Cooper Denies Seeking New Boom And Bust

Barkley Urges Voters Not To Hinder Truman

OTHER LEADERS TALK

By The Associated Press
The National Administration came in for more criticism and support from political orators stumping the state yesterday in preparation for the Nov. 5 election.

The Republican Senatorial Nominee, John Sherman Cooper of Somerset, told an audience at Danville that his advocacy of what he calls a return to the "old days" enterprise system does not mean he wants to go back to the boom and bust days of the 1920's. "I recognize," he said, "that in the old days business went too far. I want to make it plain that I do not favor a return to the old laissez-faire system of letting business do as it pleases. There must be rules to prevent the setting up of monopoly to stifle competition. But that is as far as I am willing to go in putting the hands of the government in business."

Cooper declared that 90 percent of the jobs come from private enterprise and that "neither the placing of names on a governmental payroll nor 'made work' can produce real wealth." Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, senate majority leader, urged Montgomery county voters at Mt. Sterling not to "hog-tie" President Truman by sending Republicans to congress this year. He spoke in behalf of the candidacies of John H. Brown, Lexington, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, and Rep. Joe Bates (D-Ky.), who is seeking re-election to the house from the Eighth Congressional District.

Declared that President Truman is a "modest, hard working, unassuming, sincere, good man," Barkley urged the voters not to "hog-tie him by sending Republicans to congress and creating a stalemate for the next two years."

Brown charged in a talk at Dixon that Republican orators are "hypocritical" in urging the people to change inasmuch as the Republicans have benefited equally with the Democrats since 1932. He added that no man who compares his mortgage in 1932 with his bank balance of 1946 can afford to vote the Republican ticket in November.

"I'll give you your grievances at price control and petty annoyances at the shortage of meat," he told the audience in the Webster county courthouse. "I'll give you your irritations at all the small inconveniences, if just before you go to the booth to vote you will compare the suit of clothes you've got on to the suit you had in 1932, if you'll lay your 1932 mortgage down beside your 1946 bank balance, if you'll compare your total inventory of 1932 with all you've got in 1946." Meanwhile, Judge Carroll M. Redford, Democratic state campaign chairman, announced in Louisville last night that Attorney General Tom C. Clark, who was scheduled for a talk in Louisville today (Thursday) had informed him that he would not be able to fill the engagement because of an emergency cabinet session at Washington.

Redford said Clark told him that President Truman had called his cabinet together last night to discuss plans for relieving the current meat shortage throughout the nation.

Strikers At University Will Return To Work

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10—(AP)—R. T. Baxter, president of the Lexington Building Trades Council, announced last night that 400 striking union workers would return to work today on all veteran-housing projects at the University of Kentucky.

Leader Congratulates

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. White on the birth of an eight-pound three-ounce daughter October 8 at St. Mary's Hospital, Centralia. Mr. and Mrs. White are former residents of Fulton and are graduates of Fulton high school. Mrs. White is the former Jean Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Brown. The Whites now make their home at 238 1/2 South Walnut street, Centralia.

Bulldogs Will Be Wearing New Uniforms In Murray Tilt Tonight

Fulton football fans will see their team decked out in completely new blue and white uniforms when they take the field tonight at 7:45 against the Murray high school Tigers.

Purchase of the new uniforms was a carefully guarded secret, being kept even from the players, until the pep rally at 2:30 this afternoon when the boys were told to stage a dress parade before the student body.

The pairs are blue and the jerseys are white with large blue numerals. Twenty-two complete uniforms were secured by the school, making it the largest purchase since before the war.

Next on the list of pre-game festivities after this afternoon's pep rally and talk by Prof. J. O. Lewis will be a parade at 7 p. m. led by Football Queen Betty Anne Davis. She will ride in an automobile driven by David Homar, and accompanying the Queen will be Joan McCollum, senior cheerleader, and June Copeland. The two attendants will sit on the Fulton bench tonight with Miss Davis.

The coronation ceremony will be held at 7:45 following an appearance of the Fulton band. The opening whistle is scheduled at 8 p. m. The Murray high school band and the drum and bugle corps will perform at the half.

The taller section of the bleachers by the scoreboard has been reserved for fathers and mothers of the Fulton team, and for former Bulldog lettermen. The visitors from Murray will be seated on the north half of the west-side bleachers.

While the Tigers carry a weight, experience, and past performance advantage into the game tonight, the Bulldogs are reportedly "as ready as they will ever be" to turn back their attack.

A volunteer crew of senior and junior high school students has been collecting all waste paper and other debris from Fairfield park, and the field will be sprinkled before game time tonight.

They rolled over Oblion Training School 78-0, and a larger score was not recorded here until last week when the current Bulldog squad turned back Dresden, Tenn., 81-0. The 1913 team was defeated once only, losing to McFerrin at Martin 13-6.

Organized football at Fulton was just two years old in 1913. The first team to attempt a regular schedule was fielded in 1911. Earlier teams had been formed here, but they had no regular season opponents.

In announcing the resumption of the revival, he again urged the membership of the church to attend, and extended an invitation to the public to meet with the Presbyterians.

The revival at the Presbyterian church will be resumed this evening at 7:30, the Rev. W. R. Reid, pastor, announced today.

The Rev. E. M. Jennings, who is conducting the services, has returned from Lubbock, Texas, where he was called earlier this week by the death of his mother. The revival was postponed until his return to Fulton.

Mr. Reid states that services will continue at the regular hours, 10 o'clock each morning and 7:30 each evening.

The dinner-on-the-ground is a part of the Fall Loyalty Revival held in October each year, and has as its purpose the promotion of fellowship among the members of the congregation.

The dinner follows the morning worship service and observance of "Covenant Sunday" on the fourth Sunday. This Sunday marks the close of the Loyalty Revival and every effort will be made to make it the greatest occasion of the month-long loyalty campaign.

At the meeting of the Committee, following "The 100 Society" organization was set up and plans were made for the dinner. Mr. Butts stated that preparations are being made to take care of a large crowd. Barbecue will be provided by the church, and the meat has already been obtained. The church will provide the entire menu except potato salad and pie, which will be brought by the members. Invitations will be sent to every member of the church to attend the dinner-on-the-ground.

U. S. Lifts Ban On American Flights Over C'slovakia

London, Oct. 10—(AP)—U. S. Headquarters in Europe today lifted a mysterious ban on American plane flights over Czechoslovakia, but continued suspensions of flights over Romania and Hungary, said an American pilot said here he believed the order was linked with Russian Army maneuvers.

The ban on flights over the three countries, all in the Russian sphere of influence, was clamped down suddenly and without explanation yesterday by U. S. authorities. Similarly, no explanation was given why the Czechoslovak ban had been removed, just as suddenly as it was imposed.

Capt. Calvin Dyer of Jackson Heights, N. Y., pilot of a Pan American Airways plane turned back at Prague yesterday, said "I think the reason my plane was turned back was because the Russians are believed to be holding army maneuvers between Oct. 9 and 14."

1913 Team Held Former Highest Score On Record

THREE PLAYERS HERE

Only three members of the 1913 Fulton football team, that held the high score record for the local field until a week ago, are still living in this community. One of these players, Mr. Russell Travis, brought a photograph of this team taken at Thanksgiving, 1913, to the Leader office this morning and recalled a few of the achievements of the pre-World War I gridgers.

They rolled over Oblion Training School 78-0, and a larger score was not recorded here until last week when the current Bulldog squad turned back Dresden, Tenn., 81-0. The 1913 team was defeated once only, losing to McFerrin at Martin 13-6.

USCC Demands Probe Of Reds

Chamber Of Commerce Says Communists Are Bent On World Rule

Washington, Oct. 10—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce demanded today that congress rip the lid off the communist party to end its power and influence in labor's ranks and within the government itself.

Declaring that communists still are operating under an international comintern bent upon world conquest, the organization added that because the party "thieves upon deceit" and is loyal to a "hostile" foreign power, it should be "forced by law" to reveal its membership, sources of money and all its activities.

The chamber's lengthy report, based on a year-long investigation by a special committee on socialism and communism, asserted that communists have succeeded in driving "many faithful public servants from the government."

It declared, too, that red infiltration into the government has been particularly marked in both the treasury and labor departments.

A treasury spokesman quickly retorted that the department "naturally has no comment on so general a statement."

However, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach said that charges of subversive activity had been brought by the FBI against "a number of labor department employees" and that an investigation has been underway for several days. Five cases already have been studied and two others are set for inquiry.

On the labor front, the chamber declared that while the late Sidney Hillman was not a communist, nor is CIO President Philip Murray, "two of their top advisers are communists, taking direct and frequent orders on PAC policy from the very top level of the communist party."

Nation Enjoys Shooting Stars

Meteors From Comet Flash Across Skies In Brilliant Display

By The Associated Press
Most of the United States was treated to a spectacular display of shooting stars last night as meteors shed by the comet glabolinidner burned across the skies in what some scientists said was the most brilliant exhibit seen in America this century.

But dense clouds marred or completely obliterated the view for many watchers of the skies in some sections of the country. Scientists used radar and for the first recorded time reported they "saw" a display of meteors beyond fog and clouds. Observers from the national bureau of standards in Washington said they were sure that "pips" appearing on the radar screen represented meteors about 50 miles from earth.

Other scientists boarded airplanes to get above thick clouds for a glimpse of the aerial fireworks and Harvard astronomers in an "aerial planetarium" reported seeing meteors at the rate of about 17 per minute.

Joint Army and Navy signal corps observers at Whiteside, N. M., reported to camp Evans, U. S. signal corps laboratory at Belmar, N. J., that they contacted the meteor showers with radar at varied distances from 45 to 180 miles.

The display resulted as the earth came within 131,000 miles of the spot in space through which the comet passed eight days ago.

The meteors were shed by the comet and formed part of its tail. Those seen on the earth were those caught by the earth's gravitational pull and consumed for the most part as they plunged through the earth's air shell, the friction between the solid matter and the air causing the brilliant burning.

Lexington V. A. Office To Move To Louisville

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10—(AP)—Harry W. Farmer, manager of the Veterans Administration regional offices here, announced yesterday that the offices would be moved to Louisville the week-end of Nov. 9, with the Louisville headquarters being opened Nov. 12.

Farmer added that between 500 and 550 of the approximately 700 resident employees of the administrative offices would be transferred to Louisville with the remainder in Lexington to operate a sub-regional office.

In the Ecuador highlands, a fivefoot trumpet made from thinned native bamboo serves as dinner bell to call farm workers.

Until his release on bond last Thursday, Marr was a cellmate of Rayborn, who is under indictment on armed robbery charges in connection with a series of holdups here in which a total of $15,000 was taken.

Marr was arrested July 20, along with Gilbert Cotton, 21, of Louisville, as a suspect in the $5,000 robbery of check cashers at the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company.

Police said they had been seeking Marr since they learned that Rayborn had given him money with which to buy guns.

Police Lt. Ellis Joseph said Marr admitted that Rayborn had given him $250 for his bond, but denied receiving money to buy guns.

Past Week Was Unusually Dry, Cool In State

The weather over the state was unseasonably cool during the first two days of the past week, the report of the weather bureau shows. Light frost occurred in scattered areas in the northern and eastern sections. Thereafter temperatures rose gradually under clear skies and fairly warm weather, favorable for maturing late crops, prevailed at the close of the week. No rainfall occurred anywhere.

Farm work was confined almost exclusively to harvesting the remainder of the corn and tobacco crops. Practically all of the early corn crop was in shock and gathering and shocking of the late crop was progressing rapidly. The bulk of the late crop is now out of danger from frost, though some damage was caused by frost to late corn that had not yet matured in a few northern and eastern counties.

Cutting and housing of tobacco is about finished. Tobacco in barns is curing well, its condition ranging from good to excellent. Stripping has commenced in central and southern sections, but has not yet become general. The soil in most sections was much too dry for seeding of winter grains and this work is proceeding rather slowly. Fields already planted are germinating irregularly and stands are rather poor.

Pastures remain in fairly good condition, but are deteriorating. In some of the western counties they are becoming parched. In this section water supplies are getting low and hauling of water for stock is increasing. Additional quantities of good lespedeza, alfalfa, clover and soybean hay were made during the week.

BRT Is Asked To Join CIO

Phillip Murray Says Congress Reactionary In Message To Union

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 10—(AP)—Phillip Murray termed congress "reactionary" today and invited the brotherhood of railroad trainmen to join forces with congress of industrial organization to carry the labor movement forward.

"We can't stand still," said the CIO chief. "I shall welcome the opportunity to be associated with your leadership and your membership in the Great work that lies ahead provided you decide to associate with us."

Speaking of factors which influence the labor movement, Murray said "the record of the 79th congress is a record of reaction. This congress reached a new low in its labor policies."

He said the congress "made a monkey of President Truman's 21 points for reconversion." Murray spoke of the President in friendly terms to a group whose president, A. F. Whitney, has declared enmity with the chief executive.

Should the railroad brotherhood decide to join the CIO, and Whitney asserted "your statement will be weighed by this convention," it would bring 218,000 members into ranks of the larger group. The BRT at present is an independent.

Iowa Gridders Eat Horse Meat

Coach Is Believer In Red Meat; Isn't Particular Of Source

New York, Oct. 10—(AP)—Iowa State gridders are going to be served horsemeat, but most other college football squads generally haven't reached that stage yet.

Tex Oliver, coach at the University of Oregon, gave a typical reaction to the news that the first shipment of horsemeat—a 180 pound hind quarter—had arrived in Ames, Ia., for the Iowa State train table.

"We believe in red meat even if its horse or goat meat," Oliver declared. "But we haven't had to eat that yet."

The meat shortage has reduced the Indiana gridders of the western conference to eating chickens, but early replies indicated that while meat is increasingly difficult to obtain, so far most schools have been able to get it.

Some—like Ohio State and Nebraska—have their own supply and need no trouble. At OSU the Ohio State agriculture school furnishes meat from its own cattle. Nebraska coach Bernie Masterson said the university had purchased beef at the Nebraska state fair and it should last the Cornhuskers a long time.

Asking For Trouble

There are seven major causes of fire, Tennessee State Fire Marshall R. E. Ward told South Fulton high school students yesterday. The greatest of these is carelessness. Not all fires are caused by carelessness. Lightning-kindled blazes, for example, usually are not preventable, to name one conflagration cause beyond our control.

During National Fire Prevention Week, though, we suggest that you ask your fire chief or firemen what are the major causes of fires in this community. Chances are you'll be told that faulty electrical wiring is responsible for more alarms than any other one thing. This could be corrected by regular inspections by a qualified electrician.

Spontaneous combustion is a frequent fire source. You're inviting a visit from the red truck if you allow old newspapers, oily or dirty rags, cardboard boxes and the like to accumulate in your attic or cellar. It may take days or weeks for the fire to start, but it's a pretty good bet that it will start if you're that careless.

High up on the list are defective chimneys, flues, and heating equipment. There are folks who make a living attending to matters of this kind. They can save you money—and the roof over your head.

The people who are careless with matches, gasoline, cleaning fluids, and other inflammables are in a class by themselves. They'll never learn, if they haven't already, until it's too late.

Fire prevention should be a must not just one week of the year, but for 52 weeks. Until carelessness is checked there will still be plenty of work for the helmet and ladder boys.

Just Shifting Position

Britain's "tentative" plan for consolidating the middle eastern defenses for south of the present Egypt-Palestine-Transjordan-Iraq line does not imply that the lion is through ranging the Mediterranean shores.

It is true that the British, often accused of holding these ancient lands in dupance vile, are rearranging their Suez defenses in an effort to clear their skirts in Egypt and elsewhere. But talk of moving key administrative and supply bases to Kenya and Tanganyika means establishment of defenses in the path, not withdrawal. And the big implication is that Africa will be developed as a primary base of supply.

The British military program in East Africa area actually began in 1942 after the Japanese made a pass at Ceylon which did considerable damage and thoroughly frightened its defenders, and when Rommel was knocking at the gates of Alexandria and Cairo. East Africa suddenly became a "rear area" for empire forces in both the near and far east. Alexandria was abandoned for the time-being. Haifa and Mombasa became important points of British naval concentration. First class air installations were strung out over Kenya and Tanganyika, the later a former German territory under British mandate, to tie in with the American-developed supply system to West Africa, Kharboom and Egypt.

Simultaneously with these military moves the British foreign office was working on its plan of development for Uganda, Kenya, the Sudan and Africa generally, a plan which now fits well into the picture of great new administrative and supply bases.

Since the British are expected ultimately to substitute bases at Tobruk and Benghazi for their present installations in Alexandria the "front line" of middle east defenses would be little changed, but it would be relieved of the duty of protecting supply routes, and would be protected by a well-organized rear from the isolation which so seriously threatened it in World War II.

Whether Britain is merely announcing something she began during the war, or

A Signal Honor

Selection of Harvey Pewitt of Fulton county and S. J. Reed of Hickman county as Master Farmers is a signal honor for these two gentlemen and a tribute to the agricultural progress made in the southwestern section of Kentucky during the past decade or so.

It is our understanding that only nine farmers in the state are selected biennially for this award by the University of Kentucky college of agriculture. That two men from the same neighborhood, so to speak, have been chosen this year makes the honor the more noteworthy.

The Master Farmer awards are not made promiscuously. They are made after careful study and comparison of agricultural ability and service to community and county. Master Farmers stand head and shoulders above the rank and file of their fellows and point the way to a higher type agricultural economy. Their farming methods are worthy of emulation.

It has not been many years ago that a number of central and north-central Kentuckians regarded Purchase farms as places "where they raised nothing but hell and dark-fired tobacco." Diversified agriculture has come into its own in Western Kentucky. No longer is it a one-crop section. No longer is it the home of the scrub bull and the razor-back hog. The folks to the east of us would do well to come to the Purchase now to observe and make notes on ways to improve their own farms.

Our heartfelt congratulations, and sincere respect, go to Mr. Pewitt and Mr. Reed.

A False Alarm

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Two state police squad cars and one from the Kankakee police department threw up a barrier on a highway and closed in on four men.

The chase followed a report from a nearby community that one of the four men was carrying a gun.

The investigating police halted the car and found the man still had a gun. But they discovered it was all right. He was a Springfield, Ill., detective going to Chicago for a convention.

Building Box House

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Glen R. Stewart ran up against the usual problem of finding materials when he started to build his four room house.

But he found a substitute for lumber in ammunition boxes, leftovers from the war. He first planned to use the wood from the boxes but later decided a stronger building would result by leaving the boxes together.

whether she is accepting a new conception of defense in an age of atomic and aerial weapons, there is one fixed point about which the rest revolves. She is not making, nor permitting herself to be forced into, any change which opens a threat to her oil holdings in the middle east. Those wells, refineries and pipelines are as vital to her as her navy, which depends upon him. No matter what political considerations intervene, only overwhelming force will ever separate her from them.

Forester Notes Danger of Fires

Fire Season Is Here, State Official Says; Urges Extreme Caution

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 10.—State Forester H. B. Newland, Frankfort, today urged all citizens to use extreme caution with fire during the next two months. He pointed out that forest fires annually destroy enough timber in the state to build nearly 2,000 homes, and that this year shortages of transportation and man-power to fight fires might make the situation much more serious.

The leaves are already falling in the forests to create dangerous fire hazards. During the fall fires can start in the woods or fields soon after a rain—very often on the same day. Since most fires are caused by people, they can be prevented with a little extra care. Without the help of every citizen, forest fires cannot be prevented. Newland urged everyone to extinguish all matches, cigarettes and pipe heels, before discarding them. They should be put in the automobile's ash tray or stamped in to moist ground with the shoe heel. Camp and warming fires should be drowned out with water before leaving them.

In observance of National Fire Prevention Week, October 8th to 12th, the Division of Forestry is cooperating with newspapers, radio stations, schools, and civic clubs in an effort to bring the seriousness of the forest fire problem before every citizen.

Paducah Strikers File Answer To Suit By Company

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 10.—(AP)—An answer to a suit instituted by the Paducah Bus Company last week to determine contractual obligations has been filed by striking employees of the company and Circuit Judge Joe L. Price has set a hearing for Saturday.

The company claimed that its contract with the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric and Motor-coach employees of America (AFL) was voided last May when the workers asked for a pay increase and a change in vacation periods and asked the court to determine if it is still in effect.

During World War II as compared with World War I, Americans consumed 10 to 15 percent more food per person.

Idle Hour Farm Sale Postponed By Court Order

West Palm Beach, Fla., Oct. 10.—(AP)—John R. Bradley, 80-year-old brother of the late Col. E. R. Bradley, has been ordered by probate court here not to dispose of Bradley's Idle Hour Farm near Lexington, Ky., pending a hearing next month.

Thomas E. Bohne of Palm Beach yesterday petitioned for appointment as co-executor and alleged that Bradley is negotiating to sell the stock farm at a figure lower than its current market value.

Bohne said he was a business associate of Colonel Bradley and former director and secretary of the corporation controlling Idle Hour farm.

He petitioned to be appointed co-executor, replacing the late Barry Shannon, who died Sept. 28.

Brazil's Atomic Attache Finds American Men Most Interesting

AP Newsfeatures

If you could walk into a meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission you might notice a lot of people giving rapt attention to the Brazilian delegation. The reason their attention is turned in that direction is dark-eyed, cherry-lipped, Mary d'Ache Assumpcao, 22, of the Brazilian delegation and the only woman attache of the commission.

Senarita Assumpcao has no idea of acquiring such a high-sounding title when she left her home in Rio de Janeiro last April after the death of her father, and headed north of the Rio Grande for the first time. She had a degree in music, a BA from the University of Brazil, a fluency in English, German, Portuguese and French, a desire to get her doctorate and an intention of visiting some friends in New York. Then she met Brazilian naval Capt. Alvaro Alberto, head of the Brazilian delegation to the Atomic Energy Commission and an old friend of her father (the late Col. Masael Assumpcao, of the Brazilian Army) whom she had known since childhood.

"He needed some help, and I knew stenography," Senarita Assumpcao explained, "so I came down to help him a little. And there was so much to do, he finally gave me this job. He knows I won't talk."

The captain seems to have been right. Senarita Assumpcao won't talk about the problems of atomic energy, inter-American trade or Brazilian politics.

But she will talk about American men! And when she does, her big black eyes grow bigger and blacker and her lips curve in a smile which could make a man feel that atomic energy already had brought good to the world.

"I like American men—oh ever so much," she said, "they are always kidding and gay. I laugh all the time. I'm with them. I've never been out with a gloomy American yet."

"They are very different from Brazilian men. A Brazilian is much more jealous. Do you think Americans are as un-jealous as they seem? Brazilians are more affectionate in little ways—little pet names and caresses. But American men are more sentimental. A Brazilian would never forget your anniversary or birthday. An American might, but he would remember the day you met and the dress you wore.

"Brazilians would never want their women to have as much freedom as American women do. I don't believe that Brazilian women would be happy with it, either. Freedom is a wonderful thing, but in it you lose femininity. How? Well, it's hard to say—in little things you do and say. I'm going to be on the lookout."

Senarita Assumpcao's present job keeps her busy from morning till night and has shelved all work for her doctorate for the moment.

"Mr. Baruch says I'm getting more education here than I would at college anyway," she says with a chuckle, referring to Bernard Baruch, United States Representative of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

"On weekends," she continued, "I go to West Point for the hop. You know the cadets up there call a girl a 'drag.' They say 'Who's your drag?' Don't you think it's a funny thing to call a

All Know Him As 'Rose Bowl AP'

Los Angeles—(AP)—Antelope Al Krueger, end of the All-American Conference Los Angeles Dons, played three outstanding years of varsity football for the University of Southern California—but is doomed to be remembered for just 40 seconds of one game.

Krueger is the end who nabbed four straight passes from Doyle Nave, the last a touchdown heave, in the final 40 seconds of the USC-Duke Rose Bowl tilt in 1939 to pull the game out of the fire and hand the Trojans a 7-3 win over the previously unscorped Duke.

Despite his fine play in other games over a three-year span, Al is always known as plain "Rose Bowl Al"—the guy who caught that pass.

WASHINGTON

By Robert E. Geiger

(For Jane Eads)

Washington, — (AP)—15-year-old-freckle-faced boy scratched the back of his neck with a pencil and said solemnly that what this country needs is to make some tough decisions, let the chips fall where they may.

The budding statesman is Walter Kaiser, Senate page boy. Walter gained some national attention recently when he made a rousing speech at an American Legion meeting, pinch-hitter for a senator who failed to appear. Legionnaires reported he crackled out an oratorical home run.

He talked of mice and great men, and how easy it is for their plans to go awry. Walter has many ideas about how to correct all that. He's the son of a Bellevue, O., grocer.

"You understand I'm just a page boy in the Senate, with no place really to sit but on the floor," Walter says.

"But a fellow gets a lot of ideas listening for 18 months to Congress. Especially such an historic Congress as the 79th, with war and peace to settle and over it all the death of President Roosevelt."

"You ask me what I'd do if I were president. I don't believe in dodging questions of pulling punches, so whoever the shades fit they can put them on. After all, I don't intend to run for political office!"

First off, Walter says he'd reduce the national debt if he were President.

"I'd take a definite, decisive step in eliminating sprawling government agencies, whacking down on payrolls and cutting the government budget," he says, thumping the desk in the two-fisted style of Senator Pepper (D-Fla.).

And another thing, he says, he'd keep his nose out of congressional business.

"You know who I'm talking about there," he grins—and then he's the persuasive, suave Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

A wise president, Walter says, would balance his administration with both young men and old men.

"The old men have wisdom. The young ones have fire and vision. You need 'em both."

Maybe, when education is more advanced, and more people complete high school, it will be wise to let 18-year olds ballot, Walter says, but right now them are away too much by oratory instead of facts. He says 18-year-olds should continue to be drafted until the world is more "sane."

"We ought to take boys right out of high school and put them in military training for a year,"

HOLLYWOOD

By The Associated Press

Hollywood—If you assume that all movie stars spend their spare time in worldly pleasures, please know that next Sunday morning at 9:30 Gale Storm will be, as usual, tying rubber aprons on a dozen toddlers in the Nursery Department of the Hollywood-Beverly Christian Church Sunday School. The aprons keep their clothes clean while they model with clay.

As Gale and two other women supervise the play and tell simple stories that point a moral, her actor husband, Lee Bonnell, will be upstairs in another room of the church, conducting a meeting and leading the silent prayer. He is president of the Quarter-Century (Young married people's) Sunday School class.

Gale and Lee seemed surprised that I should be surprised to find a movie couple so devoted to their church. Sunday attendance is as normal a part of their lives as answering a 6:30 a. m. weekday call to the set.

"Going to church sort of helps you to stay on the beam, I guess," Lee said.

"It's no harder to be a church member here than anywhere else. If you want to be," Gale added.

She was brought up in St. John's Methodist Church, Houston, Tex. "Of course, if a girl married a man who didn't go to church, it might be a problem."

Lee's boyhood Sundays were spent in the First Christian Church and the Church of Christ, South Bend, Ind.

He and Gale chose the Hollywood-Beverly because it had a thriving Sunday School for their 3-year-old son, Phillip, and offered an attractive young people's program. There are discussion groups and a place in the basement for dancers.

Gale and Lee are regular folks, who might live on your own street. Lee, who served three years in the Coast Guard, slightly resembles Tyrone Power.

If you have a cool cellar or space in the garden for an outdoor pit or buried barrel, put away a good supply of foods that need cool, damp storage.

military training. It's foolish for America to again be asleep if an emergency should arise."

O. E. Walter. Now what else? Again the gray-eyed youngster scratches his black hair with the stub of a pencil. Then his white, even teeth gleam through his infectious grin.

"There's one more very important thing."

"If I were President I'd give the page boys of the Senate two parties every year!"

Feller's All-Stars Win At Louisville

Louisville, Ky. Oct. 10.—(AP)—Bob Feller's All-Stars defeated Billy Herman's Kentucky nine, 7-2 in a baseball game at Parkway Field last night, although Mike Gast of the Eastern Shore League bested Feller, struck out ace of the Cleveland Indians, in the three innings they pitched. A crowd of 5,800 saw the game.

Feller started on the mound for his All-Stars and struck out four batters and gave up two hits in the three innings he worked, before giving way to Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves.

Gast, who played with Centerville, Md., pitched the first three frames for Herman's team, striking out five batters and yielding only one hit.

Red Sox Win With York's Hit; Ted Williams Beats 'Dyer Shift'

By Jack Hand

Boston, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Once again a booming home run off the bat of bailing Rudy York hit the Cardinals over the Red Sox yesterday in St. Louis.

Back at Fenway Park, the Red Sox yesterday looked like an entirely different club than the bewildered and lousy team that split two games in Sportsman's Park.

Johnny Pesky, back in his element and also back against right hand pitching, broke his 0 for 9 streak with two sharp singles and Bobby Doerr looked more like the "vintner" No. 1 second baseman as he did a series of hits with eight assists and chipped in with a double and single in the eighth hit attack on Murry Dickson and relieved Ted Wilks.

One of the most interesting developments of the third game was the change in Dyer's tactics against Williams, who had been stymied by the "Dyer shift" at St. Louis.

Ted, a little bit aggravated by reports that he couldn't hit to left, probably was up there to lay one down in the first inning but the Cards never gave him a chance. They didn't shift because Dyer ordered him passed intentionally. He and Pesky who had preceded with a single became the two runs scoring in front of York's wallop.

Williams crossed up the shift in the third when he pushed a bunt toward third into short left, confounding the infield which had moved around to leave third base unguarded.

The next time he came up there was a man on second with two out and the Birds pulled a half-way shift, leaving Whitey Kurowski at third but moving shortstop Marty Marion directly back of second. Second baseman Red Schoendienst continued to play a normal first base and Stan Musial guarded the foul line. It was a standoff, for Dickson struck out the Boston beanpole to the disgust of the assembled multitude of 34,500 Sox fans.

Leading off in the eighth, Williams again tested the same half-way defense of the "slough wing" as Dyer called it. He proceeded to shoot for the right field seats and sent a screaming liner into Enos Slaughter's hands.

St. Louis had at least one man on base in every inning except the second and fourth but the only one who reached third was Musial on his ninth-inning trip.

For three years he was the most feared, most publicized football player in the Southwest Conference. Crain caught the crowd's fancy from the start. Mostly it was his great runs—60, 70, 80 yards. He could seemingly be trapped at the line and still spin away to a thrilling touchdown run by racing up and down until he found an opening. He was like a rabbit that scotched here and there.

The Southwest never will forget Jack Crain. It will thrill with every ride by the Cowboy in professional football.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fuierto, Jr.

Boston, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A crowd of newsmen were around the batting cage before yesterday's World Series game waiting for Ted Williams to take his licks. When he was slow to appear, someone suggested: "Maybe he's down under the stands leaning to bunt."

There was more than a little truth in that remark, for the first chance he got, Williams pushed one down the third base line for an easy base hit and forced Eddie Dyer to revise his "T" for Ted formation.

"Maybe we'll have to try the single or double wing next," Dyer admitted. "I'd like to keep Williams quick but I don't think we will. He's too good a hitter and all the shifts in world won't stop him if he pokes one into the stands."

Take Your Choice
Al Schacht, who is on hand to entertain the fans as usual, offered his services to the Cardinals warm up, manager Dyer told him "We've been holding these fellows down too long." Al grinned: "Okay," he said. "But do you want me to pitch for you or against you?"

Dot: All Brothers
Moe Berg, who did a great job for C. S. B. during the war turned up to visit his former teammates and his arrival led to a report that he might become Muddy Ruel's successor as special assistant to commissioner Happy Chandler.

as a pitcher yesterday... "Bel. Praise Dept."

Shag Shaughnessy, International League president, would rather talk about Jack E. Robinson's performances in the Little World Series than anything he has seen in the big show.

"He's the smartest ball player I have seen in 20 years," Shag insists. "I don't see how they can keep him off the Dodgers next year."

Another International Leaguer claims Jackie could bunt .260 in the National League.

REVIVAL

The Annual Revival will recommence at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church Tonight, October 10 at 7:30 P. M.

Primarily any revival effort is meant for the church membership; and we urge every member to be present at the worship throughout the entire meeting. We cordially invite the other pastors and their people to be with us, and the public at large.

Rev. E. M. Jennings, of Birmingham, Ala., is the Evangelist for this meeting. He is a very fine preacher and you will be delighted with his messages.

Detectives To Be Paid For Two Trips With Criminal

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 10—(AP) —Belief that the detectives who made two trips in returning Lyle Shangraw from Watertown, N.
Y., to Louisville are entitled to be reimbursed for both trips was expressed by Attorney General Eldon S. Dummitt today.

BEEF INDUSTRY

made to President Truman.
Press Secretary Charles G.
Ross declined to forecast to reporters what action, if any, may be forthcoming.

The beef industry petition argued that there is no short supply of cattle and calves when measured in terms of a pre-war normal period. Adopting the period of 1925-39—which it said covered high and low years of production as well as years of prosperity and depression—the committee said there are many more cattle and calves on farms now than in such a period. It said all cattle now numbered about 80,000,000 head compared with an average of 64,459,000 in the pre-war period.

May Import Beef Signs multiplied today that the government might welcome Argentine beef to America's meatless dinner tables as a legitimate to pry home-bred cattle off western ranges.

With the meat controversy boiling at peak intensity—and amid forecasts of "emergency" action by President Truman within a few days—the Argentine Ambassador, Oscar Ivanissevich, said he is ready to offer Argentina's help to combat the shortage.

One of the world's largest meat exporters, Argentina, for years has been prohibited from shipping meat to the United States on the ground that hoof and mouth disease is prevalent among Argentine cattle.

However, an aide to the ambassador told a reporter this is no issue now because the meat Argentina will offer is boneless and canned. He said there is about 4,000,000 pounds available for immediate shipment to this country.

Of Argentina's total supply of fresh meat, he said, about 70 percent goes to Great Britain.

Middlesboro, Ky., Oct. 10—(AP)
—Mayor W. K. Evans disclosed yesterday that an audit of the city's accounts for the four years of 1942-45 has revealed a shortage of several thousand dollars.

The mayor said he could not confirm an unofficial report that the shortages totaled $42,823.53, adding that he had not received an official copy of the audit. He said that no arrests had been made in connection with the shortages disclosed by the audit.

but declared that "there presently will be a grand jury investigation."

Mayor Evans said that he would have an official report early next week and that he planned to make a report at a mass meeting here Tuesday night. He said that another audit has been ordered of city accounts for the four years preceding 1942.

The mass meeting was requested at a conference Tues-

ANNOUNCING----

The Inauguration of Our Newly Remodeled Department Store -- More Modern, More Spacious

Having acquired the vacant building next to our store, we have turned the two buildings into one large department store which is more modern in appearance, and arranged for the convenience of our customers. Now every department is a separate and distinct unit, affording greater facility and promptness in service.

After 27 years of service in this community, we are pleased to announce the formal opening of our new department store on Friday, October 11th, at 9 A.M.

We invite you, our friends and patrons, to visit us. Your friendship and loyalty down through the years for more than a quarter of a century, have been a great encouragement to us, and have enabled us to go forward and make progress in order that we may serve you ever better and better. Again, let us extend to you, one and all, our heartfelt appreciation and thanks for the splendid loyalty and patronage you have given us.

It is always a pleasure to meet you, to talk with you, and to serve you when possible. Your patience during the critical war and postwar years, when merchandise has been so scarce, has been remarkable, and is deserving of praise and commendation. We hope that conditions will soon improve, and that merchandise you so much desire will return to the market, for when it does you will find our store well filled and ready to supply you as we have in the past.

When you visit our store, we invite you to take advantage of the Values offered in New Fall Merchandise.

We, the following clerks, invite our friends and customers to call and see us
