Ward Says $500,000 To Be Spent On Highway 51

A four - project improvement contract on U. S. Highway 51, costing in excess of $500,000 was announced to the News Wednesday morning by Highway Commissioner Henry Ward.

The project will include widening from 18 to 22 feet, and resurfacing with black-top. The 2-foot widening-strip on each side of the present road will consist of a heavy-duty concrete base Ward stated.

The 4 - project program includes the following:

- 1). Complete resurfacing of that portion of US 51 known as the "By-Pass" in the city limits of Fulton;
- 2). Widening and resurfacing of the remainder of US 51 in Fulton County north to the Hickman County line, a distance of 5.9 miles;
- 3). Resurfacing of Fourth and Court streets in Wickliffe;
- 4). Widening and resurfacing of US 51 in Ballard County from the city limits of Wickliffe south to the Carlisle County line a distance of 3.9 miles.

The project will be done entirely with State funds, Ward stated, inasmuch as Federal participation in this type work is not available.

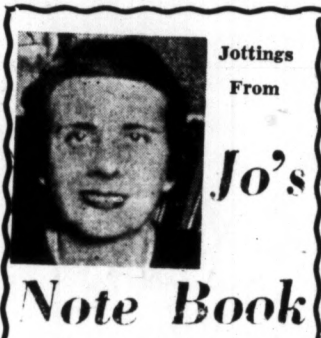

Because the Federal government will not allow financial participation on widening and resurfacing (even though US 51 is a federal route), and because the entire job from one end to the other will cost $1,800,000, the State will begin now with each end and work toward the middle, adding other projects as funds become available, Ward stated.

Resurfacing work (but no widening) of US 51 in Carlisle County has recently been done, Ward stated.

In recent correspondence with Mr. Ward regarding the future of US 51 as an important traffic artery, The News pointed out:

- 1). That the 45-mile highway from Fulton to Wickliffe is an important artery now; that considerable tourist business in and around Fulton results from the fact that this route is heavily used by truckers and vacationers, and that Fulton is much concerned over neglect in either maintaining or

Jottings From

Jo's
Note Book

"When I work in my garden, I know I have God as my partner," I read somewhere recently. I would like to add that if more people took to the good earth to nurture flowers there wouldn't be as much gossip, bitterness, resentment or hatred among our fellow-men. The reason is that there wouldn't be much of the human race left to harbor these unsavory traits either. For if everybody were gardeners and everybody witnessed the hazards that I have recently along flower-bed row, we'd all be in hospitals too injured to care.

As recently as last Saturday I was ordered to bed by the children, the yardman and the maid because I was a living, breathing specimen of blot. The "Bee and I" have different ideas about Bermuda grass. A bee, tiny as a pea, vicious as a tiger and striped about the same, took after me with a vengeance comparable only to a World War Two blitz. It all happened so suddenly that I thought the Japanese Kami-Kazi Corps had swooned down on our yard and intended to obliterate the whole human race out there, when actually the attack was only on my left hand.

When the first hypodermic-like injection penetrated my lily-white hand, chock full of Bermuda grass, I thought I had come in contact with a small pine cone. But when I looked again that bee was stuck to my skin like a vampire and as I attempted to brush it away, it darted into the air, and came back with more power and struck again. By this time I was getting the message that the bee-like no-like intrusion and I started to flee. Yard shoes, hoe, sun bonnet flailing in the air. You'd think that my gyrations and screaming would have daunted this determined insect... but no, as I ran he adjusted his gear, with startling precision to strike when my arm was in flight, take off when my arm was descending and set a new aim as my arm went into orbit again.

With the kids running after me to affect a three-point landing for medication and with Ozie frantically looking for the soda, coal oil and vinegar to douse on me to stop the pain and the swelling I kept running around the driveway trying to get away from that one little bee with mayhem on his mind.

Finally I wore him out. The last I saw of him he was ascending into the wild blue yonder and my arm and hand were gaining gigantic proportions. If there is such a thing as home-base for bees, that little fellow is the most decorated hero of beedom, for his mission was accomplished. He

South Fulton Baptist Announces Sermon

"The Wells of Salvation" is the sermon title to be used for the 8:30 a. m. worship service at the South Fulton Baptist Church on Sunday. The message will be based on words spoken by the prophet Isaiah and repeated by Jesus nearly 800 years after the time of Isaiah. At 10:55 a. m. the subject will be "The Valley of Vision". For the evening service at 8:00 p. m., the sermon will carry the title "Fire Dwellers".

Hulon Allen, pastor of the church, said that all the sermon material for this week comes from the section of Bible readings suggested by the plan to Read the Bible Through in 1962. Those following the plan to read three chapters each week day and five on Sundays will complete Isaiah, chapter 34 on Sunday.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a. m. and the Baptist Training Union convenes at 5:00 p. m.

The News Goes A-Golfing

Out Country Club way a big three-day golf tournament is in progress and 52 golfers from Kentucky, Missouri and Illinois are battling the ball around to determine the top golfer in the association. The tournament ends today (Thursday.) Golfers got the "send-off" from Mrs. Warwick Hale (left) and Mrs. Fred Stokes, Jr. who were chairmen of the event.

Giving that "professional" assist to the chairman were many golfers of the "Younger Set" three of whom are shown here. Left to right are Bud White, Sandra Stokes and Al Bushart.

Betty Vowell (center) takes a long look at number five fairway to stay in the lead of the tournament. Betty turned in a sizzling 88 on the first day of play. Equally as interested in the view is Mary Anderson of Metropolis and Pat Parks, playing the kind of golf that has made her victorious in many other tournaments.

And never has the numbers "packet" looked more enticing than it does to this threesome as they view that important scorecard. Left to right are: Virginia Rogers, Jane Ann Nall of Mayfield a veteran golfer and off-time winner and Nell Newton.

Championship Flight Today

Total Scores at the end of the second day of play for the championship flight were as follows: Pat Parks, 171; Betty Vowell, 177; Jane Ann Nall, 180; Dianne Dowdy, 183; Tootie Winters, 184; Virginia Rogers, 185; Juanita Preston, 188; Nancy Bushart, 189; Mary Anderson, 191; Nell Basham, 193; Nell Newton, 195 and Jewell Myatt, 197.

Charles Robert Bennett To Seek Office Of City Commissioner; Tripp May Run

Fifty names are required on a petition to seek the office of City Commissioner in the special election to be held in September but a petition being circulated in the interest of Charles Robert Bennett will contain over 100 names. Local citizens began volunteering to sign the petition when it became known Tuesday morning that the popular oil distributor and former City Councilman would be a candidate to fill the unexpired term of L. M. McBride who resigned to take a position with the City National Bank. The vacancy on the Fulton City Commission is being filled by Nelson Tripp, who was appointed by the Commission. Mr. Tripp is also serving as Acting City Manager until James Robey takes over the post on September first.

Mr. Tripp has indicated to friends that he has not made up his mind whether he will be a candidate but added that he is securing the necessary signatures on a petition in the event he decides to run.

A special election to fill the vacancy on the City Commission became possible since a regular election of the Fulton Independent School District is scheduled for November. To fill a vacancy such as the one that occurred on the Fulton City Commission requires that a municipal election be held following the vacancy. The school board election constitutes a municipal election and thereby qualifies the City of Fulton to hold a special election in September. Deadline for filing for the special election is August 7, when a petition containing the names of 50 qualified voters must be presented as the requirement for seeking the office.

Mr. Bennett, a long time resident of Fulton, is a capable and prominent member of the civic and business community of the twin cities. Interested in the civic, religious and educational affairs of Fulton, he is the local distributor for Cities Service Oil Company and also operates a retail outlet at Fourth and Depot Streets. He is a member of the American Legion and attends the First Christian Church. Mrs. Bennett is a teacher in the Fulton City Schools and they have two daughters, Marianne a student of the University of Kentucky and Betty who is a sophomore at Fulton High School.

City of Fulton voters will choose three members of the Fulton City Schools Board of Education on Tuesday, November 6.

The four year terms of Win Whitnel, Flynn Powell and Gene Hatfield expire this year on the school board and it is presumed that all three will seek reelection. Deadline for filing for the school board posts is between the dates of September 7 and September 22. Filing dates must be not less than 45 days or more than 60 days before the general election date.

Win Whitnel said that he plans to file for reelection. Gene Hatfield, who is in the service at present time will be discharged next month, and has indicated that he, too, will run for reelection. The third member, Flynn Powell also said he would run.

Dr. R. W. Bushart and Felix Gossom are the other two school board members and their terms does not expire for two more years.

School board members are elected for four-year terms. If more than two candidates for this office file, a primary will be held preceding the general election.

The incumbent Republican Senator Thurston B. Morton is opposed by Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt for the U. S. Senate seat in the November election, and Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield is opposed for reelection to the House of Representatives.

DeMyer Releases Attorney After Rice's Complaint

Mayor Gilbert DeMyer has notified Farland Robbins of Mayfield that the attorney's services will not be used to litigate in the suit filed against the city by Meadowview Subdivision. Mayor DeMyer took the action on the protest of Commissioner Bill Rice that the called meeting held to employ the attorney was not legally conducted. Mr. Rice was out of town when the meeting was called and contended that he was not given the necessary notice to attend the meeting as required by law.

At press time on Wednesday the News learned that efforts were being made on the part of at least one commissioner to retain the services of Mr. Robbins since the commissioner in question believes the meeting to have been legal and valid. "It's a battle among lawyers," Mayor DeMyer told the News and added "I don't know what the outcome will be."

At the same time the News learned that the City Commission could possibly ward off any litigation in the Meadowview suit if the regulations were amended to exclude those subdivisions or multiple lot ownerships that were begun before the State law was passed setting forth subdivision requirements. Meadowview Subdivision is owned jointly by Dr. John Lloyd Jones and Dick Meacham. The suit was filed to seek a court order to get a building permit for the construction of a residence in the subdivision.

The suit was brought to test the application of the subdivision regulations, adopted in 1961 to the Meadowview subdivision, and it is contended by the subdividers that their subdivision was in existence and 13 lots had been sold and residences built on them before the regulations were adopted. The plaintiffs say that nine

South Fulton Booster Club To Give Us Many Dates To Remember!

The twin city area is going to get an up-to-date community birthday calendar if the South Fulton Booster Club has its say. And that's not all! The calendar, similar to the ones published in the past will have something added. Your anniversary dates and the anniversary dates of your friends will be listed together with important regularly scheduled meeting dates of civic, fraternal, cultural and other groups. It's going to be a lot of fun for everybody and handy as all get out for keeping up with events that happen as they happen.

On the front of the calendar will appear a picture of the Twin City flag which was designed in a contest sponsored by Radio Station WFUL and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company. There will also be 18 ads from local business firms and some will be offering you something "special" on your birthday or anniversary.

The South Fulton Booster Club is going to ask each person to pay

25 cents to have their names listed on the calendar. Your name will be printed on the date of your birthday as will your anniversary date if you want that great event listed also. Each family may buy a calendar for only 50 cents. Extra calendars will be ordered to send to relatives in the service or to friends and relatives who live away from the twin city area. It will be a wonderful way for everybody to send "flowers for the living" and greetings on the important days in one's life.

Business firms may buy extra calendars to distribute to their customers and friends to use in stores, offices and shops.

The proceeds from the sale of the calendars and the listings will be used for worthy civic projects during the year. Bob Lowry president of the South Fulton Booster Club told the News, "We have not undertaken a project this large in a long time," he said, "but we thought it a good idea to get some money together so that when the need arises for worthy causes we will have the money on hand without having to go out and raise it in a hurry," he added.

Join your friends in cordial friendship. Be remembered on your important dates. Congratulate your friends on theirs. And most of all keep abreast of what's going on in the twin city area by responding to the solicitation when a member of the South Fulton Booster Club calls on you in the near future.

Dr. Joe Davis Tells Other Side Of Story About Medical Profession And The Medicare Plan

In recent weeks these columns have revealed to you some tactics of the American Medical Association to defeat President Kennedy's medicare bill; the views of various physicians on the status of American Medicine today, as well as a doctor's defense of the National Health Service of Great Britain. Until last week we had come to believe that perhaps members of the medical profession had assumed a "so that's the story, what can you do about it attitude."

We are happy to say we were wrong. As in all endeavors there are hundreds, even thousands of people who take a great pride in their professions and are willing to stand up for what they believe. Last week a local doctor told us that we were only printing one side of the story, and we agreed that he was right.

Today comes a wonderful letter from another doctor for whom we have the greatest admiration and respect. We are proud, grateful and sincerely appreciative of the letter we received from Dr. Joe Davis, a brilliant young doctor who is practicing in Sacramento, California. Dr. Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis of Fulton.

Such an appraisal of the medical profession could come only from a dedicated physician, such as Dr. Davis and here's the "other side of the story," which we happily print.

Fulton, Kentucky
Dear Jo and Paul:

I always look forward to reading the Fulton County News each week—it's almost like having a visit with the folks at home. I have admired from afar your efforts at promoting the best for Fulton and for letting the truth speak for itself.

Therefore, I was greatly moved, but in a reverse fashion, I'm afraid, at your editorial on the American Medical Association's stand, particularly in regard to the British National Health Service.

First of all, the British system is struggling with great problems which astute statesmen and some of our own doctors predicted it would. This I have heard and read from doctors practicing under the system in England. In fact, the huge deficit incurred by the National Health Service is one of the most important factors responsible for England's present financial plight. It is true that hardly any hospitals have been built since the System has been in effect, and there is a growing lack of physicians in England, primarily because of fewer medical students being trained but also because of an emigration of doctors to Canada and Australia. Now some of these doctors who emigrated to Saskatchewan have run into the same problem. I daresay they wonder where free enterprise is safe. Also, I do not feel that the British Medical Association was objective in its charges of "vulgarity and cheapness" on the part of the American doctors who have opposed Socialized medicine. I have not read or heard anything from American doctors that was intended to slander the British doctors. We feel that they voted for their system and hence must like it. But we feel that the American people are entitled to know what their system is and what its defects are. It is up to them to prove its benefits. I believe that most of us respect and know that most of our dedicated medical leaders are gentlemen and not "vulgar and cheap".

Also, I was much disturbed in your editorial to see the quotes from two Public Health officials who feel that America is "over-medicated, over-treated, over-innoculated, and anxiety-ridden". This is certainly paradoxical since both Public Health and preventive Medicine departments have stressed routine immunizations, routine physical examinations, mental health, and medical research to ever improve our high medical standards. I wish you could have heard three of our young Sacramento doctors who this summer have spent several weeks in the jungles of Guatemala relieving a priest-physician who hadn't had a vacation in twelve years (and they went at their own expense). When you hear how deplorable the health of the majority of the people there is and how some had never seen a doctor or heard of smallpox or polio vaccination, you pause and thank God for the privileges we enjoy, including the finest medical care and standards. Looking at this from another direction, if these Public Health officials' complaints are true, then what is the basis for all the clamor for medical care for the retired. It would seem that they are saying we have too much medical care.

I do not feel that the need for medical aid for the retired is as great as was stated by the proponents of the King-Anderson Bill. I know personally that my older (and some are retired) patients are the most responsible and able to pay for their medical bills. The younger families are the ones most burdened by medical and hospital costs and these are the ones that the burden of King-Anderson approach would fall on. They can hardly make their paycheck stretch far enough as it is, much less if more and more Social Security tax is withheld.

I thought it interesting that on page eight of the same issue you carried the picture-story of "Senior Americans Take Special Tours." In it apparently thousands of members of the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association are enjoying group tours to Europe. Do these people represent our "needy older citizens"?

Thank you for your forbearance in reading and perhaps publishing this letter. Marilyn and I are looking forward to seeing you and all our friends when we come home next April.

Best wishes to you both,

JOE

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.
By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week elections, or what passed for elections, were held throughout Kentucky to name certain judges and the county officials of all the 110 counties then existing. A good many Kentuckians did not consider the affairs real elections because the voters had no choice; only the "Union Ticket" candidates had been permitted to run. The military governor of Kentucky, the Union Army's Brig. Gen. Jerry T. Boyle, had accomplished that by issuing a general order which said that no one "hostile in opinion to the government" could be a candidate. And coming out in opposition to a Union Ticket candidate was considered proof enough of hostility to the government.

Under these conditions, a small vote was cast everywhere in the state. But only a few votes were needed to elect unopposed candidates. (The Louisville Journal, a firm Unionist newspaper, would charge later that Boyle's order had been violated in Morgan County, where no Federal troops were stationed to enforce it. But there was no doubt that in the 109 other counties the sheriffs, county judges and all other local officials thereafter would be men approved by the Union Army.

Friction between the military and the old set of state and local officials who had been chosen by the people in free elections had been increasing for months. As far back as the middle of May, the clashes between military and civil authorities had begun when a troop of Union cavalry had surrounded the courthouse at Marion in Crittenden County and guards had been put at the doors of the courtroom in which Circuit Judge Wiley P. Fowler was holding court. A letter from Col. S. Noble, commander of U. S. forces at Paducah, was handed to Judge Fowler, directing him to follow certain procedures.

Judge Fowler "refused to comply with the order, declined to yield to any dictation by military authority as to the discharge of his duties as presiding officer of the court, and ordered an immediate adjournment." The judge and four lawyers were immediately arrested by the soldiers.

Tension was also building up at Frankfort, where Gov. Beriah Magoffin, who had been elected in 1859, was being put under increasing pressure to resign.

The surrender of Mt. Sterling was demanded, and the town was attacked, by a band of more than 200 men, said to be civilians on their way south to join the Confederate Army. They were driven off, and six of them were killed, the same number wounded, and about fifty taken prisoner.

Among the civilians arrested during the week by Federal soldiers and confined in a military jail at Louisville were three identified merely as "ladies of Harrodsburg."

At Pikeston, Pike County, guerrillas retreated after a skirmish with Home Guards.

Tid-Bits

of Kentucky Folklore

"I have kept but one thing in view—that is, to confine myself to facts. I have described conditions, not as I imagined them to be, nor as I have read about them; but I have attempted to picture conditions as I actually saw and lived them."

These words are not mine, however much they may sound like my language. They are part of the foreword to BACK YONDER, by Wayman Hogue, published in 1932, with a sub-title of "An Ozark Chronicle." Mr. Hogue, in spite of the popularity, then and now, of writers who love to write up or write down the back country, certainly has about his book, now a classic in its field, the very flavor of truth. He was not trying to curry favor for himself or to show any toplofty contempt for his childhood and its backgrounds. It was a great day in my life when I had a chance to commend the book to Mr. Hogue's daughter, a distinguished writer and speaker in her own name. She appreciated my appraisal of the book and said that I understood her father and his purpose as a writer.

Mr. Hogue was old enough to be by own father and had grown up in the Ozarks when that region was very primitive. The inadequate houses, the almost universal ignorance, the wildness of nature everywhere are presented with no apology, with an hidden sneer. These things were his own experiences and backgrounds and needed no apology. However crude the customs may have been there was evident in nearly all of them a touch of something better, some effort to overcome the crudeness and even cruelty of the time. Fidelity, by comparison, was almost an ultra-modern community, for we had much more knowledge of books and of the world in general; we had somewhat better living conditions; we were much more accessible to the rest of the world, in spite of my playful talk about our being nearer the sun than we were to the railroad. It is only fair to say, about both places, however, that there was a high moral code that people believed in, regardless of the failures to reach it; the good life was respected and held up for admiration, even though it might utterly beyond our reach.

One of the best features of the book is its faithfulness of presenting actual folk speech. If Mr. Hogue had known the International Phonetic Alphabet and had thus been able to transcribe the pronunciations of his Ozark neighbors, he could hardly have done better than he has done, with his deliberately odd spelling to indicate sound and drawl and nasal effects. Not every word, not every sentence, even, is folksy; many of the most folksy people I have ever known could speak words at a time without bringing in some word or intonation that was decidedly a leftover of early times, a sound directly from the Old World, already old or quaint when the first English and Scotch-Irish settlers came over.

Probably the thing that attracted me most to the book the first time I read it, when it was barely off the press, was the strange ambition of the author, raised away back in the hills, to want to see and know about the big world and to learn things in books. It must not be forgotten how many great ideas have sprouted in just such out-of-the-way places as the one described so well in BACK YONDER.

Industrial Expansion Is By-Product Of Turnpikes, James Nutter Reports

By James Nutter

Commissioner
Kentucky Department of Commerce

Across the nation, wherever turnpikes have been constructed the areas served have experienced industrial expansion.

When New Jersey built its Garden State Parkway, there was an industrial expansion across the length of that state. Florida officials report the same experience along the Sunshine State Parkway. Similar reports are commonplace along certain stretches of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, especially in the vicinity of Bedford where truck terminals were constructed.

Here, in Kentucky, the growth of the area along the Kentucky Turnpike between Louisville and Elizabethtown is a case in point. Hardin, Bullitt, Nelson, and LaRue counties adjoin that four-lane highway.

In the period between 1950 and 1960, those counties enjoyed considerable growth. Hardin County increased in population 34.7 per cent; Bullitt went up 26.6 per cent; Nelson grew 13.6 per cent; and LaRue, at the southern end of the turnpike, picked up 3.9 per cent. All this must be considered against the background of Kentucky statewide growth in the same period, a 3.2 per cent increase in population.

Construction of the Louisville-Elizabethtown Turnpike was not responsible for all the increase, but the highway did play a major role in the development of the area.

Even though the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike is still under construction, recent developments point to benefits to come. President Kennedy in recent weeks approved financing for the Kentucky Wood Use Demonstration Center in Breathitt County, another in the growing list of projects engineered by the Eastern Kentucky Developmental Association, the real driving force behind the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike from the first.

This grant of $642,000, plus another million dollars to be expended by the State of Kentucky, will make a permanent facility out of the center—a center operated by the University of Kentucky to provide product development services to timber industries throughout the country.

The products will, of course, find their way to market over the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike.

This one facility, in a few years, will double the present manufacturing payroll in the 19-county area to be served by the Turnpike. At present, there are 192 plants with an annual payroll of $7,500,000, a strong nucleus upon which to build.

In West Central Kentucky, which will be served by the Western Kentucky Turnpike, there already is a well-established industry. Available figures, with a great deal of expansion since they were released, showed 317 manufacturing plants with a payroll of $20 million. This will be accelerated as the Western Kentucky Turnpike nears completion and major markets are brought closer to home.

One business factor generally is overlooked in considering industrial expansion. The coming of a new major road stimulates real estate sales, both industrial and residential. Washington State, in a recent survey along an interstate system reported some 200 per cent increase in property values.

There are, of course, some dislocations, but the over-all picture is one of progress. Bank clearings, construction and payrolls point to real, solid development in the advent of the turnpike.

Turnpikes, the Interstate System, and building and improving of other major roads is leading to a repetition of history when development of rivers and harbors led to the growth of major American cities.

SO DO WE

But what we are worrying about is the hip-and-run drivers.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

The little story we are about to tell you might not meet all the requirements for a diary lead, but it sure goes to show the folks who read this column each week that we have some mighty fine youngsters in this here now twin city area. Do you know that we will not have an all-star game among the young fellows who participate in the little and minor league baseball games? Do you know why? The reason is that we have so many wonderfully good sports, and so many outstanding young athletes that the managers simply could not make the decisions as to who would and who would not play in the all-star game. It is our opinion, however, that the boys, being the good sports that they are, would have understood that many are called but few are chosen, but that manager, who has worked many long hours with the young boys didn't have the heart to make the choice. We surely understand.

The baseball and soft ball leagues have come to be synonymous with summer-time fun. It is planned recreation at its best. It has given hundreds of youngsters something to look forward to each day and evening. And it has been a family undertaking, for the parents have been as loyal to the cause as the boys have been to the sport.

There are many families, however, who have overlooked a very important item in the organized recreation program for the young folks, and we are sure that it has been unintentional. It takes money, plenty of it, to run a baseball league. The merchants as usual have come through with their share, but there are many families, more than we like to admit, who have failed to make any contribution to the organization that sponsors the baseball and softball leagues in the twin cities.

When you stop to consider all the pleasant hours you have spent watching the children play and realize what an investment it is in tomorrow's good citizenship program, and what has been saved in other summertime expenses, you'll sit down right now and send a contribution, however small, to Youth, Inc. care of Riley Allen, Fulton. Do that today, won't you?

Following the wedding rehearsal at the First Baptist Church for the Moore-Jones wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jones, parents of the groom, entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Fulton Country Club.

The long table was centered with a spreading arrangement of white majestic daisies, gladioli and cysanthemums. At either side of the flowers were tall brass candelabra holding tall white candles. Attractive bridal place cards were used. A delicious three course dinner was served.

For the dinner, the bride-elect chose a sheath dress of gray polished cotton with all over white embroidery which formed a scalloped edge at the hemline. Her gift corsage was a deep fuchsia orchid.

Mrs. Jones wore a summer frock of white sheer cotton designed with a lace bodice and a gathered skirt. Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, wore a pale gray french voile sheath studded with chalk white beads.

Miss Moore and Mr. Jones gave their attendants attractive gifts. The girls received gold heart-shaped charms bearing the names of the bride and groom and the wedding date. The men of the wedding party received smoke pearl tie-tacs. Mr. Jones gave his bride-elect the traditional pearl necklace. His gift from the bride was a diamond studded tie-tac.

Following the dinner, the guests danced informally.

Honoring Miss Judy Moore, whose marriage to Johnny Jones was solemnized on Saturday, July 2, Miss Nancy Bushart and her mother, Mrs. H. L. Bushart, were hostesses at a Bridesmaid's Brunch at the Park Terrace at 10:30 a. m.

The table was most attractive with a centerpiece of white daisies, white gladioli and tiny pom-poms arranged in a large milk glass bowl. Placed among the flowers was a styrafoam-satin edged heart on which were placed an engagement ring and a wedding ring, a tiny pearl necklace, and a white satin and tulle garter with tiny pearl flowers in the satin bowl.

White satin ribbons extended the length of the table and in these ribbons were caught sprays of lilies of the valley, seed pearl hearts, tiny rings and dainty white flowers. Extending from the floral arrangement were other satin ribbons which were tied to the bridal placecards. Each placecard was decorated with a single white flower.

A delicious three course brunch was served.

Miss Moore wore an attractive sun-back dress of white cotton with blue pin-stripes. The sheath skirt was quilted and a matching quilted packet was lined and piped in red.

The hostesses presented her with a corsage of gladioli and pom-poms. The hostess gift was a pair of silver shell dishes.

The Golds, champs of the Minor League, were honored at an ice cream supper last Monday night at the City Park, following their final game of the year. C. D. Shupe and Lamont Kilzer, the team managers, and their wives were hosts for the event.

Fourteen little team members attended and enjoyed the supper.

A hamburger supper was held last Monday night at the Park honoring the staff side of the baseballers. The Cardinals of the Little Girl's League were the guests at the supper sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Browder and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mahan.

Besides the fourteen team members, Kenneth Allen, Jim Campbell, Wayne Lohaus, Tom Browder and Bob Mahan also attended.

Still another party honoring another team in another league was held last Friday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Toon. The honored guests were the members of the Red Legs in the Connie Mack League. Other hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Beadles and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brann.

Eleven boys attended and enjoyed the delicious barbecue supper.

Two more in a series of gala pre-nuptial parties honoring Miss Judy Moore were held last week. Mesdames Gilson Latta, Ual Killbrew and Louis Weeks complimented the popular bride-elect at a dinner party at the Latta home Friday night.

The dining table was overlaid with a cutwork cloth and the central appointment was an all-white arrangement in a crystal bowl. Rosebuds in tall bud vases centered each of the guest tables.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of baby mums and the hostesses gave her a gift of china in her chosen pattern.

A delightful breakfast honoring Judy was held last Tuesday morning at the Park Terrace. The hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Puckett, Mrs. Jim Owens and Sonny Puckett.

She was presented a guest gift of cake pans and cookie sheets.

A delicious two-course breakfast of country ham and all the trimmings was served on an attractively decorated table. The centerpiece was of colorful fruit with ivy and bright orange flowers. Novelty placecards were used.

Reporter Lives Dream; Being At Crime Scene

By Ouida Jewell

"A Negro man is holding up the hotel," my father said when I answered the telephone at 10:20 Saturday night.

"Come on, Brenda," I yelled at my cousin, "maybe we can help capture the holdup man!"

I parked my car near the Smith's Cafe building and we ran up the hill to the Fulton Hotel.

As I neared the entrance, I glanced to see Brenda standing by the railroad tracks. I called, "Come on, I won't let them shoot you!" Then I became more cautious and crept up to the window to have a peek in.

There, I saw an excited small group gathered in the middle of the lobby. Upon entering the hotel, Brenda and I were told that two city policemen, A. E. Campbell and Hassell Williams, had just arrived and chased the Negro holdup man out the side entrance.

As I gathered details of what had happened, Patrolman Campbell came back and told of the chase. He said that they chased the Negro up the railroad tracks to where the old ice plant formerly stood. There, the Negro went into some bushes, and Campbell said he got quite a surprise when he pushed back the brush to find the Negro without a stitch of clothes on.

Campbell explained that the Negro was wearing white pants and shed his clothes in hopes that he would not be seen in the dark.

The Negro identified as Walter Lee Johnson, about 35, of Union City, entered the hotel lobby and demanded money from the night clerk, Walter Ridgeway. He had his hand in his pocket as if holding a weapon.

A hotel resident, Horace Maynard, ran from the lobby and called police from Puckett's Service Station, while Ridgeway stalled the would-be holdup man.

Before police arrived, the Negro had picked up a four and one-half foot iron rod from behind the counter and threatened to hit Ridgeway with the instrument. The Negro became angry, when the hotel clerk didn't give him money, and yelled and beat upon the marble top counter.

Hearing the commotion, the woman hotel owner came down stairs, and was shoved aside by the Negro holdup man. Her two small children watched from the staircase.

Sunday, the Negro was identified as the man who robbed a grocery store in Union City recently. A police officer said that he had also been connected with other recent robberies there.

Policeman Campbell said that the Negro had been drinking at the time of the attempted robbery.

WARD SAYS—

improving US 51 in recent years.

That continued neglect of Highway 51 improvement is driving traffic to other, better routes.

In rebuttal, it was pointed out that the future of US 51 as an important traffic artery depends in where the Federal Interstate route from Cairo (Or Paducah) to Nashville is going, and that determination of this route must first be made before any really major work on US 51 is charted.

If the Nashville route goes from Paducah, around below the dam to Princeton and thence to Nashville, present traffic on US 51 will probably not be lessened at all, and a major improvement program will probably then be justified.

If, however, the Federal Interstate to Nashville runs south through the Purchase and then crosses Kentucky Lake down in Tennessee on its route to Nashville, there is a likelihood that this route would divert much of today's tourist and truck traffic off of US 51 and not justify it for further major work.

Only the decision of the Federal Bureau of Roads, and time, will determine the final outcome of US 51, Ward stated.

In the meantime, Kentucky realizes that the widening and resurfacing program announced today will bridge the gap in a satisfactory manner when it is completed, and that such improvement has been needed.

Honesty is hard put to meet the competition of propagandists.

NOTEBOOK—

scored a direct hit on me every time he set his aim to do so.

But last Saturday's episode is not the only casualty of my fanatical gardening hobby. The day Margaret Hall and I had a garden party for Judy Moore I should have had my right arm in a sling.

A wasp, with what seemed like a foot-long stinger, contacted my arm as I put the finishing touches to Paul's "formal" flower garden. I was too busy to do anything but groan and rub a little vinegar on the bite. By the time the guests started arriving I was doing everything I could to keep from walking like the leaning tower of Pisa. That arm was so swollen and so enlarged the right side of my body seemed 20 pounds heavier than the left side. It was gruesome.

But the bee stings and wasp bites I can cure. When I get on the subject of power lawn mowers I get almost as vicious as the venomous insects and animals that abound on the earth. I intend to conquer the stalling lawn mower menace, even if I have to walk with crutches. And I almost did that as I tried to wind one of the spring kind of lawn-mower starters. Having gotten exasperated last week with trying to start the mower I didn't realize that my foot was near the blade. When that dull apparatus hit my big toe, I jumped like I had been pierced with a hot sword and if my shoe hadn't protected my toes I'd be bemoaning the fact today that I'd never been a toe-dancer, simply because I wouldn't have any toes.

The scratches, the sun-burn, the aching back, the sore feet and the blisters on my hands are other minor by-products of my gardening, but as I said before God is my partner and if He were not, I'd be pushing up daisies by now instead of growing them.

Tennessee Neighbors Go In Primary Voting Today

It's election day across the border in South Fulton. Voters will go to the polls today to select candidates from Governor to Constable, with sheriffs, judges, and clerks and other officers in between. The polls open, at nine o'clock and close at five p. m. and the counting of the ballots will begin shortly thereafter.

Each of Tennessee's three Democratic candidates for governor is chanting a song of victory. Each is telling either how it will be in Tennessee when he is elected or why he thinks he will win.

Highways, mental health, welfare, industrial development, education and taxes are among the scores of topics getting the campaign treatment as the hour of decision approaches.

For example, former Gov. Frank Clement concentrated on highway construction. Chattanooga Mayor Rudy Olgiati told of "practically an admission of impending defeat by the Clement-Farris combine." And Memphis Commissioner William Farris said Tennesseeans are joining him in a crusade to return the government to the people.

Here's the line-up of candidates:

FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER
E. Lee Brown, Porter Freeman, John C. Hammer, Ewing J. Threest.

FOR UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVE
Robert A. Everett, Casey Williams.

FOR STATE SENATOR

FOR DIST. REPRESENTATIVE OF OBION COUNTY
Milton H. Hamilton, Sr.

FOR FLORIAL REPRESENTATIVE
Jerry Baxter Albright, Franklin D. Cochran, William Coleman, Gayle I. Malone.

FOR COMMITTEEWOMAN
Mrs. Wilma Dodd, Mrs. Franklin Pierce.

FOR COMMITTEEMAN
J. B. Avery, Jr., Hugh T. Bennett, Sr., R. E. L. (Bob) Gallimore, Jimmy Peeler.

JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF TENNESSEE STATE AT LARGE
Democratic Nominee: Ross W. Dyer, Democratic Nominee: Welton B. White, Independent-Nom. Z. Alexander Looby.

COURT OF APPEALS OF TENNESSEE (MIDDLE DIVISION)
Democratic Nominee: Chester C. Chattin.

COURT OF APPEALS OF TENNESSEE EASTERN DIVISION
Democratic Nominee: Robert E. Cooper.

FOR CONSTABLE

CIVIL DISTRICT No. 16
John Adams, W. H. (William Henry) Heath.

Clement's text for a kiwanis club luncheon at Chattanooga was complimentary of the state's interstate highway program, which he said was drafted by professional planners and not the dictates of politicians.

But, said Clements, secondary and rural roads are important too. "We spent millions of dollars improving them while I was in office before," he said, "and we're not going to forget that system when I go in the governor's office again."

Clement reflected statements by his campaign chiefs when they spoke of being "ready for the final drive that will give Frank Clement his greatest victory."

In Middle Tennessee talks after a day of filming television campaign material, Clement pledged teachers' pay raises and enlarged facilities for the mentally retarded.

Olgiati, in a speech prepared for delivery at Athens, again displayed confidence he would win on Aug. 2. And he took a combined swat at his opponents.

"The effort to link me to Hoffa is totally without foundation and is practically an admission of impending defeat by the Clement-Farris combine," he said, referring to Teamster union head James Hoffa.

Farris recently said the Teamsters union put money into Olgiati's campaign.

Olgiati spoke of "desperation . . . accentuated by the current effort to smear me and my good name."

"I do not know Mr. Hoffa, have never met him or seen him and know nothing about him except what I read in the papers," Olgiati continued. "I believe the people of Tennessee will resent this smear tactic and will show their resentment at the polls on Aug. 2."

At Newport, Olgiati said Clement and "his desperate crew" have kept Farris in the race to split the anti-Clement vote.

"Frank," said Olgiati, "the people are on to you."

Farris appeared on a Chattanooga television program and outlined a three-point program for obtaining more revenue to improve education and other public services in Tennessee.

Dukedom Lady Is Killed, Eight Others Injured In Monday Morning Accident

One local woman was killed and eight other persons were injured in a two-car collision early Monday morning about 1 1/2 miles south of South Fulton on the Martin Highway.

Dead on arrival at the Fulton Hospital was Mrs. William Bowers, 24, of Dukedom, Route 1.

Mrs. Bowers was riding in a car driven by her sister, Mrs. Philip Miles, 20, Miles suffered a fractured pelvis and possible spinal injuries. Also riding in the same car was Mrs. Bert Tibbs, 54. She received a fractured right wrist. Both women were also from Dukedom.

The other car involved in the accident contained two families returning from a vacation trip. Glen Warren, Gary, Indiana, was the driver of the 1961 Chevrolet. He is hospitalized with contusions of the chest, fracture of the right forearm, compound fracture of the middle finger on the right hand and lacerations of the upper and lower lip.

His wife, Cora, suffered a fractured right forearm. Their son Bobby Warren, 12, was the most seriously injured of the victims. He was transferred to the Baptist Hospital in Memphis with a rupture of the right eye, a deep cut across the bridge of his nose extending into the sinus cavity, lacerations on the forehead, and deep lacerations under the left eye.

Also riding in the car were Mrs. Elmer Huckley and her son, Elmer Ray of Huch.s. Arkansas, and Lu's Ann Teitge, East Gary, Indiana, who is Mrs. Huckley's granddaughter.

Mrs. Huckley received a fracture of the left humerus and her son suffered lacerations on the foot. The little girl received a fractured left clavical.

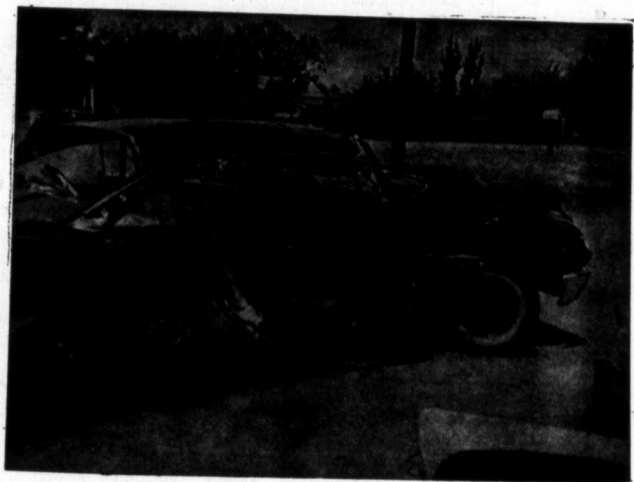

The accident occurred about 7:00 a. m., as the three Dukedom ladies were on their way to work at a clothing factory in Martin. Mrs. Miles was driving south and had just passed another auto and pulled back into her lane of traffic.

Because of the slick highways at that time, Mrs. Miles' car went into a skid and was struck broadside by the northbound Chevrolet.

Officers stated that the left front fender and bumper of the Chevrolet penetrated the Ford from the right side and came all the way to the center of the Ford's front seat. Mrs. Bowers, who was crushed to death, was sitting on the right side of the Ford where the initial impact occurred.

Three Fulton ambulances were immediately rushed to the scene and brought all the victims to the Fulton Hospital. One of the ambulances had to return to the scene.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at press time Wednesday.

WHEN A CAR IS HIT BROADSIDE: Entire side of Ford hard-top was pushed up into the middle of the car when it was struck broadside Monday morning on the Martin Highway south of Fulton. Passenger riding in front seat was killed.

CRUMPLED STEERING WHEEL of other vehicle bore mute evidence of impact suffered by driver of that vehicle. Young man riding in front seat was thrown against windshield with such force that glass was broken. (See story).

residences now exist on Court Drive in their subdivision and are on a gravel street while the Planning and Zoning Commission would require the construction of concrete curb and gutter and a paved street even though it would begin at the end of a graveled stretch of the street.

Former City attorney Rodney Miller advised the News that the subdivision regulations were adopted by the Planning Commission as set out in the Kentucky Statutes. He said that to amend the regulation in one instance might set a precedent for other residents to seek amendments thereby weakening the whole structure of the various plans and programs adopted by the governing body of the City of Fulton.

mother, Mrs. Mattie Renfro. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adams of Martin spent Sunday with Mrs. C. E. Lowe. Mrs. Nelson Tripp of Fulton was a dinner guest.

Mrs. Myrtle Orleans spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grissom in Fulton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowe, Jane and David Royce and Miss Bettye Stephens spent Sunday in Memphis with Mrs. Lowe's sister, Mrs. Charlie Covey and family.

John Smith had a freak accident Friday while mowing his yard. He ran over a wire and a piece of it went into his leg. He was rushed to Jones Clinic and given treatment. It required several stitches. He is still in the hospital.

Mrs. Maggie Cape is doing nicely following a recent stay in the Madison County Hospital in Jackson, Tennessee.

John Matthews has been transferred from the Ohio County Hospital in Union City to the Rest Home and is doing nicely. Mrs. Matthews is at home but not doing any better.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groddy of Route 2 are visiting his brother Darris and family in Searcy, Arkansas.

Mrs. Maude McKinney spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Ishum Conner.

Misses Paula Long and Patricia Cunningham of Paducah spent Saturday night with Mrs. John Smith.

COURTHOUSE MOONSHINE
MURPHYSBORO, Ill. — Jackson County authorities had some fast explaining to do when a cache of well-aged bootleg whiskey was found in the basement of the county courthouse. The liquor, discovered during a house cleaning, apparently had been seized during a prohibition-era raid.

Dr. Salk Coins A Word: Bionauts

"Super stars" of science will make up the research team of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Dr. Jonas Salk, who will direct the Institute at San Diego, Calif., quite often draws analogies between sports and science.

He once said, modestly referring to his historic role in developing the polio vaccine, that "I just happened to be in the right place to catch a long forward pass."

Today he might select another sport and say that the Institute faculty members are the Mickey Mantles of science—they can hit home runs from either side of the plate. Dr. Salk points out that in recruiting his Institute Fellows he searched for and found versatile scientists "who have all been trained in a field other than that in which they are working today."

Varied Abilities
They possess more than one skill or field of knowledge. They are not limited to biology. Some of the 10 Fellows already appointed are equally at home in higher mathematics and physics, or history and literature.

This unique combination of professional skills, versatility, imagination and intellectual curiosity has been described by many as the magic formula needed today to achieve the conquest of disease—from the common cold to cancer. They believe firmly that an assault on disease of the kind and magnitude planned by Dr. Salk and his colleagues could pave the way to revolutionary breakthroughs.

Just as the Mickey Mantles depend on the baseball fans who pay their way through the turnstiles, construction of the Salk Institute will depend on contributions from the general public.

$15 Million Goal

This summer all across the nation a campaign is in full swing to raise $15,000,000 to build and equip the Institute. The drive is sponsored by The National Foundation through the March of Dimes. It is a renewal of the partnership between all Americans and Dr. Salk—the man who did so much for them in developing the polio vaccine, and will do so much more as director of the Institute.

As another way of describing the scientists who will work at the Institute, Dr. Salk has coined the word "bionauts." "If we can speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of 'bionauts'—scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has now been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?" He envisages the Salk Institute as a sort of launching pad for the gifted "bionauts" of the scientific world who will comprise his faculty.

The conditions under which the Salk Institute "bionauts" will pursue their studies are probably unique. The physical as well as the intellectual atmosphere of the Institute has been designed so that the individual scientist can concentrate fully on productive work and thought. Laboratory equipment will of course be the most modern. A highly specialized reference library on biology and related fields will be maintained. The whole environment is designed to spur the Institute Fellow toward daring and uninhibited original thinking on how to reach the goal he is seeking—faster.

Pioneering Projects

In most great universities and other research centers scientists are obliged to invest a great deal of their time in teaching and in administrative detail. There will be none of these time-consuming duties for the faculty of the Salk Institute. Its members will spend all of their time on pioneering projects. Moreover, they will have complete freedom to launch whatever projects they elect and may change the direction of their research if they wish.

Experts familiar with the scientific world and its leaders agree that the 10 Fellows selected thus far are entering the stage of their most productive period. Their average age is 49 years but seven of the 10 are even younger.

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and a Salk Institute Nonresident Fellow who is often described as the "elder statesman of American medical research," is 67; but Dr. Melvin Cohn, a famed American biochemist now with the Pasteur Institute of Paris, and a Salk Institute Resident Fellow, is only 38.

A-Bomb Architect

Dr. Leo Szilard, long-time professor of biophysics at the University of Chicago and celebrated worldwide as one of the "architects of the atomic bomb," is a Nonresident Fellow, is 63. But Dr. Edwin Lemmon, an American microbiologist now also on leave at the Pasteur Institute, and a Resident Fellow, is only 41.

Dr. Jacob Bronowski, of London, a Resident Fellow who is well known in the United States for his books and lectures, is 54. His versatility is outstanding—in mathematics, philosophy and history.

Dr. Salk has remarked that the professional and cultural interests of the Fellows happily overlap. At a recent meeting of several of these scientists in New York City, they chatted with vivacity of organizing competing string quartets at the Salk Institute next year, of sailing and swimming in the Pacific even of shooting a round of golf now and then. These "super stars" of science who may be expected soon to revolutionize biology and thus "help man make the most of his gift of life" are human beings, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Cook, who have been building their new house during the summer months, have completed the building and moved in a fortnight ago.

Mrs. Aeful McClain, who has been a patient in the Fulton Hospital, is now improving after being so very sick for the past two weeks. Many friends here will be glad to know of her improvement.

Little Jacqueline, 7 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lassiter, is doing nicely at the present time in Akron, Ohio. The infant has been in a cast for several weeks to correct her hips.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haygood and children, Bettye, Larry Don, and Diane, of Elgin, Illinois, have returned home after their vacation here with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathis of this village and Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Haygood, Fulton, Route 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Puckett, local florists in Dukedom, purchased the Thacker farm on the Latham-Dukedom road and are now remodeling. The building has a new roof and other improvements are going on. The improvements will add much to the value and appearance with conveniences as well. The entire community welcomes the couple into our midst.

Mrs. Ed McClain, isn't feeling quite so well at this writing and is now confined to her bed. She was a patient in the TB Hospital for several months and her steady improvement has been slowed down, many will regret to hear.

Mid-South Fair To Choose A '62 'Pork Queen'

For the first time, the Mid-South Fair in Memphis will pay tribute to a "Pork Queen."

Some gracious young lady with farm background from either Tennessee, Arkansas, or Mississippi will serve as official hostess over the activities in the new ultra-modern swine barn, "Hog Heaven," from September 23-27. The 1962 "Pork Queen" of the Mid-South Fair will be selected on Sunday, September 23, at 2:30 p. m. in the arena of "Hog Heaven" at the Fairgrounds. Contestants must be between the ages of 16 and 21 and must live on a farm on which swine are raised or have parents who are actively engaged in the production of swine.

Contestants will be honored at a noon luncheon at which time judges will have an opportunity to meet them. The winner will receive an expense paid trip to Chicago for herself and a chaperone where she will be entered in the National "Pork Queen" Contest on Sunday, November 25.

Entrants must submit an entry form along with an 8 x 10 glossy photo of themselves to the Mid-South Fair Livestock Department prior to September 10.

Contestants will be attired in "dress up" fashion but not formal. The young hopefuls will be judged on beauty and personality, presentation and poise, plus a short oral essay not to exceed five minutes on one of the following subjects: "How to Promote More Pork Consumption," "The Value of Pork in Nutrition," "What the Housewife Can Do to Help the Pork Market," or any subject pertaining to the pork industry.

In addition, judges will quiz contestants on subjects pertaining to pork and swine.

The queen and her chaperone will be guests of the Mid-South Fair during their four or five day stay in Memphis.

The contest is co-sponsored by the Memphis Packing Company, (Division of Armour and Company.) For further information and entry blanks write to the Livestock Department at the Mid-South Fair, P. O. Box 3808, Memphis 14, Tennessee.

State Fair Has Eighteen Major Events Planned

Eighteen major special events have been slated for the 1962 Kentucky State Fair, September 7-15.

Opening day event will be the selection of Kentucky's Tobacco Princess, who will represent the state at a national Tobacco Queen contest to be held in Richmond, Virginia.

The first Saturday of the Fair will bring the Commonwealth's star horseshoe pitchers together in single and doubles competition with the State Championship title at stake.

Monday, the annual Farm-City meeting and luncheon will highlight the day's activities.

Tuesday, Farm Bureau and Kentucky Rural Electric Co-Op Day, will be the most ambitious program of events ever staged in one day at the Fair, with contests scheduled for the Coliseum, Stadium and Speedway. The Kentucky Blue Ribbon Farm Family for the year will be announced, the Farm Bureau's Gospel Quartet Contest will be decided, 4-H Tractor operators will display their skill, the Rural Electric Beauty contest and pageant will be held, and to wind up the action packed day, more than 30 High School Bands will compete for honors and trophies.

On Wednesday, future entertainment stars will vie for the judges' nod in a state-wide Talent Search, and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual meeting and luncheon at the Fair.

Thursday, horse teams will make their big pull for fame and glory, while F. F. A. Tobacco Auctioneers chant for recognition and possible future careers. The Mule Show and Parade of Champions also will be held on this day. Friday, the Rooster Crowing Champion of the year will be crowned. The last Saturday will find hundreds of colorfully garbed square dancers participating in the Fair's annual festival, to wind up the fair with a final "do-is do."

Project Approved For Unemployed

Frankfort, July—Kentucky's 23rd retraining project for the unemployed has been approved by the Federal Area Redevelopment Administration, Kentucky Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell has reported.

That project, to retrain 50 clerk-stenographers, will be set up in Madisonville for unemployed or underemployed residents of Hopkins and Muhlenberg counties.

The class, to last sixteen weeks, will be conducted at the Madisonville Area Vocational School. The State Employment Service office there is now screening and selecting trainees.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

"Improving the Speed"

"Improvement of the Breed" may no longer be the prime reason for Thoroughbred racing but improvement of the speed of Thoroughbreds is continual. In 1961 two dirt track world records were smashed and the roster of turf records underwent alterations too numerous to list. Illustrative of how the speed of Thoroughbreds has improved is the record for the American Championship distance of a mile and a quarter. This record has proved as brittle as the yellowing pages on which Narragansett's 1869 mark of 2:10 is recorded. By 1881 a horse named Getaway had lowered it to 2:07 3/4 (watch set by Noor at Golden Gate Fields on June 24, 1950).

Down on the Farm

With JIM PRYOR
Agricultural Agent, State Capitol Building

On July 16th the Graves County Agricultural Council made a trip to the University of Ill. Dixon Springs Experiment Station located near Robbs, Illinois.

We were well pleased to have Hopkins County farmers with us on the tour. The Hopkins County group consisted of Harry Phelps, Tom H. Porter, Gilbert Fowler, and Gene Brown, Assistant County Agricultural Extension Agent of Hopkins County. Those from the Graves County Agricultural Council included L. W. Murdock, Dale Wilson, Howard Paschall, President of the Council, Charles Magness, Sec'y, James L. Crass, Raymond Hogue, Warren Holt and this writer.

It would be impossible to tell of all the interesting experiments now being conducted under the able direction of Mr. Bob Webb, Director of the Dixon Springs Station. Our first stop was the run-off tanks. Rain the evening before gave us a chance to see first hand, just how the run-off was measured and what it means to farmers to have land properly covered. Mr. Bob Cates, First Assistant, at the Station conducted our tour and told us some very interesting facts about this run-off, which causes erosion. Bob said that a field in permanent pasture with proper management would lose one (1) acre inch of top soil in 2,000 years. This was compared with a rotation of corn wheat and lespedeza on a 9 percent slope which would erode to plow depth (6-23 inches) in only 50 years. There is little wonder why settlers moved on westward. The stop at the pellet mill revealed more interesting facts. Bob said that the pelleting of hay resulted in much higher gains than did baled hay. It took 17 pounds baled hay to produce a pound of gain and only 8 to 9 pounds of hay pellets per pound of gain. Mr. Cate said that the animals that were on test just ate more hay in pellets than they would in baled form because of the bulk, as a result, more gains per pound of roughage. While we are on hay, for the beef cattle and sheep all hay is roll baled and left in the field, or hauled to the wintering field where it is eaten free choice. Bob said very little is lost from weathering except a little on the very bottom where the roll touched the ground. Cows clean up a bale once they get it broken. Cattle in the wintering fields find shelter in near-by woods.

We also saw corn that had been planted in a fescue sod! The fescue, however, had been treated for a complete kill. The stand of corn was good, but Bob said that the missing hills resulted from the lack of cover for the seed when planted. They are working on a device for covering the seed for sod planting next year. The corn had no cultivation whatsoever and looked just as healthy as the corn plot next to it that had been planted on a plowed seedbed.

One of the Hopkins County farmers said that no one would believe him if he told them about the sod planting of corn, back in his community. I do remember Dale Wilson saying to me that he was glad that he saw it before someone told him about the experiment.

Mr. Webb and Mr. Cate both highly endorse silage as a highly productive livestock roughage. Bob Webb remarked in his welcome remarks that corn silage is the superior silage. He continued by saying, "The value of corn in converting plant food into a marketable product far exceeds mixtures that yield a greater volume." "Here on the station," Bob related, "We use trench silos and cover them with plastic, then use a covering of agriculture limestone." He also stressed the fact that they had no problems with spoilage.

The day ended when we all gathered in the basement of the new dormitory, where Bob Webb had secured a portable T. V. set. The program, To Tell The Truth, that day featured Mrs. L. W. Murdock, of Paradise Friendly Home, Lynnville, Ky. It closed with new T. V. star Les (L. W.) Murdock identifying his wife with a big kiss, right there in front of the T. V. and everybody.

"All agreed that the day had been well spent, even though we did not get to see all the nearly 6,000 acre station. It would take at least three days to do this and thoroughly digest what each man there is trying to accomplish.

Forestry Awards To Be Given In Annual Contest

Kentucky and Southern Indiana farmers have until Wednesday, August 15, to submit entries in the $1,000 Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards Competition.

This eighth annual contest, sponsored by The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc., is designed to emphasize the importance of an active farm forestry program.

To be eligible for the grand prize of $500 or the second prize of $200, the farmer may have completed his forestry program in several years or in a single year. However, the improvement awards of $200 and $100 are based on progress made during the contest year, September 9, 1961, and August 15, 1962.

A certificate of merit will be presented to the top entrant in each county from which five or more entries are received.

Entry blanks and complete rules may be obtained from foresters, county agents, conservationists, or by writing the Public Service Department of the newspapers.

Entries must be submitted to the Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards, The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc., Louisville 2, Ky.

Diary

Mrs. L. J. Clements entertained Tuesday of last week at her home on Third Street with a gathering of old friends honoring Mrs. Bertie Hicks, a visitor from Winston-Salem, North Carolina. She formerly lived in Fulton and Martin.

The house was beautifully decorated with garden flowers and at noon a lovely pot-luck luncheon was served. The afternoon was spent recalling old times and happenings.

A popular visitor, Miss Suellen Parham of Texas City, Texas, was the inspiration for a lovely porch party last Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Exum. Hostesses were Misses Letha Exum and Sara Jane Poe. Fourteen young people danced to music from the hi-fi. Decorations were jack-o-lanterns strung in the yard.

Lemonade was served during the evening and refreshments of Pepsis, sandwiches, cookies, mints, potato chips and dips were served.

The guest of honor was presented a gift of costume jewelry.

Michael Hawks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hawks, was honored with a party on his fourth birthday last Sunday. His parents were hosts to the twelve little guests.

Lovely party cakes and lime sherbert were served following games.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

The News extends birthday greetings to the following persons this week:

August 2: Donna Jordan, Mary Lou Connaughton, Pat Dowdy, Tom Bushart, Mrs. Lee Yates; August 3: Kay Bowen, Mrs. Myrtle Doyle, Mrs. Atkins Cole, Mrs. Ada Thompson; August 4: Jessie Gamblin, Donnie Pugh, Mrs. Win Whitnel, Jimmie and Lucille Bennett, Morgan Davidson; August 5: Taylor Sheridan, Mrs. A. ### Goodrich To Build New Plant At Calvert City

Construction is expected to start early next year on a multi-million dollar petro-chemical complex at Calvert City, near Paducah.

J. W. Keener, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co., announced the plant will share a 230-acre site now occupied by the B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co.

Keener said some of the buildings will be in operation by late next year and all facilities are scheduled for production by the middle of 1964.

The complex, including four main plants and a number of auxiliary buildings, will produce ethylene, its by-product propylene and other hydrocarbons.

Martin Voters Approve Plan For Hospital

Martin voters have given overwhelming approval to a proposal to issue $413,000 in bonds to finance the city's share of the proposed Hill-Burton Hospital for that city.

A total of 1,031 Martin voters went to the polls last week, with 788 voting for the bond issue as against only 243 opposed. This came to about 76 per cent of the people for the proposal.

Backers of the hospital were jubilant over the size of the victory. The long legal hassle involved in the case was expected to cause an indifferent attitude on the part of the voters, but it seemed, instead, to arouse more interest in getting the hospital.

HONOR STUDENT!

Ella Doyle, daughter of Mrs. George F. Doyle of Carr Street, has been named to the honor roll at Memphis State University for the spring semester. She was one of 191 students who earned this honor.
