAS-TV in Louisville and is seeking stations in Bowling Green, Hazard, Paducah, Cincinnati and Huntington, W.Va., Vonderheide said.

Local Diamond Results

Two previously unpublished scores from Tuesday night's action at the Mayfield park, in play with the local summer softball and baseball leagues, have been reported.

In that Tuesday-night play, Dalton Lamp bested Ingersol-Rand, 13-6, in the National League, and Gibson's Discount knocked off Fulcher's Pest Control, 7-3.

Coaches, managers, and/or league scorekeepers are reminded that to have the results of their games published, they need to call their scores into the Messenger office at 247-1515 by no later than 9 a.m. on the morning following their game.

Scores may also be called into the 247-1515 answering service number, after normal office hours.

Put Two Triple Crown Winners Together To Get 'Six Crowns'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Quick, all you mathematicians out there; add one Triple Crown to another Triple Crown and what do you get? Six crowns, naturally — and a race horse.

The horse is a beautiful chestnut 2-year-old filly, daughter of two great racing champions — Secretariat, who swept the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes in 1973, and Chris Evert, who won the filly version of the Triple Crown in 1974 by capturing the Acorn, Mother Goose and Coaching Club American Oaks. Her name: Six Crown, naturally.

Unraced, this regally bred filly is being carefully nurtured at Aqueduct and pointed for her maiden race in late summer, probably in August at Saratoga.

Meanwhile, the young woman for whom she was named will be striving to retain her position as the world's foremost woman tennis player by recapturing the Wimbledon title during the next fortnight and repeating her triumph in the U.S. Open.

Chris Evert, the race horse, was retired for breeding purposes in April 1975, after winning 10 of her 15 starts, earning $679,475 and scoring a 50-length triumph over Miss Musket in a $350,000 match race at Hollywood Park.

It was ordained that she should be mated with Secretariat, hailed the greatest race horse of the generation, who accented his Triple Crown campaign with a 31-length victory in the Belmont Stakes. He later was syndicated for $6.1 million, then a record.

Six Crown's racing career will be watched with the keenest interest.

Brewers Use 'Lung Power' To Take Double Sweep From The Yankees

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Lung for lung, Milwaukee fans will match their long-yell power with any others in baseball.

"These fans are really fantastic," said Jerry Augustine after listening Wednesday night to some of the loudest cheers ever to ring through venerable County Stadium.

One of the largest home crowds in Brewer history — 39,283 — showed its appreciation and enthusiasm for a double-header sweep over the New York Yankees. Augustine, especially, got an earful, since he pitched the 7-2 clincher after the 5-0 opening-game victory.

As Augustine wrapped up his heat seven-hitter, most of the fans stood and chanted, "Augie! Augie! Augie!" The cheering and chanting continued until the last Brewer had walked off the field into the dugout.

Brewer fans certainly have had something to cheer about this season, with their team currently in second place in the American League East, 12 games over the .500 mark. Before this year, the best they could do was seven games over the break-even level. That was last year.

In other American League games, the Oakland A's edged the Texas Rangers 2-1 in 15 innings; the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 4-3 in the first game of a double-header before losing the nightcap 2-1; the Chicago White Sox stopped the Seattle Mariners 4-3; the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and the California Angels turned back the Kansas City Royals 9-5.

Ben Ogilvie smashed a three-run homer in the seventh inning and Mike Caldwell hurled a six-hitter to lead Milwaukee's first game victory. The Brewers won the nightcap as Sal Bando singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning, helping the Brewers overtake the Yankees for second place in the AL East.

A's 2, Rangers 1
Mike Edwards' 15th-inning single scored pinch-runner Rob Picciolo from second base to lead Oakland over Texas. Wayne Gross opened the 15th by drawing a walk off losing pitcher Len Barker, 1-3.

Picciolo ran for him and advanced to second on a sacrifice. Barker then walked Glenn Burke and got Joe Wallis on a fly ball before Edwards singled to left to end the 4-hour and 2-minute marathon.

Winning pitcher Pete Broberg, 8-6, held the Rangers scoreless on two hits over the final five innings.

Tigers 4-1, Indians 3-2
Ron LeFlore cracked a pair of RBI singles to lead Detroit over Cleveland in the first game of their doubleheader. Detroit took the lead for good with three runs in the third inning, when LeFlore had one of his run-scoring hits.

Andre Thornton drilled a tie-breaking RBI single in the sixth inning to give the Indians their second-game victory. Thornton's hit made a winner of Mike Paxton, 5-4.

White Sox 4, Mariners 2
Jorge Orta hit his 10th homer of the season, a three-run blast in the sixth, to lead Chicago over Seattle. Orta's homer wiped out a 2-0 Seattle lead, scoring Ralph Garr and Bob Molinaro ahead of him. Garr and Molinaro had singled with one out off Seattle loser Glenn Abbott, 3-5.

Blue Jays 3, Orioles 2
Jim Clancy and Tom Murphy combined on a five-hitter and Rico Carty smashed a two-run homer to lead Toronto past Baltimore and a sweep of their four-game series. The loss was Baltimore's seventh in a row. The Orioles had won 18 of 20 games going into last Friday night's game in Boston, where they started their losing streak.

Toronto's four-game sweep, including a 24-10 victory Monday night, and a double-header sweep Tuesday night, represented the team's longest winning streak in its two-year history.

Angels 9, Royals 5
Dave Chalk collected four hits and drove in a pair of runs to lead California over Kansas City in a game delayed 40 minutes by a power failure.

Kansas City starter Paul Splittorff was knocked out in the second inning, when the Angels scored for four runs to hand the left-hander the loss.

Cey Stars In Two Departments

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Ron Cey had just hit his second three-run homer in two nights, both of them game-winners for the Los Angeles Dodgers, but everyone was talking about his fielding.

Cey had a tough play to help keep Atlanta from scoring in the fourth inning and an even tougher play to get the final out of the game in the Dodgers' 3-2 victory over the Braves Wednesday night.

"That's why he's been an All-Star third baseman," said knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 8-9, who lost another tough one as he went the route for the Braves and gave up just three hits.

In the fourth, Cey fielded a grounder in foul territory behind third and forced Biff Pocoroba at second before Steve Garvey made an over-the-shoulder catch of a bases-loaded foul pop to end the inning.

And with two out in the ninth and the tying run on third, Cey charged a slow chopper by Gary Matthews and fired to Garvey to get the fired outfielder for the final out.

Cey's homer, his 10th of the season, came in the third and was off a high knuckleball, one of Niekro's few mistakes of the game. The homer scored Bill Russell, who bounced a single up the middle, and Garvey, who walked. After the third, Niekro limited LA to Dave Lopes' single.

Cey has provided all the firepower in the Dodgers' two victories over Atlanta in this series. Tuesday night, the Dodgers beat Atlanta 3-0 on Cey's three-run blast.

In other National League games, St. Louis shaded Pittsburgh 7-5 in 11 innings, Chicago nipped New York 9-8 in 10, Philadelphia downed Montreal 7-5, Houston blanked Cincinnati 3-0 and San Francisco split a twinbill with San Diego, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the nightcap 4-1.

Dodger starter Burt Hooton, 7-6, went six innings and got the victory, and Terry Forster, the third Dodgers pitcher to work in the 100-degree heat, got his 10th save.

Cards 7, Pirates 5
St. Louis extended its winning streak to three games, matching its longest of the season, on Ken Reitz's two-run double in the 11th. The double drove in Ted Simmons and Keith Hernandez, who scored three runs for the Cards, including one on a solo homer in the second.

Roy Thomas, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, won his first major league decision, working two innings.

Cubs 9, Mets 8
Ray Burris, 5-5, normally a starter, quelled a ninth-inning rally by the Mets and got the victory in the 10th when Mick Kelleher's bases-loaded suicide squeeze scored

Dave Kingman.

The Cubs had snapped a 5-5 tie with three runs in the eighth, including Kingman's two-run single, but the Mets knotted it again with three runs in the ninth. Elliott Maddox's two-run homer keyed that rally. Reliever Butch Metzger, 1-3, was the loser.

Phils 7, Expos 5

Garry Maddox drove in three runs, two with a homer, in Philadelphia's five-run seventh, to make Jim Lonborg, 7-5, a winner. Maddox also singled in a run in the eighth.

Lonborg gave up one run on four hits through six innings, and Tug McGraw, the third Phils pitcher, got his fourth save. Reliever Mike Garman, 0-3, was the victim in the seventh inning and took the loss.

Astros 3, Reds 0
Tom Dixon, 4-3, hurled a four-hitter and did not allow a Reds runner past second. Joe Morgan had two of the Reds' four hits, a pair of doubles. Bob Watson provided all of Houston's offense with a three-run homer in the seventh inning off Fred Norman, 8-5.

Giants 4-1, Padres 2-4
San Francisco made a loser of Randy Jones, 5-7, in the first game as Larry Herndon had four hits and scored two runs. Jim Barr, 4-4, gave up six hits in 72-3 innings and drove in a run with a bases-loaded sacrifice bunt in the second inning.

San Diego salvaged a split on Dave Winfield's two-run homer in the first and some strong relief pitching by former Giant John D'Acquisto, who got his fifth save. Jerry Turner also drove in two runs with a single in the sixth.

Rick Barry's Done It Again

The Original 'Basketball Gypsy'

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The original basketball gypsy has done it again.

Rick Barry, who was switching teams and jumping leagues back in the 1960s before free agency made such action fashionable, has bolted the Golden State Warriors for the second time in his far-flung career, this time heading for Houston and a two-year contract for a reported $1 million.

In the meantime he'll be furthering his broadcasting career, working for CBS this summer as a commentator on a number of events, including golf and tennis. But the agreement with the Rockets means he won't be taking to the airwaves on a full-time basis for awhile, even though at the age of 34 Barry concedes his "future is in broadcasting, not basketball."

"This is a new life for me and a tremendous opportunity," Barry said of his decision to play out his option with the Warriors, test the free-agent waters and then sign with Houston.

"I was very happy over the last six years at Golden State," said Barry. "But basketball is a business just like everything else and we were unable to work out a contract with the Warriors."

That surprised most basketball people. According to the Warriors, they had reached a verbal agreement with Barry on at least two occasions. What's more, Barry lives in the Bay area and had said he wanted to end his playing career there.

Warriors guard Phil Smith, however, was not surprised at losing a teammate.

"Rick is a businessman type," observed Smith. "You know he was going to do the best he could for himself. After all, he was the first to do this kind of thing."

If there is one word to describe Barry, it is businesslike. He is a cool, calculating individual who weighs all the angles before making a move or issuing a statement. No player in the National Basketball Association can sit in a locker room, just minutes after playing a rough 48 minutes, and analyze a game the way Barry does.

That ability to put words together clearly and concisely and provide instant analysis that makes sense has served Barry well in his TV work. He has done the sports segment on local news shows in the past, but now seems headed for bigger things as a network commentator.

"He's very glib, he reads well and he ad libs well," said Don Wiedereche, a spokesman for CBS Sports. "He likes to talk. He has a very good on-air presence and he knows how to handle himself."

Which is exactly why the Rockets wanted him.

"Very few players have what I call 'presence,'" said Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke. "By that I mean a great overview of what's going on. Oscar Robertson had it. Maybe two or three other players today have it. But Rick Barry obviously knows the game of basketball."

Public Policy May Now Be Affected By Public Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can influence public policy.

But most people don't take advantage of their right to do so.

Under the law, federal agencies are required to give the public a chance to comment on proposed rules and regulations. Only the most controversial plans draw more than a few dozen letters and, even then, the number is tiny by comparison with the overall population.

Officials generally say they believe they are getting more comments than they used to, but no one could provide any figures.

The number of people interested depends on the subject — only five comments were received on a plan to set new standards for canned clingstone peaches; almost 5,000 came in when the Department of Agriculture proposed letting meat contain tiny pieces of ground bone.

The record shows that public participation CAN influence public policy.

When the Federal Highway Administration, for example, proposed converting road signs to metric measurements by Dec. 31, 1979, at a cost of $100 million, it got 5,000 comments, nearly all negative.

The idea was shelved. A USDA proposal for grading ice cream also was dropped, when it became clear from the comments that people did not understand what the plan would mean.

The first indication that a rule is in the offing comes when the proposed regulation is published in the Federal Register, a daily newspaper issued by the government. The more controversial issues generate publicity in the news media and from consumer groups. That publicity pulls comments.

Clingstone peach standards were not controversial. Hence, five letters. Four of the comments were in favor; the fifth was from a letter writer who complained that peaches stored in the refrigerator after opening often spoil. The standards were approved.

Ground bone was controversial. The USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service got 4,532 comments on the plan to allow meat to be mechanically deboned — leaving some ground bone in the meat. There were 3,826 comments from individual consumers. Their major concern was that the meat be clearly labeled and meet certain nutritional requirements. The USDA decided to okay the plan, but included labeling and nutritional requirements.

Here's a look at some other proposals, the number of comments received and the results:

— A Federal Trade Commission rule allowing price advertising in the eye care industry: 1,000 comments received, mainly in favor. Pending.

— A Treasury Department regulation allowing sale of wine in bottles larger than 3 liters: 89 comments, 95 percent in favor. Approved.

— A National Credit Union Administration rule letting credit unions make long-term mortgage loans: 70 comments, all consumer comments in favor, a few, from banks, opposing. Approved.

— A Consumer Product Safety Commission plan to exempt some powdered aspirin products from child-resistant packages: 36 comments, more than half in favor. Approved.

IH Company Plans Expansion In Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — International Harvester Co. plans a $26 million expansion and modernization of its foundry here, the company announced Tuesday.

Included in the project will be an automatic molding system that will produce castings weighing up to 1,000 pounds each. A 30,500-square-foot building will be constructed to house the system, the company said.

"This is the biggest thing to happen in the foundry industry in 30 years," said William A. Salzmänn, plant manager.

Work is already under way on the modernization and limited production is expected to begin in June 1980, Salzmänn said.

The project is not expected to create jobs, Salzmänn said. The foundry currently employs about 1,850.

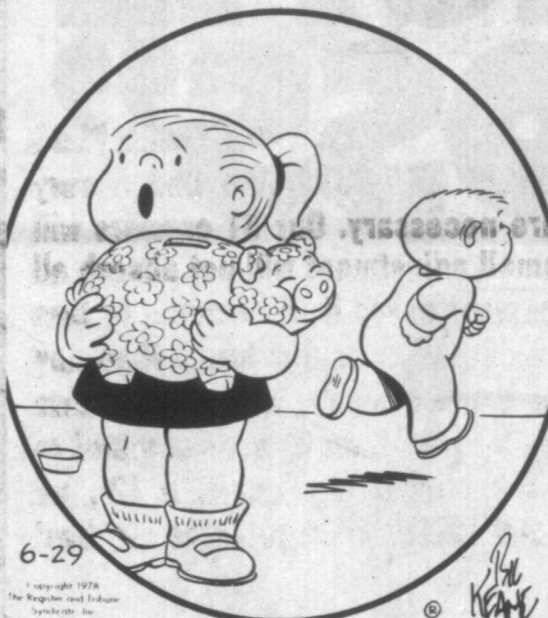

Salzmänn said the foundry modernization will give the company the capacity to meet all of International Harvester's needs and will enable the company to seek outside business.

"In the past, we've depended solely on the agriculture industry — tractors and combines — which is cyclical," said Salzmänn. "We want to get away from that so we'll have even production all year."

Never use a can of fruit or vegetables if one or both of its ends are swollen. This doesn't ordinarily happen, but it may — especially if the can has been forgotten and stored for an overlong time.

Focus On Auto Insurance

Getting Faults Out Of 'No-Fault'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A 30-year-old married woman paid for six months of auto insurance last fall. The premium, with her ticket-free, accident-free record over the previous five years, was $121.40.

The bill for the next six months just arrived at her suburban Miami home. With prices for almost everything else going up, her insurance cost dropped, to $74.10.

Florida appears to be taking a big, common fault out of no-fault insurance — it frequently hasn't delivered on the promise of lower insurance rates.

Starting in 1971 in Massachusetts, 16 states adopted no-fault, a new type of coverage designed to limit the cost of insurance by limiting the number of lawsuits filed after accidents. In state after state, it was promoted as a way to cut insurance costs for consumers.

But by late last year, motorists' insurance rates generally were still rising — though not necessarily as fast as they would have without no-fault.

Nationwide, rates increased almost 50 percent from August 1975 to August 1977. Last year, some Miami drivers paid $1,000 a year.

Now, many insurance companies around the nation have made up for 1976 losses with large 1977 profits, and rate increases seem to be tapering off.

Florida is reaping an especially big bonus — partly because of strenuous efforts in the state capital to straighten out the way no-fault insurance works.

Florida has cut the number of injury suits over auto accidents by dropping dollar restrictions on them in favor of a ban on all lawsuits except those involving serious injury or death.

It also set up a task force to crack down on fraudulent claims.

The results are dramatic.

Figures for the year ending March 31, compiled by the Insurance Services Office, a national industry group, show:

— Florida's personal injury protection claims — the basic no-fault coverage — dropped 4.4 percent compared to 1.6 percent nationwide.

— Florida's average personal injury loss dropped 1.4 percent compared to a 13.5 percent increase nationwide.

Based on that experience, the state ordered $60 million in rebates and rate cuts.

"There's obviously something going on countrywide as well," says Mark Trafton, the state's chief actuary. "But Florida seems to be doing better than countrywide."

State Farm Insurance Cos., the nation's and Florida's largest insurer, recently declared a total national dividend of $170 million, but its return rate in Florida — 27.6 percent — was among the highest in the nation. Washington, D.C., was first, Florida second.

In addition, State Farm cut rates here by 8.4 percent June 10 — one of several states in which spokesman David Phillips said it made cuts.

Phillips said several developments helped keep rates down nationally — notably a decline in the number of claims and a pendulum effect on rates after they had gone up steadily for years.

He added, though, that "no-fault helped. It obviously had a role."

And, he said, if you were a Florida customer of State Farm, "you'd be substantially better off than you were a year or so ago."

Last fall, State Farm declared a 6.1 percent dividend in Florida. Before that, he said, "we hadn't declared dividends in Florida for a great many years."

How did it happen?

Since 1971, no-fault insurance systems have been adopted by 16 states — Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Utah. They aim at lowering costs by compensating accident victims through their own insurance companies, and by limiting the conditions under which lawsuits can be filed.

When enacted in 1973, Florida's no-fault law tried to limit the number of suits by requiring a driver to have $1,000 in medical bills before suing. But investigations showed a major flaw — one that has turned up in other states and has prompted New York, for example, to adopt the same type of countermeasure as Florida:

The law was that some drivers, egged on by doctors and lawyers, jacked up their claims so they could sue. That only raised costs, and forced rates up.

In 1976, lawmakers removed the $1,000 threshold and restricted lawsuits to cases in which there were serious injuries. Today, suits may be filed only in cases of death or the most serious permanent injuries — and this year, the definitions of eligible cases were tightened even more, effective next Jan. 1.

Early in 1977, Florida created a strike force to crack down on fraudulent claims. It has opened 893 cases in 15 months, and has given prosecutors 47 suspects. Fourteen people have been convicted.

The 1976 law ordered state officials to gauge the effect of the changes and review rates. On the basis of company profits, it has ordered the rebates and rate cuts.

One benefit is that mutual insurance firms like State Farm are paying dividends as credits on the next insurance bill. That translates this way for the 30-year-old woman:

Last fall, her premium of $129.40 was softened by an $8 rebate from State Farm. The June rate cut, and a further dividend of $35.70 left this bottom line on her bill: Pay $74.10. In six months, her rate dropped $47.30.

Full-Scale Rioting At Mexican Prison

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Student demonstrations over alleged police brutality erupted into full-scale rioting Monday night and officials said federal troops were called in to try to stop burning and looting.

The Matamoros mayor appeared briefly at the protest demonstration at city hall to talk to the protesters, but was driven away by a shower of rocks and tomatoes.

Late Monday night, buildings and cars were reported burning out of control in this city across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, at the southernmost tip of Texas. Firefighters reportedly were unable to enter the area.

Witnesses said the students had taken over city hall and the jail and were freeing prisoners.

ERA Advocates Want More Women Coal Miners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Equal rights advocates are campaigning to send more women underground as coal miners.

Armed with class-action lawsuits and tactics to improve enforcement of state anti-discrimination laws, the equal rights groups are aiming their drive at growing job opportunities.

The federal government says as many as 100,000 jobs will open in Appalachia alone by 1985 as coal production increases to relieve U.S. dependence on oil imports.

At a conference sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the Coal Employment Project, a coalition of equal rights advocates, told industry representatives and government officials Monday that the estimated 1,000 women who mine coal are not enough.

Five years ago, women coal miners numbered virtually zero.

Despite the improvement since then, doors remain closed to women at many mines in coal-rich areas of the nation, said Betty Jean Hall, director of the coalition, based in Oak Ridge, Tenn. She called for finding a way "to deal with this problem."

According to the project's estimates, men accounted for 100 percent of the nation's 190,000 coal mining jobs in 1973. Today, by its count, men still make up more than 99.5 percent of the mining workforce.

The project and other groups lodged a discrimination complaint with the federal government last month against 153 mines in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee.

CEP wants the companies to hire one woman for every three men — until 20 percent of their miners are women. That ratio is patterned after a recent settlement between Island Creek Coal Co. and the Kentucky Human Rights Commission.

The Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs, which is looking into CEP's discrimination complaint, can act against companies that do business with the government by threatening to take away their contracts.

Few express doubt that there will be enough women to fill all the mining slots made available to them. For many, the pay is too good to turn down.

It was money that made Linda Brooks eager to work 980 feet below ground at a Consolidation

Coal Co. mine in Middlesboro, Ky. The 29-year-old divorced mother was making $23 a day as a sander at a mobile home factory until she joined Consolidation last fall.

"Now I make $66.38 a day," Mrs. Brooks said at the conference, in a tone of pride mixed with mild disbelief.

Mrs. Brooks is one of 15 women among 385 male workers at the Consolidation mine. She said her employer and her male co-workers neither harass nor resent her.

The Coal Employment Project is working to dispel two beliefs keeping women out of the mines: that women are not physically capable of mine work and that women working underground are bad luck.

"Generally, the women are no different than men," said John Yorke, vice president for employee relations at Island Creek. "Many (women) are not suited for mining. Some are not as productive as we want, but some do very well. You could say the same about men."

DEAR HELOISE:

Anyone familiar with thrift shops knows what a marvelous source they are of used and frequently high-quality merchandise — bicycles, books, household goods and clothing of every description — at a fraction of its original cost.

Recently I had a special reason to bless my local thrift shop, and would like to share my experience with others who may find themselves in similar straits.

Due to hand surgery I was sporting a cast and bandage the general dimensions of a honeydew melon, and no sleeve in my entire wardrobe would squeeze over it.

Since men's shirts have deep armholes and wide sleeves until they taper at the elbow, I hid myself to the nearest thrift shop where, for a mere dollar or so each, I bought several men's shirts and sweaters to coordinate with my slacks and a friend's borrowed poncho.

My daughter then hemmed the shortened sleeves to a becoming length and squared off any shirttails.

The gloriously economical result? I had a number of mix-and-match outfits in which I could socialize and return to work for one-armed duties, and for less than the price of one new blouse, had I been fortunate enough to find one to fit my "melon."

Now when you're cleaning out closets and updating wardrobes, before tossing out that outmoded hair dryer, the clothes that no longer fit your kids, or the paperbacks overcrowding your bookshelves, consider what such items might mean to those less fortunate than you are.

Thrift shops, local churches, senior citizens' homes, etc., would be deeply grateful for your donations. — Faithful Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's an idea to make a room more cheerful for a shut-in.

I broke my leg, so most of my time is spent on my bed. In my bedroom I have several non-blooming plants, so I used a "twistem" (paper-covered short piece of wire) and wired an artificial colorful bloom to several of them.

Don't decorate too many plants or your room will look cluttered and spoil the effect. — Mary Layman.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found a great cure for a smelly garbage disposal. Feed the disposal a few small pieces or slivers of scented soap. Between the scent and the suds, odors disappear. — Mrs. M.J. Fitzgibbons

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a hint for freshly chopped "parsley in seconds." Cut washed parsley stems off in desired pieces, and keep for soup greens in strong plastic bag.

Then place the rest of the parsley in another strong plastic bag and freeze. Next day, take out and just crumble in the bag. All the parsley will be in small pieces just as if had been hand-chopped. Saves time and you can take out the amount needed anytime. — Mrs. J.J.J.

DEAR HELOISE:

Another use for bleach and fabric softener bottles: Hold the container by its handle and cut off the bottom at an angle. Voila, a perfect sand scoop for the beach or sandbox. — Kathy Carr

RATE CASE RELEASE

The effects of the inflationary climate in which Western Kentucky Gas Company has been forced to operate have made it necessary for the company to file a rate increase with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky, according to W.H. Neal, President. In preparing the proposed new rates, WKG has endeavored to protect the small consumer of natural gas. To accomplish this, the present rate structure has been revised to eliminate a reduction in rates as consumption increases, which is more closely in keeping with the conservation program of the company.

Under the proposed rates, the average residential customer would have an increase of approximately 71¢ per month. Residential consumers who use less than 3,000 cubic feet per month would actually realize a slight decrease in their monthly bill. The average commercial customer would have an increase of approximately $5.27 per month.

Mr. Neal stressed that WKG will continue its efforts to provide all customers with the best natural gas service at the lowest possible cost.

Auto Vandalized Tuesday Night At Baseball Park

An automobile, parked at the baseball park, was vandalized Tuesday night, according to a Mayfield Police Department report.

Chuck W. Bugg, Route 2, Wingo, told police Wednesday that he had parked his vehicle at the park Tuesday night and when he returned he found the glove compartment had been broken into. Bugg reported, however, that nothing was missing.

Police are investigating.

SUGGESTION AWARDS - William Graham, Clinton Chiles and Glyn Parchman are three employees of the General Tire plant here who recently were awarded for company suggestions.

Former Hollywood Movie Mogul Receives Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Begelman, who as head of Columbia Pictures was the main player in a scandal that shook the entire movie industry, was sentenced Wednesday to three years' probation, fined $5,000 and ordered to do one year's community service for stealing $40,000 from the studio.

"I have been subjected to the judicial system and I found it fair," said Begelman as he left the courthouse in nearby Burbank.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Murphy said that Begelman, 58, would not draw any jail time unless he violates the terms of his probation.

"It almost looks like a death wish," Murphy said of Begelman, pointing out that his record up to that point had been clean. "You are neither violence-prone, nor are you case-hardened," he told Begelman.

Richard Rogan, one of Begelman's attorneys, said a panel of judges had suggested that Begelman be required to produce a film documenting the dangers of the drug PCP.

Soviet Researchers See Women's Revolution There

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet researchers say a women's revolt is under way in the Soviet family as overworked wives begin to stand up for their rights.

Sociologists say Russian women work longer hours than men, earn less money, and are getting fed up with their traditional role as the docile half of the household.

There is no organized women's liberation movement in the Soviet Union. Officially, women and men are already equal under the Soviet constitution and law, but it doesn't always work out that way.

"From a situation of equality, the young wife lands in a family in which her husband and her in-laws frequently expect her to voluntarily assume the duties of a servant and do all the housework," Victor Perevedentsev, Russia's best-known social researcher, wrote recently in the Literary Gazette.

He said Russian men average about a 50-hour work week, but the wife works about 80 hours on the job and at home.

"Today's young wife as a rule cannot put up with this," he said. "Women are rebelling. And of course they are correct in doing so."

"The husband and wife often determine domestic duties virtually in open combat with the wife taking the offensive and the husband defending himself, supported by traditions that say housework degrades a man."

A rising divorce rate, a falling birthrate and a heavy workload for married women have caused Soviet sociologists to search for the reasons for a breakdown in the traditional family structure.

The divorce rate has risen from 104 per 1,000 marriages in 1960 to 332 in 1976, or a rate of one divorce in three marriages, about the same as in the United States. Perevedentsev said women initiate 61 percent of the divorces and tend not to remarry.

Sociologist Yuri Rurikov wrote in the publication Questions of Philosophy Voprosi Filosofii that women make up 52 percent of the work force.

"Women on the average are engaged in less-qualified work than men and their overall social standing is lower than that of men," he said.

On the average, he says, women earn almost a third less than men and get retirement pensions about one-fourth smaller than those of men. He said the falling birthrate is "a spontaneous and unique reply by women to the growth of their burdens."

Writing in the monthly Zhurnalist, sociologist Alexander Meliksetyan cited a survey which he said showed that husbands have already surrendered to the women's revolt.

"Ninety of 100 wives surveyed claimed to be heads of their families, and their husbands agreed. Ten husbands claimed to be heads of their families, but the wife agreed only in the case of one man," he wrote. "When the pollsters offered this patriarch his choice of prizes, he turned to ask his wife which he should choose."

Nashville Housing Fire Kills Two

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fire raced through an East Nashville apartment complex Tuesday night, killing two persons and damaging 25 units, fire officials said.

Police reported at least two other persons were injured, one critically, in the fire at Cavalier Apartments.

The city fire marshal's office is investigating the blaze. A police report said the fire started in the hallway of the apartment complex.

A police report identified the victims as Miss Francis Brown, 16, and her niece, Keela Loquet Turner, 2. Both had lived in the apartment complex, police said.

Frank Davenport, an investigator with the city fire marshal's office, said the young girl's body was found under a table in an apartment and her aunt's body was discovered behind a couch in the unit. Davenport said the two apparently died of smoke inhalation as they attempted to flee the apartment.

Police said Victor Snowden, 22, received burns in the fire. He was reported in critical condition today at Vanderbilt Hospital.

"The fire spread so fast there was barely enough time for anybody to get out," said Debbie McIntosh, 23, one of those who escaped.

Missionaries Bodies Found Again In Africa

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Three black nationalist guerrillas shot and killed two Roman Catholic missionaries at a remote mission hospital in central Rhodesia, the military command reported Wednesday.

The incident occurred Tuesday night, just four days after 12 British missionaries and children were clubbed and hacked to death by raiders near Rhodesia's eastern border.

A total of 11 missionaries and four of their children have been killed this month.

The Rev. Gregor Richert, 48, and Bernhard Lissom, 69, both German Jesuits, were killed Tuesday night at the St. Rupert's mission, said

Monsignor Helmut Reckter, spokesman for the Jesuits in Rhodesia.

The three gunmen talked to the mission's 12 black staff members before shooting the missionaries in the face, Reckter said. The staff members did not witness the shooting but heard gunfire. Reckter said the gunmen returned after killing the men and said: "We have shot the two whites."

The German Jesuits run 16 missions across a vast stretch of central and northern Rhodesia. Reckter said all the missions have white personnel and there are no plans to withdraw them.

"We are determined to carry on," he said. "I don't understand it. It is a very hateful business, of course."

The handful of patients in the 40-bed St. Rupert's hospital asked to leave Wednesday, Reckter said. "The black staff are still there and we will keep it open, but I think patients will be too scared to come," he said.

Lissom had worked in Rhodesia for more than 40 years. Richert had been in the country for 15 years.

Officials said the area around St. Rupert's — 90 miles west of here — is heavily infiltrated by guerrillas.
