Miss Sandra Cash Will Reign Over Fulton High Homecoming Activities

An honest-to-goodness "China cup" was the only trophy that could be found Wednesday morning at Fulton High to award to the brand-new Homecoming Queen, Miss Sandra Cash (center). Admiring her "award" are her three attendants (from left) Miss Carol Figue, Miss Cathy Campbell, and Miss Darlene Roberts.

A pretty, brunette, sophomore student at Fulton High was elected FHS Homecoming Queen Tuesday morning at the close of the two-week long magazine drive contest. Sandra Jane Cash, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Cash of Walnut Street, will reign over activities September 21 at the Homecoming game with Providence.

Her attendants are Cathy Campbell, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Campbell; Carol Ann Figue, freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Figue; and Cheryl Darlene Roberts, senior, daughter of Mrs. Eva Mae Roberts.

Miss Cash was elected when her class turned in the largest amount of money from magazine sales, car washes, candy and bake sales and other fund-raising drives. The sophomore total came to $925.18, one of the largest amounts ever collected by any one class in the history of the school. This same class elected their candidate, Nancy Treas, in last year's contest.

Other class totals were: Juniors, $510.71; Freshmen, $452.34; Seniors, $452.34.

South Fulton High Also Sends Its Quota To College!

By KAREN DUBLIN

In last week's issue of The News, we featured the Fulton High Students who were preparing to leave for colleges and universities throughout the country. But these aren't the only representatives of our twin-cities who are striving for higher education. Not to be outdone by their neighboring school to the north, the South Fulton High School also has sent and is sending a large number of students on to college.

Because of its proximity to this area, UTMB at Martin is drawing

The University of Tennessee at Knoxville is drawing three graduates of the Class of '61 back for their sophomore years. They are Mike Reed, Jimmy Lowe and John Scherdt. Glenn Fuller will enroll there for his junior year.

Several students will journey across the state line into Kentucky and attend Murray State College. They include Kelly Reams who will be a freshman and Paul Wade, Joy Vincent and Don Gray who will be starting their junior years.

Peggy Counce and Sherill Olive will enter Lambuth for their second year of study.

Ken Bowlin has already left for the University of Chattanooga to begin his college career. He was the recipient of a scholarship there.

Rosemary Clark is in her second year at West Tennessee Business College in Jackson, Tennessee. She has been attending classes there during the summer, also.

Ronny Winston will travel down to Abilene Christian College in Abilene, Texas, to join A. M. Dycus on the football team there. Ronny will be a freshman and A. M. is a senior.

Robert Matnis, who has attended UT at Knoxville for two years, will enroll in a veterinary school this fall.

Sheila St. John and Wanda Holland are continuing their training at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis.

To these and all the other South

Police Praised In Letter From Illinois Woman

"I shall never forget your kindness and I'm telling everyone I know what a wonderful job you did."

The above words were written by an Illinois lady, Mrs. Melvin Suhre, to the Fulton Police Department following an incident which occurred here on Labor Day.

It seems that Mrs. Suhre's son, David, had called from Ft. Rucker, Alabama, saying that he was on his way home but that his car had broken down and he wanted someone to come for him. Another son, Jim, left to drive down and pick him up.

A return call from David said that the car was fixed and that he was on his way once again, but Jim could not be located in time to stop him.

Mrs. Suhre called several police departments along the route but none of the officers could help her until she called the local department. Jim was stopped just outside of Fulton and was thus saved a long and unnecessary trip.

The letter of appreciation was a fine commendation for the Fulton police and their helpfulness toward everyone, both local and tourists.

Fulton Rejected Nichols Engineering Contract Because Firm Upped Fee Agreed Upon; No Record Of New One

Nichols Offers $8400 "Credit" On New Contract

An interesting aspect of the Nichols negotiations with the twin cities is that the firm has submitted to the city a proposal for the professional services on Fulton's sewage disposal plant. On that proposal, the Nichols firm offered an $8400 "credit" to Fulton if they employed him as engineer. The $8400 "credit," the same figure that South Fulton is seeking from Fulton, was proposed as a "deduction" from the overall fee of $16,400 based on 8.2% of a $200,000 system for Fulton.

Professional sources contacted by the News indicated that the "credit" is rather irregular. In a letter to the City of Fulton Nichols stated that the "credit" would be given only if Nichols was awarded the engineering contract, and if Fulton paid South Fulton the $8400 they are seeking.

Nichols' new proposal was based on a $200,000 system at an 8.2% fee. However, the proposal calls for an additional $500 a month for a "resident engineer" plus travel and out-of-pocket expenses for the engineer. Based on an estimated six month's tenure for the resident engineer, it is believed that the $8400 "credit" would be dissipated by the additional expense.

According to Mayor Milton Counce Nichols has not offered South Fulton any such "credit" on the new $200,000 contract.

Local Prices On Meat Heated For Sharp Increases

Wholesale meat prices have gone up at least three times in the past week and retailers are forecasting a rise in prices for the consumer if the situation is not alleviated soon, according to a News survey of local grocers.

The price rise has come about for the most part because of the National Farmers Organization's holdout of slaughter animals in the Midwest.

The purpose of the holdout is to force food processors to sign long-term contracts guaranteeing higher prices to farmers for their products. It's effect on the consumer has already been noted in many areas with higher prices and a shortage of meat.

The price hikes have been up to 15 cents per pound in many areas. Locally, however, the prices of beef and pork have remained steady up to this point.

Break-In Reported At Standard Oil Bulk Plant Here

Another in a recent series of break-ins was discovered Tuesday morning, this one at the Standard Oil Bulk Plant on Terry Road. An employee, arriving about 7 a. m., found the robbery.

Between $12 and $15 was taken from the drink box, but nothing else was reported missing. The money in the cash box was not taken.

Entry was made by breaking an office window. An attempt to open the doors had been made without success.

A statement from Nichols Engineering Company for a sewage plant that will never be built; the engineering firm's failure to follow through on its original fee proposal and the subsequent refusal of the former Fulton City Council to accept the engineering firm's higher fee has resulted in the first serious dispute in the long years of harmonious relationship between Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee. South Fulton, has paid Nichols Engineering Company of Union City, Tenn. $16,800.00 for engineering services on a proposed $350,000.00 joint sewage disposal plant. South Fulton is seeking to collect half of the cost of the engineering services, yet there appears to be no record of any contract entered into by the City of Fulton with Nichols Engineering Company. Plans for the $350,000.00 plant to serve both cities have been obviously "junked"; Nichols Engineering Company has been employed by South Fulton to do the engineering work on the smaller plant for South Fulton at a fee of 6.4% of the total project cost, yet has submitted a proposal to Fulton for engineering services on its proposed sewage disposal plant at a fee of 8.2% of the total cost of the project.

In his first official press conference since he became Mayor, Gilbert DeMyer reviewed the entire sewage disposal project with representatives of Fulton's two local newspapers, radio station and correspondent for the wire services and area metropolitan newspapers.

While the two and one-half hour press conference was intended as a background briefing for the communications media, it was obvious that Mayor DeMyer and City Manager James Robey were vitally concerned with the injury to twin city relations that would come about as the result of a law-suit between the two municipalities.

Mayor DeMyer, a native Fultonian said: "This is the first time in my life that a serious dispute has occurred between the two cities. We have borrowed and exchanged services like good neighbors. We have disagreements, as what 'family' hasn't, but the basic relationship is one of good neighborliness, friendship and co-operation and I am going to do everything in the world to avoid any further unfavorable publicity to our communities."

Reports Indicate Waterfield Certain To Be Chandler's Running Mate In 63 Campaign

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward and former Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield are almost certain to square off as opponents for lieutenant governorship in the Democratic primary next May. S. C. Van Curen, a Frankfort newspaper editor and political commentator reported this week. Waterfield, a Lexington insurance executive has joined forces with former Governor and Senator Earle C. Clements, a former ally, but now political foe of the Combs-Wyatt Administration in Frankfort.

The Van Curen article, published in several Kentucky newspapers and periodicals follows:

"Ward has been named by Gov. Bert T. Combs administration as running mate for Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt. Only thing lacking to make him official ballot choice is Ward's public acceptance. To take this action, Ward would have to resign his post as highway commissioner for becoming candidate would put him in violation of Hatch Act since his department handles Federal funds.

"Ward is certain to run," source close to administration said last week. "He thinks he can beat anybody," regardless of who is elected governor. He has confidence and his record as an administrator has drawn much praise in political circles.

"Over in other faction camp where A. B. (Happy) Chandler is seeking an unprecedented third term as governor, an inside source confided Waterfield has become Chandler's personal choice on urging of close advisers out of at least half dozen that have been mentioned. It seems Chandler reached this decision late in week.

"It is no secret to political students here that Waterfield has gnawing desire to become Governor of Kentucky. Even though he has lost two races for job, he believes fate and circumstances

City Manager James Robey Assumes Duties With Clear Insight Into The Task Ahead

James Robey officially assumed his duties as City Manager of Fulton, Kentucky on September first. In one of his first official acts, Mr. Robey did, what no other public official has done since we've been in Fulton. He called representatives of the two local newspapers, the radio station, and the correspondent for several metropolitan newspapers and wire services together for an informal and frank discussion about his job, the progress and development of the City of Fulton and the projects that need to be undertaken to get Fulton "on the move again."

It was obvious that the soft-spoken Mr. Robey had no axe to grind in calling us together. It was apparent too, that the new city manager is a knowledgeable young man, well qualified for his position and intensely aware of the task before him. We were impressed with Mr. Robey's philosophy that an informed public is an interested public and he solicited our help in keeping the citizenry posted on all the affairs of our city government.

In the future, interested parties will be supplied with an agenda of the subjects to be discussed at the Commission meetings and in like manner will be supplied with a copy of the minutes of the meeting after it is held, if such information is requested. Background information on plans and projects of the city will be supplied to the press if it is needed. As far as the press is concerned it looks like the sidewalk information bureau is a thing of the past. But the press is not the only segment of the population that will be kept "in on the know."

Mr. Robey asked our permission to print a periodic column on the affairs at City Hall and of course it was promptly granted.

It is obvious that Mr. Robey is not going to be a swivel chair city manager. Although he has been here just a short time he appears to have a clear insight into our most pressing needs and plans early recommendations to the City Commission for taking care of them.

As newspaper people are want to do, we gave Mr. Robey some friendly advice on the pitfalls he might encounter and made it clear that, nice guy though he is, we were not going to soft pedal the real news from City Hall and publish only the perfunctory hand-outs. He well understands our duty and commended us for our views.

In summing up our interview with Mr. Robey we would say that Fulton now has its first opportunity to see the new City Manager-Commission form of government in operation on the basis stipulated by law. The mere fact that the new city manager is personable, experienced and qualified is not going to solve all the city's problems. There will be differences of opinion between the official family and the population. They are by-products of change.

But Mr. Robey seems to be the kind of fellow who can direct us in the pattern of an effective, harmonious city manager-commission form of government and he deserves the support of all of us. Let's give it to him.

Sabin Oral Sunday, October Seventh Marks Milestone In Efforts To Stamp Out Polio

CIRCLE OCTOBER 7 on your calendar now, as a reminder of the opening of Fulton County's SOS drive. The initials stand for Sabin Oral Sunday, and they signify the launching of an all-out campaign to wipe out polio in this community. The Sabin oral vaccine is colorless, odorless and tasteless—and is as painless as swallowing a bite of sugar in fact, that is how it will be administered here—three drops of the vaccine on a lump of sugar.

The objective is to get everyone in the community to take the oral vaccine, adults as well as children; those who have had the Salk injections along with those who haven't.

Why is it important to take the oral vaccine even though you have had the Salk shots? The answer lies in the difference between the two vaccines. The Salk is a "killed-virus" vaccine which provides protection from paralysis for those who have taken it, but does not eliminate them as carriers. They can still transmit polio to others. The Sabin vaccine is a live-virus vaccine that not only protects those who swallow it but prevents them from being carriers, too.

October 7 has been designated the first of three Sabin Oral Sundays here. The second dose will be administered on Sunday, November fourth and the third dose on December 12th. The Health Center and Carr Elementary School in Fulton have been designated as two administering stations. Stations in Hickman will be designated later.

Dr. Bob Peterson, president of the Fulton County Medical Society invites any neighboring communities, that will not administer the vaccine, to join in the Fulton County effort.

Other cities have already had astonishingly successful mass oral vaccine campaigns. In Cleveland earlier this summer more than 90 percent of the population took the vaccine. In Phoenix, Arizona, more than 80 percent of the population has received all three types of the oral vaccine.

We hope Fulton County will set a new record for community coverage. It is possible to erase this dread affliction from our midst; all it takes to do it is a few minutes of your time. Mark the date: Sunday, October 7.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.

By JOE JORDAN

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week Major Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith's Confederates, who during the previous week had defeated and scattered the only Union Army force of any importance in Kentucky, began spreading out from Lexington, where Smith had set up his headquarters. Paris and Versailles were occupied. The Unionist-dominated legislature, which had been in session at Frankfort, had adjourned hastily to meet in Louisville a couple of days later. There it passed a resolution stating that "the invasion of the state by the Rebels, now in progress, must be resisted and repelled..." Then it adjourned until January 8, 1863, for Louisville also was being threatened.

Brig. Gen. Henry Heth, a division commander under Kirby Smith, marched north from Lexington with upwards of 5000 men to the outskirts of Covington. During a period of several days he could have captured Covington, Newport and Cincinnati, but Gen. Smith held him in check in case his troops should be needed by Gen. Braxton Bragg, who with another Confederate army of about 28,000 men entered Kentucky from Tennessee and began marching in the direction of Louisville.

Col. John H. Morgan's Confederate cavalry had not accompanied either Gen. Smith's or Gen. Bragg's army, but at Hartsville, Tenn., on August 29 Morgan had received an order to proceed independently and to join Gen. Smith at Lexington. Morgan chose a way which took him through Scottsville, Glasgow, Columbia, Liberty, Hustonville, Danville and Nicholasville. It was not until he reached Hustonville that he learned of the Conference victory and thus had assurance that he would find Gen. Smith at Lexington.

About 10 a. m. on September 4 Morgan and his men rode through the streets of downtown Lexington "amid the most enthusiastic shout, plaudits and congratulation," as Basil Duke wrote in his "History of Morgans Cavalry."

"Colonel Morgan... and many of his officers and men were formerly citizens of Lexington," Duke continued, "and many others came from the vicinity of the place; relations and friends therefore... were in the crowd which thronged the streets of the town. The people of this particular section of Kentucky, known as the Bluegrass Region, have always been strongly Southern in sentiment... The rapidity with which recruits came to Morgan was astonishing... Notwithstanding the efforts that were made to induce the Kentuckians to enlist as infantry, very few would do so... All of the Kentuckians who joined at that time, wanted to ride. As a people they are fond of horses and if they went to war at all, they thought it too great a tax upon them to make them walk."

Four companies of Morgan's Second Kentucky Cavalry were sent, with two howitzers, to destroy the L. & N. railroad bridge over Salt River, which was guarded by 150 Union soldiers in a stockade. Under fire from the howitzers, they surrendered. The wooden bridge, 450 feet long, was burned.

"Up and At 'Em Gals" Have Fun At Big Homemakers Convention

The members of Fulton County Homemakers Clubs have long been known as the "Up and At 'Em Gals."

Twelve of these ladies, along with their Home Agent, Mrs. W. D. McLeod, were living up to this reputation when they met August 12th at the bus station to board a chartered bus to Lexington where they were to join with over 6,500 other Homemakers attending the 26th National Convention of the Home Demonstration Clubs of the United States.

As the members of the Kentucky clubs were hostesses for the three day meeting, Fulton County ladies drew Sunday evening as their night to be hostess for the Vesper Services in the Coliseum. There we began to meet the delegates from over 40 states and Puerto Rico.

A hostess at a door could tell what state a woman was representing by the badge she was wearing, long before she was near enough to read the name tag. A magnolia pin told us we were welcoming one from Mississippi. There were over 90 delegates from that state. Kansas ladies wore large Sunflowers. We saw Georgia peaches in almost any direction we looked. We wish we could describe all the emblems the ladies wore. Monday the convention began its three days of work and play. The above written paragraph, written phonetically comes about as a result of an article we read recently that a new 43-letter alphabet is being tried out in some British schools and is being hailed by its author and teachers as an outstanding success. It was devised by Sir James Pitman, grandson of a pioneer in shorthand writing. Now the descendant of Pitman is trying to make Johnny read like he talks and who's to disagree with that.

Sir James says, "The teachers are getting results that are out of this world."

"Reading has lost its terror for the children," said Reginald Yeates, headmaster of the Roxeth Primary School at Harrow. This is one of the 24 schools in England where Pitman's "A.R." (augmented Roman) alphabet is undergoing a trial run.

The augmented Roman alphabet was introduced in Britain a year ago. Some 1,000 children aged 4, 5 and 6 are the guinea pigs.

The new alphabet contains 24 of the 26 traditional letters and 19 new ones. Missing are "Q" and "X" and included are new characters to provide for every sound in the English language.

The new alphabet doesn't remain with the children as they grow up. Its purpose is to teach Johnny how to read. Then, he switches over to the old-fashioned alphabet and reads along with confidence.

The transition from the new to the old way of spelling comes more quickly than anticipated, A. R. supporters say.

A visit to the Roxeth Primary School is a fascinating experience. Tots read with glee and eagerness. They read in English from characters on the blackboard that look like archaic print.

The new alphabet contains no capitals. "Wuns upon a tiem" starts most fairy stories. There are "siks apls" to use in counting.

In the new alphabet each letter represents one sound only. "Th" has two forms—a soft sound as in "think" and a hard one as in "the." The soft one has the tail of the "t" extended below the line. The hard "t" has its tail turned to the left. There are many new characters combining two of the old ones.

Yeates said that children who have changed over to traditional spelling can be handed a book in the regular alphabet and they read fluently.

"The children are able to read a year earlier than usual," he said. "They are far in advance of the standard expected of children using traditional spelling."

Sir James, a member of Parliament, is the grandson of Sir Isaac Pitman (1813-1897), the shorthand pioneer.

It is possible that little Ginger Edwards, Jane's youngest, is even far ahead of Sir Pitman. Ginger went home the other day

Birthday Celebration Brings Together Morrison Family From Far and Wide

August 8, 1962, was a very happy occasion for the Rev. and Mrs. Will Morrison of Rector, Arkansas. In honor of Mrs. Morrison's 84th birthday, friends and relatives from all over the country gathered at the Fulton City Park for a get-together and birthday dinner.

Rev. and Mrs. Morrison are the parents of Mrs. Ruth Vaughn of Water Valley and were both born and reared near Fulton in the Mt. Moriah community.

Their other children are Bruce Morrison of East St. Louis, Illinois, and Don Morrison of Hickman, California. Another son, Glenn Morrison, is deceased.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were childhood playmates of Dr. D. L. Jones of Fulton and Mrs. A. C. Butts of Fulton.

They are the cousins of Mrs. Ben Golden of Fulton, Mrs. Cleve Holliday of Fulton Route 5, Mrs. Emmett Caldwell of Fulton Route 3, Mrs. Buel Warren of Fulton, Mrs. Orin Morrison of Martin, Route 3, and Mr. and Mrs. Chess Morrison of Martin.

Those who attended included and told her mother that she was "dominated" for a class officer. When Jane corrected her and told her she must have been Nominated, Ginger replied, "That's what I said, I was dominated."

As far as we're concerned, it looks like we'll never learn. Last week when we reported that Mary Nelle and Doc Wright and Ruth Wright Caldwell saw Lt. Jg Don Wright in a television show last Saturday we said that the film was made when Don was a "cadet." Cadets, we were told are members of the Army military Academy, but members of the Naval Academy are Midshipmen, of which there is nothing whither than making such a grave error. Don arrived in the good old United States Monday night after four months in Iceland and quickly called his folks from Maine. Don will join Ruth at Norfolk and then come to Fulton for a short visit before returning to Norfolk where Don will be stationed and Ruth will teach in the public schools there.

Mary Davis (Weeks) and little son John of Lexington were home for a short visit while John was in New York on a business trip. Mary Davis left Sunday with little John as her co-pilot on the automobile trip back home.

Mrs. Constance Minnmann of New York City is an interesting visitor in Fulton these days, as houseguest of Bettie Louise Reed and Betty Ann Hefley. This is Constance's first visit to this part of Kentucky and her hostesses are taking every available opportunity to show her the points of interest around here. Constance and Betty Ann became close friends when they worked together in a book store in New York. Constance is enjoying our countryside, but doesn't believe she would ever exchange the hinterlands for her beloved New York City. Betty Ann and her husband Penrod are planning to drive back to New York with Constance for a visit in New York.

Brenda Ferguson, Glenn Fuller Wed In Union City

Miss Brenda Joyce Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ferguson of Union City, and Glenn Wayne Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fuller of South Fulton, pledged their wedding vows in an impressive ceremony Saturday, August 18, in the pastorial of the First Baptist Church in Union City.

The Rev. Bob Covington officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a background of white gladioli flanked by two seven-branched wrought iron candelabra, holding white flowers, entwined with string smilax and tied with satin ribbons and wedding bells.

Proceeding the nuptial vows, Mrs. Buddy Roberts sang "Be Goodwin were chosen as models for Annual Day. Ten members registered to attend.

Mrs. Jim Ammons and Mrs. Donald Mabry gave the major project lesson on "Growing Old With A Purpose."

After a pot-luck luncheon, the members spent the afternoon making favors of little cotton cut-out dresses for Annual Day. The club had charge of registration.

Over 500 books had been collected for the Community Library. They were indexed by the Senior Girl Scouts with the help of the

The bride wore a white satin brocade sheath with an organza overskirt. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls and she wore an orchid corsage, short white gloves and a small white hat with a veil.

Her only attendant was Miss Ruth Traywick who wore a lilac dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Bill Wade of Fulton, attended Mr. Fuller as best man.

Bulldogs Hold Sharon Scoreless And Red Devils Upset Favored Greenfield

The Fulton Bulldogs and the South Fulton Red Devils both went on a scoring rampage last Friday night as they downed their opponents by healthy margins.

The Bulldog's defense and offense both sparkled in the game which saw Fulton blank the Sharon, Tennessee, Eagles, 34-0. Johnny Covington made the first TD on a quarterback sneak in the second period and then he passed for the other four TD's scoring two in each of the last two quarters. His receivers included Terry Beadles (2), Tommy Powell and Don Burnette. Burnette made the extra points.

The Red Devils upset highly favored Greenfield, Tennessee, by a score of 20-7 in their first home game of the season. South Fulton's Gene Hardy scored the first touchdown on a 27 yard run in the first play of the game. Others were made by Clayburn Peeples and Larry Wade. Three South Fulton TD's were called back due to penalties.

This Friday night, the Fulton Bulldogs meet their strong rival, Martin, Tennessee, in a game at Martin. The South Fulton team will play their Homecoming game with Gleason, Tennessee, at the South Fulton Athletic Field that same night.

project and then decide whether or not to continue. The City of Fulton was never in full agreement on hiring Nichols Engineering Company and did, even, hire another engineering firm to represent Fulton, Kentucky, and that firm was Hemen Engineering Company of Memphis and we have been billed for their services on this for $480.00. Moreover, the City of Fulton was never to my knowledge, advised that South Fulton would have to pay $16,800 for services to this point until after payment was made by South Fulton, although we were advised they would be out some money. This Mayor did promise to vote to make some remuneration to South Fulton and did so as indicated by minutes of September 7 meeting, the amount $200,000. It should be noted that our present engineering contract, after completion of plans and specifications, calls for a payment of only $6,000.00.

Finally, but not least in importance is the fact that the Mayor of Fulton hopes to be able to attract a saving to the citizens of Fulton some $10,000 or $50,000 on the sewage plant. These hopes are based on the following proposition:

There is available new Federal Grant for Municipalities for 30% of cost of construction and engineering of sewage plants. However, there is a Public Works bill in Congress now and if it passes, it would probably make available monies for this purpose up to 50% of the cost of the Sewage Plant. Then, too, Fulton, Kentucky has been designated this year as Area Redevelopment which would possibly allow us to borrow the remainder of the cost of the plant from the Federal Government at a rate of only 3 1/2% interest from 20 to 40 years to pay back. South Fulton had to float bonds @ almost 4% to finance their plant and on $100,000 this 1-2 of 1% would save several thousand dollars over a period of years, and too, with the Federal Grant we could construct the plant at cost of $200,000 and only have $100,000 to pay.

As your Mayor, I have discussed with our City Manager all points stressed above concerning financing and we are in full agreement on all points. Since this new Public Works Bill will be allocated to the Municipalities on a first come, first served basis, the City Manager is now in process of requesting this grant even before it has passed Congress.

I trust the above explains to the citizens of the Twin Cities the stand taken in this matter.

s/ G. L. DeMyer, Mayor
Cut of Fulton

FULTON REJECTS—

The News Is The Newest!

neering, reportedly, on the basis of the fact that the firm upped its rate for the services to be rendered. Meanwhile, a month earlier, in April 1958, South Fulton had proceeded to sign a contract with Nichols to make the preliminary surveys and, according to the records and the former city officials, without prior consultation with City of Fulton officials.

It was in December 1958 that the joint resolution concerning the sewage disposal plant was spread upon the minutes of the City of Fulton.

Nichols is reported to have explained his increased rate on the basis of the fact that the Kentucky Society of Engineers prohibited him from charging the lower rate. However, Mr. Robey revealed at the press conference that two other Tennessee firms have submitted proposals on other Fulton engineering projects at six per cent of the total cost, citing them as "standard professional fees."

The City of Fulton has employed Huff, Ragon and Valentine, consulting engineers of Memphis to render the engineering services on the city's sewage disposal plant at a fee of six per cent of the total cost. A representative of the engineering firm was at City Hall Wednesday and told this reporter that the fee schedule set up by engineering societies is only a "suggested rate." Each individual firm has the prerogative to set its own rate.

WATERFIELD—

were against him. First, he was defeated by former Gov.-Sen Earle C. Clements and again in 1959 by Clements' protege, Gov. Combs.

"However, tables are now turned. Clements is supporting Chandler, his arch political enemy for 25 years, and has urged that Waterfield be running mate. Earlier, Clements had urged Waterfield to run for Governor against administration choice.

"This 1963 race is likely to prove old axioms that "politics are the damndest in Kentucky" and other that art "of government makes strange bedfellows".

"Clements was ousted as highway commissioner when truck deal hit newspapers. It resulted in joint legislative investigation during 1962 General Assembly, but little came of probe other than rehash of cancelled transaction. Friends say it embittered Clements more against his former allies whom he is credited with getting together to beat Waterfield in 1959.

"Only thing in Waterfield's way of becoming Chandler's running mate is resolving personal situation. He is president of National Investors Life Insurance Co. of Kentucky, concern that is little more than year old. His problem is finding someone to replace him in insurance company while he pursues a political career. Executives in his company have mixed emotions about situation. Chandler apparently awaits Waterfield's decision.

"Political observers expect Ward's announcement after November general election or some time in December.

"Ward also has been a protege of Clements. He is credited with developing modern State parks system as an appointee of Clements, and later went to Washington as Clements aide. Ward had supported Waterfield against Clements for Governor while Ward was in State Senate.

"Thus, if these almost certain alignments materialize, contest will find Clements supporting former political enemies against one-time allies."

Accident Victim Transferred To Memphis Hospital

Miss Sandra Richmond And Ronald McAlister Wed In Private Ceremony

Miss Sandra June Richmond and Ronald D. McAlister pledged their wedding vows Wednesday, Sept. 5, at 5:30 in the afternoon in the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Crittenden in Fulton, Ky. Miss Richmond is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Richmond of Union City and Mr. McAlister is the son of Mrs. Byron McAlister of Fulton and the late Mr. McAlister.

The Rev. Norman Crittenden presided at the double ring ceremony before a background of white gladioli and greenery arranged in two large floor baskets, flanked with six-branched candelabra holding glowing white tapers.

As the bride entered, a recording of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) was softly played.

The radiant bride wore a white brocade street length dress. Her headpiece was of seed pearls to which was attached a short circular veil. She carried a white Bible covered with a large orchid.

Miss Gail Richmond attended her sister as maid of honor and was wearing a pale green suit and a small mink hat. Her accessories were brown and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

John McAlister attended his brother as best man.

Mrs. McAlister, mother of the bridegroom, was wearing a royal blue silk print dress with black accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden on Jackson street in Fulton. A lace cloth covered the dining table and each corner was caught with green net bows. A six-branched candelabrum centered the table and at either end were placed the three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and a crystal punch service from which was served green punch.

Assisting in serving were Miss Mary Louise Alexander and Mrs. Ann Poole.

For a wedding trip to Louisville and Cincinnati the bride wore a yellow cord suit with bone accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple is now at home in Fulton. Mr. McAlister will continue his studies at the University of Tennessee at Martin and Mrs. McAlister is a laboratory technician at the Doctor's clinic in Union City.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. Bracie Knight of Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAlister of Jackson, Tennessee.

Thursday, September 6, was a big day for little Connie Friedls as she celebrated her 10th birthday with a lawn-full of little friends to help her. Balloons decorated the lawn of her parents home and a card table held all her little gifts.

Games were played and cake, ice cream and punch were served to the following: Pat Adams, Pat Clinard, Judy Cardwell, Amanda Newton, Carmen Gardner, Marilyn McKendree, Shelia Owens, Kay Greer, Susan Fozzard, Vicki Wallace, Dianne Friends, Carla Greer, Sheryl Reed, Fay Ruddle, Cheryl Friedls, Janet Taylor, Beverly Bizzle and the honoree, Dianne Liliker, Susan Harris and Martha Otana were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Bates were in Chicago, this week, attending the 14th annual International Achievement Conference at the Palmer House Hotel. The conference was made up of managers for the World Book-Childcraft Company, their wives and guests.

PROMOTED!
Howard Croft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Croft of Memphis and formerly of Fulton, has been promoted to division engineer for the Illinois Central Railroad in Jackson, Tennessee.

Young Dr. Kildare MGM's Mail Champ

Want to know who's the all-time champ mail-puller at MGM? It isn't Clark Gable, Frank Sinatra, Van Johnson nor Peter Lawford.

It's young Doc Kildare—Richard Chamberlain.

In just one brief season on television, this earnest-looking actor has amassed a greater volume of mail than did the movie idols after years of stardom. It amounts to a staggering 12,000 letters and cards per month, according to the studio, which claims that no other personality in Hollywood gets more.

That's just one of the changes that have happened to Dick Chamberlain in the past year. It was just a year ago that I talked to him for the first time. "Dr. Kildare" had not gone on the air yet, and Dick was still able to walk around freely, like a normal human being.

Not now. Last week he took a rare vacation to Las Vegas. Mob scene, Dick had to abandon sitting beside the hotel pool, so great was the furor.

Otherwise Dick appears to be bearing up well under the immense change in his station. He is young (27) and can withstand the grind of a weekly film.

Chamberlain is not given to much frivolity. Not on the set, at least; friends say he opens up away from the studio. While working, he's pretty much tied up with the bone-wearing routine of starring in the equivalent of 25 feature movies a year.

Unlike many another television star, he has no great urge to make a feature film.

I mentioned that his surgical counterpart, Vincent Edwards took a different attitude. Though tied to Bing Crosby Enterprises for more of "Ben Casey," Edwards staged a strike until he got more money and time off for features. "Ben and I do a lot of things differently," Dick said with a grin.

Dick lives alone in a house near the Hollywood Bowl. His steady date is singer Clara Ray, but so far he has avoided matrimony. That helps the mail pull, the letters being preponderately from teen-age girls.

Jaycees Vote To Purchase Scoreboard

The Fulton Jaycees have voted to purchase a new scoreboard for the South Fulton Athletic Field, similar to the one purchased for the Fulton High Football Field several years ago.

The new scoreboard which will cost approximately $1550, including installation, will be ordered immediately and should be installed before the close of this football season.

The club also voted to donate $100 to the Fulton Library Fund. Bill Fossett, co-chairman of the 1962 Ken-Tenn Fair, reported that the club made approximately 3,000 on the fair this year, with a gross receipt of $10,020.38 reported. Of this, $1000 has been set aside to get the 1963 Ken-Tenn Fair off to a big start next summer.

Duck Season To Open December 6; Will Last For Twenty-five Days

A 25-day duck hunting season, beginning on December 6 and continuing through December 30, has been decreed for Kentucky by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission. Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department, announced.

The season is shorter by five days than that of last year, while the daily bag limit of two may not include more than one mallard, or one black duck, or two wood ducks or one hooded merganser. The possession limit of four, after two or more days of hunting, may include two mallards, or two black ducks, or one of each or two wood ducks or one hooded merganser.

The goose hunter fared better in the federal regulations. That season will open on November 15 and continue through January 13. Bag and possession limits also were unchanged, being five, which limits may not include more than two Canadas or two white-fronted geese or one of each.

Shooting hours for geese are from sunrise until sunset, prevailing Standard time, while for ducks the shooting hours are from sunrise until sunset except on opening day when shooting shall start at 12 o'clock noon.

For Ballard County Wildlife Management Area the goose season opens on December 6 and continues through December 30. Commissioner Clark pointed out, however, that no ducks may be harvested on the Ballard Tract until December 7 since no afternoon shooting is permitted there and since federal regulations bar morning shooting on opening day. The shooting hours and bag and possession limits for the state apply to the Ballard area.

Kentucky Falling Behind As State Of Pretty Girls!

Kentucky is fast falling behind in the pretty-girl league, says June Davis, Contest Coordinator of the Kentucky Tobacco Princess Contest.

"It's time everyone in Kentucky takes more pride in our many beautiful girls who are willing to enter beauty contests. At this time, we have many very pretty and talented girls who want to enter the contest. However, they need sponsors to pay the entry fees," said Davis.

Davis thinks Kentucky, as a state of beautiful women, is not putting its best foot forward in sponsoring its many pretty girls. Davis was singing the blues in not getting as many contestants as the Kentucky Agriculture Department wants in this year's Kentucky Tobacco Princess Contest scheduled Friday, September 7, at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville.

Famed Madrid Bend May Become Just Plain Old Island

A proposal to cut a mile-long chute across the loop of the Mississippi that encloses Madrid Bend in Fulton County is being studied by Army Engineers. That would make the Madrid Bend section an island.

The loop makes an extra 22 miles for river traffic. The proposed channel would cut off 21 of those miles.

A major problem is that the level of the water would drop 20 feet between the beginning and end of the cutoff which might cause extremely swift currents.

If the work is done, the port of New Madrid, Missouri, would be on a slackwater lake.

Foreign Students Return Home After Summer Of Work And Play In Kentucky

Five foreign students are returning to their native lands with a better understanding of American life and how state governments operate. The overseas visitors are among 94 college students employed by various State agencies this summer.

Commissioner Walter R. Gattis of the State Department of Personnel said that the employment of students is essential to recruitment of qualified personnel in the future. Many persons who now hold key positions in State Government were once employed as temporary student-workers, he said.

Gattis commented that the visiting students constitute an experiment in international living which carries a first-hand view of American life to other countries. The temporary State employees also publicize Kentucky abroad, he said.

At work in the Department of Personnel is Miss Nermin Suerdem, from Ankara, Turkey, who graduated this year from Morehead State College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science. She will return to Turkey in October and plans to work for the Turkish Government at Ankara, the capital. Several Kentucky students are also working this summer in the Personnel Department.

Miss Suerdem apparently has no trouble as a linguist, having minored in French at Morehead. She converses easily with the two French students, Jean-Louis Rigaud and Bertrand Half, who are on a six-week work-exchange program set up by the University of Louisville International Center. (Some 100 Kentucky students have just returned from France and Germany after working there through the U. of L. work-exchange program.)

Rigaud, a political science and law student from Montpellier, is working with the Department of Economic Security. Half, a Parisian, is a law student employed in the Legislative Research Commission.

English counterparts of the two Frenchmen are Adrain Napper, 21, and David G. Dingwall, 20, both with the State Highway Department's Louisville District. The two students are working as engineer aides on the North-South Expressway there.

They will return this month to civil engineering at the University of Durham. Their trip here was sponsored by the Scottish University Commonwealth Club.

Student-workers were placed this summer in all 18 divisions of the Highway Department's operations.

Farm News, Meetings, Events

(Ed's note: the following information, supplied THE NEWS by the USDA, AS/C, nearby County Agents and agricultural agencies will be of special interest to progressive farmers in the Ken-Tenn area):

BETTER BURLEY. Even though the delivery of this year's tobacco crop is still three months in the future it is not too early to be thinking about improving next year's crop. At least we can look back at the mistakes of the past and try to correct them in the future. Tobacco experts suggest two simple practices that would add considerably to the quality of burley tobacco and at the same time reduce the cost of production. They are: (1) The use of sod land, at least every two years for tobacco. (2) Using extreme caution in applying excess nitrogen on the crop. Mr. Charles Bortner, Research Agronomist at the Kentucky Experiment Station, says he has found no substitute for good sod land for producing good yields of high quality burley tobacco. Old bluegrass sod is unexcelled but Bortner has found that Kentucky 31 tall fescue, because of its deep root system, is one of the best soil conditioners that can be found. He would like to see the sod four years old or older but a good two-year old sod is a good substitute.

Several farmers have been able to substantiate Bortner's findings. In enlarging their tobacco acreage this year they have plowed adjoining strips of fescue sod. The difference in the tobacco in favor of the sod land is almost unbelievable. The use of too much nitrogen fertilizer on burley offers one of the greatest threats to the production of high quality tobacco. It is a difficult problem to cope with, too, because so many farmers act upon the theory that if a little is good, more is better. Excess phosphate and potash (from sulphate of potash) do no injury to tobacco but excess nitrogen can cause untold damage to the quality of the leaf. The danger is especially serious where the early season is dry and the pre-harvest season wet. Tobacco, heavily nitrated just won't ripen properly, which results in poor flavor and poor burning qualities.

SUCCESS. When honors are being handed out to people who have lived successful lives and contributed much to the progress of this country, I want to nominate Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bruce of Muhlenberg County. I recently attended a meeting on their 190-acre upland farm and was impressed with the fact that four of their five sons were college graduates, some with higher degrees, and that the youngest son is entering college this fall. Their oldest child, a daughter, is married and, with her husband, is contributing greatly to the community's progress through their leadership in community affairs. The farm has no tobacco base and the principle income has come from an excellent dairy herd. It is difficult enough to make a living on a small family-sized farm in the hill country of Western Kentucky but to put five children through college requires abnormal skills and virtues, and a lot of cooperation from each member of the family. The parents have had to work hard and sacrifice much, but their reward will be great in the knowledge that their children are successfully launched in honorable and serviceable careers. Surely, the most valuable products of Kentucky farms are the boys and girls who succeed without success being handed to them on silver platters. Work, thrift and sacrifice are still important ingredients of CHARACTER.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation

Prices for 1962-crop soybeans in Obion County will be supported at $2.24 per bushel for soybeans grading No. 2 and containing from 13.8 to 14.0 percent moisture, Narvel Seals, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today.

The schedule of premiums and discounts for the 1962 program is the same as for 1961.

In order to meet minimum eligibility requirements, soybeans must grade No. 4 or better and must contain not more than 14 percent moisture.

The chairman reminded growers that, to be eligible for support under the 1962 operation, soybeans must be produced in 1962 and the producer in 1962 must maintain his 1959-60 average acreage of conserving and idle land on the farm. This same requirement was in effect for the 1961-crop soybean program.

As in the past, price support will be carried out through farm and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements, which will be available from harvest through January 31, 1963. The maturity date for loans will be May 31, 1963.

Further information about the 1962-crop soybean price-support program may be obtained from the ASCS County Office.

Shepherds Entitled To Day Off In Italy

Rome — Italy's Constitutional Court ruled that shepherds have a right to one day off a week like any other worker.

The court, acting on a suit brought by Edoardo Cassis against his employer, ruled that a 1934 law denying Sunday rest to shepherds was unconstitutional.

Ted Mack of the Original Amateur Hour congratulates Pete Doles, 1961 winner of the Mid-South Fair Youth Talent Contest during his expense paid trip to New York where he appeared twice on the Ted Mack show. Preliminary contests are being held throughout the Mid-South in the search for top talent to compete in the finals at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis, Sept. 21-29.

Honey And Tourists Combine To Help Give Kentucky Rural Income A Boost

Honey and tourists are a good combination to bring Kentucky farmers more income, State Agriculture Commissioner Emerson "Doc" Beauchamp said today.

He said the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, which conducts an apiculture program, has found that honey is one farm product especially salable to visitors to the Commonwealth. Honey in small jars of Kentucky-made pottery is sold to tourists in Kentucky State parks.

Honey production in the state last year totaled 2,288,000 pounds, compared with 1,824,000 pounds in 1960, the Agriculture Department reported. Last year was the first complete year of the Department's full-time program for control of honey bee diseases. The 1961 production returned beekeepers $744,000, compared with $580,000 the previous year, the department said, noting that beekeeping is a profitable side-line business for farmers.

The full-time disease control program was made possible through appropriation by the 1960 Legislature of $8,775 for each of the 1960-62 fiscal years. This year's Legislature renewed the appropriation for the current two-year period. The money is being used to employ one full-time and one part-time apiarist.

Beauchamp said Kentucky sourwood honey is famed all over the nation. The bloom of the sourwood, a plant which flourishes especially in mountainous sections of Kentucky, produces delicious nectar for honey-making.

Assistant Agriculture Commissioner Mancel Vinson said the department is helping promote the establishment of roadside stands along major tourist highways in Kentucky for the sale of Kentucky honey to tourists. Vinson also pointed out the attractiveness of bee-keeping to persons seeking a hobby.

With the full-time service of Apiarist Thomas Hines of Morgantown and part-time service of Associate Apiarist William Eaton of Winchester, the Department conducts on request inspection of any of the state's more than 100,000 bee colonies, or may conduct surprise inspections. The aim is to wipe out foulbrood and other diseases. Foulbrood is a spore-forming bacteria that kills the bee larvae and can eventually kill an entire colony. Chemicals are used to fight foulbrood, but in many instances the disease spreads so that the only cure is to burn the infected hive.

The bee program is administered by the department's Division of Pest and Noxious Weed Control under Director Coburn Gayle. State law authorizes the apiarists to enter premises to inspect colonies and to burn or quarantine infected bees or equipment when control of disease requires such measures. Bee-keepers are required by law to register their colonies and pay a fee of 25 cents on the first three colonies and five cents on each additional colony.

The department also conducts a program of information and promotion in honey production, hoping to increase the average yearly production per colony over the present 22 pounds. To keep beekeepers up-to-date on the latest news and practices of honey production, the department publishes the Bee Keepers' Quarterly.

Income from honey and wax is not the only benefit farmers realize from keeping bees. Eaton estimates that at least 80 per cent of crop pollination is performed by honey bees. For each dollar the bee-keeper receives from the sale of honey, he also receives $15 to $20 worth of pollination services from the bee, Eaton says.

RODENT CONTROL IMPORTANT TO HEALTH AND POCKETBOOK

We talk of higher income, modern methods and conveniences, atomic submarines, space trips to the Moon and Venus and other current problems of the day, yet here on our own little planet we are threatened with an enemy almost as elusive as the communist, the Rodent!

There is a rule of thumb, when one rat is seen, he has 6 to 9 buddies unseen. This is a serious threat, not only to us financially but to our health as well. Permit me to give you some income figures for Mr. Rat: An Ohio survey shows that the average farm studied had 40 total rodents, (thus is where 1 to 6 were seen). The two Ohio counties had 4000 farms. This would make the over-all rat population of 160,000. Now the research men claim that a rat will actually consume $7.00 in grain and other farm products and will also damage $3.00 additional beyond use for any purpose. That makes Mr. Rat a $10.00 a year vermin. With a little simple arithmetic we find that the rats cost the two Ohio counties 1.6 million dollars annually. This was estimated to represent 5 percent to 6 percent of their total farm income. DOWN THE RAT HOLE!

One of the most important jobs we can do on the farm to help control rodents in the use of sanitary practices. This would include removing brush, high weeds and grass, junk piles and rubbish from around grain and feed storage buildings where rats and mice could find food and shelter. Garbage and other waste from the family dwelling should be stored in a metal can with a tight lid until satisfactory disposal can be made.

Rodent killing may be done in several ways, however, we only have time to discuss the use of anti-coagulants for control. Anti-coagulants are chemicals that reduce the clotting ability of the blood and eventually cause death through internal bleeding. The main anti-coagulants used today are DIPHACINONE, FUMARIN, PIVAL, PMP and WARFARIN. These should all give the same results if they are used as directed. It is important to keep in mind that a single dose of any anti-coagulant is not effective and must be eaten by the rats and mice each day for four to fifteen days for an eradication of all rodents in a given area. The bait should be placed in shallow tin cans along the walls of feed rooms, corn cribs, chicken houses and the like, with water near by. Rats will eat one third to one ounce of dry food daily. For best results the bait should be kept clean, fresh and dry, and left out until rodents no longer eat it. The poison should be repeated when first signs of rodents appear, rather than waiting until they are seen.

Kentucky Chosen As Training Area For Sanitarians

The U. S. Public Health Service has selected Kentucky as one of nine pilot training areas for sanitarians in accident prevention, the State Department of Health has announced today.

Victor Fuqua, the department's director of accident prevention, said the training program will move through several stages, including a meeting of all sanitarians within the next two months to discuss their roles.

Next year, he said, the accident prevention potential of the sanitarians will be explored at a three-to-four-week course.

SOCIAL SECURITY INFORMATION

According to Mr. Charles M. Whitaker, Manager of the Paducah Social Security Office, many household workers are losing out on insurance rights that could amount to many thousands of dollars. Nine out of ten who work for a living are now protected under the retirement, survivor and disability provision of the social security law. These workers include household workers such as maids, babysitters, etc., who perform household work in or about a private home. However, Government records indicate that many who work in jobs of these types are losing the credits they need to qualify for benefits because proper tax returns are not being filed.

If you work in household employment, be sure you do not lose your rights to future social security benefits. Cash wages of $50 or more paid to you in any three-month period ending March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31 by one employer must be reported for social security purposes. If you are paid as little as $4 in every week of a calendar quarter by one employer, your wages would be covered under the law.

The social security tax of 6 1-4 percent must be paid on these wages, 3 1-8 percent to be paid by the employee, and the other 3 1-8 percent to be paid by the employer. Wages must be reported by the employer to the Internal Revenue Service under the name and number as shown on the worker's social security card.

The reporting of these wages and the payment of the social security tax is not a matter of choice, but is a legal requirement. The employer is directly responsible for reporting the wages of the household employee and the payment of the social security tax.

Your local social security office located at 112 South Tenth Street, Paducah, Kentucky or your Internal Revenue Office will furnish the necessary information for reporting a household worker for social security purposes.

Regulations Given For Dove Season Opening Sept. 1

"By following three simple rules the dove regulations become an easy matter for those who are of a mind to understand them." Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources told a group of conservation officers meeting to study regulations governing the upcoming dove season.

Listed as the three rules which hunters should follow are:

1. Question landowners or hosts as to whether the area to be hunted has had grain introduced into it.
2. Whether the area is used for a feed lot where grain is or has been placed on the ground.
3. Whether grain crops have been knocked down or cut down.

Clark said that either the host or owner will know the answers to these questions.

If the answer to any of the three questions is in the affirmative, the area, as a rule, is illegal and should be avoided. By following these three simple rules, Clark continued, "the dove regulations become an easy matter to understand."

The dove season opens in Kentucky on September 1 and continues through October 31 and reopens on December 1 and continues through December 9. The bag limit this year is 12 per day with a possession limit of 24. The possession limit, it was pointed out, does not apply to a possession in the field, but to a limit of 24 which may be held in a deep freezer or in a car after two or more days of hunting only.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN KENTUCKY, General Wm. Nelson displayed unusual valor fighting superior Confederate forces at Richmond (Aug. 29th). He was twice wounded, but finally rescued through the daring of General Clay, who seized the reins of Nelson's horse and rushed him to safety.

In those days, as now, beer was Kentucky's traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The brewing industry pays $7 million each year in taxes to our state... money that helps support our hospitals, schools and highways.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.
