What Could Be Nicer?

Perhaps you have a relative or a friend, who is "away from home"—in the armed forces, or located in some other city or state doing war work. If you do have, here is your opportunity to do them a real favor!

These "travelers" naturally want to keep up with what goes on "back home," and during these war-weary days it is difficult to write letters often, and when we do, at times it seems we have too little to tell those loved ones.

From time to time, THE NEWS has been described as "like a letter from home" by those away from their home community. Our subscription list carries the names of many former citizens.

So, thinking along this line, and realizing that many of these good people will come back to help in the rebuilding of our community, we have decided to make a SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION OFFER to them for 30 days. This is strictly a limited offer—and after we have reached the quota set, the offer will be withdrawn.

Now—if you have a friend or a relative who should be getting the "home town news" in condensed form, this is your opportunity to send THE NEWS to that fellow in service, or someone else away from home at the bargain subscription offer—TWO FOR ONE.

Nothing could be nicer as a gift, or more appreciated by those who are away.

Regular news from home is a great morale builder, and will do much to keep those "away from home" well and happy.

J. E. Ballard, perishable freight inspector, Chicago, was in Fulton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnn and family spent several days this week with Mrs. Fred Suiter in Murray.

Membership Grows In The Greenwrap Marketing Co-Op

A meeting of the Tri-County Marketing Co-operative was held at the Cayce High School Thursday night, with a good attendance of farmers interested in growing tomatoes for the greenwrap market.

Plans for the season were discussed, and a round-table discussion was held, in which various questions and problems were answered. Everything looks highly favorable for a fine co-operative in this section, which is expected to see rapid growth.

Nearly 100 farmers in this territory have joined in a movement to establish a greenwrap market, and grow and ship tomatoes jointly to market. Anyone interested in taking advantage of the facilities offered by this organization of farmers is invited to contact the County Agent, J. B. McGehee of the Farm Bureau, or write Box 239, Fulton, Kentucky.

U. S. Asks Farmers To Plant 16,000,000 Acres More Than Last Year

Standard Oil Helps In Program To Keep Farm Machinery "Fit and Fighting"

"Food Fights for Freedom," and every American farmer has been asked to do his share in planting and cultivating the 16,000,000 acres that are needed over last year's record total.

With farm labor short, every piece of farm machinery must be kept in the fields working, if this goal is to be reached.

"Our organization says E. J. McCollum, local agent of the Standard Oil Company, "felt that we could best serve this program by helping the farmers keep their trucks, tractors and farm machinery in fighting trim, and free from rust and dirt. Our drivers have been trained to assist you in caring for your farm machinery, and preserving its life. In addition, each tractor operator can secure from our driver a free Wartime Maintenance Manual, that will help you keep your farm machinery 'Fit and Fighting.' I hope our farmer friends will take advantage of this service, and call on the Standard Oil man for any service he can render, in keeping their trucks, tractors and machinery on the job."

1942 FARM CROP THREATENED PULPWOOD SHORTAGE

The critical pulpwood shortage is threatening America's 1944 farm program and anticipated food production, J. Paul Bushart, editor of The Fulton County News, and member of the Victory Pulpwood Committee warned farmers of this area this week. The warning was based on a national survey of farm container needs and the estimated supply available.

"Farmers have a stake in the pulpwood campaign that extends beyond the profit they earn from cutting pulpwood," the committee said. "Unless pulpwood production is increased enough to provide the thousands of tons of packaging needed to ship and market farm products, some of their crops may go to waste."

"While the greatest need for paperboard containers, multiwall paper bags, wraps and liners is for the shipment of food and supplies to our troops overseas, agriculture is the second biggest user of pulpwood products and is, in fact, dependent on an adequate supply of packaging material."

Unless there is a continual flow of pulpwood into the mills, the severely handicapped in its far flung missions of mercy among Allied service men overseas. It is not only vitally important that all contribute generously to the Red Cross, but pulpwood must be cut for American fighting men everywhere.

"Back Salaries" First Aid In Income Tax Payment

First-aid for troubled income tax payers among Illinois Central non-operating employees is envisioned in the timely delivery this week by the railroad of 57,000 back pay checks averaging a little more than $100 each.

This $5,800,000 extra payroll for the workers not actually engaged in running trains is the result of wage negotiations extending from February to December, 1943, and culminating in temporary army control at the end of the year. Delivery of the back pay awarded to the train service employees was made last December.

Together with the customary twice-a-month pay checks for current work, the railroad will distribute during March a grand total of more than 145,000 individual wage payments—a task involving considerable extra day and night work on the part of the payroll and accounting forces.

The extent of the wartime turnover in Illinois Central employment is indicated by the fact that 57,000 payments are required for the 11-month coverage of 31,000 full-time jobs. Many checks will go to former employees now in military service.

Inclosed with each back check is a copy of a war bond appeal from Secretary Morgenthau.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MAYOR

Dear Mr. Mayor: As you know, the current shortage of waste paper has caused about 25 paper-consuming war plants to close their doors. Over 100 more are operating on a part-time basis.

Unless the shortage of this strategic material is remedied, it will considerably lengthen the war.

The closed mills make such products as paperboard and wrappings for the containers in which food, ammunition and blood plasma are shipped to the front.

Waste paper is also made into an amazing number of products, needed in combat . . . of which bomb rings, instrument panels, parachutes, black powder and gas masks canisters are only a few.

The War Production Board has called on the newspapers of this city to tell our people why they should start now to save waste paper regularly.

We are confident that in this, as in all other worthy war causes, we can count on your keen interest and active support. We know that you will make every effort to assure regular collections of waste paper . . . and expedite the flow of this vital war material into the plants that need it so much.

Through you, as representative of our people, we are asking all merchants and business men to help in this continuous campaign . . . to clean out old files and data long since antiquated . . . and to help in organizing a regular city-wide collection program.

We ask the parents, wives and friends of the men in our armed services to SAVE A BUNDLE A WEEK . . . SAVE SOME BOY'S LIFE.

The waste paper is available, Mr. Mayor. The city's big problem is one of gathering, bundling and collecting it.

Every Town A Harbor In Future World

The world of tomorrow—and the city of the future—will be dependent upon world-circling plane routes carrying passengers and international commerce.

Remember a good many years back when many good cities and towns grew smaller and smaller because they were off the highways where modern automobiles supplanted the horse and buggy?

The city of tomorrow without the facilities of a modern airport will find itself off the beaten path. And that will apply to Fulton as it will to any other community. Fulton has been known as the "hub city" of railroads and highways for a good many years. Let's get up-to-date, and begin to think about adding aviation to this hub! It is not too early to begin to think and plan for that day when Fulton will have its own airport.

For centuries, commerce has followed the seaways and the waterways of the world. Hitler's grandiose scheme for world conquest had, as one of its objectives, the capture of Suez, water gateway to the fabulous ports of the East. The banks of the Don and the Dnieper have been bloody battlefields because these rivers carry supplies to the army that controls them, even as they once brought food and ores and manufactured articles to a people at peace. Stalingrad and Kiev are important Russian cities because they are ports for river traffic, as St. Louis and New Orleans are important cities in this country. Boston and New York, and Seattle and San Francisco also became important because of their fine harbors. But now the picture is changing as a new means of transportation surges boldly to the fore. In the dawning Age of Flight, business centers will bloom about airports just as surely as they once sprang up around the quay sides.

Nature provided harbors for ships, but inland "harbors" for airplanes can be built by man. Conservative authorities have estimated that the airports of this nation will have to handle three or four times the present amount of air traffic immediately after the war.

Not only will airports become essential to a community's business life, but they will help provide jobs for many men now in the Air Forces who will return after the war with a desire to continue in the calling they know best.

Airport planning is not something that can be done overnight. It requires months, sometimes years of study, not only in determining the best possible location for a flying field, but in acquiring the land, arranging financing, improving the roads, expanding public utility services, and myriad other details.

Progressive communities are preparing now to receive the miracle of air commerce which will begin to spread over the world when the war ends. It will keep them humping to be ready for that day.

RED CROSS DRIVE APPROACHES GOAL

A total of $5,825.50 had been reported Thursday morning in the Red Cross Drive. All the committees have not reported and this is the total for Fulton and the East End of the county. The drive will continue through the remainder of March and although it is believed the quota will be reached, the people are urged to make their contributions now.

Anyone wishing to make contributions are asked to leave them at the City Coal Company, The City National Bank or with Mrs. J. C. Scruggs.

Charles Arnn will leave Monday to be inducted into the U. S. Navy. Visitors of Mrs. J. T. Arnn, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnn and family over week end were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Blaine of Memphis and Mrs. Fred Suiter and daughters of Murray.

AN ARMY PRIVATE POINTS THE WAY

If anyone is still skeptical of the value of pulpwood and its products to the armed services, the willingness of service men to spend their lives cutting pulpwood should make him ashamed of himself.

Most of us think that youth who accepts military service, either by volunteering or by being drafted, is doing his full share toward winning the war. The job of producing enough goods and equipment to keep him well armed and well fed falls on those of us who man the Home Front.

Yet every now and then a soldier, a sailor, or a marine writes to or calls on the War Activities Committee of the Pulpwood Consuming Industries and asks where he can spend his leave cutting pulpwood. Some of them haven't the time to travel to pulpwood producing areas. But others do.

Private Leland Avness, who spent a week's leave cutting pulpwood on a Vermont farm, believes that pulpwood is important enough to the Army to use his brief vacation helping civilians produce it.

We can show our appreciation of this splendid spirit by doing everything possible to produce the 14,000,000 cords of pulpwood necessary for 1944.

None are rash when they are not seen by anybody.—Stanislaus.

DOWN OUR ALLEY

Apparently a critical situation faces public education for the next two years in Kentucky. The legislature has reached an apparent impasse in the matter of setting up a total budget to carry on the state's business. A large and very necessary item in this budget is the item for education. A condition which has grown intolerable under the budget for the current biennium will grow infinitely worse in the next biennium.

Teachers by the thousands have left the schools to accept positions which offer an income commensurate with living costs. Many hundreds have gone into the armed services. Thousands more will leave the profession, unless the legislature makes adequate provision for the support of education.

The politicians at Frankfort need to get down to business, and quit trying to jockey for position in "power politics" to the detriment of the people who elected them to office. We saw a complete change of opinion in the last election, and unless politicians turn to some realistic statesmanship, they are likely to experience more rath at the hands of the people who vote at the polls.

Smiling symbol of America's belief that the handicapped should have their chance is this little boy reaching out for health and happiness. Proof of Kentucky's belief in the worth of her indigent crippled children will be success of the annual Easter campaign for $100,000 conducted by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, March 25-April 9. You can give Kentucky's crippled children their chance with your purchase of Easter Seals or with your contribution given to your County Campaign committee.

Everybody seems to be anxious for the soldiers to be allowed to vote—that is to cast a legal ballot. The choice is one between an illegal Federal ballot, and a legal State ballot. We should all know that under our Federal Constitution all of the machinery of voting is placed in the hands of the States. A Federal ballot would not only be unlawful under the statutes of every State in the union, but would be unconstitutional as well.

for under the Constitution, Congress may not authorize a Federal ballot for soldiers, or anybody else, in the 1944, or any other election.

The "bottled" Federal ballot ignores the clear and hitherto undisputed laws covering the subject. The fact that in every voting precinct in the country where these illegal ballots are presented for counting it will be the duty of the election officials to determine whether the laws have been complied with, and, if not, to refuse to count these ballots; and the fact that in so far as such illegal ballots are actually counted every precinct where they affected the result will become involved in a contest challenging the legality of the election. Candidates are voters of both parties will be involved in these contests. The entire election may thus become ineffectual, and the country face the end of a legal Presidential term with no legal President ready to take office.

How can any decent American face such a possibility in the midst of a world war? Back in 1864 Lincoln faced precisely this issue in the election that year. He refused absolutely to interfere with the constitutional process. If ever Federal intervention could have been justified it was then; but it can never be justified, and when as now it is openly attempted as a part of a drive for a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt it should be resisted by every citizen. The dangers involved are deadly, and the risks are obvious.

THE HANGING BASKET

A novel way to water the hanging-basket, without spilling water on the floor, is to insert a small funnel in the dirt, as near the center of the basket as possible, and hidden by the foliage. Fill this funnel with water every day, and it will soak into the soil gradually.

To judge human nature rightly a man may sometimes have a very small experience, provided he has a very large heart.—Bulwer Lytton.

The gentle minde by gentle deeds is knowe.—Spenser.

The servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient.—II Timothy 2:24.

TIDBITS

UNCHANGED CHILDHOOD

Since outward conditions have changed so much within the lifetimes of us middle-aged people, it would seem that children must have changed too. It astonishes me daily to find that the younger generation are human beings like the rest of us and not much spoiled by the mechanical devices that have made their childhood somewhat different from that of their parents. I am writing this on Christmas Eve, when in spite of a world at war, the mind of everybody is turned to this festive season. There are no stockings in our household and have not been for many years, but the Christmas tree with all of its icicles and decorations and lights occupies the place of honor in the living room. Under it, wrapped in many a package, are the presents for the family. My children are no longer small, but at Christmas they become young again and look for the thrills connected with the season quite as much as they did years ago. Old-timers like me probably appreciate this most of all, for it would be a shame for us who enjoyed Christmas so much to have descendants who forget it.

Picnics today are events of frequent occurrences, or were before gasoline rationing stopped many of our excursions. In spite of this frequency, though, the youngsters I have observed get a kick out of picnics that shows them the true breed of their elders. The picnics themselves have changed somewhat from what I knew, but cooking on an outdoor fire has lost none of its charm. And appetites show their ancestry, too.

For years I have feared that I might lose connection with the philosophy of young people as I grew older. Thus far, I hope, no such disaster has befallen me. If I can keep my faith in young people and remember that only outward trappings change, I am sure that I can go still farther into age without becoming too far removed in spirit from the younger generation.

It is a great discovery for most of us when we suddenly realize that fundamentally we are much like the generations that preceded us. Sophisticated people, social climbers, and self-worshippers often foolishly believe that they are unique, brand-new creations, like Melchisedek, with no connection with ancestors or descendants. As long as people remain in this silly attitude, there can be no progress toward understanding the fundamental bases of our whole cultured life. To one who thinks, however, the cycle of birth, maturity, old age, and death ties us closely to remote generations of people who have hoped and suffered and laughed and feared.

Recently I have read with joy an account of the claims made a hundred years ago by certain students of diet, who proclaimed a sort of millennium where concentrated foods would solve most of our problems. Some of the wild-eyed people went so far as to suggest that one might soon be able to take a week's rations in his pocket and laugh at the tremendous bulk formerly required. And on that basis even scientists worked, forgetful of the digestive system we inherited, one that requires bulk. Our ancestors ate quantities of coarse food of fairly low nutritive value; we inherited their digestive systems. It will take more than the discoveries of a few scientists to change human nature or human digestion. After the dieticians had about set the stage for the millennium, they discovered that calories were not enough. Sophisticated foods had to yield to more primitive, rough ones. And again we have learned that our outward ways of differing from our ancestors are pretty thin veneer. Basically we are still much the same, biologically and mentally. And the fact that Christmas restores some of our faith in the younger generation makes that season quite as valuable to us oldsters as to the younger ones.

TESTING COFFEE

A way to test the quality of coffee is to put a spoonful in a glass of cold water and add a few drops of lemon juice. If the coffee is pure it will remain on top of the water; if not, the water will become brown in color.

TO CLEAN PLAYING CARDS

Soiled playing cards can be cleaned by dipping a small sponge in spirits of camphor and rubbing the card gently. This will restore the newness.

RECEIPE of the WEEK

Making a small amount of meat go a long way continues to be a problem for the majority of home-makers. Mrs. Pearl Haak, foods specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, suggests the use of raw potatoes with hamburger as a meat stretchers, and to give a new flavor. Another unusual trick is to grade the unpeeled potatoes, and so retain all the minerals found close to the skin.

With the potatoes, serve creamed parsnips, buttered green beans, cabbage slaw, spoon bread and chocolate pudding.

Potatoburgers

1 lb. ground beef
2 medium size potatoes
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1-2 cup tomato juice.

Have meat finely ground. Add raw potatoes grated without being peeled, and other ingredients. Beat thoroughly, then form into rolls for individual servings and bake in moderate oven 325 degrees, for 45 minutes. A fourth cup of chopped celery or 2 tablespoons of chopped green pepper may be added if desired. For additional flavor, tomato soup may be used in place of tomatoes, with one cupful poured over the burgers while baking.

With the largest crop of cabbage ever produced now on the market, homemakers are asked to include it as frequently as possible in their daily menus. Rich in vitamin C, it compares favorably with citrus fruits in helping to build and maintain healthy blood vessels and strong bones and teeth.

Where the PULPWOOD SHORTAGE hits the farmer

Over 1/4 of all pulpwood is used in packaging farm products

THE FARMERS of this country responded patriotically to the appeal for more pulpwood. They cut wood because their country needed it. Few of them stopped to think that their own business of food production was threatened by the pulpwood shortage.

Already there have been cases where packing plants were unable to accept perishables because they could not get packing materials; and the distribution of food may be seriously upset this year unless the pulpwood shortage can be overcome.

So the farmer who cuts pulpwood is not only helping his country meet a serious wartime shortage; he is also adding to his income, improving his draft deferment status, and helping to provide for the packaging and distribution of his own farm products. Cut your pulpwood now!

Paper Containers Needed to Package Many Farm Products, Such as—

Packaging Eggs 158,805 tons

Packaging Seeds 4,854 tons

Packaging Milk 159,951 tons

Packaging Meats 497,890 tons

Packaging Fruits and Vegetables 161,178 tons

PEELING SEASON JUST AHEAD

The season for peeling pulpwood will soon be here. Many mills must have peeled wood to meet wartime demands. Your County Agent or mill buyer can tell you the best ways of handling your wood for peeling.

Judge Cunningham told me yesterday he'd just had a letter from his son, Phil, down in the South Pacific.

"You know, Joe," he said, "despite the bitter fighting in those Jap-infested jungles, the pesky insects and all that swelterin' heat, the boy seems as cheerful and chipper as ever. Just read this."

He handed me Phil's letter.

"The shooting's died down for a spell," Phil wrote, "and it's hot as blazes. Wish I had just one cool glass of that good old Kentucky beer right now!"

"And I wish I'd been right there to hand it to him," the Judge said, with feeling.

Yes, from where I sit, the boys who are fighting our battles—and risking life itself in doing so—deserve the things they want. Especially when it's so simple a thing as a moderate glass of beer!

Miss Mary Eugene Barham spent Monday night with homefolks.

Come to Church Sunday. Hold the banner high for Christ.

It was with great admiration I felt for a highway employee as I listened to a tale told by my husband, Mr. Lomax, in regard to Mr. Dood Campbell's kindness and thoughtfulness when he took time to write a dear old lady in California after her son met death in a plane crash near Fulton. Mr. Campbell said he knew that only the barest details would ever reach this stricken mother. So he wrote her a letter. She answered in such a fine appreciative manner that Mr. Campbell felt paid many times over. I'm sorry that I do not have his name, but he had been trained at Embury-Riddle Field near Union City and this was his first trip alone.

G. M. & O. RAILROAD CONSIDERS COMPLETE DEISELIZATION PLAN

The Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad, the first railroad in the south to operate streamlined Diesel passenger trains, has under consideration complete Dieselization of its freight service, states President I. B. Tigrett.

The annual report, signed by Mr. Tigrett, showed a gross revenue for 1943 of $37,858,695, an increase of $4,685,544 over the preceding year. In the same period, the Gulf Transport Company, bus and truck subsidiary, grossed $1,745,047 for an increase over 1942.

Reflecting wartime operations the report revealed that at the end of the year 93.75 percent of steam locomotives and 100 percent of freight cars on line were unserviceable. Increased operating costs of $4,045,033 were shown, including $1,322,090 in retroactive and new wage awards recently granted.

As to the postwar era, Mr. Tigrett said that GM&O is in a good position to successfully compete for business, that its financial position has been materially strengthened and the new industrial department is presently active in trying to locate new industries in the territory. Increased traffic was expected through the expansion of postwar foreign trade, as GM&O serves both the ports of New Orleans and Mobile, Mr. Tigrett said.

Merchant's Wife Praises Retonga

"I Am On The Go All Day And Never Get That Exhausted Feeling I Used To Have," States Mrs. Wyatt.

"If you are not feeling up to par, the answer is, 'try Retonga,'" happily declares Mrs. W. L. Wyatt, wife of the popular Madisonville Ky. feed store proprietor who lives on Route 2. Telling of her own case, Mrs. Wyatt gratefully continues:

"In spite of everything I tried, I seemed to go down steadily for the past two years. Sluggish elimination may have been the cause of all my troubles, for I had to use laxatives constantly and I felt full of toxic poisons. Soon my nerves began to get upset, and I got to where I couldn't get a real night's sleep. My appetite left me, and when I made myself eat I had a very uncomfortable feeling of fullness. I felt tired out all the time.

Retonga gave me wonderful relief. I don't have to take strong laxatives, I sleep restfully, and my nerves have settled back to normal. I relish every meal. I feel so much stronger and better that I am on the go all day. Retonga deserves all the praise I can give it."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store, adv.

He was made assistant general passenger agent in 1921 and assistant passenger traffic manager in 1937. C.

PROSPERITY OF FARM DEPENDS ON INDUSTRY

Preservation of private enterprise and an interest in the prosperity of industry should be the postwar plan for American farmers, according to Dr. George Benson, president of Harding College, Ark. He praises the war achievements of the farmers, and declares that markets will not be a factor this year in farm problems.

"We must understand why we cannot overproduce or lower prices by flooding markets now, if we are to plan for the postwar period," he declares. "The market is not great because we sent the goods abroad; it is great because of the prevailing wages in industry and the higher standard of living."

"Farmers must be concerned with the prosperity of industry. At the end of the war, we must preserve private enterprise and be interested in the welfare of the entire Nation."

"Agriculture must have some able-bodied men," he emphasized. "We must have at least seasonable workers. If industry would increase its work week from 40 to 48 hours, it would have the same effect as 12,500,000 more workers. We believe they should stop raiding farm labor. We believe that the Selective Service Act should be amended to retain 4-F farm workers in agriculture."

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove uric acid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
During many or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Their Needs Over There May Delay Your Getting Telephone Service Over Here

BECAUSE metals and other communication materials are so badly needed in war, it is becoming more and more difficult for the telephone company to fill service requests. In fact, facilities are now insufficient to meet the demands for service. So unless you qualify as an essential user—one whose telephone usage is directly essential to defense or the health, welfare or security of the community as a whole—we regret that you may experience delay in getting service.

When facilities are available, they must be employed first for essential users. Then, from any facilities remaining, others will be served in their regular order. We will be glad to take your application for service and notify you when facilities become available.

Everything possible is being done to lessen the effect of wartime restrictions on telephone service. And we look forward to the time when materials will be available and we can again furnish the service you want when you want it.

Doubt comes in at the window when inquiry is denied at the door.—Prof. Jowett.

How You Can Help Get MORE INDUSTRY FOR KENTUCKY

YOU live in Kentucky. You love your state. You wish it had better schools and roads and hospitals . . . more prosperity . . . so the state could get ahead . . . and so the young folks would have better opportunities here at home.

You know more industries would help Kentucky, for industries create work, payrolls and taxes . . . better living for everyone. You wonder what can be done to bring more industries. You are told that a large quantity of cheap electricity from the government-owned TVA, made available in Kentucky, would do the job.

But that is not true. Low-cost power for industry is already available in almost unlimited volume here. The business managed electric companies already serve most of the biggest industries, including about 200 coal mines. In the last 31 years no factory has stayed out of Kentucky for lack of cheap power.

The truth is that electricity is about the cheapest item used by industry. The U. S. Census Bureau reports that only 82 cents worth of electric power is required in the manufacture of the average product worth $100. That is less than one per cent. So if electricity were free, it would make little difference in the average manufacturing cost.

Favorable tax laws and a friendly, sound, thrifty state government attract industry. Industry likes an atmosphere that makes it feel at home. It likes to feel safe from unfair attacks

. . . safe from destructive agitation against tax-paying business.

You are a citizen, a taxpayer, a voter. Through your representatives in the Legislature you can help to create an atmosphere that will favor a steady industrial growth in Kentucky, with almost unlimited advantages for the state.

All that any legitimate business asks is fair treatment. But no business can successfully meet unfair competition from government subsidized, tax-free enterprises—whether it be manufacturing, or banking, or farming, or supplying electricity . . . or selling groceries, clothing and hardware.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, March 19, is "Matter;" and the Golden text is: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods; I am the Lord your God" (Leviticus 19:4.) Among the citations are the following passages:

"All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made." (John 1:3)

"God is infinite omnipresent Spirit. If Spirit is all and is every-where, what and where is matter?" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.)

MUCILAGE SUBSTITUTE

Quite often when one is in a hurry to mail a letter, there will be but one stamp and it has no mucilage on its back. In this predicament all necessary is to moisten the mucilage flap on another envelope, run the stamp over the dampened part quickly, then place on the letter to be mailed.

POURING FROM CANS

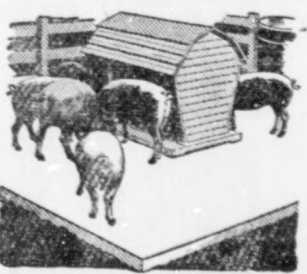

The secret of pouring liquid from a can is to make two holes in the can instead of one, about an inch apart. The one hole is for the liquid to pour from, the other hole is to let the air into the can.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT: Mark 15:22-27, 29-30.
GOLDEN TEXT: He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

The crucifixion of Christ brings us to that darkest of all days in the history of the world, when wicked men with cruel hearts and hands crucified the loving Son of God. But, thanks be to God, it was also the day when bright hope shone forth for sinful humanity, for in His death Christ bore our sins upon the tree, the veil was rent, the old sacrifices were set aside, and the "new and living way" was opened into the "holiest by the blood of Jesus" (Heb. 10:20).

The cross is not just an ornament to decorate the steeple of a church, or to adorn man. It speaks of the black horror of the cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" But it also tells of our God, who "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son" as its Redeemer.

What does Calvary mean to us? It means that—

I. The Saviour Died So We Could Live (vv. 22-27).

The details of and circumstances surrounding the crucifixion are of deep interest to every Christian. We stand with Luther and weep as we see Christ's unspeakable agony, not only of body but of spirit, and we cry, "For me, for me!" How can any believer contemplate the cross and withhold self, substance, or service from Christ?

There would be less careless, selfish living if it were so often to the story of the death of Christ and recognize the loving, sacrificial devotion of Christ.

Equally heart-searching is the message of the cross to the unbeliever. He knows he is a sinner (Rom. 3:23), he knows that "the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23), and he knows that "neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). Here at the cross he meets that one "who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed" (1 Pet. 2:24).

Note the difference between the two thieves who were hanged with Jesus, for it is the difference between those who face Christ in our day. One rallied on Him (Luke 23:39), while the other, repentant, had a faith that looked all the way into Paradise (Luke 23:43).

II. The Son Was Forsaken So We Could Be Accepted

(vv. 29-30).

Awful was the railing and mocking which our Lord endured on the cross. It must have made His devoted, loving heart well-nigh break as He saw the scorn of the very ones He died to save.

Yet it was as nothing compared to that moment when He who knew no sin "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21). Bearing the awful load of the sin of the world He knew the bitter agony of being forsaken by the Father. He turned His head away and we hear that saddest of all cries, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, we dare not attempt to explain it, we can only accept it and thank God that because He did become sin for us we may be "made the righteousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21). He died that we might live. He was forsaken that we might be "accepted in" Him "the beloved" (Eph. 1:6).

After the darkness, however, comes the light. He died not as a martyr, a vanquished gladiator defeated in battle; no, there was victory.

III. The Veil Was Rent So We Could Enter

(vv. 37-39).

The death of Jesus was not the pitiful weakening of a human martyr. Here was the Son of God, crying with a loud voice (v. 37), giving up His spirit to the Father (Luke 23:46), declaring that the work of redemption was "finished."

As a visible indication of that fact, and as a declaration that the old dispensation of law had given place to the new dispensation of grace, God tore the temple veil in twain. Only He could have done it. No man could have torn this sixty-foot long, twenty-foot wide, and inch-thick curtain, and note that it was torn from top to bottom. This was the act of God. This veil had hung in the temple to keep all but the high priest out of the Holy of Holies, and he entered with fear and trembling but once a year as the representative of the people.

Now all this is changed. We have now, "brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil."

Therefore, "let us draw near with a true heart and full assurance of faith" (Heb. 10:19-22).

SAFETYGRAMS

Last week I said I'd give you more facts and figures on accidents. The statistician has not completed his records, however, so I shall have to give you that information sometime in the future.

Meanwhile the following message is timely:

Some drivers feel that their ability to get out of tight spots is a demonstration of their skill. Reckless driving is only a demonstration of the operator's lack of good sense.

A good driver never gets in tight spots. He is always on the alert when he approaches intersections, schools, crossroads, or other places where there might be the possibility of accident.

The anticipation of accidents produces careful drivers and fewer accidents. Drive carefully.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"somethin' special catch your eye in the paper, Judge?"
"Sure did, Chet... an article here telling about prohibition in India being written off by the Madras government as a dismal failure after a three-year trial. They found out that enforcement was ineffective and that there was a steady increase in bootlegging and other violations of the law which increased penalties failed to check."

"It all goes to prove what I've said time and time again, Chet... prohibition does not prohibit. It's been tried in this country 47 times in the last 33 years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Was found to be a failure and abandoned in Canada, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia, too."
"Same thing happens every time... as soon as legal liquor is voted out, bootleg liquor with its crime and corruption moves right in."
