IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE SACREDNESS OF LIFE (TEMPERANCE LESSON)

LESSON TEXT: Gen. 1:27, 28; Matt. 12: 11, 12; Rom. 14:19-21; 1 Cor. 6:13, 20.

GOLDEN TEXT: Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit?—1 Corinthians 6:19.

A high and ennobling concept of the value of human life is an important element in Christian thought. The Word of God always regards human life as sacred—a gift of God to be used for His glory, never to be exploited for gain or destroyed at will.

This important truth needs constant reiteration in a social order which is so shortsighted and sinful that it will permit the destruction of man through the sale and use of alcoholic beverages. The lesson has a real application to the liquor problem.

I. God Honored Man (Gen. 1:27, 28).

It should be of primary interest and concern to discover what the Maker and Lord thinks of His creation, man. He knows what is in man and if we learn of Him we may come to evaluate man aright.

1. He Made Him in His Own Image (v. 27).

The teaching of Scripture makes it clear that this image was not anything material or physical, but rather a likeness of personality. As God is a personal, moral, intelligent Being, so is man.

How tragic then that man will not only reject that grace, but will subject his God-given personality to the narcotic and destructive influence of alcohol.

Not only did God make man in His image, but—

2. He Gave Him Power and Authority (v. 28).

This is the very thing man is seeking, and here we learn that the only One who had a right to give it—God Himself—bestowed it upon man.

Having dominion over the entire earth, man is in a place of responsibility, not only for his own moral choices, but for the welfare of others. Think that over as it relates to the ever-growing liquor problem.

II. Man Should Honor Man (Matt. 12:11, 12; Rom. 14:19-21).

Since God has such a high regard for man, it is clear that we ought to have real respect for our fellow man. "Man's inhumanity to man" is often declared to be the world's greatest difficulty. It would not be so if God's Word were obeyed. Man would learn that—

1. He Should Recognize His Fellow Man's Value (Matt. 12:11, 12).

Property values are so well to the front in the thinking of all, that it requires no argument to convince anyone that a sheep that has fallen into a pit should be rescued. But the sad thing is that the man who would run for help to rescue a sheep in that predicament will hardly cast an interested glance at the drunk in the gutter, or lose a few minutes sleep over the girls who are going to hell by way of our countless taverns.

The plain fact of it is that we do not regard a man as of more value than a sheep. Many a neighborhood has been stirred to angry reprisal over the poisoning of a pet dog, but will let the liquor dealer poison men and women—all for a small license fee.

The man who loves his fellow man knows that—

2. He Should Sacrifice for His Fellow Man's Good (Rom. 14:19-21).

Paul here states a high principle of Christian consideration. He makes clear that man is his brother's keeper and must do nothing which will tempt his brother to do that which will harm him.

III. Man Should Honor Himself (1 Cor. 6:13, 20).

Man is told not to think more highly of himself than he ought to think (Rom. 12:3), and that is good counsel. But at the same time he ought to think as highly of his own being as God does. He should recognize that—

1. His Body Is the Temple of the Holy Spirit (v. 19).

The Bible teaches that the moment a man believes in Christ his body becomes the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit. That means that he must never take that body in any place (such as a tavern) to do anything or partake of anything (like intoxicants) which would dishonor the Holy Spirit of God.

2. He Belongs to God (v. 20).

Men have been given a free will by God. He has given them the right of self-determination. That does not abrogate God's right to man's devotion and love.

The fact that we are free to choose should make us the more determined that the right choice should be made—that we shall glorify God in our bodies, which are His.

Does it take even a moment's thought to tell us that the violation of that body (and every bit of scientific evidence proves it to be a violation) by the use of alcohol is not only disobedient, but sinful rebellion against God.

Maps and Men
 By MART COLES
 McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

THE colonel's temporary headquarters were in his hotel bedroom. At noon, ten young men stood before the plain board table that had been brought up from the dining room to serve as a desk.

One of the young officers wore a captain's harricourt, those of first lieutenants and one, who stood at the extreme left, the single bronze bars of a second lieutenant. His name on the roster was John Sherman, but his fellows dubbed him "Agricultural" when they learned that he had been a farmer prior to enlistment. The colonel spoke.

"We have been assigned to this sector." He moved his pencil across the map which lay before him. "Note the boundaries carefully." The officers crowded around, leaving John Sherman to peer over their shoulders.

"As you see," continued the colonel, "our area is roughly square, about fifteen miles on a side. Beginning tomorrow I want to move fifteen batteries into position. The terrain is hilly. There is a good deal of plowed land, and there are a number of wooded spots." He pushed the chart to one side.

"I want a map showing the hills, the groves of trees and all the dirt roads. And I want it fast." Lieutenant Sherman tried to get closer, but the broad back of Captain Jorg blocked the way, and the captain's elbow dug the lieutenant in the ribs.

"Now, gentlemen, I shall not judge your success by anything but results. If you can find a print showing the region I have indicated, complete in detail, bring that in, or a fair copy. But Captain Jorg believes, and I agree with him, that the quickest way to get the data is to estimate the tract ourselves. Any questions?"

No one answered.

Very well, gentlemen, carry on. Five cars with drivers have been allotted to you for the afternoon. Divide as you think best. Report to me here immediately after evening mess." Colonel Shore smiled. "To add a sporting feature, I will grant a three day leave to the man or group bringing in the most useful instrument." The young men saluted and nine of them hurried from the room.

Second Lieutenant John Sherman remained, his face flushed with embarrassment. "Sir, may I see the map?"

"Certainly."

It was an ordinary Government survey. The locality to which the colonel had referred was marked in red. John copied the section and township numbers in the zone, saluted, and stumbled from the room.

By the time he reached the street four of the jeeps had left. The fifth, with two men in the rear seat, was just starting from the curb. "Do I go with you?" John asked.

"Not as I understand it, Agricultural," said one of the passengers. "Captain Jorg is alone in one car and I heard him say that he would get paper and pencils and come back to pick you up. You're both from the same town, aren't you?"

"Better than that," said the other. "They both get letters from the same girl. Be nice if Jorg and Agricultural win the leave. They can visit her together." The little car whirled off.

John waited for thirty minutes. He did not expect Captain Jorg to return, and soon was convinced that the whole thing was a trick. Jorg had prevented him from seeing the map; Jorg had arranged that the other lieutenants would pair off and leave him without transportation; Jorg had made sure that if he did not win the leave, there would be no chance whatever for John to do so.

A jeep, empty except for a corporal who was driving, pulled up. John forgot the formality that governed between officers and enlisted men. "Any chance of your driving me this afternoon? I've territory to measure."

The corporal looked astonished, then amused. These shavetails, they didn't know nothing. "Sorry, sir," he said, "this car isn't free. The lieutenant would have to have an order, anyway." Then he added sarcastically, "Perhaps the lieutenant could catch a bus." John thanked him for the suggestion and rushed to the bus station.

That evening the same ten officers stood before Colonel Shore. A pile of sketches lay before him. Captain Jorg had an air of easy confidence. Second Lieutenant John Sherman looked anything but happy.

"Gentlemen," said the colonel, "I have examined all of these. Considering the speed with which you worked, they are quite good. Captain Jorg's especially. But," the colonel pulled a large sheet of thin paper from the bottom of the pile, "this one turned in by Lieutenant Sherman is by far the most complete."

Lieutenant Sherman explained that through his carelessness he was left without a conveyance," said the colonel. "But in the emergency he used his head. Once a farmer, it occurred to him that the local center of the Agricultural Department would have air maps, which of course are in detail. He went to the county seat by bus and made a tracing. Since I wanted results irrespective of method, the three day leave is properly awarded to Lieutenant Sherman. Thank you, gentlemen, that will be all."

Regains 20 Lbs. Taking Retonga; Back On Job

He Had Been Victim Of Nervous Indigestion And Sluggish Elimination Until He Could Hardly Eat, Sleep Or Work, Says Mr. Brooks, Feels Like Different Man Now.

"I was twenty pounds underweight and I suffered so much from nervous indigestion that I felt miserable all the time. Retonga not only gave me the relief I so badly needed, but I have regained twenty pounds and I feel like a different person," gratefully declares Mr. Turner Brooks, Route 5, Madisonville, Ky., for twenty-two years a miner for the Pine Hill Coal Company.

"I fought nervous indigestion for about five years," continued Mr. Brooks, and although I tried many medicines, diets, and treatments I seemed to get nowhere. My nerves got into such shape that I could sleep only a few hours during the night, and this made me feel very weak all the next day. I surely had a time with constipation, and it took the most powerful laxatives I could use to give me any relief at all. I lost twenty pounds in weight, and I lost many days from work.

"I was simply amazed at the relief Retonga gave me. I am ravenous at every meal, I have regained the twenty pounds I lost, and I sleep fine. The constipation is relieved too. I am on the job every day feeling fine. Retonga is the finest medicine I ever saw."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store. adv.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally... whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys... simple as A-B-C."

DOWN OUR ALLEY

The White House and the United States have been playing parts in "after you," and "you first" since "Dear Alben" became Leader of the Senate instead of standard-bearer and spokesman for the President.

As much as politicians like a fight they are always ready for a truce. In the honeymoon days of the New Deal, the Congress bestowed more discretionary power upon the President than had ever been granted before in the history of the country; whereup Mr. Roosevelt eventually changed so many rules of government that he held Congress under Administration control.

Just how far the reconciliation will go, nobody knows!

Aside from political affairs the National Capital is deeply concerned about a multiplicity of problems and questions.

There is keen interest in Washington and elsewhere in the activities of the Truman Senate Committee which has been investigating and keeping track of war production since the war began. When the Baruch report was made and officials were appointed by the President to carry out its recommendations our Washington wise men were not slow in predicting new and improved relations between the Senate and the White House.

Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board raises a big question in his statement calling for strict curbs against war-created companies entering new production fields in which they played no part before the war. He also asserted that it would be a "physical impossibility" to allow all manufacturers to resume non-military production at practically the same time.

Nelson advocates policies that should ease war plants back into their old lines of manufacturing, and then letting down the bars of competition so that eventually there may be a healthy return to the free enterprise system in the United States.

The puzzle involves reconversion and reconstruction. But the ultimate question is jobs and employment for the future years.

If our "narrow-nationalism" is protected, the questions of inflation, price-fixing, rationing, subsidies, and the new-fangled socialization of human beings, have chances to be straightened out in time.

There are many evidences that there will be a return to reason. Some optimists insist that prosperous times will return at the close of the war. They must not overlook the facts that there are a lot of hard nuts to crack.

WASTE PAPER SALVAGE WILL SPEED VICTORY

In an appeal for more waste paper as a raw material for war production, Rear Admiral Harry L. Brinser, inspector of Naval material, declared that failure to save waste paper can delay the return of troops from the war.

Admiral Brinser said: "There is absolutely no exaggeration in the statement that waste paper may be as deciding an influence in the war's outcome as the mobilization of the fleet of pleasure craft that saved the British Army at Dunkirk."

"One of thousands of Navy uses of waste paper is the apparently unimportant but necessary container which protects the shell in transit, from the finisher's bench to the gun breech. Cardboard containers are absolutely necessary in transporting twenty and forty millimeter ammunition tracers and projectiles which have to be manufactured to extremely close tolerances. Shipping requires that each of these shells, and there are millions shipped monthly, must be protected so that they can not chip or mar one another. . . . If marred, the projectile would not reach the target due to irregularities in flight."

"Your cooperation in the saving of waste paper will result in delivery of vital material, thereby insuring an early victory. Perhaps delay in turning in that waste paper pile may delay the return of your son from this war!"

MENDING A CRACKED RANGE

A crack on the inside of a range can be mended by using a filler made of equal parts of common table salt and wood shes, moistened with water to the proper consistency. The filler will dry hard and will be lasting.

But the very hairs of your head are all numbered.—Matt. x 30. Amend your ways and your doings.—Jeremiah vii 3.

FIGHTING PARTNERS

The boy in the tank and the man on the tractor are partners—fighting partners—in this war for Freedom! We on the home front must furnish the food (16,000,000 more acres of it than last year's record total), to supply our boys with what they need for Victory.

With farm labor short, every piece of farm machinery must be kept in the fields working, in fighting-trim, and not in the shed for repairs. Rust, dirt and wear must be prevented. In this More Food Production fight, your Standard Oil man is also a fighting partner. He is helping the Southern farmer keep his trucks, tractors and machinery fighting-fit by giving helpful service and advice on farm machinery maintenance and making dependable fuels and lubricants available everywhere.

Always anxious to serve, your Standard Oil man can certainly render you extra service now. Ask him for a free copy of his 64-page "Wartime Maintenance Manual."

GARDENS FOR VICTORY

A Wartime Necessity

Today's struggle is being won not only on the field of battle, but on the home front. Everywhere there is the cry for more food to feed our fighting men our allies and ourselves and that's a job for the home Front.

Victory gardens play a big part in winning the battle for food. In planning for a Victory Garden, here are some simple rules of good planting that will help assure success:

- 1 Select a sunny, level area, with good soil. If trees are near, plant only beyond the end of the limbs because these measure the extent of the underground roots which suck fertility out of the soil.
- 2 Space plantings so as to have crops ripening all through the summer. This can be done by timing plantings of the same vegetables several weeks apart.
- 3 Prepare ground thoroughly, breaking up clods, working sod finely with a rake, removing stones and trash. Knock dirt off clumps of grass and throw them on compost pile to rot for fertilizer.
- 4 Fertilize well. Use ground that has come from rotted leaves, or from the compost pile if you have one. Apply commercial fertilizer if the ground is not already rich. Fertilizer speeds up growth, and if vegetables don't grow fast they become tough and tasteless.

- 5 Keep weeds down.
- 6 Be ready to fight insects with insecticides. Experienced neighbors can tell you when insects are most likely to arrive.
- 7 Utilize everything you grow. Don't let anything go to waste, even if you have to give it away. Tomatoes should be canned at home in as great quantities as possible for they are rich in vitamins.
- 8 Always get the best advice you can. The Department of Agriculture has helpful bulletins. Neighbors who have gardened before can give valuable help with time tables and knowledge of the soil of our community.

Realizing the important part Victory Gardens can play in the welfare of this community and its contribution to the war effort, the firms and individuals listed below urge all who can possibly do so to grow a Victory Garden.
