Mr. L. A. Cassidy, price specialist for restaurants, and Mr. L. Edward Knapp, district food rationing officer conducted the meeting. Mr. Cassidy explained the restaurant maximum price regulation, Number 3-14 on eating and drinking establishments that will become effective February 1st, 1944. This price regulation is freezing the restaurant prices as they were last April 4th and 10th, 1943.

Mr. Knapp explained the re-registration of institutional users and instructions on keeping a daily record and ration banking for institutional users.

Others present at the meeting were: Mr. Walter Kallbriber, district food rationing assistant, and Mr. Brucker Miller, field organization officer.

SOME PLEDGES ARE KEPT

By the solemn oath they take, our men and women in service pledge "true faith and allegiance to the United States of America," and to "serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies."

They keep that pledge. Even if it means giving up their precious young lives—they keep that pledge.

What, then, is there to be said about the "no-strike-in-wartime" pledge?

WOMEN OF FULTON AID IN WAR EFFORT

Those left at home must carry on in interest of the war effort, and in support of the home front, which is also vital to winning of the victory. Women of Fulton are responding nobly to the call, working in various war time pursuits, in the homes, in business, in schools and community work.

Fulton has a service club, which is kept open for men and women in service, who may be in the city. The Red Cross work must go on; various charitable and welfare programs must be conducted; and jobs must be filled that were formerly filled by men who are now in service.

In many of Fulton's businesses, women are doing their part by stepping into the shoes of those called into other service. The Fulton theatres, for instance, are now being managed by Mrs. Harold Thomas, wife of Harold Thomas, who is now with the armed forces. Mrs. Williams helps her husband who is manager of W. V. Roberts & Son; Mrs. Bennett aids her husband, Ed Bennett, at the Bennett Cafe; Mrs. DeMyer and Donna DeMyer Dalton, wife and daughter of E. N. DeMyer, assist him at the store; and there are scores of others including those women who are employed at the local garment factory.

PILOT LANE SPENCE GRADUATES AT ALTUS

Headquarters Army Air Forces Central Flying Training Command, Randolph Field, Tex., Jan. 10—Eager and ready to meet the enemy, thousands of brand new aerial warriors of the Army Air Forces today won their silver wings at 11 Advanced Pilot Schools of the Army Air Forces Training Command in the first graduating classes of the New Year.

Following on the heels of a year of peak production of combat flyers, today's new fighting pilots, from every state, the District of Columbia and from foreign countries, was the largest group yet turned out at one time by these fields.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Commanding General of the Army Air Forces, sent this message to the new class of pilots:

"... The coming year will bring the most decisive days of our time, the most decisive of centuries to come perhaps. I am fully confident that you are equal to the challenge."

Figures on the total number of pilots in the group were not released, but even as they went into active assignment, the 11 training schools began work on another, and even larger, group of cadets who will graduate early next month.

Fighter pilot stations participating in today's ceremonies are those at Moore Field; Eagle Pass, and Foster and Aloe Fields, all in Texas. Bomber pilots were graduated at Brooks, Lubbock, Ellington, Pampa and Blackland fields in Texas, and Altus and Frederick in Oklahoma.

The new pilots include Lane E. Spence, of Fulton, Route 4; and Charles M. Sutherland, Mayfield.

EDITORIAL*1944: THE DECISIVE WAR

This New Year we're beginning may be the decisive year of the war. The Pacific offensive already is under way, aimed at the heart of the enemy—Tokyo. In the Atlantic and Mediterranean, the Allies are poised for a concerted attack upon Hitler's European Fortress, are even now administering their first shattering blows.

In hundreds of ways and on scores of fronts, pulpwood is hastening the day of reckoning.

Flying Fortresses rain destruction over Nazi Europe; their deadly bombs contain explosives made of pulpwood. Allied fighters inch their way through South Pacific jungles; aiding their advance are supplies packed in paper products and dropped by parachutes manufactured from pulpwood.

If you can speed an axe, you can speed victory this year. Every cord of pulpwood you cut means more smokeless powder, more blood plasma containers, more shell casings. Every cord cut now brings victory nearer.

As the tempo of our attack increases, so does the need for pulpwood.

Cut the Axis down—NOW!

THE HOME ROLE

"The commander abandoned all preconceived plans," ran the account of a U. S. raid on Makin Island. "He threw overboard everything but the one priceless quality—ability to face an unexpected problem, improvise, and overcome it."

Fighting Americans, whose minds have been trained in resourcefulness and sharpened by such tests of self-reliance, will not want or expect to find when they return complete insurance against life's worries. To them the jobs of reconstruction will stand as challenge—as opportunity to achieve success and happiness through what others call the "impossible."

Our role here at home is to make sure they get a fair chance to work out their destinies—through the traditional American freedoms of initiative and enterprise.

V

TIME FOR A FRESH START

The turn of the year is a good time to make a fresh start, when things go wrong.

As individuals, we are making resolutions to turn over a new leaf, and get on the right track in our personal lives.

As a nation, we should resolve to make a fresh start on some of the problems of the Home Front that have been badly messed up during the past year. And no problem calls so urgently for a new beginning as the handling of the nation's food.

Our Government agencies got badly mixed up on this food question, and consumers have been the victims. The Department of Agriculture has been urging farmers to grow more crops and livestock, to feed our armies in the field, our Allies and the civilian population at home upon which the war effort necessarily depends in the long run. But the Department and other agencies have done many things which prevent farmers from fulfilling the high production objectives set before them.

The OPA has set ceilings on food prices which in a number of instances have failed to give the farmer enough to cover his costs. A striking example of this is the ceiling on beef prices, which at present prices for corn spell loss for many a farmer in the Middle West who buys ranch cattle and fattens them on his farm. This has meant less beef and poorer quality beef for his armed forces and civilians.

The War Production Board, the War Manpower Commission and latterly the War Food Administration have all been concerned with the food problem. Often, their rulings are ill-conceived and conflicting.

The biggest mistake of all, however, was the rollback and subsidy plan evolved by the Office of Economic Stabilization. This plan was devised as a sop to labor leaders, who could then claim they got the Administration to cut the price of meat. Ceilings for meat prices were lowered and subsidies were paid processors to keep livestock prices unchanged. At the same time, ceilings have been imposed on live cattle prices, after the Department of Agriculture said they were impractical to make the meat ceilings conform to the law, and plans are being drawn up to allocate livestock coming to market.

Never before has such detailed regimentation been attempted of so complex an industry. The trouble with the entire system, as every farmer knows, is that it will not work.

Some regimentation may be inevitable in wartime, but this is regimentation gone berserk. It can only be explained as the efforts of urban college professors to regulate agriculture in the same way as they would the output of a factory. When nature does not do their bidding, a sheaf of new regulations is issued to put nature in its place.

Let us have done with all this mess in the New Year. Let us call in competent men who know agriculture, and let them evolve a simple and effective plan to balance food demand with supply. The Livestock and Meat Council has shown one way to do this with its Meat Management Plan, which has yet to be put into effect. That is the kind of fresh start that is required to put the whole process of food production and distribution on a sound basis to meet wartime requirements in 1944.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

When the Government took over the railroads in the first World War it marked the beginning of a period that was disastrous to private enterprise. It is to be hoped that we are not to go down the line as we did in 1918 and put various other great industries under the thumb of Uncle Sam.

"Where do we stand now, and where do we go from here," asks Mark Sullivan, ace commentator, in discussing the Little Steel formula and its relation to the vote of railroad unions to strike and the beginning of strikes in the steel mills. Mr. Sullivan believes that the Administration must either defend the Little Steel formula firmly, or admit that the formula is gone—and with it the hope of holding the present line against inflation.

More than one editorial observer pictures the President as being deeply embroiled in labor politics and traces his difficulties in handling war time labor problems as due to the fact that he has used the processes of "amiable personal relations with labor leaders" all too long.

The Washington Post believes that to date the Administration has coasted along on the mistaken assumption that the unions' no-strike pledge would be effective. The Post agrees that hundreds of Unions have faithfully adhered to the no-strike pledge; but says the pledge has been broken so often that "the no-strike pledge is in tatters."

A few powerful labor leaders have been responsible for hundreds of strikes. The workers don't initiate these strikes—they follow their leaders. Congressmen have stated that anyone can go into any great plant and find the workers are all enthusiastic over the way they are helping to win the war.

The culture most needed now is agriculture.

Care not what the world thinks. It doesn't.

When one sings his own praises his music is bad.

A mocking bird has been known to change his tune 87 times in one day. Think what a politician a mocking bird would make.

If you are moving in the right direction you are sure to step on somebody's toes.

The only hope of avoiding war is to accept Christianity as a way of life, not only in our private affairs, but in all public and international contacts.—Cannon Sheppard.

True wisdom is to know what is best worth knowing and to do what is best worth doing.—Humphrey.

However learned or eloquent, man knows nothing truly that he has not learned from experience.—Wieland.

Experience is victor, never the vanquished; and out of defeat comes the secret of victory. That tomorrow starts from today and is one day beyond, robs the future with hope's rainbow hues.—Mary Baker Eddy.

ple. Some of these large cities now contain little Chinas, little Germanys, little Italys, and little nations from all over the world. These "little nations" vote in our national elections. In national elections the heavy populations of the big cities elect more Congressmen than the farmers of America can elect. The farmers and farm States of America can simply not afford to permit our method of ratifying treaties to be changed.

We are treading on dangerous ground if we permit this change in our Constitution. It is time for serious thought and action, and your Senator and Representative should be told to line up against this proposal which would bring our nation one step closer to the brink of disaster.

Congress is grappling with hundreds of problems on the home front—trying to do its best. The most serious situation with respect to transportation is the lack of adequate facilities for motor transportation. Diminution in this service will necessarily have serious repercussions on our war effort. It is high time that something be done about making more new trucks in order that sufficient motor transportation will be provided to carry on the war on the home front.

Okay, Sailor, you are right! We were talking with a sailor recently who had returned from action on the high seas. We were not surprised at the bitterness expressed by him regarding strikes, even though he was a union man himself. He indicated that men in service, who gave up good jobs, to fight for their country and to preserve our freedom, were disgusted with the strikes in these times. His argument was thoroughly patriotic and sound.

A post-war "master plan" of spending $500,000,000 for the conversion of its plant from war to peacetime production, for technological improvements and for retooling for post-war products was recently announced by Alfred Sloan chairman of General Motors, as the contribution GM is prepared to make to help preserve the free competitive enterprise system as the keystone of the American economy. Declaring that we must first win the war—and it is not won by any means—Mr. Sloan raised a point that no one can deny; it is essential to win the peace in an economic sense, as it is to win the war, in a military sense.

Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau denounced the action of Congress in passing a tax bill of $2,284,000,000 when he had asked for ten and a half billions. He indicated that there were good prospects of a President's veto. The trouble with Mr. Morgenthau is that he has stood by and supported all the extravagant and wasteful propositions of the New Deal since 1933. In view of that record he is at great disadvantage when he tries to influence the public to turn its back on Congress. Congress isn't perfect; but when it slashed Morgenthau's ten and one-half billion dollar taxation monstrosity it served the country well.

An official report indicates that the cost of living is now 3.6 per cent higher than in November, 1942, and 23 per cent above January, 1941. Private estimates challenge these figures as too low. Most individuals have their own opinions on this subject.

Congress has recovered "independence" and nobody knows it as well as the President, who is concentrating his efforts on the war.

The proposal before Congress would change the Constitution so that a treaty can be ratified by a majority of both Congressmen and Senators, instead of the present Constitution requiring a two-third vote in the Senate. If this proposal was accepted by the Legislatures of the States, then every safeguard against entangling alliances with foreign powers would be swept aside. Under such majority rule, it would require only 24 and one-half States in the Senate to commit the nation to a foreign treaty instead of requiring 32 States as it now does to ratify a treaty.

Under the majority rule, the farm States would be practically disfranchised insofar as making treaties with foreign nations is concerned. Most farm States are thinly populated, while the industrial States are heavily populated. The big cities like New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and so on, have tremendous populations already of foreign-born people. Some of these large cities now contain little Chinas, little Germanys, little Italys, and little nations from all over the world. These "little nations" vote in our national elections. In national elections the heavy populations of the big cities elect more Congressmen than the farmers of America can elect. The farmers and farm States of America can simply not afford to permit our method of ratifying treaties to be changed.

Harry L. Hopkins is so universally unpopular that his simplest actions are criticised. By some groups he has been called the unofficial president. Some one published and distributed a photostatic of a letter supposed to have been written by Mr. Hopkins naming "One man—Wendell Willkie" who would win the Republican presidential nomination next year. Mr. Hopkins says it was a forgery. Other people are naming one man—"F. D. Roosevelt" as certain to get the Democratic nomination for 1944. Supposing that neither Willkie nor Roosevelt get the nomination next year? What of it!

A lot has been said and written about when the war will end. High officials didn't take many chances pushing the date over into 1944—at a time when there was only a week left in 1943. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that American troops will lead the procession in the attack on the Western Front. While that looks like a pretty big assignment resulting from the Tehen Conference it may not be as one-sided as it looks. Russia is certainly not laying off on its job, and the British are sure to cover whatever territory is assigned to them.

In the meantime there are signs that the Home Front is falling down. Maybe Uncle Sam can catch up with himself if he gets busy on some of those jobs of reconversion, and keeps increasing his activities in that direction.

Generals Marshall and MacArthur are giving 99 per cent of their time to military matters, and when Marshall says what he thinks about the consequences of strikes his mind is not on the economics of labor difficulties, but on the impact that strikes may have on the armed forces. MacArthur doesn't give a whoop about politics, and the yards that he is coming back to the United States this winter to promote his candidacy for the Republican nomination is all baloney. MacArthur's ambition is to free the Philippines; Marshall's is to bring the whole war to a successful close. Leave the Generals alone and they'll come home dragging the scalps of Germans and Japs behind them.

United States has become foremost as the world's military and industrial power, with undisputed leadership in the air, on the sea, and on the land. Russia will be in second place and Great Britain will rank third. France, Spain and Italy will trail the procession. At one time and another each of them were at the top of the list.

The issue before the nation is not as some so loudly insist "Subsidies or Inflation." Instead it is "Production and more production, or hunger."

The farmer has a three-fold duty in the National price control program. He must produce more than ever before in history, and he must observe rationing and price control rules both as a buyer and a seller.

Hold fast to the Bible as the sheet-anchor of your liberties; write its precepts in your hearts, and practice them in your lives.—Ulysses S. Grant.

From where I sit...

—Joe Marsh

Never laughed so hard in my life as when Ben Ryder's white-faced steers broke through the fence out on the pike, with Ben dodging this way and that—trying to get 'em back on the pasture all by himself.

Ed Carey, Lem Martin and I were headed for town in Ed's car. "Hold on there!" I yelled to Ben. "There's three good men here to give you a hand!"

Well, sir, by a little coaxing and cooing, we got those steers back in the field all right, and the fence fixed, in short order.

Ben was mighty grateful to us and it just goes to show how cooperation does it, every time.

The brewers here in Kentucky have proved cooperation works. As an industry, they make it a point to see that beer is sold the way folks want it, in decent, law-abiding surroundings.

From where I sit, they're doing a good job. They're mighty jealous of beer's reputation as a beverage of moderation.

SAFETYGRAMS

With the arrival of cold weather, ice, and snow, the condition of your car should be checked. The windshield should be kept clean. Frosted windows in an automobile are a definite hazard to highway safety. All of the glass should be kept clear for unobstructed vision. If the windshield wipers are not in perfect order and the windshield is not clean, you will have difficulty in seeing the road ahead. The car heaters, defrosters, windshield wipers, tires, and lights should be checked to be sure they are in good condition.

These points are the responsibility of all drivers and should be kept in mind to help reduce automobile traffic accidents.

Drive thirty-five miles per hour. It's safer. Your car will last longer.

The fool and his money are soon parted. Even so, neither of them has lost much.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

"Ships are essential to Victory, and we shall continue our job of building them at record pace in 1944." — E. G. GRACE, president, Bethlehem Steel Company

SHIPS FOR VICTORY
A WORLD'S RECORD IN SIZE AND DIVERSITY

Bethlehem in '43 built 380 fighting and cargo ships.

Value of the year's program equivalent to 1,000 Liberty ships.

"A SHIP A DAY," with a number to spare, was the record production delivered by Bethlehem in 1943 to the United States Navy, the British Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission. This program was the greatest in magnitude and diversity ever accomplished by a private builder in the world's history. It marked the fulfillment of a promise made by Bethlehem a year ago to build in 1943 an average of "a ship a day" of major fighting and cargo craft.

The list of ships includes aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, virtually every type of fighting craft, as well as a large number of Liberty ships and other cargo vessels. In addition, Bethlehem ship repair yards converted, repaired, and serviced over 7,000 vessels, a vital contribution toward keeping the Allied fleets in fighting trim.

Measuring the program by Liberty ships, a battleship is equal to forty Liberty ships; and the value of the year's work in Bethlehem's shipbuilding division was the equivalent of over 1,000 Liberty ships.

Part of National Program — Bethlehem is permitted to publish these facts as part of our country's total program. Led by the U. S. Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission, America's shipbuilding in 1943 has been a national triumph of production.

We salute our fellow shipbuilders and their distinguished records.

We thank our thousands of suppliers whose efforts have been essential to our contribution.

We congratulate the men and women in the Bethlehem organization, in shipyards, steel plants, factories, mines, and in every division, all of whom have had a part in this effort.

Harder Task Ahead — The year's work in Bethlehem's shipyards, steel mills and other departments has been done by 300,000 men and women. More will be needed. Already a larger shipbuilding task has been assigned to us for 1944. We shall undertake that job with the knowledge that it must be done at maximum pace, to hasten the day of Victory.

★ 38 TYPES OF SHIPS ★

Program 70% Fighting Craft; 30% Cargo

ON MINORITIES

By RUTH TAYLOR

A lot of thoughtless people are asking today "Why all this clamor for rights? Don't minority groups know when they are well off?"

But—have you noticed how many of the people who say that, are those who have never met with discrimination? They have never moved outside of their own particular orbit, but the barrier that has kept them back has not been that of "restriction" or "discrimination." Instead it has been lack of money, or desire that restrained them. As individuals they knew they were acceptable anywhere.

Before you condemn minority pleadings, just think how you would feel if you weren't wanted—not after having had a chance to prove your worth, but before and regardless!

Remember that America was founded by men and women who were annoyed to action by restrictions—on jobs, in lands where trades descended from father to son; on religion, where no man could hold office who did not adhere to the creed of the State; on speech, where the secret police dogged the steps of those who thought for themselves—and so on. All of us who are "native born of native born" are descended from those who objected to restrictions.

Can we, therefore, be anything but patient and understanding of those who are trying to achieve what we have been born to—equal treatment as equals, the rights of being judged as individuals, not labelled as a minority and held outside the common life?

These minorities want to belong. They want the same rights we possess—the right to work and be useful, the right to economic security, the right to freedom from want for their families, and, most important of all, the right to participate on equal terms in our common life. Perhaps these minorities don't all think as we do, nor act as we would act—but have we given them the opportunity to learn our way of thought, our way of life?

There is no such thing as equality of possession—but there must be equality of opportunity. We can provide the education, tradition and background to give every one a chance if he has what it takes. As the stronger it is up to us—but we must do it by understanding and friendliness—not by restriction or discrimination.

Mr. Collier was carried to the home of his son, Ezra Collier, after he had suffered a stroke. He was carried by a Hornbeak ambulance.

NEWS REVIEW

Legislation implementing President Roosevelt's recommendation for a National Service Law was introduced in both Houses Tuesday, and C. I. O. President Philip Murray promptly denounced all labor drafts as "quack medicine." Men 18 to 64 and women 18 to 49 would come under the Service Act.

The Republicans have picked Chicago for their 1944 Presidential convention, to be held beginning June 26. Democrats will pick a convention city and date at a meeting of their National Committee in Washington January 22, and it is likely that Chicago will also receive this convention.

President Roosevelt's renewed demand for heavy additional axes to initial resistance from congressional tax leaders Tuesday with the Senate evidencing its temper by voting 48 to 17 to freeze Social Security tax rates at their current 1 per cent level.

Valuing construction contracts awarded in the Southern states in 1943, at $1,504,148,000, the Manufacturer Record said construction below the Mason-Dixon line had level off to prewar proportions. The growing industrialization and the shortage of homes probably will boost construction in 1944 over recent records.

President Roosevelt's call for Federal unification of voting machinery for service men got individual cheers in Congress Tuesday—and a completely unresponsive committee reception. The House Elections Committee sidestepped a proposal for a Federal ballot and took up a Senate-approved measure which would leave the soldier voting problem in the laps of the states. Both Kentucky and Tennessee have approved legislation to enable servicemen and women to vote.

Election of a Republican president next November will shorten the war "by months if not years," because it will guarantee America's military leaders home front support "they never have had before," Rep. Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, said this week.

LOCAL WORKERS
HELP BETHLEHEM EXCEED
SHIP-A-DAY PROMISE

300,000 men and women from all parts of the country are sharing the company's honors in having achieved the greatest shipbuilding record in history during the year 1943—380 fighting and cargo ships.

The government has permitted Bethlehem to reveal the fact that it exceeded in output its promise, which seemed fantastic when made at the beginning of 1943, that it would turn out a ship a day of major fighting and cargo craft. The remarkable program carried out by Bethlehem included a 35,000-ton battleship, 27,000-ton aircraft carrier, 14,706-ton aircraft carrier, 13,000-ton heavy cruiser, 10,000-ton light cruisers, 6,000-ton light cruiser, 2,100-ton destroyers, 1,620-ton destroyers, destroyer escorts, tank landing craft, infantry landing craft, and many types of cargo ships including a large number of Liberty ships and Victory ships.

The value of the year's work was equivalent to over 1,000 Liberty ships and, in terms of man-hours the company estimates the 1943 program was equivalent to the construction of 22 battleships. Approximately 70 per cent of the ships built were fighting craft and 30 per cent cargo vessels.

In addition to the amazing production record of new ships, Bethlehem yards also repaired, converted and serviced over 7,000 vessels, thus playing a major role in keeping our fighting fleets in trim.

Approximately 300,000 men and women were employed by Bethlehem in its shipyards, steel mills and other divisions to accomplish this program. But because the company has set its sights still higher for 1944 it will be necessary to add still more to its present army of employees.

RUSSIA

We would be prouder still if we could know the exact extent of industry's monumental production for war. But it's a military secret, as it should be.

An indication of the vast total, however, is furnished by the recent long-lease figures on our shipments to our Russian ally alone in the last two years—6,500 planes, 3,000 tanks, 125,000 submachine guns, 145,000 trucks, 25,000 jeeps, besides huge cargoes of metals, chemicals, explosives, food, etc.

F. D. R. CALLS FOR
MANPOWER DRAFT
IN WIN WAR PROGRAM

President Roosevelt last Tuesday night, in a sweeping "Win the War" program, called upon the Nation to back a national service law which will "prevent strikes" and which will draft every able-bodied adult for an all-out home front effort.

In one of his fireside chats over the radio, he deemed such a law necessary now to carry the Nation over the last hard miles to victory.

The President assailed pressure groups and selfish minorities on the home front, appealing for home front unity. He demanded prompt passage of soldier-vote legislation that will not leave the issue to the 48 states. He denounced overconfidence, complacency and warned that the war is far from won.

Four other proposals in his five point legislative program were:

1—A realistic tax law that will capture all unreasonable individual and corporate profits. He said the pending $2,275,000,000 bill "does not begin to meet this test."

2—Continuation of the War Contracts Renegotiation Law to prevent exorbitant profits and assure fair prices to the Government.

3—A food cost law enabling the Government to guarantee minimum prices to farmers and ceilings on prices consumers pay for food. He also asked for continuance of subsidies on necessities only at a cost of about $1,000,000,000 a year.

4—Re-enactment of the stabilization law of October, 1942, which otherwise would expire next June 30. It provides for control of wages, salaries and prices. He said that unless the law is extended well in advance "the country might just as well expect price chaos by Summer."

Retonga In A Class By Itself, Says Farmer

He Was Feeling Almost Despondent Over His Failure To Regain His Strength, States Mr. Colvin. Eats, Sleeps And Feels Fine Now

"After what Retonga did for me I never lose an opportunity to recommend it," declares Mr. Cyrus F. Colvin, 908 Cherry St., Petersburg, Ind., who owns one of the finest farms in his section. Discussing his happy relief through Retonga at the Farmers Co-Op Warehouse, Mr. Colvin gratefully stated:

"I had a very severe illness and when I got over it I didn't seem able to gain, but on the other hand seemed to be gradually losing the little strength I had left.

No food at all appealed to me, and what little I forced down seemed to do me no good. For several years I had been troubled with constipation, and this seemed to become worse. I tried several different medicines and treatments, but they seemed to have little effect.

"Mr. Fred Veck recommended Retonga and the relief it gave me seems almost marvelous. I have a ravenous appetite and feel so much stronger that I am on the go all day. Even the constipation is relieved. I think Retonga is in a class by itself."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Co. adv.

IT'S THE WAR

Powerful formation of bombers continue to hammer Germany and occupied territory with blows that level great cities and war plants. In a raid Tuesday, bombers and long-range fighters battled through storm weather and terrific German fighter opposition to pound targets deep in Germany. A German statement was that 123 of raiders were shot down. Allied information was not released.

The Russians continue their drive into Poland, routing German resistance and capturing much deserted armament, in addition to terrific destruction of the enemy's men and equipment.

Allied troops, crossing into Northwestern Burma in possible preparation for a major offensive, have captured Maungdaw, 55 miles above the Burmese port of Akyab and are driving down the Mayu peninsula in the face of heavy Japanese opposition. Lord Mountbatten's headquarters announced last Tuesday night.

American Air Forces continue their methodical destruction of the Japanese warships off New Ireland, of planes at Rabaul and communications in the Madang area of New Guinea.

American and British heavy bombers, operating from a network of airdromes in Southern Italy, have opened a day and night onslaught on Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, in what may be a calculated campaign to knock that Nazi satellite nation out of the war and start a collapse of Hitler's unsteady empire.

Yugoslav Partisans stated this week they were offering "tenacious resistance" to five German columns attempting to penetrate Partisan-held territory in Central and Western Bosnia.

A Fifth Army pincer closed in on the German bastion of Cassino, 70 miles from Rome, early this week, with one arm reaching the outskirts of Cervaro, fortified village four miles to the southeast of Cassino. American troops advancing up the road to Rome threatened the German mountain defense of Mt. Rocchio, less than three miles from Cassino, while British troops completed the capture of Mount Pedro, five miles southeast of Cassino, and continued to forge ahead.

Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., head of Allied forces in the South Pacific, declared this week that Tokyo is the number one objective in the Pacific and appealed to the American people to bar any peace with the Japanese until our forces get there. His remarks indicated that the wily Japs might seek to inveigle the United States into a negotiated peace short of unconditional surrender, in an effort "to save face" and prepare for another attempt for mastery in the Pacific in a decade or so.

Miss Mary Anderson, who is working at Camp Campbell, Ky., spent the week end with her parents, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Adams have returned home from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Manley in Metropolis, Ill.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, January 16, is "Life"; and the Golden Text is: "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son." (I John 5:11). Among citations are the following passages:

"For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom he will." (John 5:21.)

"Jesus said substantially, 'He that believeth in me shall not see death.' That is, he who perceives the true idea of Life loses his belief in death." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 324).

PAPERS TOP IN SALES POWER, ADS ARE NOT OBJECTIONABLE

Editors themselves have known ever since there have been newspapers that no other medium can compare with the newspaper for effectiveness in advertising. But not every editor has presented this fact to his advertisers and potential advertisers as vividly as was recently done by the Hot Springs (Ark.) New Era.

A certified public accountant firm made a survey of what most influences buying, and what forms of advertising are objectionable. It was a representative survey in that every fifth name in the telephone directory was chosen to receive the two-point questionnaire. Here are the questions with figures on answers.

1. Please list in the order of your preference first, second, etc., types of advertising which INFLUENCE you MOST in doing your BUYING.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

MILLIONS of Americans like you and your neighbors are thinking very seriously these days about the future. Everybody is wondering what kind of a world we shall be living in after the war. People are deeply concerned about getting the men and women now in the services back into civil life . . . about steady jobs . . . about housing, health, living standards, education, taxes . . . about farming . . . about helping the folks in devastated nations.

Careful planning will go a long way toward solving many of the problems that come up. Kentucky Utilities Company recognizes this fact and is doing something about it. That is, your electric company is planning for better days in the post-war era.

We are planning to do our full share in providing jobs for ex-service men and women.

. . . Planning to promote State industrial and commercial development that will assure wider employment, greater production and increased public revenues for better schools, hospitals, roads, health activities, etc.

. . . Planning so we can carry our share of war costs to help relieve the individual taxpayer's burden.

. . . Planning facilities that will provide better electric service at lower and lower cost.

. . . Planning to enable many more families to enjoy comforts, conveniences, safety and health safeguards that electric service makes possible.

. . . Planning to help farmers produce more at lower costs the electric way and have a larger share of the good things of life.

In short, we are planning to be a good citizen, actively interested in the general welfare, in every community we serve.

Maybe you wonder whether we're just day-dreaming, or whether we can make sound plans that work. Well, the best evidence that we can is that we have done so.

During the years before Pearl Harbor Day we planned and built an electric power system that has adequately met all war industry and civilian requirements in spite of manpower and material shortages. And in the face of much higher operating costs we have lowered rates.

Battle of Life

Chaplain Estus A. Autrey
(Captain)

The subject that I have for you is broad; yet the most important due to the extreme difficult conditions of this present age. I feel sure that I am speaking to some who are in the preparatory stages for the great battle of life, while there are others listening to me who are nearing the conclusion of this great battle. These have already extended their hands in search of the knob to the Western Gate of life. During life, one faces the battle for physical existence in which we wrestle with diseases and infirmities. There is constantly the battle for fame—every man is endeavoring to climb the ladder of accomplishments that lead to the hall of fame. There is also the continued battle for heroism which seems to be in-bred in all men; and finally, there is the battle for individual character in which a man calls to bear every possible aid to assist in a successful conclusion of the struggle. In view of this truth, we to the individual who proves himself a slacker and coward in facing the battle of life.

I remember several years ago, when visiting Jamestown, Virginia, upon seeing the statue that was erected to honor the early settlers of this great nation, I was reminded of how these people faced a wilderness, disease, privation and the opposition of the natives. My mind moved back across the decades as I noted the progress of this gallant people. I was reminded that they must have had courage, power and faith, and as a result, they laid the foundation of the great inheritance that we enjoy namely the most powerful Christian nation on earth.

The primary purpose of this message is to call your attention to God's Master Plan by which anyone can win the battle of life. God's way is the only way to victory. The ways of men will inevitably fail. By following God's Plan you will mean more to your nation, to your community, to your Creator and to yourself. God's way of salvation is simple. Many would have you to believe that in order to be saved you must travel a most complicated way—this is not true. "The way-fairing man though he be a fool, should not err therein." There is but one way; there are not many as some would have you to believe. The old statement—we are all going to the same place but traveling different roads—is untrue. The way, according to the Scriptures, is narrow and straight and few will there be that will enter therein. Therefore, it behooves us to make certain that we are in the right way of salvation.

Let's consider briefly the meaning of Salvation. Many are unaware of the significance of Salvation. Some are unable to understand Salvation because they are fleshly minded. Only the saved can thoroughly appreciate its meaning. Salvation means deliverance, releasing, leading out, setting free. The sinner is bound as a bond slave of sin. He is totally helpless and depraved. God's great salvation rescues him from the clutches of helplessness. It means deliverance from fear—fear of past, present and future. Fear is one of man's greatest enemies. Salvation eradicates the fear that has been planted by Satan. Salvation is deliverance from sorrow. This is a world of sorrow, a vale of tears. There is in the heart of every Christian a peace and joy that cannot be erased by outward commotions and problems. Salvation delivers from failure. There are no failures in Christ. We may experience what seems to us to be failures but when these experiences are looked back upon, we find that they fit into God's plan of Providence which equals success. Salvation delivers from death and Hell eternal. Apart from the deliverance which comes as a result of God's salvation, there is no escape from this place called Hell. In being saved we are delivered to the glorious privilege of adoption into the family of God. We are delivered to a forward look anticipating heaven with all its benefits the greatest of which is eternal life in Christ. We will be able to face Him with a clear conscience knowing that we have been saved by His precious blood.

Salvation means freedom. Any man out of Christ is not free. He is a spiritual criminal—a walking corpse bound with cords of sin. Salvation's freedom is typified by the deliverance of Paul and Silas from the jail at Philippi. There, God in his own way, set them free.

Salvation means redemption. The primary purpose of Christ's mission to earth was to redeem the souls of men. God's great salvation is interested in the redemption of Man's home which is the Earth; of Man's body which is the temple of the Spirit, and of Man's soul. A lost man is one whose soul has been ponded to Satan. Salvation equals his redemption or the ransom paid—redemption from darkness to light, from weakness to strength, from sickness to health, from blindness to sight, from death to life. The whole meaning of salvation may be summed up by saying that it is a ticket to heaven—a God-given pass.

Salvation is from God above—not of men, but wholly of God. Ephesians, Chapter 2:8-9 is a clean cut unmistakable and simple statement on God's way of salvation, therefore, Man is not saved by his good works. A saved man will do good deeds but this is merely a by-product of what has already happened. It is a result of faith. If every good deed could be compared with every bad one, and if Man's chance of salvation depended upon his works, no man would be saved; therefore, Man is not saved by church membership. The church is a band of baptized believers in Christ banded together for the purpose of propagating the Gospel. The institution has no saving power. A saved man will desire to unite with the Church, but will not depend upon the Church to save him. Neither is a man saved by baptism because baptism is an act of obedience—a symbol of what has already taken place; that is, death to sin, resurrection to a new life in Christ, to walk in His will. In baptism, one preaches a great sermon confessing faith in Christ and taking a definite stand on the side of true righteousness. A saved man will follow Christ in baptism if given an opportunity. However, the lack of baptism is his case had nothing to do with his salvation.

Man is not saved by relatives and friends. Sons and daughters of saintly parents will be lost. Godly parents will do anything possible to achieve the salvation of their children, but it is not within their power to save. Man is not saved today by living high moral standards. There will be what we call good men in Hell. Morality is not Christianity. I sincerely believe that the moral standards of our great nation need lifting to a higher plane, but the individual that depends entirely upon morals for salvation finds himself in the same conditions of the rich young ruler who, when coming to Christ, found that he lacked salvation.

Man is not saved by intentions. It is my belief that no man intends to go to Hell, but that all men intend to make preparations to meet God in death and eternity but time is called out and death steals upon them and their good intentions are of no avail. There is no excuse that will take the place of the New Birth. Giving of a man's possessions, church attendance, or anything save the Blood of Christ will be sufficient to stand at the judgment. God will not excuse one because of his gifts to the Church. A Christian should give all his means, time and talent to the advancement of Christianity, but this will not save him. "Salvation is by grace"—this is an expression of God true to his nature. That means that salvation is a free-gift, God-given, produced in heaven—earth's best cannot compare. Therefore, no one can buy it; if it could be bought, the rich would be saved and the poor would be lost. No man can steal it. God has it. You must accept it his way. He gives it to you. Even though it's free, all will not possess it.

No doubt I am speaking to some who will go out to meet God without salvation; not because they are too bad to be saved, since no man gets beyond the reach of God, but because they delay in making the most important decision of their life. Delay was born in Hell; it has caused many to be lost. Men are lost because they yield to self and Satan and refuse to permit the Grace of God to give them life. I dare say that all men of any given gathering would accept a new car as a free gift. May I remind you that God is offering to all men a gift more precious than the whole world. All we have to do is to accept it. Remember, no man can save himself. He must let God do it, as he is able, willing and ready to save anyone. Salvation is offered to all without any exception. It is offered to all classes or nationalities regardless of financial, intellectual, political or social standings. All men are God's creation, therefore, salvation is for all.

Today is the day of salvation. God has set it aside for that purpose. Many are using today for pleasure, sinning, robbing and looting. Many are using today preparing for this present life, but oh, how foolish when we realize this life is as a shepherd's tent, a passing cloud, a dressing room, a brief act on the stage of life. Many are taking today for idleness, indifference, disobedience. They are hiding out like old Jonah; they're unconcerned. This is a day of grace. Need I remind you that your food, home, clothes, children and friends are given? Let me persuade you to be as Joshua: "For me and my house, we choose God." God is present right now offering you salvation.

God sent salvation through Jesus Christ, his son—there is no other channel. According to Acts 4:12, "there is no other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Jesus declared: "I am the way, the truth and the life—no man comes unto the Father except by me." That should remind us that salvation was not sent through the Holy Spirit. Many today are worshipping the Holy Spirit for salvation, instead of the blood of Jesus. Many are depending on the Holy Spirit for salvation, instead of Christ. In Hebrews 2:3 we read: "Apart from the shedding of blood, there is no remission for sins. Also in Romans 6:23 we read: "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Salvation is not by the miracles, teachings, virgin birth or sinless life of Jesus. These are wonderful, but they do not save. God sent salvation through the death of Christ; that is why we stand amazed in the presence of the cross of our Lord. Christ died at a ransom to purchase our salvation. Christ died as a propitiation, a substitute, breaching a gap that separated us from God. It is at the cross that sin is robbed, giving man salvation, removing death, the power and penalty of sin, giving life. At the cross, heaven is opened and the doors of Hell closed; man elevated. At the cross Satan is defeated receiving mortal wounds. At the cross, God comes down to man and allows man to become his son. It is there that our guilt is put away. The resurrection of Christ seals man's salvation. It is there that complete assurance is given.

All who walk through the blood shall walk triumphantly through the grave. In saving man from sin, Christ assumes the office of prophet, priest and king; his motive being love. (Read John 3:16.) His object, the salvation of souls (Luke 19:10.) The extent of salvation is the whole world and all generations. This world stands in need of a baptism of blood because it is lost. Not in the blood of animals, fowls and men but the blood of Jesus Christ. The spilling of man's blood will not necessarily remedy the ills of the world. The blood that will remedy and heal this world's wounds, problems and diseases, has already been spilled. If nations and individuals would gather around that fountain of blood of which we sing, there will be no need of misunderstanding, ill feelings and wars.

God's way of salvation is a bloody way. He has said: "When I see the blood, I will pass over." Blood speaks from the ground denoting personal guilt. Blood speaks from the altar denoting national guilt; the blood speaks from the cross denoting Universal guilt. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Only the blood of Christ will remove sins and save the soul. As someone has said: "Salvation is unspeakable. It was an unspeakable love that thought it, an unspeakable life that brought it, an unspeakable death that wrought it, an unspeakable joy to men who have taught it and unending life to men who accept it."

God's way is for me to choose Christ voluntarily. With Christ as our Captain, leader, friend and Saviour, we cannot fail; we will win the battle of life. May I ask you personally: Are you in God's way of salvation? Remember that now is the time; this is the place. The end of God's way is eternal joy—eternal life. It leads to a crown of power, riches, peace and everlasting bliss.

In conclusion, I would like to remind you that God gives us equipment with which to fight the battle of life. I remember while visiting Richmond, Virginia of seeing Jackson's horse, sword and rifle which constituted the equipment with which he battled his way to lasting glory in the history of this nation. With this equipment, stood an old blood-stained banner which was used in one of the great battles in which Jackson fought. While looking upon this scene, I remembered that our Great Captain, Jesus Christ had also left a blood-stained banner—the holy cross; these the signs of victory.

As inhabitants of this earth we invariably leave signs of victory or defeat. Christ left the cross, the open grave, the Christian Army. Let me point out to you that the way of the cross will lead to victory, home and eternal life. What does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses life? . . . or what shall he give in exchange for his soul? Therefore, the only way to total, complete and final victory is through God's plan of salvation.

There is a well-known story told of Napoleon the First's time. In one of the conscriptions, during one of his many wars, a man was balloted as a conscript who did not want to go, but he had a friend who offered to go in his place. His friend joined the regiment in his name, and was sent off to war. By and by a battle came on, in which he was killed, and they buried him on the battlefield. Some time after, the Emperor wanted more men, and by some mistake the first man was balloted a second time. They went to take him, but he remonstrated.

"You cannot take me."
"Why not?"
"I am dead," was the reply.
"You are not dead; you are alive and well."

"But I am dead," he said.
"Why man, you must be mad. Where did you die?"
"At such a battle, and you left me buried on such a battlefield."
"You talk like a madman," they cried; but the man stuck to his point that he had been dead and buried some months.

"Look up your books," he said, "and see if it is not so."

They looked and found that he was right. They found the man's name entered as drafted, sent to war and marked off as killed.

"Look here," they said, "you didn't die; you must have got some one to go for you; it must have been your substitute."
"I know that," he said, "he died in my stead. You cannot touch me; I died in the man and I go free. The law has no claim against me." They would not recognize the doctrine of substitution, and the case was carried to the Emperor. He said that the man was right, that he was dead and buried in the eyes of the law, and that France had no claim against him. This story may or may not be true, but one thing I know is true: Jesus Christ suffered death for the sinner, and those who accept Him are free from defeat, sin and death.

THE END.

According to scientists the intrinsic value of a human body is about one dollar, but they have never discovered anyone who wants to buy one.

Covering a house with a mortgage doesn't stop the leaks.

No one knows what will be on the menu when the peace table is set, but there will likely be scraps.

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of a toxic poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. ### Balancing the Diet

Meat is one of the relatively scarce foods for which proper substitution is necessary. Meat is a source of protein. Therefore, when a substitute must be offered for meat, other foods rich in protein must be included on the menu to maintain a balanced diet.

What to Substitute for Meat

Over half of an adult's protein requirements is secured from the daily consumption of one pint of milk (a child needs a quart); six to eight slices of dark or enriched bread; and one cup of cooked whole cereal, either cracked wheat, oatmeal, brown rice, or barley. The milk is a "must" for low-meat diets.

The remaining protein, equal to the quantity furnished by a liberal serving to meat, can be secured from any two of the following dishes: Half a cup of cottage cheese, in salad or otherwise; one cup of cooked beans, navy, lima, or kidney; two eggs; a two-ounce piece of cheese made from whole or skimmed milk; four tablespoons of peanut butter; a small serving of fish, either fresh, dried, or canned; a cup of custard or bread pudding.

RECEIPE of the WEEK

One of the secrets of good meal planning is to vary the ways of preparing the foods which are served frequently. An example is potatoes, which, according to the basic seven rules of good nutrition, should be served every day. Rich in starch, they provide energy for work and play. Food specialists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics suggest that they be scalloped with bacon. With them might be served corn pudding, carrot and cabbage salad, whole wheat muffins and butter, and canned peaches.

Scalloped Potatoes with Bacon

4 cups sliced raw potatoes
6 strips bacon
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Milk
Pare the potatoes and cut in 1-8 inch slices. Arrange half the potatoes in a buttered baking dish and sprinkle with flour and salt. Add the remainder of the potatoes, cover with milk which has been heated and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until potatoes are done, or about one hour. Lay bacon over the top the last half hour.

Corn Fudding

2 cups cooked corn
2 cups milk
2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk and seasoning. Add the corn and the well beaten egg yolks to the white sauce, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Place the baking dish in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until firm, about 35 minutes.

The recipe may be varied by adding 2 tablespoons of chopped green pepper or pimento, 2-3 cups grated cheese or a fourth cup of minced parsley.

A Letter From Home

I've just finished the dishes, and dropped down at the dining room table to dash this off and get it in the mail tonight. Dad's gone back to the office for a while. Sis ran over to Helen's with some homework problem—so she said. I suspect really she wanted to discuss the USO dance they're having Saturday night in Odd Fellows Hall. But Towser's here right beside me as usual, with one ear cocked for the family.

Speaking of Sis, she'll be through high school in June, of course, and she keeps talking about joining the WACS. I don't know if she's written you about it or not.

I suppose it's very foolish of me not to want her to, but after all I'm only a mother and I'd like her to go on to college.

It's hard to make her see it our way. She says, "Mother, you don't understand. I've got to either join the army or else take a war job. It's my war too, isn't it?"

As a matter of fact both Dad and I do understand perfectly, and we respect her wish to get into it. But there is another side. We'd like her to finish her education and be ready for a really good job after the war.

But when I tried to talk to her about it the other day she shrugged her shoulders and said, "Well, from the way Dad talks about how the government's 'strangling' business, looks to me. Mother, as if there won't be any good jobs after the war—except government jobs. So why get excited about a career?"

If I believed that—but I don't, not for a minute. We've got our roots too far down in good solid individualism and good sense to let any government ruin American business.

I've just time to get this stamped and into the box before the postman comes. There's no special news. I'll try and write more next time.

All my love,
MON.

ONLY THE WORTHY REMAIN FREE

As the calendar heralds 1944, grim predictions of allied political and military leaders rank foremost in the minds of all people. Nineteen-hundred-forty-four is the year of decision. It is the year of total war and destruction, death and suffering. It may well be the year of military victory—thanks to the courage of our fighting men and the American production miracle.

Armament production in the United States has reached staggering proportions. In November, every five minutes saw the birth of one new complete plane. The month's total was 8,789, of which 1,000 were heavy bombers. More than 150,000 war planes have been built since the start of hostilities.

Nineteen million tons of merchant ships were launched in 1943, compared to 1,163,000 tons in 1941.

Naval and shipbuilding has outstripped the imaginations of the wildest dreamers. About a dozen aircraft carriers were turned out in November alone. Warship tonnage in 1941 was 2,132,000. Out of the ashes of Pearl Harbor it rose to 5,000,000 tons in 1943, a colossus bent on the destruction of Japanese aggression and Nazi tyranny.

Tanks, guns and supplies are being produced in unbelievable quantities. These things were made possible by the productive genius of free enterprise. In the hands of 10,000,000 American men and their companions in arms, they are America's answer to the warped leaders of Europe and Japan who have challenged our freedom.

But we have no cause to rejoice. Tens of thousands of our men must die in 1944 to meet the challenge of the dictators. Usual year-end speechmaking and editorial phrase-making are out of place. The people were told when the war started that they would have to make sacrifices. They were told that this was total war. And, yet, other than those who have given their men, no one has so far made an iota of real sacrifice. It is not in the yards for such a condition to continue.

Sometime in the not-too-distant future we, at home, are going to find out what total war means, even though we may never feel the impact of bombs on our cities.

A pretty good indication of how we are going to find out can be seen in the guests of bitter controversy sweeping through the land over strikes, taxes, subsidies and inflation. They are the prelude to the storm. When it hits in full fury, the test of our love of freedom will be upon us.

No person in this nation can ever shut from his mind the awful vision of the last days of 1943 in which 1,000 marines lay dead on the beaches of one little South Pacific island. Those men died for the right to be free. We at home have yet to prove worthy of the freedom for which they died.

Our System Based On Small Business

What constitutes the "free, private, competitive" American enterprise which brought the world's highest standard of living to these United States, and which can do it again when peace comes?

Statistics of the United States Census prove that American business is carried on chiefly by small businessmen, interested alike in their towns, their enterprises and their people.

The total number of persons identified with and dependent on small business is tremendous, the figure shows. Small business maintains the existence of thousands of small communities, providing for livelihood, welfare, education and opportunities of many millions of men, women and children.

Out of a total of 184,230 manufacturing establishments in the United States, 8,315 employ no wage earners at all but consist of small owner-operator concerns.

A total of 75,930 establishments employ one to five persons; 49,015 establishments, six to 20 persons; 23,646, 21 to 50 persons; 11,908, 51 to 100 persons; 9,458, 101 to 250 persons.

Only 3.2 per cent of manufacturers employ more than 250 people. Concerns with 2,500 or more employees amount to only one-tenth of one per cent of the American manufacturing total.

Test-Tube City Shows What Postwar Planning Can Do

What private industry in one community can accomplish in post-war conversion and employment, when left to its own resources, is being shown by Peoria, Ill., the "test-tube" city for postwar planning. Studies there indicate the job problem is on its way to solution through the plans of local business.

Some 1,200 other cities of more than 10,000 population also have tackled postwar job and production problems through committees from local industry.

Peoria businessmen early in 1943 surveyed 45 industrial firms employing more than 97 per cent of the workers. Employers thought they could keep 29,000 in jobs after the armistice—a drop of only 1,000 from the wartime peak and an increase of 7,000 over January, 1940, the best prewar period.

Next, 77 smaller factories were queried. Several had completed plans for postwar activity. Some were already at work.

These concerns estimated they would need 600 more men and women after the war than they now employ. This figure, against the loss of 1,000 workers by the larger companies, indicates the city has an excellent chance of going into the readjustment period with employment high.

"A lot of employees will go back to farms," Walter H. Gardner, chairman of the survey, pointed out. "Many women will return to the home and there will be a release to older men and women to peacetime service."

"We're not taking estimates for guarantees," he concluded. "But the fact that industries expect to maintain the present level after peace is important."

SAFTEYGRAMS

The pedestrian is again in the limelight. Here are some of the unsafe practices that cause fatalities among these jaywalkers.

Out of every 100 killed on the street or highway, 75 were doing something admittedly unsafe.

Four of them were children playing in the street.

Eight of the group of cases examined, mostly grownups, were killed walking into the street from behind parked cars.

Nine of every average 100 victims learn too late how dangerous it is to walk with traffic on the highways.

Five died at intersections fighting the red light.

Some of these people feel that because of certain conditions in communities that these conditions do not exist, and therefore indulge in some of these unsafe practices.

it doesn't pay—when you're dead you remain dead.

No man was ever so completely skilled in the conduct of life, as not to receive new information from age and experience—Terence.

The loss of material objects of affection sunders the dominant ties of earth and points to heaven—Mary Baker Eddy.

The leader the country most needs right now is one to lead it in prayer.

How American Farmers Are Meeting the Pulpwood Challenge

EARLY in 1943 when the country was faced with a disastrous pulpwood shortage, the Secretary of Agriculture said, "The only place we can look for additional supplies is from the farm woodlot".

And the farmers of America did not let him down. Their patriotic response helped a lot to supply much needed pulpwood for war industries.

Now, as we enter 1944

It is clear that a serious pulpwood shortage will continue. But farmers have learned that pulpwood cutting is good business as well as sound patriotism. Now is the best time to thin woodlots when pulpwood prices are at their peak. And recent rulings of the War Manpower Commission encourage farmers to cut pulpwood in off seasons by counting it as war unit credits toward deferment.

And so the farmers of America are asked to make pulpwood cutting an important part of their 1944 work program. It is off-season work; profitable work; patriotic work. Do all you can. Your country needs every cord you can cut. Keep in touch with your local pulpwood committee.
