Busy Sam Siegel Named To Heart Fund Division

If you want a job done well, go to a busy person, a famous judge commented recently. That's precisely what R. H. (Red) Bond of Dyersburg did this week when he went to Sam Siegel and asked the very active industrialist to serve as Advance Special Gift Chairman for the West Tennessee Heart Association. Mr. Bond is chairman of the area over which Mr. Siegel will serve and Cayce Pentecost of Nashville is the State Heart Chairman.

Known affectionately as "Mr. Sam" to most of his employees and the business and civic leaders in all the communities where he has business interests, the active businessman is a frequent visitor to his two Fulton plants.

Mayor Siegel's duties, as outlined by Bond, will be to supervise the organization and conduct of the Advance Special Gift Division of the 1963 Heart Fund Campaign for the West Tennessee Heart Association.

Mr. Siegel, who is serving his second term as Mayor of Bruceton, made his residence there in 1940, where he became General Manager and Vice-President of the Henry I. Siegel Manufacturing and Clothing Company. The Siegel Company has factories located at Bruceton, South Fulton, Gleason, Hohenwald, Trezevant, Dixon and Fulton, Kentucky. Tentative plans of the Company are to open a new clothing factory, at Tiptonville, Tennessee in March of 1963.

Mayor Siegel has served as Carroll County Heart Fund Chairman for the past 2 years. He is a member of the Executive Board of the West Tenn. Heart Assn., Past-President of the Bruceton Lion's Club; member of the Masonic Lodge; Elks Lodge and a 32 degree Shriner. He is a member of the Carroll County Industrial Committee and Carroll County Democratic Executive Committee. In 1958 he served as Carroll County Campaign Chairman for the Boy Scouts and in 1959 he served as District Chairman over Henry, Benton, Carroll and Weakley Counties for the West Tenn. Boy Scout Council. He is an Honorary Colonel of Governor Ellington's Staff. A member of the Temple, at Nashville, Mayor Siegel is married and has four children. They reside at 304 W. College St., in Bruceton, Tennessee.

Jottings From

Note Book

I guess my toothache last week dulled my memory because I intended to tell you of my recent experience with, what I shall laughingly call, a hypnotist. If that fellow judges his competence by his experience with me, he is now selling shoe laces, and has given up the trade for all time. One thing I gotta say about him, "he tried." If only he had talked with Paul the hypnotist would have learned that it takes a sledge hammer, to shut me up when I don't want to be silenced. Sometimes not even that works.

Well, anyhow here I am with a party of congenial friends watching this fellow perform his "unusual" powers on members of his entertainment troupe. First victim was a nice young man who was just minding his own business when this super-charged hypnotist jabber-caddabbers a lot of stuff to the said nice young man and the first thing you know that fellow was out like a light. With the alleged loss of his conscious powers the young man was cleaning off tables, pouring water in glasses and cleaning up in general, all at the bidding of the fellow with the starry eyes.

Next victim was a beautiful, red-headed young lady about twenty-five. She stares into the eyes of the smart pants while said smart pants dangles a watch, this-away and that-away in front of her and bingo, she's transfixed into a character stiff as a board. So, tense was her body that smart pants picks her up, places her across the backs of two chairs, and would you believe it if I told you that he gets up and stands on her mid-riff, though she squeaks nary a word. Of course everybody oohed and aahed and clapped and marveled. And there the show started for me.

Smart pants asks for five volunteers to submit to his hypnotic powers. With some nudging and urging from our party I says to myself: "I'm going right up and see what happens." The five of us sat down in chairs side by side and I was the middle victim. Smart pants looks at me, glares at me, waves that watch to and fro in front of me and I keep saying: "Wonder what time it is, wonder what time it is, wonder why he doesn't hold that watch steady enough for me to see what time it is?" With all that carrying on right in front of ME, the lady sitting beside me, flops over like dead. That shook me up, but good, but I kept on looking at that watch to see what time it was.

Just when I thought I had those watch hands pin-pointed to the time of night, plunko, the gent sitting on my left side slumps over like as how he had been silently stabbed in the back. Since I seemed to be getting more alert, when I should have been getting unconscious, I started getting scared, scared, scared. Heck, maybe they were both stabbed in the back for all I knew. I didn't want to know the time, and I didn't want any cheese either, all I wanted was out of that trap.

About this time the hypnotist was acting up like Admiral Perry. He stepped up the tempo of that watch swinging and seemed determined to see the whites of my eyes. I was determined that he

Fall Fashions Drastically Changed While Students Observe Tacky Day

Sally Pirtle and Greg Williamson stand in their gala winter outfits before heroic Gen. Robert E. Lee, who was quite prepared for the first annual Tacky Day. This event is sponsored by the annual staff of Fulton High School.

On their last day before Christmas vacation, Dec. 18, the students of Fulton High participated in the first annual Tacky Day. This enjoyable day was initiated by the 1963 Growl staff in cooperation with their sponsors, Mrs. Ray Steele and Mrs. Bill Robertson, and FHS principal J. M. Martin and the teachers.

Nearly all the students of FHS took part in this fun occasion by dressing tacky. The statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the middle hall of FHS was dressed to meet the event.

An assembly was held that afternoon and prizes were given to the four tackiest senior boys and girls. Virgil Craven in his "Hot Rod" uniform and Phillip Merryman dressed in an old military coat and pants took the first prizes for the boys. Ann Bowers and Rita Thompson were selected as the tackiest senior girls.

Several underclassmen received honorable mention; they were: Susan Walker, Freddie Wells, Judy Hoodenpyle, James Turner, Jimmy Yates, James Hurt, Nancy Latta, Carreen Harrison, Ben Henderson, and Jane Warren.

If Adults Would Write Like Kids, They'd Say These Things To Santa

If adults were to succumb to the favorite children's pastime of writing letters to Santa Claus there is no doubt that the accumulation of same would make the best seller list in anybody's country newspaper. The other day this reporter indulged in reading some of the children's letters and immediately started wondering what some adults around town would write if they had the chance and the nerve.

Would you, as a newspaper reader through the years think that some of them would sound like this?

Dear Santa Claus: I want a geiger counter for Christmas. I want to find just a few of the people who voted for the City Manager form of government. I know the people were in favor of it because that's why I'm here. If you can't send a geiger counter could you send me a book of statistics giving the latest mortality rate on city managers. I've been here only four months and already people are saying I look sick, sick, sick.

Am I really sick or do you think it's puffed rice making me look like this?

Your friend
Jim Robey

Dear St. Nick: I don't want nuttin' for Christmas. I don't like nobody, not even you. I think you're a big joke. If I had my way I'd put you in the labor pool, too. I'd drown you in nine million gallons of water. I'd cut off your water, fire your reindeer, take your sleigh away so you'd have to walk. I don't know whether you take your orders by telephone or not, but if you do, it's got to go. And that's not all. I'd stunt your growth so you'd never get out of the woods, especially if you want to spend money. And what's more Bob agrees with me.

I ain't yore fren.

Dear Santa Claus: We're two good little boys. We ain't mad at nobody, much. All we want for Christmas is a song book with a lot of new ways to sing "Sweet Sue."

Dear Santa: How you fixed on real stethoscopes; the modern kind? If I wear out as many of them in the next 50 years of my practice as I have in the past, I'll need plenty of them. Bring Dr. Poe some, too. He's gonna be around a long time, too. Bring us a dictionary that don't have "retirement" in it. The word gives us a pain in the upper practice region!

Dr. D. L. Jones

Dear St. Nick: I composed this poem one day while I was looking out of the City Hall window and watching all the policemen go by. See what you think about it?

Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
Who wants my badge,
Is it you, or you?
Come see me, I need you.

Dear Sandy: Is there REALLY something called Civilian Defense? Do I need any? Tell me it ain't so.

Dear Nick: They say if you don't hear a rumor by ten o'clock in the morn-

Fulton Buys Lagoon Site; Robey Cites Gas Rate Reduction; Federal Funds Sighted

City Manager Jim Robey called in members of the press for a briefing on Fulton City affairs Tuesday afternoon. The representatives of both local newspapers learned that:

—The Mayor and Commissioners will secure options on 53 acres of land 1200 yards from the city limits behind the City Park on which to establish the sewage disposal lagoon.

—That the most feasible site for the neatly constructed brick pump station for the lagoon is on the Maxwell McDade property on West State Line adjacent to other commercial property on the site.

—That the city's gas users have enjoyed a virtual rate reduction for many months now.

—That diligent detection of faulty valves in the city's gas system averted a $20,000.00 expense of erecting a feeder line to bring normal gas pressure to all parts of the city.

—That prompt application for federal funds to erect the sewage disposal system brought the city a windfall of $72,000.00 and that another application to be made later will secure another possible $68,000.00. Prompt action on the part of the city to apply for the Federal Funds actually saves the taxpayers $140,000.00 of the proposed $266,500.00 disposal system.

—That great savings are being put into motion in the garbage department and that more are expected after the first of the year.

Here's the story:

At a call meeting of the Mayor and Board of Commissioners on Monday afternoon, the officials agreed to secure an option to buy 53 acres of land from Bob Davis at a cost of $500 per acre. The site has been under consideration for some time. It was the general consensus of the city officials and the engineers that the site would adequately serve the city as a lagoon for sewage disposal, with every modern means employed to make it a clean, odorless and efficient disposal system.

A brick enclosed pump station near the site of the Big-Valu supermarket would be a centrally located facility to pump the city's sewage disposal into the lagoon without involving more expense than proposed for the overall cost of the sewage disposal system. When asked whether the pump station would detract from the commercial area Mr. Robey said: "It was the opinion of the city officials and the engineers that a modern brick building in tasteful design would enhance the commercial property in the area. The pump station would be erected with no noise, absolutely no fumes or odors, and is in keeping with the pattern being followed by other cities."

Two residential property owners in the area appeared before the board to protest the proposed building of the pump station on the McDade property. "It is the opinion of the board and the engineers that to construct the pump station anywhere else in or out of the city limits would cost upwards of $30,000.00 not heretofore planned," Mr. Robey said. "The building would look like any other neatly designed commercial building and under no circumstances would it be offensive to anybody," he added.

Reporter Calls Mrs. Byrd 'Remarkable' at 108 Years Old

(The following story was published in Wednesday's Louisville Courier-Journal on the occasion of Mrs. Byrd's 108th birthday. She formerly lived in Fulton . . . ed)

By HARRY BOLSER
Courier-Journal West Kentucky Bureau

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 18—Mrs. Ethel Byrd was as excited as a young girl. She was preparing to celebrate her 108th birthday anniversary Wednesday at her home here.

"Miss Ethel," as Mrs. Byrd is known to her neighbors, got out her favorite suit Tuesday, brushed it off, and fixed her hair with the help of her daughter, Mrs. S. L. Craver, with whom she lives at 1232 N. 12th.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Byrd's physician called at the Craver home to check on her. He found Mrs. Byrd her usual chipper self. After examining her, the physician, Dr. Robert M. Woodruff, described her condition in one word: "Remarkable." He said her blood pressure was 115 over 75 and he found no evidence of any vascular change.

Mrs. Byrd was born December 19, 1854, at New Providence, Tenn. On her 100th birthday when she lived at Fulton, Mrs. Byrd recalled some of her Civil War experiences when Yankee soldiers tore through the family farm helping themselves to food for them and their horses.

Nine days after her 103rd birthday, Mrs. Byrd slipped on a rug getting out of bed and suffered a fracture of the left hip. She was taken to Western Baptist Hospital here and a Paducah orthopedic surgeon pinned the hip together. She was under anesthesia 90 minutes. Forty-five days later she was out of the hospital and walking.

Believed to be Kentucky's oldest citizen, Mrs. Byrd also is believed to be the oldest Kentuckian ever to submit to surgery and the oldest to survive a major operation.

Tuesday afternoon members of Mrs. Byrd's 12th Street Baptist Church Sunday school class took her birthday and Christmas gifts. She has been a lifelong Baptist and a member of the 12th Street church since she came here with her daughter in 1961.

She also is looking forward to another big birthday cake presented to her by a Union City, Tenn., bakery every year since she was 100.

Governor Combs Makes A Report To The People; "We Must Continue What Has Been Begun," He Says

Governor Bert Combs, entering his fourth and final year in office, intends to add several new projects to the "Bold New Program" undertaken during his first three years, a release from Frankfort revealed recently.

While he is gratified by the accomplishments so far, he feels there is much more to be done. The News feels that you might want to take a look at your State Government accomplishments and its course for the future. In this light we are publishing the release verbatim. Of the forthcoming year, Combs said:

"In a sense, it is the most important period — for we must continue what has been begun and, at the same time, initiate new programs to meet other acute needs."

The Governor's only major concern is: Will the State's revenue structure be kept intact?

"Now we have the necessary revenue, and we are making progress," he said. "But if we destroy our revenue structure again, as was done in the middle 30's, Kentucky will be held back another quarter of a century."

For this reason, he pictured the next 10 years as "perhaps the most critical period in Kentucky's history."

In an interview on the eve of the third anniversary of his inauguration — Dec. 8, 1959 — Combs credited the State's present broad-based tax structure with making possible many advances. He said it permits the State to derive sufficient revenue without placing undue burden on the people.

He offered progress in many fields as evidence: education, roads and highways, new industry, State parks and the tourist business, welfare, arts and crafts, merit system, mobile government, payment of $125 million in bonuses to more than 400,000 Kentucky war veterans, and educational television.

Boiling it down, he said he feels that better schools and highways have been the greatest achievement of his administration. He called these areas the "very basics."

Combs pointed out that 67 per cent of the State's sales tax revenue goes to education—for teachers' salaries, transportation, textbooks and laboratories. Kentucky had been last among the states, in almost every phase of education, he added, but "higher appropriations are now lifting us up the ladder."

The network of turnpikes, free-ways and interstate highways, Combs said, is providing Kentucky with the "nucleus of a modern highway transportation system." He noted that the 76-mile trunk of the Eastern-Kentucky Turnpike (Mountain Parkway) is nearing completion, and that construction on the Western Kentucky Turnpike is on schedule.

He credited the Legislature with "excellent support" in making advances. The great majority of its members should be highly commended for their "vision and conscientious efforts," he said.

Preferring to look forward rather than backward, Combs listed several areas in which he intends to make improvements in his last year. He emphasized aid to distressed areas, aid to higher education, improved probation and parole methods in Kentucky's penal institutions, and more housing for senior citizens.

"This problem of distressed areas is one of the greatest we face," he said. "It takes in unemployment, as well as several other factors."

He pointed out that Kentucky's new arts and crafts has already put hands to work in some distressed areas.

In the field of higher education, Combs said that Kentucky must strive to increase the prestige of the average college instructor in the state. He added that it is necessary for Kentuckians to focus more attention and direct more energy toward making certain that all capable young people have the opportunity to attend an institution of higher learning.

"Substantial improvements should be made toward the rehabilitation of people in Kentucky penal institutions," he said.

Other goals he specifically mentioned in his plans for the coming year include: more advances on the educational television project, a big push on the small lakes program, continued step-up in tourist promotion—including the clean-up campaign and development of roadside parks—intensified campaigning against alcoholism, continuation of his policy of taking State Government to the people, completion of the agricultural research center at the University of Kentucky, continuation of welfare programs and more air strips to facilitate new industry and air travel.

"With only a year remaining in my term, naturally I don't expect to fulfill the needs in all these areas," he explained. "What I want to do, however, is lay the groundwork for some good programs and give good management to the ones that have already been launched."

He said the present tax structure is essential if this is to be done.

"Kentucky was one of five states that enacted a sales tax in the 1930s and then repealed it. If it is repealed a second time," he said, "it will make Kentucky a freak."

The other four states have also reenacted their sales tax; none have repealed it a second time.

Looking back over the past three years, Combs said he believes the people have shown their approval of his administration. He explained:

"The only time the programs and issues of the State administration have been placed before the people—in State legislative races—they have been endorsed."

Combs feels that this endorsement is due, at least in part, to his innovation of taking State Government directly to the people. He has set up a temporary office, for a day or two, in 25 communities. He takes particular pride in having met so many Kentuckians face to face to answer questions and hear their problems.

"I have traveled more perhaps—within the state—than all other governors in Kentucky's history," he says.

What are the qualifications a governor should have? Combs lists them as patience, endurance and ability "to take the heat."

Being governor has both advantages and disadvantages. One factor that works both ways is the fixed responsibility. The governor is the apex of the State Government structure—and he has to answer for failures or take whatever credit is due.

Combs puts it another way: "The buck stops here."

HELP WANTED: FEMALE!

EVERETT, WASH., HERALD: "In order to take advantage of woman-power, the nation has been encouraging girls to study science and engineering. There is, however, no flood of the fair sex into these fields. A 513-member freshman class at Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, one of the leading engineering schools, includes only two girls. But when the gals think about this for a moment, and study the male-female ratio of 511 to 2, they may be inclined to reconsider."

KNOW YOUR STATE GOVERNMENT

In submitting his Department's annual report to Governor Bert Combs today, Mental Health Commissioner Harold L. McPheeters suggests that the outstanding achievements of the past fiscal year have been "more successful treatment and rehabilitation programs and an improvement in the state mental hospitals' atmosphere which have contributed to returning more patients to their communities more quickly." (The four state mental hospitals are Central State at Lakeland; Eastern State at Lexington; Kentucky State at Danville, and Western State at Hopkinsville.)

Among other accomplishments of the year, July 1961 through June 1962: 1) For the fifth consecutive year, the hospitals' resident population again decreased. This year the decrease was 238, and was registered in spite of the hospitals' admitting treating, rehabilitating and releasing more patients. Readmissions also increased, but short returns to the hospitals are consistent with Departmental philosophy that stresses early home-going with the full knowledge that readmission might well be required.

2) The average daily cost per patient in the hospitals was $4.96. Although Kentucky's daily expenditure in 1961-62 was an increase of 50 cents over the previous year and a $1.98 increase over the past five years, it is "still below the national average and still insufficient for an outstanding hospital program."

3) A Guardianship Section established to enable the Department to be declared guardian for home-going patients who have no one else to act in this capacity now aids the intensive program designed to release patients when they no longer need the facilities of a mental hospital. In its first months under the direction of a newly-employed attorney, the Department was appointed guardian for 51 patients, and it is expected that greater numbers of patients will leave the hospitals as a result of the Section's establishment during the next year.

4) Four new outpatient after-care clinics were opened in Hazard, Henderson, Owensboro and Paducah. This is consistent with the Department's philosophy that it should establish services in areas easily accessible to the people who need and want them.

In the report Dr. McPheeters explains that a large amount of time during the year was spent in the evaluation of existing programs and in efforts to improve the hospitals' operation and efficiency. Since it is felt that "further innovations and improvements in hospital and community programs may be dependent upon ideas and information gleaned from research," increased emphasis was placed on encouraging all Department employees to become aware of research possibilities and to initiate and carry out projects wherever there are opportunities for doing so.

Also stressed were training programs for patients to help them adjust to life outside a hospital and a variety of in-service programs for staff members so that they may advance the treatment and rehabilitation programs in the hospitals and the education and consultation programs in the Division of Community Services.

By the end of the year the Department had begun making plans concerning the transfer from the Department of Welfare to the Mental Health Department of the operation of the Kentucky Training Home, then the state's only institution for the mentally retarded, and of the Division of Mental Retardation.

In his conclusion Dr. McPheeters says that it is possible for the Department to have the "kinds of programs to which any progressive state is entitled . . . if the citizens of the Commonwealth are willing to give their interest their understanding and their concrete support."

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.

By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

Of all the Kentuckians of both armies who were serving in Tennessee 100 years ago this week, undoubtedly the happiest were those in Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan's Confederate cavalry division, for they were setting out in high spirits on a raid that would take them back to Kentucky again. It was the expedition destined to become famous as "the Christmas raid."

Morgan had 3900 officers and men, the largest force he ever commanded, larger than any he had before that or afterward. The division was in several camps around Alexandria, Tenn. Its departure on December 22, the first of twelve days of hard riding, was described by an unidentified eyewitness in part as follows:

"The regiments had been carefully inspected by the surgeons and inspectors . . . stout men and serviceable horses only were permitted to accompany the expedition. The men were never in higher spirits or more joyous humor; well armed, well mounted, in good discipline, with perfect confidence in their commander and with hearts longing for the hills and valleys, the bluegrass and woods of dear old Kentucky, they made the air vocal with their cheers and laughter and songs and sallies of wit . . .

"This December morning was a mild, beautiful fall day; clear, cloudless sky, bright sun, the camps in cedar evergreens where the birds chirped and twittered; it felt and looked like spring . . . Soon came Duke and his staff, and his column—his own old gallant regiment at the head—and slowly regiment after regiment filed out of the woods and into the road, lengthening the long column.

"After some two hours' march, a cheer began in the extreme rear and rapidly came forward, increasing in volume and enthusiasm, and soon Gen. Morgan dashed by with his hat in his hand, bowing and smiling his thanks for these flattering cheers, followed by a large and well mounted staff.

"Perhaps no general in either army surpassed him in the striking proportion and grace of his person, and the ease and grace of his horsemanship. Over six feet in height, straight as an Indian, exquisitely proportioned, with the air and manner of a cultivated and polished gentleman and the bearing of a soldier, always handsomely and tastefully dressed and elegantly mounted, he was the picture of the superb cavalry officer. Just now he was in the height of his fame and happiness;

TELL HIM SO

If you hear a kind word spoken
Of some worthy soul you know,
It may fill his heart with sunshine
If you only tell him so.
If a deed, however humble,
Helps you on your way to go,
Seek the one whose hand has helped you,
Seek him out and tell him so!
If your heart is touched and tender
Toward a sinner, lost and low,
It might help him to do better
If you'd only tell him so!

New York—Bobbie and Karen Lynn Reed, two of Broadway's youngest players, are in separate musicals this year. The boy, who is 9, and his sister, 12, performed together last season in "Sail Away." Bobbie is appearing now in "Oliver," and Karen Lynn in "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off."

Letters To Santa Claus

From the FHS "Kennel"

Dear Santa,
Thank you so very much for all the gifts you didn't bring me last year. But I'm such a loving person, I'll forgive you, and try again.

This year my Christmas list isn't very long. For a friend of mine, would you please bring a sign saying "Why don't you ask me for a date?", so she can hold it in front of a certain boy. I have another friend who needs a cow to help her boy friend's business increase. I have a third friend, who would like to have a standard transmission. She always says, "Practice makes perfect."

For myself, I would like a map of Tennessee, so I'll know my way around, a pair of padded slim jims, so when I fall trying to skate backwards, it won't hurt so much. If you could possibly spare them, I'd like a few extra smart pills, to lend another friend of mine who needs them desperately. Last, I want a small doll coat for a cold Hawaiian friend of mine. Be sure and not forget me this year, you dear old man.

Waiting,
"Forgotten"

Dear Santa, or is it Dear Santa:

Since I was such a good boy this year, I know I couldn't ask for a gift which would repay me for fine behavior. So, instead, Dear Santa, (Dear Santa?), I am going to ask for some gifts for our very dear (deer?) friends and constant companions, the teachers.

Please bring Mrs. Steele a loud-speaker so she can keep second period study hall's attention. Bring Mrs. Burrow a new pointer as her old one is kinda bent. I'm sure Mr. Snider would appreciate a very dark room, so he could show his cloud chamber. He also would like to have a gag for R. H. Bring Mr. Brown a new bath so he will quit clobbering the band members when his other one flies apart. I'm also sure Mrs. DeMyer would like a good cook-book. Bring Mr. Cooper a new box of colored chalk. Also bring the rest of the dear teachers something real nice and useless.

Thank you very much Dear Santa.

Your Friend
Moe

In my opinion, I have been a very good girl this year, but I am sure some people would disagree with me.

I would like for you to remember my teachers this Christmas. Please bring Mrs. Robertson a loud speaker so she can make everyone hear her when she says "Get Quiet!". Don't forget Mrs. Burrow. She needs a drum for Macbeth sound effects because her old pie pan has dents in it. Please bring Mrs. Steele some more paper clips.

This year I would like for you to bring me a good alarm clock, because I need to get home on time. I would also like for you to bring all the senior girls in science class some good grades.

Your little friend,
Glenda Thurman

Dear Santa,

I am a little girl of seventeen. I am a senior at FHS. My mother says I have been a good little girl this year. Santa dear, I would like for you to bring me a tiny little doll with blue eyes and brown hair. I also want you to bring Mother and Dad something nice. Santa don't forget Grandmother.

P. S. I will leave some cake and milk on the dining room table for you.

Lauretta Motley

Dear Santa,

Since this is our last year at dear old FHS we hope that you will let us be special on your Christmas list.

We both would love to have new convertibles to take to school with us next year, because we hate to walk. Also bring us a new wardrobe. We aren't selfish so bring us two closets each full of shoes, coats, dresses, sweaters, blouses, skirts, bathing suits, bermudas, slacks, and anything else you think a Freshman in college would like. And of course we need money, lots and lots of it, to help us through the long hard winter. I know you will grant us these few modest wishes because we are so sweet, good, and intelligent.

Love
Annie and

Dear Santa,

I've been as good as anyone like me could be the past year, so keep your end of the bargain and bring me everything I ask for.

I would like a whole case of Snider's catsup and some Chesty potato chips to use as bait, a large Steele Beaver Coop to place over the Burrow and catch him when he comes out, 100 gallons of Martin gasoline for a couple's '59 Chevy station wagon so they can drag it at Halls, Tenn., and some chains for Willie's rod so he won't get stuck in De Myer.

Your friend,
A friend

P. S. Please bring me a Brown Mandolin so I can learn to play in the band.

Dear Mr. Claus,

This year I don't want much, just a four-speed box attached to a new 409 Super-Sport convertible with bucket seats, tach, Posi-traction rear end, dual quads, seat belts. With it please bring two Paxton superchargers, a set of Dual 90 tires and a certain girl from McConnell. If you'll do all this for me I promise to soup up your sleigh so it will do the quarter in 8 seconds or less. That would help you get home earlier and then Mrs. Claus won't be after you with a rolling pin.

Your Rodding Buddy,
Virgil C.

Dear Santie Claus,

Thank you so much for all the nice presents you brought me last year even though Mommy said I didn't need all that trash. I really enjoyed that "Redecorate Your Home in Purple" guide. And that reminds me, I think I'd better warn you not to drink that coffee Mommy puts under the tree this year!

This Christmas all I want is a little boy named? I sure do hope you get it straight this time, last year when I asked for a certain doll, I ended up with a "Betsy Wetsy".

Your little friend,
Carole Annie Pigue

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a boy of 15. I have tried to be a good boy this year so that I could get some toys. I have not gotten too many whippings this year, just about 50. I would like a "Tiny Tot" doll, a wagon, a Super Deluxe Fire Truck, a Cheyenne Ricochet Saddle Gun, a Bazooka Rocket Gun, a Jumbo Terry Bear, Lazy Bones Plush Pup, Fred Flintstone Riding Dino, the Dinosaur, a talking dolly of President Kennedy, and a 15-year-old girl named???

I love you a lot,
Tom Bushart

P. S. Don't forget the candy, especially for the girls and boys in Fulton High School, which is the best school in the state of Kentucky.

Thirteen Boys Are Out For Basketball

From the FHS "Kennel"

Basketball practice for the Fulton High Bulldogs began on Monday, November 12, and the season officially opened on December 1 with Paducah Tilghman.

Having won the First Regional Championship last year, the Bulldogs are the defenders. Returning from last year's starting team are Don Burnett, Kenneth Allen, John Covington, and Terry Beadles. John Shepherd, Duane McAlister, Teddy Barclay, Gerald Bradley, Ward Bushart, Philip Merryman, John Rice, David Mann, and Jimmy Yates are also members of the team.

Eight Best Themes Chosen From FHS

From the FHS "Kennel"

As you know, the time for writing Conservation Themes has come and gone for this year. The title of the themes this year was, SOIL CONSERVATION - ITS EFFECT ON MY COMMUNITY. Eight themes were chosen from the high school to be entered in the county contest. The themes were written by the following: Seniors—Barry Roper and Josephine Hancock; Juniors—Curtis Hancock and Linda Warren; Sophomores—Marshall Burgess and Andy Batts; Freshmen—Sara Jane Poe and Leslie Cheatham.

SPORTS WHIRL—

dians by a 50 to 39 victory. Fulton hit some cold spots in the later part of the game, a fact which is shown by their scoring only seven points in the third quarter. The Bulldogs use their tight zone defense to prevent the Indians from taking advantages of their lapses. Kenneth Allen and Johnny Covington led the Fulton attack with 16 and 14 points respectively.

Friday night was also a night of victory for South Fulton as the Red Devils defeated Sharon 54-45 and the Devillets bopped the Sharon girls by a 59-23 score. The Devillets had very little trouble as they pulled out with a 20-3 margin at the end of the first quarter. The Sharon team was only able to score nine points in the first half. Top scorers for the Devillets were Judy Neeley and Lee Cantrell with 28 and 13 points, respectively. The boys had a difficult time revenging an earlier defeat by the Sharon boys. The score was tied 11-11 at the end of the first quarter, and the Red Devils led by only two points at the half. Gary Isbell and Clayburn Peoples sparked the South Fulton cause with 14 points each, while Gene Hardy scored 12.

On Tuesday night the South Fulton Red Devils and Devillets met the boys, and girls' teams from Kenton at South Fulton. Preceding the two victories of South Fulton, Miss Linda Thorpe was crowned queen and will reign the rest of the season as basketball queen. First maid to the queen was Miss Freida Mansfield and second maid was Miss Patricia Lowe. In the cage play the Red Devils handled their opposition with relative ease to come through.

would go off. There was no apparent reason for the variance in the gas pressure, yet something had to be done," he explained.

The cost of buying gas wholesale today is thirty-three and one-third per cent higher than it was when the system went into effect on August 19, 1955. Had the city passed along these wholesale increases to the consumers, their monthly bills in turn, would be that much higher. Instead the City has absorbed the increases and the price of gas to the consumer has never been raised. "I don't imagine there are many things you can buy at the same price today as you did seven and a half years ago," Mr. Robey said.

Putting city maintenance employees on a concerted search of the difficulty revealed that many of the gas valves had been covered with debris and burning leaves, thus cutting off the supply. The city employed an engineer to survey the problem and in so doing averted a $20,000.00 expense of building a feeder line to the Highlands, proposed by another engineering firm. "I could not conceive of such a difference in the gas pressure in different sections of the city, Mr. Robey said, "so before we went into the expense of erecting another line we wanted to be sure that all measures were taken to see if the present system could not be put into working order," he continued. The study revealed the clogged valve difficulty.

President Kennedy's $900,000.000 community facility program afforded federal funds for municipal improvements. As soon as the bill was passed the City of Fulton made application for all the funds available and was promptly granted $72,000.00. Only $400,000.00 of that program has been allocated, Mr. Robey said, and it is anticipated that the balance of the money in the program will become available when Congress reconvenes. "When it does," the hard working Mr. Robey said, "Fulton's application will be there and we hope to get an additional $68,000.00." Fulton's lagoon system has been estimated to cost $266,500.00, which includes the cost of the land. The city decided to build its own sewage disposal system after a study was made to erect a system to serve both Fulton and South Fulton. The study revealed it was more feasible for each city to erect separate systems.

One of the most harassing complaints of gas users in the city has been the low pressure in certain sections of the Highlands, Mr. Robey told the reporters. "There have been times when the gas pressure was so low in Highlands that the pilot light on the stoves

The garbage department has cut its force by one man eliminating $2500.00 year salary. After the first of the year it is planned to reduce the force by another employee, thus saving an additional $2500. "We have tightened up our operation in the garbage department and in so doing have been able to increase the efficiency. We think we have cut down on the number of complaints. As we study the department more fully we think that people will be mighty happy with the garbage collection system," Mr. Robey explained.

Two Seniors Awarded Scholarships For Their Outstanding Abilities

From the FHS "Kennel"

The two Fulton High senior boys recently received scholarships, one because of his record in sports and the other in music.

Bob Anderson

Abbey and she represented America in the International Congress of organists at London, England. She is considered one of the two best organ teachers in the United States.

Bob was assured admission to the University by the dean of the School of Music and was assured of a scholarship to the School of Music. He was also promised employment by a church while attending the University. Dr. Brown said that Bob would enter the junior year in organ. She praised his work highly and the instruction that he had received under John C. Winter, professor of organ and piano at Murray State College.

Bob also attended a master class of the graduate students which he said was very beneficial to him.

He recently presented an organ recital here and is now preparing another one for either April or May.

On December 6, Johnny Covington, a senior at Fulton High, signed a four year grant-in-aid with the University of Tennessee.

Mr. John Mauer, assistant football coach, represented U. T. Johnny has played quarterback for the Bulldogs for three years, and during his career he has set a record for the number of passes completed. This six-one, 188 pounder concluded this past season with 27 completed touch down passes, Johnny Covington, pleased with his recently signed four year grant-in-aid with the University of Tennessee, smiles as he comes from the study hall to go to afternoon basketball practice.

bringing his total for three years to 53. Because of his outstanding performance for the Bulldogs, who suffered only one defeat—a two point loss to Murray, Johnny was selected on the All WK State Third team for Class A schools.

Johnny, an all-around athlete, is also a member of the Fulton High basketball squad, and was one of the starting five on the FHS team that won the First Region Championship last year.

LAW MUZZLES WIGS

Amsterdam—Hairdresser Loek Van Limburg has complained to Dutch officials about a new regulation that calls for dogs to be muzzled in city streets. Van Loek had been making a fortune selling dog wigs for $45 apiece but they cannot be worn with muzzles. "Now my business is diminishing to exports only," he reported.

CAR EXPORTS STEADY

Paris — France exported 33.5 per cent of its motor-vehicles production in the first half of 1962 compared with 34 per cent in the

UK DECREES CHANGE IN ADMISSIONS TEST

The American College Test will replace the College Qualification Test as a requirement for admission to the University of Kentucky. The change was announced this week by Dr. Charles F. Elton, who said the A. C. T. will be required of all students seeking admission to UK in the fall of 1964 or after. He advises all students who will enter UK before 1964 to take the test. The A. C. T. will be given four times a year at about 30 test centers throughout Kentucky, Elton said.

Teacher, Students Voice Opinions

From the FHS "Kennel"

Question: Do you think that an occupational tax, or a payroll tax, or a combination occupational and payroll tax is the fairest for the citizens of Fulton?

Since payroll taxes are based on wages paid to employees by employers, and the employers are required by law to withhold these taxes, I feel that this tax is more evenly distributed among the citizens and, therefore, more just than an occupational tax, actually which penalizes a person for residing, working, or operating a business in a given area.

Mr. Cooper

An occupational tax draws a certain amount of money from each person in a trade and the income. Since the occupation tax takes the same amount of money from each person of a trade whether they make $1,000 or $12,000 annually, I don't believe that an occupational tax alone is enough, but that a combination of both would be better for everyone involved.

Curtis Hancock

Since an occupational tax exacts the same amount of revenue from all members of any certain trade, I believe a standard payroll tax is the most favorable form of such necessary restriction. Persons making entirely unproportional salaries must pay the same tax when they are mated in an occupational tax bracket. Consequently, a straight payroll deduction seems to me to be the most logical and pleasing answer to an unpleasant necessity.

Barry Roper

I feel that a combination of both the payroll tax and the occupational tax is the fairest. The burden of supporting the government should not be on just the businessmen or the employees alone. Each person, whether he is the employer or the employee, should do his share in paying taxes. In America today, I don't think that we should expect one group of working people to do what should be done by all. Therefore, I feel that neither tax is fair without the other.

Betty Bennett

Occupational tax is more of a just tax, because the man that can afford a business can afford the tax better than a man who works by the dollar. I think occupational tax should be based on the volume of the business. If they had a payroll tax it should be in comparison with a man's earnings. In colonial times, the men would tax the rich much more than the poor; they should do that now. I think that in these days a business man should be taxed more than the average worker. Of course, small businessmen might not agree with the above.

I certainly don't think there should be a payroll tax without an occupational tax. If I had a choice between the two I would have to choose occupational tax.

Honor Roll Shows Big Advancement

From the FHS "Kennel"

The second six-weeks, Fulton High students made a great advancement scholastically. With a total enrollment of 216, seventy-two had honor roll grades. This is exactly one-third of the student body.

Twelve of these seventy-two had perfect standings. They came from all four classes: Barry Roper, the only senior; Freddie Wells and Linda Warren, juniors; Betty Bennett, Sylvia Carden, Phyllis Crocker, Sally Pirtle, and Nancy Treas, sophomores; and Jeannie Hinton, Judy Lambert, Sara Jane Poe, and Cecilia Wright, freshmen. The freshmen had the greatest percentage of A and B students. There were 20 on the honor roll, making 37 per cent. Then the sophomores take second place; 34 per cent of that class made the honor roll. Next came the seniors and juniors with 32 and 29 per cent, respectively.

This is a good increase over the first six-weeks. At that time the separate classes had the following percentage of honor rollers: Seniors, 42 percent; juniors, 23 per cent; sophomores, 28 per cent, and freshmen, 25 per cent. The seniors alone had a greater percentage the first six-weeks.

Harold Henderson Speaks To 4 - H About Banks

From the FHS "Kennel"

On Wednesday, November 28, Mr. Harold Henderson of the Fulton Bank gave a most interesting talk to the members of the 4-H Club assembled in the Farm Room.

Mr. Henderson's subject was "The Local Bank, and What It Can Do For You." He told of the many services the bank offers to the public and why we should take advantage of them. He explained the checking account, savings account, and the Christmas Club plan. He also told about the proper way of filling out deposit slips, checks, etc.

SWEETHEART OF THE WEEK

Fulton High's head cheerleader, Ann Bowers was chosen the Courier-Journal's "Sweetheart of the Week". Ann has done very well in her subjects while in high school. She also participates in many extra curricular activities.

COVER UP!

Normally, silo gas is extremely dangerous only for two weeks following silo filling. If you cover silage with an airtight plastic cover immediately after filling, there is danger when the seal is opened regardless of the time.

NO DROWNINGS!

Every person in a household now uses about fifty gallons of water per day. For a family of five, that is between seven and eight thousand gallons a month.

TO THE VOTERS

—OF THE—

First Judicial District

I take this means of announcing my

Candidacy for Re-Election as Commonwealth's Attorney.

Since 1941 I have practiced law in Clinton, Kentucky where I served as County Attorney for twelve years. In that time I assisted Mr. Flavius Martin in the prosecution of criminal cases, and at his death was appointed to succeed him.

I am 48 years old, married and have one son. My parents are Harry Roberts and the former Irice Peck of Arlington, Kentucky. My interest in law was first stimulated by my cousin the Honorable Roy Shelbourne, Federal District Judge and upon his advice I worked my way through Texas Christian University and the College of Law of the University of Kentucky.

As Commonwealth's Attorney I have attempted to be fair and impartial and to present to the juries of the counties all the evidence available being guided by the principle that the final responsibility for good government rests with our juries.

It has been considered by most attorneys unethical for a Commonwealth's Attorney to accept employment in a civil case by a defendant in a criminal prosecution. I have never accepted such employment as county attorney or Commonwealth's Attorney and never will.

I will make an active campaign and will see as many voters as possible before the May primary.

Harry W. (Jack) Roberts, Jr.

(Paid Political Adv.)

 ess manager of the Kentucky Law Journal and graduated in the upper ten percent of his class. Following his graduation he has practiced law in Clinton and has served as Hickman County Attorney, for twelve years.

Roberts is 48 years old. He lives on a farm near Columbus with his wife and son, where he operates a dairy farm. He is the son of Harry Roberts and Irice Peck Roberts of Columbus. An active Rotarian, he has served as district governor and in 1956 was elected an international officer of Rotary International and has served on various international committees of that organization.

 wasn't going to have me roll over dald like Rover, either. So I took the offensive. I started talking. You know me, when I start talking. I never know when to shut up. This was one time I didn't aim to! I sure didn't want anybody staring on my tummy, while I reclined across two chairs. I wasn't about to clean off those cluttered tables either.

Well, to make a long hypnotic course short, you must know how the story ended. I kept talking and he kept swinging the watch and the episode ended in a draw. I didn't get anymore unconscious than I usually am, but that hypnotist has certainly gone back to the textbooks to see what he can do about a fast talking hag who won't submit to a watch swinging wag.
